Dr. G. W. Crouter can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and such as are popular. Having the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, cough and colds, he will sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

Only 25 Cents.

buys a perfect remedy for Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness, and Loss of Sleep. Try it. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co., and G. W. Crouter.

SCROFULA

Humors, Erysipelas, Canker, and Catarrh, Can be cured by purifying the blood with

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

I do not believe that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has an equal as a remedy for Scrofulous Humor. It is pleasant to take, acts promptly and signally on the body, and produces a lasting and permanent benefit, being more salt than any medicine I ever used. E. Haines, No. Lindale, O.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula and know, if it is taken faithfully, it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

For forty years I have suffered with Erysipelas. I have tried all sorts of remedies for my complaint, but found no relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking ten bottles of this medicine I am completely cured. Mary C. Lansdale, Rockport, Me.

I have suffered, for years, from Catarrh, which was so severe that it destroyed my appetite and weakened my system. After trying other remedies and getting no relief, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, in a few months, was cured. Simon L. Cook, 909 Albany st., Boston Highlands, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is superior to any blood purifier that I ever tried. I have taken it for Scrofula, Canker, and Sullen Rheum, and received much benefit from it. It is good, also, for a weak stomach.—Mills Jane Peirce, South Bradford, Mass.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Send for a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own Wagons out of the best material, and WARRANT EACH WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

G E O. W. M I L L E R

I am not selling out, but I am selling all the goods I can; and if you will give me a call, I will convince you that I am selling better goods for less money than can be bought in this or any other town. The "I off" and "selling out" sales are getting old. All I ask is, give me a call for anything in the clothing line and convince yourself.

G E O. W. M I L L E R

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

MANUFACTURERS OF

Charcoal and Pig Iron,

AND

General Merchandising,

IRONTON, - MICH.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING,

FLOORING, CEILING, AND PINEWOOD LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the latest best and most improved Watches Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted.

C. H. BELLAIRE,

Bridge St., Charlevoix.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of the lake. Rates reasonable. Good sample rooms for commercial travelers adjoining lobby.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Car Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

Daily Mail

AND

Stage Line

TO EAST JORDAN.

During the coming winter, Burns & Scroggie as sub-contractors for F. J. Smith, will carry the mail between Charlevoix and East Jordan, leaving Charlevoix at 7:00 a. m., arriving at East Jordan by noon. Returning, leave East Jordan at 1:00 p. m., arriving at Charlevoix by 6:00 p. m. Passengers and baggage carried at reduced rates.

BURNS & SCROGGIE,

Charlevoix, - Mich.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., March 17, 1887.

100 Stoves at Cost. D. C. Loveday, of East Jordan, offers his entire stock of stoves at cost, for cash, to close them out and make room for other lines of goods. Now is the time to secure bargains.

Sewing Machines.—If you want a good machine cheap, call on D. Sherwood, at his shoe store on Bridge street, and examine the American No. 7, and learn prices.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

☞"Jefferies" is the cheapest market in town. Everything clear down. Come back old friends and try it.

☞"Fresh Oysters, direct from Baltimore, at Jefferies' Market.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 10ly4

Local Notes and News.

A. Buttars is in Lansing this week

Mrs Byron See is home from the south.

A prize fight agitated all East Jordan last week.

E. H. Green is in Grand Rapids on business this week.

It is now possible to work ten hours per day by daylight.

C. J. Grier is visiting relatives in southern Michigan this week.

A. Brown, of Frankfort, made us a call on Wednesday evening.

Perry Weed is putting sliding glass doors in front of his shelves.

Contrary people generally figure conspicuously in local matters.

The Charlevoix minstrels entertain the people of Norwood to-night.

H. L. Mills, of Aurora, Ohio, visited L. E. Allen and family last week.

Lake Michigan shows open water wherever the wind is from the east or south.

An amendment meeting was held at Barnard school house on Tuesday evening.

On next Monday night the Charlevoix ministrel company will play in Petoskey.

Many predict an early spring. We earnestly hope their predictions may prove true.

Bryant Weed returned from Traverse City last Saturday, for a three weeks' vacation.

L. E. Allen has gone to Chicago on business connected with his government contracts.

Messrs. Guinon and Dillon, of the Petoskey Democrat, made us pleasant calls on Tuesday.

A daughter arrived at C. F. Van Zile's on Tuesday, March 15th, to help make home happy.

Two communications on the temperance question are unavoidably held over until next issue.

An entertainment will be given at Barnard school house next Thursday evening. Subject—Temperance.

Levi Lamphear rejoices in the possession of a bran new boy which arrived at his home last Saturday.

Jas. W. Tripp has broken camp on the Wilcox job in Norwood with a out of about two thousand cords.

Sib Ackert returned home from Florida last Saturday, and regaled his friends with fresh oranges and stories.

The Charlevoix ministrels had a $60.00 house at Boyne City last week —which is exceedingly good for that town.

Another blizzard set in Saturday night, and continued all day Sunday, filling the streets and alleys with snow drifts.

Miss Gertie Sears, of East Saginaw, well known among Charlevoix's summer visitors, died last week, of paralysis of the heart.

A. D. Cruickshank will take you "Across the Continent" free, if you not Wednesday evening, if you will go to Green's hall.

Sell when offered a fair price, reinvest, sell again and keep doing so. That is the way to make things lively and build up the town.

The merchant who wants your custom bad enough to advertise for it, wants it, as the one who will make it worth it for you to trade with him.

G. W. Crouter and J. L. Hurd are in attendance as delegates at the meeting of the Michigan Business Men's Association at Grand Rapids, this week.

Harry B. White, grand chief templar of Ohio I. O. G. T., will discuss the prohibitory amendment at Barnard's opera house next Monday evening, March 21st. He comes well recommended, and should have a house full of listeners.

W. H. Porter and family, of East Jordan, went to Coultersville, Pa., last week to visit friends, and will remain several weeks. Mr. Porter reports no sleighing south of Grand Rapids, wheat looking green in Ohio, and lots of mud in Pennsylvania.

Mike Litney will associate himself with Joseph Steinel, of Sutton's Bay, in the livery business, occupying the barn on the north side of Union street, near the corner of Bridge street. They expect to put in a good outfit, and serve the people in a first-class manner.

At the independent caucus last Saturday night, a committee of three were appointed to arrange for and call future independent village caucuses before Friday evening of the week previous to the week of election. The committee were Robert Miller, R. W. Kane, and Geo. W. Jefferis.

The 15,000 brook trout mentioned in these columns last week were received and planted according to program. Two or three years hence the sportsmen who visit Charlevoix will have occasion to thank L. D. Bartholomew & Co. for their untiring efforts to stock Stover's and McGeoch's creeks with an abundance of brook trout.

The Michigan Farmer's way of getting rid of the English sparrow is as follows: "Put some corn meal in a dish for a few days, till they form the habit of coming there to eat; then mix in a little Rough on Rats, and there will be a grand cleaning out sale of sparrows for the spring trade. Do this now while the native birds are away."

The Petoskey dramatic club played to good houses on Monday and Tuesday nights, and made many friends by their excellence in portraying some of the facts and frailties of life. The manner in which the "Soldier of Fortune" was rendered on Tuesday would have done credit to any professional traveling company. We hope to greet them again in the near future.

The Cheboygan base ball club have made contracts with Morrisey, who played short stop here last summer and Garber of the Harbor Springs club. They want to make a little compact circuit of the following clubs: Cheboygan, Petoskey, Mackinaw City, Fort Mackinac, St. Ignace, and some club on Pine Lake. If we are going to do anything next season we had better be making preparations.—Petoskey Record.

William Adams, a boy of seventeen, was sent to the Detroit House of Correction from Idaho in 1885, having been sentenced to prison for life for mail robbery, has just had his sentence commuted to imprisonment to seven years from the date of his first commitment. The boy, who has been a model convict, broke down completely when told the good news. "I won't notice the time I've got to serve," he said, "I suppose I deserve a good big punishment for being caught in such bad company."

Some of the philantropic citizens of Brooklyn have conceived a plan whereby the fear of being buried alive, which haunts the minds of many persons, may be removed, and they are about to bind themselves together as an incorporated company. In the suburbs of that city be erected fashioned to hold a large number of coffins. In these receptacles the coffins will be ranged about with open lids, and will remain in the receptacles until the time they contain show signs of life or are proved by decay to be dead. Means will be provided so that if a person in any of the coffins should be alive he could communicate by speaking tube or telephone to an attendant, and receive the proper aid.

Commissioner Sparks has ordered the restoration to entry of 12,320 acres of land in the Reed City, Michigan, land district, which was selected in 1871 by the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw railroad company. The commissioners in 1885 held that these lands were excepted from the railroad grant by reason of having been embraced in an Indian reservation at the date of the grant, and that by the subsequent extinguishment of the Indian reservation, the lands reverted to the public domain, and did not inure to the railroad company. Secretary Lamar affirmed this decision, and the present action opens the lands to settlement and entry under the public land laws.

Prof. J. B. Allen had a narrow escape from death last Sunday while driving down from East Jordan on the ice. Soon after leaving Jordan the wind blew off his hat, and he was unable to recover it and was compelled to continue his journey bareheaded. Before reaching Charlevoix he had become so stupefied with cold and the snow was so dense, that he had to trust almost entirely to the horse to keep the direction, and when he neared the shore was astonished to find the horse within twenty feet of the open water in the upper channel. After considerable difficulty he reached the land, and by the time he arrived at the barn he was so nearly paralized that he had to be helped out of the sleigh.

The Village Election.

At the union caucus last Saturday evening, A. J. McLeod was nominated for president; Alex. Cameron, A. E. Mason, and W. A. Smith for trustees; H. S. Harsha for clerk; A. J. Mudge for treasurer; Byron See for assessor; Gurley Boak for street commissioner, and Mike Litney for constable. At the close of the union caucus an independent caucus was held, and J. A. Heath nominated for president, C. J. Grier for third trustee, Wm. H. Phelps for street commissioner, and Andy McCall for constable. The total vote cast was 227, Grier, 44; Boak over Phelps, 78; Litney over McCall, 44. [Mr Grier was out of town at the time of the caucus and on the day of election, and we have reason to believe did not know of or intend that his name should be used in a second caucus.]

Historical Society.

On Friday evening last the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Loveday of East Jordan was thrown open to the Charlevoix historical society, who arrived in sleigh loads, early in the evening. After partaking of the bounties of a well spread table and enjoying a social time in general the program was introduced.

Mr. W. A. Brown read an able paper upon "Julius Cæsar and the first triumvirate," which could not fail to instruct and please those interested in Roman history.

Readings were given by Misses Phila Wood and May Waterbury, and Mr. H. Lee Iddings.

Mrs. Hines, Dr. Carlstein, Messrs. Wheat and Kanaay rendered good vocal and instrumental selections in abundance.

The East Jordan orchestra also kindly furnished excellent music.

Mr. Ann Loveday was presented a gold ring from his Charlevoix friends in token of their respect and esteem, it being his sixteenth birthday.

The trip was a complete success and was a greatly enjoyed by all who ventured forth.

The society will meet at the home of Hon. John Nichols, Friday evening, March 18, 1887. Paper by Rev. W. G. Clark.

M. E. Church.

On Tuesday evening we meet at the parsonage, and sitting together seek from the "Great Teacher" such help as shall enable us to teach our classes in the study and practice of the word.

On Thursday we meet to pray for and with each other, to help each other in the great battle, and to provoke each other to good works.

On Sunday morning at the usual hour we will welcome you. Seats are free.

Young people's meeting at 6:30 p. m., led by Rev. W. G. Clark. Theme: "Habit of thanksgiving." 1 Thess. 5:18.

Preaching at 7:30 by the pastor.

W. H. McCARTNEY.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's Germans Syrup to let its wonderful properties be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can see it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all druggists who have used it, to the poor, dying consumptives, at least to try one bottle, as 92,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the Germans Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles 10 cents at all druggists, regular size, 75 cents, sold by all druggists and dealers, in the United States and Canada. 1ow1

Wonderful Cures

Dr. G. W. Crouter, retail druggist of Charlevoix, Mich., says: "We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery Electric Bitters, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for six years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of protracted consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter. 1

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in its practice as Dr. Pete's Cough Syrup for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Pete's Recent Cough Cure. It the safest, the quickest, the best. No other Cough, Cold, and Consumption remedy is half equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co., and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Union Caucus.

There will be a union caucus, at Black's school house, in the township of Marion, on Friday evening, March 25th at 7:30 o'clock, to put in nomination men for the several township offices. Every voter in the township cordially invited.

Marion Township Caucus.

A caucus to nominate candidates for township officers will be held at Black's school house, on Saturday afternoon, March 26th, at one o'clock.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

GET THE BEST

If your neighbors want a clean, handsome, weekly newspaper, giving all the latest and most reliable news from all parts of the country, have them send 25 cents for this paper two months on trial, or for four months, 75 cents for six months, $1.50 per year. Address

The Charlevoix Journal,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

ADVERTISERS ☞ Others who wish to examine an advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

WE ARE SELLING OUT.

As our store will be changed this spring, WE MUST DISPOSE of our large stock of

DRY GOODS, CARPETS, CLOTHING, GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.,

—At some price for CASH ONLY.—

Bargains! Bargains!!

In everything which can be found in our store. Give us a call and be convinced yourself that we mean business. Truly Yours,

ROSENTHAL & SON.

SAP PAILS!

SAP PANS!

SAP SPILES

Atkins Saws,

Perfection Axes.

Job and Tin Work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

First Arrival of

NEW SPRING GOODS.

We have received a large line of the latest Novelties in White Goods,

Such as Nainsooks in plain and check, Batiste, London Shirtings, Pongees, Spider Cloths, Tufted Batiste and India Linens, which are without doubt the most desirable patterns and qualities this side New York City.

OUR NEW FLANNELS AND DRESS GOODS are all of the most approved styles and colorings, with beautiful trimmings to match. Come and see them. A few more CLOAKS to close out at an extremely low figure. Come in and see us whether you wish to buy or not.

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Rules and Regulations adopted by the District Board of District No. 1, Village of Charlevoix, Nov. 14, 1880, and revised by the Present Board March 1, 1887.

SECTION 1. No pupil shall be admitted to any department of the school under five years of age. Pupils are required to commence attendance promptly at the beginning of each term, to be regular and punctual, to conform to the regulations, to yield prompt obedience to all directions of teachers.

SEC. 2. Each pupil shall be required to pursue at least three of the regular studies, and no pupil shall take extra studies or discontinue any in which he is engaged, without special permission from the Principal.

SEC. 3. Each pupil must be supplied with books, slate, and other utensils required by the class of which he is a member, and no pupil without such notice by the teacher. Indigent pupils, in cases of necessity, may be provided for by application to the Board.

SEC. 4. Each class shall have its regular course of study for each term, as prescribed by the Board, which each member shall be required to pursue; excuse a pupil for a time from a study or studies; all the studies of a course, however, must be completed before graduation.

SEC. 5. Tuition for non-resident pupils shall be $1.25 per month in the High School, and Grammar room, and $1.00 per month in all the other Departments, payable in advance, and no non-resident pupil shall be received by the teachers except on presentation of receipt for tuition for ensuing month.

SEC. 6. Any pupil who shall injure or deface any school property, shall pay all damages or be suspended, and re-admitted only by permission of the Board.

SEC. 7. Every pupil who shall be absent in the Grammar and Intermediate departments four half days, and in the Primary Department six half days in four consecutive weeks, without satisfactory excuse from the parent or guardian, either in person or by letter, that the absences were caused by sickness of the pupil or in the pupil's family, shall forfeit his or her seat in the school, and the teacher shall immediately notify the parent and the Principal that the pupil is suspended. Pupils thus suspended shall not be restored unless the parent or guardian shall give to the Principal satisfactory assurance that the pupil's attendance in the future shall be regular and punctual.

In application of this rule, two tardinesses, two dismissals, or leaving school without permission during school hours, shall be regarded equivalent to one absence.

Absence or dismissal for religious instruction, or during days held sacred by parents, shall be excepted from the above discipline at the written request of the spiritual adviser of the family, sent to the Principal.

SEC. 8. Concerted absence or truancy from school, or from any regular exercise, may be punished by suspension at the discretion of the Principal.

SEC. 9. Any pupil who is habitually tardy, or truant, or guilty of open disobedience or insubordination, or who indulges in the use of profane or improper language, or makes use of tobacco in any form during school hours, or whose general conduct is injurious, may be suspended by the Principal, and re-admitted only by permission of the Board.

SEC. 10 Teachers shall notify parents by mail or in person before the number of absences is such as to require suspension.

E. CARPENTER, Moderator.
O. S. WASHBURN, Assessor.
OSCAR UPRIGHT, Director.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail a

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week. 7ow 13.

Mackinaw & Marquette R. R.

THE MACKINAW SHORT LINE.

Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron and Copper Regions of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections in United Depots at all Points.

The territory traversed is famous for its

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

Tickets for sale at all points via this route.

For Maps, Folders, rates and information, address, E. W. ALLEN, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

THE SUNNY SIDE.

BY S. MOORE.

Always choose the sunny side
Where you can such bliss attain;
Never swim against the tide;
Wait the flowing back again.

Should the clouds of sorrow lower,
Veiling pleasure's fairest ray,
Wait, you'll find the darkest hour
Is the one preceding day.

Happiness is not in wealth,
Joy is not a work of art,
Greater is the gift of health,
Sweeter is a peaceful heart.

Though the gift you get be small,
If it spares with you or others,
You are rich, for you have all
That your present need requires.

If you can rejoice to-day,
Do not fret about to-morrow;
Happiness will longer stay
By avoiding needless sorrow.

Always try to act the man
Honestly perform your part,
Do whatever good you can,
Cultivate a thankful heart.

Neither do nor suffer wrong
Never serve nor bow to pride,
Thus you'll smoothly glide along
Life's delightful sunny side.

GERTY'S TRAMP.

BY NATHAN D. URNER.

I hardly think that Gerty's Tramp, as we called him, would have been tolerated around our place for a week, save for the all-powerful protection which she persisted in according him.

But, as it was, we gradually grew accustomed to him, and when he suddenly developed professional skill as a linguist—as he did one day by the merest accident—in setting up tomato cans, preserve jars, and the like, besides tinkering the kitchen ware, he became of real use to us, and at last recognized as a fixture at The Maples, as my sung villa on the Hudson was called.

His name was Ichabod Flotsam, as we told Gerty soon after being taken under her wing. After that we usually called him Ike, except the little girl herself, who always addressed him or spoke of him as Ichabod with much seriousness of manner.

Gerty, I would say, in passing, is our only child; a precocious, old-womanish, wise little maid of twelve summers, but with the ways and manners of many an experienced housewife of thrice her years, and whose slightest wish is mostly law with both her mother and myself.

On the summer evening when Ichabod Flotsam first shambled up to our gate, begging for food and employment in a thin, far-away voice, he was the most unattractive specimen of the genus tramp, of the listless, knock-kneed, box-backed, furtive-eyed variety, it had ever been our misfortune to meet. We gave him plenty to eat and a place in the barn to sleep. Thereafter, as he grew fond upon us, I had a cot rigged up for him in a disused tool-room over the coach-house, and in a short time his lugubrious personality became almost as familiar and twice as homely as the pump or the clothes-wires.

Ichabod has been very saving of his Assets, and not without a purpose, said she, gravely. "He is about to send to Pittsburgh for a carpet-bag containing valuable papers. The Demon of Debt committed his having of them last spring. He has also written and mailed an Epistle, whose address he concealed from even Me."

The carpet-bag arrived by express in due course of time. Thereafter, for a week or more, scowling to Gerty, Ichabod's leisure hours were employed in reading and rereading the letters which it contained.

"The documents must be of Vast and Mysterious import," said Gerty one day. "Ichabod has twice admitted me to his apartment while he reads them. They are all in one handwriting, which I judge must be a Female's. I think a Crisis must be at Hand."

On the following afternoon a letter came for Ichabod, to my care. It was in a fashionable envelope, and the address was in a woman's hand.

That evening he asked leave to go on the following morning to G——, to remain perhaps till Thursday. I readily granted it, at the same time paying him a few dollars owing to him, and expressed the hope that his sister had brought him good luck.

"I ain't sure yet if it's good or bad, sir," said he, "but it's made an appointment with—a certain party I'm very desirous of meeting."

He left for G——on foot at an early hour in the morning, and I myself quitted home shortly after, intending to pass the day with a friend at H——, the river landing, which was about as far to the north of us as was G——, the railroad town to the west—a trifle over six miles.

In the middle of the day, during my absence, my wife and daughter were visited by a comely, bright-eyed, business-like lady, who had driven from H—— in a hired coach, and who rather astonished them by saying:

"I am Selina Graves, a near relative of the young man, Ichabod Flotsam, whom you have been kindly employing for some time past. I had an appointment to meet him at the steamboat landing this morning, but he was not there. I drove right here, thinking he might be sick."

"There must be some mistake about the place of meeting," said my wife. "Ichabod set out this morning for the railroad station at G——, to meet someone from whom he received a letter yesterday."

"Dear me, how unfortunate!" said Miss Graves; "though maybe it was my fault—writing one thing and meaning another. I could almost vow that I appointed to meet him at the river, instead of the railroad. But I must drive after him, poor fellow! How far is it to G——, pray? and have you some one who will direct the hackman which road to take?"

"Certainly. It is only about the same distance you have already driven," said my wife. "But will you not take off your things and rest a little?"

The offer was politely declined, though the visitor seemed suddenly overcome, and applied her handkerchief to her eyes.

"Ichabod has had a terrible hard time of it," said she, recovering; "and I made so certain of seeing him at once that this disappointment is very trying. Pray, hear with me a little, madam.

And then, suddenly starting up, she exclaimed: "By the way, my coat-in was to bring with him a number of letters which he has lately received, and, from what I remember of his forgetfulness, he has as like as not forgotten them. I wish I could be certain. They are very important and affecting as both. Indeed, without them I hardly think I can effect the delicate task of reconciliation—between him and others that has brought me here."

"Ichabod took nothing with him but his Walking Stick, ma'am," interposed Gerty. "The letters make such a large Package that he could not have put them in his pocket without Betraying their presence. Besides, he would have told Me, for I am his Guardian."

Miss Graves, not being familiar with our daughter's unique style, at first stared, and then laughed.

"Do take me to his room at once," she cried, imploringly; "that I may carry the letters to him, if he has forgotten them."

My wife hesitated, but she had been rather preposessed by her visitor, and finally directed Gerty to conduct Miss Graves to Ichabod's room. This was accordingly done, the lady stopping on her way to the coach-house to tell her hackman to find out the proper road to G——, for which she would be ready to set out in a few moments. Upon reaching Ichabod's room she, according to Gerty, had rummaged for young man's carpet-bag in a very summary manner, possessed herself of the letters, and then prying hastily into the back and driven off, without so much as a "Thank you" or "Good-by" for my wife.

This was the story they had for me when I reached home that evening.

Ichabod returned on Thursday morning, having passed the days and nights in anxious waiting at the G——tavern, and looking distressed and haggard.

My wife found him in the family sitting-room. He was leaning his head in his hands wearily on the table, as if exhausted from a long journey or dwelling over some mystery he would not reveal to us. She told me of his return at once.

"You do not look as if your visit had been altogether satisfactory, Ichabod," said I, after we had all given him good-morning.

"No, sir," he faltered, twisting his fingers in a hat-band in a nervous way he had. "—I didn't meet the party I expected to see."

"But someone has been here looking for you in your absence," I said; and forthwith began to tell him how she had taken under her wing.

He listened wide-mouthed, with stunned, dazed expression, until I came to tell of the visitor's demand for his letters, and of Gerty conducting her to his room, when he interrupted me with an insistent, late cry, as though stilling, if not managed to explain:

"The letters, sir! you—you didn't give em to her?"

Nothing was left me but to reply in the affirmative.

"Dead again!" almost howled the young man, tearing his hair with savage fury. "Tricked again, and by that beautiful fiend! Oh, fool that I've been!"

He staggered a little out of the house, but fainted away before he could cross the grounds.

With a feeling of deep commiseration, I had him conveyed to his room and sent for the physician.

The doctor looked grave, and predicted a fever, which soon set in. We made the patient as comfortable as possible, furnishing his room with whatever could be spared, and indulging the poor fellow in everything he fancied, while Gerty, with her mother, passed a terrible winter, running from place to place in the West and Southwest, sometimes in jail as a vagrant, sometimes begging, least-times working, but always tramping, tramping on, sleeping anywhere and nowhere, with half-a-meal-to-day and no meal to-morrow, in a dreary round of daily misery such as no one who has never tried it can ever imagine. In the spring I received to make my way East again. I managed to steal enough rides on freight trains to carry me from Memphis to Philadelphia. But they were so hard on tramps there that I started for Buffalo on foot. It was on my way there that I stopped at your gate, and you took me in—God bless you all! As I began to pick up strength my head got steadier, and I even began to hope that Selina had remained true to me, after all. I wrote to her, and at the same time sent to Pittsburgh for my letters, as you know. My intention was to return them to her, if she should convince me of her good faith. The rest you know. Her letter, asking an appointment to meet me at G——, was only a trick to get me out of the way while she came to The Maples by river, instead of rail, to obtain the sealed letters, for without them she would not have dared to execute her designs.

Ichabod had for some time been speaking in a very weak voice, and now, as he concluded, the tears were flowing unbidden ground his teeth in impotent rage.

"Are all these letters of value?" I asked.

For answer, he handed me the newspaper he had been holding, and pointed to a marked item for Gerty and me to read. It was a description of his father's home in Selina Graves, at a date only two days after our surreptitious visit to The Maples.

"I wish you had just one of these forged papers only," I exclaimed, "together with a remnant of Selina's writing."

"Why, I have both," said Ichabod. "But what can you want with them?"

"Give them to me, and I will tell you."

Under his directions Gerty produced the carpet-bag, and took from between the lining and the outside covering a small, flat package, which he handed to me.

"Have I your leave to retain this draft, or forgeries?" I asked.

"It was the only one of the forgeries never innocently used," said Ichabod. "As a good loser in my pocket, the detectives missed it when they searched me. Why do you ask?"

"Simply because I am something of an artist in these matters," I replied, "and I am convinced that the same hand wrote the name affixed to it and these other names of the same person which appear in this letter. Truly Ichabod, when letters to you could have compromised so much more than they did, Her criminality equals her perfidy."

That evening, after turning the matter over in my mind, I wrote a long letter to Ichabod Gerty, briefly summing up the contents of the forged notes and holding forth my deductions as to the author of the poor young man's wrongs and misfortunes.

Indeed, my zeal carried me so far that I mailed the letter to Selina, without consulting Ichabod.

I did not speak of it, indeed, till the second day following, when I was able to show him his father's letter in reply.

"Why, I don't know, I did it impulsive, sir," said Ichabod, "but

O I C
X L C R SPECTACLES.
B Y s B 4 U C U R 2 Late.
These Spectacles will assist you to Strengthen and Restore the Failing Sight.
Perfectly Simple, Simply Perfect.
U S E T H E M, C A T C H T H E E X P I R E S T H I S O P P O R T U N I T Y.
Do U C 2 Read Now?
Yes, I C 2 A T by using these X L N T X L C R Spectacles.
19th A Perfect Fit Guaranteed. For sale by
G. W. CROUTER, Charlevoix, Mich.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. C. J. Strang.
First Vice President—Mrs. A. T. Waterman.
Second Vice President—Mrs. G. W. Jefferies.
Third Vice President—Mrs. Chas. Sis.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. J. A. Hawkins.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. J. A. Hawkins.
Treasurer—Mrs. L. Benson.

Prohibition Prohibits in Iowa.

The following letter from Rev. James Gorton, recently of Charlotte, will be read with special interest by many temperance friends and other prohibition workers in Michigan:

Editor of The Center:—I have left Michigan and settled here just in time to miss the work and the glory of your present great contest for constitutional prohibition. How glad I should be to be in that battle for which I have done all I could to hasten its coming.

The prohibition sentiment is strengthening all the time in this state. It is stronger to-day by far than ever before. The law is being more generally and thoroughly enforced. All the saloons of Fayette county (in which county I have a preaching station) were recently raided by the authorities, and large amounts of beer and other liquors seized. The liquors were condemned, and I saw them destroyed. Thirty or forty permanent injunction cases were brought and sustained by the court. Also criminal proceeding involving fines and imprisonment were instituted and will be sustained. Cedar Falls, where I live, is a beautiful town of four thousand inhabitants, no open saloons and two dead breweries. There are more open saloons in Des Moines or in Sioux City, two of the largest and most rapidly growing cities in the state. The court has just closed the last saloon in Sioux City, seized and confiscated the liquors, fined the proprietor and sent him to jail. It is said that the last saloon kept open from early morn till late at night, its bar constantly thronged, and did a business of a thousand dollars per day—probably eight or nine hundred dollars being clear profit. You see that reducing the number of saloons does not appear to materially reduce the amount of drinking. The drinking men will be sure to find the open saloon even if it is a few rods or a mile away from their beaten track.

At Des Moines the largest distillery in the country has just been closed by a permanent injunction issued by Judge Conrad. This distillery has been established only about two years, and is said to have been making thirty thousand dollars per month ever since it started. Now its owner proposes to put it on wheels and tote it to Nebraska or Illinois, or somewhere where the prohibition "craze" has not reached and ripened into law. But the craze will surely spread and catch him, and he will finally have to trundle his big distillery into the sea. The Des Moines Register, the leading republican paper of the state, heartily approves this action of the judge, and strongly affirms that distilleries, breweries and saloons can do no good to the business interests of any city, but can only do vast harm, not only to business but to all other interests of a city; and points with pride to the fact that two of the largest and fastest growing cities of the state (Des Moines and Sioux City) are without the single open saloon, and that every interest of these cities—business, social, moral, educational, religious—is improved by that fact.

Prohibition has come to stay in Iowa, and it has come to prohibit. Its fruits are already of immense value to the state. I prophesy that what has happened to Des Moines will surely happen to Detroit and to all the large cities of Michigan. We shall see the day in which there will not be a brewery or a saloon in any of those cities; and all their legitimate business, and other good interests will be greatly advanced thereby, and crime and poverty and misery will be greatly diminished. The sheriff and prosecuting attorney of Des Moines say this is the result there, and that they are glad of it.

Let Michigan push the fight for constitutional prohibition with all possible vigor; and let it be a non sectarian, non partisan, prohibitionists, democrats, republicans stand shoulder to shoulder and fight with unbroken ranks and with unconquerable courage for victory. Make Detroit so hot with prohibition agitation that it shall give a handsome majority for prohibition, and thus have no record of shame and evil memory for the future. Give us a hundred thousand majority for prohibition in the state, and thus make Michigan the banner prohibition state. May it be the grandest battle that Michigan ever fought, and the grandest victory for civilization the state has ever achieved.

JAMES GORTON.

Cedar Falls, Iowa, Mar. 3.

Loyal Legion.

The Loyal Legion meets as usual at Green's hall at 3 p. m., Saturday. Rev. W. G. Clark will have something of interest to say on the question of the day.

If you are opposed to prohibition it is just possible you are mistaken, and it is but fair that you should cordially examine our side of the question, and if you are with us you need to keep posted, so as to win others.

Please be present on time next Saturday.

"Time and tide wait for no man," and if you are not careful, election will come and go and the moment for action will be lost while we are getting ready to work.

SEC'Y.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Ayer's Hair Vigor stimulates the hair to a vigorous growth. Old persons all that can be coupled to make the hair beautiful are hereby invited to use it. It restores, dandruff, and renders the hair flexible and glossy.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or muscular troubles. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Mrs. D. C. Pickett, Columbus, Wis., says: "It is a little over a year ago since I was so badly afflicted. The disease was in every nerve and muscle of my body. I was completely prostrated and helpless for four weeks. I could not bear to be touched, as even the weight of a finger would cause the greatest pain, and I was in constant dread of its getting into the heart, in fact it bordered very close to it, and the doctor had very grave doubts as to my getting well. I tried many different kinds of medicines, but was recommended to try Athlophoros, was positive it would help me. Oh, how sick is such one, and had it not been for the persistent efforts of my husband I don't think I should have continued taking it; but he insisted so strongly that I kept on with it. In about two days I began to improve, and when I had finished fifty, it seemed to me I was well. I only took a small dose as the medicine was so strong."

Malinda, Wisconsin.

I have used Athlophoros for rheumatism and I can cheerfully say with the most satisfactory results. GEO. W. PRYENTY, 66 Pinckney Street.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, Diseases of the urinary organs, both male and female, use Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

An excess of animal food and a partial closing of the pores of the skin, during the winter months, cause the system to become filled with impurities. These can be removed and the blood purified and invigorated by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Price $1.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the ninth day of December, A. D. 1885, executed by Samuel Orr (an numbered name) to Walter Brown, which mortgage was recorded in Liber 3 of mortgages, on page 300, on the second day of March, A. D. 1886, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon, and the same is now owned by the said mortgagee; and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining therein given, and doth hereby declare the whole principal sum remaining unpaid upon said mortgage as well as the interest thereon to be immediately due and payable, and whereas the amount due upon said mortgage and for the recovery of which the said mortgage and the moneys will be made at the date of this notice is the sum of Ninety two dollars and twenty cents principal and the further sum of twenty nine dollars and ninety four cents ($29.94) to become due on the ninth day of March, A. D. 1887, the sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) provided by law as attorney fee on the foreclosure of said mortgage, and no suit at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become so operative that notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House at the village of Boyne City, in said county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 10th day of June, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the south east quarter of section ten (10) and the south west quarter of section ten (10) north of range seven (7) west, belonging to the town of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and containing eighty (80) acres of land according to the Government Survey.

Dated March 8th, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Mortgagee
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Hipp, of Charlevoix county, Mich., on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1885, made and executed a mortgage to William H. Hipp to secure the payment of Two Hundred Dollars, payable in three years from the date of said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1885, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 100, and whereas the said mortgage was duly assigned to Wallace J. Hipp, by assignment, dated the 2d day of June, 1885, which said assignment was recorded in the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1886, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 100, and whereas default has been made in the payment of said mortgage and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The northwest quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section seven (7), west, being in the town ship of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage made by Ira Ingersoll and Mary, his wife, to Charlevoix County, dated October 26, A. D. 1882, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 30th day of October, 1882, in Liber 2 of mortgages, on page 90, which said mortgage was duly assigned by said Mary J. Cruickshank, now exercising the option to declare the whole of said mortgage due, and the interest thereon, to accrue thereby, as well as the interest thereon, to be due and payable at the time of the execution of this notice, and the amount due at the date hereof, is the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty Cents ($225.20), principal and interest, and a further sum of Twenty-Five Dollars (the same being provided by law) as attorney fee in case of suit or action, either at law or in equity, for the foreclosure of said mortgage, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of said premises, viz: The south half of the south half of that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the village of Charlevoix, and being a part of the southwest quarter (1/4) of the southwest quarter (1/4) of section ten (10), town north, range seven (7) west, commencing forty (40) rods north of the south west corner of said section, and thence north thirty three (33) rods, thence east one (1) rod, thence south to corner City, on the First Tuesday of April, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of the Court House in said Charlevoix, Mich.

Dated December 2, A. D. 1886.

ANDREW C. SHANK,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.

1-9.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis, and throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is desirous to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and are willing to test their symptoms, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PINKNEY, 42 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIMPLES. I will mail (free) a receipt for a simple VEGETABLE BALM, FOR PIMPLES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BLACK HEADS, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. Address, JOHN H. REMINGTON, Chemist, Cedar St., New York.

Truth with this compound, it is claimed that a Gray Hair can be restored to its original color. And the bright glow will last the virtues spent. Also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address—A. D. SYKATOR, 53 Ann St., New York.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by J. Milo Eaton and Ella Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix County, Michigan, to Mary J. Sweetland, dated April twelfth, 1883, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix aforesaid, on the twelfth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 406, at six o'clock in the afternoon, and the same is now owned by the said Mary J. Sweetland; and whereas default has been made in the payment of an instalment of principal, due and payable on the first day of March, 1887, in and by the conditions of said mortgage, provided that should any default be made in the payment of any instalment of principal, or of any part thereof on any day whereon the same ought to be paid, and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of ninety days, the principal sum then remaining unpaid, or any part thereof, should at the option of the said obligee or her assigns, become due and payable immediately therefrom; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the instalment of principal due and payable on the day above the same became due, and whereas said instalment and interest has remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, the said Mary J. Sweetland, mortgagee, by reason of default in payment of said instalment, has the option of the principal sum named in said mortgage, and the principal sum is now due and payable, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; and whereas there is now claimed to be due and payable as aforesaid upon said mortgage, at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, the sum of Two Hundred Seven Hundred and Twenty-One Dollars, ($2.721) principal and interest, and no suit or proceedings at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining unpaid upon said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, notice is hereby given that in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises hereinafter described. Notice is further given that on Friday the Twenty-Ninth Day of April, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Charlevoix, Michigan, (that being the place and building in which the circuit court of Charlevoix county is holden), the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the said mortgage with the interest at ten per cent and all legal costs, including an attorney fee of twenty-five dollars, as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: All of those certain pieces or parcels of land situate and being in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, viz: Lots one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), six (6), seven (7), eight (8), nine (9), ten (10), eleven (11), twelve (12), thirteen (13), fourteen (14), fifteen (15), sixteen (16), seventeen (17), eighteen (18), nineteen (19), twenty (20), twenty-one (21), twenty-two (22), twenty-three (23), twenty-four (24), twenty-five (25), twenty-six (26), twenty-seven (27), twenty-eight (28), twenty-nine (29), and thirty (30) in block one (1) in Lewis' Addition to the village of Charlevoix, according to the plat of said Addition on file and of record in the office of the register of deeds for said county of Charlevoix, Michigan, on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1886, in liber 1 of plats, on page 60, which mortgage was duly assigned by said Milo Eaton, to said Mary J. Sweetland, by assignment dated the 2d day of June, 1885, which said assignment was recorded in the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1886, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 100.

Dated February 8d, A. D. 1887.

MARY J. SWEETLAND,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GRIEG,
Attorney for said Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage executed by Hubbard D. Scovern and Harriet J. Scovern, his wife, dated November 1st, A. D. 1881, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 2d day of November, A. D. 1881, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 64, which said mortgage was duly assigned by said Mary J. Cruickshank, now exercising the option to declare the whole of said mortgage due, and the interest thereon, to accrue thereby, as well as the interest thereon, to be due and payable at the time of the execution of this notice, and the amount due at the date hereof, is the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty Cents ($225.20), principal and interest, and a further sum of Twenty-Five Dollars (the same being provided by law) as attorney fee in case of suit or action, either at law or in equity, for the foreclosure of said mortgage, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of said premises, viz: The south half of the south half of that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the village of Charlevoix, and being a part of the southwest quarter (1/4) of the southwest quarter (1/4) of section ten (10), town north, range seven (7) west, commencing forty (40) rods north of the south west corner of said section, and thence north thirty-three (33) rods, thence east one (1) rod, thence south to corner City, on the First Tuesday of April, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of the Court House in said Charlevoix, Mich.

Dated December 2, A. D. 1886.

ANDREW C. SHANK,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.

1-9.

FOR MAN AND BEAST!
Mexican Mustang Liminent
CURES
Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Spavin, Weak Back, Sprains, Bruises, Stiches, Stiff Joints, Backache, Galls, Sores, Bunions, Corns, Scratches, Contracted Muscles, Eruptions, Mad Itch, Screw Worm, Swinney, Saddle Galls, Piles, Crack.
THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine. The Lumberman needs it in case of accidents. The Housewife needs it for general family use. The Canaler needs it for his teams and himself. The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench. The Miner needs it in case of emergency. The Farmer needs it for everything without it. The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his farm yard. The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply aboard ashore. The Horse-thief needs it—it is his best friend and ally—silence. The Stock-raiser needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble. The Railroad man needs it and will need it as long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers. The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers in the woods and comfort when overcome by them. The Merchant needs it about his store among his employes. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted alone. Keep a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of economy. Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Immediate use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages. Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN
This standard is standard of excellence which others must reach to equal.
It combines every improvement that invention suggests, skill and money can produce.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS
These excellent Organs are constructed for solidity of tone, quick response, variety of tone, and durability, and are adapted to the wants of the public, from the cottage to the church, the parlor and drawing room, and for lodges, schools, etc., and durability equals any organ.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION.
UNEQUALED FACILITIES.
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL
COMBINED, MAKE THE
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Steels.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, free
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.
THIS PAPER may be found on file in Philadelphia at the Advertising Bureau of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

COMPOUND OXYGEN
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT
A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU,
DR. STARKEY AND PALEN (Regularly educated and graduate Physicians) Specialists, Chronic and well-known persons who have tried Dr. Dio Lewis', Dr. Jayne's, Dr. Sanden's, Dr. Hoff's, Medical Institute, Phila., Dr. Rev. Cyrus Hawley, Dr. Bunting, Dr. Bliss, Dr. Sanden, Dr. Cousins, Dr. Leidy, Dr. Cutler, Dr. Hoff, Dr. Lodgen, N. Y.; Hon. William Parsons, Esq., Hon. Jay Gould, Chicago Inv. Judge P. Wynkoop, Common Law Reporter, and hundreds of others in every part of the world.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS," is the title of a book of two hundred pages, by Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives an all answer. It also contains a record of surprising cures in a wide range of diseases, many of which were given up as incurable by our physicians. It will be mailed free to any addressed.
Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 193. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MARCH 24, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL, Published every Thursday, BY CHAS. J. STRANG. Office on Bridge Street, CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS 2ND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. STRONG MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEG, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Bulkley Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. B. CRUICKSHANK. C. J. GRIEG.

DESTA CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agent. Office, Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

ARGO W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Special business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. NEWBERRY, Attorney in Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR J. WISNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. N. MINER, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a specialty.

N. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services every Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., every Sunday at school at 10 a. m., every Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. W. F. Brown, corner of Bridge and Clinton street.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., every Sunday at close of morning service, Sunday school, Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. W. H. McCARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Week's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE HARDING, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second and fourth Saturday each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Saturday evening at Jedlicka's hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 290, meets every Wednesday evening in Bliss hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 126, meets second and fourth Saturday evenings in Bliss hall.

O. L. of L.—Boyne No. 157, meets Saturday on second and fourth moons, in Barnard school house.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 347, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst Cashier.

Brown & Co's Bank

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Drafts drawn, direct upon 1st principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets for sale on all points in Europe. Interest on time deposits. Refer to Boyne National Bank, New York; Chicago National Bank, Chicago; Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bartlett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett,	O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls,	A. Buttars,
Henry Bartlett,	F. A. Smith.

CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 2,500

The liabilities of stockholders in all State banks as provided in Act 1874, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, are in addition to the stock held, making a guaranteed fund of $50,000 for the security of depositors. Interest allowed on time deposits. A general banking business transacted. Drafts drawn on the leading commercial cities of the world. Collections promptly made. Money to loan on approved security. Receives Gold, Silver, Certificates of deposit issued, buying interest.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK, NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK, CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK, GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK, DETROIT.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Rooms for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 18 1872. 1887.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationary and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

TEN CENTS

each insertion. (This type will average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

JOB PRINTING of every description executed neatly, promptly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL office.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL office.

PONY, BUGGY, AND CUTTER for sale cheap. Inquire of 1887 G. W. CROUTER.

THE RENT. Two very pleasant offices over the bank of Charlevoix. 1887

100,000 GOOD WHITE BRICK for sale.—Inquire at the office.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable, and Stock Farm. THOROUGHBRED and Grade HOLSTEINS a specialty

Around the County.

Eveline.

Be good.
Be progressive.
Remember the poor.
Beautify your homes.
Spring poetry is more sing-song than poetry.
Elect good men for officers.
Lent terminates on April 10th.
We visited old friends at Undine last Sunday.
No school at the Hillegas district. It's vacation.
The family of M. J. Staley is very sick with scarlatina.
Last Thursday was "St. Patrick's day in the morning."
Last Sunday was first day of spring (according to the almanac).
"Poverty socials" are the latest. Suppose no one but correspondents are invited.
Mr. Whitford, of Undine, informed us that they have nearly 500,000 feet of logs at their mill; also that they intended starting up the mill on Monday.
There will be a caucus held in the town house in district No. 3, on next Saturday, March 26th, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of nominating officers for the election which occurs on April 4th. Turn out, boys.
We are informed that a certain young dude of this place, walked two miles to take his sweetheart to a dance a few evenings since, but on reaching her house was informed to find that she was engaged for the evening; that another young man had got in ahead of him. Never mind, Joe, there's lots more.

March 22.

Burgess.

Sugar making has commenced but the snow is rather deep for getting around in the bush.
Mr. Stevens, of Charlevoix, who bought the Bennett place on Susan lake, moved on to it one day last week.
The officers of district No. 4, have secured the services of Thomas Good rich, who taught the winter term of school, for the summer term.
One of the respected citizens of Hayes, who is ready to tackle any thing from dock walloping to presidency of national banks is said to be the successful hand to "tackle" stove wood, especially if some one else cuts it.
There is to be a caucus at the Gibson school house on Thursday, March 31st, for the purpose of nominating township officers. We understand there will be an independent township ticket in the field this spring.

March 22.

Barnard.

Are we going to have spring?
We hope that young man will not get left next time.
Miss Hagar Bennett, of Bay View, is visiting in the neighborhood.
The social Friday evening was quite well attended. Over seventeen dollars raised.
The dance at Mr. Anderson's last Thursday evening was well attended. A good time reported.
Mr. William Clark, who was confined to his bed last week with rheumatism, is able to be about the house again.
Richard Shapton has rented Mrs. Geo. Anderson's farm and is moving on, this week. Mrs. Anderson is moving to Charlevoix.

Ellsworth.

Frank Wrisley is drawing shingle bolts to the mill.
T. F. Nelson, of the East Jordan Enterprise passed here Monday.
The farmers are cutting wood and getting ready to make maple sugar.
Henry Hall intends to take his family to Boyne City this week to visit his parents.
Ralph Wiltse and Miss Johnson, of Mitchell, made us a very pleasant call Monday evening.
Some of our young people went to Central Lake to a dance one night last week. When they got there they found that one had not even been thought of at that place. But then, a sleigh-ride is worth something.

March 22.

The Salaries Amendment.

Whatever may be thought of the proposed prohibition amendment or the circuit court amendment, there should be but one opinion as to the amendment to be voted on this spring proposing to give the state officers salaries more nearly in accord with the requirements and responsibilities of those offices. With all her wealth and pride and public spirit, Michigan now bears the reproach of paying her officers the poorest salaries paid by any state in the union. Three other states, New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island, pay their governors the same salary that Michigan pays, but the population of all those states combined is less than half that of Michigan. But the total salaries of the administrative officers in any one of those small states aggregate much more than those of Michigan. In New Hampshire, for instance, the state treasurer has $1,800, the attorney general $2,200, and the superintendent of public instruction $2,000, double and more than double the salaries of the same officers in Michigan. In Rhode Island the secretary of state is paid $2,500, the treasurer $2,500, the attorney general $2,500, the commissioner of schools $2,500. In Vermont the salaries are: secretary of state, $1,700; treasurer, $1,700; superintendent of public instruction, $1,100. There is no attorney general in that state. In New Jersey, with a population but two-thirds that of Michigan, with but seven congressmen to Michigan's eleven, the governor is paid $6,000; the secretary of state, $6,000; the treasurer, $4,000, the attorney general, $7,000 and the superintendent of public instruction, $3,000. In Michigan the governor gets $1,000; the secretary of state, $800; the treasurer, $1,000; the attorney general, $1,000, and the superintendent of public instruction, $1,000. Such compensations are not only serious, but they call attention to a serious fault. Michigan is able to pay her officers more reliable wages. The expense of carrying the proposed amendments into effect will amount to only about three dollars for each one thousand dollars of taxable property. Every voter in the state should cast a ballot on the 4th day of April for the salaries amendment if it is the only vote he casts.—Telegram-Herald.

New for Democratic Victory!

The republican failure to coax the republican ticket out of the field has distinctly taken out of the hands of the party, and that discouragement threatens how urgently they stood in need of assistance. This confession of their need ought to encourage the democracy in the putting forth of their best efforts with a determination to carry their ticket by a handsome majority. It is a ticket worth all of their best efforts and of the success which such efforts can secure. Let the supreme bench be adorned with Griffin and Camp; let the board of regents replaced in the care of such Vanderveen and Sprague; and let the country be assured that in the clash of contending factions, the offering of old ties and the evolution of new parties, the democracy of Michigan still holds its way undaunted and has a better hold upon the confidence of the people than ever before. The moral effect of a democratic victory in Michigan this spring is inestimable. If it is lost through any neglect or shortcoming or laxity of efforts the party will be unparkonable.—Free Press.

As Argument in Favor of Prohibition.

George Melcotte Grunwaud, one of the brightest young newspapermen in the state, a nephew of S. E. Grunwaud, of Detroit, committed suicide by taking morphine in Grand Rapids last week. He left a wife and two children in a destitute condition. Whiskey did it. He was totally dead, but notwithstanding his misfortune he could have earned a large salary by his pen had his habits been but set.—The Oxygen Democrat.

ANDREW Overall John Robertson died at his home in this town, in Detroit, last Saturday, aged 72 years.

SUMNER.

Interesting Reminiscences of the Great Senator.

A Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis News writes: A well-known member of the cabinet tells some interesting reminiscences of Senator Sumner. A few days before Lincoln's second inauguration, Sumner called at the white house and told him that he was determined to defeat in the senate his favorite bill regarding Louisiana, because it involved a vicious principle, which would be quoted as a precedent when any large scheme of reconstruction, applying to the whole confederate states, might be brought forward. Lincoln blandly listened to the senator's remonstrances and replied: "Mr. Sumner, I am not convinced by your argument, and as to your threat of defeating the bill, I can tell you that is impossible, for I know that a clear majority of the senate is in its favor."

"But I tell you, Mr. President," answered Sumner, "it shall and will be defeated."

"Try it," was the quiet retort.

Sumner did try it. He appeared on the last night of that session of congress with a small law library, partly on his desk and partly piled up on each side of it. The bill was introduced, and, it was supposed, would be immediately passed. Sumner, however, had had spoken an hour or two it occurred to Senator Wade, of Ohio, to see Sumner—as the session of congress would soon expire, and as there was much necessary business still remaining to be done—how long the senator from Massachusetts intended to speak. Sumner replied in his most courteous tones that he feared he could not get through his argument in less than six hours. The senator from Ohio must see, from the books he had about him, every one of which contained matter bearing on the question of debate, and from which he intended to make copious extracts, that his speech must be of great length, and that he could not promise that it would come to a close before the legal session of congress came to an end. Wade, who had in his charge wrat was in effect Lincoln's bill, was, on this announcement, compelled to abandon it. Sumner managed to have the senate great subject of reconstruction postponed to that period when it could be discussed in all its larger relations, to the welfare at half-sessions of the country. It is very likely that this is a slender, or perhaps I should rather say inaccurate in detail; if so, the fault is in the memory of the listener, not in his long narrative. But the substantial reality of Lincoln's character, "of thought," he said, "must the president-elect, and consider my opposition a personal affront. Instead of that, you may imagine my surprise when he sent me a note next day asking me to accompany Mrs. Lincoln in his carriage to the ceremonies of the inauguration, and also to accompany her to the inaugural ball in the evening. As to the ball you may imagine the kind of work for that was excited when, with Mrs. Lincoln on my arm, I made my way through the throng of ladies and gentlemen present and placed her in the reserved seat. The thing was nothing in itself, but still I thought it read a lesson to shrewd politicians, which prompted to undertake the task to please such a man as President Lincoln."

It is evident that Sumner's way of rushing to upon Lincoln and bored with his vehement advice was not adapted to the moral constitution of Grant and Fish. Perhaps the latter did not concede the value of the information he was able to give while the former seemed the strenuousness amounting almost to impatience with which he urged his opinions on their attention. His quarrel with Grant came in the natural order of things.

Much has been said about Sumner's lack of humorous perception; but this defect has been somewhat overstated. There was, it must be admitted, a certain tendency in his eloquence to grandiloquence—a tendency which was in evidence as well as in his speech, in his judgment, in his admirable criticism of his friend Wordsworth, and in the great great poet sometimes brings in scenes of great interest for the illustration of their illustrate, and he called this "mental bombast" as distinguished from verbal. It is a vice of style into which serious minds are apt to slide, when they are deficient in that sense of humor which would instinctively correct and prevent it. Sumner undoubtedly was not without his full share of this defect.

At the time when he was among the most strenuous of those republicans who opposed the renomination of Grant for president, a friend called on him one evening at his rooms in Boston. He immediately began to declaim against the nomination of Grant as "a notorious man not fit to be made for a second term." In a pause of perhaps half a minute, when his vehemence was somewhat exhausted, and when he stopped to gather breath for a new assault, the friend took the opportunity to remark that what he had just said reminded him of something he had read in a newspaper a few days ago.

"Was it that," he eagerly inquired.

"Oh! nothing but this—a coincidence of opinion between your friend B——and your friend Agassiz."

"How could they have anything in common?"

"Well," replied the friend, "I know nothing about the matter except what the newspapers state. There is an absurd report abroad that Agassiz, on geological grounds, predicts that the world will be smashed to pieces on the 23d of October. The news was communicated to your friend B——, while he was absorbed in arranging columns of figures demonstrating that Grant could not be re-elected, and that he only paused a moment in his calculation to exclaim, 'Good! anything to beat Grant!'"

At this Sumner positively roared with laugh

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Wesley Greer, of Cannonsburg, Pa., has been awarded damages of $6,900 for the destruction of his house by the cause of natural gas from the company's pipes 122 feet distant.

Candy purchased in Montreal caused the death of Rev. William T. Howland and wife, at Auburndale, Mass., and the serious illness of their two children.

The funeral of Henry Ward Beecher, at Greenwood Cemetery, New York, was attended by an immense concourse of the deceased's friends and parishioners. Mrs. Beecher and the other relatives took an affecting farewell of the remains at Plymouth Church. The prayer of Pastor Halliday at the grave was of an unusually touching description. The will of Mr. Beecher bequeaths his life-insurance policy to his widow, the same to be invested and paid to her in quarterly payments. The remainder of his estate is left to his children. Fears are entertained that Mrs. Beecher will not long survive her husband. Mr. J. Q. A. Ward, the sculptor, made a very satisfactory cast of the great preacher's face.

The State of New Hampshire last year paid $193 for grasshopper bounties and $820 on bears.

Burnett Tiffany, whose secret marriage to Bertha Parson created so much gossip in New York, has sailed for Havre, and the understanding is that he has left his two weeks' bride never to return to her. He was prompted by his parents, it is said, in taking the step, and the young bride languishes in the back room of a third-story tenement without any visible means of support.

The funeral of Mrs. Neebe, wife of one of the condemned anarchists, was made the occasion at Chicago of a formidable demonstration by the followers of the red flag. Addresses were made by George Schaining and Paul Grottkau, the latter denouncing the authorities for indirectly causing Mrs. Neebe's death. The Paris commune was eulogized at length and its leaders treated as the pioneers of a great and good cause.

Elsen F. Fillsbury, a well known New England Democratic politician, died last week in Boston.

Martin V. B. Smith, a New York leather merchant, has failed, with preferences amounting to $127,000.

Commissioners appointed by the Masonic Grand Lodge of New York have expelled two objectionable characters from Prudence Lodge, among them being Jere Dunn and Tom Gould.

WESTERN.

D. A. West was arrested at Detroit on a charge of smuggling opium from Canada, the drug coming from China to British Columbia, and thence to St. Thomas, Ontario. The crime is believed to be an important one, and is the first blow struck at a gigantic scheme to defraud the government.

If that savage which Lord Macaulay prophesied would one day wander among the ruins of London ever comes to America we are willing to wager that he will be regaled by a "Black Crook" when he reaches the Chicago Daily News. The performance of that perennial spectacle will always be associated by the present generation with the name of Kiralfy, for those enterprising managers are the only entrepreneurs who devote their whole attention to this style of entertainment, and they have found how to pay no end well as the old stand-by "The Black Crook." For the next two weeks at McVicker's Theater, a new company under the management of Kiralfy will give the play another bearing, doubtless with the same result.

Over two hundred persons engaged in a fox-hunt near Jacksonville, Ill., and killed three foxes as their reward.

Nearly nine hundred fruit-cars, swaying loads of oranges, are lying at the chief shipping points in Southern California.

C. E. Brosier, of Detroit, forwarded a Michigan raccoon coat of unique design for presentation to the Emperor of Germany on his nineteth birthday.

Colonel Worden, an agent of the General Land Office, has served several lumber companies in Michigan to pay for cutting Government timber.

The grand jury at Morris, Ill., returned a joint indictment against Sabiwartz and Watt for the murder of Kellogg Nichols, the Rock Island express messenger.

Henry F. Gillig, manager of the American exchange in Europe, followed Lorenzo Barnett's friend Rapsis, Mich., and attached his properties and $1,000 in the box office on a claim for $12,502 advanced to England. Mr. Barnett gave bonds to produce the property when wanted.

In the suit brought against the Customs Collector at Chicago by the importers of two hundred tags of potato starch, Judge Blodgett decided the article could not be classed as farina, but must pay duty.

Nathan Falk, a traveling salesman, charged with stealing 3,000 cigars, threw himself over a balcony in the Chamber of Commerce, at Dupuyer, Colo., and falling seventy feet, was fatally injured.

The failure of George S. Crawford, a Cincinnati lumberman, for $110,000, caused the collapse of the Boyd Manufacturing Company, which owes $275,000, and of S. W. & G. Boyd, with large liabilities. Creditors not preferred are likely to fare badly.

SOUTHERN.

In Lawrence County, Ky., Samuel Smith, aged 16, who had some difficulty with a neighbor named Stephen Hammond, armed himself with a revolver, and, entering Hammond's house, shot him dead. Hammond's wife and children, a boy and girl, attacked the murderer, but he soon fatally wounded Mrs. Hammond, and as the children tried to escape felled them both with balls. Thinking he had killed the entire family he fled to the mountains and has not yet been caught. Mrs. Hammond will die and the children may recover.

Money sent by Allan Brown, Jr., for the earthquake sufferers at Charleston was returned over to the Confederate home, with the approval of the donor.

William Jackson was tried for murder at Falmouth, Ky., and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. A mob raided the jail, took Jackson out, and hanged him to a tree. Henry Artis, who brutally murdered his stepdaughter at Goldsboro, N. C., by braining her with an ax, has paid the penalty of his crime on the gallows. He made a full confession of his guilt, and said he was sorry he had committed the crime. The execution was intended to have been a private one, but it was witnessed by a very large crowd who gathered on the outside of the jail enclosure, which are very low, and had a fine view of the hanging could he but.

Fire destroyed the Commercial Press at New Orleans, with a large amount of cotton, the total loss being $150,000.

A rich vein of gold-bearing quartz is said to have been discovered near Atlanta, Ga.

WASHINGTON.

D. L. Pringle, of South Carolina, now Consul General at Guatemala, will be transferred to a similar position at Constantinople.

C. H. J. Taylor, a colored Democratic orator, has received a place in Liberia. He has been an interview with President Cleveland.

In the opinion of Senator Allison of Iowa an extra session of Congress will be necessary not later than October to grapple with the surplus problem.

Work on the naval vessels Chicago, Atlanta and Boston was suspended pending a decision as to whether or not they can be completed since Congress failed to make a specific appropriation.

Minister Manning will be permitted to resign at an early date. It is probable that the vacancy will be filled by the promotion of the Secretary of the Legation, Thomas R. Counsel.

The law extending the free-delivery system will not go into effect practically until July 1, as no appropriation is available until that time.

POLITICAL.

A Washington correspondent telegraphs to the West the following Presidential items:

The gossip in political quarters turns upon the possibility of the Vice-Presidency being filled by the South in consideration of the Democratic party having won a victory in Virginia under the influence of the warm Southern sympathies of the North. It is the opinion of the shrewd that John Sherman can carry the Northern and Western Republican strongholds against any Democrat he may select to run. The Ohio chieftain himself publicly expresses the opinion that he can be nominated on the first ballot in the next Presidential contest. His friends in Ohio are working for him on the idea that Allen G. Thurman is too old and too feeble, and that the strong impression that he has not been in sympathy with the South and gain votes in popularity. They claim that Thurman will get the support of the delegates of several of the Southern States in the National Convention, and that they are not afraid of Mr. Sherman. Representative Brady, who was Mahone's first lieutenant and who is now a leader in the Democratic leader in Virginia (more than has Mahone, by the way) is of the opinion that if the Democratic party, by the "this man or no man" cry, can carry Virginia against a Republican ticket headed by Mahone, it can do it with a Northern statesman at the head of the ticket. Mr. Brady is a Hancock man, and is for Hancock if he can be nominated, but he says that if he can't the Southern people, Mr. Brady thinks, will be satisfied with a Northern statesman who has proved that he is there and is going to stay. Whatever will be found at the convention that the Pinned Knight will be heard from, and that he will be a rough one to ride.

The Indiana Supreme Court has denied Senator Gwen Smith's petition for a rehearing in the Lieutenant Governorship case, holding that the Legislature only can settle that question.

The Nebraska House defeated the bill for submitting a prohibitory amendment to the people—yeas, 46; nays, 42—asking the necessary two-thirds majority.

The Wisconsin House passed an act providing that persons convicted for honoring solemn shall be imprisoned for not more than one year or fined not exceeding $500.

Speaker Carlisle was the chief guest and the orator of the occasion at a dinner given in Boston by the Day Club, one of the most important Democratic organizations in New England.

The effort to procure the withdrawal of the Prohibition ticket in Michigan is a failure.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The strike of the freight men on the Pittsburg Division of the Baltimore and Ohio road is over.

Milwaukee dispatch: "The strike of the printers in this city is at an end, the Typographical Union allowing its members to procure work wherever they can find it. The blow is a heavy one to the union, and it is doubtful if it has held together the local strain."

One hundred and sixty men were discharged from the Wagon Lines Car Works at East Buffalo, on an order from New York City.

Rumors prevail that the large nail mill in Bay View, Wis., will be changed into a steel mill for the manufacture of steel boiler sheets.

Six hundred men who struck for a 10 per cent. advance in pay at the American Wire Works in Cleveland were paid off and discharged.

The French steamer Dorfdeut landed at Castle Garden, New York, 1,196 Italian laborers. They were sent by agents in Naples, who have been negotiating with several railroad and steamship companies to furnish them with laborers to replace the strikers on the docks.

One hundred colored persons were taken to Peoria, Ill., to take the place of striking miners, and considerable excitement was the result. The new men claim that they are able to defend themselves and will go to work despite the threats of violence.

The workingmen in Rochester, N. Y., have determined to demand nine hours as a day's work, and if it is not granted to strike.

The Reading Road has granted an increase of 5 to 15 per cent. in the wages of its employes at Philadelphia.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

A New York dispatch states that the negotiations between President Garrett and the Richmond Terminal Company have fallen through and the deal is off; that a new proposition is now being considered by Mr. Garrett, and negotiations are now on foot for the transfer of the control of the Baltimore and Ohio to a syndicate of private bankers.

The Reading Road has decided to abandon the Schuylkill Canal route to Philadelphia, on which it has been used.

It is rumored in San Francisco that Senator Fair has sold to the Southern Pacific Company, for $6,000,000, the Santa Cruz steam road and the Oakland cable system.

About $500,000 was paid by a New York house, possibly on behalf of the St. Paul Road, for twenty-five miles of track and the franchises of the Joliet, Aurora and Northern Railway.

The Missouri Pacific Road reports for 1883 earnings of $19,695,711, and a net income of $8,374,174. George J. Gould was chosen acting President.

MISCELLANEOUS.

James B. Eads, the constructor of the St. Louis bridge, and the Mississippi jetties, died at Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, in the most remarkable manner, if an biographical sketch before us we learn that—

Mr. Eads was born in Lawrenceburg, Ind., May 23, 1820, and his early years were passed in the humble occupation of Lightship and Steamboat. Before he had succeeded in mastering the rudiments of an education, his father apprenticed him to a relative, who treated the boy's orphaned lot with unusual severity. Young Eads ran away from his cruel kinsman, and, after a year's work as a mechanics and a fruitless few experiments, he with associates, whom afterwards became the ruling passion of his life. In September, 1842, he arrived in St. Louis, with a capital of $1 in his pocket. The enterprise on which he labored with his family and embarked in a small business, and, observed at the opportune moment, a favorable opening for a profitable venture. Young Eads sold apples on the levee, and, with the money realized, bought a diving bell, and, with his brother, entered into partnership with Capt. Nathan Ayres, who had charge of a gang of recovering divers, employed to raise boats which had been wrecked, and the firm prospered accordingly. In 1845 he invented a boat for recovering cargoes from the bottom of the river, which, when only 17 years old, he entered in competition with the Government, and, at the age of twenty-two, he had made a fortune and embarked in some business on his own account. Soon after he married Miss Pattison, daughter of one of the richest men in the city, and, when only 25 years old, he entered into partnership with his family and embarked in some business on his own account. Soon after he was called upon to devise a means of clearing the streets to construct something to the support of the levee, and, in 1852, he entered into partnership with Capt. Baldwin, boat-builders, for the purpose of building a boat on his plans, which was to be the first successful attempt at a steam propeller ever made. In 1856 he submitted to Congress a plan for clearing the Mississippi rivers open for a term of years by removing the obstructions to navigation. The plan was adopted by the Congress and speedily passed the House, and, in 1857, he began the work, and completed two jetties in four months in consequence of the freshet. During the following year he built a bridge over the Mississippi at Keokuk, and, in 1861, he began the construction of the great iron bridge at St. Louis was engaged in no great difficulty, but, with his brother, he was made an engineer was finally established. The bridge was completed in 1874, and, in 1875, he began the work of the jetties, which, he has not yet met with varying fortunes until Mr. Eads was called to take an active share in the work. In that year he was elected Engineer-in-Chief, and, in 1879, he was appointed by Congress at the head of the Mississippi River Commission, and proceeded to develop a system of improvement which, in the opinion of the Commission, it was completed and opened in 1879, and, in 1880, he was appointed President of the Board of Jetties for increasing the depth of the water at the mouth of the Mississippi River, which work was in progress. His plans were proposed were accepted at first by prominent engineers, and he proved eminently successful, his last great project was the Tehuantepec Ship Canal.

The Directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company, while reporting a balance of $6,178,887, decided to declare no dividend, but to issue scrip to the amount of $1,200,000 in lieu thereof.

General McClellan's papers show that he was offered the command of the West he and General Grant had arranged to take control of the Nicaragua canal project.

FOREIGN.

M. De Lesseps has arrived in Berlin, it is stated, to confer with Prince Bismarck. Germany's assistance is neutralizing the Suez Canal.

In the arsenal at Belfast, France, two persons were killed and ten injured by an explosion of ammunition.

The Egyptian Minister of the Interior has resigned on account of scandalous real-estate transactions.

Mr. Wilkinson, correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, was arrested at Tricoen as a Russian spy, and imprisoned by order of the Czar.

The French Chamber of Deputies has approved of the bill to amp as a city of France per kilo on wheat imported.

It is reported that the Russian Government has invited the Powers to join in a protest to the Bulgarian Regent against exercise this practical on the inaugural prisoner.

It is asserted by the London Telegraph that the Russian Government has abandoned its warlike designs that were sold by Forcy, the dragoman recently discharged from the Chatham yard.

The septennate bill passed the German Reichstag without debate by a vote of 227 to 41. Eighty-four members absent. The bill was received with applause. The passage of the bill was received with applause.

Ten Nationalists were expelled from the Spanish Cortes for a term of years by removing from the Chamber of Deputies, the Nationalists, who afterwards made the ruling passion of his life. In September, 1842, he arrived in St. Louis, with a capital of $1 in his pocket. The enterprise on which he labored with his family and embarked in a small business, and, observed at the opportune moment, a favorable opening for a profitable venture. Young Eads sold apples on the levee, and, with the money realized, bought a diving bell, and, with his brother,

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

For Justice of the Supreme Court (eight years)—
LEVI T. GRIFFIN.

For Justice of the Supreme Court (ten years)—
CHARLES H. CAMP.

For Regents of the University—
ALBERT M. MACKENZIE, HENDERVEEN, RUFUS F. SEAGUE

For Circuit Judge, Thirteenth Circuit.—
EDWIN S. PRATT.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

The nomination of Edwin S. Pratt, of Traverse City, for circuit judge on the democratic ticket, is one that will unite the opposition to Judge Ramsdell, and bring out a full vote for this important office. That he would fill the place with dignity, and with justice to all parties, we have entire confidence. At his home in Traverse City, where he is best known all parties unite in asserting their intention to support him in preference to Ramsdell, and if the democratic party in this and other counties give him their full support, there is little doubt of his election.

Hon. E. S. Pratt, of Traverse City, is the nominee of the democratic and greenback conventions for circuit judge of this, the 13th judicial circuit Mr. Pratt is a pioneer in the practice of the profession of his choice in this region, is a hard-working, hard-headed and hard-to beat lawyer, and if elected would not disgrace the judicial ermine.—Leelanaw Enterprise.

Mr. Pratt as an attorney, is recognized to be the leader in northern Michigan, with a standing among the people that will, the Journal believes, insure his election. Mr. Pratt is conceded a temperance man, and this alone, should insure his success next month.—Traverse Journal.

HON. CHARLES H. CAMP.

The above is said to be a good portrait of the democratic candidate for justice of the supreme court for the long term. Mr. Camp is a graduate of Dartmouth college, class of 1860. During the war he was a member of the eighth regiment New Hampshire volunteer infantry, serving in the gulf department under Gen. Butler. After leaving the army he entered the graduating class of the Albany law school and completed the course of that institution, and from there he came to East Saginaw, where he has since resided.

Those who know Mr. Camp pronounce him to be well fitted for the position for which he is named, and he deserves the full vote of his party in this state.

HON. LEVI T. GRIFFIN.

We have no portrait of Mr. Griffin to give to our readers, but we have a record of honor, of business capacity, and of fitness for the position of justice of the supreme court, not exceeded by any other man on any ticket presented. Mr. Griffin should receive the vote of every progressive man in the state.

If the amendment is adopted there will be greater need of the prohibition party than there ever was before.—Cassopolis Democrat.

Dr. Deems, the venerable pastor of the Church of the Strangers, in New York, has strong convictions upon the subject of closed churches, and expresses them very frankly. He keeps his church open all the year round, and always has a congregation.

When a dog owned by a White Pine, Nev., stock-raiser finds a calf or any other thing in the cattle line unbranded he drives it in the corral, then takes the branding iron to it in earnest.

There is a veteran Georgian in America who has fifteen children, fifty-one grandchildren, and twenty-four great-grandchildren.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the invalids of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood and Liver, such as Scrofula in its various forms, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Female irregularities, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder. Exposure and Imprudence of Life. No person can take these Bitters according to instruction and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters numbers on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine Sold by O. D. Wood & Co., and G. W. Crouser.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, plains and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonder ful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. eow1

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Pete's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now sold as Dr. Pete's 25-cent Cough Cure. It the safest, the surest and the best. No other Cough, Cold, and Consumption remedy is half its equal. We sell it fast it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by O. D. Wood & Co., and Dr. G. W. Crouser.

Marion Township Caucus.

A caucus to nominate candidates for township officers will be held at Black's school house, on Saturday afternoon, March 5th, at one o'clock.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

Only 25 Cents.

buys a perfect remedy for Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness, and Loss of Sleep. Try it. Sold by O. D. Wood & Co., and G. W. Crouser.

If you require a strong medicine, if you are suffering with languor, debility, pimples, boils catarrh, chronic sores, March 5th, at one o'clock

Buckle's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world, for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouser.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in my chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without avail, early in April, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent recovery.—H. E. Sleppy, Rogers Fields, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted three Physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vandegrost, Meadville, Pa.

The Best Remedy

Some time ago I took a slight Cold which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a severe cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

NOTICE OF ELECTION. Notice is hereby given to the electors of the township of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, that a township election will be held at Lewis building, in the village of Charlevoix, Michigan, on Monday, the six day of April, A. D. 1887, at which time the following officers are to be elected viz: Supervisor, Township Clerk, Township treasurer, one Justice of the Peace, one Highway Commissioner, and four Constables.

Also the following amendment to the Constitution also there will be submitted for adoption or rejection.

Yes or no shall the following amendment to the Constitution be adopted and be submitted for approval for their adoption or rejection.

Resolved, that the following be an amendment to section 1 article 15 of the Constitution of the state, relative to the salaries of state officers.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the state of Michigan, That an amendment be made to section 1 article 15 of the constitution of this state, and the same is hereby proposed to read as follows:

SECTION 1. That the Judges of the Supreme Court shall receive an annual salary of twenty-five hundred dollars; the Circuit Judges an annual salary of twenty-five hundred dollars; the State Treasurer an annual salary of twenty-five hundred dollars; the Commissioner of the Land Office an annual salary of twenty-hundred dollars; the Attorney General an annual salary of twenty-hundred dollars; the Superintendent of Public Instruction an annual salary of twenty-five hundred dollars, payable at the same manner as that in which such salaries have heretofore been paid.

SEC. 2. That the ballot adopted that at said election the following proposal be submitted to the constitution of this State will be adopted by the people of this State for their adoption or adoption, viz:

Shall the amendment to Section 40, Article 4, relative to the liquor traffic.

SECTION 40. The manufacture, gift, or sale of spirituous, malt, or vinous liquor is this state except for medicinal, mechanical, chemical, or scientific purposes is prohibited, and no person shall be entitled to manufacture or sell for medicinal purposes any spirituous, malt or vinous liquor, until he shall have first obtained the right to manufacture or sell for medicinal, mechanical, or scientific purposes, and shall have given such bond regulations as may be provided by law. The Legislature shall enact laws with penalties, to prevent the manufacture, sale, gift, maintaining, and keeping for sale or gift of intoxicating liquors, except as aforesaid.

You are also hereby notified that at the said election the following additional officer is to be elected viz:

One Justice of the Supreme Court for the term of Seven years, in place of Honorable Isaac P. Christiancy, term rounded and expired, as provided for by Act No. 5 of the Public Acts of 1887, approved February 8, 1887.

The polls of this election will be opened at nine o'clock in the forenoon and be open until four o'clock in the afternoon, unless the electors of a township shall vote that the polls at least eight hours, for one hour.

Dated at Charlevoix, this March 28, A. D. 1887.

HORACE N. HARSHA,
Township Clerk, Charlevoix, Mich.

SALE.—Notice is hereby given that a certain judgment and the land therein contained having been left with the undersigned as a pledge or security for a note, by Albert Weed, and the same not having been redeemed, the undersigned will sell the land, viz: Lot 3, in section sixteen or vacation, in the Village of Charlevoix, at the front door of the hotel, known as Stone's Hotel, on Saturday, the 3rd day of April, A. D. 1887

Dated, Charlevoix, March 1st, 1887.

ELLEN JOHNSON.

A DOUBLE-HEADER

NEW DO BLE ACTION "TRAPPER"

Force Pump.

Simplest, Cheapest Most Durable, and Works Easy. Sold only by

L. D. BARTHELOMEW & CO.

☞Job and Fix Work.

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Hosiery, Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection will ship.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

G
GEO. W. MILLER
O
W
MILLER
GEO. W. MILLER
G
O
W
MILLER

I am not selling out, but I am selling all the goods I can; and if you will give me a call, I will convince you that I am selling better goods for less money than can be bought in this or any other town. The "off" and "selling out" sales are getting old. All I ask is, give me a call for anything in the clothing line and convince yourself.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

— MANUFACTURERS OF —

Charcoal and Pig Iron,

— AND —

General Merchandising,

IRONTON, MICH.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Sumner Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock All the latest and most improved Watches manufactured.

Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted.

C. R. BEALINGER,
Bridge St., - - Charlevoix.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

OF ALL KINDS

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & PAY STOCK WANTED

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts, and the finest bay. Large quarters for Pleasure and Fix Table Unsurpassed sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE.

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FELLED TO ORDER

Daily Mail

—AND—

Stage Line

TO EAST JORDAN.

During the coming winter, Burns & Scroggie, the wide-awake jobbers for F. J. Smith, will carry the mail between Charlevoix and East Jordan, leaving Charlevoix at 7 a. m. arriving at East Jordan by noon. Returning, leave East Jordan at 1.30 p. m., arriving at Charlevoix at 6.00 p.m. Passengers and baggage carried at low rates.

BURNS & SCROGGIE,
Charlevoix, - - Mich.

THE JOURNAL,

Charlevoix, Mich., March 24, 1887.

100 Stoves at Cost. D. C. Loveday, of East Jordan, offers his entire stock of stoves at cost, for cash, to close them out and make room for other lines of goods. Now is the time to secure bargains.

Sewing Machines.—If you want a good machine cheap, call on D. Sherwood, at his shoe store on Bridge street, and examine the American No. 7, and learn prices.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192m4

Frank Kirby wants everybody to know that he is running Stover's Grist Mill, and be pleased to have parties interested call and make his acquaintance.

☞A splendid article of New Maple Sugar at O. W. Smith's, also a fresh lot of those splendid Francais, fine for the sick.

☞Those fine Cabinet Photos only three dollars a dozen for another month, at the gallery. D. S. Way.

Local Notes and News.

Mr. Inwood is on the sick list.

Election notice in another column.

G. C. Geiken is in Lansing this week.

Capt. A. G. Aldrich returned home on Tuesday.

Sheriff Jerrue made us a brief call Tuesday afternoon.

No school in Charlevoix next week, one week vacation.

A. E. Mason returned home from Florida last Thursday.

C. J. Pailthorp, of Petoskey, made us a brief call to-day.

Miss Emma Todd visited her home in Chebaygan last week.

E. M. Clark has opened a real estate office in Brown's bank block.

Some of our business firms have put up their annual awnings.

Edwin S. Pratt, of Traverse City, made us a brief call on Monday.

C. J. Grier returned home from southern Michigan on Tuesday.

The East Jordan Enterprise opposes the prohibition amendment.

All the Charlevoix pastors are doing good work for the amendment.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co. have a doubleheader this week. Read it.

A good sign of spring is heard from the tree-tops. The crows have arrived.

Mrs. Hilton has advertises a special concert for sale, in another column.

R. A. Campbell was over from Petoskey Friday, after more of his furniture.

Ed. Bedford expects to join the Point Betsey life-saving station this spring.

D. S. Burns goes to Colston, Ont., next week to visit relatives and friends.

The cross receipts of the Mastodon Minstrel Company aggregate $222.80.

The fish tug Clara Elliott will remain in Charlevoix for the fishing season.

H. S. Harsha sold a Chicago Cottage organ to J. H. Adams on Wednesday.

The public schools will give another exhibition sometime during the spring term.

Much obliged, neighbor Sentinel, for your suggestions in regard to certain legal printing.

I. O. O. F. special meeting Friday evening, 25th, at 7.30 o'clock. A full attendance desired.

Mike Finney has bought Dan Jerrue's fishing stock, and moved it to his barn in Charlevoix.

Jos. Beauvais has built five new row boats during the past winter, for his summer's business.

Capt. Gilley, of Manistee, is in town this week, the guest of his brother J. Reed Emery.

Perry Weed has bought the Wm. Glover house and lot on Clinton street, opposite the school house.

Wm. C. Graves, will known to Charlevoix young people, has accepted a position on the Lansing Republican.

President McLeod and Trustee Smith qualified and took their seats at the last meeting of the village council.

G. W. Crouser calls attention this week to his large stock of new designs of wall paper. This is one of Crouser's specialties in which he leads the Charlevoix trade, and buyers should not fail to call on him.

Geo. Wrisley is at work on J. A. Bacot's new house in Hayes. The work is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

Mrs. Weed's invalid daughter Jessie, died Monday, and was buried Tuesday, Rev. W. H. McCartney officiating.

J. J. Goss is at East Jordan putting the machinery for the manufacture of shingles into the Severance stave factory.

At a special meeting of the Orangemen of the Grand and Little Traverse districts, B. Boyce of Charlevoix was elected W. D. M.

F. Lubow has built a fish boat for C. Vanderhoef, 25 feet keel, and 7 feet beam, for peddling fresh fish on Round and Pine lake.

Mrs. Sarah Ayres, who was stricken with paralysis several week ago, is failing slowly, and but little hope is entertained of recovery.

Will Francis successfully moved the Heath & Francis shop to his lot on the south terrace, and is now ready for a general jobbing business.

On Saturday night, 26th, there will be an entertainment at James O'Brian's, near the Hilton school house, for the benefit of Rev. W. G. Clark.

The Upright & Emrey stock of merchandise was sold last Friday on chattel mortgage sold by the Savings bank. O. D. Wood was the highest bidder.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad are sending out some very fine calendars, advertising their road, and the towns famous for good fishing in northern Michigan.

The farmer who signs an alleged agreement to become an agent for the sale of scythe stones is liable to have to pay for a whole stone quarry. That's the latest rural gag.

A special meeting of the Congregational church and society and will be held at the church on Tuesday evening, March 29th, at 7.30. All are earnestly invited to be present.

Caskey, the contracter, is picking up all the carpenters for work on the big Mackinac hotel, and it is probable that carpenters will be scarce when building begins here in the spring.—Record.

F. W. Craine & Co. this week return their thanks to the people of Charlevoix who have so generously patronized them during the past year. The firm certainly deserve their success.

A service, will be held next Sunday afternoon at Black's school house at 2.30 o'clock in the interest of the prohibition amendment. Also at night at Johnson's school house. All are invited.

One of the sleighs returning with the minstrel company Monday night tipped over, throwing out the occupants, and frightening the horses so that they scattered things lively for a few minutes. No one was seriously hurt.

At Green's hall last night, A. D. Cruickshank held the attention of his audience nearly two hours while describing the discussion and incidents of a recent trip "Across the Continent," from Portland, Me., to San Francisco Cal., via Quebec and Montreal.

D. S. Way is making some photographic work that ought to satisfy any reasonable person. Some cabinets shown us the week are as true to life as a picture can be, and the mechanical work shows excellent judgment in toning and finishing.

Bernard Burns has rented his farm to John Oldham, recently from Canada, and will move to Charlevoix and open a livery and feed barn. He has leased the Chalupka barn on the north side of the river, which he will have fitted up and opened in a few days.

It is reported that some of our saloon-keepers are partially supplied with provisions by men who cannot get trusted for liquor, but do get trusted for groceries and exchange them for liquor. This is a pleasant for some of our business men who give credit.

"The ruling political spirits of the prohibition party are aimless cranks."—Sentinel. Harry B. White, in his lecture Monday night, defined a crank as a very necessary and important of any great motor, whether it be a steam engine or a reform movement in a community.

Rev. Smith has entirely "heard something drop," and instead of beating around the bush, trying to defeat the amendment, as he has for several weeks past, the Sentinel comes out this week in advocacy of the amendment, to satisfy the editor's "conscience." Glad to note his conversion.

The Cross Village correspondent of the Petoskey Democrat says: "Two brothers by the name of Gibson, crossed from the Beaver, Saturday, bringing over the mail and started back Sunday morning, before the storm had become severe enough to make traveling on the ice dangerous to return. A team crossing from the Beavers, Monday, report nothing seen of them and fears are entertained as to their safety." LATER—After a ten-hours' struggle with the storm, the boys arrived home nearly exhausted.

In the circuit court at Cadillac, Wednesday, Horace B. Hicks, son of Rev. Geo. S. Hicks, of Sherman, was sentenced to two years on a charge of burglary, to which he pleaded guilty. His father told the story of his son's crime. It was treaty literature, bad company, evil counsel, drink, crime, and at the age of 22 imprisonment.

Emmey brothers, A. J., J. Reed, and R. A., have bought the old Upright & Emrey stock of merchandise of the Savings Bank, for whom it was bid at the sale last Saturday, and expect to have it arranged, and ready to open for Saturday's trade this week. The new firm will operate the store and dock business together, as heretofore.

We hope that in the absence of black drapery at the Beecher home and in the church, there is the beginning of a change in our American funeral customs. It is time that something other than the oppressive black was taken as a token of bereavement. If there be any outward sign, let it be something simple, and suggestive of hope and not of despair.

The ladies of the M. E. church give a ten-cent tea at the church on Monday evening, March 28. Tea will be served from six to nine. A pleasing feature will be an entertainment given by the children of the kindergarten, beginning at 7.30. The ladies are preparing to enter tain a large company and feel confident that the public will not disappoint them.

Several of our citizens have received letters of inquiry from wealthy capitalists concerning the prospects of the Intermediate valley for a railroad. The latest is from a gentleman who is now operating several large saw mills, saying that he would invest $1,000,000 in manufacturing at Bellaire as soon as the D., C. & E. R. R. is a reality.—Bellaire Cor. Mancelona Herald.

At a vote on prohibition by the pupils of the high school, on Wednesday, 42 votes were in favor of the amendment, and 20 against. If this can be considered a fair expression of public sentiment, the friends of temperance have nothing to fear. But it is not a fair expression. The ignorant and illiterate who do not attend school are sure to vote against the amendment.

Will See has purchased the E. M. Clark stock of groceries, and will fill up with new in a few days. He expects to handle ties, posts, wood, and bark in connection with a grocery and crockery trade this summer. He controls the dock and yard in rear of the store and has excellent shipping facilities. Will's past experience in the business will give him a big boost toward success.

Rev. C. F. Van Anken has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Congregational church of Charlevoix. His six months work as evangelist has been very successful in results and satisfactory to himself, and he will continue indefinitely. His resignation will probably be accepted by the church here, but many of the members will regret the loss of his valuable services during the coming summer.

The tax money does not come from the saloons, but through the saloons. The tax law makes the saloon an ingenious device to collect money from country tax payers, for the support of city and village governments. Every farmer who votes against the amendment will vote to continue an infamous system from which he gets not the slightest good. Farmers, how will you vote? You now have a chance to erase this one-sided law from the statutes; will you do it? Then vote for the amendment.

The new locomotive being built by E. Shay is nearly completed. This is probably the furthest north that a locomotive has been built in the United States. It is similar to the ordinary Shay engine, but has many important variations from the old ones. It is a narrow gauge engine, for logging, and is of fifteen horse power. It is built principally as an experiment, and, like the most of Mr. Shay's experiments, it works. It is built without any locomotive frame, the body supplying all of the necessities of that respect, and every attachment to the boiler is put on without tapping the steam anywhere, thus preserving the boiler intact. There is no eccentric on the engine, the valve motion being taken from the cross heads. This is entirely a new principle. Mr. Shay has also added an expansion coupling that is new in principle.—Citizen.

Representative Ogg's bill to prevent the importation of Pinkerton detectives during strikes finally passed the senate last Thursday. It had previously passed the house, so that it is now practically a law, as the governor will sign it. Among labor men this measure has been regarded as one of the most important before the legislature. Its passage is a substantial gain to the labor element. The act provided that no sheriff in this state shall appoint any under sheriff or deputy sheriff, except the person appointed shall be a citizen of this state and duly qualified elector of the county; and any sheriff who shall violate the provisions of the act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and be punishable by imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than one year, or by a fine not less than $100 nor more than $500, in the discretion of the court.

WE ARE SELLING OUT.

As our store will be changed this spring, we must dispose of our large stock of

DRY GOODS, CARPETS, CLOTHING, GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.,

—At some price for CASH ONLY.—

Bargains! Bargains!!

In everything which can be found in our store. Give us a call and be convinced yourself that we mean business. Truly Yours,

ROSENTHAL & SON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

At this, the close of our first year's business in Charlevoix it seems to us eminently proper that we extend our sincere thanks to the trading public of this region for the patronage they have so generously extended us during the past twelve months.

Our constantly increasing business proves that the people appreciate a Metropolitan stock at lowest prices.

Our past experience has shown us the needs of the people of this section. During the coming season our line of goods will be the largest ever offered in this region. Our Prices we always guarantee to be the lowest. If we have pleased you in the past, please grant us a continuation of your patronage. Very truly yours, and the development of power to do and dare for God.

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Bro. Sherman, from Petoskey, will exchange with the pastor and preach for us morning and evening. Miss Cochran will lead the young people's meeting. Theme—"Coming to Christ," Rev. 22:17.

W. H. McCARTNEY.

Historical Society.

The meeting of the Historical Society at the residence of Prof. H. M. Enos on Friday evening last was one of interest and well attended.

The paper upon the subject "The Fall of the Eastern Empire" by Rev. W. G. Clark, treated in a very graphic manner of the fall of Constantinople.

Mrs. Ella Smith, Misses Ella Cochran, Maggie Green, and Maggie Enos furnished excellent music, and Mrs. A. T. Watermen and O. S. Washburn read capital selections.

The next meeting will occur on Friday night the 25th, at the residence of Mrs. O. D. Wood.

Cast of Characters.

The Marion center union Sunday school would extend to Miss Gladys Jefferies their sincere thanks for her valuable assistance at the Sunday school exhibition held at the Black school house.

Donation Party.

For the benefit of the Ironton M. E. Church, at the residence of Thos. C. Bird, next Friday evening. All are invited.

Congregational Church.

Sunday morning: "Light weight and heavy." Evening, "The smooth man and the hairy man."

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, EAST SIDE OF THE STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 42

A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and willfully him their symptoms, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PARKER, 42 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIMPLES I will mail (sealed) to any person who will send me their address, a receipt that will remove PIMPLES, BLACK HEADS, and leave the skin soft, clear and beautiful. This receipt is not a cosmetic, but a medicine, and only a trial is needed to prove its wonderful curative powers. Address, with this paragraph, JAS. H. NIXON, Box 2760, Boston, Mass.

GOLD Solid gold watches, full hunting, stem winding, warranted to keep time as well as any watch ever made, for a reliable agent to sell 1 watch among friends at home. Address, with 10 cents, for sample watch and full particulars, STANDARD WATCH CO., 1 Barclay St., New York. Name this paper every time you write. 42

A LAMENT.

BY ARTHUR C. GIBSON.

All alone, to-night, I'm sitting,
Alone in the shadows dim;
Close are the shadows flitting—
Dark is every chink and rim.
I am weary, I am lonely,
And my thoughts are dark and sad,
For of thee, and of thee only,
Are those thoughts that one e were glad.

Ah, Lorene, they are so bitter!
Would that I could crush them down—
Think, instead, of something fitter,
Something that would break the frown.
Would I know that thou hast spoken
Well! I know thou'd never be false—
That thou'rt happier without me
And the heart that all is thine.

Banished from thy side forever,
Grim Despair is near to all life's cheer;
From my heart thou hast torn my treasure,
Can no cast-away beauty in here.
I'm forgot I've long been trying,
But, alas! 'tis not my lot,
For I find myself still sighing
For the one who loves me not.

But a thought by thee is given
To the one who grieves alone;
But to me it would be heaven
If I could but call one my own.
And to-night, I am sighing,
Far away beneath the moon,
With the shadows close flitting,
All my heart then had with thee.

A KNAVE UNMASKED.

BY FRANK SHERIDAN.

"Mr. Arden is my business associate, my relative and my friend."

"Nevertheless he is a scoundrel."

"Your conduct is ungenerous and unwarranted, Robert Ellis. You must apologize, or never darken my doors again."

"Very well, Mr. Bordell, I choose the latter alternative."

It was an incident in which angry, excited tones left indicated that strong elements of interest, emotion, and pride were at stake.

Its denouement meant banishment and unhappiness for Robert Ellis, yet as he walked down the marble steps of the stately mansion of Mr. Bordell, the wealthy banker of Elmville, a sentiment of pad consolation and resolute determination showed on his young, handsome face.

The circumstances of the affair may be very briefly recited.

John Bordell was an old-time resident of Elmville, and was the principal owner in the bank at that place.

For many years he had been a widower, but his daughter Bertha and his son Arnold had cheered his loneliness, and when the latter entered the bank, a year previous, the banker believed his ability would soon entitle him to a prominent place in its operations.

One day, however, a terrible blow fell upon the devoted father.

Arnold Bordell had disappeared, and with him ten thousand dollars of the bank's money.

An examination of his accounts showed frequent alterations and errors; a note was left on his desk in which he stated that he had lost heavily at gambling, and had embezzled a large amount.

He had, therefore, determined to fly, and announced that he would never return to disgrace the family name.

For weeks the proud banker was crushed by the unexpected blow. His daughter shared his grief, assuaged only by the confident assertions of Arnold's dearest friend, young Robert Ellis, to the effect that he did not believe in Arnold's guilt, and that the latter was the victim of some terrible plot.

"Men and money do not disappear except by design," said Mr. Bordell, bitterly. "No, he is guilty. I trusted him, and he has deceived me. Let his name never be spoken in this house."

Then the father became a darkened memory, and Elmer Arden, a distant relative of the banker, who had filled a subordinate position for years in the bank, was advanced to the lucrative and honorable position which Arnold had held.

It was this man, with eyes like a snake and the face of an arrant hype-rate, whom young Ellis watched, as a cat does a mouse, for many a day after the mysterious disappearance of Arnold Bordell.

Why he suspected him he could not tell; he had done so since the day Arnold went away, and a conversation between Arden and a stranger which he had overheard had decided him on action.

Robert Ellis was connected with a lawyer in the town with a large practice. He was an impulsive sort of fellow, and the very day upon which our story opens had met Arden coming from the banker's mansion.

He knew that Arden had always betrayed a longing for the company of beautiful Bertha Bordell, and the fact that he was fast winning the banker's confidence, and a firm belief that he was the cause of Arnold Bordell's disappearance, led him to act rashly.

In fact, from a casual greeting their meeting led to an open quarrel, in which Ellis openly denounced him as a hypocrite and a scoundrel, and charged him and some accomplice in plotting to ruin Arnold Bordell.

"You shall suffer for this!" choked out Arden, pale with rage, as they parted. "Beware how you cross my path, or there will be another mysterious disappearance."

These words revealed the real villainous depths of Arden's nature. Ellis said not another word, but a moment later entered the Bordell mansion, and proceeded to the library to seek the banker.

It was there that the conversation described above occurred. It formed the climax to a long recital on the part of Robert Ellis.

He began by stating that he had never believed Arnold Bordell to be an embezzler, that he considered his disappearance and the abstraction of the bank's funds to be the result of a deep plot of designing enemies.

"I forbid you to speak of my son," the banker had interrupted Ellis by saying sternly; "he is dead to me, and the evidences of his guilt are incontrovertible."

And then, in impassioned tones, Ellis had told him how he believed the new bank cashier, Arden, to be a villain, and he recounted the quarrel that had occurred a few moments previous.

Mr. Bordell became very indignant at the narration, and then, after demanding an apology, which the high-spirited Ellis had refused, had ordered him never to darken the doors of the mansion again.

With a rapid step, angered at the persistent and blind preference of the banker for his favorite, the young man hastened down the graveled walk to the road.

"Robert!"

He paused as a soft, silvery voice spoke his name.

Turning, he saw pretty, winsome Bertha Bordell standing at a table in the rustic veranda room in the garden, where, in her haste to address him, she had mixed a pile of photographs.

Her deep, soulful eyes scanned his face searchingly as he approached her.

"Robert," she said, serious, "you are excited. You were hastening away without seeing me. What has happened?"

"The worst—the very worst," replied young Ellis, bitterly.

"You have seen my father?"

"Yes."

"And have broached the subject of Arnold again?"

"I have."

"And you have quarreled?"

"Seriously, Yes, Bertha, you father has ordered me from the house.

The fair girl's eyes fell and became tearful.

Her heart was divided between love for her devoted father and admiration for the brave champion of her unsung brother Arnold.

She listened suspensefully as Ellis told of his interview with her father and of his quarrel with Arden.

"The scoundrel!" he ejaculated angrily, referring to the latter. "I have his a villain; I know he hopes to win your love away from me, to secure your father's fortune. I know he has plotted against Arnold; I know where Arnold is."

"Oh, Robert!"

"Yes, I overheard Arden conversing with a stranger and he said that if Arnold Bordell was at Minors' Valley he must be prevented from returning to Elmville. I leave home to-morrow. I will find your brother; I will learn the mystery of his sudden disappearance. Let me see you once more at the old trysting-place by the brook, this evening, and then I leave to right what I believe to be a great wrong."

They conversed for a long time, and met according to appointment. Bertha had to linger at the brook. In earnest tones Ellis pleaded with her to agree to some plan to outwit any plot Arden might form to induce her father to settle on his suit during his absence.

A carriage was ready, there was a rapid drive several miles into the country, a visit to a retired clergyman's house, and as speedy a return.

When they parted, two hours later, there was a happy, though anxious, look on Bertha's face, and Ellis left the town by the main highway, on horseback, murmuring:

"At least, Arden shall never steal my love away. And now to hunt down Arnold Bordell at Minors' Valley."

That was the plan he had heard Arden and his unknown companion allude to.

It was a place far beyond the hills, isolated, and infested with dangerous frontier characters.

He had often heard of it, and knew that it would be a weary and perilous journey to reach it.

Why had Arnold gone there? What was he doing among the rough prospectors of that region?

This was a mystery Ellis was soon to learn. For the present he contented himself by progressing on his way, and it was three weeks later when, travel-worn and weary, he descended into a valley, surrounded by the wild-it scenes, and dotted here and there with numerous mining camps.

At one of these he halted finally. He had been attracted to it by the sight of a man whose face was slightly familiar to him.

Beyond doubt he was the same personage whom he had seen speaking to Arden at Elmville.

If the stranger had ever seen him before, he did not betray the fact, but he seemed a little surprised to hear Ellis address him as a friend.

"I believe I saw you at Elmville about a month ago?"

The stranger hesitated, surveyed Ellis searchingly, and then replied:

"Really, I was there to sell some gold that a short time since. What are you doing here? Do you know any one in Elmville?"

So satisfied was Ellis that there now existed some plot between Arden and this man that he determined to act prudently. He made an evasive reply, gave a fictitious name, and intimated that he had been obliged by circumstances to leave Elmville.

The stranger, who, Ellis later learned, was named Crombie, seemed inclined to like the young man was a fugitive from justice, and a compact was made between them.

He told marvelous stories of wonderful gold discoveries in the district, and by joining some money at cards and treating the crowd liberally, Ellis was accepted as a denizen of the camp.

To the man Crombie he made no further allusion to Elmville, or to Arden, or to the object of his quest, Arnold Bordell.

But he watched his man closely, and one night saw him visit a lonely but built near a cave in the mountain, and said by the miners to be the retreat of some noted outlaws of the vicinity.

The most cautious but persistent inquiry failed to reveal any trace of Arnold, and yet Ellis was satisfied that he was somewhere in the valley, possibly a prisoner in the hands of his enemies.

This he was destined soon to learn.

One afternoon Crombie came to him with a curious smile on his face.

He tendered him a folded but unsealed letter.

This Ellis, with a flush of annoyance and chagrin, recognized as a letter he had written to Bertha Bordell the day previous. He had dropped it somehow, and Crombie had found it. Ellis had intended to send it by a trustie by the first party leaving Minors' Valley.

He was a little concerned, as he feared that Crombie might have read and obtained hint of his stagnation to his friend Arden.

But he remembered that he had not alluded to him, his letter being mainly a description of his wanderings in search of the missing Arnold Bordell.

"I imagine it's a letter to your sweetheart," remarked Crombie, with a cunning laugh.

"You did you read it?"

"Not in plaudit at it to find out whom it was, I saw that it was written to a girl. By the way, I saw another thing that interested me."

"Indeed, what was that?"

"You wrote about a man named Arnold Bordell."

Ellis started. He had never spoken the name to Crombie, and had always been guarded in his inquiries concerning the banker's missing and, even to others, alluding to him only by description.

Crombie face seemed to conceal no hidden motives.

Ellis answered boldly:

"Yes, I did."

"Are you looking for him?"

"Well, yes! I know his sister, and she is very anxious to hear from him. Why, do you know him?"

"No."

Ellis looked disappointed.

"But you have heard of him?"

"Exactly, by name many times. See here, can I trust you?"

"About what?"

"With a secret. You know the old cabin near the hills?"

Ellis nodded affirmatively.

"Well, there are some friends of mine there who are in retirement."

"How so?"

"They are wanted by the sheriff."

"I understand."

"Therefore, they do not care for outside acquaintance, so, if I take you there—

"Why should you take me there?" asked Ellis, suspiciously.

"Because the man who knows your friend Bordell is there."

"Oh, I see."

"We'll go there."

"When?"

"To-night. You can learn about Bordell, but you mustn't tell about the people you meet."

"I promise."

"Very well; meet me at dusk, then, and we'll go."

Ellis was so anxious about finding a trace of Arnold Bordell that he did not suspect the fact that Crombie was laying a cunning plot to entrap him.

That evening he met him. Together they proceeded to the lonely cabin referred to.

There was no one in the dimly lighted apartment into which Crombie ushered him.

The latter pointed to a chair near a table in the center of the room.

"Sit down," he said, "I will go and find my man."

Ellis did so, and Crombie left the room.

Several minutes passed by. Ellis was becoming impatient, when a startling episode occurred.

The floor under him suddenly gave way, a trap-door opened at his feet.

Chair and man descended with the rapidity of lightning. He dashed through space. Then, with a dull thud, he struck the rocky floor twenty feet below.

Insensibility ensued. He had there for minutes or hours, he knew not which. Then consciousness slowly returned.

He shuddered as he recalled his recent experience, for he now knew that he was a prisoner in the hands of Crombie.

He lay perfectly still, as a sudden glare of light illumined the place.

It proceeded from the trap door, at which a lantern and two men were visible.

One of them was Crombie.

"Well," his companion spoke, "you have got another prisoner, eh?"

"A dead one, I guess, for the fall has probably killed him."

"Who is he?"

"A friend of our first prisoner."

"And an enemy of Arden?"

"Exactly."

"What are you going to do with them?"

"Flood the place to-night, and let them die."

"But your first prisoner may yet reveal the secret of his wealth."

"No, he won't, and Arden or rest the affair settled."

"Very well, I'll flood the place at midnight and leave them."

The trap-door was closed, the two men disappeared, a hollow groan of despair echoed through the dark, underground prison.

Ellis started. Could this be the mysterious prisoner Crombie had referred to? He crept toward the spot whence the sound emanated, and then pausing, drew a match from his pocket and struck it.

Its flare showed a pale, wretched face and cast.

"Great heavens!" ejaculated Ellis, "Arnold Bordell!"

"Yes, yes, who speaks? That voice! It is a friend!"

"It is an old friend, Arnold. Don't you know me—Robert Ellis?"

It was a strange meeting. Ellis had unearthed the man whose sister he was missing Bordell.

In agitated tones he told Arnold all of the story of the events succeeding his departure from Elmville, and of his search for him.

In turn the latter told his story, revealed the true mystery of his leaving his home.

It was a strange, tragic recital, and showed that Arnold was indeed, as Ellis had surmised, the victim of a deep, villainous plot."

The night of his disappearance he had been missed by Arden to take a walk a few miles from the country.

Suddenly he was seized from behind and bindfolded and gagged. Then he commanded to be placed in a wagon, and a long journey was begun.

For several nights and days the wagon was driven forward, and Arnold was given a few crusts of bread to eat.

He was placed in a covered one, and he was kept in it, bound hand and foot.

One of his captors was Joe man Crombie, and he had several companions.

From what he overheard Crombie say, he realized that Arden had formed a terrible plot against him.

The latter had changed his books at the bank, embezzled a large amount of money, and had forged a letter purporting to be written by Arnold, and confessing the crime.

Arden expected to win Mr. Bordell's confidence, marry his daughter, and secure his fortune.

Crombie had orders to carry Arnold beyond the hills and hide him in a secluded mountain ravine, where his body would never be discovered.

On the night of the tenth day of the journey Arnold had escaped.

He had managed to sever his bonds, and spring from the wagon and roll down a narrow mountain path.

He could not recall him. He stumbled and fell. They saw him disappear over the edge of a cliff, and believed he had been killed.

And now comes the strangest part of Arnold's story.

For days he wandered around, for he had not been seriously injured by his fall, having landed on a projecting ledge of rocks, and remained there until his captors passed by.

He was ignorant of his situation, and wandered here and there in hope of reaching some habitation, and subsisting on berries, wild fruits and roots.

He followed the course of a little stream. One day, where it passed through a secluded ravine, he made a most remarkable discovery.

The sands of the stream were filled with golden grains and nuggets.

He had made one of the richest finds of pure gold dust in the West.

He secured a large bag full, and, after marking the place, and being unable to carry more away, started to find his way back to Elmville, to unmask Arden, and secure aid to return for the gold.

"Very well, I'll flood the place at midnight and leave them to die."

The trap-door was closed, the two men disappeared, a hollow groan of despair echoed through the dark, underground prison.

Ellis started. Could this be the mysterious prisoner Crombie had referred to? He crept toward the spot whence the sound emanated, and then pausing, drew a match from his pocket and struck it.

Its flare showed a pale, wretched face and cast.

"Great heavens!" ejaculated Ellis, "Arnold Bordell!"

"Yes, yes, who speaks? That voice! It is a friend!"

"It is an old friend, Arnold. Don't you know me—Robert Ellis?"

It was a strange meeting. Ellis had unearthed the man whose sister he was missing Bordell.

In agitated tones he told Arnold all of the story of the events succeeding his departure from Elmville, and of his search for him.

In turn the latter told his story, revealed the true mystery of his leaving his home.

It was a strange, tragic recital, and showed that Arnold was indeed, as Ellis had surmised, the victim of a deep, villainous plot."

The night of his disappearance he had been missed by Arden to take a walk a few miles from the country.

Suddenly he was seized from behind and bindfolded and gagged. Then he commanded to be placed in a wagon, and a long journey was begun.

For several nights and days the wagon was driven forward, and Arnold was given a few crusts of bread to eat.

He was placed in a covered one, and he was kept in it, bound hand and foot.

One of his captors was Joe man Crombie, and he had several companions.

From what he overheard Crombie say, he realized that Arden had formed a terrible plot against him.

The latter had changed his books at the bank, embezzled a large amount of money, and had forged a letter purporting to be written by Arnold, and confessing the crime.

Arden expected to win Mr. Bordell's confidence, marry his daughter, and secure his fortune.

Crombie had orders to carry Arnold beyond the hills and hide him in a secluded mountain ravine, where his body would never be discovered.

On the night of the tenth day of the journey Arnold had escaped.

He had managed to sever his bonds, and spring from the wagon and roll down a narrow mountain path.

He could not recall him. He stumbled and fell. They saw him disappear over the edge of a cliff, and believed he had been killed.

And now comes the strangest part of Arnold's story.

For days he wandered around, for he had not been seriously injured by his fall, having landed on a projecting ledge of rocks, and remained there until his captors passed by.

He was ignorant of his situation, and wandered here and there in hope of reaching some habitation, and subsisting on berries, wild fruits and roots.

He followed the course of a little stream. One day, where it passed through a secluded ravine, he made a most remarkable discovery.

The sands of the stream were filled with golden grains and nuggets.

He had made one of the richest finds of pure gold dust in the West.

He secured a large bag full, and, after marking the place, and being unable to carry more away, started to find his way back to Elmville, to unmask Arden, and secure aid to return for the gold.

One week let out nightfall, he saw a camp-fire, and made his way toward it.

The next moment, when too late to escape, he recognized the men around it as Crombie and his band.

That night he was removed to the rocky cellar of the cabin they were now in. Here he had languished, a prisoner, ever since.

Each day, a little food was thrown to him. Each day, his captors endeavored to wrest from him the secret of the gold mine, whence he had obtained the treasure they had found upon him.

This was his story. When he had concluded Ellis remained thoughtful for some time.

"We must escape," he said, finally, "it is impossible," replied Arnold, hopelessly.

"No; hark! do you hear that?"

"The sounds of the heavy blows of a pickaxe echoed from the outer wall of their prison.

In a flash Ellis comprehended what was transpiring. Crombie's villainous associate was endeavoring to let in the water, as ordered, from some outside channel.

"Can you swim?" he asked of his companion.

"Yes, but I am very weak from my long imprisonment."

"Then clung to me. It is to be a desperate struggle for life."

It proved to be so. The rushing half hour was the most suspenseful and eventful of their lives.

The water poured into the place, and they were lifted on its surface.

Supporting Arnold, the dauntless Ellis dive with the force of a wrestling at the door of the cabin directly over his head. Its bolts were shot, and they found, the room above was dark and tenantless.

"We are saved!" panted Ellis, gratefully, as he climbed through the trap-door and dragged Arnold after him.

He reclosed the trap, then they silently stole from the cabin. Their escape had not been discovered.

Arnold was soon fully restored, for Crombie and his men would leave for home next morning.

By daylight Minors' Valley was miles away, and they were speeding away to liberty and to patient, anxious Bertha Bordell.

Poor Bertha! Little did the faithful Ellis dream of all the startling events that had occurred at Elmville since his departure.

For, at the very hour when the fugitives from Minors' Valley were hastening from their recent prison, affairs at the banker's mansion had reached a crisis.

Arden had made a proposal for the hand of Bertha Bordell. She had courteously but firmly refused him.

Arden had seen her father. The latter favored his preference, but bade him wait patiently until Bertha had forgotten her former lover, Robert Ellis.

So time wore on and Arden pretended to have discovered new defalcations on the part of Arnold Bordell.

The banker had given almost the entire charge of the bank to Arden, and, when the time Ellis arrived at Minors' Valley, had gone to a neighboring city on a business visit.

That evening Arden had called upon Bertha. He had again pressed his suit, and had been refused.

Angered at her aversion, he revealed his true character, and showed the scorn of deceit for her father to hold her father's fortune in his power, that he would wreck the bank unless she consented to wed him.

"Mercenary!" Bertha had cried, indignantly, as she ordered him from the house.

"Not quite!" yelled Diggles, waking up with a start and a yawn, as the intruder came rushing over his big toe.

"I treat have business, Marjie; it's an alligator!"

he shouted, as he could see its outlines in the dim gas light, Arden had sprung on the bed which broke through the slats and landed both him and Mrs. Diggles on the solid floor. It will never be known to history what the language Diggles let fly on the hall, ornamental mahogany of the bedstead, but Foldy thinks he recognized a few words, which, if spoken in a church, would set it on fire. Arden had taken all the available funds of the bank. The institution was seriously embarrassed, Mr. Bordell announced.

Detectives were sent after Arden, and Mr. Bordell was compelled to borrow all the money he could to replace the stolen funds.

For some days the bank's loss was kept a secret, but it soon became known that the truth was known.

Two weeks after the departure of Arden, there was a run of the depositors on the institution.

The first day it was confined to the larger creditors, who were quickly placated.

The second day the smaller depositors took the alarm. Mr. Bordell imagined that the run would be of but brief duration, but began to become anxious at the end of the day the cash reserve in the bank was depleted to only a few thousand dollars.

The third day he sent a trusted employee to Chicago to negotiate some bonds for ready cash.

That morning the street in front of the bank was thronged.

At noon a dispatch came from the city. The banker pale as he read it:

"Cannot negotiate the security. The stock is a drug on the market.

"We must close the bank!" tremulously muttered the banker. "After a quarter of a century of an honorable business career, the firm of John Bordell and Company fails discreditably."

Meanwhile, Arden sat in his private office, endeavored to encourage him, but Mr. Bordell was broken up, and felt the very dust of humiliation and defeat.

The Elmville papers were full of the news, and the excitement was intense.

"Let it out, close the doors, and announce a suspension of the bank," groaned the banker, as he emptied his safe, and put into his hands is bitter grief.

A sullen roar of rage went up from the crowd outside as the watchman closed the doors.

Threats of violence were rife; the excited throng became furious at the supposed loss of their money.

They beat at the doors and flung rocks at the windows.

"Hello! what is all this?" cried a cheery voice, and two young men elbowed their way through the crowd.

"The banker's son, Arnold Bordell, and Robert Ellis!" ejaculated several amazed voices, simultaneously.

"Exactly, my friends, but what is the matter here?" demanded Arnold.

"A run on the bank," replied the crowd.

"Impossible!"

"They've just closed the doors of the bank."

"They shall open them again, then. Fathers, my friends, no creditor of old John Bordell shall ever lose a dollar!"

"Hurrah!"

"As to money—we have thousands here," his hand. He pushed open the doors the bank watchman was just locking, marched straightway behind the counter, and flung open the safe.

In wild amazement the cashier gazed at him.

"Open the doors—come in line! Cashier, verify the accounts, and I will pay these people."

Arnold had opened the sachel. It was filled with gold coin and bank notes.

Then ensued a wild scene of excitement. At the sight of so much money public confidence was restored.

In half an hour the run had ceased, and the crowd outside were cheering for the banker.

From his private office John Bordell had seen all this as in a dream.

He was only aroused when he saw Robert Ellis enfolding the astonished Bertha in his arms, and his son's hand grasped his own warmly.

And then all the truth came out. Arnold and Ellis had come from Minors' Valley by way of the ravine gold mine, had secured all they could carry, had converted it into cash, and had arrived at Elmville just in time to save the bank.

Two hours later a telegram from the far West announced that Arden had been found and his stolen gains secured. He had been shot while escaping, confessed the plot against Arnold Bordell, and died. The public knew all the strange story the evening day, and John Bordell was proud man at the establishment of his wronged son's innocence.

Arnold Bordell married Bertha Bordell, and Ellis and Bertha Bordell, his charming bride.

DIGGLES AND THE ALLIGATOR.

BY JOEL SLOPER.

Diggles and Folsby are brothers-in-law and live in the same brown-stone front up on Madison avenue, in New York, and are rather fond of playing practical jokes on each other. Folsby rather got the best of the fun last week. He got a toy alligator which automatical y ran around on top of a table, Folsby can extend the idea of having a stuffed specimen of the saurian family rigged with a strong coil spring and wheels, so that, being wound up, it would run around a room in a circle with force enough sufficient to upset chairs in its path.

When it was all ready Folsby had it quietly conveyed into the house one night through the back gate, and when he heard Diggles snore in the next room he proceeded to wind up the alligator and have a little fun.

Diggles and Mrs. Diggles usually slept with the door of their room unlocked. They also left the gas burning low nights, both of which customs facilitated the fun of the blood which into which Folsby proceeded. As soon as the alligator was wound up, he carried it into some room in Diggles' room, and, quietly pushing open the door, let the alligator on the floor and it seemed to know just what was expected of it, judging from the way it went round that room and upset chairs and other light furniture.

Of course Diggles and Mrs. Diggles awoke. That is what Folsby expected of them.

"Mercy us!" screamed Mrs. Diggles.

"Get out!" yelled Diggles, waking up with a start and a yawn, as the intruder came rushing over his big toe.

"I treat have business, Marjie; it's an alligator!"

he shouted, as he could see its outlines in the dim gas light, Arden had sprung on the bed which broke through the slats and landed both him and Mrs. Diggles on the solid floor. It will never be known to history what the language Diggles let fly on the hall, ornamental mahogany of the bedstead, but Folsby thinks he recognized a few words, which, if spoken in a church, would set it on fire. Arden had taken all the available funds of the bank. The institution was seriously embarrassed, Mr. Bordell announced.

Detectives were sent after Arden, and Mr. Bordell was compelled to borrow all the money he could to replace the stolen funds.

For some days the bank's loss was kept a secret, but it soon became known that the truth was known.

Two weeks after the departure of Arden, there was a run of the depositors on the institution.

The first day it was confined to the larger creditors, who were quickly placated.

The second day the smaller depositors took the alarm. Mr. Bordell imagined that the run would be of but brief duration, but began to become anxious at the end of the day the cash reserve in the bank was depleted to only a few thousand dollars.

The third day he sent a trusted employee to Chicago to negotiate some bonds for ready cash.

That morning the street in front of the bank was thronged.

At noon a dispatch came from the city. The banker pale as he read it:

"Cannot negotiate the security. The stock is a drug on the market.

"We must close the bank!" tremulously muttered the banker. "After a quarter of a century of an honorable business career, the firm of John Bordell and Company fails discreditably."

Meanwhile, Arden sat in his private office, endeavored to encourage him, but Mr. Bordell was broken up, and felt the very dust of humiliation and defeat.

The Elmville papers were full of the news, and the excitement was intense.

"Let it out, close the doors, and announce a suspension of the bank," groaned the banker, as he emptied his safe, and put into his hands is bitter grief.

A sullen roar of rage went up from the crowd outside as the watchman closed the doors.

Threats of violence were rife; the excited throng became furious at the supposed loss of their money.

They beat at the doors and flung rocks at the windows.

"Hello! what is all this?" cried a cheery voice, and two young men elbowed their way through the crowd.

"The banker's son, Arnold Bordell, and Robert Ellis!" ejaculated several amazed voices, simultaneously.

"Exactly, my friends, but what is the matter here?" demanded Arnold.

"A run on the bank," replied the crowd.

"Impossible!"

"They've just closed the doors of the bank."

"They shall open them again, then. Fathers, my friends, no creditor of old John Bordell shall ever lose a dollar!"

"Hurrah!"

DEATH IN THE WATER.

Is the Element We Drink Destroying the People?

How a Universal Menace to Health May be Disarmed.

A few years ago the people in a certain section lay in one of the healthiest parts of the South were prostrated with a malignant disease, and upon investigation it was found that all of those who used water from a famous old well were the victims.

Professor S. A. Lattimore, analyst of the Nashville Medical College, gave the analysis of the water from that well, found it more dreadfully than the city sewage.

The filling up of the old well stopped the ravages of the disease.

Not long since the writer noticed that some men were making an excavation for a large building, a stratum of dark colored earth running from near the surface to hard pan. There it took another turn toward a well near at hand. The water from this well had for years been tainted with the drainage from a neighboring privy, the percolation of which ran toward the earth.

A similar condition of things exists in every village, as a city water well water is used, and though the filtering which the fluids receive in passing through the earth may give them a clear appearance, yet the poison and disease germs, though far water may look never so clear.

It is still worse with the farmer, for the drainage from the barn yard and the slops from the house are probably first land water in the family well.

The same condition of things exists in our large cities, where water supplies are provided by lifts streams that carry off the filth and drainage from houses. This "water" is eventually drunk by rich and poor alike with great evil.

Some cautious people resort to the filter for purifying this water, but even the filter does not remove the poison, for water of the kind possesses a character may pass through the filter and become clear, yet the poison disease germs remain.

They also have known that they must be removed at regular periods, for even though they do not take out all the impurity, they soon become foul.

Now in the matter the human kidneys act as a filter for the blood, and if they are filled up with impurities also become foul, like the filter, all the blood in the system coursing through them becomes foul, and, as it is a recognized fact that the kidneys are the chief purifiers of the blood, when they get out of order and filled with thousands of deleterious refuse which drain the impurities from the blood, as the sewer pipes drain impurities from our houses.

If a sewer pipe breaks under the house, the sewage escapes into the earth and fills the house with poisonous gas; so if any of the thousand and one little hair-like sewer tubes of the kidneys break down, the entire body is affected by the awful poison.

Now, when the kidneys have become foul, for nerves of sensation, and, consequently, disease may exist in these organs for a long time and not be suspected by the sufferer. It is impossible to filter or take the death out of the blood when the kidneys become foul, as acute disease; particularly if resulting from Bright's disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Dropsy, Swelling, Stone in the Bladder, Kidney Complaint, Urinary Difficulties, Pain in the Back, Loins, Groins, Bladder, Prostrations, Nervous Prostration, Sleeplessness, Nervous Headache, Female Weakness, Dizziness, Constipation, Piles, Blood Impurities, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dropsy, Malaria, Chills and Fever, Nervous Debility, Gravel

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dadoes, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. Jas. Conway
First Vice President—Mrs. I. T. Waterman.
Second Vice President—Mrs. G. W. Jolliffe.
Third Vice President—Mrs. Chas. Sea.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. L. E. Hodge.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. J. A. Hawkins.
Treasurer—Mrs. L. Benson.

Truth is a Nut Shell.

Let us consider some things that we all know to be true.

1. The liquor business does no good; nobody claims that it does.

2. It does infinite harm; no honest man who is informed denies that it does.

3. It costs much money to those who make nothing out of it; you people who pay its "expense accounts" ought to understand this.

4. It endangers peace; this is matter of daily observation.

5. It corrupts morals; look around you.

6. It fosters crime; consult the records of your courts, visit your prisons, inspect your chain-gangs.

7. It poisons politics; recall your elections.

8. It destroys religion; ask your pastors.

We are told—Prohibition don't prohibit. This argument is advanced with an air of triumph. If prohibition don't prohibit, why are these men moving hell and earth to defeat prohibition? Why does the liquor power spend its thousands of dollars and its floods of liquor when an election comes on?

It is an argument against all criminal laws. None of them prohibit absolutely. You have laws against murder and you hang murderers, but murders are committed. You have laws against burglary, against arson, against seduction, against rape, and against all manner of crimes, but these crimes are committed. Shall we then repeal these laws? Nay; law does prohibit, and law is one of God's potent agencies for educating the human race in the principles and the habits of virtue.—A. G. Haygood, D. D.

Loyal Legion.

Remember the Loyal Legion next Saturday at Green's hall; 3 o'clock is the hour; don't fail to be present, for the meetings are growing in interest every week, and if you want any of the honors of making the society a success, come as soon as possible, for if you wait long it will succeed without you. Come and take a hand in this department of the prohibition army.

On April 9 the Loyal Legion will give an entertainment in the opera hall, consisting of a parody on mother goose melodies. Come out and see the old women who lived in the shoe, and her little family.

COMMUNICATIONS.

All articles under this head must bear the name of the writer, who alone is responsible for the statements made.

Does Prohibition Prohibit?

Some of the reasons why every member should use all her energies to help the temperance cause. Let us examine the subject from every side, so as to be sure that the end we wish so much to accomplish is right, pure and good for the people. The prohibitory law was enacted in the state of Maine in 1851, and, with slight modifications, remains on the statute books to-day. Those opposing the law succeeded in omitting the most stringent license laws ever known. This continued in force only two years, when, in 1855, the present law was adopted by a majority of 25,000. That is certainly very emphatic; to us, dear sisters of the Union, it is as do all we can and not worry in this noble work. Those who opposed prohibition only succeeded in arousing these temperance workers to stronger action, which resulted in better enforcing those laws. Some say that this law will not be productive of as much good as represented by the W. C. T. U. Let us again refer to the facts as given by the governor of that state. The number of crimes committed in 1846 is given as 1,216, while in 1870 the number had fallen to 431; the number of paupers in 1860, 8,946; 1870, 4,619, showing that, although the population had increased, pauperism and crime had diminished. The favorable policy of prohibition are manifest to the most casual observer. The opposition to it presents in appearance a strength it does not possess, and then the most effective argument in favor of prohibition is the bitter and unrelenting opposition of those in the liquor business. So, dear sisters, let us stick right to the fight, and be ever on the alert to find the work laid out for us to do and then do it. I often think what right a law has to condemn a drunkard when that very law permits the legitimate sale of spirituous liquor. Any voter that agrees to the sale of spirituous liquor is to a certain extent a party to any drunkard's crime. Just think of it in this disgusting and criminal light, and then reflect how much of it is to be nourish pauperism, crime, and to make homes desolate. I would prepare to further carry on this good work asking our young ladies to sign a paper stating that they will not accept the company of any young man that drinks intoxicating liquor, plays cards, or uses profane language. A young man may give a defiant toss of his head and say, I will not be governed by any such puritanical idea, but dear young ladies you have all the power, only keep purity on your side. You have a right to demand total abstinence for total abstinence, purity for purity, and say you cannot have your best glass and have me, you cannot kiss your sister or wife and then visit me. You have this right, dear young ladies. Now let us be a Union in spirit, in heart, in action, with charity for all and malice toward none, asking God first and then others to help in this great struggle. MRS. R. L. ALLEN.

Ironton W. C. T. U.

Ironton, March 9, 1887.

"NEARLY CRAZED with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has strength wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merits.

Mrs. C. W. Brown, No. 143 Sixth St., Milwaukee, Wis., says: "My daughter was first taken with what seemed to be nothing but ordinary stiff neck. I treated her with the usual remedies in such cases, but the disease seemed to spread very quickly over the whole body, giving her the most excruciating pains, which seemed almost beyond endurance even for a short time, causing her to scream violently. I at once sent for a physician, and he pronounced it a very bad form of inflammatory rheumatism; he endeavored to give her relief from this terrible agony but could not. The disease was steadily growing worse, she began to feel it around the heart, this being the vital part, and fearing the child would die before we could get her some relief, I said, doctor, I am not satisfied, this child must have relief at once or she will die, she cannot stand this torture long. I at once sent for a bottle of Athlophoros and to my utter surprise after giving her eight teaspoonfuls she had relief, and in two days' time she was up and around and did not suffer a pain. All I used was one bottle. It saved my child's life."

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney complaints, indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the ninth day of February A. D. 1886, executed by Samuel Owen (as unmarried man) to Walter F. Brown, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, in Liber 61, of mortgages, on page 500, on the twelfth day of March, A. D. 1886, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon, and the same is now owned by the said mortgagee. And whereas the said mortgagee as owner thereof doth exercise the option to him therein given, and declare the whole of the said principal sum secured by said mortgage to be immediately due and payable, and whereas the said mortgagee claims the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars to be an attorney fee, provided for in said mortgage, and the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars to be an attorney fee, provided by law as the foreclosure thereof will be a suit at law or in equity, and the sum of Ninety two dollars and twenty nine cents ($92.29) and the further sum of twenty nine dollars and ninety four cents ($29.94) to become due on the ninth day of May next, and the further sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) provided by law as an attorney fee, in case foreclosure by advertisement and no action at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in the said mortgage has become operative; therefore notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House at the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the 15th day of April, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, which said premises are covered by said mortgage as follows, to wit: The northeast (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty one (21), in township thirty four (34) north, of range ten (10) west, lying in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and containing one (40) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 8th, A. D. 1887.

WALTER F. BROWN,
Mortgagee.

CRUTCHSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Wilkins and Ira Wilkins, on the 8th day of March, A. D. 1886, executed a mortgage to Jane H. Hipp to secure Six Hundred and Fifty Dollars, payable in three years from the date of said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, in Liber 61 of mortgages, on page 414, on the 8th day of March, 1886, and whereas the said mortgage has been duly assigned by said William H. Hipp to said Jane Hipp, by assignment, dated the 2d day of January, A. D. 1886, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Charlevoix, on the 4th day of February, A. D. 1886, in Liber 10 of mortgages, on page 9, and the same is now owned by the said Walter J. Hipp; and whereas there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage and the notes secured thereby, the sum of Twenty Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents (25 25) for an attorney fee, provided by law on the foreclosure of said mortgage by advertisement, and the sum of Twenty Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents, due on said mortgage at the date of this notice, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining unpaid and secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale has become operative; therefore notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), in township thirty-three (33) north, of range ten (10) west, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 23rd day of May, A. D. 1887, at 12 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dated February 10, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUTCHSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage dated the twelfth day of April, A. D. 1886, executed by Orlando Gaskill to Jane Gaskill, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 22d day of October, 1886, in Liber 7 of mortgages, on page 75, which said mortgage by him, and by mesne assignments, is now exercising the option to him therein given, and declare the whole of the principal sum secured by said mortgage to be immediately due and payable, and whereas the said mortgagee claims the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars to be an attorney fee, provided by law on the foreclosure of said mortgage by advertisement, and the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents, due on said mortgage at the date of this notice, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining unpaid and secured on said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale has become operative; therefore notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), in township thirty-three (33) north, of range ten (10) west, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 23rd day of May, A. D. 1887, at 12 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dated February 10, A. D. 1887.

MARY J. SWETLAND,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage executed by Hubbard D. Stevens and Harriet Stevens his wife, dated November 16th, A. D. 1885, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 22d day of November, A. D. 1885, in liber 6 of mortgages, on page 275, which said mortgage has been duly assigned to Harry J. Haven, which said assignment is duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for said county of Charlevoix county, and is now owned by the said Harry J. Haven; which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of the sum of One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, and the interest thereon, to be paid on the first day of December, twenty-eighth, A. D. 1887, and whereas default has been made in the payment of said installment of principal, or of any part thereof, and the sum of Twenty Five Dollars is now payable, and which said sum remains unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, the principal sum together with all arrearages of interest thereon shall, at the option of the said obligee or her assigns, become due and payable immediately thereafter; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the installment of principal and interest due on the day when the same became due; and whereas said installment and interest has remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, and the said Harry J. Haven, mortgagee, does hereby declare the principal sum and then hereto elect to have the principal sum secured by said mortgage and all interest thereon, become now due and payable, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; and whereas there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage and the notes secured by said mortgage and bills accompanying the same, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Thousand Seven Hundred and Twenty-One Dollars, ($2,721) principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the said mortgage debt or any part thereof; now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises hereinbe described. Notice is therefore hereby given that on the Ninth Day of April, A. D 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage with the costs and expenses of sale and of a reasonable attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, which said premises are covered by said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the northeast quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), in township thirty-four (34) north, of range four west, in said county, (the same being the premises in which the mortgagee is the owner of the court house) where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon, June 16th, 1887.

Dated March 16, 1887.

CHARLES E. PRATT,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. C. BARNUM,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage,
Petoskey, Mich.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription, used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY is complete without the monthly visits of Bairnsfeed, that delight, comfort and aid of the mother. Only publication in the world devoted to the care of young children. We are glad to recommend it. (5 tickets—N. Y.) $1.50 a year; 15 cents a

FOR MAN AND BEAST!

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES

Sciatica,	Scratches,	Contracted
Lumbago,	Sprains,	Muscles,
Rheumatism,	Strains,	Eruption,
Burns,	Stiffness,	Roof Ail,
Scalds,	Stiff Joints,	Worms,
Stings,	Backache,	Swinney,
Bites,	Galls,	Saddle Galls,
Bruises,	Sores,	Piles.
Bruises,	Spavin
Corns,	Cracks.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY

accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a condition.

The Lumberman needs it in case of accident.

The Housewife needs it for general family use.

The Farmer needs it for man and beast.

The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.

The Miner needs it in case of emergency.

The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it.

The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard.

The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply for self and sailors.

The Horse-trader needs it—it is his best friend and silent partner.

The Stock-grower needs it—it will save his thousands of dollars and a world of care.

The Railroad man needs it and will need it so long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.

The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing else in an emergency for the dangers he delights and comfort which surround the pioneer.

The Merchant needs it about his store among his employes. Accidents will happen, and when they happen the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.

Keep a Bottle in the House.'Tis the best of economy.

Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Intermittent use of accidents saves much suffering and loss.

Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

These celebrated Organs are unrivalled for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combinations, artistic design and the most attractive cases. Intending purchasers, making them the most attractive, economical and durable organs for lodges, schools churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES. SKILLED WORKMEN. BEST MATERIAL. CONSTANTLY MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, mention this paper.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

THIS PAPER is on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts can be made for it in New York.

LEAVE YOUR ORDER FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

COMPOUND OXYGEN AND DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN'S A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT

A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU.

FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic Diseases.

Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN have the liberty to refer to the following-named well-known persons who speak for their Treatment: Hon. William Lloyd Garrison, Mass.; Hon. Wm. Mutchler, Member of Congress, Penna.; Rev. Wm. L. Gerard, Editor Lutheran Observer, Md.; Rev. Dr. Cummins, Lockport, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge M. F. Vroman, Carson City, Nev.; Rev. Abram Crouse, Dayton, Ohio.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN"—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS," is the title of a book of two hundred pages, by Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to the nature, properties, and uses of Compound Oxygen. A record of cures in every section of the country, many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians, is included. It will be sent free to any address by the Drs. Starkey and Palen, 1527 and 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, the drugs, liquids, medicines, will do their work in a more speedy manner than by any other mode of treatment. Its mission is to cure the sick by its vitalizing influence upon the organs of digestion, both nervous and physical, as well as upon the blood and the nervous system. It does not act on the organs, and then cease to act, but it goes on and does its work thoroughly and completely.

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 194. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUTCHSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Bates Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

ROBT. A. GRIER.

ROBT. A. GRIER, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

DAVID W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. E. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

E. M. BARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services and Sunday school at 3.30 p. m., every Sunday afternoon at W. F. Brown's, corner of Bridge and Clinton streets.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Sunday services 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Seats free. All welcome. W. H. MCCANTHY, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening, at 7.30 o'clock. A. T. WATKINS, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Seats free. All welcome. W. H. CLARKE, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Weed's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office Town block, Lake Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. FRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public. Real Estate, Loans, Fire and Life Insurance Agt. Office Bridge St.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. R.—Harbor Point Nest No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge, No. 295, meets every Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 380, meets every Wednesday evening at Round Lake.

I. O. O. F.—Resort Nest No. 138, meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. L.—True Blue No. 157, meets Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard's school house.

K. O. T. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 265, meets M. Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Commander. W. A. BROWN, Keeper of the Records.

Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix

Organized under the State Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett,	O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls,	A. Buttars,
A. L. Pinney,	A. Fox,
	F. A. Smith, Cashier.

CAPITAL $83,000
Surplus 2,000

The liability of Stockholders is all stockholders as provided in Act 374, Sec. 49 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan. We decide the interest of stock taken, making a guaranteed capital of $166,000 with the security of the property belonging to the individual property of the stockholders of Banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money received on deposit subject to sight draft. Gold and silver bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK ..... NEW YORK.
NORTHWESTERN NAT. BANK ..... CHICAGO.
FIRST NATIONAL CITY BANK ..... GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK ..... DETROIT.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. D. JERSUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 75

1872. 1887

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

ADVERTISEMENTS of three lines or less will be inserted in this column for each insertion. (This type will average seven words to a line.) Each additional line, three cents each insertion.

TEN CENTS

JOB PRINTING of every description executed promptly, neatly, artistically, and cheaply, at the JOURNAL office.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL office.

PONY, BUGGY AND CUTTER for sale cheap. Inquire of G. W. CROUTER. 1867

TO RENT.—Two very pleasant offices over the bank of Charlevoix. tf

100 GOOD WHITE BRICK for sale.—Inquire at this office.

Terrace Farm

J. R. & J. S. DIXON
Charlevoix, Mich.

Dairy, Vegetable and Stock Farm. THOROUGHBRED and Grade HOLSTEINS a specialty

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades, WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

Millinery And Fancy Goods!

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Embroideries, Notions and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

Smith & Cooper,

At the Ingleside.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the cheapest, best and most improved Watches manufactured.

Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Bridge St., - - Charlevoix.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Buttars,
A. L. Pinney, A. Fox,
F. A. Smith.

CAPITAL $83,000
Surplus 2,000

The liability of Stockholders is all stockholders as provided in Act 374, Sec. 49 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan. We decide the interest of stock taken, making a guaranteed capital of $166,000 with the security of the property belonging to the individual property of the stockholders of Banking business extended to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money received on deposit subject to sight draft. Gold and silver bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL PARK BANK ..... NEW YORK.
NORTHWESTERN NAT. BANK ..... CHICAGO.
FIRST NATIONAL CITY BANK ..... GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK ..... DETROIT.

Daily Mail

AND

Stage Line TO EAST JORDAN.

During the coming winter, Burns & Scroggie, as sub-contractors for F. J. Smith, will carry the mail between Charlevoix and East Jordan, leaving Charlevoix at 7 o'clock, arriving at East Jordan by noon. Returning, leaving at East Jordan at 1 o'clock p. m., arriving at Charlevoix at 6 o'clock p. m. Passengers and baggage carried at low rates.

BURNS & SCROGGIE.
Charlevoix Mich.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts. Express office and head quarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

Around the County.

Wilson.

"Old Thermom" goes 9 or 10 below zero now a-nights.

Mr. Geo. Bowen has a new organ which is reported to be a first class article.

Stormy on Sunday last, but overslept came out to Sunday-school in disguise No. 3.

They are sawing cedar ties part of the time at the saw-mill while the tie mill is sawing lumber.

At the caucus held last Saturday, Geo. Bailey for supervisor, Mr. Mills for clerk, and Mr. S. Richardson for treasurer received nominations.

School closes with an exhibition on Friday evening, April 8. 5 cents admission. Everybody is welcome. Come all and give the teacher and pupils a full house and encourage their laudable efforts.

Elder Tracy held religious services week before last three evenings, and closed. He organized a M. P. class. Elder May, of South Arm preached and administered sacrament on Sunday evening. The home was crowded.

At the residence of Cris Cook, father of the bridegroom, Mr. Bert Cook and Miss Augusta, daughter of the late John Knuttle of this township, Sympathetic congratulations—no, no,—we mean congratulatory sympathy is now in order. But joking aside, may they enjoy together a long and prosperous life.

Now is the time for spring poetry,—bleating of lambs, singing of birds, etc., but the song freezes in their throats.

Mrs. Wm. Wilks, familiarly known as "Grandma Wilks," aged eighty-nine, died at the residence of her son J. T., in Jordan township, on March 16th. She was a native of New Brunswick. After losing her husband in '49, she brought her large family to Lapeer county in '58, thence to Clinton county. Later to Antrim county, and the last thirteen years of her life were spent in Jordan. She was a member of the Baptist denomination. She leaves several children, grand children and great grand children. Services were held by Elder Thurston, after which a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives followed her to her last resting place. "Like a shock of wheat fully ripened, she was gathered into the heavenly garner, at the time she knew her loved ones to that blest clime."

Burgess.

Another stormy Sunday, for the last Sunday in March.

Mr. Peter Kane's folks were visiting at Jud Sunsby's, last Sunday.

Mrs. Willett C. Arnold, who has been visiting relatives in Cadillac, returned home last Friday.

Mr. Clark who has been living on Dr. Lewis' place this winter returned to Charlevoix last Tuesday.

Loren Hamlin's flock of sheep a little more than doubled last week, the last month. Who says that sheep don't pay?

Oscar Tillotson is finishing the unexpired term of town clerk, occasioned by the removal of Wm. Grey to Charlevoix.

Moses Cooper has posts and ties in large quantities, besides logs and tamarac piles, that are evidence of a busy winter for him.

"The marvelous growth" of the population of Hayes was increased by one last week, by the arrival of a little at girl Dean Scroggie's.

Real estate has commenced to change hands in this town. Alex. Ross sold the west ½ of the north-east ¼ of section 22 to Albert Norman. Consideration $500.

Mr. Chas. Sheldon, of Ohio, who has been visiting at I. S. Webster's has concluded to remain in Michigan, and has moved on to Morell Long's place in Evangeline.

The exhibition at the close of the school in District No. 6 speaks well for the management of the teacher, Miss Cora Chew, who we understand is engaged to teach the summer term.

J. A. Bacot, is pushing his residence to completion as fast as possible. When it is completed and the out-building finished he will have a comodious and beautiful place to live. March 29.

Eveline.

Next Saturday is registration day. Register.

Next Monday is election. Turn out boys.

Dan McDonald returned home last week from Alpena.

The township board met at district No. 3, last Tuesday.

The canvass passed off quietly. Nearly all are in favor of the old officers.

There was an exhibition at the close of the Ironton school last Friday afternoon, and a good time was had, we are unable to give the particulars this week.

The winter term of school at Ironton closed last Friday. One of the teachers, Mr. J. M. Harris we understand, has gone to Ionia. He started on Friday evening. We suppose he's gone to Seymour. Watch for the cigars when he returns, boys.

Mr. I. S. Webster, of Hayes, was in town last week. He is agent for Edwin Louderback & Co.'s combination tool,—nine useful articles combined in one,—which beats anything of the kind we have ever had the opportunity to see. Mr. Webster spent the night at the home of ye scribe. He is well known to many of our old settlers. Call again.

March 29.

Harnard.

A young daughter arrived at Mr. Bogart's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Mills left for Canada on Tuesday, to visit relatives.

School closes Friday, for a month vacation.

The men are still busy at the wood and tie business.

Report of Charlevoix Schools for the Month ending March 25, 1887.

NUMBER ENROLLED.

First department,	41
Second department,	41
Third department,	41
Fourth department,	43
Fifth department, grammar section,	34
Fifth department, high school,	36
Total,	236

NUMBER BELONGING.

First department,	38
Second department,	43
Third department,	36
Fourth department,	39
Fifth department, grammar section,	29
Fifth department, high school,	32
Total,	217

DAYS ATTENDANCE.

First department,	6274½
Second department,	730
Third department,	680½
Fourth department,	737
Fifth department, grammar section,	596½
Fifth department, high school,	612
Total,	4,930½

DAYS LOST BY ABSENCE.

First department,	695½
Second department,	77
Third department,	79
Fourth department,	78
Fifth department, grammar section,	26
Fifth department, high school,	104
Total,	1060½

AVERAGE ATTENDANCE.

First department,	31.3
Second department,	34.4
Third department,	34.1
Fourth department,	37.1
Fifth department, grammar section,	29.8
Fifth department, high school,	30.6
Total,	201.3

ATTENDANCE, PER CENT OF NUMBER BELONGING.

First department,	94.4
Second department,	93.7
Third department,	97.4
Fourth department,	97
Fifth department, grammar section,	97.9
Fifth department, high school,	94.4
Total,	95.3

CASES TARDY.

First department,	18
Second department,	15
Third department,	12
Fourth department,	8
Fifth department, grammar section,	19
Fifth department, high school,	12
Total,	84

NUMBER OF PUPILS NEITHER ABSENT NOR TARDY DURING THIS MONTH.

First department,	14
Second department,	18
Third department,	19
Fourth department,	17
Fifth department, grammar section,	10
Fifth department, high school,	12
Total,	90

SUMMARY FOR WINTER TERM.

Total number enrolled	236
Average number belonging	216
Days attendance	11,206
Days lost by absence	696
Average attendance	201
Cases Tardy	84
Attendance and punctuality, per cent	96½

The following named pupils have been neither absent nor tardy for the entire term:

First department,—Mattie Brink, Edith Lamoreaux.

Second department,—Katie Kirkpatrick, Hiram Ross, Alta Brink.

Third department,—Frank Geihen, Gertrude Myers, Lillie Newman, Walter Krebs, Harvey Lawrence, Mabel Green, Wallace Newman.

Fourth department,—Winifred Barholomew, Lillian Eaton, Clifford Atchison, Edward Widdifield, Aggie Lawrence, Chloe McCartney, Eva Swain, Mary Tulloch, Emma Lamphear, Alfred Thompson.

Fifth department, grammar section,—Geo. Newman, Lewis Thomson, Geo. Metcalf, Wm. F. Lewis, Geo. McCartney, Aggie Kirkpatrick, Clara Cyright.

High school,—Luna Washburn, Blanch Bartholomew, Edith Mason, Clinton Whitmoyer, Fred M. Green, Pearl Dart, Ralph Washburn, Herbert Sea, Charles Nettleton, Edward Stewart.

CHARLES H. CAMP.

It is said that a prophet is not without honor save in his country and among his own kindred. The adage, when applied to the soldier, is not altogether true. He is certain of honor among the old comrades who have shared with him the dangers of the campaign and at his old home that he has honored by his bravery and self-sacrifice. The extracts which we publish below from the Veterans' Advocate of Concord, New Hampshire, are an illustration of this common feeling. The writers had the best possible opportunity of judging of Mr. Camp's qualifications as a soldier, and they speak of him in the highest terms. They are mistaken, however, when they intimate that he was put in nomination for judge of the supreme court because of his record as a soldier. He was not nominated for that high and important office because twenty five years ago he did a soldier's duty at the front, but because he has made a record since the war that shows he can serve his state and the people in the

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Charles F. Freeman, of Sandwich, Mass., who in May, 1879, murdered his child, claiming that the act was performed in accordance with commands from heaven, will be discharged from an insane asylum, whither he was sent on a verdict of a jury.

Lawton Bros., New York, dealers in phosphates, are in trouble. The Sheriff seized their establishment under attachments issued on creditors' claims amounting to $265,000. It is alleged that W. E. Lawton, the surviving member of the firm, has disappeared, and that his liabilities are $1,000,000.

The father of General Daniel E. Sickles died in his home at New Rochelle, N. Y.

Six dead bodies were taken from the hotel ruins at Buffalo. Five persons are dead or missing and twenty-one injured. Henry H. Rumsey, whose family lives at Fort Wayne, Ind., was among the killed, and he came to his death by boldly attempting to rescue a little girl from the flames. The overhead wires in the streets prevented the fire department from working effectively and led to the loss of life, as at a meeting of citizens it was determined that all wires would have to be put underground.

Rufus Y. Kirkland, the confidential associate of Nelson E. Lawton, the fugitive embezzler of New York, has also disappeared. It is supposed that Lawton took with him one of two wealthy widows, to whom he was recently paying his addresses.

The New York Graphic says that the National Opera Company is on the verge of dissolution, and wonders who is going to settle the debts of the American or National Opera Company, whose stupendous extravagance, recklessness, and inefficiency exceed anything ever known in the history of theatrical management.

During a game of base-ball last June at the Polo Grounds at New York James S. Dolan was struck in the right eye by a foul ball, and the sight destroyed. Dolan has sued the Metropolitan Exposition Company for $25,000 damages.

A year ago, at New Bedford, Mass., the tendons in one of Edward K. Russell's legs were severed by accident. The tendons from a dog were placed in Russell's limb and so led with the several tendons. For ten or fifteen days the patient remained so that the injured member, but has now resumed work, the operation having proved a complete success.

WESTERN.

A third gas well has been developed at Marion, Ind., at a depth of 910 feet. The contractor reports the volume of illuminating material the strongest of the one hundred wells he has drilled. Its roar is like that of an express train.

Oscar Cook, who was involved in the "Jim Cummings" suppose robbery of the St. Louis and San Francisco Road, has been sentenced at Independence, Mo., to three years' imprisonment.

St. Louis has been designated by the Acting Secretary of the Treasury as a central reserve city for national banks, under the act passed at the last session of Congress.

The arguments in the anarchists' case at Ottawa, Ill., were concluded on the 11th inst., Attorney-General Hunt closing for the State, and Captain Black making the final address for the defense. The matter was taken under advisement.

"One-Ear" Dodge, a desperado and Indian-fighter, has hanged by vigilantes near Lordsburg, New Mexico. For a long time past the southern part of the Territory has been infested with a gang of desperadoes, who made life and property unsafe, and the chief of the gang was "One-Ear." Dodge was fond of calling himself "a bad man," and excited respect and drinks from teaderfeet at the point of the pistol. About a year ago Dodge tried the same game on a cowboy, who pulled a bowie-knife and lopped off the right ear of Dodge, giving him the name of "One-Ear" Dodge.

A fire at Mankato, Minn., damaged the barrel and tub factory of Charles March to the amount of $80,000.

The Mormons sent from Idaho to the Detroit House of Correction on cumulative sentences were released by Judge Brown, in accordance with a recent decision by the Federal Supreme Court.

Winter wheat prospects in twenty-five Illinois counties are reported favorable, and the general outlook in Missouri and Wisconsin is promising. The situation in Kansas is improved. Wheat in some portions of Michigan is in bad condition.

Under the provisions of the recent act of Congress in regard to national banks, Kansas City has been made a reserve city.

SOUTHERN.

In the prohibition county of Rock Castle, Ky., a band of masked men took from her house Eliza Fish, aged 70, and began whipping her. Suddenly shots were fired and three of the knights fell dead. The woman pressed in selling liquor, notwithstanding that she had been warned several times to stop the traffic, resulting in the fatal visit of the vigilantes.

A San Antonio (Texas) dispatch says that William [illegible] employed by Henry Mallon, a well-known Dickman and contractor of that city, demanded money of Mallon at a saloon camp near Boerne. Mallon told him to wait until Saturday, whereupon Stone shot him dead. Two Mexicans in the camp attempted to arrest the murderer, and Stone shot and killed both of them. Stone is at large. If caught he will be lynched.

Summerville, S. C., was shaken Friday evening by the heaviest earthquake shock felt there in the last two months. It caused some excitement.

A mob of masked men surrounded the County Jail at Troy, Tenn., and demanded admission of the Sheriff. Being refused, they broke down the outside door, went to the room of the jailer, and, breaking down his room door, demanded the keys of the cells at the muzzles of pistols and guns. Compelling him to unlock the doors, they took out a negro murderer named William Hardy, and hanged him to a tree one and one-half miles north of town.

An explosion in the United Oil Company's works at Baltimore caused the death of four persons.

Eastern capitalists have organized a company to work the recently discovered goldfields in Arkansas.

WASHINGTON.

C. H. J. Taylor, of Kansas, has been appointed Minister to Liberia.

The Navy Department is about to begin the preparation plans for the two 1,700-ton gunboats for which provision was made by the last Congress.

During the week ended March 12 there were received at Washington 6,595 applications for pensions, and 4,525 cases were disposed of during the week, leaving a total of 206,306 cases pending.

President Cleveland was 50 years of age on the 18th of March.

The Secretary of the Treasury sent out a circular setting forth the action of Congress on the fishery question.

The Treasury Department refuses to accept the offer of Sam Francisco to the figure of a dragon 150 feet long, imported from China for use in a park.

President Cleveland appointed as District Attorney George K. Prichett for Nebraska, Emery R. Sellers for Indiana, and Thomas Hayden for Nevada. It is said that W. W. Stewart, of Des Moines, will be given the vacant Revenue Collectorship.

Dr. Z. T. Sowers, one of the most prominent physicians of Washington, says there is danger that President Cleveland will not live through his term unless there is a change in his mode of living. Dr. Sowers, six months before Mr. Manning's illness, made the same prediction with regard to the Secretary.

POLITICAL.

The Republican State Convention of Rhode Island nominated by acclamation all the present incumbents of the State offices from the Governor down for the party candidates. The Hon. George P. Wetmore is the present Governor.

The anti-discrimination railroad bill passed in the Pennsylvania Legislature by a vote of 30 to 4.

D. Lynch Pringle, of South Carolina, has been commissioned by the President to be Consul General of the United States at Constantinople.

The Missouri Senate defeated the bill for the regulation of railroads which had been passed by the House.

The special committee of the Nebraska Assembly appointed to investigate the charges preferred by Edward Rosewater, editor of the Omaha Bee, against several members of that body has reported that the charges were unfounded. The report was sustained, and resolutions were adopted conferring immunity and vindicating him from the privileges of the floor during the remainder of the session.

The Governor of Missouri will soon call an extra session of the Legislature to pass laws to enforce the constitutional provisions in reference to railroads.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The demand of the Chicago Typographical Union for 40 cents per 1,000 ems for work and work by measure, instead of 35 as heretofore, is to be resisted by the employers. An expected strike or lockout was thus averted.

The twenty-four coal-miners imprisoned in the Pittsburgh workhouse for conspiracy in preventing non-union men from working during the great strike of 1884, have just been released by the Pennsylvania Pardon Board. The men were sentenced to eight months' imprisonment and had served three months.

The striking section hands of the Fort Wayne Railroad were paid off at Pittsburgh and discharged from the service of the company. Their places will be filled by Italians, who will be put to work at once.

The journeymen shoemakers at Toronto, Canada, belonging to the Knights of Labor have demanded an increase of from 10 per cent in wages.

The negro miners who were taken to Peoria to fill the places of the strikers made a demand for an increase of wages, and upon its being refused they struck. They have participated the strike by getting a mouth's provisions from the train stores on credit.

The rubber-workers of New Brunswick and Milltown, N. J., threaten to abandon the Knights of Labor if they are not granted a charter for a national trade council.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has issued instructions that after April 1 the sons of interstate passes will be prohibited, except to officers and employes of the company.

The railroad managers of New England met at Boston and adopted reports of committees regarding questions affecting the roads under the interstate law. Passes and passenger commissions are prohibited.

A company has been incorporated at Springfield, with a capital of $1,500,000, to build a railway from Danville to East St. Louis.

The following action taken by the Western States Passenger Association in session at Chicago, regarding the issue of mileage tickets will be read with interest by commercial travelers and others using such tickets:

WHEREAS, The issue and use of mileage tickets have been demonstrated to be productive of much detriment to the railway companies and liable to much abuse, and many of the tickets issued are not used by persons for whom they were issued, but are disposed of to some of the patrons of railways; therefore, resolved, that we will for the present continue their issue as an experiment upon the following conditions: That each ticket shall be registered, and that the person whose name it shall be referred to, shall be the only one, and shall be nontransferable, and that they shall be sold at a uniform rate of not less than 2½ cents per mile and without rebate. That each book shall be good for 1,000 miles, no more and no less, and that they shall be good for one year from date of sale. Baggage allowance to be the same as for regular travelers.

This is scarcely a concession on the part of the railroads. Between most through points the regular fare is but little if any over 2½ cents per mile, and, consequently, the passenger will save but little by buying thousand-mile tickets.

On what is claimed to be the very best authority, the Salt-more American states that the railroad deal is an accomplished fact; that Garrett will retain the management; and that Gould will have no hand in the arrangement.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Jose Sevilla, who died recently in Lima, Peru, left $535,000 for the education of poor school children in his native city.

Kidnaping on a wholesale scale is being carried on at Guira, in Vanilla Anjan, Mo., the kidnaped persons being taken out only on the payment of ransom.

The committee of arrangements of the National G. A. R. encampment, to be held at St. Louis next September, have sent a cordial invitation to President Cleveland and his wife to be present and share in the festivities.

The Cotton-Seed Oil Company recently organized in New Orleans has made contracts for machinery for eight mills, to cost $200,000.

Disappointed spectators at a bullfight at San Rafael, Mexico, attacked the performers. The mob was dispersed by armed authorities, but not before several were shot. Many persons were hurt.

In Buffalo, early Friday morning, flames broke out in the Richmond Hotel, containing 175 persons. Not less than twenty lives were lost, and about thirty persons were injured by fissures or by leaping from windows. St. James Hall, adjoining the hotel, was also burned. The total loss is estimated at $250,000. The business section of Rock Hill, S. C., was almost wiped out by fire. The loss is $120,000, with about $180,000 insurance. The Durham distillery at Covington, Ky., with 2,000 barrels of bonded whisky, was also destroyed, and one employe fatally injured. Two stores at Flint, Mich., were burned by fire. Mrs. Burrell (colored) was suffocated, and his daughter dangerously injured by leaping from a window.

The first grand Scandinavian sangerfest in America will take place in Philadelphia, commencing on the 22d of March, in honor of the Emperor's ninetieth birthday, and at noon a royal salute of 101 guns was fired. The students' procession past the imperial palace required several hundred carriages. Banquets and balls are arranged for the evening, said by the German Ambassador.

Prince Bismarck has assured the Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria-Hungary that Germany's foreign policy is pacific, that the relations between the two Empires are the cause for disquietude in either the East or West.

The Republicans of Cincinnati have nominated Amor Smith, Jr., for Mayor, and Judge T. W. Moore for Judge of the Superior Court.

It is stated that Commissioner of Patents Montgomery will be appointed Judge of the District Court of the District of Columbia.

Col. Lamont says that the fears recently expressed by Dr. Sowers as to the health of President Cleveland are groundless, Cleveland's family and intimate friends.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett, the actor, has married his intended, Colonel Duprez, by paying suit for $50,000 damages for malicious prosecution against the President of the American Exchange, its Directors, and General Manager.

LET our prayers, like the ancient sacrifices, be burnt offerings of an entire king. Let our days begin and end with God.—Bishop Hall.

A DROP of ink may make a million think.—Byron.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	$4.90 @ 5.00
HOGS	5.30 @ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 1 White	90½ @ .91
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	90 @ .90½
CORN—No. 2	.47 @ .47½
OATS—White	.36 @ .42
PORK—New Mess	10.25 @ 10.75
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice Steers	5.25 @ 5.75
HOGS—Shipping Grades	5.00 @ 5.25
CORN—No. 2	3.50 @ 4.00
FLOUR—Extra Spring	4.25 @ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.87 @ .88
CORN—No. 2	.36 @ .36½
OATS—No. 2	.26 @ .26½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.25 @ .26
" —Fine Dairy	.19 @ .20
CHEESE—Full Cream	10 @ .10½
" —Full Cream, new	.12 @ .12½
EGGS—Fresh	.12 @ .12½
POTATOES—Choice, per bu	.60 @ .65
PORK—Mess	10.00 @10.25
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.76 @ .77
WHEAT—May	.79 @ .79½
CORN—No. 3	.37 @ .37½
RYE—No. 1	.56 @ .57
BARLEY—No. 2	.62 @ .63
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Cash	.81½@ .82
CORN—Cash	.39 @ .40
OATS	.27 @ .27½
DETROIT.
BEEF CATTLE	4.00 @ 5.25
HOGS	5.00 @ 5.25
SHEEP	4.25 @ 5.50
WHEAT—Michigan Red	.90 @ .91
CORN—Mixed	.39 @ .40
OATS—White	.36 @ .37
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2	.79½@ .80
CORN—No. 2	.36½@ .37
OATS—Mixed	.25 @ .26
PORK	10.00 @10.25
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.92 @ .93
CORN—No. 2	.39½@ .40
OATS—No. 2	.29½@ .30½
PORK—Mess	10.25 @10.50
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.92 @ .93
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.46 @ .47
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEF CATTLE	3.75 @ 5.25
HOGS	5.00 @ 5.25
SHEEP	3.00 @ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.88 @ .89
CORN—No. 2	.36 @ .36½
OATS	.26 @ .26½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	5.00 @ 5.50
" —Common	4.00 @ 4.50
HOGS	5.00 @ 5.40
SHEEP	4.00 @ 5.25

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

Willie Sells, the 16-year-old boy now in the Kansas Penitentiary under sentence of death, has confessed to the killing of his father, mother, brother, and sister as charged.

John A. Logan, Jr., and Miss Edith Andrews were married at Youngstown, Ohio, and soon afterward left for Florida. The bride's father gave the young couple a check for $50,000, and her uncle presented government bonds of the same value.

The Supreme Court of Illinois has reversed the judgment of the Appellate Court in the matter of the last will of Wilbur F. Storey, and remanded the case to the Circuit Court with directions to set aside an order probating the alleged will and sustain the motion of Mary E. Parrasd to dismiss her appeal at her costs.

George S. Bailey, the Labor Representative from East St. Louis in the Illinois Legislature, was shot at by an unknown person at Springfield, Ill. The ball penetrated two coats, a pamphlet, a lead-pencil and a lock of miles, and was finally stopped by the cover of a book memorandum book. It is intimated that Bailey's condemnation of certain legislators for attending Mrs. Nesbe's funeral at Chicago led to the attempt to assassinate.

After six weeks' casting about, says a Washington dispatch, the President has announced the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission as follows: Thomas M. Cooley of Michigan, Republican, aged 61 years. William R. Morrison of Illinois, Democrat, six years. Augustus Schoonmaker of New York, Democrat, four years. Aldace F. Walker of Vermont, Republican, three years. Albert H. Briggs of Alabama, Democrat, two years. The Commission is to choose its own chairman. The surprise was Schoonmaker and Walker. The latter is known to few persons about Washington, but he was once urged for Senator Edmunds's place, and as none of the Massachusetts men whom the President wanted would accept, Walker was taken as a representative, with whom New England would have to be content. Senator Edmunds says that Walker has every qualification for the place—a clear head, experience, excellent training, and common sense. In picking out Schoonmaker the New York people say the President has made a good choice—probably as good as Kernan would have been, though he has not the latter's radical experience.

Berlin was decorated with flags and flowers on the 22d of March, in honor of the Emperor's ninetieth birthday, and at noon a royal salute of 101 guns was fired. The students' procession past the imperial palace required several hundred carriages. Banquets and balls are arranged for the evening, said by the German Ambassador.

Prince Bismarck has assured the Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria-Hungary that Germany's foreign policy is pacific, that the relations between the two Empires are the cause for disquietude in either the East or West.

The Republicans of Cincinnati have nominated Amor Smith, Jr., for Mayor, and Judge T. W. Moore for Judge of the Superior Court.

It is stated that Commissioner of Patents Montgomery will be appointed Judge of the District Court of the District of Columbia.

Col. Lamont says that the fears recently expressed by Dr. Sowers as to the health of President Cleveland are groundless, Cleveland's family and intimate friends.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett, the actor, has married his intended, Colonel Duprez, by paying suit for $50,000 damages for malicious prosecution against the President of the American Exchange, its Directors, and General Manager.

LIVES LOST BY FIRE.

Flames Speedily Destroy the Richmond Hotel and Other Buildings at Buffalo.

Thirty Persons Believed to Have Been Burned to Death, and Many Badly Injured.

[Buffalo special.]

Another calamity has visited Buffalo. The splendid new Richmond Hotel, at the corner of Main and Eagle streets, was totally destroyed by fire early Friday morning, together with St. James Hall and other adjacent property. The more distressful part of the disaster is the loss of several human lives. At this writing it is impossible to say just how many persons are killed and injured, but the number is large. The rapidity of the fire, cutting off all means of escape, led some persons to leap for life from the windows. Others got down the fire-escapes or on Hayes ladders raised by the fire department. The shrieks and cries of the poor people in the upper stories of the burning structure were heartrending. One man, mad with terror, leaped from a third-story window, and was picked up from the stone sidewalk on Main street in a mangled and bleeding corpse. Several who succeeded in making their escape were badly injured and burned, and some of these will probably die. Others, more fortunate, escaped with slight injuries. Many of the wounded were taken to Carney's saloon, and afforded hospitals. Robert Stafford, Sr., proprietor of the hotel, with his wife, occupied rooms on the second floor, and had a narrow escape. Terror overcame everybody, and even those who escaped in safety were in many cases prostrated by their awful experiences. There were 175 persons in the hotel, seventy of whom were paroxysms, guests, eight boarders, and the remainder porters, bell-boys, the families of the proprietors, and clerks. Twenty-two of these were rescued from the window by the firemen, twenty-two are at the hospitals, and a large number made their escape by other means. There is no doubt that at least thirty lives were sacrificed.

The spread of the flames is said to have been frightful in their rapidity. The elevator shaft served as a flue for the flames, and they rushed up to the top floor in a very few moments. As the guests were roused and saw the interior exits cut off they turned to the windows. They could be seen in their night-clothes, standing out clear and vivid before the lurid background of the flames. Their scream were horrible to hear, and they could be heard from blocks. The flames spread to the southeast side of the hotel first. The fresh, old hotel was dry and confined the fire to the narrow limits of the three buildings named. Their work of rescue had many exciting incidents.

Perhaps the most thrilling escape of any ship-building line which is meeting with more success. He speaks very encouraging of the prospects for the future, and says the men will now be kept busy for an indefinite period. The fire was in connection with other orders, has received one from the Government, through the agency of Secretary Whitney. Work on the vessel, which is to make not less than twelve knots an hour, is now in progress.

Charley Cramp, in speaking of dull times, says: "English shipbuilders, when there is a lack of orders, build ahead to be sold to chance purchasers in the future, but we find it better to shut down as soon as the work on hand is completed, but there seems to be no prospect of shutting down, as work usually comes in in time to avoid this." The Cramps came before Roach and if they had located on the banks of the Clyde instead of the Delaware they would have built on a village which would have spread their own name and almost secured three fourths of the trade from the three concerns that have worked in their yards.

SPEAKER CARLISLE.

His Speech at the Banquet of the Bay State Democratic Club.

The Bay State Club, the most important Democratic organization in New England, recently entertained a number of distinguished gentlemen at their annual dinner at the Revere House in Boston. Chief among them was Hon. John G. Carlisle, Speaker of the House of Representatives, who was the orator of the occasion. Dinner over, President Taylor rapped to order, and in a brief speech introduced the principal speaker, Hon. John G. Carlisle, whose chief virtue, he said, was that he had been denounced by Senator Hoar. Mr. Carlisle was greeted with great applause. After expressing his thanks for his cordial reception, he said:

You must permit me to tender the sincere thanks of the Kentucky Democracy, not only for what you have done in the past, but also for what they know you intend to do in the future. You without permit Massachusetts to remain always a Republican State. Old prejudices are passing away. Massachusetts is already moving towards the Democratic position. Will the Bay State Club in front, and your brethr n everywhere begin to see her on the right of the line in 1888.

Gentlemen, it is the very nature of things this country must always be governed by political parties. We need not be ashamed, gentlemen, to be known as a party men. I am honestly believe that the principles and policies represented by the Democratic party are those which are attached will best promote the interests of the nation and the welfare of the people. This is the only true basis for political parties, and any party organized upon a foundation less broad, less patriotic than this will soon degenerate into a mere faction and cease to command or deserve the respect of intelligent citizens. Every attempt to make a single interest or a single class, to the exclusion of all others, the basis of a political organization will fail and ought to fail. From the formation of your Constitution down to the present time the spirit of irreconcilable difference between the Democratic party and all its adversaries has been as to the nature and extent of the Federal powers. The principle of local self-government is the vital part of Democracy. The amendment to the Constitution declares that the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the States are reserved to the States respectively or to the people. No power can be justly claimed unless it is granted in express terms or by necessary implication. If no such grant of power can be found, and if its exercise by the State is not prohibited, it belongs to the State and her people; and this doctrine is not prohibited. The doctrine of State rights is defined in this article. It does not mean the secession or nullification, but it instructs the several States and their people as to the true nature of all legislative, executive, and judicial power not delegated to the United States by a fair and reasonable construction of the Constitution. By this constitutional doctrine of State rights the Democratic party of the country stands to-day, as it always has stood, and as I trust it will stand forever hereafter. Long applause.] Twenty-five years ago the tendency was to carry this doctrine to dangerous extreme. But since that time the dangerous extreme has threatened from quite an opposite direction. Great and powerful interests, too powerful almost to be successfully resisted, are constantly pressing against the barriers of the Constitution and demanding the extension of the Federal power to a degree never contemplated by the most extreme Federalist in the early days. It is quite common now to hear gentlemen, able gentlemen, in Congress and elsewhere, contending for the exercise of power by the Federal Government in particular subjects simply because the States refuse to do so, or because it is thought that the State legislation might not be entirely effective. The argument is that whatever the States will not do, or cannot do, must be done by Congress and the departments of the General Government, and that the exercise of these specific grants of power, it is the right and duty of a government to exercise a general supervision and control over all concerns of the people. Mr. President, this is not the doctrine which I understand it, or if it never was. [Tremendous cheers.] It means centralization first and inevitable dissolution afterward. No part of the Union is so vitally interested in the preservation and the maintenance intact of this local authority as the New England States, and in no part of the Union have the beneficial results attending the maintenance of this doctrine been so thoroughly demonstrated. Your town meeting is the most democratic institution in this country. [Cheers.] It has been engagered the liberties of a single human being. The town, the State, and the General Government all have their appropriate functions, and so long as these are respected and maintained, neither encroaching on the domain of the other, there will be harmony and unity in our complex system of government. Fortunately we have at last been permitted to inaugurate a Democratic administration, and, I am fortunately still, in the administration, by its conservative and patriotic course, by its honest and faithful execution of the law, and by its regard for the rights of all classes of men, has given a resistless assurance that the executive power can be safely trusted to our hands. This country was never better governed than it is now—[cheers]—and it was never more tranquil and contented than it is now. It is true that always until such time as they are not inaugurated by this administration. Many of them have been quietly corrected, and most of those that remain are not under the control of the Secretary of Agriculture, but of Secretary Whitney. Work on the vessel, which is to make not less than twelve knots an hour, is now in progress.

Charley Cramp, in speaking of dull times, says: "English shipbuilders, when there is a lack of orders, build ahead to be sold to chance purchasers in the future, but we find it better to shut down as soon as the work on hand is completed, but there seems to be no prospect of shutting down, as work usually comes in in time to avoid this." The Cramps came before Roach and if they had located on the banks of the Clyde instead of the Delaware they would have built on a village which would have spread their own name and almost secured three fourths of the trade from the three concerns that have worked in their yards.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

AT THE CAPITAL.

LANSING, March 21, 1887.

The business of the two houses for the week has perhaps not been as large in amount of volume as in some other weeks, yet some of it has been in the line of reform, and will, no doubt, result in much benefit to the people of the State. The number of perhaps the greatest importance is that of investigating the life and fire insurance companies, which is ordered.

"GRAVEYARD INSURANCE."

It has been well known for some years that quite a large number of the co-operative assessment life-insurance companies of the State were doing business on the plan of getting all they could from their customers and giving back as little as possible to those who held policies on the lives of their friends and relatives, and early in the session Representative Cross, of Van Buren, who was two years ago and is again this session Chairman of the House Committee on Insurance, began calling upon the several State departments for information on the subject from reports and figures on file there. When he had secured the information he sought he introduced a preamble and resolution calling for a joint committee to investigate the companies. After a long and stormy debate on the 19th the resolution was first defeated, then reconsidered and adopted by a vote of yeas 61 nays 3. This change in sentiment by the House was brought about by Speaker Markey, who took the floor and declared that the resolution was the least he was so well how to make. He told the House that the case of large notes given for life policies the people of the State asked for, that the House should investigate and see if they were doing an illegal and unsafe business. The people had a right to know it—and then the resolutions were adopted.

The preamble and resolutions are as follows:

WHEREAS, The report of the Secretary of State and Commissioner of Insurance, in response to a resolution of the House of Representatives, dated Feb. 18, ult., shows that one hundred and eighty corporations have been organized within this State since March 25, A. D. 1885, for the purpose of insuring the lives of individuals upon the assessment plan against the contingencies of death, accident, and disease; and,

WHEREAS, It further appears by said report that fifty-five only of such corporations have at any time received license from the Insurance Bureau to transact the business of life and accident insurance within this State; and,

WHEREAS, It has been ascertained that quite a large number of such corporations have during the present year filed with the Insurance Bureau their annual statements as required by law; and

WHEREAS, It is believed that much evil and great loss has been brought upon the people of this State by reason of the failure of such corporations, and it is believed that grave frauds and crimes have been committed by some of them, in violation of the provisions of chapter No. 94 of the General Laws of 1885, and by officers and connected therewith; and

WHEREAS, It is claimed that existing statutes are wholly inadequate for the detection and suppression of such frauds and crime; therefore Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That a special committee, consisting of five members from the House and two from the Senate, be appointed, to be known as a committee to investigate life and fire insurance companies, to subpœna and compel the attendance of witnesses, to administer oaths, and to employ a stenographer, and to report to the next Legislature, with their offices of any or all corporations whose business is conducted in violation of chapter 94 of the compiled laws of 1871, and acts amendatory thereof, or whose officers are doing business within this State, and shall have access to the books, records, and papers relating in any way to the business of such corporations, and shall report their doings to the Senate and House of Representatives, with such recommendations, on or before May 15, 1887.

Resolved, further, That the pri-visions of the foregoing resolutions shall apply to all corporations now doing business in this State.

The Senate promptly concurred in the adoption of the resolutions without a roll call. Senators Westgate and German have been appointed on the part of the Senate, and Cross, Markey, and Hoey on the part of the House. They propose to get to the bottom of the whole business. During the discussion Mr. Cross gave the House some information regarding the business of twelve of the companies aimed at, for the past year, that made interesting reading.

Old People's Life Insurance Company of Detroit, organized in 1886, received in assessments, etc., $8,535.86; paid to beneficiaries, $1,000; expenses, $6,535.86.

Mutual Life Association Company of Marshall, organized in 1885; receipts, $46,461; losses, $19,000; expenses, $27,461.

Fraternal State of Illinois, organized in 1883, received in 1886, $12,000; paid losses, $2,000; expenses, $12,000.

People's Co-operative Mutual Benefit of Battle Creek, organized in 1886; received in 1886, losses, $19,071.50; expenses, $26,456.48.

Fraternal Life Association Company of Marshall, organized in 1885; receipts, $46,461; losses, $19,000; expenses, $27,461.

Grand Lodge of Illinois, organized in 1883; receipts, $12,000; losses, $2,000; expenses, $12,000.

Fraternal State of Illinois, organized in 1883, received in 1886, $12,000; paid losses, $2,000; expenses, $12,000.

Mutual Benefit of Bellevue, organized in 1886; receipts, $1,000; paid beneficiaries, nothing; expenses, $1,000.

Fraternal Life Association of Lansing, organized in 1886; receipts, $1,000; paid beneficiaries, nothing; expenses, $900.

Equitable Life Association of Homer; receipts, $800; paid beneficiaries, nothing; expenses, $800.

Royal Fraternal Mutual Benefit Society of Detroit, organized in 1885; receipts, $5,000; paid beneficiaries, $2,000; expenses, $3,000.

Total of the twelve companies; receipts, $125,; losses, $25,000; expenses, $100,000; receipts, $125,000.

FIRE AND MARINE INSURANCE.

Later in the day three members, who opposed the appointment of a committee to investigate the life companies, introduced a resolution worded substantially like the other, only that it applied to fire and marine companies, requiring them to transact their business in the State or doing business under the laws of the State, the joint committee to report at the same time—May 15. This the House adopted, yeas, 43; nays, 16, and the speaker named Representatives Perkins, Bates and Lincoln on the part of the House. The Senate will, no doubt, adopt the resolution when it reaches that body, and then the Legislature will have all the insurance companies doing business in the State on the turnpike—particularly all the "crooked" ones.

Aside from the report of petitions and remonstrances, and the reference of bills, no business was transacted by the Senate on the 14th. The action of the House was of the same character. A remonstrance was presented in the Senate against the passage of a bill legalizing the bonds issued by the village of Ontonagon, in Ontonagon County. Charges in regular proceedings in the said office of Register of Deeds in the county in question were signed by the entire township valuation.

The Senate bill limiting the privileges of the State University to citizens of Michigan was reported upon adversely in the Senate on the 15th inst. The committee on the State House of Correction reported in favor of an appropriation of $14,000 for repairs and improvements, and passed to order to the United States authorizing jurisdiction over the new penitentiary site at Ionia, and to revise and amend the charter of the city of Marshall. In the House bills passed were those to provide for the sale of the Ionia County poor farm, to authorize the Governor to issue a patent to Francis Howell for a certain parcel of primary school land, a concurrent resolution providing for the purchase of a portrait of Ex-Governor Jerome, Mr. Grant's bill to provide for the transportation of prisoners, cases of murder and assault and prosecutions made the special order, and was continued in committee of the whole, with the Speaker in the chair, Mr. Mitchell's bill to amend the Penal Code, making the death penalty discretionary with the jury. Mr. Bates offered an amendment providing that persons convicted of murder in the first degree should suffer the death penalty, both substitutes and amendment were rejected, and the bill was ordered to third reading. The bill, after the enacting clause, was then discussed, became very earnest and continued during the afternoon, and through the evening session. Statistics and Scripture quotations formed the principal ammunition used. The bill was finally voted upon and the amendment was defeated, and the bill was laid upon the table. Governor Alger appointed Judge Jonathan Grant Rapids, State Game and Fish Warden, under the law he just passed.

BILLS to revise the charter of the village of Ontonagon, and to authorize the supervisors of township of Gustin, Alcona County, passed the senate on the 8th inst. The Judiciary committee made an adverse report upon the bill to amend the act relating to the duties of the secretary of the State Senate, and to the fees allowed to witnesses before committees, and the bill was indefinitely postponed. The committee on Railroads reported adversely upon the bill to amend section 2 of act No. 105, of the laws of 1885, to prevent unjust discrimination between parties using telegraph lines, and the bill was indefinitely postponed. The committee made an adverse report upon the bill to amend the act relating to the duties of the secretary of the State Senate, and to the fees allowed to witnesses before committees, and the bill was indefinitely postponed. The committee on Railroads reported adversely upon the bill to amend section 2 of act No. 105, of the laws of 1885, to prevent unjust discrimination between parties using telegraph lines, and the bill was indefinitely postponed.

Two following bills were passed by the Senate on March 17: To authorize the township of St. Joseph to borrow money to build a bridge; to amend the act providing for the enforcement of rights and liabilities in the division of the territory of cities and townships formed out of St. Anthony Orphan Asylum at Hamtramck; to provide for the appointment of a clerk of the justice courts; to authorize the transfer of judgment from the docket of one justice to the docket of another; to amend the act relative to executions and judgments; to organize the township of Cedar, in Mackinac County; to authorize the Ionia County Agricultural Society to mortgage its property for the purpose of paying its debts; to provide for the publication of the proceedings of the Michigan Dairyman's Association; to amend the act to provide for the superior Court of Grand Rapids with regard to the jurisdiction of the court in criminal prosecutions; to amend the act relative to criminal prosecutions in the Supreme Court in certain cases; to amend the act relative to the dissolution of real and personal estate by will; to amend the act relative to the duties of judges in criminal courts; to provide for the recovery of property or maintenance from their wives or husbands when abandoned or neglected by them; to amend the act relative to exemption from military duty—the tendency of which is to include persons, between the ages of 18 and 45, in the exemption, instead of, as now, 21 and 45; to amend the act relative to the militia, to remove the exemptions from clergymen, students of law, students of medicine, commissioned officers of the State militia; to provide for the appointment of a board of inspectors of boilers in the State, and to prohibit the employment of "Finlaw-Boilers, Scientific and Safety Inspectors" of the qualifications it shall appoint to be required in the inspection of boilers; to provide for the appointment of a board of examiners to examine the qualifications of persons for the place of building inspector in the cities of the State, and to provide for the place of building inspector in the cities of the State, and to provide for the place of building inspector in the cities of the State, and to provide

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

For Justice of the Supreme Court (eight years)—
LEVI T. GRIFFIN

For Justice of the Supreme Court (ten years)—
CHARLES H. CAMP.

For Regents of the University,—
CHRISTIAN VANDERVEEN.
RUFUS P. SPRAGUE.

For Circuit Judge, Thirteenth Circuit,—
EDWIN S. PRATT.

Democratic Caucus

A caucus for the purpose of nominating candidates for township officers will be held at Bartholomew's Opera House, on Friday evening, April 1, at 7:30 o'clock. Let democrats turn out in force and name a ticket that will give honor to themselves and to the township.

By order of the Committee.

Independent Caucus

The independent voters of Charlevoix township will meet at the Lewis block on Friday evening, April 1st, at eight o'clock, for the purpose of putting in nomination township officers.

By order of a Committee.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Beginning with next week, Mr. C. J. Grier, of the firm of Cruickshank & Grier will have editorial charge of the JOURNAL, and assist in looking after the interests of the paper outside of the office, with authority to receive money, business, or favors, all of which will have prompt attention. Our readers will please keep this in mind when they have any items of interest, or business of any kind for the printer.

CHAS. J. STRANG,
Publisher.

THE Traverse Journal predicts that Edwin S. Pratt will carry Grand Traverse county by 400 majority. The people say "death to the ring."

A bill is in reducing the rate of railroad passenger fares to two cents a mile. Other states are proposing to get even with the railroads in the same manner. No passes and two cents fares, would accommodate the general public much better than the present arrangement.

THE Traverse Journal states as a fact that "not a lawyer who practices before him (Judge Ramsdell) was in the last judicial convention that nominated him." It is also a fact that some lawyers who expect to be obliged to practice before him six years longer, do not dare oppose him, because of his vindictiveness, and indirectly express the fear that he would defeat them and their clients in a spirit of revenge, regardless of the merits of any case. We do not know that Judge Ramsdell would so far forget himself, but there are several citizens of this county who seem to have good reasons for believing it, and we know of some attorneys who have expressed such fears. When such things exist, it is time for a change.

Circuit Judgeship.

Experience shows that some persons cannot be trusted to exercise the power of an important office for any considerable length of time; and this is particularly true in case of a judge. This judge of a court does not make the law that he applies in a case on trial before him. His office is to apply the law enacted by the legislature and common law. A judge may be compared to the bed of a river through which the water courses. A judge is a medium through which the law passes. Some judges, by long continuance in office, usurp the function of the law-making department of the government. They make as well as apply the law. Such a judge may be termed a usurper of power and a despot. From an arbitrary, despotic judge the people may well ask to be delivered. Judge Ramsdell has been on the bench sixteen years—too long. He is arbitrary and despotic. Conclusive proof of this is the fact that the supreme court in the last five years and three months has reversed eight of the sixteen cases decided by him which have been appealed and also in the fact that he has not the support of the bar of this circuit. Not a lawyer who practices before him was on the last judicial convention that nominated him. A fair and impartial judge always has the support of the bar. When a judge does not have it there is something wrong with him. Some may say how is it that Judge Ramsdell succeeded in getting the nomination at the hands of his party if he is not fit for the office? A complete answer may be found in answer to the question, How did Judge Ramsdell get the nomination? The Traverse City ring gave it to him. The republican party as whole was not consulted in the matter at all. Judge Ramsdell helped make this ring and this ring made him nominee of the republican party of this circuit for the office of circuit judge. What voice did the township of Fife Lake, Paradise and Union have in the matter? The Leelanaw county republicans appointed a delegation to go to the judicial convention, but the Traverse City ring said "No, this is not as we want it." So the ring, under the able management of Judge Ramsdell, went to Leelanaw county and appointed delegates of the ring's selection. How long, oh how long will the people submit? Is there a better time for the people in this judicial circuit to rise and assert their rights than now? Up and to arms!—Traverse Journal.

The Shrewd Maine Man.

"Uncle Stead" is what they called a shrewd old gentleman who used to live in Winthrop, a little way out of the village, on the side of the pond near Readfield. One of his fellow-citizens was a man named Lovejoy. Uncle Stead met Lovejoy in the village one day, and said to him: "Lovejoy, there's a poor woman living out on the edge of the town that needs some provisions. I'm willing to supply her, but I'm sold my horse and have no means of getting the stuff to her. Now, I'll buy her a barrel of flour and a ham, and some other things, if you'll carry them out to her with your team."

Lovejoy said, certainly, he'd be very glad to do it. Accordingly, Uncle Stead bought a barrel of flour, a ham, a bucket of sugar, etc., and, telling Lovejoy where the woman lived, sent him off on the errand of charity with the good things in his wagon.

Lovejoy easily found the house where the woman lived. He unloaded the goods, putting like a grampus as he rolled the barrel of flour in, and said to the woman: "Mr. Steadman sent you the provisions. He's a mighty kind-hearted man to send you all these things."

"Well, I don't know why he shouldn't send them to me!" exclaimed the woman in surprised accents. "He's my husband!"—Rockland Courier-Gazette.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the health of every community, if, instead of calling a physician for every ailment, they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood and Liver, such as Scrofula in its various forms, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Female irregularities, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Exposure and Intemperance of Life. No person can take these Bitters according to instructions and remain long unwell, provides their bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters numbers on its list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already conferred a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co., and G. W. Crouter.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Pete's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Pete's 25-cent Cough Cure. Its the safest, the surest and the best. No other Cough, Cold, and Consumption remedy is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co., and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Only 25 Cents.

buys a perfect remedy for Sour Stomach, Diarrhea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness, and loss of Sleep. Try it. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co., and G. W. Crouter.

A DOUBLE-HEADER

NEW DOUBLE ACTION "FRAHERN"

Force Pump.

Simplest, Cheapest Most Durable, and Works Easy Sold only by

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

☞Job and Pump Work.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a tumor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have tried for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Kendal T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

By Taking

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light in any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a brilliant light without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

NOTICE OF ELECTION Notice is hereby given to the electors of the township of Charlevoix, Mich., that a township election for said township of Charlevoix will be held in the village of Charlevoix, on Monday, the 4th day of April, A. D. 1887, at the place of holding the last township election in said township, for the consideration of the state which will be submitted for adoption or rejection.

You are also hereby notified that at the said township election the following officers are to be elected, viz: One Supreme Court Commissioner, in place of James V. Campbell, whose office will expire December 31, 1887. One regent of the University in place of James Shearer, whose office will expire December 31, 1887. One Circuit Judge for the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, in place of Jonathan G. Ramsdell, whose term of office will expire December 31, 1887. Also a Circuit Judge for the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Jonathan G. Ramsdell, whose term of office will expire December 31, 1888. Also the following township officers, viz: One Supervisor, one Clerk, one Treasurer, two Justices of the Peace, one School Inspector, one Highway Commissioner, one Drain Commissioner, and four Constables.

You are also hereby notified that at the said township election the following amendment to the constitution of this state will be submitted to the people for their adoption or rejection, viz:

Joint resolution, proposing an amendment to section 1, article 8, of the constitution of this state, relative to the salary of the governor.

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the state of Michigan, That an amendment to section 1, of Article 8, of the constitution of this State, be and the same is hereby proposed to read as follows, viz:

SECTION 1. That the Judges of the Circuit Court shall receive a salary of twenty-five hundred dollars; the Governor an annual salary of five thousand dollars; the Secretary of State an annual salary of three thousand dollars; the Superintendent of Public Instruction an annual salary of three thousand dollars, payable at the same manner as that in which such salaries are now paid by the State.

You are also hereby notified that at said election the following proposed amendment to the constitution of this State will be submitted to the people of the State for their rejection or adoption, viz:

Amendment to section 40, Article 4, relative to liquor traffic.

SECTION 40. The manufacture, gift, or sale of spirituous, malt, or vinous liquors in this State, except for medicinal, mechanical, chemical, or scientific purposes is prohibited, and no property rights shall be created by the sale of such liquors; shall be deemed a crime, and shall the right to manufacture or sell for medicinal, mechanical, or scientific purposes such spirituous and vinous liquors as may be provided by law, be granted to persons who will solemnly swear to the prevention of the manufacture, sale, and keeping of such liquors, and of intoxicating liquors generally, as herein provided.

You are also hereby notified that at the said election the following additional officer is to be elected, viz:

A Justice of the Supreme Court for the term of two years from the first day of January next, thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, as provided by act No. 206, of the laws of 1885, approved February 4, 1885.

The polls of said election will be opened at nine o'clock in the forenoon, and will close at five o'clock in the afternoon, of said day, when and at which place the inspectors of said election shall attend in their districts to receive the votes of all persons qualified to vote for the same.

Dated at Charlevoix, Mich., March 19, A. D. 1887.

JOHN G. WOODWORTH, Township Clerk.

FOR SALE. Notice is hereby given that a portable feed shed and the tools in said shed have been left with the undersigned as security for a debt, by Albert Miller, and said shed and tools will be sold at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, at the feed shed of the undersigned, in Charlevoix, on Saturday, the 2d day of April, A. D. 1887, at 1 o'clock p. m.

Dated Charlevoix, March 7th, 1887.

WILLIAM LEE JOHNSON.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

G GEO. W. MILLER G
O O
W W
MILLER MILLER
GEO. W. MILLER

I am not selling out, but I am selling all the goods I can; and if you will give me a call, I will convince you that I am selling better goods for less money than can be bought in this or any other town. The "off" and "selling out" sales are getting old. All I ask is, give me a call for anything in the clothing line and convince yourself.

STORY & CLARK FINE ORGANS

SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!

N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.

CHICAGO + Canal AND 16TH STS

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

MANUFACTURERS OF

Charcoal and Pig Iron,

AND

General Merchandising,

IRONTON, - MICH.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND HARDWOOD SIDING

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple method of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their sympathy, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PARKER, 42 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIMPLES. I will mail (sealed) to any person a recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will clear the face of PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BLACK HEADS, Etc., leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. Address, A. D. Fearing, 30 Ann St., New York.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., March 31, 1887.

100 Stoves at Cost. D. C. Loveday, of East Jordan, offers his entire stock of stoves at cost, for cash, to close them out and make room for other lines of goods. Now is the time to secure bargains.

Sewing Machines.—If you want a good machine cheap, call on D. Sherwood, at his shoe store on Bridge street, and examine the American No. 7, and learn prices.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192m4.

☞Those fine Cabinet Photos only three dollars a dozen for another month at the gallery. D. S. Walz.

Local Notes and News.

Navigation is open at Frankfort.

Fairfield's Chalk Talk this evening.

Mr. Gow, of Cadillac, is in town today.

Read the school report in another column.

For the amendment this evening at opera house.

Mrs. James Hemmings is on the sick list this week.

W. H. Jarman, of Eveline, made us a call on Monday.

Jerome Heath has gone to Mackinac Island to work.

Business Men's meeting next Tuesday evening, April 5th.

Mrs. J. E. Wood has gone to Ludington to visit her husband.

Isaac Mills has gone to Stafford Out., for a three week's visit.

Frank Hines has papered and painted the interior of his store.

Mr. Chapman, of the Boyne Citizen, made us a brief call this morning.

M. J. Stockman and wife arrived home from a visit to Ludington Tuesday.

Preaching at Ironton M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening.

Miss Rose Gaffney started for her home in Naperville, Ills., on Tuesday.

Tickets and slips printed on short notice and correct, at the JOURNAL office.

The Petoskey Record is out in a new dress of very pretty cut. It fits admirably.

Consumption which white fish fry were planted in Pine lake near Horton's bay recently.

Lillie Sine is going to school again, although pieces of the broken needle remain in her knee.

The ten cent tea given by the ladies of the M. E. church on Monday evening netted about $11.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will speak on the amendment at the Hillegas school house Friday evening, April 1st.

At Washburn is in his old place at F. W. Craine's store. He arrived home from Cadillac on Tuesday.

Patronize home talent at the opera hall Saturday night. The Loyal Legion will give an entertainment.

Last Sunday morning, Mrs. Dr. Carlstein fell and broke her right arm, between the wrist and elbow.

Mason and Stockman will carry the mail from Charlevoix to East Jordan on the Gaylord, the same as last year.

On Tuesday, Dr. Sweetland was tried for illegally practicing medicine. The jury reported no cause of action.

Spring opening at Mrs. Litney & Carr's millinery rooms next Saturday. Novelties in great variety are announced.

A number of Jessie Strang's little friends gave her a pleasant surprise on the afternoon of her eighth birthday, last Tuesday.

The donation at T. C. Bird's, for the benefit of the M. E. church, at Ironton, on last Friday evening, was a success in every feature.

The Michigan Poultry Keeper, by Miley & Chapin, Boyne City, is a new candidate for public favor. Monthly; 50 cts. a year.

Capt. Geo. Madison accompanied E. B. Hodges and family to Traverse City last Sunday, returning Tuesday night. He reports a cold ride.

John Gallup, formerly of Beaver Island, was in town Thursday afternoon. He was on his way to Point Betsey life saving station.

Ralph Washburn of D grade, high school, has not missed a word in the regular spelling lessons during the winter term of twelve weeks.

Under the new law the rates of railroad transportation are not likely to be any lower, on the average, but will be a great deal more uniform and stable. That will be a great improvement.

Please don't forget the Loyal Legion next Saturday, at Green's hall. Be on hand at 2 o'clock, prepared to help in training the children.

Louis See will open the rink on Tuesday and Saturday nights. Admission free, skates 15 cents. The boys' band will furnish music.

Opera Upright will take Mr. Buttars' place at the Rifleburg mill, and Mr. Buttars will superintend the Charlevoix Mfg. Co. this season.

Before Justice McLeod, on Monday, the trespass case of Mrs. Wm. Holland vs. John Scheffer resulted in a verdict of $50 for the plaintiff.

Nelson White, of the Sentinel office, is sick with the mumps at Petoskey, but as he is domiciled at the Occidental, he is sure to receive the best care.

Rev. E. B. Furbish, of Lockport, N. Y., discussed the amendment at the opera house last night before a large audience, and made numerous converts.

With five state tickets in the field and several constitutional amendments to be voted on, Michigan can boast of a good deal of politics for a spring campaign.

Miss Nellie Micham, of Norwood, and Master Arthur and Miss Abbie, son and daughter of Rev. B. H. Whitman, of Norwood, were visiting W. E. Baldwin, of Hayes, last week.

The keepers of Waugoshance and Skillagalee lighthouses will be sentenced to their stations next week. The sentence will be nine months solitary confinement.—Independent.

Don't spend money in buying cross nor labor in planting them, unless you intend to care for them afterward. Good trees can no more be grown with out good care, than can good colts or calves.

All the contracts for building the Minneapolis, & Sault Ste. Marie road have been let and the projectors claim they will have a through western line to the latter place by the 1st of next November.

The Cheboygan News says: "It is thought the ice will go out of the straits in a hurry when warm weather does come. Already the snow is nearly all off it and a few warm days will make it pretty rotten.

Bad luck is simply a man with his hands in his pockets and his pipe in his mouth, looking to see how it is going to come out. Good luck is a man of pluck, with his sleeves rolled up and working to make it come out right.

The Michigan salt association is now selling salt at 50 cents, the lowest price in the history of the country. When it comes to shipping the staple a couple of hundred miles, the freight will probably amount to as much as the salt.

Read the new advertisement of Will Francis' furniture and jobbing shop in another column. He has a full set of hand and foot power machinery, which enables him to do all kinds of work, and guarantee satisfaction.

The Story & Clark Organ Co., of Chicago, have an advertisement in this issue. Dr. N. J. Perry is agent in Charlevoix, and will show up the beauties of the instrument to all who may call. Dental rooms at Weed's drug store.

The republicans first ladies of the township caucus for Saturday night at the village hall, and afterwards changed it to Friday night, at the same hour and place as the independent caucus. Wonder which will capture the victims.

Miss Nellie Burnett closed her school in Hayes last week, and gave an exhibition on Saturday evening which combined a large number of very interesting exercises. The scholars rendered their parts in a manner very satisfactory to the patrons of the school.

Mrs. Sarah Ayers, mother of Mrs. E. B. Hodge, who was stricken with paralysis several weeks ago, died Saturday night. On Sunday the remains were taken to her old home, fifteen miles beyond Traverse City, for interment. Mrs. Ayers was about 62 years old.

Mrs. Judge Rice, of Cadillac, well known to numerous Charlevoix people, has been afflicted several years with cataract, and for some time has been blind. A short time ago she went to Ann Arbor, where an operation was performed by Dr. Frothingham, and now her sight is restored.

At the council meeting last week the committee on fires and preventions were instructed to employ Gurley Book as engineer of the fire department at $200 per year. Gurley will accept it on condition that he also have the position of janitor and librarian, which we understand is assured.

Arza Campbell died at his residence in Charlevoix last Thursday evening, after an illness of nearly three years, during the last few months of which he has been a great sufferer. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon, Rev. W. G. Clark officiating. Mr. Campbell was about 42 years old, and leaves a wife and children, besides numerous relatives, to mourn his death.

A democratic caucus to nominate township officers is called for to-morrow evening, at Bartholomew's opera house. As all parties seem to want to determine this year their relative strength by nominating separate tickets, democrats should show their patriotism by coming out in full force, making a good ticket and electing it.

The entertainment to be given by the Loyal Legion, at the opera house, Saturday night, April 2, has been very carefully prepared and is well worthy your patronage. Over fifty children will take part in the exercises. Mother goose and Lee temperance family which forms the second part of the program is one of the most attractive presentations of that time-honored family published.

Immediately upon the opening of navigation Capt. J. U. Emory will place upon the bay run the handsome little steamer Onekama of which he is half owner. The Onekama is a new boat, only three years old. The run will be from Northport, which port will be made headquarters, and leaving there each morning, Omena, Suttons Bay and Bowers Harbor will be touched on her way to Traverse City, and returning, Northport will be made in the evening.

Here are the words of one of our residents in regard to the prohibitory amendment: "Do you know that I wish this prohibitory amendment would be carried? I do for a fact. Here I've worked hard all winter and have earned $100. I come out here and have fired it all in a week. Just the smell of whiskey makes me crazy, and I wish they would fix it so I could not get a d—n bit. I could save something then. Yes sir, I will vote for the amendment."—Gaylord Herald.

A local newspaper is a traveling agent, making its weekly round to the families of all its patrons. No matter whether times are good or dull; no matter whether trade is brisk or otherwise, no business man can afford to take down his sign, nor withdraw the pleasing influence of a weekly chat with his patrons through the newspaper. For a business man to stop advertising would be equivalent to his saying, "I have stopped business and ask no more favors of the people."

Historical Society.

Mrs. O. D. Wood entertained the Historical Society at her home on Friday evening, March 25th. The large number present, the excellence and variety of the exercises and the general sociability furnished ample opportunity for an evening's enjoyed enjoyment. President E. H. Green presided and announced the successive numbers of the following program, all of which were worthy of the highest credit and received the unqualified approbation of the audience. Instrumental selection, Miss Mother Hubbard; reading from English history, Mr. Kane; musical selection, W. A. Smith, and Miss Cody; instrumental solo, Mrs. Guyles; recitation, Miss Nelson; vocal solo, W. A. Smith; reading, Miss Cody; piano solo, Mrs. Guyles.

The next meeting of the society will occur at the residence of Major Little Boy Blue, King Cole, Jack Horner, Pa per by Miss Gage.

Standing Committees.

At the last meeting of the Council, President McLeod announced the following standing committees for the ensuing year:

Sidewalks—Eaton, See, and Smith.

Fires and their Prevention,—Mason, Newman, and Cameron.

License and Printing,—Cameron, Newman, and Mason.

Public Buildings,—See, Cameron, and Eaton.

Sanitary Matters and Police,—Newman, Mason, and See.

Claims and Finance,—Smith, See, and Newman.

Ordinance,—Smith, Eaton, and Mason.

Public Parks,—Eaton, Smith, and Cameron.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Arza Campbell desires to return her heartfelt thanks to those friends who have been so kind to her during her recent bereavement, and the painful, lingering illness that preceded it.

E. B. Hodge and family desire to express their thanks to many friends who so kindly assisted them during the sickness and death of Mrs. Ayres.

M. E. Church.

Teachers' meeting on Tuesday evening led by the pastor.

Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

Love of God is the theme to be present.

Usual services Sunday morning and evening. Young people's meeting to be led by Rev. Mr. Waterman; theme, "First things."

W. H. McCARTHY.

For the Amendment.

W. J. Fairfield, M. D., of Battle Creek, will speak for the Amendment at opera hall, Thursday, March 31, 8 p. m. The Doctor is the "Lightning Chalk Talker." Admission free; collection at the door on entering the hall.

W. G. CLARK,
W. H. McCARTHY,
A. T. WATERMAN.

WE ARE SELLING OUT.

As our store will be changed this spring, WE MUST DISPOSE of our large stock of

DRY GOODS, CARPETS, CLOTHING, GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.,

—At some price for CASH ONLY.—

Bargains! Bargains!!

In everything which can be found in our store. Give us a call and be convinced yourself that we mean business. Truly Yours,

ROSENTHAL & SON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

At this, the close of our first year's business in Charlevoix it seems to us eminently proper that we extend our sincere thanks to the trading public of this region for the patronage they have so generously extended us during the past twelve months.

Our constantly increasing business proves that the people appreciate a Metropolitan stock at lowest prices.

Our past experience has shown us the needs of the people of this section. During the coming season our line of goods will be the largest ever offered in this region. Our Prices we always guarantee to be the lowest. If we have pleased you in the past, please grant us a continuation of your patronage.

Very truly yours,

F. W. CRAINE & CO.

Program for the Entertainment to be given by the Loyal Legion Juvenile Temperance Society, at the Opera House, Saturday Evening, April 2.

PART FIRST.

1. Chorus. Open the Door for the Children.
2. Opening Address. — Freddie Myers.
3. Recitation. A little child shall lead them. — Anna Blodgett.
4. Recitation. The Drunkard's Child. — Chloe McCartney.
5. Vocal Duet. Water for Me and You. — Edith Mason and Bertie Wood.
6. Two Little Temperance Boys. — Boys of the Loyal Legion.
7. Recitation. The Little Cup-bearer. — Ella Carr.
8. Vocal Solo. I Love the Sunny Meadow. — Mamie Sec.
9. Recitation. Asleep at the Switch. — Lulu Carter.
10. Recitation. For the Children's Sake. — Jessie Allen.
11. Vocal Duet. Father, won't you try? — Minnie Montie and Myra Gloss.
12. Recitation. The Miller of Dee. — Phila Wood.

PART SECOND.

MOTHER GOOSE AND HER TEMPERANCE FAMILY.

Mother Goose, — Maggie Green.
Old Woman Who Lives in a Shoe, — Edith Hawkins.
Old Woman's Children: Edith Atchinson, Mamie Price, Mabel Ward, Mamie Carr, Edith Lamoreaux, Mabel Strang, Ella Wright, Anna Strang, Bertie Upright, Gracie Emery, Zaia See, Ethel Campbell.
Mother Hubbard, — Hattie Blodgett.
Red Ridinghood, — Mamie Sec.
Bopeep, — Mabel Green.
Goody Two-Shoes, — Katie Kirkpatrick.
Jack and Jill, — Archie McNeil and Cora Strang.
Little Jack Horner, — Clifford Atchinson.
Blue Beard, — George Campbell.
Humpty Dumpty, — Willie Lewis.
Little Boy Blue, — Clarence Sherwood.
King Cole, — Henry Wood.
Jack Horner, — Forest Bartholomew.

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

Greeting—Mother Goose. Chorus—Jack and Jill. Colloquy—Jack and Jill. Song—Red Ridinghood. Chorus—The Cruel Wolf. Recitation—Old Woman who Lives in a Shoe. Semi-Chorus—Old Woman and her Children—Happy Little Darlings—Oh! Hush Thee, my Baby. Recitation—Old King Cole. Duet—A Glass of Beer and a Cigarette. Goody Two-Shoes. Chorus—Little Goody Two-Shoes. Recitation—Little Bopeep. Colloquy—Mother Hubbard and Jack Horner. Recitation—Jack the Giant-Killer. Chorus—Giant Killer.

Doors open at 7:00 o'clock, standard time. Entertainment begins at 7:30. Admission, 15 cents. Come and hear the children.

Congregational Church.

Sunday morning, "For us or for our adversaries?" Evening, "How are you going to vote?"

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Ball, druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: I can recommend Electric Bitters, as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Barr, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half a dollar a bottle at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

When, by reason of a cold or from any other cause, the secretory organs become disordered, they may be stimulated to healthy action by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture the Celebrated Wagon, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

WILL H. FRANCIS,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop.

Will also do

CONTRACTING AND BUILDING,

in Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in my shop a full set of Hand and Foot power machinery which enables me to do

Jobbing Repairing Etc.

ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞Shop on South Terrace, Opposite Harris Brothers's residence.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP. Notice is hereby given that the co-partnership heretofore existing under the firm name and style of "F. W. Craine & Co.," for the purpose of carrying on the business of a general store in the village of Charlevoix, Michigan, is mutually dissolved on this 31st day of March, A. D. 1887. The firm is authorized to collect all debts now due said firm; and W. M. Cox assumes all liabilities contracted to this date.

Dated at Charlevoix, Mich., March 31, 1887.

F. W. CRAINE,
FRANK W. CRAINE.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY should be complete without the monthly visits of BABYHOOD, that delight, comfort and aid of the young mother. Only publication in the world devoted to the care of young children. We are glad to recommend it. (4 Beekman St., N. Y.) $1.50 a year; 15 cents a copy.

NATIONAL LEGISLATION.

Provisions of Some of the Important Laws Enacted by the Last Congress.

Alien Land-Owners—Fisheries Retaliation —The Anti-Polygamy Bill, Etc., Etc.

ALIEN LAND-OWNERS.

The Act Forbidding Their Ownership of Real Estate in the Territories.

The following is the full text of the act to restrict the ownership of real estate in the Territories to American citizens:

Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons not citizens of the United States, or who have not lawfully declared their intention to become such citizens, or for any corporation not created by or under the laws of the United States, or of some State or Territory of the United States, to hereafter acquire, hold, or own real estate so hereafter acquired, or any interest therein, in any of the Territories of the United States or in the District of Columbia, except such as may be acquired by inheritance or in good faith in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts heretofore created; provided, that the prohibition of this section shall not apply to cases in which the right to hold or dispose of lands in the United States is secured by existing treaties to the citizens or subjects of foreign countries, which rights so far as they may exist by force of any such treaty, shall continue to exist so long as such treaties are in force and no longer.

Sec. 2. That no corporation or association, more than 10 per cent. of the stock of which is or may be owned by any person or persons, corporation or corporations, association or associations, not citizens of the United States, shall hereafter acquire or hold or own any real estate hereafter acquired in any of the Territories of the United States or of the District of Columbia.

Sec. 3. That no corporation, other than those organized for the construction or operation of railways, canals, or turnpikes shall acquire, hold, or own more than 5,000 acres of land in any of the Territories of the United States, and no railroad, canal, or turnpike corporation shall hereafter acquire, hold, or own lands in any Territory other than may be necessary for the proper operation of its railroad, canal, or turnpike, except such lands as may have been granted to it by act of Congress; but the prohibition of this section shall not affect the title to any lands now lawfully held by such corporation.

Sec. 4. That all property acquired, held, or owned in violation of the provisions of this act shall be forfeited to the United States, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General to enforce every such forfeiture by bill in equity or other proper process. And in any suit or proceeding that may be commenced to enforce the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the court to determine the very right of the matter, without regard to matters of form, joinder of parties, multifariousness, or other matters not affecting the substantial rights either of the United States or of the parties concerned in any such proceeding arising out of the matters in this act mentioned.

ANTI-POLYGAMY.

Mormonism Believed to Have Received Its Death-Blow.

The gist of the anti-polygamy law is in its disestablishment of the Mormon Church, the increased stringency of the means to break up polygamy, and the abolition of female suffrage in the Territory of Utah. The first five sections apply to prosecutions for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, and make the wife or husband a competent witness, but not to be compelled to testify. The sixth section amends and disapproves all laws of the Utah Legislature which provide that prosecutions for adultery can only be commenced on the complaint of the husband or wife. In place of this it is provided that all prosecutions for adultery may hereafter be instituted in the same way that prosecutions for other crimes are. The seventh and eighth sections apply to the powers of Court Commissioners and of the Marshal and Deputy Marshals. The ninth and tenth sections apply to the marriage ceremony. They require a certificate, properly authenticated, to be recorded in the office of the Probate Court. The eleventh section disapproves and annuls all Territorial laws recognizing the capacity of illegitimate children to inherit or be entitled to any distributive share in the estate of the father. The twelfth section disapproves and annuls Territorial laws conferring jurisdiction upon Probate Courts (with certain exceptions). The thirteenth section makes it the duty of the Attorney General of the United States to institute proceedings to escheat to the United States the property of corporations authorized or held in violation of section 3 of the act of July, 1862—the proceeds of such escheat to be applied to the use and benefit of common schools of the Territory. The fourteenth section regulates proceedings in such cases. The fifteenth section disapproves and annuls all laws of the Legislative Assembly creating or continuing the Perpetual Emigrating Fund Company and dissolves that corporation. The sixteenth section directs proceedings for the disposition of the property and assets of the Emigrating Fund Company. All such property, in excess of debts and lawful claims, is to escheat to the United States to be used for the benefit of common schools in the Territory. The seventeenth section disapproves and annuls the act of the Legislative Assembly incorporating or providing for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and dissolves that corporation. It makes it the duty of the Attorney General of the United States to institute legal proceedings to wind up the affairs of the corporation. The eighteenth section makes provisions as to the endowment of widows, who are to have one-third of the income of the estate as their dower. Sec. 19 gives to the President the appointment of a Probate Judge in each county. Sec. 20 makes it unlawful for any female to vote in any election, and annuls acts in the Legislative Assembly which permit female suffrage. The next four sections make provisions as to elections, and require of voters an oath or affirmation to support the Constitution and laws of the United States, especially the anti-polygamy act of March 22, 1882, and this act. Sec. 25 abolishes the office of Territorial Superintendent of District Schools; makes it the duty of the Supreme Court of the Territory to appoint a Commissioner of Schools. Sec. 26 gives to all religious societies, sects, and congregations the right to hold, through trustees appointed by the Probate Court, real property for houses of worship and parsonages. The twenty-second and last section annuls all Territorial laws for the organization of the militia or for the creation of the Nauvoo Legion; and gives the Legislative Assembly of Utah power to pass laws for organizing the militia, subject to the approval of Congress. General officers of the militia are to be appointed by the Governor of the Territory, with the advice and consent of the Council.

FISHERIES RETALIATION.

Power Vested in the President to Cut Off Intercourse with Canada.

The fisheries retaliation legislation is covered in a single bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That whenever the President of the United States shall be satisfied that American fishing vessels or American fishermen, visiting or being in the waters or at any ports or places of the British Dominions of North America, are then or lately have been denied or abridged in the enjoyment of any rights secured to them by treaty or law, or are then or lately have been unjustly vexed or hindered in the enjoyment of such rights or subjected to unreasonable restrictions, regulations, or requirements in respect of such rights, etc, when the President of the United States shall be satisfied that any such fishing vessels or fishermen having a permit under the laws of the United States to touch and trade at any port or ports, place or places, in the British Dominions of North America, are then, or lately have been, denied the privilege of entering and for ports, places or places, in the same manner and under the same regulations as may exist therein applicable to trading vessels of the most favored nation or shall be unjustly vexed or harassed in respect thereof, or shall be prevented from purchasing such supplies as may there be lawfully sold to trading vessels of the most favored nation or, whenever the President of the United States shall be satisfied that any other vessels of the United States, their masters or crews, so arriving at or being in such British waters, or ports, or places of the British Dominion of North America, are then or lately have been denied any of the privileges therein accorded to the vessels, their masters, or crews of the most favored nation, or unjustly vexed or harassed in respect of the same, then, and in either or all of such cases, it shall be lawful, and it shall be the duty of the President of the United States in his discretion, by proclamation to that effect, to deny to vessels, their masters and crews, of the British Dominions of North America any entrance into the waters, ports, or places of or within the United States with such exceptions as respect to vessels in distress, stress of weather, or needing supplies; to the President shall seem proper; whether such vessels shall have come directly from said dominions or not, or shall be bound on a way of some port or place on such destined voyage; and also to deny entry into any port or place of the United States of fresh fish or salt fish, or any other product of said dominions or other goods coming from said dominions; and so long as the President may in his discretion apply such proclamation to any part or all of the foregoing named subjects, and may qualify, limit, and vary such proclamation to any part or to all of the foregoing named subjects, and in such manner, he may renew such proclamation from time to time as he may deem necessary to the full and just execution of the purposes of this act.

Every violation of any such proclamation or any part thereof is hereby declared illegal, and all vessels and goods so coming or being within the waters, ports, or places of the United States contrary to such proclamation shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

THE ELECTORAL COUNT.

Provisions of the Act Relating to State Electors.

The electoral count law requires that the electors of each State shall meet in their respective capitals the second Monday in January following their appointment, and that if any State has provided by previously enacted laws for the final determination of any controversy concerning the electors, such determination having been made six days prior to the said meeting shall be conclusive, and shall govern the counting of the electors of such State. The Executive of the State is to transmit to the Secretary of State of the United States a certificate of final determination of such controversy, in the same certificate to be delivered to duplicate to the electors and transmitted to the seat of government at the same time with the list of persons voted for for President and Vice President. If there has been a final determination in a State of a controversy or contest, it is made the duty of the Executive to communicate it to the Secretary of State of the United States, who is to transmit to be in houses of Congress all certificates received in the Department in the prescribed manner. The second Wednesday in February succeeding the meeting of the electors Congress is to meet in the hall of the House of Representatives to receive the certificates, the President of the Senate presiding. When the reading of the certificates from each State shall have, if there is objection to any certificate it must be stated in writing and the ground thereof, and must be signed by at least one Senator and one Representative. When all the objections to the vote of a State have been received the same is to be withdrawn and the objections be submitted to each house for its decision. No electoral vote or votes from any State which have been regularly certified, and from which but one return has been received, shall be rejected, but the two houses concurrently may reject the vote or votes when they agree that votes have not been regularly given by those electors whose appointment has been so certified. In case more than one paper or return has been received by the President of the Senate, and there arises a question which of two or more State authorities determining what electors have been appointed is the lawful tribunal of the State, the votes regularly given those electors, and those only, shall be counted whose titles as electors the two houses acting separately or concurrently decide is supported by the decision of such State so authorized by its laws. Where there has not been at the date fixed determination in a State, or more than one return is presented, the concurrent action of the two houses, acting separately, is to decide which votes were cast by the lawful electors appointed in accordance with the laws of the State, unless the two houses concurrently decide such votes not to be the lawful votes of the legally appointed electors. If the two houses disagree in respect to the counting of such votes, then the votes of the electors whose appointment shall have been certified by the Executive of the State shall be counted.

Other provisions relate to the details of the joint meeting in which the vote is counted.

PACIFIC RAILROAD INVESTIGATION.

Three Commissioners to Examine the Books and Accounts.

The joint resolution authorizing an investigation of the accounts of the Pacific railroads provides for the appointment of three Commissioners by the President, whose term of office shall not extend beyond the beginning of the next session of the Senate. If the Senate shall be convened after March 4, 1887, and before Dec. 1, and the duties of the Commissioners shall not then be completed, the President shall, if he shall deem it for the public consent of the Senate, appoint three Commissioners who shall perform and complete the duties prescribed in this act. It is made the duty of the commission to examine into the working and financial management of the railroads that are indicted. If it shall appear that there has been a violation of the conditions of the Secretary of the Interior shall make demand upon the company to reimburse and recovery its title, and in the event of the company refusing to do that then the attorney general is to enter proceedings to have the title reconveyed to the United States. Then, as to this excess land, where it is found after such adjustment that the government or proprietor and title show the title of the company attached, the bill secures him priority of right in perfecting that title. As to another class of lands—lands when the company has sold—the third section gives to the purchaser of that land his title. The bill is not a forfeiture measure, but deals only with excess lands, and the sections that follow protect the rights of the Government and the rights of the settlers and purchasers as to these excess lands. Government and the rights of the settlers and purchasers as to these excess lands. Government and the rights of the settlers and purchasers as to these excess lands.

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dadoes, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

BURN AND BOYCOTT! The Michigan saloon war has begun in destructive earnest: only the short step which intervenes between the torch and the bullet separates Michigan from Iowa. A few months ago the saloonists of Iowa shot down Geo. C. Haddock, of Sioux City; last Saturday night the saloonists of Michigan burned out F. N. Monroe, of Howell. In neither case is there room for honest doubt as to the authors and the spirit of the deed.

Three weeks ago Mr. Monroe—one of the most retiring of men, leading member of the Howell Presbyterian church, and withal chairman of the Livingston county prohibition committee—received a warning, signed by Many Saloon-keepers, which said: "If you don't stop your prohibition work, we'll burn you out root and branch." But with all the constancy of John Knox or Thomas Chalmers, he kept steadily and quietly on his way of loyalty to God, humanity, and the state, and, true to their threat, the saloonist lighted the torch. It was late last Saturday night. First, an explosion which aroused many from their sleep, and then sheets of flame, which speedily made the store and stock of hardware a total wreck. Mr. Monroe's loss is over $20,000, a little more than one half of which is covered by insurance. Other stores and offices burned also; the heaviest fire ever known in Howell; total losses, $80,000. Further, as the engine reached the fire, a pistol ball was fired from across the street, first grazing the night watchman, then striking the engine and then glancing into the shoulder of a citizen. Extended comment is unnecessary. The Michigan saloonist's torch has been lighted.

The torch and the boycott are twin brothers in crime. When one is aroused, the other is not apt to be idle. A week ago last Sunday scarcely more than one member of the Detroit Anti Amendment league, composed of German socialists, was willing to raise the cry of Boycott! To vote it was too overt an act at that time. But during the succeeding seven days the spirit of bravery to be vengeful grew rapidly, and last Sunday these lovers of beer and whiskey voted boycott with a will. Every merchant and business man (including The Center, we presume, but evidently neither the Detroit Tribune nor the Free Press) is to be boycotted—of them no member of the more than one hundred societies composing the Anti-Amendment union is to buy a cent's worth. Moreover, they will influence as many as possible to join them in such crusade.

Is it not time for every voter in Michigan who claims a true nobility of heart and life, and who is in the least inclined to vote against the Amendment, to stop and think? The store burners of Howell and the boycotters of Detroit are to be your companions at the polls. They are drawing the line for you, and they compel you to choose: Saloonists on one side, anti-saloonists on the other; incendiaries, willing to be murderers and would be sluggers of financial interests on one side, noble men, christians and helpful merchants on the other; jeilers of law and destroyers of law on one side, supporters of law and defenders of the state on the other. It is useless for an opponent of the Amendment to attempt self-defense by asserting that these Howell and Detroit men are not true representatives of many who with him will vote "No" on election day. This may be true, and it may not be true. But this is undeniable. The spirit of whiskey and of beer is the spirit of revenge, of destruction, of murder. Dog Tray was killed for being in bad company; it is well to avoid the appearance of evil; it is safe, morally, to vote for the amendment.

Vote for the amendment, if for no other reason than to rebuke store burners and boycotters.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderfu qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptives, at least to try one bottle, as 50,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all druggists and dealers, in the United States and Canada. cow2

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris Texas by the remarkable recovery of Mr J. F. Corley who was a helpless he could not turn in bed or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief he got a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial bottles of this great discovery for consumption free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's.

RUSHING TO DEATH

in the attempt to swim the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids is no more reckless or dangerous than to trifle with disease which each day secures a stronger hold and hastens the end of life. This is specially true of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and nervous headache, which though perhaps slight at first are extremely dangerous, and steadily secure a firmer grip until at last the agony is unendurable and sudden death brings relief.

These diseases can be cured by the use of Athlophoros which, in connection with Athlophoros Pills, never fails when properly used. Read the following from those who have tested it.

Charles Robbe, Appleton, Wis., says: "Athlophoros is certainly an excellent medicine for rheumatism. While I have never had occasion to use it myself I have seen some wonderful cures from its use. My son took one bottle of the remedy for rheumatism, and it cured him; never has been troubled with the disease since. The case of my father-in-law, E. Marrill, was much more severe; the disease was over his entire system; he was a terrible sufferer. He used three or four bottles of Athlophoros, which entirely cured him, and since that time, about two years ago, he has had no rheumatism."

Madison, Wisconsin.

I have been a victim of a severe rheumatism for the past three years, and having tried almost every known remedy without avail, was discouraged. Last winter I was induced to try Athlophoros, and am now glad to state I am free from pain, and procounce it a god send for the afflicted.

MARY I. WHITING,
No. 810 University Avenue.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney disease, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the ninth day of February A. D. 1886, executed by Samuel Owsley (unmarried man) to Walter P. Brown, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, in Liber 14, of mortgages, on page 608, on the second day of March, A. D. 1886, at 9 o'clock in the afternoon, and the same is now owned by the undersigned mortgagee. And whereas the said mortgagee hereby doth exercise the option to him therein given, and doth hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by not mentioned in said mortgage as well as the interest thereon to be immediately payable. And whereas the amount claimed to be due on the said mortgage (and for the recovery of which the undersigned hereby offers to foreclose) will be made up as follows: Principal sum of Ninety two dollars and ninety cents ($92,90) and the further sum of twenty nine dollars and ninety four cents ($29,94) to become due on the ninth day of May next, and the further sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) provided by law as attorney fee on the foreclosure of said mortgage, and no action at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in the said mortgage has become operative; therefore notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House at the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, on the 13th day of June, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day. The premises to be sold are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half (½) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty one (21), in township thirty four (34) north of range seven (7) west, being in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and containing eighty (80) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 9th, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Phillips on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1885, made and executed a mortgage to William H. Hipps of the City of Rockford and Fifty Dollars, payable in three years from the date of said mortgage, with interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum, which mortgage was recorded in the office of register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1885, in liber 5 of mortgages, on page 294, and whereas the said mortgage has been duly assigned by said William H. Hipps to Wallace J. Hipp, by an instrument dated the 23d day of January, A. D. 1886, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 1, and whereas the now owned by the said Wallace J. Hipp, and whereas, the sum of Six Hundred and Fifty dollars of principal, and Twenty Nine Dollars and Twenty Five Cents of interest, and the sum of Twenty Five Dollars as an Attorney fee, provided by law on the foreclosure of said mortgage, making in the sum of Seven Hundred and Four Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents, ($704.25) principal and interest, is now claimed due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby said mortgage has become operative; therefore notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, to wit: Lot one (1) of section eighteen (18), in township thirty-three (33) north of range ten (10) west, being in the county of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated February 5th, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Jeremiah Nelson, of Boyne Valley, Mich., to Jacob D. Bartholomew of Charlevoix, Mich., dated July 26, A. D. 1883, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 13th day of November, A. D. 1883, in Liber 4 of Mortgages, on page 104 on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of ninety-one dollars and twenty cents, ($91.20) attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity have been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; now therefore, notice is hereby given that the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The south half of the southeast quarter of section twenty (20), town thirty-four (34) north of range ten (10) west, containing eighty acres of land, more or less, according to the United States survey, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, Michigan, on the 13th day of June, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day. The premises to be sold are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half (½) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty one (21), in township thirty four (34) north of range seven (7) west, being in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and containing eighty (80) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 9th, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Nancy M. Phillips, of Rockford, Mich., to William H. Hipps of Rockford, Mich., dated the 25d day of January, A. D. 1886, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 1, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Six Hundred and Fifty dollars of principal and Twenty Nine dollars and Twenty Five Cents of interest, and the sum of Twenty Five Dollars as an Attorney fee, provided by law on the foreclosure of said mortgage, making in the sum of Seven Hundred and Four Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents, ($704.25) principal and interest, and the same is now owned by the said mortgagee, at the date of this notice, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby said mortgage has become operative; therefore notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, to wit: Lot one (1) of section eighteen (18), in town ship thirty-three (33) north of range ten (10) west, being in the county of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated February 5th, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Jeremiah Nelson, of Boyne Valley, Mich., to Jacob D. Bartholomew of Charlevoix, Mich., dated July 26, A. D. 1883, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 13th day of November, A. D. 1883, in Liber 4 of Mortgages, on page 104 on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of ninety-one dollars and twenty cents, ($91.20) attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity have been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; now therefore, notice is hereby given that the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The south half of the southeast quarter of section twenty (20), town thirty-four (34) north of range ten (10) west, containing eighty acres of land, more or less, according to the United States survey, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, Michigan, on the 13th day of June, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

Dated March 9th, A. D. 1887.

JAMES P. BARTHOLOMEW,
Mortgagee.

J. MILO EATON,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage given by Francis A. Squires to Andrew Buckskamp, dated October 26, A. D. 1882, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 30th day of October, 1882, in Liber 7 of mortgages, on page 29, and owned by him, and he, the said Andrew D. Crucksham, hereby exercising the option to him therein given, doth hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage, as well as the interest thereon, to be now due and unpaid. The amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date hereof, is the sum of Two Hundred and Seventy-One Dollars and Forty Cents ($271.40), principal and interest, and a further sum of Fifteen dollars ($15) as attorney fee provided for by law on the foreclosure thereof, and no action, either at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, to wit: that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the township of Evangelina, Charlevoix county, Michigan, known as the southwest quarter (¼) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section three (3), in township thirty-three (33) north, of range six (6) west, containing forty acres of land, more or less, according to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in Boyne City, on the First day of April, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon.

Dated December 29, A. D. 1886.

ANDREW D. CRUICKSHANK,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage dated 1st December tenth, 1881, executed by George Mobertor and Henrietta A. Mobertor to Alice W. Willey and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on December 10th, 1881, in Liber 4 of mortgages, on page 420, upon which the entire principal and interest is now claimed to be due, amounting to a total due and unpaid for the recovery of which no suit has been commenced to foreclose, and the mortgage contained therein, by a statutory sale of the premises therein described as the north half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-six, town thirty three north, range ten west, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House (where the circuit court for the said county is held) in Boyne City, in said county, at twelve o'clock, noon, June 4th, 1887.

Dated March 10th, 1887.

ALICE W. WILLEY,
Mortgagee.

E. C. BARNUM,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Mich.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising can be contracted for in NEW YORK.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by J. Milo Eaton and Ellen J. Eaton, of Detroit, Wayne county, Michigan, to Mary J. Sweetland, of Detroit, Michigan, April twenty-sixth, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, in liber "N" of mortgages, on page 68, at six o'clock in the afternoon; and the same is now owned by the said Mary J. Sweetland; and whereas default has been made in the payment of an instalment of principal, due October twenty-ninth, A. D. 1886, and whereas, in and by the conditions of said mortgage, it is provided that should any default be made in the payment of any instalment of principal, or of any part thereof on any day whereon the same is made payable, and should the same remain unpaid for arrears for the space of ninety days, then in arrears for the space of ninety days, then in arrears sum together with all arrearages of interest, shall, at the option of the said obligee or her assigns, become due and payable immediately thereafter, in case default has been made in the payment of the instalment of principal and interest due on the day when the same became due; and whereas said instalment and interest has remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, the said Mary J. Sweetland, mortgagee, by reason of default in her option and does hereby elect to have the principal sum named in said mortgage, with the arrears thereon, become now due and payable, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; and whereas there is now claimed to be due and payable as aforesaid upon said mortgage and the notes accompanying the same, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Hundred and Seven Hundred and Twenty One Dollars, ($2,721) principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the aforesaid sum or any part thereof now remaining unpaid, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises herein described. Notice is therefore hereby given that on Friday, the Twenty-Ninth Day of April, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden), the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage with the interest at ten per cent and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, as is allowed by the statute in such case provided, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land, situate and being in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and described as follows, to wit: lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000.

Dated March 9th, 1887.

CHARLES R. PRATT,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. C. BARNUM,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.
Petoskey, Mich.

FOR MAN AND BEAST!

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES

Sciatica,	Scratches,	Contracted
Lumbago,	Sprains,	Muscles,
Rheumatism,	Strains,	Eruptions,
Burns,	Stitches,	Hoof Ail,
Scalds,	Stiff Joints,	Screw
Stings,	Backache,	Worms,
Bites,	Galls,	Swinney,
Bruises,	Sores,	Saddle Galls,
Bunions,	Spavin	Piles.
Corns,	Cracks,

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY

accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine.

The Lumberman needs it in case of accidents.

The Housewife needs it for general family use.

The Canaler needs it for his teamand his men.

The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.

The Miner needs it in case of emergency.

The Placer needs it—carry it along without it.

The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard.

The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply afloat and ashore.

The Horse-fancier needs it—it is his best friend and safest reliance.

The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.

The Railroad man needs it and will need it as long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.

The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and comfort which surround the pioneer.

The Merchant needs it about his store among his employees. Accidents will happen, and when those come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.

Keep a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of economy.

Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Immediate use in case of accident may prevent loss and loss of wages.

Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

These excellent Organs are unrivaled for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, and adaptability to the most ornamental and desirable organs for houses, schools churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION.
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL
COMBINED, MAKE THE

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Bureau of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

COMPOUND OXYGEN

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN

A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT

A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU.

FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN have the theory to refer in proof of their claims to the following named persons, some of whom have tried their Treatment: Hon. William D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Phila.; Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Phila.; Rev. Chas. W. Cushing, Lexington, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge H. P. Vroeman, Council Bluffs, Iowa, & hundreds of others in every part of the world.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN"—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND USES," is the title of a book of two hundred pages, giving full information of Drs. Starkey and Palen, which goes to all inquirers free. It contains a record of some remarkable cures in a wide range of chronic diseases, many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. It will be mailed free to any sufferer who addresses for it.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, the Blood, Special Medium, and the Nerve-Ganglion Nervous Centers are nourished and made more active. Thus the Fountain Head of all activity, both mental and physical, is renovated to a state of energy, and the nervous system, the origin, and not merely the recipient of force, is made healthy and effective.

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 195. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street.
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Bushnell, Charlevoix, Mich.
H. CROUTENHAIR. C. J. GRIER.

ART O'GALA, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., near postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

REID W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate Agent. Claims promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

N. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

E. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Adjoining Bank.

W. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

ROMAN CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services and Sunday school at 1.30 p. m., every day, at residence of W. F. Brown, corner of Bridge and Clinton streets.
WM. F. BROWN, warden.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 1.30 p. m. Sunday school close of morning service. Prayer meeting Sunday evening at 7.00. All meetings held at Masonic hall, over F. Cha. Cole's store.
W. D. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 1.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock.
W. W. WATSON, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.
W. H. MCCARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Wood's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

M. ALDERTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic physician. Office at residence.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

GRACE S. HARMON, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Tuesday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. U. Temple, Lodge No. 56, meets every Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. D. Council Lodge, No. 98, meets every Wednesday evening.

O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 156, meets second Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. L.—True Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 309, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

F. BROWN, Sec'y. W. A. SHAW, Master.

Town & Co's Bank of Charlevoix
Drafts drawn direct upon 1 st principal cities of Europe. Collections promptly attended to. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets for sale to and from Europe by the Leading Steamship lines.—Class National Bank, Liverpool, Queenstown, London, Paris, Antwerp, Hamburg, Bremen, Copenhagen, Christiania, Gothenburg, Inquire of Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids, Mich.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank
Incorporated under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.
Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
Henry Bennett, D. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Butters,
Geo. Hayes, A. Fox,
F. A. Smith.
CAPITAL $50,000
Surplus, $12,000
Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Exchange on all parts of the United States and Canada for sale at lowest rates.
Collections promptly made and remitted for on the day of receipt.
Interest allowed on Time Deposits.
Money loaned on approved securities.
CORRESPONDENTS:
NATIONAL PARK BANK.....New York.
NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.....Chicago.
FIRST NATIONAL BANK.....Detroit.

MOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
Good livery in connection. Fine coach, hack and buggy. Express, team and baggage line from Boyne City to Charlevoix for commercial travelers.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. FERGUS, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Newly rebuilt and refurnished. First-class in every respect. Good Stable in Connection with the House.

BATHBURN HOUSE, Charlevoix, Mich. This popular hotel is now open for the season of 1887. Good accommodations and good cuisine. Opposite the Bay of Charlevoix. Rates, $1 per day.
LORD & THOMAS.

1872. 1887
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

HEADQUARTERS
FOR
WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.
A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.
All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the latest, best and most improved Watches manufactured.
Repairing Promptly Done
1st Warranted.
C. E. BELLINGER,
Bridge St., - - Charlevoix.

WILL H. FRANCIS,
Furniture and Jobbing Shop.
—Will also do—
CONTRACTING AND BUILDING,
in Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in stock a full line of the latest and best Foot power machinery which enables me to do,
Jobbing, Repairing, Etc.,
OF SHORT NOTICE.
☞Shop on South Terrace, Opposite Harvey Jordan's residence.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my spring wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & SON'S TIME, CHARLEVOIX.
☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

Daily Mail
AND Stage Line
TO EAST JORDAN.
During the coming winter, Burns & Scroggie, mail contractors for E. Jordan, will carry the mail between Charlevoix and East Jordan, leaving Charlevoix at 7.00 a. m., arriving at East Jordan by noon. Returning, leave East Jordan at 1.00 p. m., arriving at Charlevoix by 6.00 p. m. Passengers and freight carried at low rates.
BURNS & SCROGGIE,
Charlevoix - - Mich.

Jos. Beauvais
BOAT-BUILDER.
The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, And Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Bat Livery
In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A. J. McLeod
Can be found at the old stand with a
FULL STOCK OF MEATS
Of all kinds
As Wholesale and Retail.
HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

F. E. Wood,
BARBER SHOP
And Bath Rooms.
Hot and Cold Baths at any hour at the day and evening.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR JOB WORK
AT THIS OFFICE.

THIS PAPER may be found on file in the Newspaper Advertising Bureau of Messrs. N. W. Ayer & Son, Advertising Agents, who are authorized to contract for advertising in this paper in NEW YORK.

The New Era.

It is coming! it is coming! the day is just a dawning;
When man shall be to fellow-man a helper and a brother;
When the monarch, with its gilded hall, and pomp and vanity, waning,
Shall give place to a kind and fostering mother.

When the men who work for wages shall not toil from morn till even,
With no vision of the sunlight, nor flowers nor birds solacing;
When the men who make the workers, blest with all the gifts of Heaven,
Shall the golden rule remember; its glad millennium bringing.

The time is coming when the man who cares not for another
Shall be counted as a stain upon a fair creation;
Who gives to fill his coffers full, his better self to smother,
As blight and mildew on the fame and glory of a nation.

Who heeds not if the children toil, no time for play or learning;
May keep the factory busy, nor care not if her mothers stitch, while making shrouds, burning Such men bring shame upon a State, and foul and disaster.

The hours are growing shorter for the million—those who are toiling,
And our homes are growing better for the 1,000,000 per to-day;
And the poor shall learn the lesson, how that God is not dead yet, nor has forsaken
The fair land and the forest of a grand humanity.

It is coming! it is coming! and men's thoughts are growing deeper;
They are giving of their minions as they pass on the onward sweep;
They are reasoning from the Gospel; man must be his brother's keeper,
And right, not might, will triumph, and the serfdom time be broken.

—Sarah K. Bolton.

THE ORB OF DAY.

Facts About the Solar System's Central Engine.

To visible globe of the sun is 1,250,000 times as large as the earth; within the surface so seen their lies a mass exceeding the earth's 320,000 times; the materials present in the sun's globe are the same as those which form the globe of our earth—at least, we know that iron, copper, zinc, sodium, magnesium, calcium, titanium, and a number of other metallic elements are present; hydrogen is certainly there in enormous quantities, and Dr. Henry Draper proved also that oxygen is present, and no astronomer doubts that those other elements which have not as yet been detected in the sun are really present in his mass.

Now, have we any evidence as to the way in which the mighty mass of the sun is disposed within that surface which incloses what we term his volume?—though in reality one can hardly say what his volume is, seeing that there are portions of his mass outside the surface which bounds his visible globe. Is the sun's mass uniformly distributed throughout that visible globe, 1,250,000 times as large as our earth? or, on the other hand, is the denser part near the surface so that the sun is what Prof. Young once suggested, a gigantic bobber? There are three lines on which we can seek for an answer to these questions.

Firstly, we find that the visible surface of the sun behaves in a manner inconsistent alike with the idea that that surface is near the real surface of an interior globe, and with the idea that the visible surface is part of a mighty vesicle or bubble. The spot zones are carried around at different rates, according to their distance from the equatorial solar regions. Not to follow Faye and others in niceties of calculation (far from justified by the evidence we have), I may say that the equatorial zone gains about one rotation in seven on the spot zones, or, roughly, some 2,700,000 miles in 200 days—say 13,500 miles per day. Such a velocity as this, close on 600 miles in a minute, could not possibly exist in a cloud-laden region (such as the visible surface of the sun undoubtedly is), and as affecting regions exceeding the whole surface of the earth thousands of times, unless that cloud-laden region were very far away from the real surface of the sun, and therefore from the fractional effects of the true solar rotation. The real mass of the sun, however distributed, can only rotate as one; the visible cloud surface has many rates of rotation; therefore there must be an enormous distance between the two.

Secondly, calculation has been made by competent mathematicians respecting the amount of polar compression which would arise from the rotation of a globe such as the sun appears to be at the average rate of rotation indicated by the solar spots. It is found that the polar flattening would be well within the measuring capacity of our best instruments. But if there is one thing certain about the sun, it is that (within such capacity) his apparent globe is not flattened at all. It is absolutely certain, then, that the real globe of the sun lies far within the surface of flowing clouds which we see and measure.

Thirdly, our earth has for every to tell about the sun's interior. We know from the earth's crust that, for periods of time which geologists now estimate by tens of millions of years, the sun's power has been at work on the earth's crust, by rain, wind, and storm, fashioning and refashioning the structures of that crust, now forming layers, anon cutting them up, but throughout leaving clear traces of his handiwork. Croll estimates the duration of this part of the earth's history—that is, of the time during which the earth's crust has been forming under solar action—at fully 100,000,000 years. In other words, our earth tells us of at least 100,000,000 years of sun work, at the sun's present rate of working. It is a matter of no importance whether we suppose that the sun has worked all the time at the present rate, or has sometimes worked with more energy, sometimes with less. In the quantity of sun work, not the way in which the work has been done, which alone has to be considered. Now, all physicists and astronomers are agreed regarding the sun's emission of heat as due wholly or almost wholly to solar gravitation, resulting in the steady contraction of the sun's mass. To get from the sum of past ages the amount of work which our earth tells us he has actually done, we must suppose him once to have been very much larger than he is now—how much larger we cannot say.

I take it also that the change which takes place in the aspect of the sun's corona as the number of sun spots varies, and the alteration of the physical condition of the corona—in such sort that when there are many spots its spectrum indicates the presence of glowing hydrogen, whereas, when there are few, the lines of hydrogen are few or wanting—correspond also with the theory that the time of sun-spots is a time of great eruptional activity. For the rush of ejected masses through the coronal region would cause the hydrogen present there (not an atmosphere, but irregularly distributed and moving around the sun) to glow with greater luster, so as to show the lines of hydrogen in the spectrum of the corona.

It is at any rate remarkable that all the facts known to us in regard to the sun-spots themselves, to the colored flames, and to the corona, should agree in confirming that which is already all but demonstrated by three strong lines of evidence, that the real working mass of the sun is very much smaller than the globe we measure as his, and that all the phenomena which give so great an interest to the study of the sun are due to tremendous forces at work tens of thousands of miles below the surface which limits our view of his globe and hides from us the processes by which the life of the solar system is maintained.—Harper's Magazine.

Buffalo Hunting.

In riding over the green turf of the open country, one sees everywhere white objects which so reflect the strong sunshine that they almost dazzle the eye. These are the bleaching skulls of the buffaloes that used to roam in these lands through this region. Every one has read how, only fifty years ago, millions of buffaloes wandered over nearly half of the United States; now there are no great herds except in the Territory of Montana, and from that territory more than a hundred thousand skins have been sent to the East in a year. For nearly every skin that is sent away, about half a ton of fine meat is left to decay on the prairie. It is a reckless waste of animal life, and I am sorry to say that our government does very little to stop it. Within ten years there will be no more great herds of buffaloes in the United States. Small bands of them will linger hidden away in valleys, but by the time some boys who read this have lived to be old men the American bison will probably be seen only where it is kept as a curiosity; just as the one little band of aurochs—the last descendants of the wild cattle which used to roam over all Europe—is kept by the Emperor of Russia. Still, even now, at times, single buffaloes of small bands of them will wander back here to their old grazing grounds. Last summer a party of hay-makers saw a band of a dozen or more in a remote valley behind the peak. And a few days later, one of our neighbors at the nearest ranch, beyond the mountains, was sitting in the doorway of his snug home one morning, after an early breakfast, when, to his astonishment, a great buffalo bull came trotting easily along within a hundred yards of the door. He would hardly have been more surprised had an elephant or a rhinoceros happened by. He ran for his rifle, but before he could get to see one at his own ranch. But his surprise left him breath enough to shout, "A buffalo! a buffalo!" The house was full of men just in from the work of gathering beef-cattle for shipment; and at the startling word, every man seized the nearest rifle or pistol or shot-gun, and dashed away to join the chase; only one or two stopping to saddle or bridle a horse. As soon as the chase began, the big beast ran swiftly into the thicket along the creek, and was able to keep out of sight for some time. The chase was long and exciting, but the buffalo's pursuers were too many for him. Some followed up his trail, while others watched the outskirts of the thicket; and at last one of the best marksmen among them, catching sight of the big black body, took a quick line aim and brought the buffalo down with a single bullet; so all the inhabitants of the ranch were feasted with buffalo-meat as long as it could be kept from spoiling. But where the great herds range, there is no such excitement about killing them.

One day a young fellow from the West, listening to the yarns of an old buffalo-hunter, said, as the hunter finished his story:

"It must be very exciting sport, John!"

"Well, I'll tell you how it is," said John. "It's about as exciting as if you were to go out into the corral and shoot a dozen of those old dairy-cows with a pistol."—Alfred Terry Bacon, in St. Nicholas.

They Were Not Sashes.

Before leaving this branch of the subject, it may be as well to mention the odd mistake that Gatsby made when he was walking on the Common, under the mingled and somewhat confusing light of the gas-lamps, the electric light, and the waning moon, the other evening. The young man was very much puzzled, he remarked to Brown, who was with him:

"What in the world do so many of these girls walking around with their beaux wear black sashes around their waists for?"

"Black sashes around their waists? Why, I haven't seen any," said Brown.

"There go a couple of them now!"

Brown looked. They were black sashes, no doubt, but the cloth looked to good eyes, remarkably like the sort of stuff that men's coats are commonly made of.

It is a safe fashion prediction that black sashes will continue to be worn on the Common for some time to come.—Boston Record.

TREE PLANTING.

Causes that Make it Necessary for Farmers to Plant Trees in the Fall.

Beyond question the early portion of the spring is the best time for transplanting nearly all kinds of fruit, ornamental and timber trees. Their vitality is then strong, and they are in the best condition to recover from the injuries caused by being dug up, transported a considerable distance, and placed in a new position. As the sap begins to circulate in the early spring the wounds inflicted while digging up the roots and pruning the branches soon heal. Leaves appear in a short time, and they shade the trunk and branches, keeping the bark moist and soft. The old roots extend in length, early in the spring, and now once start out in all directions, which seem to make the trees stand firm in the places where they are planted. The soil in early spring, unless the season is unusually wet and backward, is in the best condition for working. It can be readily packed about the roots, so as to make the newly-set trees stand firm. Rains are frequent in early spring, and they wash the soil about the roots, where it is needed. They also supply abundant moisture, which insures a speedy growth. A gradual increase of temperature, such as occurs in spring, is very favorable to recently-set trees of all kinds.

While early spring is in all respects the most favorable time for transplanting trees, many causes prevent doing the work at this season in the northwestern states and territories. The time for doing spring work in the fields is very short at best. All grains must be sown as early as the state of the soil will admit of working, in order to insure a good crop. The delay of a few days in sowing wheat, oats, rye, or barley will ordinarily cause a large reduction in the yield. Wet weather ordinarily greatly reduces the time in which the seeder, drill, and harrow can be used in the grain fields. As soon as the grain crops are put in it is necessary to prepare land for corn and potatoes. If the time these crops are planted trees have leaved out to such an extent that they are liable to suffer if they are removed. Besides the preparation of land for annual crops, the planting and sowing, there are many other kinds of work that must be done during the spring months. The manure about the stable and in the cattle-yards must be hauled out and the fences repaired about the pastures. On most farms in the northwest there are no hands that can be spared for obtaining and setting out trees.

It is often difficult to obtain trees from a distant nursery or forest in early spring. The roads are ordinarily in very bad condition, and often they are nearly impassible. Nurserymen, as a rule, are very busy. In many cases they can not fill orders at the times when they are given. In their hurry they are likely to injure the roots of many trees in taking them up. In the fall they have plenty of time for doing this work and will devote more pains to it. The patron of a nursery can make a better selection of trees in the fall than in the spring, when the finest specimens have been picked out and disposed of. The roads in the country are generally in very good condition late in the fall, and farmers have plenty of time to obtain trees from a nursery. They also have time for digging holes for the trees they obtain, and for setting them out. Farmers who had too much to do last spring to allow them to obtain and set out trees will do well to consider the propriety of obtaining them the present fall, for the reasons are that they will have as much to do in preparing for annual crops next planting season as they had at the commencement of farming operations the present year.

On places protected by shelter belts or rising ground trees may be planted in the fall to good advantage, as the high winds that occur during the winter will be prevented from doing them any injury. If trees are set in the fall in exposed situations most of their branches should be shortened and some of them removed before they are placed in position. By adopting this course they will be less likely to be injured by the wind. In any case the soil thrown about the roots should be firmly pressed down. Earth should also be drawn up about the trunk so as to form a cone several inches high. When this freezes it will prevent mice and rabbits from eating the bark. In the spring after the frost is out of the soil this cone of earth can be leveled down. Trees should not be set before all the leaves have fallen from them, as they promote the evaporation of sap if they remain on the branches. In a large proportion of cases root transplanted quite late in the fall do very well. Quite large trees can be moved in winter better than at any other time of the year, as has been shown by the managers of public parks. Their plan is to take them up with a large mass of frozen earth adhering to their roots.

There are many advantages in obtaining nursery trees in the fall, heeling them in, and setting them out the following spring. Any nurseryman will give full directions for the process of heeling-in. It consists essentially in laying the trees in small bundles, burying the roots to protect them from the frost and wind, and covering the earth over the roots with straw or coarse manure. A hole or trench should be dug deep enough to hold all the roots without crowding, while the trunks should lie in a slanting position, the tips being toward the south. Placed in this position they are liable to no injury except that caused by mice and rabbits. A location for protecting trees in this manner during the winter should be where there is a good drainage. Water should not stagnate in high mounds of trees are obtained in the fall and are to be planted they will be handy to set in the spring. If the work of preparing grounds or those in the last most of the labor incident to transplanting will be performed before the hurry of spring operations commence.—Chicago Times.

The Chestnut.

The application of the word "chestnuts" to an oft-told tale has become so general and is accepted so unquestioningly by a bored public that but few stop to inquire the origin of the term as used in that connection. It came about in this wise:

Two or three years ago a party of young folks of this city were enjoying themselves at a Hallowe'en party in the orthodox way, with apples, nuts, cider, and—jokes. One young man, who had probably been reading up an almanac or a volume of Joe Miller for the occasion, fairly deluged his companions with atrocities. Some were very good, some were bad, some were neither good nor bad, but all were unmistakably aged. The young man worked industriously at his anecdote mill and ground out his stories as the rate of about six an hour for several hours. His listeners good-naturedly laughed at his venerable witticisms until the hour of midnight approached. Then a fun-loving young damsel devised a plan to stop its flow of talk.

"Have a chestnut, Mr. Smith?" she said, when the young man commenced another story.

"Thank you," he replied. "As I was saying, when I saw the——"

"Chestnut, did you say?" put in one of his hearers.

"No, but——"

"Try a few chestnuts," said another.

"I have some," replied the unhappy young man; "just as I was saying, when I saw the——"

"Chestnuts?" said the original conspirator.

It was no use the young man gave up his story-telling, and the name "Chestnuts" has clung to him ever since.

The joke on the young man was retaliated in every direction, until an actor at the opera-house heard it. He thought the word "chestnut" very expressive, and used it in the course of conversation with his fellow thespians in its slangy sense. It was instantly caught up by his companions, for if there is anything your thorough-going actor dearly loves it is a new slang word, and within three months the word "chestnut," to designate a stale joke, rang through the dressing-rooms of every theatre from New York to 'Frisco. Now it has become part of the vernacular of the United States, and the primest maiden and the staidest deacon do not disdain to use the expressive slang term occasionally. Pittsburg is acknowledged to be a live, progressive city, with its natural gas, typhoid-fever, and city-hall rings, but not everybody knows that it was the birth-place of one of the most successful slang words of the century. The history of its origin has never appeared in print before, and no one can, therefore, say that this narrative is a "chestnut."—Pittsburg Penny Press.

What He Saw in Charleston.

"I was down in South Carolina during all of the earthquake trouble," said a commercial traveler, "and I never again want to be a witness of such scenes as I saw there. I'll not attempt to describe the incidents to you—they already been sufficiently touched upon in the daily papers. But there is one little phase of the thing which the newspapers have not seen mentioned. You know business was suspended in Charleston. All of the stores excepting grocery and provisions stores were closed. The banks were not open. The theatres had their doors. Even the newspapers suspended publication for an issue. But the day after the first shock, the earthquake I happened out by the race grounds, and I'll be durned if there wasn't two clubs in there playing, and quite a crowd sitting on the benches cheering the players. I went through a crack in the fence, and just then another earthquake came. The umpire motioned pitcher who was then in the box to pitch, because the home for a foul ball was to be called dead plate was straight. The umpire accorded to the request, and after a dab, play ball—batter up!" Then I saw institution which even the one Ad can't knock out."—an earlier Texas Talk.

Chicago Times.

Anderson Should Kiss.

How Mary Wood learn to kiss, says the Sun. Kiss so that after the dear of the kisses. If Mary Wood Nugget, and kiss according would leave a royal flush on the little mouth she would they have or in the would foul cultivate the tariff down to a revenue kissing is the good. Almost protectionist rapacity that the pound his ear, so greedily desire. Protection, is the economical policy which a Democratic Congress has pursued which has with stunningly been unable to gain the lean over hi. Had it not been for the economy and red; her tight the question of tax reduction up could approach pork where it stood soon be squarely through his ... Democratic House been as lavish lips to his, dry the people's money as their Republican lips for s... ... been—there would part time—h... no prospect of an impartial adjustment of the tariff question. The country would shout thanks and hopping up of clothes in the body to nurse it rest in peace and quiet. But, thanks to economy, necessary for tax reduction, you will be surprised to know that there will be no rest for the weary. Steele Mackaye, supposed to be the inventor of the Ffleeh, about how to escape from the demand, and the certainly, is a crazy reformer will "have moderately man, he said much of that for which they have so I do not think are correctly labeled." Protection is using Republican ... The great benefits they I make them ... Democratic ... Republicans ... Democrats ... Republicans ... Democrats ... Republicans ... Democrats

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The pork-packing establishment of John Taylor & Co., at Trenton, N. J., was destroyed by fire. The loss will reach nearly $200,000.

Fire broke out in the shaving house of W. S. Wood & Co.'s planing mill at Bingham, N. Y., and soon had its own share of flames. From the mill the flames spread to the immense lumber yard. The loss amounted to $100,000. A large number of workmen are thrown out of employment.

James Kearney, a New York citizen, in describing his assailants to police, said he had cash belonging to the firm with which he was connected.

The Government tried a dynamite gun in New York, and it threw a conical shell weighing 180 pounds, over 2½ miles.

Gambling losses to the value of $250.0 were, on Saturday, burned by the New York police authorities.

Ira Shafer, the counsel for Alderman Cleary of New York, who made such an irate and inconsiderate trade against the press, has made a qualified apology for the same to John A. Greene, President of the Press Club of New York, who had been a very pointed remonstrance on the subject.

WESTERN.

A frame boarding-house at the Colby mine, near Bessemer, Mich., was destroyed by fire, and twelve men perished in the flames. Of nine others, who escaped by jumping from windows, a half dozen were seriously injured. A dispatch from Bessemer, Mich., gives the following particulars of the shocking affair:

The building was a two-story frame structure, the first floor containing sitting room, dining, and kitchen, and two bedrooms, occupied by Frank Miller and his wife, in management, and the second floor was in one room, divided by twenty-one beds. At about 4 o'clock a. m., Miller was aroused by his wife and the two, together with the two girls in the next room, began escaping in their night clothes. Several men leaped from the windows of the second story, and others came down the stairway. The complete destruction of the building was the work of but a few minutes after the alarm was given. The village has no fire department and the building burned without possibility of help. As soon as the alarm could be spread the work of extinguishing the victims began. Fifteen men had left the building in safety, and twenty-three lost their lives. The list of boarders who names were ascertained as follows: James Ryan, John Harvey, John Ryan, Thomas Williams, J. Brasso, H. Rosava, Henry Rosava, Antonio Rosava, Antonio Rosava, Frank Johns, John Sutton, Frank Sutton. The failure to escape can only be attributed to confusion, and most of the victims were comparatively in their beds. The coroner's jury exonerated all parties concerned from blame in relation to the origin of the fire could be obtained. The survivors, who were quartered in the same room with him, he was awakened by a roaring sound and looking out of the window saw a flame rushed through the window. They could not escape through the window.

A Bowdle (D. T.) dispatch says: "Last reports from Legrere and LeBean say that great damage has been done to the high waters of the Missouri River. At LeBean people from the bottoms were compelled to flee to the high bluffs. Barfield Owen was on the roof of his building all night, and was rescued next day. Joseph McCarthy, Mc. Kirkland, and three others were drowned on the bottoms south of Legrere. Wilkins & Co.'s elevator is under water several feet of water."

Jackson Marion, (for the murder of John Cameron, fifteen years ago, was hanged last week at Bastrop, Mich.

Near Leetonia, Ohio, a freight train dashed into the rear of the Chicago express, which had been stopped for the purpose of taking the express messenger aboard. When were wrecked, the engineer of the freight, and three persons wounded, and escaped.

Fire and jail at Yorkville, O., was destroyed by fire. Prisoners were saved and the jail burned.

Mills, Minn., Mrs. Mansfield, aged her little girl, 1 in her jugular vein with a knife. The child died. The murderer is in jail.

Ling was hanged at the Ohio Penitentiary last week for the murder of William Williams, committed during the village of Chagrin Falls, May 20, 1886.

At Chicago on Saturday, the 23d, the sentences in office and convicts in the county Daniel Cronin; Adam Ochs, Commissioner, Chairman of the Board; John E. Van Pelt, assessor; Harry Varnell, Warden of the Asylum; William J. McGarigle, County Hospital; Charles Frey, Warden of the Infirmary; Elisha A. Robinson, grocer, furnisher of county supplies. The parties were arrested and gave bail.

Mr. John McGovern has been called to Omaha to conduct the editorial columns of the Evening Bee in that city. He has been identified for many years with the newspapers of Chicago, having held and filled with free ability responsible positions on the daily press, but it was perhaps as editor of the Current and as the author of several popular books that he became best known to the literary world. The Chicago Daily News says: "No doubt not that Mr. McGovern will be cordially welcomed by his professional brethren in Omaha—he certainly carries with him to his new field of labor the best wishes of the many Chicagoans who recognize his personal worth no less than his intellectual attainments and abilities."

The steamer Chesapeake, valued at $70,000, was burned at New Madrid, Mo.

The horse Oliver K., which was to have trotted Harry Wilkes for $10,000, April 7, strained a tendon at Los Angeles, and the race is off. Oliver K. pays a forfeit of $2,500.

The Hon. Samuel H. Treat, Judge of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Illinois, died last week at Springfield, Ill., aged 75. He had for some years suffered with Bright's disease, and his death was the result of complications growing out of that disease. He had been confined to his room but a few days.

Judge Treat was born in Otsego County, New York, in 1812, and were admitted to the bar in Illinois, in 1835, and commenced his practice at Springfield. He formed a law partnership with Stephen T. Logan, which continued for many years, and he became a partner of Hon. Abraham Lincoln. Logan had been Attorney General of Illinois during the term of Governor Edwards, and was subsequently president of the Land Office at Springfield. The death of Mr. Forquer left Judge Treat the leading lawyer of the city, and he was made United States District Attorney. Later a new District was formed and Stephen T. Logan was put on the bench. After serving about three months he resigned, and Judge Treat was appointed by Governor Bond to fill the vacancy. He was afterward elected to the same bench, serving till 1861, when he resigned to accept the Attorney Generalship of the State, serving continuously until March, 1866, when, the old United States District of Illinois was twice divided into the Northern and Southern Districts, he was appointed Judge of the Southern District by President Grant.

SOUTHERN.

A dispatch from Richmond, Va., says that a train went through a bridge nine miles from Lynchburg, on the Norfolk and Western Road. The bridge was in process of repair. Eight or nine workmen were killed and several others wounded.

The Governor of Virginia has been telegraphed by cable that the London bankers of State bonds are to appoint commissioners to proceed to Virginia and arrange with representatives of the State for a settlement of the debt. In consequence, a joint resolution for the creation of a commission has been introduced in the Senate at Richmond.

Owing to scarcity of grass in the Rio Grande district in Texas, thousands of sheep have perished of hunger. One firm lost 30,000 head.

Trouble with the cotton-handlers in New Orleans is seriously interfering with the trade.

A colored man named Johnson was executed at Marion, Arkansas, in presence of fifteen hundred persons, for an outrage on a young white girl left in his charge.

Veterans of the Union and Confederate armies in Virginia are contributing generally toward the erection of a monument to Gen. John Sedgwick, killed near Spottsylvania.

WASHINGTON.

It is stated that Commissioner of Patents Montgomery will be appointed Justice of the District Court of the District of Columbia.

Col. Lamont says that the fears recently expressed by Dr. Sowers as to the health of the President are entirely groundless.

The contract to erect the new agricultural bridge across the Potomac at Washington has been awarded to the Mount Vernon (Ohio) Bridge Company at $89,900.

Oscar S. Straus, a prominent importer of New York, has been appointed Minister to Turkey.

J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, is likely to be appointed a member of the Fisheries Commission.

The Treasury Department reports 654 distilleries in operation throughout the country, Kentucky leading with 156.

J. B. Doolittle, Jr., of Chicago, has applied to President Cleveland for the vacant judgeship of the District Court at Washington.

Instructions have been issued to department commanders to exercise strict economy in the matter of orders involving travel of army officers.

The President has appointed James F. Benedict to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Colorado.

The new extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States has been submitted by President Cleveland to the Senate. It calls for extradition for such crimes as manslaughter, burglary, embezzlement or larceny of the value of $50 or upward, and malicious injury to property, but makes a decided exemption in favor of merely political offenders.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The New York Herald publishes a number of interviews regarding the effect of the interstate commerce act. The general opinion seems to be that express companies are exempt from its operation, also that the great railway systems will consolidate and effect such tariffs as will crush out the lesser lines. It is said that the Pennsylvania, St. Paul, and Northern Pacific systems will consolidate; that the Vanderbilt roads will be put under one management, and that the Baltimore and Ohio deal is the first outcome of the bill. Commissioner Fink said that while some sections of the bill were admirable, the greater portion of it was impracticable. He thought it effect of the bill would be to drive prominent in the far West to the wall or to the slow export via the lakes. He believed the law would run a great many railways, and that many branches of industry that have thrived on competing rates. Vice President Thompson of the Pennsylvania road expresses great confidence in the Interstate Commission, and thinks the members will consider the best interests of the country in applying the law. The Pennsylvania Company will advance the rate for quarterly commutation tickets 20 per cent.

A contract has been made at Mexico, Mo., for boring a well three thousand feet, in search of oil.

Agents of California roads have announced that in future rates on wool to Boston will be 15.40 per 100 pounds, an advance of $4.75½. This, it is said, will make it impossible for Boston dealers to handle California wool.

The Railroad Commissioners of New York have presented to the Legislature a report against the heating of cars by stoves.

A mass meeting of commercial travelers held at the Palmer House in Chicago, decided to adopt no agreement or boycotting tactics toward the railroads on the mileage ticket and baggage question, but appointed a committee to co-operate with the similar committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association in bringing their mutual grievances before the railroad managers.

POLITICAL.

The Republicans of Cincinnati have nominated Amos Smith, Jr., for Mayor, and Gen. F. W. Moore for Judge of the Superior Court.

The Democrats of Chicago have nominated Carter H. Harrison for Mayor, John H. McAvoy for Treasurer, C. P. M. Allen for Attorney, and Henry Stuckert for Clerk.

The New Jersey House unanimously passed the bill giving women the right to vote for school trustees in school districts.

A bill has passed the Wisconsin Legislature awarding ill-imprisonment to persons who shall have carnal knowledge of girls under 13 years of age.

Senator John Sherman of Ohio delivered a political speech at Nashville, Tenn., before a very large audience, speaking on the subject of the Republican members of the Tennessee Legislature.

A bill to punish murder by hanging failed of passage in the Michigan House by one vote.

Mayor Carter H. Harrison positively declined the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Chicago.

New York telegram: "James G. Blaine's Western trip is entirely for business and recreation. He will visit his daughter, Mrs. Lent, Col. Coppinger, at Fort Wayne, I. T., and will put in a day at least in Chicago."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett, the actor, has instructed his counsel, Colonel Ingersoll, to bring suit for $50,000 damages for malicious prosecution against the President of the American Exchange, its Directors, and General Manager.

Col. Isaac Warnoth, a veteran of two wars, died at Salem, Ill. Among his eleven surviving children is Henry C. Warnoth, ex-Governor of Louisiana. Philip O'Brien died at Chicago on Saturday, aged about 105 years. He was born in Waterford, Ireland, in 1782. He had been a resident of Illinois thirty-three years. Mrs. John Farnham died at Utica, N. Y., at the age of 108.

The Scotia, from Marseilles to New York, went ashore on Long Island. The 1,300 passengers, however, were rescued without the loss of a single life. A temperance society is reported.

President Fitzgerald of the Irish National League in America has issued a long address calling upon the Irish people to rally once more to the support of the cause of Irish nationality and asking the American people and the American press to lend the Irish Parliament John Bright and other chief cities in readiness for immediate action.

Mgr. Rampolla del Tinduro, Papal Nuncio at Madrid, has been invested with the Cardinal's hat.

A convention has been signed between the Portuguese and Chinese Governments, in which China recognizes Portugal's right to the possession of Macao.

Orders have been given at St. Petersburg to place in a state of readiness for service eighty-seven torpedo vessels belonging to the Baltic fleet and the Fifteenth Division of the army.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The Governor of Missouri has signed a bill which places St. Louis under the operation of the licensing law. This statute demands the closing of bar gardens and saloons, and prohibits the running of street-cars, the publication of newspapers, and all kinds of traffic on Sunday.

The differences between the old and new Cotton Men's Councils at New Orleans, resulting in a strike, have paralyzed the trade, and no cotton can be shipped or sold. The old council of workers refuses to disband and join the new organization.

Paul Tulane, the philanthropist, died at Princeton, N. J., aged 87.

Mrs. Mary Manning, who was born in Ireland in 1782, died last week at Wakefield, Mass.

Hon. John H. Reagan met with a severe accident at his residence, near Palestine, Texas. The Senator is in the habit of taking horseback exercise every morning before breakfast. One morning, in mounting his horse for his customary ride, the saddle girth unexpectedly fastened, turned with the weight, throwing him violently to the ground, inflicting a severe injury to his spine. While his injuries are serious, no fatal results are anticipated.

The first application on the files of the interstate commerce commission is from the associated roads of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Alabama, asking exemption from the short-haul clause of the law, because of river competition.

It is stated that the Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad will go before the interstate commission with a distinct and definite proposal for the readjustment of the road's financial relations.

Emperor William received 1,648 congratulatory telegrams on his recent birthday. Many of the number were sent from the United States.

Mr. Parnell considers the Irish criminal law amendment bill one of the strongest coercive measures ever proposed in Parliament.

Father Ryan, of the Herberstown branch of the Irish National League, has been arrested and taken to Dublin for refusing to testify in relation to the Phœnix Park conspiracy.

The yacht Dauntless passed the finishing line at Queenstown at 6:45 o'clock Monday morning, March 28, the actual time on passage being 16 days, 1 hour, 45 minutes, 13 seconds. All on board were well, and the yacht was in as good shape as when she left New York. A London dispatch says: "The officers of the Cronstadt and other yachtmen are greatly pleased with the result of the race, and say it has served to show admirable qualities in the American yachts. Considering the time in the passage, the length of the two yachts, and the extraordinary heavy weather they encountered during the voyage, the Dauntless is thought to have done as well as her competitor."

Sentences of imprisonment for from one to twenty years have been imposed upon fourteen anarchists in Vienna who plotted to fire the city and blow up the imperial palace with dynamite.

In pursuance of an act of the Navy Department a year ago show that the ram-cutter-boats 110 feet in length, and by way of the Erie Canal torpedo boats 48 feet long can be taken from the Atlantic Ocean to the upper lakes.

For the week there were 432,387 standard silver dollars issued.

EXPERIMENTS tried with a new electrical device for use in locking sheets of paper by means of heat have proven quite successful. It is automatic, and notice of any trouble is signaled at once by electric bells.

COINBELLE, the great French dramatist, was born at Rouen in 1606, and died in 1684. The tragedy of "The Cid" is his most famous work.

IMPORTANT APPOINTMENTS.

Names of the Interstate Commerce Commission Given to the Public.

Judge Cooley, of Michigan, Heads the List, with Morrison for Second Place.

Schoonmaker, New York; Walker, Vermont; and Bragg, Alabama, Complete the Board.

(Washington special)

The President has appointed the following Interstate Commissioners:

Thomas M. Cooley of Michigan, for the term of six years.

William R. Morrison of Illinois, for the term of five years.

Augustus Schoonmaker of New York, for the term of four years.

Aldace F. Walker of Vermont, for the term of three years.

Walter L. Bragg of Alabama, for the term of two years.

Sketches of the Men.

Thomas M. Cooley was born in Adrian, N. Y., in 1824, and removed to Michigan in 1843, where he has since resided. In 1857 he was elected compiler of the State laws, and in 1858 he was chosen reporter of the Supreme Court. In 1859 he was appointed commissioner to organize the Law department of the University of Michigan, and he has ever since been connected with the department, for years as Dean of the Law department. He was defeated in 1885. He is the author of numerous standard legal works and holds high rank as a jurist. He was appointed Inspector of Taxation in 1882, and was executor of the Wabash Railroad.

William R. Morrison, of Waterloo, Ill., was born in Monroe County, Illinois, Sept. 12, 1825. He received all his education in schools and at McKendree College, Illinois. He studied law and was admitted to the bar. He was made Clerk of the Circuit Court of Illinois when twenty-one years old, and later was first Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives. He was elected to the Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, and Forty-ninth Congresses as a Democrat. In the contest for the United States Senatorship in the Illinois Legislature in 1885 he was one of the favorites of the Democratic members, and all through that memorable contest, which resulted in Logan being returned, Morrison held the sympathies of his followers. In the last Congressional campaign he was defeated by the Hon. John Lahr.

Aldace F. Walker is about 44 years old, and is a Republican in politics. He studied law with Senator Edmunds; the latter was a Colonel in the Union army, and since the war has practiced law at Rutland. In the Vermont Senate he has taken a leading part in framing the railroad and tax law, and has given much study to the question.

Walter L. Bragg was born in Alabama in 1845. He is a graduate of Harvard University and Cambridge Law School, and practiced law in Alabama for some years. At the close of the war he settled in Alabama, and was for some years the law partner of General Morgan. He has been a leading Democrat in that State for some years, and has served in the State Senate. Presidential elector, and member of the Democratic National Committee. In 1884 he was made President of the Alabama State Railroad Commission, and held to that position four years, during which time many important questions relating to the railroads and their customers were satisfactorily adjusted.

Answer Schoonmaker, of Kingston, N. Y., was born in Rochester, in that State, in March, 1825. He was bred to the law, and practiced it ever since. From 1851 to 1870 he was a member of the school board of a County Judge. In 1875 he was elected to the State Senate, and was re-elected. In 1882 he was nominated by the Democratic convention for Governor of Illinois, and was elected by a plurality of over 11,000. In 1879 he was president of the Rondout Savings, but was defeated. In 1871 he was the Democratic candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, but was defeated. In 1880 he was presented by the anti-Tammany delegation from New York to the Democratic State Convention as their candidate for Governor, and was a delegate to the Democratic National Conventions in 1876 and 1880, and also to the Chicago convention in 1884.

THE KANSAS BUTCHERY.

Willie Sell Confesses to the Murder of His Father, Mother, Sister and Brother.

How a Trivial Dispute Precipitated a most Horrible Murder.

(Kansas City special.)

Willie Sell, the 16-year-old boy who was convicted last week of murdering his father, mother, brother and sister, near the town of Erie, Kan., has made a full confession, in which he says that his father, J. W. Sell, a well-to-do farmer, was killed by his brother, and that he (Willie) killed his brother to revenge his father, and prevent Willie's his mother and sister. The murders were committed at night, and the first information of the tragedy was given by a neighbor, who awaked a neighbor and told him some man was burning his house. The neighbor found the bodies of the murdered people were found in the farm-house, with their throats cut from ear to ear and their heads crushed. The murderers awaked a village. The inhabitants found in a chair. Suspicion rested strongly on the boy and he was arrested, tried, convicted, and sentenced to be hanged. He is now in the county jail awaiting the signing by the Governor of the death warrant. The boy's confession is as follows:

My mother and sister lived alone in bed. Father, Way and I were still up, when the names got hot and came up around the house. Way set at the table reading. My father had just taken his coat and pants off to go to bed, and he told Way to go to bed, the calves up. He said: "Let Willie do it. I can't get up." Way said: "Let him do it, he should go, and Way did not want to, and, while they were talking, I went out and got the hatchet, which was sticking in a log of wood outside of the door, and I thought I should go, and Way did not want to, and, I hit him a lick on the left side of my head and struck father several times, at last knocking him down. When I saw what Way had done I ran to the door and called out and kicked it out of his hands, and, striking at the hatchet, I hit me on the head and knocked me down on the floor, and I supposed that he thought I was dead, because Way said that being done, jumped out of bed, screaming, and, before I thought what I was doing, I struck her. Ina, my sister, at that raised up in bed and screamed, and I don't know why I did it, but I struck her with the hatchet and she fell back. They were all lying quiet. I took off all my clothes except my shirt and drawers, then pulled off Way's pants, raised him up and carried him into the other room and put him into our bed. After that I went back and got the hatchet and pounded his head all to pieces. I felt mad at Way because he had killed father. I went to the cupboard and got the butcher-knife and cut Way's head nearly off. Then I went back into the other room and sat down, and I did not know what to do. Then I thought that if my sister was alive she would be very mad at what I had done. So I took the butcher-knife and cut their throats to make sure work of it. I then went out to the lane and down for several hours, but at last could not stand it any longer and again in the lane, and, putting on my clothes, ran over to Mr. Mendall's and told him some one was at our house with a hatchet and had hurt pa and ma."

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

The German Sovereign's Ninetieth Birthday Celebrated with Great Enthusiasm.

Presents to the Aged Ruler—Decorations Conferred on Many Prominent Persons.

(Cable dispatch from Berlin.)

The celebration of Emperor William's birthday was ushered in Tuesday, at Berlin, by the playing of bands and the sounding of a choral. Early in the day the streets were crowded with people in all the churches, which were attended by the Emperor, who drove to the city, and, after the service in the churches, in proceeding to the palace, he was cheered by the people who had assembled

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. [illegible] EDITOR.
CHARLEVOIX, [illegible] - MICHIGAN

[illegible] last day of March the pen[illegible] office issued 1,000 pension certif[illegible], which is the largest number [illegible] issued in one day by the bureau.

The [illegible] public debt statement, issued [illegible] shows the total debt to be [illegible] $1,875,313,[illegible]. The decrease dur[illegible] $29,000,000 [illegible] month of March was $12,808,[illegible].

Fire [illegible] Total cash in the treasury, [illegible] of which $[illegible] is held against outstanding certificates, leaving a balance of $[illegible] to the credit of disbursing officers.

[illegible] naval vessels of the United [illegible] amounts to $11,040 serviceable wooden [illegible] and 40 serviceable wooden [illegible] requiring extensive re[illegible] cash belonging [illegible] wooden sailing vessels, car[illegible] connected [illegible] and a dozen tugs, 13 serv[illegible].

The Govern[illegible] clads, carrying two guns in New [illegible] and a half dozen iron clads weighing 15,[illegible] to carry 38 guns all together [illegible] of $270,0[illegible] the total navy list 90 vessels, [illegible] New York [illegible] guns. There are also 40 [illegible].

Ira Sh[illegible] marine vessels, carrying 60 [illegible]. Then there are 21 coast-sur[illegible] Cleary of Then[illegible] and inco[illegible] made a g[illegible] vessels, 28 in the light-house [illegible] A. Green and four belonging to the fish [illegible] York, whosion.

[illegible] first the president appointed [illegible] V. Montgomery late commis[illegible] of Charles S. Fair [illegible] that great secretary of the treasury and [illegible] Taynard as assistant secre[illegible] people for [illegible] treasury. Mr. Fairchild [illegible] roof closed upon the discharge [illegible] duties. He was sworn in [illegible] Kirkland, a [illegible] by a notary public one [illegible] Skinner as the secretary's office and [illegible] washion of the office and desk [illegible] Jackson, copied by ex-Secretary [illegible] John Carlisle. The appointment of Sec[illegible] last week. Near [illegible]robald, and Assistant Secre[illegible] heard caused great rejoicing [illegible] which employed in the treasury [illegible] and many of them ex[illegible] congratulations in per[illegible] Maynard has been since [illegible] 88, second comptroller of [illegible], where he has made an [illegible] record.

[illegible] now as if Chicago might [illegible] trouble with strikers. [illegible] arming about 7,000 carpen[illegible] in the city and suburb[illegible] refused to go to work, a [illegible] have been ordered. The [illegible] carpenters, who, after [illegible] last summer, failed to [illegible] their demands for eight [illegible] an increase of wages, de[illegible] the contest, and think [illegible] building enterprise's [illegible] carpenters are badly [illegible] time has arrived to ask [illegible] tors yield. The [illegible] inaugurated. Within five [illegible] months the various branches have increased in number from 2,000 to 7,000, so that now there are scarcely three hundred men outside of their unions. With such an enormous increase of their membership and funds, the leaders are determined to once more make an attempt to gain their ends. The wages of the carpenters heretofore averaged 25 cents an hour, and their hours of labor varied between eight and ten hours a day. Two or three months ago the council decided to demand eight hours, 35 cents an hour, double time for Sunday and night work, and time and a half for overtime. And this seems to be the demand they are seeking to enforce. We trust that Chicago's experience of last summer will not be repeated.

Some time last year F. E. Leiter, late postmaster at Charlotte, was arrested and taken before the U. S. court at Grand Rapids, on a charge of having made false returns to the government with intent to increase his compensation. The case has since been pending, until the last term of that court, when the case was dismissed. The following certificate explains why it was dismissed:

CERTIFICATE OF DEPOSIT FOR SERVICES OF POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT.
Treasurer's office, form Treasury of the United States, No. 2. Act of March 3, 1883.
No. 87,[illegible]. Washington, D. C.
Duplicate. March 17, 1887.
I certify that F. E. Leiter, late postmaster at Charlotte, Mich., has this day deposited to the credit of the United States, for services of the post-office department, one thousand and four hundred and twenty-six dollars and twenty dollars, on account of six quarters, for which I have issued receipts in duplicate.
C. N. JORDAN,
Treasurer of the United States.
Countersigned, J. W. BAIRD,
Chief Clerk.

The amount named in the above receipt was the full amount claimed by the government and the settlement of the suit was made upon that basis.

Thus showing that the administration does not countenance fraud even in those holding high social position, but when the wrong has been made right, pecuniarily, it has no inclination to carry criminal proceedings further. Undoubtedly however, the result would have been different had Mr. Leiter been one of the administration appointees.

New Postage Stamps.

The postoffice department officials are having prepared a series of new designs of embossed stamps for stamped envelopes of the 1, 2, 4, and 5 cent denominations. The head of Franklin has been selected for the 1 cent stamp, and the heads of Washington, Jackson and Grant for the 2, 4, and 5 cent denominations respectively. The general design of the new series is uniform. On the upper side and following the oval shape of the stamp is the legend: "United States postage," instead of "U. S. postage," as on the stamp now in use. This new series will be ready for issue about May 1. The border of the 1 cent adhesive stamp has been slightly modified, to conform to the design of the 2-cent stamp.

Mr. Manning's Health.

Reliable reports as to the condition of ex-Secretary Manning's health have been received from England, confirming the most discouraging reports yet published. It is asserted that the ex-secretary was not improved by his voyage, and that his condition is now worse than when he sailed.

Telling Tall Stories.

One of the many rainy days this week, and at an hour when it was pouring the heaviest, one of Boardoff's absent-minded clergymen met a parishioner on Waite street, Beardoff, and the following amusing conversation ensued. Said the clergyman: "Good morning, Mr. ——, rainy day, isn't it?" "Yes," said the other; "it's charming." The two then went their different ways, but Mr.—— had only proceeded a few steps when he turned hastily, and looking after the minister said: "Bigosh, the minister is taking leave of his senses if he calls this a lovely day, and by the Lord Harry! I'm as big a whooper myself, for I said it was a charming day, and here's the rain coming down in bucketfuls."—Kingston Freeman.

Worried to Death.

The ups and downs of a business life kill off many men while yet they have years of work left in them. There have, within the knowledge of the writer, occurred the premature deaths of several very noted business men of Boston, who have died, not of physical causes, but of over-mental anxiety from disappointed calculations. The recent demise of a prominent commission merchant was due to the continued pressure of liabilities honestly assumed which he found impossible to meet. Another eminent merchant who once stood at the head of the dry goods trade in Boston died from overanxiety on account of the depreciation in manufacturing investments in which he was supposed to be interested. There are many such cases—more than the public knows of.—Boston Budget.

A turtle of the species popularly known as "rubber turtle" in southern latitudes, where its home is, was captured off the Massachusetts coast recently. It was twelve feet long, and when it was landed, a tent was erected over it and a big business done.

THE SPRING ELECTIONS.

Michigan is Republican by a Small Plurality.

Both Amendments Probably Defeated.

Edwin S. Pratt Elected Circuit Judge.

Vote of Charlevoix County in Detail.

The republican state ticket is probably elected by a small plurality. The vote was light throughout the state. The prohibitory amendment is yet in doubt. The liquor men were at first almost paralyzed by the vote in the large cities, as they expected a much larger vote in their favor. At first, those in favor of the amendment thought it had been carried by a small majority, but later reports place the matter in doubt.

Reports at noon to day indicate that Edwin S. Pratt, democrat, is elected circuit judge by about three hundred majority, though official returns may reduce this figure a little.

Below we give the vote of Charlevoix county in detail:

Circuit Judge.

	Pratt.	Ransdell.
Bear Lake	11	24
Boyne Valley	*4	*1
Charlevoix	101	180
Evangeline	....	*141
Eveline	20	135
Hayes	31	53
Marion	4	63
Melrose	33	58
Norwood	30	35
Resort	21	28
South Arm	146	226
Springvale	....	*1
Wilson	16	71
Totals	417	1005

*Majority.

Constitutional Amendments.

	Relative to Prohibition. Yes.	No.	Relative to Salaries. Yes.	No.
Charlevoix	178	109	96	51
Eveline	110	40	19	118
Hayes	70	18	15	48
Marion	52	14	15	14
Melrose	70	28	24	11
Norwood	33	21	26	15
Resort	26	25	11	15
South Arm	347	55	135	46
Wilson	77	32	11	26
Total	963	342	362	357

Justices of Supreme Court.

	Eight Years.				Two Years.
	Campbell, R.	Champlin, R.	Cooley, R.	Atkinson, G.	Cleaver, R.	Champlin, R.	Cooley, R.	Hutchins, G.
Bear Lake	4	4	4	....	....	....	....	....
Charlevoix	99	171	18	1	93	173	19	1
Evangeline	....	....	....	....	14	127	1	....
Eveline	19	130	1	....	19	130	1	....
Hayes	14	43	1	14	17	43	1	14
Marion	14	50	....	14	14	49	1	14
Melrose	31	53	....	14	30	53	....	14
Norwood	15	34	6	....	14	45	6	....
Resort	20	27	1	....	20	27	1	....
South Arm	89	260	48	13	78	263	52	13
Wilson	47	62	8	....	48	62	8	....
Totals	339	782	86	13	345	795	90	13

Regents of University.

	Sessions, D.	Visscher, D.	Gardner, D.	Gilbert, D.	Hilsdale, R.	Millar, G.	Sampson, D.	Frieman, P.
Bear Lake	4	4	4	....	....	....	....	....
Charlevoix	99	171	18	1	93	173	19	1
Evangeline	....	....	....	....	14	127	1	....
Eveline	19	130	1	....	19	130	1	....
Hayes	29	39	45	45	17	14	....	....
Marion	14	50	....	14	14	49	1	14
Melrose	30	56	52	52	3	3	....	....
Norwood	15	34	6	....	14	45	6	....
Resort	20	27	1	....	20	27	1	....
South Arm	89	260	48	13	78	263	52	13
Wilson	47	62	8	....	48	62	8	....
Totals	327	335	185	125	207	148	67	13

Township Tickets.

BEAR LAKE.

Supervisor, John Kilborn; clerk, S. A. Sutliff; treasurer, D. Herring; justice, John Small; school inspector, John Pierce; highway commissioner, Chas. Hawkins; constables, Orin Clapper, Ed. Krause.

CHARLEVOIX.

Supervisor, John Burns 121, F. J. Meech 172; clerk, W. W. Cross 193, H. S. Hazen 192; treasurer, C. E. Swallow 104, Harrison Bedford 190; justice, L. E. Allen 183, Robt. Miller 162; school inspector, J. B. Allen 193, R. W. Kane, 163; highway commissioner, R. Mudge 292; drain commissioner, A. Cameron 191; constables, Wm. Scroggie 104, Geo. Pappin 102, E. W. Bennett 102, John Bell 292, John Mason 144, Thomas Kelly 194, Sib. Ackert 146, Harvey Wilson 45, Geo. Bates 45, John McCabe 49.

EVELINE.

Supervisor, Ave Smith 152, E. Ferris 2; clerk, R. A. Miller 160; treasurer, S. B. Brown 157, A. B. Steele 4; justice, Fowler Steele 161; school inspector, C. Lane 160; highway commissioner, R. Williams 99, Chas Bechtel 62; constables, E. Jackson, 161, H. Halladay 160, John Backenstoes 159, John Montie 140.

HAYES.

Supervisor, Fred Smith 59, J. A. Bacot 34; clerk, Charles Whitford 46, Oscar Tillotson 46; treasurer, Moses Cooper 50, W. C. Arnold 43; justice, A. W. Chew 50, H. S. Newson 43; justice (vacancy), Alex Ross 52, W. B. Sayers 40; school inspector, J. E. Chew 47, I. S. Webster 36; highway commissioner, Frank Kane 52, Chauncey Howe 40; constables, A. Norman 92, Frank Kane 50, Fred Willis 44, Herbert Hopkins 42, F. Snethen 42, John Murry 39, W. Whitford 51.

MARION.

Supervisor, J. G. Reed 25, Geo. Cooper 47; clerk, W. D. Thomson 72; treasurer, Albert Black 22, J. A. Johnson 48; justice (full term), L. D. Porter 23, John Newman 49; justice (vacancy), J. A. Johnson, 15, John Shapton, Sr. 57; school inspector, J. H. O'Neil 72; highway commissioner, D. J. Bigelow 21, Henry Dixon 49; constables, Geo. Rice 73, Bud Hull 72, Anthony Clark 23, Myron Geer 23, C. W. Preston 71, Ben Nowland 72.

MELROSE.

Supervisor, A. K. Smith 104, clerk, A. Wiggins 57, W. Kerns 47; treasurer, Orvill Card 102; justice (full term), B. Howard, 104; justice (three years), W. C. Niles, 103; justice (one year), John Jones 103; school inspector, Orvill Card, 103; highway commissioner, J. Jordan 93; constables, E. Brian 104, S. K. Stone 102, E. A. Easton 104, H. A. Howard 104.

NORWOOD.

Supervisor, Wm. Harris; clerk, Wm. F. Pearl; treasurer, James O'Brian; justice, full term, Wm. Harris; justice, vacancy, John Muirhead; school inspector, John Muirhead; highway commissioner, Wm. Pearl; constables, James O'Brian, Wm. F. Pearl, Charles Smith, Joseph Bileau.

RESORT.

Supervisor, John B. Williams 31, C. J. Wooden 22; clerk, S. S. Shepard 22, M. A. Thompson 22; treasurer, Luther Odell 52; justice, full term, L. Odell 30, J. Z. Davis 21; justice, vacancy, J. A. Tubbs 31, J. A. Vandemark 21; school inspector: E. Morford 53; highway commissioner, Henry Bacon 35, Julius Martz 17; drain commissioner, Chas. Nadolsky 32, constables, Julius Martz 32, Fred Ernst 31, Josiah Couch 31, J. A. Vandemark 32, Douglas Thompson 21, Isaac Bacon 21, Clyde Morford 22.

SOUTH ARM.

Supervisor, Frank H. Ranney 275, H. B. Hipp 137; clerk, Loren C. Madson 268, Phil Lanway 143; treasurer, H. L. Page 255, S. G. Isaman 157; justice, H. P. Barber 412; school inspector, Geo. W. Fast 412; highway commissioner, Geo. Hayner 331, J. W. Isaman 80; constables, Jacob Rogers 112, Chas. Reinhart 393, D. Caton 265, Hugh Whitefoord 262, D. J. Murphy 152, John McTravish 151.

WILSON.

Supervisor, Geo. W. Bailey 53, Marion Hoskins 59; clerk, Geo. R. Mills 39, John A. Newville 80; treasurer, S. M. Richardson, 117; justice, full term, John H. Bills 58, R. Todd 52; justice, vacancy, Van R. Newville 63, Van Newville 57; school inspector John A. Newville 51, E. S. Brentnal 65; highway commissioner, John W. McShea 63, Ash F. Herron 53; constables, John Bennett 52, Robert Shepard 56, Wm. Staley 55, Charles Knop 119, John W. McShea 63, Fred Deitz 61, Richard Lewis 63.

Our correspondents in Boyne Valley, Chandler, Evangeline, Hudson, and Springvale did not communicate to us the result of the election in time for this weeks' issue.

A STARTLING FACT.

It is not startling to know that a large proportion of the rheumatism and neuralgia extant is traceable directly to the diseased condition or imperfect action of the kidneys and liver; therefore a remedy which cures the resulting disease must have found and smitten the first cause. Many persons using Athlophoros for rheumatism and neuralgia have been surprised to find that chronic disorders of the liver and kidneys have also been greatly relieved and they have written for an explanation. The fact is, that the remedy acts directly on these organs, cleansing them from all irritating substances and regulating their action. Taken in connection with Athlophoros Pills this is, without exception, the most valuable kidney and liver remedy in the world, and will cure a large proportion of those who have these disease.

Madison, Wisconsin.

My wife was seriously afflicted with rheumatism, principally in her arm, she has now used two bottles of Athlophoros and is well and free from pain.
A. LETZOW,
121 N. Butler Street.

Patesli, Mich.

About March 21st my wife was taken with a severe attack of rheumatism, upper and lower limbs swollen badly; great intense pain, and part of time was obliged to remain in bed. I commenced treatment with no relief; was induced to try Athlophoros. Why, after taking six doses the pain was entirely gone and swelling all reduced. The medicine has worked like a charm, and I feel assured that another bottle or two will give positive cure.
Yours truly,
R. B. WATSON, 181 18th Street.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

Suffering from rheumatism, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of the kidneys, liver, urinary organs, or blood, the Athlophoros Pills are unequalled.

G E O. W. M I L L E R
O W M I L L E R
I am not selling out, but I am selling all the goods I can; and if you will give me a call, I will convince you that I am selling better goods for less money than can be bought in this or any other town. The "I off" and "selling out" sales are getting old. All I ask is, give me a call for anything in the clothing line and convince yourself.
G E O. W. M I L L E R

Ladies', Gent's and Children's
Footwear
Of Every Description, at
FOX & MILLER'S,
Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.
☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

PERRY WEED
DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Sash, Doors, and Blinds,
Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.
Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.
A GOOD STOCK OF
PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING
FLOORING, CEILING, AND LUMBER GENERALLY ON HAND.
Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.
Summer Cottages a Specialty.
CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Day and Night
During an acute attack of Bronchitis, a remarkable feeling of dry throat, and an exhausting, dry, hacking cough, afflicts the sufferer. Sleep is banished, and great prostration follows. This disease is characterized with Hoarseness, and sometimes Loss of Voice. It is liable to become chronic, involve the lungs, and terminate fatally. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral affords speedy relief and effectual cure of Bronchitis. It controls the disposition to cough, and induces refreshing sleep.

I have been a practitioner for twenty-four years, and, for the past 20 yr's, have suffered from annual attacks of Bronchitis. After exhausting all the field recommends, at last,
Without Relief,
I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It helped me immediately, and effected a speedy cure.—G. Stowell, M. D., Cowesbiss, Miss.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is decidedly the best medicine, within my knowledge, for chronic Bronchitis, and all lung diseases.—M. A. Rust, M. D., South Paris, Me.

I was attacked, last winter, with a severe Cold, which, from exposure, grew worse and finally settled on my lungs. By night sweats I was reduced almost to a skeleton. My cough was incessant, and I frequently spit blood. My physician told me to give up business, or I would not live a month. After taking various remedies without relief, I was finally Cured By Using two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I am now in perfect health, and able to resume business, after having been pronounced incurable with Consumption.—F. P. Henderson, Gallipolis, O.

For years I was in a decline. I had weak lungs, and suffered from Bronchitis and Catarrh. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral restored me to health, and I have been for a long time comparatively vigorous. In case of a sudden cold I always resort to the Pectoral, and find speedy relief.—Edward D. Lane, Fort Ann, N. Y.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Bronchitis. The physicians attending me became fearful that the disease would terminate in Consumption. I tried various patent medicines, without benefit, but finally resorted to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved me at once. I continued to take the medicine a short time, and was cured.—Ernest Colton, Logansport, Ind.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

THE GRAND RAPIDS
DAILY DEMOCRAT
Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail a
50 CENTS A MONTH!
Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.
Try it.

A DOUBLE-HEADER
NEW DOUBLE ACTION "TEASER"
Force Pump.
Simplest, Cheapest, Best Durable. For Cows, Calves, Pigs, Sheep.
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.
☞ Jackson, Mich.
Mention this Paper.

FLORAL GUIDE
FOR 1887
Now ready, contains 3 Colored Plates and hundreds of Illustrations, and tells how to make Gardens and Lawns, how to Propagate and Cultivate Plants, Flowers and Vegetables, with Descriptions of most of the Choicest Varieties, and Prices of Seeds, Plants, Bulbs, etc. Sent for 10 cents. Deduct 10 cents from first order. Published in English and German. Edition, 1,000,000. Address, JAMES VICK, Rochester, N. Y.

Poster Printing
Quick and Cheap,
At the Journal Office.

THE JOURNAL
Charlevoix, Mich., April 7, 1887.

Sewing Machines.—If you want a good machine cheap, call on D. Sherwood, at his shoe store on Bridge street, and examine the American No. 7, and learn prices.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192mf.

☞ Those fine Cabinet Photos only three dollars a dozen for another month, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

Charlevoix young people patronize the rink well.

Vesselmen are getting ready for a busy season.

Will Aldrich returned to Chicago last Saturday.

The boy's band play some nice music now-a-days.

Will Horton drew the prize clock at A. J. Mudge's last Saturday.

On account of the storm on Monday the Petoskey mail did not return.

Reports from the Michigan peach belt indicate a large crop for this season.

Albert Miller and wife have removed to Mackinac Island for the present.

John Bell is painting the interior of his store to get ready for the spring trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Weed are trying to entertain a little girl who arrived last week.

The Soldiers' Home contains 300 veterans, 24 of whom are at present in the invalid corps.

Charlevoix is to have another saloon in the Lewis block; Renard, of East Jordan, proprietor.

Mrs. J. E. Wood returned Tuesday from her visit to Ludington, where her husband is in a drug store.

Harry Sayles, the boy preacher, will commence a series of revival services in the M. E. church, Sunday, April 17th.

Will Francis reports a gratifying increase of business since he moved the shop to his lot on the south terrace.

The estate of the late Edward Breitung of Negaunee, amount to $7,000,000. The widow and one son are the heirs.

Alt. G. Drake, of Kalkaska, was in town yesterday in attendance at a director's meeting of the D, C. & E. R. R. Co.

Bryant Wood returned last Thursday to his school near Manistique, where he has a four months term to finish.

L. E. Allen is receiving piles and getting ready to commence his work on the harbor as soon as the ice will permit.

Henry Barth went to Torch Lake Tuesday to repair tug and mill boilers for Cameron Bros. We hear nothing about tug.

Mrs. C. M. Buzzell, of Fort Clinton, Ohio, is visiting at E. H. Green's. She arrived on Tuesday and will remain some time.

J. S & J. R. Dixon have a fine herd of Holstein cattle at their "Terrace Farm," which they call attention to in another column.

Prosperity seems to be abroad at Gaylord. The Herald comes out April first in a new dress and enlarged to a six column quarto.

There will be preaching at the Black school house in Marion next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock, and at Johnson's school house in the evening.

Ladies should not forget the regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. at Jefferies' hall, every Friday afternoon at 2:30. Be sure to come this week.

J. A. Heath came home from Mackinac Island last Friday and remained until Tuesday. Mr. Heath has charge of a gang of men on the mammoth hotel.

E. W. Craine went to Cadillac to spend Sunday last, returning yesterday. He says that he will make Charlevoix his house for some months yet at least.

Isaac Mills and wife returned to their old home at Stratford, Ont., last week for a visit, and now sends word that he intends to remain there during the summer.

Misses Sarah, Lizzie and Ella Aldrich have purchased the millinery and dressmaking business of Smith & Cooper, and will continue at the Ingleside. Their good work and thorough acquaintance in this vicinity should bring them a large trade.

Jared Bradshaw, of Spencer township, Kent county, 58 years old, has been married 28 years, and he is now staying up nights helping his wife to care for their first baby.

The tug D. P. Hall, of Frankfort, will run here same as last summer. All of the old crew will be with her except engineer, whose place will be filled by Frank Barney.

Loyal Legion meets next Saturday at Green's hall. Please remember that everyone is invited, and it is desired that all should take advantage of the invitation and be present.

Rosenthal & Son have a large stock of clothing, and dry goods, that they must sell before the expiration of their present lease. They offer special bargains, call and look them over.

When you get ready to paper your homes this spring and want something nice and tasteful in the wall paper line, just go to Crouter's drug store and look over his stock. It will pay you.

Al. T. Washburn having bought the interest of F. W. Craine in the co-partnership of F. W. Craine & Co. that firm was dissolved March 31st. The firm will now be known as A. T. Washburn & Co.

E. E. Mudge has entered into co-partnership with his father A. J. Mudge, and the firm will continue doing business at the old stand on Antrim street, under the firm name of A. J. Mudge & Son.

We learn indirectly that Scott Phelps, son of Hon. E. C. O. and Mrs. Phetteplace, living some miles southeast of Petoskey, died last Saturday of lung disease, after an illness of nearly three months.—Record.

W. A. Smith returned home from Grand Rapids and Stanwood Wednesday. Mrs. Smith will remain at Stanwood some time yet. Mr. Reed whose supposed fatal illness called them there, is improving.—Sentinel.

"Kid" Navin, of Adrian, who has had a snap in state prison ever since his confinement, has been put to work in the wagon department and now stands no higher in prison social circles than the ordinary, everyday thief.

Gurley Book has been employed by the village council as chief engineer of the fire department. He will move his family into the private rooms of the village hall, and take charge of the building and the township library.

Litsey & Steimel are now well settled in their livery and feed barn on south Bridge street, and are ready to accommodate their patrons with first class rigs. Look over their new advertisement in this week's JOURNAL and then patronize them.

There is an opportunity for those who will, to have a hand in an important improvement of our village just now. The heavy snows of winter have deposited a quantity of sand in the sidewalks and thus add greatly to the convenience of the numbers that throng the streets at this season.

If the firm of A. T. Washburn & Co. continue business, which we hoped at the head of their new ad. this week they will probably scoop in all the trade of this vicinity. Mr. Washburn, who is now at the head of the firm, has a large portion of acquaintances and we predict for him success.

At the annual meeting of the ladies aid society of the M. E. church, held at Mrs. L. E. Allen's this week, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. L. E. Allen, president; Mrs. W. H. McCartney, first vice president; Mrs. F. J. Meech, second vice president; Miss Alice Cochran, secretary; and Mrs. J. A. Hawkins, treasurer.

Let the undaped Michigander beware lest he fall a victim to the "St. Andrew's Bay, Fla., Land company," swindle. It offers cheap homes for mechanics, city lots, homes for farmers, 40 acres for almost nothing, and other schemes too numerous to mention. There is no work there for laboring men, a number of which Florians have been inveigled into the meshes of the villains, and they warn everybody to shun their fate.—Kalkaska Leader.

Now that the weather is more like balmy spring, and the laboring man and mechanic, as well as the man about town, feel like shedding the heavy clothing of winter, and donning light and fashionable attire, they will consult their pocket books, and repair to G. W. Miller's clothing house, in the Buttars block, and there select from the finest stock ever kept in Charlevoix, the most stylish of goods, and carry them away for a very little money. All sizes, all styles, all prices, from to bad there. No other worn goods—everything new, and stock complete in everything.

The Loyal Legion entertainment at the opera house Saturday evening was a success in every respect, and shows that its directors, Miss Alice Cochran and Mae Waterbury possess skill in managing and teaching children. The opening address of wel come was given by Master Freddie Myers in a dignified and manly style which made all glad to be present. The program consisted of vocal music recitations etc., "Mother Goose and her temperance family" performing a very interesting part. The sentiment was temperance and very appropriate for the occasion. They cleared $17.

A Chicago paper says: "Two years ago every man who had a dollar invested in floating property would have been glad to sell out at a big sacrifice. This year vessels command a premium. A vessel that could have been bought for $80,000 18 months ago will readily bring $100,000 now. Shipyards that have been practically idle for years have bustled with industry, in order to supply anything like the demand and new yards have come into existence. A reporter his visited them all with in the last two weeks and found 46 new vessels in various stages of construction, representing an aggregate carrying capacity of 95,000 tons and a cost of $6,500,000. Of these vessels all but three are steamers"

S. E. Watson, superintendent and manager of the Michigan Bell telephone system, of which the Charlevoix exchange is a part, was last week selected as Eminent Commander of De Molai Commandery No. 5, of Grand Rapids, Mich. This places Mr. Watson at the head of a society composed of about 225 of the best citizens of Grand Rapids, and is considered a very great honor, especially as he is now but 31 years old, and has lived in that city but fifteen years, seven years as an operator in the service of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and the past eight years as the manager of the telephone exchange. Sir Knight and Eminent Commander Watson has many fraternal and other friends who are glad that he has been thus honored, yet feel that he has won all that he has secured, and that still higher honors are in store for him.

Eveline.

We had a shower of rain on Sunday.

The storm on election day prevented a very large number of our voters from attending the polls, and the consequence was only 162 votes were cast against 261 last fall.

Roads are good on Pine lake and South Arm; also good skating.

Rev. J. T. Iddings, who spoke on the amendment at the Hillegas district last Friday evening, had a full house of interested listeners.

Now is the time to get your summer stove wood, before the snow is entirely gone.

A brother of James Graham of this place arrived here from Canada, last Friday, on a visit.

Mr. Staley's family are still very sick. We understand it is scarlet fever.

Mr. O. Galbraith, of this place finished his winter's work a week ago. He has drawn since the first of Jan. now last fall 460 cords of furnace wood and nearly 30,000 feet of hard wood logs. Duke is an enterprising man and knows how to work things cute you bet. Although he has been here only about four years, he has about 30 acres of land cleared, and contemplates doing a very large amount of fencing with wire, and expects to build a barn, besides getting out a large amount of bark next summer.

Gentle spring is here again, and soon the lumbermen will bid the camps farewell, and hustle over the roads to their homes.

The first spring song,—a robin redbreast last Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Butler, of Ironton, lost a little daughter Monday of consumption.

April 5th, 1887.

Burgess.

Blizzardy for township meeting, consequently there was a light vote in our town. However, we feel proud of the township of Hayes: 70 in favor of prohibition to 17 against. Two township tickets in the field: Citizens and Union. The Citizens' was elected by a small majority, with exception of township clerk, on that there was a tie.

Geo. McRoberts has gone to the south part of the state.

Geo. Willis' little child is improving under the medical care of Dr. Hill, of Boyne City.

Mr. Ramsay, of Carpenter, who home last Saturday, and brought three horses with him.

Quite a sugar party at the Ross school house, April 4th. All was sweetness. About 100 present.

Josiah Gibson is confined to the house.

Time to commence making garden, but the opportunity is lacking.

April 5.

Card of Thanks.

The W. C. T. U. ladies desire to express their heartfelt thanks to those who showed them such liberal patronage on election day, and to those who have contributed so liberally to the campaign fund. They wish also to thank Dr. Lewis for his generous loan of the room in which lunch and supper were served. We appreciate the kind assistance given by those ladies not members of our union, and thank them for their hearty co operation with us. We feel that the result of our efforts rests in God's hands and that it is He who decides the fate of nations.

MRS. L. E. MUDGE, Sec'y.

Historical Society.

The society met at the residence of E. H. Green on last Friday night, and passed a very pleasant evening. The several parts were all good. An instrumental selection by Miss Sadie Miller opened the exercises, and was followed by an entertainment by the kindergarten in which the little folks did nicely. The paper of the evening, by Miss Gage, subject, "Influence of the Church in Education" was a creditable piece of work, and did honor to the author. A vocal solo by Dr. Carlstein, and the song "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" closed the program.

Ellsworth.

March weather yet.

Our druggist is gone.

Monday was a great day for shaking hands.

How is Michigan after election, a wet or dry state.?

The ice on Intermediate lake was covered with water Monday morning, which will render travel on it impossible.

Wesley Cole and family passed here Monday, on their way to Atwood to visit friends.

April 4.

M. E. Church.

Our Sunday school is growing in numbers and interest. Don't forget teachers' meeting on Tuesday evening.

Prayer meeting on Thursday at usual hour; all invited.

Easter services morning and evening. Preaching by the pastor.

Young people's meeting led by Rev. W. G. Clark. Topic: "Encouragement to prayer," Matthew 7:7.

W. H. MCCARTNEY.

Thanks for the Compliment, Bro. Bentecon.

We are glad to note that the Charlevoix journal, the lively democratic paper of Charlevoix county, supports the prohibitory amendment. The only soft spot in Bro. Strang's head is his bump of democracy.—Petoskey Record.

A Million Dollars.

Millions of dollars would be saved annually by the invalids of every community, if, instead of calling a suspicious or every ailment they were wise enough to put their trust in Golden Seal Bitters, a certain cure for all diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood and Liver, such as Scrofula in its various forms, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Female Irregularities, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Exposure and Imprudence of Life. No person can take these Bitters according to instructions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair. Golden Seal Bitters contain more in list of cures more than any other medicine known, and have already acquired a great celebrity, being used generally as a family medicine. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co., and G. W. Crouter.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Billiousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. 20w1

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known to his practice as Dr. Pitts's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Pete's 25-cent Cough Cure. It the safest, the surest and the best. No other Cough, Cold, and Consumption remedy is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co., and Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Energy will do almost anything, but it cannot exist if the blood is impure, and moves sluggishly in the veins. There is neither so good for invigorating the blood and invigorating energy in the system as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Price $1. Six bottles, $5. Sold by druggists.

SELLING O[illegible]
at
ROSENTHAL & SON
COME AND GET
Bargains

J. S. & J. R. DIXON
Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.
TERRACE FARM. - - - CHARLEVOIX.

New Fir[illegible]
WITH [illegible]y
NE[illegible]
SPR[illegible]
GOO[illegible]

We greet you, friends and patrons, with a full line of [illegible] just received, from the east, at prices lower than the lowest. We invite you to call, and look over our lines of wash [illegible] as Batistes, Century Cloths, Nainsooks Satteens, Chambreys, [illegible] Crinkled Seersuckers, Pongees.

Also our beautiful trimmings and spring suiting, such [illegible] Suitings, Moravian Tricots, Henri

TWO THIEVES.

By LARRY LINNET.

THE ONE.

"In the cashier of a bank,
Where he lived in princely style,
Which was small at first,
Because all the while,
"He was robbing the one
Who is goodly pile.

"The Directors know it not,
Nor any "leakage" found,
Which shows what a master wrought
Was Dan—or Lorenzo—
Then "Can-it-do's" and "I-thought-so's"
And "One-can's" went their round.

They found it out, alas, too late!
And scratched their heads of gray,
While Lorenzo fled toward New Orleans
Or Rio Grande.
"Absconding Cashier—Sad Affair!"
Of him the papers say.

THE OTHER.

He was a hungry, weary tramp
Who had seen better years;
With elbows out and knees to match,
And shoes that let in tears,
With tattered coats—once called a hat—
Legs light upon his hair.

He knocked short from door to door,
Where lodgings he his wake,
Workmen kindly spared him six shears,
Or gave him a dime!
Or perhaps some lady fair
"A tramp, and no mistake!"

Poor nature cried for sustenance;
Poor tramp, he begged, but they Gave him—he begged, but they gave him—
He stole a loaf—shame!
"Journeying Tramp" the papers say
Of him, and "A Hard Case!"

A FRONTIER SKETCH.

BY THOMAS COLQUITT.

CHAPTER I

[This story was told to the writer beside a miner's campfire in Southern Arizona, one hot and sleepless night last summer, by an ancient mariner of those western wilds who, judging from his present appearance, was probably out there some-where when Noah was fitting out the ark—[Ed.]

Cottonwood was a small town of half a dozen log and adobe houses on the bank of the San Juan River, and had two saloons in the place, and their principal stock in trade consisted of whisky, beer, Ladies, and provisions, in the order named. Their customers were miners, hunters and trappers, and Indians.

There is a great difference, which you cannot understand, between the Cottonwood twothat day and the prosperous, rustling city which my "stack" stands on the same spot. Let Molly's few years have passed it seems for ever, I guess to look back; only a few years, but they have been long, long wasted years for me, as I have plodded my way through life alone. I once planned it out differ-ent; for a few months I was happy in the love of the fairest girl that ever trod this earth.

I will commence at the first and tell my story properly.

I was an orphan. My father, one of the white men who ever penetrated this country, had died when I was but a few months old. My mother soon followed him, and I was left to the tender mercies of a Mr. Charmer. I never knew anything concerning my parents' people.

When I was fourteen years of age a rail-road was built to Cottonwood. After the road came the inevitable newspaper, and as its advertiser was established. Through sheer curiosity I visited the printing office, and the editor took a kindly interest in me and gave me work on the paper. He was a big-hearted man, but entirely unsuited for this country. He was always very kind to me, however, all swing me to do all the work in the office, and I grew able, including the heavy press work of the entire edition of from quires. One day, however, in a thoughtless moment he chanced to confide to Diego Dan as to the whereabouts of a pint of whisky. Dan started a grave-yard with the editor, and his paper passed into other and more competent hands.

Diego Dan was the whisper man that ever lived. He seemed to consider himself in honor bound to provide for my future, after I had so summarily removed my late employer, so he administered on the editor's effects and gave me the office. He often said me to join him in excursions up the river or out on the plains. I remained in the office of the Johnsonite for four years, closely at work, when one summer I decided to take a month's recreation with Diego. He was a good fellow, as I have said, well educated, handsome, and always dressed well. I believed him then to be a Mikesky sort of hunter and trapper, but I found afterward that, when out on his plains, he often compelled overland travelers to pay heavy toll for crossing their trails. But he was always good to me, and I was some of my business. He was the best shot in all that country, where game shot well, and he could see as well behind as away than any person I ever saw. One laughable incident occurred in his shooting line that, at long range, he had his shot Indians in the legs. Many times he did it on purpose, but he never mentioned the matter to me in confidence. He then very sorry that he had not thrown a long range shot at my friend, the Mountain Lion.

We started on our voyage up the river early one morning in July. Against the current our progress could not, of course, be very rapid, so we had fair good time, however, and were soon in the midst of some magnificent scenery. Diego Dan was at home with the pencils as well as the pistol, and I readily recognized several pretty bits of scenery along the river in his sketches he had made on previous trips.

We camped the first night about fifty miles above Cottonwood, very tired after a hard rowing. Directly after supper we rolled himself up in a blanket and soon fast asleep. I dozed my seven hours, and was soon in the midst of some magnificent scenery. Diego Dan was astir

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dadoes, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by William A. Nelson, of Boyne Valley, Mich., to Lemuel D. Burthamer of Charlevoix, Mich., dated July 14th, A. D. 1876 and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, on the 15th day of November, A. D. 1876, in Liber 4 of Mortgages, on page 104 on which mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, the sum of ninety-one dollars and sixty-six cents, and an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars stipulated in said mortgage in the proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the moneys secured to said mortgage, or any part thereof; now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 27th day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock p. m., I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Mich., (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden,) the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with the said interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, the premises being described to wold mortgage as all that certain lot, piece, and parcel of land situate in the township of Boyne City, County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, and known and described as follows: The north-west quarter of the south-east quarter of section No. eight (8) in town thirty-two (32) north of range five (5) west and containing forty acres per United States survey.

Dated March 4th, 1887.

LEMUEL D. BARTHOLOMEW, Mortgagee.

J. MILO EATON
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage, dated December 4th, 1886, executed by Warren Williams and Hebe M. Williams to Belle Williams, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, in Liber 14 of mortgages, pages 44 and 45, on the 16th day of November, 1887, said mortgage was assigned to Ezra Bartholomew, by assignment dated May 26th, 1886, and the assignment recorded in said register's office July 8th, 1886, in Liber 11 of mortgages, on page 56, and on February 3d, 1887, said mortgage was assigned to Charles H. Pratt, by assignment recorded in said register's office, February 16th, 1887, in liber 12 of mortgages, on page 104, upon which the entire principal and interest is past due and unpaid for the recovery of which past due and unpaid for the recovery of which debt the power of sale contained therein has become operative; Notice is therefore given that the statutory sale of the premises, therein described as the west half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range four west, in said county, at the north door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon of said day, is fixed for June 18th, 1887.

CHARLES H. PRATT,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. C. BARNUM,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.
Petoskey, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage dated December 10th, 1881, executed by George Monroe and Henrietta A. Meloster to Alice Ward, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, December 11th, 1881, in Liber 4 of mortgages, on page 60, upon which the entire principal and interest is wit: Two hundred and four dollars is past due and payable, and no suit or proceeding which has been commenced will be seen for the recovery of said sum, or any part thereof, nor is a stationary sale of the premises hereinafter described as the north half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-six, town thirty-three north of range four west in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, is held in Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock, noon, June 18, 1887.

Dated March 10th, 1887.

ALICE W. WILLEY,
Mortgagee

E. C. BARNUM,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Mich.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.—Notice is hereby given that the co-partnership heretofore existing under the firm name and style of W. Crahe & Co., for the purpose of carrying on the business of boots and shoes, at Charlevoix, Michigan, is mutually dissolved on the 1st day of April, A. D. 1887. W. Crahe is authorized to collect all debts owing said firm; and W. M. Gow assumes all liabilities contracted to the same.

Dated at Charlevoix, Mich., March 21, 1887.

W. M. GOW,
FRANK W. CRAHE.

TEN YEARS AGO, on December 26th, 1875, The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS was founded. It was the pioneer of low-priced journalism in the west. From the first the controlling conviction of its managers has been that a "cheap paper" should be cheap only in price; that its news should be fresh and complete, its editorial discussion able, and its general tone and character as pure and healthful as its best and highest-priced contemporary. This has been the aim, and how well it has succeeded in the actual attainment of so high a standard is best evidenced in the fact that it now regularly prints and sells over 150,000 papers a day—a larger circulation than that of all other Chicago dailies combined.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is an INDEPENDENT newspaper. It is not partisan. Neither is it a neutral. It is a paper of positive opinion, expressed without fear or favor. It seeks the patronage of people who love country more than party.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is the only 1 cent paper in the west that is a member of the Associated Press. It prints ALL THE NEWS.

Sold by all news dealers at two cents per copy. Mailed to any address, postage prepaid, for six dollars per year, or for a shorter term at the rate of fifty cents per month. Address THE DAILY NEWS, 123 Fifth Ave., CHICAGO, ILL.

The CHICAGO WEEKLY NEWS—8 pages, 64 columns—is the largest dollar weekly in America.

PIMPLES, I will mail FREE, to any address, a recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TEMPLE PIMPLES, FRECKLES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BLACKHEADS, etc., leaving the skin soft, clear, and beautiful. Those with this complexion should try this, and the beneficial glow will beat its virtuous speak. Also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, JAS. PARKER, 48 Ann St., New York, mentioning this paper.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by J. Milo Eaton and Ellen J. Eaton, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Lucius Lyon, dated April twenty-sixth, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, in Liber 3 of mortgages, and the page 55, of said record, which said mortgage was duly assigned by the said Mary J. Sweetland, and whereas default has been made in the payment of an installment of principal, due October twenty-sixth, A. D. 1886, and whereas, in and by the conditions of said mortgage, it is provided that if default should be made in the payment of any installment of principal, or of any part thereof, or any interest on any of the sums made payable, and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of ninety days, the principal sum, together with all arrears of interest thereon shall at the option of the said mortgagee, or his assigns, become immediately chargeable, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the installment of principal and interest due on the day when the same became due, and whereas said installment and interest has remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, and whereas, the said mortgagee, Lucius Lyon, has duly declared it her option and does hereby elect to have the principal sum named in said mortgage and all interest thereon become now due and payable, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; and whereas there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage and the notes accompanying the mortgage, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Hundred Seventy-Five and Twenty-One Dollars, ($275.21) principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the aforesaid sum or any part thereof, and no notice of the exercise of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, or the statute in such case made and provided, has been given or taken; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on

Ninth Day of April, A. D. 1887,

at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden,) there will be sold at public vendue, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the said mortgage with the said interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee provided for in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said mortgage with the said interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee has been made and provided; which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, on the plat of Ashton's Addition to the village of Boyne City, according to the recorded plat thereof, together with all the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or appertaining or thereupon situated.

Dated Petoskey, March 31 A. D. 1887.

MARY J. SWEETLAND,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Richard D. Stevens and Harriet J. Stevens his wife, dated November 1st, A. D. 1881, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 22d day of November, A. D. 1881, in liber 6 of mortgages, on page 57, upon which said mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Hundred Eighty-Six Dollars and Eighty-Six Cents ($286.86), principal and interest, and a reasonable attorney fee of Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) as stipulated in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt or any part thereof; now therefore and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on the

Ninth day of April, A. D. 1887,

at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden,) there will be sold at public vendue, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the said mortgage with the said interest and all legal costs, together with the said attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee has been made and provided; which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range four west, in said county.

Dated February 9th, 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the ninth day of February A. D. 1885, executed by Samuel Draper and Mary Draper, his wife, of the city of Chicago, Cook county and state of Illinois, to Jerome Lee, late of Deeds of Charlevoix county, in Liber 14, of mortgages, on page 60, the mortgage bearing date March, A. D. 1885, at 2.35 o'clock in the afternoon, and whereas the said mortgagee, in said mortgage, and whereas the said mortgagee in said mortgage, by assignment dated March 26th, 1886, in Liber 11 of mortgages, on page 54, upon which the entire principal and interest is past due and unpaid for the recovery of which debt the power of sale contained therein has become operative; Notice is hereby given that the statutory sale of the premises, therein described as the west half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range four west, in said county, at the north door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon of said day, is fixed for June 18th, 1887.

MARY J. SWEETLAND,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by J. Milo Eaton and Ellen J. Eaton, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Lucius Lyon, dated April twenty-sixth, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, in Liber 3 of mortgages, and the page 55, of said record, which said mortgage was duly assigned by the said Mary J. Sweetland, and whereas default has been made in the payment of an installment of principal, due October twenty-sixth, A. D. 1886, and whereas, in and by the conditions of said mortgage, it is provided that if default should be made in the payment of any installment of principal, or of any part thereof, or any interest on any of the sums made payable, and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of ninety days, the principal sum, together with all arrears of interest thereon shall at the option of the said mortgagee, or his assigns, become immediately chargeable, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the installment of principal and interest due on the day when the same became due, and whereas said installment and interest has remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, and whereas, the said mortgagee, Lucius Lyon, has duly declared it her option and does hereby elect to have the principal sum named in said mortgage and all interest thereon become now due and payable, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; and whereas there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage and the notes accompanying the mortgage, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Hundred Seventy-Five and Twenty-One Dollars, ($275.21) principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the aforesaid sum or any part thereof, and no notice of the exercise of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, or the statute in such case made and provided, has been given or taken; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on

Ninth Day of April, A. D. 1887,

at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden,) there will be sold at public vendue, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the said mortgage with the said interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee has been made and provided; which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, on the plat of Ashton's Addition to the village of Boyne City, according to the recorded plat thereof, together with all the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or appertaining or thereupon situated.

Dated Petoskey, March 31 A. D. 1887.

MARY J. SWEETLAND,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Richard D. Stevens and Harriet J. Stevens his wife, dated November 1st, A. D. 1881, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 22d day of November, A. D. 1881, in liber 6 of mortgages, on page 57, upon which said mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Hundred Eighty-Six Dollars and Eighty-Six Cents ($286.86), principal and interest, and a reasonable attorney fee of Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) as stipulated in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt or any part thereof; now therefore and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on the

Ninth day of April, A. D. 1887,

at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden,) there will be sold at public vendue, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the said mortgage with the said interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee has been made and provided; which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range four west, in said county.

Dated February 9th, 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Alonzo Sweet and Mary Sweet, his wife, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Mary J. Sweetland, of the same place, dated the twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, in Liber 3 of mortgages, and the page 56, of said record, which said mortgage was duly assigned by the said Mary J. Sweetland, and whereas default has been made in the payment of an installment of principal, due October twenty-sixth, A. D. 1886, and whereas, in and by the conditions of said mortgage, it is provided that if default should be made in the payment of any installment of principal, or of any part thereof, or any interest on any of the sums made payable, and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of ninety days, the principal sum, together with all arrears of interest thereon shall at the option of the said mortgagee, or his assigns, become immediately chargeable, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the installment of principal and interest due on the day when the same became due, and whereas said installment and interest has remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, and whereas, the said mortgagee, Mary J. Sweetland, has duly declared it her option and does hereby elect to have the principal sum named in said mortgage and all interest thereon become now due and payable, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; and whereas there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage and the notes accompanying the mortgage, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Hundred Seventy-Five and Twenty-One Dollars, ($275.21) principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the aforesaid sum or any part thereof, and no notice of the exercise of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, or the statute in such case made and provided, has been given or taken; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on the

Ninth day of April, A. D. 1887,

at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden,) there will be sold at public vendue, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the said mortgage with the said interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee has been made and provided; which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range four west, in said county.

Dated February 9th, 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Alonzo Sweet and Mary Sweet, his wife, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Mary J. Sweetland, of the same place, dated the twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, in Liber 3 of mortgages, and the page 56, of said record, which said mortgage was duly assigned by the said Mary J. Sweetland, and whereas default has been made in the payment of an installment of principal, due October twenty-sixth, A. D. 1886, and whereas, in and by the conditions of said mortgage, it is provided that if default should be made in the payment of any installment of principal, or of any part thereof, or any interest on any of the sums made payable, and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of ninety days, the principal sum, together with all arrears of interest thereon shall at the option of the said mortgagee, or his assigns, become immediately chargeable, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the installment of principal and interest due on the day when the same became due, and whereas said installment and interest has remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of over ninety days, and whereas, the said mortgagee, Mary J. Sweetland, has duly declared it her option and does hereby elect to have the principal sum named in said mortgage and all interest thereon become now due and payable, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; and whereas there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage and the notes accompanying the mortgage, at the date of this notice, the sum of Two Hundred Seventy-Five and Twenty-One Dollars, ($275.21) principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the aforesaid sum or any part thereof, and no notice of the exercise of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, or the statute in such case made and provided, has been given or taken; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on the

Ninth day of April, A. D. 1887,

at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden,) there will be sold at public vendue, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the said mortgage with the said interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and such attorney fee has been made and provided; which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range four west, in said county.

Dated February 9th, 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIEG,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Charlevoix, Mich.

COMPOUND OXYGEN
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT
FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders
A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU.
Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN have the liberty to refer (in proof of their standing as Physicians) to the following-named well-known persons who have tried Compound Oxygen: Hon. William D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Phila.; Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Phila.; Rev. Chas. W. Cushing, Lockport, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Ed. Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quincy, Kas. It is the only effective compound in the world.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN"—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS," a brilliant treatise of 200 pages, giving full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of surprising cures in a wide range of chronic diseases, mailed free. Also a treatise on the same subject, and testimonials to its virtues from other patients, mailed free to any sufferer who will write for it, or any address on application.
Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

STORY & CLARK FINE ORGANS
SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!
N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.
CHICAGO: Canal AND 16TH STS

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
Combines every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS
These excellent Organs are celebrated for warmth, quality of tone, prompt response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, and adaptability to any climate, and contain all the modern improvements, including the celebrated Mexican Mustang Liniment.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES. SKILLED WORKMEN. BEST MATERIAL COMBINED, MAKE THIS THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, mailed free.
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

FOR MAN AND BEAST!
Mexican Mustang Liniment
CURES
Scalds, Burns, Sprains, Bruises, Swellings, Rheumatism, Cuts, Scratches, Sprains, Strains, Stiches, Stiff Joints, Backache, Chest Sores, Spavin, Crabs, Contracted Muscles, Eruptions, Reed Ail, Worms, Swinney, Saddle Galls, Piles.
THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes everything claimed for it, potential forth. One of the reasons for the great success of the Mexican Mustang Liniment is its well proved applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine. It is a household necessity in every family.
The Housewife needs it for general family use.
The Teamster needs it for his horses and himself.
The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.
The Miner needs it in case of emergency.
The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it.
The Farmer needs it for his stock, his stable, and his stock yard.
The Stockmen and men on the Boatman needs it in liberal supply at hand and use.
The Hunter and Sportsman—It is his best friend and safest reliance.
The Rock-drillers need it—It will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.
The Railroad men need it and will find it so long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.
The Rack-a-rabbs needs it—Some to sell, but like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and property which surround the pioneer.
The Merchant needs it in case of emergency. The Mechanic will find it invaluable in his shop.
Everybody needs it—Inquire at home, then of the Mustang Liniment it wanted at once.
It can be purchased of Merchants. "Tis the best economy.
Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Its immediate use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages.
Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.
TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering many years with a severe lung affection, and that dreaded disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, which they can have compounded for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and Throat and Lung Diseases. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, will please address, nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.
A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their symptoms, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.
Address in confidence, JAMES W. PUNSENT, 42 Cedar St., N. Y.
LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL Office.
100 GOOD WHITE BRICK for sale.—Inquire at this office.
THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it in New York.
THIS PAPER may be found on file at Chas. Ayer & Son's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., where advertising contracts may be made for it in that city.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 196. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEG, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Butterfield's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. D. CRUICKSHANK. C. J. GRIEG.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. L. PECKHAM, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate. Office in Court House, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. P. HODGE, Attorney and Counsellor, East Jordan. Admiralty a specialty.

ZN. SARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Sunday school at 3 p. m. F. P. Brown, corner of Bridge and Clinton streets.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. A. T. WATERMAN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. W. H. MCCARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office with Sam'l Wood's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician. Office in residence, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARRIS, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Tuesday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 207, meet every Monday evening at Jefferies' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 225, meets every Saturday evening, in Masonic hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 128, meets second and fourth Tuesday evenings, in Odd Fellows' hall.

O. L.—True Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard school house.

G. A. R.—Post No. 384, meets every Saturday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix.
CAPITAL, $50,000.
Drafts drawn and money received for principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention and good rates allowed on time deposits. Loans to assist parties in building, buying stock, etc.
CORRESPONDENTS.—Chase National Bank, New York; Second National Bank, Toledo; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank
Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.
Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, J. Bulmer,
A. E. Upright, F. A. Smith, A. Fox.
CAPITAL, $52,000
Interest Allowed on Deposits.
The liabilities of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Act, 1874, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock held, making a guaranteed fund of $60,000 to depositors. Superior facilities for the transaction of business. Interest allowed on all Savings Deposits, at the rate of five per cent, at 1.00 p. m., arriving at Chatteroix by 6.00 p. m. Money to loan on approved security only.

BURNS & SCROGGIE,
Charlevoix Mich.

Jos. Beauvais
BOAT-BUILDER.
The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery
In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A. J. McLeod
Can be found at the old stand with a FULL STOCK OF MEATS Of all kinds, At Wholesale and Retail. HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it in New York.

1872. 1887
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

NEW LIVERY AND Feed Barn.
LITNEY & STEIMEL
PROPRIETORS
Opposite Bridge Street House Charlevoix,
FIRST-CLASS RIGS REASONABLE RATES.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TOUGHES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

HEADQUARTERS
—FOR—
WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.
A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.
All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the latest, best and most improved Watches manufactured.
Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted.
C. REA, JEWELER,
Bridge St., Charlevoix.

WILL H. FRANCIS,
Furniture and Jobbing Shop.
All kinds done on
CONTRACTING AND BUILDING.
In Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in my shop a full set of Hand and Foot power machinery which enables me to do,
Jobbing, Repairing, Etc.
ON SHORT NOTICE.
Shop on South Terrace, Opposite Harrison Borden's residence.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best seasoned stock. All Work Warranted. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF GARVETTE, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

Daily Mail
—AND—
Stage Line
TO EAST JORDAN
During the coming winter, Burns & Scroggie, will carry the mail between East Jordan and Charlevoix, will carry the mail between Charlevoix and Mount Jordan, leaving Charlevoix, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1.00 p. m., arriving at Charlevoix by 6.00 p. m. Leaving East Jordan, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at four o'clock.
BURNS & SCROGGIE.
Charlevoix Mich.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
Pleasant location in town, giving good view of lakes and rivers. Rates, $1 per day. Special rates for families. Stages for Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. JERNIGAN, Proprietor.
Boat Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely refurbished and refurnished. First-class Sample Rooms for Commercial Travelers. Good sample room for commercial travelers in connection with the House.

ADVERTISERS can obtain estimates which be economical by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), New York, the oldest and most well known Newspaper Advertising Agency in America.

LORD & THOMAS, Newspaper Advertising Agents, Chicago, Ill., will carry the mail between Charlevoix and Boyne City, leaving Charlevoix, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 1.00 p. m., arriving at Boyne City by 6.00 p. m. Leaving Boyne City, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, at 7.00 a. m.

Political Notes and News.

PRESIDENT Cleveland says his health is good and his mind free of anxiety about his successor. Other people may now drop the subject.

THE next board of regents of the state university will consist of Messrs. Austin Blair, C. S. Draper, G. J. Willett, A. M. Clark, Moses W. Field, C. R. Whitman, R. W. Butterfield, and C. Hebbard. Messrs. Shearer and Grosvenor retire.

A special train of five emigrant cars containing Italian laborers for the new railroad to Sault Ste. Marie, passed up the G. R. & I. railroad last week. Now we would like to inquire right here, where the protection to the laboring man, that we hear so much of, comes in? By virtue of our system of protective tariff, the laboring man is permitted to buy his goods where he can buy them cheapest, but must buy at prices fixed to suit the manufacturing class, and the manufacturing class buy their labor where they choose.

IN answer to expressed anxiety lest his health should prevent his accepting a second term President Cleveland said. "That is all in the air, and I have nothing to do with it. My time is taken up fully with my present duties, and I propose to do my work in such a way that my successor, whoever he may be, will have nothing to undo. It will be the business of the party to name their best man, that is, the man who can best carry out democratic principles and politics and the man who can best protect and defend the rights of the people."

THE next supreme bench will be made up of Judges Thomas R. Sherwood, John W. Champlin, Allen B. Morse, James V. Campbell, and Charles D. Long—three fusion and two republicans. It is the first time that the bench has had five judges. The fifth judge, authorized under the recently passed law, is called in to relieve the diffic

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Near Utica, N. Y., a man boarded a Lake Shore train, called Express Messenger Lake, then gagged him, rifled the safe, and escaped. It is not known how badly the messenger is injured, or the amount of money carried off.

Edward M. Newman, in the employ of Michael Cardonna, a New York grocer, has been arrested, charged with embezzling $10,000.

Jacob Sharp will be the next one of those indicted for complicity in the Broadway surface railway scandal to be brought to trial. This, says a New York telegram, has been definitely decided upon by District Attorney Martine, and the preparation of the case for prosecution to a jury is now in active progress.

Col. R. G. Ingersoll, who was admitted to practice in the courts of New York, Tuesday, is a silver pint pot filled with gold dollars as to the stake in the contest between the silver Titania and Bedesin, of Sandy Hook, in June.

Herr Most, since his release from a New York prison, promises to be more outspoken in his anarchism than ever. He threatens to seek out scandals among the wealthy.

Miss Catharine Wolfe, of New York, known throughout the United States for her wealth and benevolence, is dead.

WESTERN.

A National association of Builders of the United States was organized in Chicago last week.

Dr. James Hodges, who exploded a bomb during a Patti concert, was found guilty at San Francisco of assault to murder. Hodges stated that he proposed to end his life while Patti was singing, so he could be her page in the spirit land.

A Springfield (Ill.) dispatch gives the following particulars of a tragedy which created something of a sensation in that city:

Wirt Butler, a well-known horseman, living on a farm, got a half scuttle of lime, slaked it and killed a man named Thomas Cole, who had been living with the family of a farm hand, about 14 miles from Springfield, and who had been a high-spirited fellow and only when under the influence of liquor. Butler came into town in Springfield, and upon returning home Butler found Cole in his house. Butler left the house, and had he been there then about five minutes in circle. Butler protested, against this proceeding, and Reed drew a revolver and attempted to shoot him, when he (Butler) raised his gun and shot Reed. Butler then telephoned the Sheriff and police headquarters of what he had done, and then went to the office of the officers arrived, Reed had been in Butler's employ for a little over a year, and the latter regarded him as a trusty and honesty man. He lived in the house with Butler's family. Butler's family consists of his wife and two children. Butler is a native of Illinois by gen. Hill, in 1836, and elected to that office in 1876, with Wirts was the oldest daughter of Gen. A. McClernand. Just under years of Butler shot a policeman named Tomlinson, in Springfield, disposed of the case by dismissing the indictment over the same cost but a fine.

William K. Rogers, a wealthy citizen of Sonoma, Cal., is said to be the notorious William Rogers who was indicted in New York for forgery in 1854.

One hundred men battered down the doors of the jail at Covington, Ky., early on Sunday morning, the 24 inst., and took therefrom Jerry H. McKenzie, the murderer of J. H. Riggs, and hanged him to a tree. The leader of the mob gave warning that the same fate would overtake any one who revealed the details of the lynching.

The Hotel del Monte at Monterey, Cal., has been destroyed by fire. Several hundred scantily clad guests were rescued and taken to San Francisco for shelter. No lives were lost. The hotel and financial loss will probably be about $1,500,000.

Several thousand carpenters in Chicago went on a strike on the 4th inst. for an increase of pay, and building operations were more totally suspended in consequence.

Father C. F. O'Leary, of St. Louis, a warm defender of the Knights of Labor, has declared war on Archbishop Kenrick for being virtually excluded from the diocese.

The special Grand Jury at Chicago, which has indicted the hoodlers, has sent a communication to the Governor of Illinois suggesting that he make recommendations to the Legislature for the passage of a law enabling payment of county commissioners, as the law politicians could be taken from transacting business men, and containing provisions for the punishment of appointees, employes, or agents who shall accept bribes or connive at giving light weights or short counts of articles purchased for the county.

SOUTHERN.

Eleven inches of snow fell at Lexington, Ky., March 29.

On the strength of the report that the cholera in South America is extending northward, and has already reached the Isthmus of Panama, the city authorities of El Paso, Texas, have established a stringent quarantine.

A heavy snowstorm prevailed in Virginia on the 31st of March.

An artesian well sunk by the Gulf Railway in its yard at Galveston has struck fresh water at a depth of 305 feet. There has never been an ordinary well on the island.

At Morton Sterling, Ky., J. J. Cornelison was arrested and placed in jail twenty three years for a murder committed Judge Reid, who soon afterward committed suicide because of his sense of disgrace.

POLITICAL.

Mr. Blaine will sail for Europe in June, to remain six months.

Mr. Blaine visited the Mechanats' Exchange in St. Louis and made a five-minute speech.

In the Pennsylvania House resolutions protesting against the coercion of Ireland were adopted.

The New York Senate passed the high license liquor bill, which had previously been passed by the Assembly.

A bill prohibiting the marriage of first cousins has passed the Illinois Senate.

The Wisconsin Legislature has passed a bill to punish employer for blacklisting any employe.

Michigan electors cast their ballots on Monday, April 4, on two Justices of the State Supreme Court, two Regents of the State University, and two amendments to the Constitution, besides county officers. The amendments were for the increase of the salaries of State officers and the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of the liquor and anti-liquor men worked hard, a lively campaign being the result. Owing to the energetic working for and against the prohibition amendment, a very full vote was polled, this being particularly true in the southern part of the State. In the Upper Peninsula snow fell to the depth of from two to four feet, and very materially interfered with the vote. Returns from one-third of the State received at Detroit up to the morning of the 5th indicated the election of the Republican State ticket by a safe plurality, and showed a vote of 90,000 against prohibition and 16,000 for it. The constant reports as voting against the amendment were those which contain the large cities, the Lake Huron shore and Lake Superior counties, viz: Sanilac, St. Clair, Houghton, Kent, Wayne, and Saginaw. The interior counties, it was calculated by the friends of prohibition, would overcome the adverse majority and carry the prohibition amendment by 5,000.

Municipal elections: The most important, unexpected and surprising election held in Cincinnati for years was that of Monday, the 4th inst., says a dispatch from that city. The Democratic ticket was elected, and was polled. Many manufacturers were closed to allow the men to vote. Democrats were generally satisfied. The uncertainty all arose from the unexpectedly large vote polled by the Labor party and from its distribution. The first footing of the returns made by the Board of Elections showed the election of Stevenson, the Labor candidate for Mayor, by a slight plurality. The official figures are: Stevenson, 17,414; Smith (Rep.), 17,404; Matson (Dem.), 11,547. An error was then discovered, which showed the election of Smith, the Republican candidate for Mayor, by from 200 to 400 plurality. The amendment to the Union Labor party had failed upon polling about 17,000 votes and electing a portion of their ticket. The Democrats were polled by the Labor party is exciting the utmost wonder. It is generally conceded that the Labor party would draw its strength more from the Democrats than from the Republicans, but the result tends to show that in Republican districts, especially in the German quarter. The election in Cleveland, Ohio, for municipal offices was a surprise to the Republicans. The entire Democratic ticket, headed by R. D. Rhodes, candidate for Mayor, was elected by about 3,000 majority. The Board of Aldermen is Democratic now. The election in Toledo, Ohio, was a political revolution. The Republicans elected the city ticket, strongly Democratic last year, by majorities ranging from 500 to 1,000. The Democrats made astonishing gains in the City Council, which last year had a Republican majority of 15 in a board of 20. The Republican. The Board of Education, now Democratic, and the Police Board, now Republican, will undergo a change in political complexion. Oliver S. Kelly, Republican, was elected Mayor of Springfield, Ohio, by 237 majority. The Democrats elected their entire ticket in Columbus, Ohio. The Republicans elected their ticket in Zanesville, Ohio, by 400. Keokuk, Iowa, elected the Republican municipal ticket. A. W. Edwards, Republican, was elected Mayor of Davenport, Iowa. The Republicans swept at Burlington, Iowa. Every man on the city ticket and every labor candidate for Alderman was elected. The result is a complete revolution and a surprise. The vote stands: Weaver (Labor), 1,981; Preston (Dem.), 1,628; and Gillman (Rep.), 1,068. Vosiker's plurality is 745.

WASHINGTON.

The following is a recapitulation of the statement, issued on the 1st inst.

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4½ per cent	$250,000,000
Bonds at 4 per cent	737,700,150
Bonds at 3 per cent	250,000,000
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent	1,000,000
Refunding certificates at 3 per cent	14,000,000
Navy pension fund bonds at 4 per cent	14,000,240
Principal	$1,016,701,150
Interest	15,715,446
Total	$1,034,386,596
DEBT ON WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MATURITY.
Principal	9,932,270
Interest	186,117
Total	9,718,387
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Old demand and legal-tender notes	$346,738,265
Certificates of deposit	15,335,000
Gold certificates	94,606,000
Silver certificates	26,804,489
Fractional currency (less $9,131,241 estimated as lost or destroyed)	6,948,497
Principal	$496,396,247
TOTAL DEBT.
Principal	$1,050,376,634
Interest	15,901,563
Total	$1,066,277,197
Cash available for reduction of the debt	268,123,072
Cash held for redemption of United States notes	100,000,000
TOTAL DEBT LESS CASH.
Total	$698,154,097
Debt less available cash	1,340,999,564
Net cash in the Treasury	41,845,467
Debt less cash in Treasury April 1, 1886	$1,298,229,538
Debt less cash in Treasury March 1, 1886	1,301,052,836
Decrease of debt during the month	2,823,298
CASH IN THE TREASURY AVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF THE DEBT.
Held for gold certificates actually outstanding	$99,041,015
Held for silver certificates actually outstanding	121,033,010
Held for gold certificates of deposit actually outstanding	7,155,000
Held for silver certificates of deposit	15,935,154
Cash held for bonds called not matured, and interest thereon	16,172,193
Fractional currency	7,059
Total available	$259,143,971
UNAVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF THE DEBT.
Held for redemption of U. S. notes, acts January 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882	100,000,000
Unavailable for reduction of debt
Fractional silver coin	$26,037,816
Minor coin	1,095,688
Total	$27,133,504
Certificates held as cash	26,734,213
Cash balance on hand	32,409,258
Total cash in Treasury as shown by the Treasurer's general account	$419,175,696

The President, on the 1st inst., signed the commission of Charles S. Fairchild, Secretary of the Treasury, and Isaac H. Maynard as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Fairchild at once entered upon the discharge of his new duties.

M. V. Montgomery, Commissioner of Pilots at Mobile, has been appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. He is a resident of Louisiana, Mich.

The feature of the President's public reception on Monday, says a Washington dispatch, was the presence of John L. Sullivan, who had come to shake hands with the Chief Magistrate. When the crowd had thinned out considerably, Pat Sheedy introduced him to the President, remarking that they had heard that he (the President) was getting out of condition, and they thought they would recommend that he try the ballroom administration. The President replied as he looked the champion over, that he thought one or two blows would be enough for him.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered that applications for relief action shall be made by petition under oath. The Mobile and Ohio Road has asked relief as to rates because of water competition.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The differences between the Knights of Labor and the Amalgamated Association of Miners and Mine Laborers in the coke region have been settled.

The Lodges of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers throughout the country will elect delegates during the coming month to the annual convention, which meets in Pittsburg June 7.

Pennsylvania coal miners have agreed under protest to accept 60 cents per ton for mining one ton.

A big building strike is imminent at Cincinnati, where the carpenters will probably join the iron and stone workers in a demand for shorter hours and better pay.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The Illinois Central Road has given notice that it will next fall surrender the lease of the Dubuque and Sioux City track.

Judge Gresham gave his approval to a recommendation by Receiver Cooley that 4,000 tons of steel rail be laid on the Wabash lines east of the Mississippi, at an outlay of $88,000.

Nine-tenths of the travelers on the Pennsylvania Road on the last day of March were deadheads, taking advantage of the last chance for a free ride. The same, to a greater or less extent, was the story of the day on all the railroads.

All the daily newspapers in Cincinnati appeared on the 1st inst. without the usual announcements of the hours of the arrival and departure of trains. This is in accordance with a proposition made by the newspapers jointly, in view of the stoppage of passes, to stop the free publication of matter for the benefit of the roads, but to accept tickets in payment for all advertising. The railroads replied accepting the proposition for abolishment of the passes, but directly, and intimating that the daily publication of timetables should not be regarded as an advertisement.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois Road, 139 miles in length, has been purchased by a syndicate headed by H. H. Porter, in the interest of the Chicago and Indiana Coal Road by the new board of directors elected Robert N. Hoe President.

The earnings of the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railroad last year, in excess of expenditures, were $1,031,281.

Gen. J. J. McNulta, of Bloomington, Ill., has been appointed Receiver of the Wabash Railway, in bond of $10,000.

The Louisville and Nashville and the Norfolk and Western Railroads have arranged to build about 200 miles of new road, and to make connections that will permit the two lines to work together.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Reports have been received tending to confirm the dispatch that the sealing steamer Eagle was wrecked in the Behring Sea coast, the vessel going to pieces on a reef. There were 30 men on board, and it is believed that all perished.

Buffalo Bill sailed from New York for London with a steamship-load of Indians and wild animals.

The business failures in the United States of the quarter ended March 31, 1886, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., numbered 3,067, against 3,226 for the same quarter of 1885. The comparative liabilities for the corresponding periods were: 1886, $52,561,000; 1885, $59,681,000. The proportion of failures to business, as indicated by manufactures in the Middle States amounting to $12,000,000, showing an increase over the same quarter last year, and in the New York City they were $5,000,000, against $12,000,000 last year. The commercial part of the country except the Middle States the failures are fewer and much less than in previous years. In Canada the failures for the same quarter of 1887 were 393, against 320 in 1886; liabilities $76,2,3000, against $5,442,000 in 1886.

W. S. McLeon, an insane veteran of the Mexican war, was committed after years of pensions amounting to $12,488, which he had paid to his father at the Des Moines agency.

A freight train on the Michigan Central was wrecked at Kensington, on the 1st inst., in which two of the employes were killed and twenty-six cars demolished.

At Ingersoll, Ontario, a freight train ran into a tenement house. Four people were drowned and two others are missing.

It is estimated that March from east the United States and Canada $19,500,000, or $2,000,000 above the average in that month for a dozen years past.

FOREIGN.

A number of Afghan tribes have promised to support the Ameer's threatened war against Russia.

The British House of Commons on the 1st inst. passed clauses by a vote of 351 to 206, and adjourned the discussion of the coercion bill. Mr. Parnell made a brilliant speech in opposition to the latter measure.

The Irish National League of America said he, on the 1st inst., issued a circular which purports to be the proposal for a change of venue, which is to bring Dynamite before second Parnell. The proposal means a relapse of judicial murder, it would cost all hopes of a fair trial, would be resented alike upon Ireland world disrepute, and would be a fatal blunder. Mr. Parnell will not be responsible for the sufferings of his countrymen, and thus he appeals to the president in commending the people to observe the law and to abstain from violence, and that he would still counsel them to submit to wrong and outrage, and that he would do his utmost to prevent the necessity for such advice, because he is aware of the difficulties, or place him in a false position with the Liberals. Mr. Parnell has now was in ireland. (Cheers). There might be a single voice dissenting from the proposal, but he would be as striking consequence. Mr. Parnell, he said, was in Ireland and receive full power from people of Ireland. (Cheers). The party which alone could be trusted to protect Ireland from the worst of all wrongs, the present Government. Thus was the reason why he had been brought from his sick bed to vote for the coercion bill. Let not the people of Ireland fail into the trap laid for them.

MOB LAW IN IOWA.

Naked Men Force Their Way Into the Jail at Corning and Hang John H. McKenzie.

The Entire Proceedings Conducted in a Quiet Manner—McKenzie's Crime.

[Corning (Iowa) telegram.]

John McKenzie, the murderer of John H. Riggs, was taken from the jail Sunday morning by a party of masked men and hanged to a tree in front of the jail. About 2:30 a. m. about twenty-five armed and masked horsemen and a wagon loaded with men and a buckboard came quietly in front of the jail, moving with strict military discipline under orders from a bold and skillful leader. Were awakened by the Jailor Pumroy found he had been locked in his room by the hasp and staple on the iron door. He fired three guns of alarm from the window and McKenzie's voice was heard in an unusual, terrifying cry. Shots rapped his window quietly. Men, masked, in pockets were placed between the block, designated by numbers and with behaviour of a soldier, approached the door, and quietly and quick, but peculiarly. The door of the battering ram and the splintering of the doors gave way to the rattling of the cam on the iron doors. Then the jailer was overpowered. The large Sheriff, and the work of unlocking proceeded as if by men familiar with the details. McKenzie was heard to exclaim: "If there are any old soldiers present I request a fair and fair trial." He was tied, and a rope thrown about his neck. His intense nerve and are of the Tuesday before. He talked with the mob as they took him down stairs and answer he said he was guilty, and he then gave his watch to his wife, protested he had killed Riggs in self-defense, but did not intend to kill him. To one wished prayer, and he said: "Let's go up and stern man dragging forth a fellow-man, was a sight to see." Then he was led into the air, held while struggling, and quickly said the strangulation was complete, was indeed horrifying. Before disembarking the leader addressed the mob in a low voice, saying:

"GENTLEMEN: The work of this night was a serious one. Every man, I am certain, participant and every observer is working from the same basis as to this law. The fate of any man who divulges the name of any participant is death."

All departed except half a dozen horsemen, who kept guard for half an hour, fired two shots, and rode rapidly away to the northwest. The sheriff on a post-mortem was discovered, as they were completely masked and disguised their voices. The Coroner's verdict was:

"John H. McKenzie came to his death by strangulation at the hands of a disguised persons to us unknown, caused as we verily believe by the indifference of our courts of justice."

The Murder for Which McKenzie Was Hanged.

Riggs and McKenzie were neighboring farmers, and lived near Dunkerton, about eight miles from Corning. McKenzie had leased about twelve acres of your land for a year from Riggs from a field of, perhaps, twelve acres. Some time last March, Mr. McKenzie did not utilize the stalks for fodder until after March 1 of the year, when they became worthless. Riggs then sued on his then attempting to turn cattle in the field. Words ensued, and Riggs said he would not allow McKenzie to turn cattle in the field. There were no witnesses, but from McKenzie's own version Riggs started toward the gate when McKenzie fired, not to hit, but to scare him, as he says. Riggs stopped and faced McKenzie, who immediately shot at him, the ball penetrating below the eye and killing him. McKenzie came to Corning and gave himself up as early as though he had killed a neighbor's dog.

H. J. HALL.

A Portrait and Sketch of the New Commissioner of Patents.

Hon. Hugh J. Hall, of Burlington, Iowa, who has been appointed Commissioner of Patents, in place of Col. M. V.

Montgomery, resigned, will assume the duties of the office May 1. Mr. Hall was born at Salem, Vernon, Jefferson County, Jan. 13, 1835. He was educated at Knox College, Galesburg, Knox County, Illinois, in June, 1855, he was graduated from the last-named institution. Receiving his degree of A. M. he entered a law office, and was admitted to the bar in the same year. Since 1857 he has been a resident of Burlington, which place he has distinguished citizen.

MANY Queen of Scots was forty-five years old when she lost her head at Fotheringay Castle. Queen Elizabeth, who signed her death warrant, was at that time (1587) fifty-four years old.

THE London Stone tavern is a house near the famous London Stone in London. It was here that the celebrated Robin Hood Society originated.

CHATSWORTH, Ill., is proud of one of its citizens, who at the age of 90 is cutting her third set of teeth.

SCHWARTZ-WATT.

Progress of the Trial of the Rock Island Train Robbers at Morris, Ill.

Strong Testimony Against the Accused—A Sermon Causes a Sensation.

[MORRIS (Ill.) CORRESPONDENCE.]

The trial of Schwartz and Watt on the charge of having murdered Rodney Nichols, the express messenger in the noted Rock Island robbery in March, 1885, has been in progress for two weeks, and will, as all probability, for a considerable time longer. The testimony hitherto adduced has been of a very strong character against the two accused men. Carl Woodin, engineer of the train upon which Nichols was murdered, described the blood stains on the car in which Nichols lay when he was killed, and gave evidence which was corroborated by other witnesses, to the effect that the robbers had left the scene of their crime in a wagon which was not still moving at the time after it was decided to take the two men on with the train that Watt said: "Set them out, Ed. (Cole) I want to see how they feel." Cole said if he would run the baggage, and replied that he was not a baggage man. Watt then made some remarks to show that there could be no doubt of the fact that the bodies of the two men were found on the top of Watt's car coupled behind Woodin's engine. Jacob Ruff, a trainman, Conductor Wagner testified that the men answered the ideal type of the men who had committed the robbery. Mr. Ruff, the member of the battering ram and the splintering of the doors gave way to the rattling of the cam on the iron doors. Then the jailer was overpowered. The large Sheriff, and the work of unlocking proceeded as if by men familiar with the details. McKenzie was heard to exclaim: "If there are any old soldiers present I request a fair and fair trial." He was tied, and a rope thrown about his neck. His intense nerve and are of the Tuesday before. He talked with the mob as they took him down stairs and answer he said he was guilty, and he then gave his watch to his wife, protested he had killed Riggs in self-defense, but did not intend to kill him. To one wished prayer, and he said: "Let's go up and stern man dragging forth a fellow-man, was a sight to see." Then he was led into the air, held while struggling, and quickly said the strangulation was complete, was indeed horrifying. Before disembarking the leader addressed the mob in a low voice, saying:

"GENTLEMEN: The work of this night was a serious one. Every man, I am certain, participant and every observer is working from the same basis as to this law. The fate of any man who divulges the name of any participant is death."

All departed except half a dozen horsemen, who kept guard for half an hour, fired two shots, and rode rapidly away to the northwest. The sheriff on a post-mortem was discovered, as they were completely masked and disguised their voices. The Coroner's verdict was:

"John H. McKenzie came to his death by strangulation at the hands of a disguised persons to us unknown, caused as we verily believe by the indifference of our courts of justice."

The Murder for Which McKenzie Was Hanged.

Riggs and McKenzie were neighboring farmers, and lived near Dunkerton, about eight miles from Corning. McKenzie had leased about twelve acres of your land for a year from Riggs from a field of, perhaps, twelve acres. Some time last March, Mr. McKenzie did not utilize the stalks for fodder until after March 1 of the year, when they became worthless. Riggs then sued on his then attempting to turn cattle in the field. Words ensued, and Riggs said he would not allow McKenzie to turn cattle in the field. There were no witnesses, but from McKenzie's own version Riggs started toward the gate when McKenzie fired, not to hit, but to scare him, as he says. Riggs stopped and faced McKenzie, who immediately shot at him, the ball penetrating below the eye and killing him. McKenzie came to Corning and gave himself up as early as though he had killed a neighbor's dog.

SAW THE DEED DONE.

Leavitt Testifies that He Witnessed the Killing of Haddock by Arensdorf.

He Describes How He Learned of the Plot and How It Was Carried Out.

"Bismarck's" Testimony Strongly Corroborative—Incidents of the Celebrated Trial.

[SIOUX CITY CORRESPONDENCE.]

Interest in the trial of the slayers of the Rev. Dr. Haddock has been so great here in Sioux City that for the past week it has dwarfed all other themes. Scarcely anything else is discussed or talked of in the store, the workshop, the drawing-room, or at the dinner-table.

The introduction of evidence began on Friday of last week. Physicians and others testified as to hearing the shot, finding the body, the nature of the wound, and the flight of the conspirators, among whom Leavitt, the informer, was one of them. On Monday Leavitt was placed upon the stand and gave a story of the plot, which identical with his original confession, or statement, and very damaging to Arensdorf's chances of acquittal. Condensed into a narrative, Leavitt's testimony is as follows:

MR. MASSE, THE PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.

In the latter part of December, 1885, he came to Sioux City, but went away and returned in the first week of January, 1886. He opened his variety theater on Pearl street in February. In June he went East and came back to the place a few days before the killing of Dr. Haddock. There was a secret conversation with the Crawfords. There was a lar up-stairs and another down-stairs. "Doc" Darling and a number of witnesses were bartenders. Dan Moriarty was bouncer and Billy Duncan treasurer. Witness knew John Arensdorf; he became acquainted with him in January, 1886, and was frequently at his boarding Company to the extent of $50 or $75 a week. Arensdorf had been in Sioux City and about town frequently by the witness. Arensdorf was a German and had come to the New M. A. Phillips, pastor of the Methodist church, and was a member of the church. He was a very quiet man, and was not prominent in the central portion of the church, but was active in the Sunday-school and other services of the church by reason of the peculiarly fitted for the work. He was the presiding elder of the District of the Sioux City District of the Methodist church. He was active in other lines of church work, showing a strength of power and the important part which he was fitted to take.

Then, speaking of the practical results of the Haddock trial, Mr. Massie said: "Mr. Arensdorf, the defendant, agreed to effect the purpose of Haddock's life, and to rid the town of temperance workers. Arensdorf said to Leavitt, he, Leavitt, was the man who thought sufficient to effect the purpose. Leavitt said he was something must be done, and suggested that Haddock or Crawford should be kept up or burned down.

The next day witness went down to the St. Paul Railroad yards to see Dan Moriarty and try to get him to whip Dr. Haddock. They were willing to give him $100 for the job, and witness promised to do the proper person for the work. Moriarty refused to whip anybody.

Witness testified to seeing Dr. Haddock on the stand as a witness in the injunction cases then in progress. The day before the saloon-keepers' meeting, on the evening of Aug. 5, Leavitt met Arensdorf, Peters, Leader, Fred Muschitzki, Jr., and two Germans, whom he did not know, on the south side of the Sioux City Journal. They were standing in a group. Arensdorf, Grady, Scollard and Peters were talking. Then all broke to start for their homes; at least witness did so. Arensdorf and Peters went to the mark' came up and said the buggy had turned. Leavitt testified to hearing Arensdorf say: "Let's go up and talk." Arensdorf, Peters, Treiber, Plath and Leavitt went to the saloon. The two men went west, Arensdorf and Peters leading. Sherman walked with Leavitt. This was the first time witness saw Sherman. Leavitt saw John Ryan on the street and spoke to him. The party stopped by the board fence, corner Fourth and Water streets. Sherman was there. Had been by witness and heard to say: "If you lick Haddock, jug him and put out his eye or something that won't hurt him or get any of us in any trouble." Arensdorf and Arensdorf said: "Let's go up and talk." Arensdorf said the strangulation was complete, was indeed horrifying. Before disembarking the leader addressed the mob in a low voice, saying:

"GENTLEMEN: The work of this night was a serious one. Every man, I am certain, participant and every observer is working from the same basis as to this law. The fate of any man who divulges the name of any participant is death."

All departed except half a dozen horsemen, who kept guard for half an hour, fired two shots, and rode rapidly away to the northwest. The sheriff on a post-mortem was discovered, as they were completely masked and disguised their voices. The Coroner's verdict was:

"John H. McKenzie came to his death by strangulation at the hands of a disguised persons to us unknown, caused as we verily believe by the indifference of our courts of justice."

The Murder for Which McKenzie Was Hanged.

Riggs and McKenzie were neighboring farmers, and lived near Dunkerton, about eight miles from Corning. McKenzie had leased about twelve acres of your land for a year from Riggs from a field of, perhaps, twelve acres. Some time last March, Mr. McKenzie did not utilize the stalks for fodder until after March 1 of the year, when they became worthless. Riggs then sued on his then attempting to turn cattle in the field. Words ensued, and Riggs said he would not allow McKenzie to turn cattle in the field. There were no witnesses, but from McKenzie's own version Riggs started toward the gate when McKenzie fired, not to hit, but to scare him, as he says. Riggs stopped and faced McKenzie, who immediately shot at him, the ball penetrating below the eye and killing him. McKenzie came to Corning and gave himself up as early as though he had killed a neighbor's dog.

The remainder of Leavitt's direct examination pertained to his own conduct. He went to Ryan's house in company with Peters, Arensdorf and Mr. and Mrs. Deroin, where he took off his hat and his two coats—a rubber overcoat and a dark Prince Albert. The hat was of straw. He talked with the Deroins about what had occurred. The hat he wore was Plath's, for which he had exchanged his own while going toward Water street. Witness wore Dorsam's hat away from Ryan's house.

Witness saw John Arensdorf the next day before the inquest proceeded at the coroner's inquest.

"I said," he continued, "'Hello, John, and asked how he felt. He said he did not feel any too well. He said to me if I had seen it. I said: 'Yes, John. It is a bad thing for you. You ought never to have done that.'

"I know it," he said; 'but everybody has got to keep still. Did anybody see it besides you?'

"I says, 'Yes; everybody on the spot there must have seen it, John, because they all stopped dumb when it was done.'

"He said: 'Can I depend on you as a friend?'

"I said: 'You can. I am a Knight of Pythias.'

"After the coroner's inquest I asked him 'What did you mean by that?' He said nothing and kind of laughed. He said he couldn't fix Henry Peters for any evidence, and Henry Peters was going away to Nebraska for a few days, and from there to Germany. Approaching extreme cross-examination the witness showed no change in the least shaking his testimony.

Mrs. Leavitt was called to the stand, and corroborated her husband's testimony in regard to the conversation with Ryan, and with Arensdorf upon the sidewalk in front of the Sioux City Journal, and soon after the murder of Haddock, in which Arensdorf said: "Let's go up and talk." Peters in response to Bismarck's request Eberhardt sent a man to the door to make the inquiry about the buggy. Fitzsimmons was the man. Mrs. Leavitt testified that the latter witness saw the horse and buggy come back. He was standing on the south side of the corner of Fourth and Water streets. Mrs. Leavitt said that Ryan was there east on Fourth street and told the crowd that Plath's saloon that the buggy had returned.

The crowd now by witness consisted of Arensdorf, Peters, Leader, Manchrath, Leavitt, Granda and others. They proceeded to Plath's saloon. Witness heard Arensdorf say: "Bismarck." Dr. Haddock came along Water street to the crossing of Fourth. Arensdorf went out to meet him, passed a step or two by the minister, then turned and met at the head.

"Bismarck" underwent a long cross-examination at the hands of Arensdorf's counsel. Mr. Massie, the prosecuting attorney, was very favorable to the State. He confessed his own faults and weaknesses with such a Mr. Massie, the prosecuting attorney, was very favorable to the State. He confessed his own faults and weaknesses with such a frankness and such a manly manner that he seemed chilliness without being cynical. He said he was a bad man enough, but his moral nature is on the highest type of a boy. He was surprised against Haddock more for the drinks than the cause of temperance. He was a good fun. The defense will try to bring disgrace upon the character of his client, deficient moral sensibilities, but that is what a jury will have to weigh and decide upon them do. This man's original revelation was in his pocket and in the hands of counsel only with Leavitt's confession. There could have been no collusion between the two. Leavitt and Bismarck had not been there as he had promised. Bismarck testified to Leavitt and again talked about the money and the whipping. Leavitt said he had not been there and that Treiber was not there.

Witness went back to Treiber with that message. Treiber told him to be sure and bring Grandy up that evening. "Tiness on the stand testified to seeing Grandy at the court-house and saw Haddock there. He was sitting in the corridor. He said he would obtain from the Empress Catherine the Great a privately sum for the Empress Catherine the Great a privately sum for the Empress Catherine the Great a privately sum for

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

FIVE fine steamships are under construction in Detroit and vicinity

THE prohibitory amendment failed to be adopted by the people by about 3,000 votes.

THE Supreme Court of Illinois will not announce its decision in the case of the seven condemned Anarchists until next September.

THE democratic state ticket was defeated at the recent election by from 8,000 to 10,000. We fail to see in this, much of a victory for the republican party, which but a few years since held the state by majorities ranging from 30,000 to 60,000.

IT is stated by The Grand Rapids Democrat that there is already a substantial increase in the number of immigrants from Europe to this country over the first three months of last year. The increase for January and February was over 50,000.

THE prime object for which the interstate commerce law was first proposed, was to prevent the difference in rates between long and short hauls, and the first official acts of the commissioners was to annul that part of the law, and to allow several railroad companies to make such discrimination.

THE latest reports from Sault Ste. Marie indicate that the inflated real estate boom of that place, is completely over. During its continuance something like three million dollars in transfers were made, but many pieces of land were sold half a dozen times. Many of the boomers have left there and are now booming some other place.

THE salaries amendment has been defeated by a large majority. The vote cast on the proposition was large in comparison with that which propositions to amend the Constitution ordinarily call out, but it will not much exceed one-half of that polled on the prohibitory amendment, showing how little comparative interest was taken in it. The strong adverse majority, however, ought to be taken by the Legislature as a reminder that the people are averse to constant tinkering with the Constitution. Last fall, when a similar proposition was submitted, it only drew out about 100,000 votes. This spring the vote was perhaps 175,000 and the adverse majority 25,000 or more

We fail to see how the inter-state commerce law is beneficial to the people. It seems to be a law for the railroad companies. Pending the passage of the act the representatives of the railroads criticised the bill just enough to mislead the unsophisticated, and at the same time were working for the act, desiring it to be come a law, and now that the law has gone into effect, in many localities freights are much higher than before the law was enacted. The legitimate effect of competition seems to be destroyed both in freights and passenger rates. Some roads have made an increase in passengers rates of ten per cent, and in freight rates much more.

GOVERNOR Luce has vetoed Representative Oviatt's bill providing that the county board of supervisors should publish their proceedings in at least one paper in the county. His sole objection to the bill is that the present law "permits the county board to do this now" and he does not wish to make it compulsory. For some reason the governor, generally fair in all other matters, has shown an unusual and uncalled for hostility to the newspapers of the state. He would prefer, therefore, that some six or eight months after the meeting of the county legislature the proceedings should be printed in pamphlet form and circulated very carefully in the inside of the county clerk's office, instead of being printed in the newspapers at a less cost and yet placing the information before the people immediately after the meeting of the board, or perhaps during its sessions.

We are pleased to note that our representative Hon. A. K. Dougherty voted nay, on the Oviatt capital punishment bill, which passed the house last week, and we trust that when the bill reaches the senate it will there receive the opposition that it deserves. Such a law is one that Michigan does not yet need. We have not yet drifted back so far into the depts of mediæval barbarism that it becomes necessary for the executive power of the state to institute modes of punishment so repugnant and revolting as "hanging the convict by the neck until he or she is dead." Such a law is not necessary. The modes of punishment we now have are sufficiently severe. More convictions and infliction of our present law is desirable, and when we have done this, justice is satisfied. To deprive man of his liberty will prevent a criminal from doing further acts of crimes, and is a sufficient warning to others to desist from committing crime. And when we have accomplished this, we have done all that we can expect to accomplish by penal law, and all that we have a right to do. The taking of human life cannot be made right under any circumstances, even by legislation and judicial sanction. If Mr. Oviatt and his cohorts would employ their time and talents in formulating laws facilitating the trial of criminal cases, they would become of greater service to the people.

Miscellaneous State News.

Matilda Morley, of Lansing, sued L. S. Hudson for selling liquor to her minor son. The circuit court has given her $150 damages.

The Traverse City fire department have organized a running team which will compete at the state firemen's convention to be held at Grand Rapids next month.

John Balch, of Traverse City, was killed at Cadillac a year ago by a Grand Rapids & Indiana train. Suit was begun by the heirs against the railroad company and a verdict of $4,000 rendered.

W. S. Johnson's new store at Good Harbor burned Sunday night, at a loss of $2,000, and no insurance. He lost another building about six weeks ago, and the circumstances at both fires indicate incendiarism.

The catch of the fishermen of Michigan amounted in the past year to nearly 25,400,000 pounds, yielding to the parties engaged not less than $800,000, employing over 1,700 persons, 66 steam, 318 sailboat, 232 pound net boats and 165 skiffs.

The Howard City Record says: In consequence of the G. R. & I. railroad company calling in the editorial passes this month the editors up this way are having extra half soles put upon their shoes preparatory to taking long walks.

A gentleman passed through this city March 22 last to the Soo. He again passed through the city April 3, bound for his home in lower Michigan. He bought $12,000 worth of Soo goods, sold out for $2,000, and was taking home $10,000 worth of experience. "I am going to dig a hole in my cellar and put my $2,000 in it," he said "and then I am going to work for my living. I aint in no hurry to get rich, now."—St. Ignace Republican.

Sam Houston.

A prominent figure at Washington during the Taylor administration was General Sam Houston, a large, impposing-looking man, who generally wore a waistcoat made from the skin of a panther, dressed with the hairs on, and who generally occupied himself during the sessions of the senate in whittling small sticks of soft pine wood, which the sergeant-at-arms provided for him. His life has been one of romantic adventure. After having served with distinction under Gen. Jackson in the Creek war, he had become a lawyer and then governor of the state of Tennessee. Soon after his inauguration he had married an accomplished young lady, to whom he one day intimated in just that she apparently cared more for a former lover than for him. "You are correct," she said earnestly. "I love Mr. Nickerson a little finger better than your whole body." Words ensued, and the next day Houston resigned his governorship, went into the Cherokee country west of the Arkansas river, adopted Indian costume, and became an Indian trader. He was the best customer supplied from his own whisky barrel, until one day, after a prolonged debauch, he heard from a Texas Indian that the Mexicans had taken up arms against their revolted province. A friend agreeing to accompany him, he cast of his Indian attire, again dressed like a white man, and never drank a drop of intoxicating beverage afterward.—Ferley's Reminiscences.

Catching a Fly in Public.

In the first inning there was a very high fly hit up to me. The sky was "high," that is, there were no clouds by which to locate, or, as we say, "judge" the ball. I have since then seen base balls do strange things, but I don't remember ever to have seen one make so many eccentric moves as that one. At one time it seemed to be falling ten feet to my right, and the next instant it had jumped ten feet to my left. I thought it never would come down. I grew light-headed and faint. It came sagging down in such a way that at one moment there seemed to be a half-dozen of them and the next moment I couldn't see any. To make matters pleasanter, a couple of demons stood there, yelling in my ears: "Run hard! he'll never get it." I realized that my "nerve" would be judged by that catch. I made one last desperate effort to collect myself, the ball came within reach, I clutched at it and it stuck fast in my hands. That gave me confidence, and after that I think I played a fairly good game.—Lippincott's Magazine.

MISSING LINKS.

Roller skates are being turned into buttons.

A New York professor tattoos 3,000 persons every year.

There are said to be 800 opium smokers in the city of Boston.

Dime museums are springing into popularity in Massachusetts towns.

A seventeen-year-old boy in Bibb county, Alabama, is 6 feet and 9 inches high.

An Irish setter at Moncton, Canada, is said to have traveled forty miles in three hours.

Tombstone, Arizona, merchants refuse to accept Mexican money in payment for their goods.

A Virginia City, Nev., man offers to plant the American flag on the north pole in eighteen months.

It is claimed that within a radius of 100 miles around Asheville, N. C., every known mineral can be found.

Colored men propose to raise $1,000,000 to erect monuments at Washington to the benefactors of their race.

"Chestnuts" are now called "Hawthornes," in Boston, a graceful allusion to the title of that author's short stories.

A new mineral just found in Missouri cuts steel, yet keeps its edge. It has been given an outlandish name—adamscobite.

A deacon of a Greenville, Pa., church has a string of buttons half a yard long. They have been taken out of the collections during the past few years.

The English war department has succeeded in making a cannon which costs $1,000,000 and uses $1,000 worth of ammunition every time it is fired.

The most modest girl in the world resides at Syracuse. It is said of her that when a pupil at Vassar she refused to work upon improper fractions.

Persons who wish to avoid drowning are advised by an Eastern physician to lock the hands behind the back, fully inflate the lungs, and close the mouth.

M. J. Smith, a reporter on the Pueblo Press is a deaf mute. He says that he has no trouble in getting news, because the people all know him and help him out.

The night-school at Sing Sing prison for the benefit of the prisoners, which was started by Warden Brush in January, 1884, is said to have accomplished excellent results.

A tale mine has been discovered on the Merced River, California. The material is far superior to the foreign article for the manufacture of chinaware, fire-proof brick, etc.

A Detroit woman had a green water snake two feet and a half long taken from her stomach last week. She is said to have swallowed it ten years ago, when it and she were small.

Physical examinations are deadly to the aspirations of the small boy to become a seaman. Hundreds of lads are rejected yearly because of their inability to pass the tests successfully.

A mining company with a capital of $3,000,000 has been formed at Hot Springs, Arkansas. The syndicate owns several fine mines in that vicinity, and will commence work upon them at once.

In answer to the question: "Who was Sir Walter Scott?" on one of the entrance examination papers, a Parkhill, Canada, boy wrote: "A nobleman, a Scottish novelist, who was killed by Rob."

According to a Hebrew journal, the first Jew to visit this country was one of Columbus' sailors. His name was Louis de Parres, and he and Rodeirgo de Ereca were the first men America's discoverer sent ashore.

The unhappiness that the possession of a secret frequently entails on its possessor is thus illustrated by the New Orleans Picayune: "A man knows he is a great man; no one else knows it, and he is miserable in consequence."

The Arcadia club, Rofkin, N. Y., is the largest social organization formed through the avenues of Masonry in the world. Its members must be M. M's in good standing, and even with this qualification the ballot-box is the ultimate test.

A Pittsburg builder of cheap houses uses matched flooring instead of lath and plaster. On this cotton cloth is glued, and on the cloth wall paper is pasted. This he claims is better and cheaper than plaster and thus houses can be built safely in cold weather.

The Concord School of Philosophy struck a snag in a paper forwarded by a Texas professor. It was called "The Platonian Idea," and after an earnest and hopeless search for the idea, the school returned the paper to the professor with the simple interrogation: "Why don't you sign the pledge?"

The steamers on the Pacific are all manned by Chinese, who make very good, willing, sturdy, good-natured sailors so long as they are well officered. These vessels are built for freight, not passenger service, and, consequently, the speed and equipment are different from those of the "Atlantic graybounds."

John Talbot, a respectable citizen of Cleveland, O., entered the station-house one day recently and astonished the man in charge by asking that his own house be raided as a disorderly resort. He had unconsciously rented the building to an unsavory tribe of females, and, unlike many men of local prominence, wished to drive them out by "pulling" them.

Carlyle once gave up smoking because his doctor told him that it was not agreeing with him. A few weeks afterward he was walking in a wood when he saw a pipe, a tobacco pouch, and a box of lights lying together at the foot of a tree. He at once concluded that this was providential, filled the pipe and lighted it, and became a smoker from that hour.

A husband reading, while his wife near him sat embroidering a pair of slippers, remarked: "What surprises there are in statistics. A German physician affirms and proves by figures that half of the female sex are touched with insanity." "He is right," replied the wife, drily, for more than half the women prove it by getting married."

The practice of the law, observes the Philadelphia Record, broadens the minds of some men and narrows the minds of others. Those who study and appreciate the principles upon which laws are based belong to the first category. Those who rely upon precedent belong to the second. One tries to make the case fit the law, the other tries to make the law fit the case.

A Birmingham, Conn., man has hit upon a novel plan for the destruction of skunks that visit his hen-house. He procured some strychnine and with it poisoned a number of eggs which he placed on the ground near the opening of the dormitory. The odoriferous animals have become scarcer since, as from three to five dead ones have been found every morning during the past fortnight.

George Phillips, of Binghampton, Solano county, Cal., has just completed an organ containing four hundred pipes, the longest being sixteen feet. All the pipes are made of old newspapers rolled and fastened with a paste made of glue and alum. The woodwork was made entirely of old fence boards, posts, dry-goods boxes, and the like. He was two years in building this instrument, which is said to have an excellent tone.

Squatters are said to make clearings in the heavily-timbered lands of British Columbia by boring one large hole in the tree slantwise toward and another from a point well up the trunk and slanting downward, both meeting in the heart of the tree. Then the upper hole will be filled with any convenient combustible and ignited. The long hole acts as a chimney, and the tree burns furiously until the tree is destroyed.

"As between a dog and a dude for a summer resort pet," said a young lady to a young man left her side, "give me the dog." "Why?" asked her companion. "The dog never says anything." "Neither does the dude, does he?" "No; but he makes me tired talking so much."—Washington Critic.

"Ah, Twombley, out again, eh?" "You've had quite a siege, I hear." "Yes—almost at death's door." "What Problem pulled me through. Bless the old man! I owe everything to him." "Yes; I heard him remark yesterday that he expected you'd keep on owing him until the crack of doom."—Philadelphia Call.

A little eye maiden, on a visit to her uncle's farm, saw a thrashing-machine in operation for the first time. "O, papa!" cried she, running into the house all out of breath, "there's something out in Uncle Joe's barn with two horses in it, and they keep going and going, and never get anywhere."—Harper's Bazar.

Miss Ethel—I have such a lovely compliment for you, Clara. Miss Fiers —Yes? Miss Ethel—Yes; I told Mr. Featherly last evening that you were a young lady of great self-control, and he said that you didn't look it. I suppose, of course, that he meant that you didn't look to be 22. He's delightful.—N. Y. Sun.

Fashionable lady—Don't you think, doctor, that my husband ought to send me to some fashionable watering-place for my health? Doctor—Why, madam, you have a phenomenally robust physique." Fashionable lady—"I knew there was something the matter with me. Where have I to go to get rid of it?"—Long Branch or Saratoga?"—Texas Siftings.

Church deacon—"Have you decided yet, Mr. Standish, where you would like to go for your summer vacation?" Parson Standish—"It has been a very trying season, year, Mr. Wrenn, and I have thought I'd like to get as far away from my field of labor as possible." Church deacon—"That's just the feeling the whole congregation has, Mr. Standish."—Tidbits.

The address of a certain young man having been declined by a young lady he paid court to her sister. "How much she resembles her sister," he said the evening of his first call.

"You have the same nose and the same forehead, and the same eyes—" "And the same nose!" she added quickly. He was stopped calling at the house.—Christian at Work.

Editor of Mr. Lewis that he could make money by photographing the Hawtown County jail, where Mr. Gould was born and selling copies in Wall street. He journeyed down the river with the idea in his mind, but when he reached Gould's birthplace" said a broker to Lewis, confidentially. "What this world wants is a peep at Gould's tombstone!"—N. Y. Times.

In a lawyer's office. The advocate and his client are arguing about the fee. "It seems to me," said the latter, "that $2,000 for a single speech is just a trifle 'steep,' don't you think so?" "My dear sir, allow me to explain. As yours is one of those cases I am sure to win, my reputation at the bar will naturally suffer; and from this point of view I do not consider the sum named an adequate compensation."—Sermon Joke.

An Ohio widow owned a large gravel bank which a certain railroad company was very anxious to secure. Several propositions were made and rejected, and the President finally sent his private secretary down with instructions to offer up to $14,000. The young man returned inside of a couple of days, and, when asked how the business had turned out, replied: "I will accept your offer." "You?" "Exactly. I married the widow and own the bank."—Baltimore Sun.

Hard Lines.

"Times are purty hard on this route, and don't you forget it," said a prize-package peddler on a Western railroad train. "Aren't sales good?" was asked.

"Tolerably fair, but the trouble is with them Boston millionaires returning from California. Every one who buys a 10-cent package wants to sell the prize back to me for $1.50, and if I refuse they threaten to buy up all the stock, reorganize the road, and leave me out to starve. I wish I had a place with a circus to sell pink lemonade. Nobobs can't bluff you there."—Wall Street News.

ELFIN LOTTA.

Her Cottage at Hopatcong—The Richest Woman on the Stage.

The cottage is a very handsome one and is beautifully furnished. Of course Lotta had no chance this year to entertain there, but in future summers she will keep it, as is her wont, full of bright company. She has a great fondness for the society of bright and gamut people, particularly young folks. She has been talking for a long time of securing a place to settle down in, a home with an anchor to it. The Lake Hopatcong cottage is to be that home, and it was with this purpose in view that so much money was spent on it. She took up with rustic out-of-the-road Hopatcong at the suggestion of Dunlap, the New York hat man, who is a great friend of hers and has landed interests at the New Jersey resort. She will doubtless be very happy there, for she loves the wide water and the hills and fields, and is besides a jolly and hospitable entertainer. She had a house one summer at Lake George, and another summer at Newport. She kept each of them crowded with company all the time. Indeed, in many were the guests at her Newport cottage that she was obliged to lay out a plan of amusement every day and send out the people in squads. She kept five carriages and half a score of horses going all the time, carrying her guests hither and thither, as if she were supplementing her writer's work by conducting a summer hotel. All the same she enjoyed it all immensely, and the memories that she hears of it must afford fun any summer since.

It is altogether likely that Lotta will soon give up the stage. She tells me that next year she will not play more than three months, and after that it is not improbable that she will withdraw altogether from the glare of the footlights. She says that, at last, she has grown tired of the hard work incidental to stage life, and that she wishes a rest. "Besides," she adds naively, "I would rather retire gracefully now than be forced to go after the public has grown tired of me"—as if the world had shown any signs of growing weary of her shining eyes and nimble feet. She is far and away the richest woman on the stage. Her fortune easily reaches a round million. Besides, she has not and been swindled out of a third as much. She has prudently put $400,000 in United States bonds. The rest is chiefly invested in real estate. Her mother looks after the money generally, and Lotta is as dutiful as if she were still a child of 12 dancing for coins in Colorado mining camps. If she wants a new pair of gloves she feels that she must ask, "Can I have them, mamma?" and of course she can, for mamma is altogether too clever to run any risk of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.—Philadelphia Press.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or sciatica, and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure their disease.

August 10th, 1886.

Louis Schmidt, harness maker at Watertown, writes to us, and our correspondent, "While I cannot say Athlophoros has cured me of my rheumatism, it has been a great benefit and has relieved me very much. I have been subject to the rheumatism for the past six years; many times afflicted so that I could not work. I first used Athlophoros about three months ago and experienced very quick relief. I used in all about six bottles." Where did you first learn of this medicine was asked? "It was recommended to me through Mr. Edwards' use, a farmer living about ten miles from here; he was much worse than me. Used only three bottles and was completely cured. I consider it the best medicine I ever used and expect to use more of it."

Sturgis, Mich.

I have had an excellent sale for Athlophoros from the time of its first introduction and in every case with most satisfactory results. I call to mind one case in particular of a young lady afflicted with rheumatism who had been treated by our best physicians unsuccessfully, but who obtained relief in a few days when upon my recommendation. I have no hesitation in pronouncing it a specific for all cases of rheumatism and neuralgia.

H. L. ANTHONY, Druggist.

Every druggist should have Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought we will forward the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For Dyspepsia and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, constipation, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of the blood, scrofula, rheumatism, malaria, and blood taint, Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

G GEO. W. MILLER O
O W
W MILLER
MILLER
MILLER
GEO. W. MILLER G

I am not selling out, but I am selling all the goods I can; and if you will give me a call, I will convince you that I am selling better goods for less money than can be bought in this or any other town. The "4 off" and "selling out" sales are getting old. All I ask is, give me a call for anything in the clothing line and convince yourself.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. L. L. Williams, Aleksadria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and time, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I know it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. J. Rowland, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Heartburn up to the time I started taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. Today my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 303 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Only 25c Cents.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Boys a perfect remedy for Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness, and Loss of Sleep. Try it. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co., and G. W. Crouter.

If you have a cold, cough, bronchitis, or any form of throat or lung disease, do not neglect it. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly taken will speedily relieve and cure all ailments of this sort.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 14, 1887.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192ad.

Pickles.—Something extra good. Come and try them.

WILL SAY & CO.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Minute Photos, $1 per dozen, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

E. A. Norris has gone to Elkhart, Indiana.

Storm doors come down and awnings go up.

J. R. Cooper is now at Bayfield, Wis., prospecting.

The ice in Round lake broke up last Saturday night.

All of the mails have been late during the week. Bad roads.

Wagons started on our streets last Thursday, the first since last fall.

John Papineau has given his house on Antrim street a new coat of paint.

Mrs. John Macy lost a new milch cow, which died last Sunday night.

Leroy Lang lost a valuable cow on Wednesday, by choking on a turnip.

Look for L. D. Bartholomew & Co.'s illustrated announcement next week.

Andrew Silverhorn, of the Lansing Paper Co., made us a brief call last Friday.

O. I. Wheat reports a pleasant time at his select dance last Friday evening.

Mrs. Lyman Price started on Monday, to join her husband in Bayfield Wisconsin.

The schooner Mockingbird is having a new topmast at Washburn's shipyard.

C. J. Grier has resigned the office of chief of the fire department, to take effect April 21.

Miss L. Spaulding has returned from her visit, and will now be found at her place of business.

Marion Bence has moved into the building on Clinton street formerly occupied by B. Suffield.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co. have added a new shed for the storing of agricultural implements.

The scow Lottie Mason is receiving numerous repairs and getting ready for opening of navigation.

Moz Leibnitzky arrived in town on Monday. He will fish with John O'Neil during the season.

Geo. W. Miller is painting his counters and shelves and getting ready for the spring trade.

Will Washburn has purchased the house and lot of H. S. Harsha on Main street, near the park.

E. Carpenter and wife and C. Y. Cook returned Monday from their winter's sojourn in Florida.

Engineers are surveying a route for the Gilbert & Indiana railroad from Lovering to Cheboygan.

Carpenter, Bartholomew & Co.'s docks are as full of cedar ties and posts as they can well be piled.

At the warm sugar social held at the Congregational church on Tuesday evening, the ladies cleared $10.

The regular meetings of the Loyal Legion are held at Green's hall Saturday afternoon. A full attendance desired.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co. report that they are having a large trade in the Sherwin-Williams paint already, this spring.

A full attendance at the meeting of the fire company Monday evening is desired, as the election of chief is to be had.

Show melted last Saturday and Sunday at the rate of an inch an hour, with only the sun and the wind to do the work.

The fish tug Clara Elliott will be launched from Campbell's shipyard on Saturday, and will commence business as soon as the ice will permit.

Emrey Brothers dealers in dry goods and groceries, were too busy this week to write an advertisement. Look for their announcement next week.

In another column the Aldrich Sisters announce an opening of new millinery and ladies' fancy goods at the Ingleside next Saturday. Go and see them.

Messrs. Carpenter, Stockman, and Cook of Charlevoix, Mich., passed through town Monday from Port Orange homeward bound. Their old neighbors will find their scales full grown although they have failed to give us a record of the fish they have caught this winter.—Halifax Journal.

There will be preaching at the M. E. church at Ironton next Sunday morning, and at Johnson's school house in Marion in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Navigation is open from Frankfort south, and the Priant is running from that place to Manistee temporarily. She will be there as soon as the ice will permit.

The Labor Journal of Alpena started out last week on its fifth years work. Judging from appearances it is in a prosperous condition and able to perform its labor well.

The steamer Gordon will run on the Boyne City route this summer. She has had her cabin raised which improves her looks, and will add to the comfort of the traveling public.

James W. Tripp and Joseph Stevens under the name of Tripp & Stevens, selling a large number of the Peerless Plow, and judging from their list of references the Peerless is an excellent plow.

Petoskey Democrat. "The Charlevoix Journal appeared last week very much improved in appearance, and also in subject matter, under the editorial management of Charles J. Grier. Brim full of local and spicy editorials. Shake, Bro. Grier."

The Petoskey Record says that Orson Cook left his home, about two miles from Boyne Falls, last Thursday morning, to do some trading, intending to return in an hour. Nothing whatever has been heard from him since, and his wife is nearly crazed with anxiety.

All of the boats at Washburn's shipyard have received more or less repairs during the winter. The tug Bob Stevenson has been almost entirely rebuilt, and will be used by the Pine Lake Iron Co., in towing wood scows. The Gazelle has had numerous repairs, in the way of new plank ing, rail, and paint. The Clare Belle has had none to speak off.

A new lodge was organized in Charlevoix last week called Marine Engineers' Association and the following officers were elected: Past president, O. S. Washburn; president, John M. Ackert; vice president, R. O'Neil; secretary, H. D. Wood; financial secretary, Gurley Bonk; corresponding secretary, George Pappin; treasurer, Leslie Giddings; chaplain, John Anderson; conductor Thomas E. Nowland; doorkeeper, Leroy Hamlin.

Mr. Harry F. Sayles, under whose leadership meeting will begin April 17, is not a minister. He is a layman, as is Mr. Moody and many others whose gospel work has been with great good. He has been during the winter in different parts of Michigan, Detroit, St. Joseph, Muskegon, and in Tennessee and Alabama. His home is in Ypsilanti, to which he returned about April 1, from Mobile, and from which place he will come to Charlevoix. A delightful feature of the meetings is that Mr. Sayles sings the gospel as well as preaches it. Some of our townspeople are secured for the week to assist in the work. They express high esteem for him as a christian gentleman and gospel worker.

Additional Township Returns.

BOYNE VALLEY.

Supervisor, Wm. A. Nielson; clerk, Wm. R. Vliet; treasurer, H. H. Eaton; highway commissioner, John Baker; justices, George Leddick, Chas. F. Dixon; school inspector, E. K. Robinson.

CHARLEVOIX.

Supervisor, W. J. Pearson; clerk, J. W. Hall; treasurer, Jas. W. Walton; justice, W. J. Pearson; school inspector, M. J. Pearson; highway commissioner, A. Warner; constables, Jay H. Perry, G. Fetterly. Wm. Mackie, P. Atkins.

EVANGELINE.

Supervisor, H. C. Heirigle 130, Morell Long 63, Elisha Shepard 44; clerk, W. J. Lowe 145, Chas. A. Shepard 90; treasurer, E. F. Allen 136, Stephen L. Hicks 100; justice, D. C. Hammond 128, Z. N. Garbutt 106; school inspector, John Karcher 234; highway commissioner, Ira Jubin; villa 130, Geo. H. Griffin 106; drain commissioner, O. C. Ball 162, W. H. Brooks 71; constables, Chas. Hendee 168, G. W. White 165, Geo. Cholwell 222, H. T. Dyer 233, Hartley White 76.

RUBICON.

Supervisor, Jas. McKibbin; clerk, David M. Hoffman; treasurer, Jas. A. Waggoner; justice (full term), John K. Anderson; justice (vacancy), Wm. Gillett; school inspector, A. L. Simons; highway commissioner, Geo. Smith; constables, J. C. Smith, R. Brodie, D. H. Gillett, Asai Myrick.

Congregational Church.

Service Sunday, and Sunday school after, as usual.

Eveline.

Spring is here.

Roads are hardly passable.

The robin and the thrush are a warbling in the brush.

The farmer will soon be busy plowing and seeding again.

C. G. Van Platten's mill at Advance is cutting from seven to eight thousand feet per day.

The ice on Pine lake and South Arm is covered with water, which makes it impassable for teams.

A good shower of rain, would be greatly appreciated to wash things off and purify the air.

A. D. Joles and John Smith left one day last week for Point St. Ignace.

The school at Ironton commenced Monday, with the same teachers.

A neat housekeeper will occasionally tidy up around the back door.

Mr. Hale engaged cutting shingle bolts last Wednesday, Joseph Gaunt slashed his axe into his left foot, on the side, and inflicted an ugly gash.

Miss Lizzie Seymour, of Lonia, formerly a teacher in district No. 3, is visiting at Mrs. McDonald's.

There is no use denying it,—the JOURNAL is the best paper in the county. And we would not be without it for anything. So we think everyone ought to subscribe.

School in district No. 3 commenced Monday, with Mr. Robinson, (son of our county surveyor E. K. Robinson) of near Boyne Falls, as principal.

Miss Annie Metcalf, of Charlevoix, is engaged to teach in the Beer's district, during the summer.

We passed the residence of J. D. Parish last Friday afternoon, and peering over the fence, spied J. D. leaning his hoe. On asking him what he was killing himself at, he said he was hoeing peas, but in further conversation he said he was going to be engaged in trading twaxes for old rags for a while, and that he wanted to get all the old rags he could.

It will soon be time to plant your garden. The warm sunshine of last Sunday accompanied by a strong south wind, has about demolished the snow, and our farmers will be busy this week plowing and seeding.

At this writing W. H. Jarman is on the sick list, with asthma.

Many congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. H.——We want the cigars J. M.

The hens in this vicinity are now paying strict attention to business, and eggs are more plenty.

April, 12th.

Wilson.

Delightful spring weather.

Sugar making has begun.

Wilson did nobly for prohibition.

Elder Tracy preached in district No. 3, on Sunday, April 3.

The beautiful has nearly all vanished and we welcome the sight of mother earth again.

Miss Etta Peak, of Echo, was in attendance at the exhibition.

Mr. Owen Stevenson, of East Jordan, formerly head sawyer at the Vanes' mill, has been seen quite frequently around this vicinity.

Louis and Frank Willis started for the "Sweet Home" of Mich, where they expect to go on the drive.

Sydney Burley's two youngest children have been very ill, but are convalescent at present.

Jack Shepherd has made several calls in Echo recently. Well, Echo is an interesting place to visit,—some pretty girls there.

School closed on Friday last. Exhibition in the evening was well attended. The recitations spoke well for the training Miss Jones gave her pupils. We believe she is to teach the summer term, beginning in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Jones, of Boyne City, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hudkins five days last week.

Mr. P. Whalen, Mr. J. P. Vance, and family recently spent two days in Echo, visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Thos. Shepherd lies very ill with bilious fever and a complication of other diseases. Dr. Foster is in attendance.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cook aged nearly nine months, died on Sunday last. They have the sympathy of all.

Arbor Day Ceremonies.

HEADQUARTERS
BAXTER POST, NO. 240, G. A. R.
Charlevoix, Mich., April 14, 1887.
(Circular No. 4.)

His excellency, the governor of Michigan, having designated Monday, April 25th, 1887, as "arbor day," the undersigned respectfully requests each member of Baxter Post to plant at least one tree in our post cemetery on said arbor day; each tree thus planted to be named in honor of some comrade, and the name and location to be recorded in the cemetery records. The places in which trees are to be planted will be designated by the cemetery committee at 2 o'clock p. m. of said day.

By order of E. H. GREEN, Post Commander.

Gospel Meeting Program.

Gospel meetings at the opera house, Charlevoix, Mich., conducted by the evangelist, Mr. Harold F. Sayles, beginning Sunday, April 17, at 3 p. m. You are invited to attend all of the following meetings:

Praise and preaching service every evening except Saturday, at 7.30.

Bible readings every day, except Monday, at 3 o'clock p. m.

All-day service, Tuesdays, 10.30 to 12 a. m.; subject, prayer and praise. 3 to 4.30 p. m.; subject, confession, humiliation, and consecration.

Children's meetings, Wednesdays and Saturdays, at 4.15 p. m. (after school).

Testimony and inquiry meetings will follow each preaching service.

Invite your friends, send your children, come yourself.

These services will not in any way interfere with the usual Sunday morning service and Sunday school at the various churches.

Burgess.

Mr. Clark, who has been at work for A. B. Struthers the past winter, lost his wife last Friday.

Time to commence spring work.

Sugar making is apparently ended for this season.

Now is the time to look for trailing arbutus.

Miss Alta Cram, of Undine, is visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Hamlin.

There will be preaching at Maple Grove school house every Sunday by Rev. J. R. Crane.

We were surprised by the appearance of Squire McNally back in the interior of Hayes, but learned that he came for the purpose of attending the oath of office to Mr. Frank Kane as road commissioner.

This is a good time for fitting falow, and several are improving it.

M. E. Church.

In olden time wise man consulted often and imparted results to the people. Let us come together on Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock and try our hand at learning so that we may be as the scriptures saith "Apt to teach.

Do not forget to pray at home and you will not forget to pray Thursday evening prayer meeting.

Sabbath morning we shall hold our usual services and Sunday school. In the afternoon Harry Sayles will be our leader in a gospel meeting in opera hall.

W. H. MCCARTNEY.

Notice.

We, the undersigned, hereby agree to close our places of business on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. All patrons will please take due notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

This agreement takes effect further notice.

A. J. MCLEOD,
G. W. JEFFERIES,
JOHN MCCABE.

Money Refunded.

The true remedy has at last been discovered. It was long known in his practice as Dr. Bull's Lung Food for Consumption. It is now called Dr. Bull's Cough Cure. It is the safest, the surest and the best. No other Cough, Cold, and Consumption remedy is half its equal. We warrant it and will promptly refund the money paid for it if a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time the third bottle of the contents of the bottle is used. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co., and D. G. W. Crouter.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Catarrh, when chronic, becomes very offensive. It is impossible to be otherwise healthy, and, at the same time, afflicted with catarrh. This disagreeable disease, in its most obstinate and dangerous forms, can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

MILLINERY,
Dressmaking,
Ladies' Fancy Goods.

A stock of New Goods will be opened on SATURDAY, April 16th. The Ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity are cordially invited to examine our Goods, and give our Work a trial.

ALDRICH SISTERS,
At the Ingleside, Charlevoix, Mich.

BRIDGE LETTING.

Notice is hereby given that the contract for swinging the Ford Bridge and taking charge of same for the season of navigation of 1887, will be let to the lowest responsible bidder on Wednesday, April 20th, 1887. The bids to be left at the Township clerk's office, on or before April 20, as a written offer. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

SOMWELL MUDGE,
Highway Commissioner.

SELLING OUT!
at
ROSENTHAL & SON'S
COME AND GET
Bargains.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,
Wills, Butter, and Vegetables.
TERRACE FARM. - - CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

New Firm
WITH NEW SPRING GOODS.

CONSTANCY.

BY WM. MACNOTON.

I saw, to-day, a curious sight—
A sight I pondered long—
A monkey in the summer's light
And woodbird's song
A withered tree around whose bare
Ash twined with matchless grace
Fill to by the tendrils stung
Where silently and a place sung.

"Why stayest thou, O bird?" I said,
"The home is blank and bare;
No branch is bending o'er thy head;
No shelter there."
And then, O Man, why dost thou cling
To life, when life is all
Its beauty were long, its delights vanish,
No leaflets touch their lips to thine."

You might not hear the voice I heard,
Low as was and low—
Low as was the language from the bird,
And both that know
It beside its heart beside the flower
And hours it dream of twilight's hour;
From vine, and leaf, and shadowy tree
It calmed grief so tenderly.

Thus sang the bird: "Its spring's sweet time,
Through many an opening year,
I sought and found in this far clime
A shelter here.
Ah! this was green, and all day long
We filled these happy aisles with song;
Ah! this was green, and I have sought
I love and cannot leave it now,"

And said the vine: "One balmy spring
I nestled 'neath this tree—
When I had left a lily thing
Fire storm-stroke and its sad decay,
Years my support from day to day;
I loved it in its sad decline,
And cling to its shadowy leaves of mine."

O, constant bird—O, clinging vine!
"Thou art a lesson to my heart
Thus bears in this sweet love of thine
Its counterpart!
Through wash and sorrow, pain and grief,
So shelter gave and been my
Yet clinging, downward to the grave
Would hide the soul it cannot save!

THE TRAIN-GUARD.

A Story of Old Army Days.

BY JAMES FRANKLIN PITTS.

I AM Sergeant David Perry, at your service. For fifty years I was a soldier in the army of the United States, and, as you may imagine, I saw some pretty stirring times in the wars that our country has engaged in during that long period. Now I am rather battered and worse for wear, and I have two or three old wounds that need a great deal of dressing. If I were a General or a Colonel I should be on the retired list; as it is, I have an honorable discharge, after more than half a dozen enlistments, and a pension from the Government which is sufficient for my humble wants. My days of duty and activity being over, the desire to tell about what I have experienced comes on naturally to me, and as it has become quite the fashionable pastime among the high rank to put their memoirs in print, it may be that a contribution from an old cavalry sergeant would not come amiss. I propose to tell the story of a rather remarkable adventure that I once had in Northern Texas.

It was shortly after the close of the Mexican war. I was ordered from Vera Cruz to New Orleans, and thence to Galveston, where I was directed to report to Lieutenant Wilson, at the barracks. I found thirteen sixty-five soldiers, whom I was ordered to drill in the cavalry tactics, mounted and dismounted. They were a strange lot, indeed. Half of them were recruits who had never mounted a horse or handled a carbine, and the rest had to undergo the thin point on their way to the front by the news of Lieutenant Wilson. They had been mainly picked up by the recruiting officers in the cities, and after looking them over, I concluded that they were not likely to be of great value to the army. The other half of the detachment was still worse. To speak plainly, they were sharks, deserters, and malingerers, whose records of unfaithful service and punishment had been sent here with them. And I was this set of fellows that the Lieutenant informed me I was expected to put into shape with all speed for some kind of important service. I was to be of a similar opinion, but I went at the distasteful duty with as much zeal as was possible. In a month I was able to report to the Lieutenant that the detachment was tolerably school-drilled, and that I was able and witnessing one of my drills, he said that he thought we might report at least for duty.

Our orders came two days later. The men were merely told to be ready to move at a moment's notice; but to me the Lieutenant imparted the instructions he had received—or part of them. We were to embark on a steamboat large enough to transport the whole detachment, horses and all, three large wagons, forage, and a small bulkhead. Entering the Brazos River at the high stage of the year, and high water, we were to ascend it some three hundred miles, to the head of navigation, then disembark, and take the route for a fort which was situated up towards the Indian Territory.

To take these supplies, sir, I suppose, I ventured to the Lieutenant. He said "Yes;" but he said it in such a way as to make me surmise that this was not the whole object of the long journey. Of course, I wanted to know all about it; but a proper military subordination told me to hold my tongue, and wait till the time came for me to know.

It came soon enough!

The day before we embarked on the steamer the Lieutenant had a final muster and inspection of his command. The men had received new uniforms, and looked very smart as they were drawn up in line. After inspection, the Lieutenant made them a little speech. He was a very handsome officer, Lieutenant George Wilson, about thirty years old, and as straight as an arrow. He had not served in Mexico, but he was a great deal of Indian fighting, which I supposed to be the reason that he was assigned to command this expedition. He told the men that they were going to guard a convoy of supplies and stores to a post near the north line of the State. He did not expect that the duty would be either perilous or fatiguing; but if it proved to be both, it must be done with the utmost fidelity. He knew the country and understood his orders, and everything possible would be done for the comfort and safety of the command; but one thing he should insist on—absolute, unquestioning obedience to his orders. He also said that he knew that some of the men came to him with bad records. He would remove them that they should be treated as well as the others; and he hoped and expected that they would embrace this opportunity to make a new beginning, and try to make a name for themselves.

When the ranks were broken, as I walked across the parade-yard, I overheard a few words exchanged between two of the men. One was a Swede, almost a giant in size and strength, whose record was one of the worst of the lot; the other was a morose, a native Texan, who, I was told, had been lately in the penitentiary.

"What d'ye think of him?" asked the latter.

"Bah!" replied the other, stamping his foot upon the ground as he spoke. "I've made bigger men than he look white."

"It will be safe to keep an eye on you, at all events," was my thought.

Our embarkation and long passage up the Brazos were duly accomplished. The evening before we left the steamer an incident happened that was to have a important bearing on the fortunes of the expedition. I noticed one of the men sitting apart from the others, near the bow, looking rather pensively over the side of the turbid stream. He was a slender, fresh-complexioned young fellow, with a bright, shy eye, and an almost boyish face. I had noticed him before, and now remembered that his name was Alfred West. Some impulse led me to speak to him.

"Well, Alfred, how are you feeling?"

He looked up with a quizzical expression, trying to smile, but hardly able to, and replied:

"Why, Sergeant, to tell the truth—just a little homesick."

"Pshaw, a man that won't do for a soldier."

"Of course not; but it's not a bad attack, I said just a little, you know."

He was laughing now, and his own words, I became suddenly interested in him, and, after a little more conversation, I had no difficulty in getting him to tell me his story. He was the son of a wealthy farmer of Livingston County, New York. His youthful fancy had been turned by the news, paper accounts of the earlier battles of the Mexican war, and he had run away from home to enlist. He was too young at the time, being only sixteen, but his determination to be a soldier had prompted him to tell a falsehood, and declare himself two years older; and he was accepted. The hard reality had proved a very different thing from the bright picture of a soldier's life which he had drawn. Instead of active use, the advance guard was about the same time received, and he was the hindmost but coming at a walk. I yelled to them at the top of my voice:

The Lieutenant fell from his saddle.

"Gallop—charge!—fire as you come!"

They obeyed on the instant, and after them came that part of the column that was ahead of the wagons. I stood with my revolvers ready, but seeing the force that was at hand, the Indians pulled short up, turned, and rode off.

My poor Lieutenant! He lay on his back with one of those devilish arrows driven through his breast. I knelt down beside him and over his face we spread a blanket to prevent me to put my ear to his lips, and this is what he said:

"The Major will tell you. O, my poor mother!"

Brave and tender soul—true to duty and filial love to the last!

We buried on the spot where he died, and remained there the day and the next.

I consulted with the Major, and we agreed that for the present he should be buried there. We made a rude coffin, dug his grave under a stately live-oak and laid him in it. The Major read the burial service, and I had three volleys fired over him. Peace to the ashes of a brave soldier dies or were the time!

After the funeral the Major took me aside, with a face full of anxiety.

"I suppose, Sergeant," he said, "that poor George told you about me?"

"No, sir; he did not. He was just about to tell me, when he was killed."

"Well, you must know. I need not tell you to keep it to yourself. I am Major Richmond, an army paymaster. My escort was shot down by the troops there some long arrears. In that ambush there are two boxes, each of which contains at this moment ten thousand dollars. This escort had business to protect that money. The death of the Lieutenant puts the whole burden on you. I am a paymaster, and nothing else. Though I have relative rank, I never had a command, and hardly know one end of a carbine from the other. But I have the utmost confidence in you, Sergeant; I know George had, and I've watched you myself. I know you'll do your best."

I was completely overwhelmed by this confidence, but I managed to thank the Major, and tell him that I would do my best. He listened to my story—and then what do you suppose he did? He was never more surprised in my life. The man who had late been telling me that he was no commander, that he was a soldier only so far as the un form went, and hardly knew the breech of a carbine from the muzzle, now got out two great navy revolvers from his trunk, capped them afresh, and said to me as coolly as if he were asking for a glass of water:

"Sergeant, George and I both rather expected something of this kind, and he told me before we left Galveston that I must be prepared for it. You see I am—in—fact, you're commander-in-chief; but when the trouble comes, you'll find me on hand."

We sat up till daylight, talking over the situation. Reveille came; the detachment fell in for roll-call as usual, and each man answered to his name. The breakfast were cooked and eaten, and the horses fed and groomed; and then the bugler sounded the "boots and saddles."

Not a man stirred.

I stood about five paces in front of the ambulance, the Major sat on the step with his hands in his pockets, looking on with apparent unconcern.

"What does this mean?" I exclaimed "To horse, every man of you!"

None of the recruits seemed about to obey, when the Swede spoke out loudly and insolently:

"I would like to see the man that stirs!"

They cow

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dadoes, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

THE STAR

A Newspaper Supporting the Principles of the Democratic Administration.

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER, EDITOR.

Daily, Weekly, and Sunday Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

An Eight-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press.

Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Financial and Commercial, Political, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its columns will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.

Original matter by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Free of Postage to the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City.

ONE DOLLAR FOR ONE YEAR.

Clubs of 10 to 44 names, P. O. address, each $1.50
Additional copy to organizer of Club, $1.50
FOR THREE MONTHS, on trial, 25 cents

Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.

Some Chromos.

THE DAILY STAR.

The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin, is a remarkable feature.

At Washington, Albany, and other centres of interest, the STAR correspondents, specially retained by THE STAR, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

Finance and Commerce are specially indexed, and the Commercial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Free of Postage in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City.

Every Day, for one year (including Sunday), $7.00
Every Day, six months, 3.50
Every Day, one month, 0.60
Daily, without Sunday, six months, 3.00
Daily, without Sunday, one year, 6.00

Address, THE STAR,
Broadway and Park Place, New York.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

THIS MARVELOUS STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE WHICH HAS NO SUPERIOR.

A source of improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WE WARRANT FOR FIVE YEARS

These excellent Organs are celebrated for real musical quality of tone, great power, variety of novel, valuable artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES. SKILLED WORKMEN.

COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, mailed.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

MISSING LINKS.

The Montreal winter carnival will begin Feb. 7.

There are fifteen hundred miles of streets in Philadelphia.

The widow of Paul Hayne, the southern poet, is in want.

George W. Childs is said to enjoy an income of $1,000 a day.

Over $18,000,000 has been expended on monuments in Massachusetts since 1861.

Ten thousand public schools receive financial support from the government of Mexico.

Cornelius Vanderbilt scorns crests and mottoes. "C. V." simply is painted on his carriage.

There is a man in Meadville, Pa., who claims to have discovered the secret of tempering copper.

There are fifteen men under the age of 30 years in Portland, Oregon, who are worth over a million dollars each.

Philip Pierce, a negro of Jacksonville, Fla., wants to bet $50 that he can pack forty-eight raw eggs and drink a gill of whisky within an hour.

Miss Lotta Barrell of Cambridge, Mass., has been elected President of a Greek college society—the first introduction of the barrel into college politics.

San Francisco has a woman's labor union. It was incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing wearing apparel, establishing laundries, eating houses, restaurants, and reading-rooms.

Gold discoveries were reported a month ago at Yellow Pine basin, Idaho, and as a consequence there are one thousand miners on the ground. They have staked off the surface in all directions for twenty miles.

D. O. Mills and Whitelaw Reid have gone into Owens River Valley with the intention of founding a wine and grape growing colony. They expect to take up at least 20,000 acres of land available for the purpose.

"Either your needle is dull or my scalp is sore," is given as the shortest reported sentence of Senator Evarts. The utterance was when a surgeon was sewing the learned gentleman's scalp just after the memorable mishap.

A representative of a powerful English and American syndicate is at San Antonio, Tex., negotiating for a suitable site for large smelting-works. This action is due to the trouble experienced in operating such works in Mexico.

It has been asked by what right Gen. Boulanger could stop the sale of his recently-published biography. The explanation is that the book contained his portrait, and in France a man's portrait can not be sold without his permission.

The statue of Karl Pistz died recently in Griefswald at the age of 72. He was perhaps the greatest European authority on butterflies. His works comprise thirty volumes, with more than 10,000 illustrations from his own hand.

The wealthiest colored man in the United States is said to be Tonie Lofton, a French quadroon, of New Orleans, whose fortune is estimated at $1,100,000. An organ of the colored people in the south says that they pay taxes on $90,000,000.

"M. Grevy, like a pretty woman, makes himself out much younger than he really is, says Figaro. "He was born on the 15th of April, 1807, not on the 10th of August, 1813. He is, therefore, 72 years of age. It is always well to tell the truth."

The Prince of Wales has been quite sharply lectured by the Zagreb Ahrenlese because he recently gave a dinner to forty guests Sunday. The dinner was followed by a variety show, in which Japanese jugglers exhibited their skill and a string band played.

William K. Vanderbilt has removed the limit of $500,000 originally placed upon the cost of his yacht, and is acting in with a determination to have the largest and most gorgeous craft of the kind afloat. Then he will have little difficulty in working off his surplus income.

When Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, who had been visiting Mr. Charles Morley at Chislehurst, were leaving that place for London a woman cried out, "There goes a Parnellite." Mr. Gladstone turned round, and was about to say something when the woman began to hiss. Mr. Gladstone smiled and passed on.

Don't sprinkle your milk punch with nutmeg. The common nutmegs are poisonous in large doses. In a case which came under medical treatment a lady had eaten a whole nutmeg and a half, which caused extreme drowsiness, then great nervous excitement, followed by subsequent depression and pain in the region of the heart.

Senator Mahone is a good billiard-player, but he missed a difficult shot while playing in Washington one evening. He dropped the end of his cue hard on the floor in evident disappointment. "Why, general, that was magnificent," broke out his friends, "even if it didn't count." "No," replied Mahone, "nothing is magnificent that misses."

A California editor thus addressed his subscribers: "We would like a number of old gunny sacks to put our earthquake in for holding grain to be given as an subscription by those in arrears. We want to use the gunny sacks to make us some underwear. Those who have nothing gunny sacks can money instead, which will do just as well. If we can't have underwear we can fire up, provided you bring the wood. Please send us some flour sacks for Sunday."

Quite a howl is being raised in Washington by the government employes and the Working-people because the Army and Navy museums, Smithsonian institute, Medical museum, and Corcoran Art gallery are closed on Sunday the only day the masses of the people have a chance to visit them. The kicking is very vigorous, and as the newspapers are backing the people very effectively the chances are there will room be brought about a change.

John G. Whittier writes to the Century concerning certain criticisms of his famous poem. The poem of Barbara Frietchie was written in good faith. The story was no invention of mine, it came to me from sources which I regarded as entirely reliable; it had been published in newspapers, and had gained public credence in Washington and Maryland before my poem was written. I had no reason to doubt its accuracy then, and I am still constrained to believe that it had foundation in fact. If I thought otherwise I should not hesitate to express it. I have no pride or authorship to interfere with my allegiance to truth."

King Humbert has had published for his only son, Crown Prince Victor Emmanuel, a special edition of Dante's "Divina Comedy," with the commentary of Stefano Talice, dating from the fifteenth century, and has prefaced the work with this dedication: "His Majesty, Humbert I., King of Italy, in ordering the publication of this ancient Dante commentary, wishes that it may be dedicated to his beloved son Victor Emmanuel as a reward for his devotion to his studies, and hopes that the divine poem may strengthen his mind and educate his heart for the cultivation of the literature of his country."

Lord Randolph Churchill, the London Globe says, is an altered man. The consciousness of less freedom and greater responsibility has worked the change which those who believe in him expected. His gift of "adaptability" is proved beyond denial. Save that the fiery spirit working on its way still prompts him at intervals to twist his mustache with the manual motion of one turning a handle, there is no trace in him of the Rupert of debate. His bearing is almost perpetually grave, his utterance is calm and deep, he has that in his apparel and his air which suggests the philosophic statesman long weaned from all the passions. The volcanic matter might have grown cold in his soul, even Pompeii, so governed, so deliberate, so impressively sage is his deportment.

Schwenke's Luck.

The wonderful suvance in values of Denver property oftimes staggers belief. It was but a few short years since the corner of Curtis and Sixteenth streets, the four lots lately sold by Mr. Tabor for $100,000, went begging for $500. Then again those two lots at the south end of the Union Depot, that had long been in controversy for title and were finally bought in by the Union Depot syndicate for $50,000, were won at a game of poker a few years ago when that part of the city was a howling wilderness. We would all have been rich if we had only known how things were coming out. This matter of fortune in the new West has all turned upon the pivot of front and land values. Too many of us have an abundance of the latter, while we have been exercising in the former. We remember one evening in 1860 of seeing the title to those $50,000 lots at the end of the depot put up at a gaming table against a $10 note. One Mark Amsden, a gambler by profession and a gambler by inclination, was the genius of the game. Babcock—a gay gambler—and they sweat and stole cards and played on the table in the usual way for the ownership of the pasture. He thought so little of them that he never put them on record, but went off to war and died. Then came a Dutchman, Schwenke, and settled upon them and lived in peaceable possession upon them for twenty-one years, and until the Union Depot syndicate needed them, when they were compelled to pay him $50,000 for the title he had acquired by the limitation of the law. During these one and twenty years he grew with a better luck than Schwenke had said to him: "Dutcher, you get up and get out of here." Everyone under the common law of the land this was peaceable possession, and the property was his. He is one of asbobs to-say.—Field and Farm.

Ingenious Device.

In a play now running in Boston an actor leaps headlong from the walls of a prison into apparent death. He catches himself within three feet clear in the sight of the audience. The device by which he escapes injury is very simple. A canvas cone is fixed under the stage, with its base just even with the stage, while it is arranged to represent water. This end is covered with rubber cloth, also painted to represent water. The rubber cloth is cut across in its center, and the actor, coming half way through, jumps for the edge. The ring or edge of this circle is hung on thick rubber springs. As the cone narrows to its apex three other rings are disposed at proper intervals, covered with a netting that easily breaks, affording only slight resistance. Now, when the actor leaps, it must leap is made, the leaper covers first twenty-three feet of clear space unobstructed. He then strikes the center of the diaphragm, and the rubber cloth, partially giving way, still offers some resistance, and clinging around his shoulders, retards his progress, without hurting him at all. The next, and the next, and still the next, or last, ring in the cone offers some resistance to check the fall until the apex of the cone, by its narrowing, holds the diver in a close embrace about his shoulders, with his head protruding from the opening. Thus far the diver has not hurt himself.

She Had Been There.

An amusing little incident recently occurred in a down-town Washington man, who has been more abundantly blessed by nature in the matter of brains than with more facial beauty. The young fellow, who is a regular dude in the fair sex, has been spending the season at the White Sulphur Springs. About a week since, while conversing with the long portico about the hotel in company with a friend, he passed for a moment before a group of children. Noticing that his companion giggled out loud, the young man turned to see to whom he threw a curse, he leaned forward with the gallant request that he too would be favored with the privilege of bestowing a kiss. The little maid of three summers looked at him very earnestly for a moment, as though to take in to the full extent his unhandsome physiognomy. Then, with a long sigh of resignation for the coming ordeal, put up her little mouth reluctantly, remarking: "Yes; I'll kiss you. I kissed a dog once!"—Washington Capitol.

"A spotted adder" is a name grimly given by the Boston Globe to defaulting cashiers.

COMPOUND OXYGEN
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT
FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders
A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU.
Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN have gone to the front of their standing as Physicians to the following named well-known persons who have used their Treatment: Hon. William D. Kelley, M. C., Philadelphia, Pa.; Rev. Chas. W. Cushing, Editor Lutheran Observer, Phila.; Rev. Chas. W. Cushing, Lockport, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge H. P. Freeman, Quincy, Kan., Atchison County.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS." A new and elegantly printed book of two hundred pages, published by the Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of surprising cures in a long list of cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. It will be sent free to any address on application.
Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

STORY & CLARK FINE ORGANS
SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!
N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.
CHICAGO Canal AND 16TH STS

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by J. Milo Eaton and Ellen J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary J. Sweetland, dated April twelfth, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix aforesaid, on the twenty-ninth day of April, in liber "g" of mortgages, on page one hundred and eighty-six, at six o'clock in the afternoon, and the sum of Twenty-five Hundred Dollars being now owned by the undersigned, by virtue of said mortgage, it is hereby stated that default has made in the payment of said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby and whereunto the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in the said mortgage, I hereby give notice that I shall foreclose said mortgage by sale at public vendue, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, with ten per cent thereon, and all legal costs and charges, at the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 12th day of June, A. D. 1887, at two o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described as follows, viz: The south half of the south half of the southwest quarter (½ of ¼ of section twenty-three (23), township thirty-four (34) north, range ten west, in said county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and containing forty acres, more or less.

Dated February 14th, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Wm. Winney and Ellen Winney, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary A. Winney, of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated July 12th, A. D. 1879, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1879, in Liber 1 of Mortgages, on page 304, and assigned to the undersigned by deed dated the 6th day of February, A. D. 1884, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 324 and the same is now owned by the said Wallace J. Hipp; and whereas, the sum of Six Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars is now claimed to be due on the said mortgage and for attorney's fee provided by law on the foreclosure of said mortgage, making together the sum of Seven Hundred and Twenty-five Dollars and Twenty-five Cents ($725.25) principal, interest and attorney's fee, no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby and whereunto the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, I hereby give notice that I shall foreclose said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, with ten per cent thereon, and all legal costs and charges, at the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 12th day of May, A. D. 1887, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, which premises are described as follows, viz: The south half of the southwest quarter (½ of ¼ of section twenty-three (23), township thirty-four (34) north, range ten west, in said county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and containing forty acres, more or less.

Dated February 14th, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the ninth day of October, A. D. 1883, made and executed by Ann Schmerbeck (nee Ann Walter) to William Ferguson, of Detroit, Michigan, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, in liber 14 of mortgages, on page 1, on the second day of March, A. D. 1885, and the same is now owned by the undersigned, by virtue of a mortgage from the said owner thereof dated the second day of March, A. D. 1885, and recorded in said office of the register of deeds, in liber 14 of mortgages, on page 2, and the same is now owned by the said mortgagee, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby and whereunto the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, I hereby give notice that I shall foreclose said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, with ten per cent thereon, and all legal costs and charges, at the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 25th day of May, A. D. 1887, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, which premises are described as follows, viz: The south half of the southwest quarter (½ of ¼ of section twenty-three (23), township thirty-four (34) north, range ten west, in said county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, and containing forty acres, more or less.

Dated February 14th, A. D. 1887.

ALICE W. WILLEY,
Assignee of Mortgage.

E. G. BARNUM,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Mich.

NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY is complete in comfort without the Cradle Protector of Harmony, that delights mother and child of the morning. Only $1.50 in the world devoted to the care of young children. Were glad to recommend it. J. S. Jackman Co., N. Y. $1.50 a year; (5 cents a copy.

COMPOUND OXYGEN
A NATURAL TONIC
Dr. STARKEY AND PALEN have gone to the front of their standing as Physicians to the following named well-known persons who have used their Treatment: Hon. William D. Kelley, M. C., Philadelphia, Pa.; Rev. Chas. W. Cushing, Editor Lutheran Observer, Phila.; Rev. Chas. W. Cushing, Lockport, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge H. P. Freeman, Quincy, Kan., Atchison County.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS." A new and elegantly printed book of two hundred pages, published by the Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of surprising cures in a long list of cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. It will be sent free to any address on application.
Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

FOR MAN AND BEAST!
Mexican Mustang Liniment
CURES
Scalds, Burns, Sprains, Bruises, Sores, Cuts, Corns, Scratches, Lameness, Sprains, Stiffness, Stiff Joints, Backache, Galls, Sores, Spavin, Crack, Contracted and Stiff Cords, Erysipelas, Foot Rot, Screw Worms, Quinsy, Saddle Galls, Piles.
THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes more effectually what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine.
The Lumberman needs it for his men and teams.
The Housewife needs it for general family use.
The Farmer needs it for himself and his stock.
The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.
The Miner needs it in case of emergency.
The Pioneer needs it—he can't get along without it.
The Traveler needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard.
The Stockman and man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply about each establishment.
The Sportsman and Athlete need it—it is his best friend and safest reliance.
The Good-grandmother needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.
The Ballad-singer need not be without it and will need it as long as his life is a round of sections and bruises.
The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and health which surround the pioneer.
The Merchant needs it about his store ready for his employees. Accidents will happen and when those cases the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once, it was a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of economy.
Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Injunctions are in case of accidents never pain and loss of wages.
Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a certain cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their symptoms, he will send (free of charge) a copy of the recipe so simple that no one need err.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PERKINS, 47 Cedar St., N. Y.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL OFFICE.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 197. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 21, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY OSCAR J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Bohnsack's Block, Charlevoix. C. J. GRIER. A. D. CRUCKSHANK.

ART. J. CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney and Counselor at Law and Proctor in Admiralty, Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. S. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Address Boyne City.

Z. N. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services and Sunday school at 1.30 p. m. Every Monday, at residence of W. F. Brown, corner of Bridge and Mason sts., evening service. W. F. BROWN, Lay Reader.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Sabbath evening. Thursday evening at 7.30. All meetings held at Green's hall, over F. W. Crane & Co.'s store. W. G. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock. A. T. WATERMAN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock. W. H. MCARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at Weed's Drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office first door west of Postoffice, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic pulsatic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Tuesday in each month. Jos. Bennett, Adjt.

I. O. G. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 237, meet every Monday evening at Jefferson hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 280, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Boyne Court Tent No. 8, meets second Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. L.—True Blues No. 187, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Bohnsack's hall.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 295, meets on Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Prop. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Druggist.
Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix
CAPITAL, $50,000.
Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Interest allowed on time deposits. Loans made on approved security. Tickets—The Henderson Line of Steamers—for sale at lowest rates. Insurance effected in the best companies. The Mechanic needs is always on his work bench.
The Miner needs it in case of emergency.
The Pioneer needs—he can't get along without it.
The Traveler needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard.
The Stockman and man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply about each establishment.
The Sportsman and Athlete need it—it is his best friend and safest reliance.
The Good-grandmother needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.
The Backwoodsman need not be without it and will need it as long as his life is a round of sections and bruises.
The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and health which surround the pioneer.
The Merchant needs it about his store ready for his employees. Accidents will happen and when those cases the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once, it was a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of economy.
Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Injunctions are in case of accidents never pain and loss of wages.
Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a certain cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their symptoms, he will send (free of charge) a copy of the recipe so simple that no one need err.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PERKINS, 47 Cedar St., N. Y.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Bill Heads, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL OFFICE.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

100 GOOD WHITE BRICK for sale.—Inquire at this office.

1872. 1887
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

NEW LIVERY AND Feed Barn.
LITNEY & STEIMEL
PROPRIETORS
Opposite Bridge Street House Charlevoix,
FIRST-CLASS RIGS REASONABLE RATES.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

HEADQUARTERS —FOR— WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.
A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.
All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in stock. Prices the lowest and most improved Watches manufactured.
Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted.
C. H. BELLINER,
Bridge St., - - Charlevoix.

WILL H. FRANCIS,
Furniture and Jobbing Shop.
—Will also do—
CONTRACTING AND BUILDING.
In Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in stock a full line of furniture, and Foot power machinery which enables me to do,
Jobbing, Repairing, Etc.,
at reasonable notice.
Shop on South Terrace, opposite Harrison Berdan's residence.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I make a specialty of fitting up Lumbermen's Sleighs and Logging Tools. WORK GUARANTEED. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
For The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

Daily Mail —AND— Stage Line TO EAST JORDAN.
During the coming winter, Burns & Scroggie, as sub-contractors for J. J. Sharp, will carry the mail between Charlevoix and East Jordan, leaving Charlevoix at 1.00 a. m., arrive at East Jordan by noon. Returning, leave East Jordan at 1.00 p. m., arrive at Charlevoix by 6.00 p. m. Passengers and baggage carried at low rates.
BURNS & SCROGGIE,
Charlevoix Mich.

Jos. Beauvais
BOAT-BUILDER.
The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery
In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A. J. McLeod
Can be found at the old stand with a
FULL STOCK OF MEATS
Of all kinds
At Wholesale and Retail.
HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

Political Notes and News.

ANARCHY in Chicago has received something of a back set.

THE special grand jury of Cook county, Illinois, have found over three hundred indictments against thieves and jobbers on the city treasury called boodlers.

THE Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company has paid $46,500 for the sixteen lives destroyed in the accident at Rio last autumn. This shows the wisdom of compromising with survivors where the same is practicable.

PRESIDENT Cleveland has appointed as the commission to investigate the affairs of the Pacific Railways, under the act of the late congress, ex-Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania; E. Ellery, Anderson, of New York, and David L. Littler, of Illinois,—two democrats and one republican.

IT is stated that the honor of originating Arbor Day belongs to ex-Governor J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska. The first proclamation for the observance of such a day was made at his suggestion, and it is said that 12,000,000 trees were planted on the day thus designated.

IMMIGRANTS are coming to this country on almost every boat. Nearten thousand arrived at Castle Garden in two days of this month. Many are going to the far west and south. It is stated that a majority of them come on labor contracts and enter into competition with American labor.

THE dominion government is seeking an appropriation to build a canal at Sault Ste. Marie on the Canadian side, to connect with the Sault river, lake Huron and Superior, desiring that the government have an uninterrupted Canadian water way from Lake Superior to the St. Lawrence.

A BILL was passed in the house last week giving a rebate of one-fourth of their road tax, not exceeding three dollars, to all persons who shall exclusively use wagons with a tire not less than three inches wide when drawing loads of 3,800 pounds or over. This is a step in the right direction.

THE Grand Rapids Democrat suggests that perhaps the Gloucester fishermen would be satisfied if the president should compel Canadian fish to divide out naturalization papers before allowing them to be caught by hungry American patriots. Or is the codfish diplomacy of the Gloucester folk inspired by other motives than patriotism.

THE people of Washington Territory are greatly pleased at the appointment of a resident as governor. This return by the president to the principle of "home-rule," to which the national platform pledges the democratic party, is a step in the right direction. There is no way in which an administration or a party can be so surely "strengthened" as by showing a respect for pledges.

REPLYING to a communication from the American Fisheries Union of Massachusetts, President Cleveland says: "The retaliatory complications by the act [of retaliation which was enacted in February last] of congress is to be enforced, not to protect solely any peculiar interest, however meritorious and valuable, but to maintain the national honor, and thus protect all of our people."

WAYLAND is a village down in Allegan county, and they are determined to have prohibition. After it became certain that the measure had failed to be adopted by the people they began looking about themselves for another plan of prohibition. And finding that the village charter gave them the power of local option under an ordinance to that effect, by a tie vote broken by the president in its favor, a stringent temperance ordinance was enacted, much to the chagrin of the saloon element.

THE arrest of the gang of freight conductors, brakemen and engineers who have been for several years systematically engaged in stealing the freights of the Pennsylvania Railway west of Pittsburg is important, not only in its effect on commerce but the improvement which will follow in the handling of freight trains. These reckless thieves were aided and abetted by rascals not in the employ of the company. The conviction and punishment of such a gang of thieves will be a blessing both to the company and to the public.

It is stated that in calling in the free passes, in alleged compliance with the terms of the inter state commerce law, the railroads do not molest the members of the legislature in the use of the passes issued to them. Why is this? Do the members of the legislature come under the head of employees of the railroads in actual service?

THE quarterly report of the chief of the bureau of statistics (just out) in relation to the "consumption of distilled and malt liquors and wines" and estimates made by recognized authorities given upon various features of this subject is of interest to the public. In round numbers the consumption of distilled spirits, domestic and imported, in this country, is shown to have increased from 4,000,000 in 1840 to 72,000,000 in 1886; of wines from 4,800,000 gallons to 22,000,000; and of malt liquors from 23,000,000 to 642,000,000. The consumption per capita during the same period decreased as regards distilled spirits from about two and a half gallons to about one and a quarter gallons; increased as regards wines from .29 to .38 gallons, and malt liquors from less than one and a half to more than eleven gallons.

An elaborate statement made by F. N. Barrett, editor of the New York Grocer, by request of the chief of the bureau, is given, which sets forth among other things that the present average expenditure in this country per capita of malt and spirituous liquors and beer at retail is $700,000,000. The drinking population is estimated to be (in 1886) 14,925,417, making the average expenditure per capita $46.90. Mr. Barrett shows by tables covering the five years from 1882 to 1886 inclusive that the consumption of spirits is decreasing, while that of beer increases, and that there is a reduced use of wine as a beverage "During this period," he says, "the consumption of coffee has risen from eight and two tenths pounds, per capita to nine and eleven hundred pounds. Do not these facts show that the milder stimulants are driving out their fiery competitor? And is it not due to the growing agitation of the temperance question?"

Mr. Barrett says the wholesale cost of liquors for which the retailers receive $700,000,000 is not more than $300,000,000. He makes a brief calculation of the cost of liquors as compared with that of food, clothing and shelter, reaching the conclusion that the American people expend from $12 to $17 for the "necessaries" named to every dollar paid out for liquor.

James A. Webb, of New York, furnishes a statement to the effect that only ten per cent of the distilled spirits consumed in this country are used for medicine and manufacturing purposes, ninety per cent being used as a beverage.

Not Very Disastrous "Rule."

To the cause of sectional issue in 1884, the republican orators and organs pinned their faith in success to the argument that democratic victory would bring hard times. They had nothing to say about the kind of times that republican administration had brought; but they bawled vociferously in the public ear their predictions of the ruin that would follow Cleveland's election. Some of the dimensions of this "ruin" have just been ascertained through inquiries made by Bradstreet's as to the condition of work and wages, as a result of these inquiries Bradstreet's states that "there are at least 400,000 more industrial employes at work than in 1885, and that wages have, on the whole, together with full time now, as against reduced hours of labor then, brought the receipts of labor generally to the level of 1882-84, in some instances they have been advanced still higher."

The following table from the same source gives some very interesting comparisons as to the changes in sundry industries since 1882:

	Increase. 1882 to 1886.	Increase. 1884 to 1886.
Cotton manufactures	25,000	40,000
Woolen goods, operatives	20,000	20,000
Woolen goods operatives	24,000	23,000
Boots and shoes	20,000	14,000
Pottery and glass operatives	12,000	14,000
I

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Fire in the building at Boston, Mass., occupied by Wright A Potter, State printers, and a dozen other firms, caused a loss of nearly $200,000.

A valuable brood mare at Avondale, Pa., is said to be rapidly recovering from the amputation of a broken leg. The operation is said to be the first on record.

An earthquake sufficiently severe to create a panic occurred at Parkman, Me.

The officers of the Pan Handle Road claim that within three years merchandise to the amount of $50,000 has been stolen from their cars. Investigations have been in progress for six months, and last week the members of seventy-five crooked crews were arrested as they arrived in Pittsburgh. J. R. Dunlap, the leader of the company, was captured at Dennison, Ohio, at which place was found several thousand dollars' worth of stolen goods.

WESTERN.

Dr. Nathan M. Thomas, one of the pioneers of Michigan, and a famous Abolitionist, died at Schoolcraft, Mich., aged eighty-four years.

Several destructive prairie fires have occurred in Dakota. Many hay stacks have been lost and much property destroyed.

Replying to a communication from the American Fisheries Union of Gloucester, Mass., President Cleveland says: "The retaliation contemplated by the act [of retaliation] of Congress is to be enforced, not to protect solely any particular interest, however meritorious or valuable, but to maintain the national honor, and thus protect all our people."

John T. Raymond, the celebrated actor, died at Evansville, Ind., after one day's illness.

St. Louis telegram: "Advices from Fort Gibson, I. T., say that James G. Blaine is sick with a severe cold and is threatened with pneumonia. The latest reports say that 'Mr. Blaine is doing well; only slight fever; pulse good, 80 per minute; respiration, 15.'"

At Richmond, Ind., Mrs. Jonas Bennett walked out on the bridge over the Whitewater River, and leaped seventy-five feet into the water, expressa almost sinking, she was a bride of three days.

A Huron (Dakota) special says: "Two immense prairie fires have turned over a large portion of this county. Six houses and many more barns were destroyed by the flames. Eight miles south of Huron, Edward Maloney and a young lady named Annie Maren lost their lives by the fire, and Edward Maloney's sister Katie is so badly burned by the same fire that her recovery is doubtful. All of them occupied the same house, and the young ladies started to run to a field that had been plowed last fall. They failed to reach it, with the results stated."

"Mr. Blaine is still very sick, but his condition is not considered dangerous by the attending physicians—Dr. Mudd, of St. Louis, and Dr. Bemis, the Post Surgeon," says a Fort Gibson dispatch of the 11th inst. "The official bulletin of the examination this morning says the pulse is 76, soft and easy, temperature normal, bronchitis better, but the hoarseness has not yet subsided. Mr. Blaine developed symptoms of pneumonia last night, but rested well during the night, and for a space of several hours clear of all fever. Dr. Mudd was asked whether both or only one lung had been attacked, and said in but one case also going into details. Col. Coppinger said the physicians have ordered that Mr. Blaine be not moved."

Charles P. Parker, who stole $7,400 from Paymaster D. N. Rush, in Arizona, has been captured.

A riot in which rival Swede, Polic, and Hungarian colonies in Denver participated, resulted in the fatal shooting of one man and the serious wounding of several others.

The "Sweney law"—an Iowa statute passed by the last General Assembly, which commands all foreign corporations doing business in that State to reincorporate there, and thus be subject to State laws and State courts—has been declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

Judge Deady, in the United States Circuit Court, rendered an important decision at Portland, Ore., as to the scope of the interstate commerce law, which virtually nullifies the long and short-haul clause so far as it affects roads competing with water routes. The judge rules that the interstate commerce act does not apply to all carriers engaged in interstate commerce, but only ends as one railway or railway and water craft under common control for continuous carriage or shipment of property from one State to another. The case in point was that of the Oregon and California Road, and the Judge rules that as its carriage of certain goods is performed wholly within the State of Oregon, it is, therefore, specially exempted by the terms of the act from the operation of the law.

SOUTHERN.

An extensive deposit of natural gas has been struck near Covington, Ky. It escapes with such force that it is difficult to stop the flow.

Col. D. W. Aiken, who represented a South Carolina district in Congress for five terms, died at his home in Cokesbury. He took high rank as a cotton planter.

Near Harrisville, W. Va., the boiler in a saw-mill exploded, killing four men and injuring three others.

Patrick McCarthy was hanged at Fort Smith, Ark., for the murder of Thomas and John Mahoney. He died protesting his innocence.

Shade Scurbrough, who murdered Madison Cassan, both negroes, last July, was hanged last week at Clayton, Barbour County, Ala. The execution was a very horrible affair, the crowd from a jail window. He said he was ready to die. Prayer was offered by a negro minister. The prisoner shook hands with the Sheriff and others present, and met his death without flinching.

Nora Brown, a fat negress of San Antonio, was within seven years become white, with the exception of a few patches of wagon-tire.

The drought in Texas extends from the western grazing lands across the State 800 miles to the Louisiana pine region.

POLITICAL.

Resolutions of sympathy with the efforts of Gladstone and Parnell to secure the rights of Ireland were adopted by the Legislatures of Delaware and New Jersey.

Murat Halstead is said to have received from Mulvaney Bland a letter asserting that James G. Blaine must stand aside and John Sherman must be nominated for the Presidency.

A Lansing (Mich.) official dispatch to the Chicago Daily News says:

Members of the Legislature ascribe the wonderful vote for prohibition to the efforts of the women at the polls. Surprising stories are told of how they stood in line smiling ballots with "no" on them from the hands of passing voters, admonishing "my father, and following the ticket up to the ballot box to see that it was not changed." It is said that they sent several with pocketfuls of indisputable ballots, representatives who acted as inspectors of election all know witnessed numerous cases where stalkeepers and their friends voted for prohibition.

An election for Governor and other State officers, as well as Senators and Representatives in the State Legislature, was held in Rhode Island on Wednesday, April 6. A Providence telegram thus reports the result:

Davis (Dem.) has a plurality for Governor of upwards 1,500, together with the rest of the State ticket except the Attorney General, which goes to the Republicans. The Senate returns from the State the House stands 37 Republicans and 20 Democrats, and the Senate 19 Republicans and 19 Democrats, with four cities and towns to be heard from.

The vote on the prohibition amendment in Michigan was very close. A Lansing dispatch says: "The exact figures on the prohibition amendment are still unknown. Published reports give the majority against it at 1,500 to 4,000 votes. Of 1,700 from several counties the reports are conflicting, in some cases varying 500 to 600 votes, and the official returns will be needed to settle which is correct. The prohibitionists do not yet concede their defeat." Another dispatch from Lansing say: "The returns announcing the defeat of the prohibitory amendment are generally accepted as correct here, and measures to regulate the liquor traffic will be brought forward in the Legislature. One of these measures is copied from the local option law of Georgia. Another is a copy of the Ontario Scott act. It is believed that no legislation will be accomplished except such as will reflect the existing tax law." The high license bill was defeated in the New Jersey Assembly. The election in Rankin County, Mississippi, was carried by the Prohibitionists.

Congressman Springer, in a long interview in a Washington newspaper, favors the renomination of Cleveland.

E. L. Pugh of Alabama, a son of the Senator, has been appointed to a clerkship on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Michigan Prohibitionists claim that their recent defeat at the polls was accomplished by fraud. A Detroit telegram says:

The prohibitionists are working vigorously to establish their claim of fraud at the polls. A meeting was held this morning, in the matter of accumulating evidence of fraud. The following is a specimen of the kind of fraud which it is claimed dwarfed "Wasted—The Saloon—and all lessons of all year voters on the amendment." It is proposed to take the names of all persons in Detroit who voted "yes" and compare the number with the official returns. It is believed that this method will reveal a large discrepancy.

The Legislature of Rhode Island consists of fifty-six Democrats and forty-six Republicans. A Providence telegram says:

The Democrats carried the new elections for Senators and Representatives in Newport and East Greenwich Saturday, and the Republicans secured one member in Warwick. The Legislature stands: Senate—Republicans 19, Democrats 19; to election, 2. House—Republicans 46, Democrats 56; to election, 3. Joint ballot—Republicans 65, Democrats 75. The Democrats have already one more than a majority on joint ballot, and will have a majority in the Senate—governor, secretary of state, Sheriffs, State Auditor, District Judges, etc.

WASHINGTON.

The controversy between Second Comptroller Maynard and Secretary Endicott of the Interior Department growing over correspondence has passed between them.

The Secretary of the Navy has invited sealed proposals from the ship builders of the United States for the building of five new vessels.

The Canadian fisheries formed the chief topic at a Cabinet meeting at Washington, D. C. It is understood that England sustains the Canadian position, and is not disposed to make concessions.

As a matter of interest to pensioners, we print the following paragraph, which is sent out by telegraph from Washington:

A difference of opinion and practice has for some time existed between the Pension Office and the office of the Third Auditor of the Treasury as to when the payment of an accrued pension actually becomes consummated. The Comptroller has decided that the pensioner does after transmitting the same to the Treasury, if the check covering the amount agreed has executed and mailed to him a check for his pension, it is clear that there has been, in law, a payment of the accrued pension. But should the pensioner die after receipt of the check, but before a part of his estate, even though he has not endorsed it. Where the voucher has been sent to the pensioner and delivered to the agent, and the check has been mailed by the agent to the pensioner, it is his distributee, or legal representative, if he, the Comptroller does not hold that the payment has been so far consummated as to defeat the rights of the widow or minor children to claims for reimbursement under section 4716, and the check caused in such cases be properly deemed to be the property of the estate of the deceased pensioner. To make a complete payment, two things must occur—the delivery of the check of the Government by the pensioner and the execution by him of an acquittance in the return form.

The Commissioner of Agriculture has sent to the Governors of several States a bill providing for co-operation with the Bureau of Animal Industry in stamping out pleuro-pneumonia. The act has already been passed in Virginia and Michigan.

The report of the Department of Agriculture for April regarding the condition of winter grain and the comparative healthfulness of farm animals compares favorably with the corresponding reports of late years.

The President has made the following appointments: Eugene Semple, of Washington Territory, to be Governor of Washington Territory; Samuel D. Shannon, of Cheyenne, to be Secretary of Wyoming Territory; Edward Palmer Latimer, of New York, to be consul at Mozambique, Mozambique Tasks, to be Supervising Inspector of Steam Vessels for the Third District in place of James Curran, of Maryland, who was twice nominated to that office, and who failed of confirmation each time; Capt. Robert E. Paisons of Pennsylvania, F. Elery Anderson of New York, and D. T. Littler of Illinois Commissioners to investigate the affairs of the Pacific Railroads.

The Postmaster General and the Superintendent of the railway mail service left Washington on the 11th inst. on a tour of inspection. They will inquire into the feasibility of establishing at Chicago, St Louis and Atlanta depots for the distribution of postal cards and stamped envelopes.

Thousands of Washington children rolled Easter eggs in White House grounds on the 19th inst, in accordance with an ancient custom, and shook hands with the President.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

Over 6,000 carpenters in Chicago went out on a strike for 35 cents an hour and eight hours a day. The master carpenters, at a meeting, decided to ignore the strikers, and to pay only thirty cents an hour for an eight-hour day.

Mr. T. V. Powderly presided over a delegate conference of Pennsylvania Knights of Labor, at Harrisburg, and made a speech in which he said: "We are glad that the anarchists are favoring measures that tend to anarchy. As chief of our organization, I can say that anarchy finds no abiding place in our ranks, but monopolists want to make people believe the contrary. No matter what errors we have committed in the past, we have always aimed at doing right. We have pursued a line of policy and found out things that are right and wrong, but we have always kept clear of any thing that brings odium on our country—anarchy."

The Junction iron-works at Mingo, Ohio, shut down because favorable freight rates could not be made with the railroads.

The coal miners at Salem, Ill., strunk lessons refused an advance of wages.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

Members of the Michigan Legislature are said to be highly indignant over the request of the Toledo and Ann Arbor Road for the return of money paid, because it is assumed by the company that passes are illegal under the interstate law.

The Illinois Central Road has purchased control of the Dubuque and Sioux City and Pacific Railway and Minnesota and Northwestern Railway and Northern Pacific Railway and Western Railway and Baltimore and Ohio Railway and Western Railway and Baltimore and Ohio Railway and Western Railway and Baltimore and Ohio

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

The folly of "trial by jury" is again demonstrated in the recent trial of John Arensdorf for the murder of Dr. Haddock. After a trial of several weeks the jury disagreed.

A motion to place the liquor bonds of the village at $6,000 is pending in the council, and we hope that it will prevail. This is an important question and should receive due consideration.

The legislative manual for 1887 contains, in addition to the usual statistical tables, a large amount of new matter of great value to any library, no doubt suggested by Secretary Osmun's long experience as a newspaper editor.

Col. Ingersoll calls Mr. Beecher "the greatest man in any pulpit of the world.—"a minister with an intellectual horizon broad enough, and a mental sky studded with stars of genius enough, to hold all creeds in scorn that shock the heart of a child."

The amendment was a republican measure. It was submitted as a matter of party policy. Every prohibitionist voted for it. Thousands of democrats voted for it. The republicans had votes enough to carry it, and they are responsible for its defeat.—John B. Finch.

No, Michigan does not want local option. If the liquor traffic is an evil and has an immoral effect on society then the state legislature has a duty to perform for the entire state, not for Charlevoix alone, or for any other particular locality. If the traffic is an evil at all, it is a monstrous one, and is just as much of a crime when carried on in one city or village as in another.

There was not the remotest idea on the part of the republican managers that the amendment could carry. They did not intend it should. According to their will and wish it was to be snowed under completely, and buried with it was to be the prohibition party. They believed submission could and would yield them a leverage on which to demand the withdrawal of party prohibition nominees, if any were named, and the breaking down of party effort for prohibition.

On April 18th, the Grand Rapids Democrat celebrated the semi centennial of the first newspaper published in that city, and issued as an extra a fac-simile of the first number of the "Grand River Times," a six-column folio, by Geo. W. Pattison. The Democrat is a direct successor of the Times, the office having passed through several hands, and the name changed, in 1841 to the Enquirer, and in 1865 to the Democrat, which name has since been continued.

Tax bill providing that in all municipal elections women shall be allowed to vote for all municipal officers, and on all questions pertaining to school, town, city, and municipal regulations precisely as do male citizens, came up in the house for action one day last week. The advocates of the measure, in their zeal, so far forgot themselves that they permitted professional lobbyists to sit on the floor of the house during the discussion, and at least one lobbyist was allowed to speak on the question. The bill was lost with quite a number of votes to spare.

A caucus of members of the legislature, who favor high license, was held last week at Lansing, to discuss the liquor question. Some favored taxing druggists who wish to sell liquor as high as saloons. A committee was finally appointed to draft a bill embodying the following schedule of taxes for license: For cities with 10,000 inhabitants or over, $700; for cities under 10,000, $500; for incorporated villages, $400; for townships, $300. No discrimination is proposed between wine and beer licenses and no brewer or liquor dealer to be allowed to sign saloon bonds.

The inter state commerce law, considered in all its bearings on commerce, if enforced may work a blessing to the country at large. It may tend to build up small business places, rather than concentrate capital in large cities. Raw material will be manufactured where produced instead of being shipped to large manufacturing towns for that purpose. The manufacturing centers of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Minnesota and the eastern states are already crying out against the law, for the reason that the increased cost in transportation, since the operation of the law, makes it impossible to ship in raw material and manufacture it at prices established before the enactment of the law. If the law is enforced as it should be, it will necessitate the building of factories where the raw material is produced and the shipping of nothing but manufactured articles. The tendency will be to diversify industry. The woolen factories of our eastern states are supplied principally from the herds of sheep of California, Oregon, and the western states, and the operation of this law will necessitate the building of woolen factories in the west, or the building of large steamships with which to carry the raw wool from the Pacific coast to factories in the east. The iron ore of northern Michigan will be made into nails, steel rails, locomotives, etc., in northern Michigan instead of being shipped in its crude state to Pennsylvania and Ohio with which to enrich their already rich and powerful cities. The tan-bark of Charlevoix county would be utilized where it is grown, and our superior maple lumber would be manufactured into furniture right here at home, where our people would receive the benefit of the increased valuation by manufacture.

"Let Her Go, Gallagher!"

I find myself in the position to contribute something to the current literature in regard to slang phrases. In the Sunday Sayings of last week there is a paragraph to this effect: "I have wondered where the new slang phrases, 'Let her go, Gallagher,' and 'Chippie, get your hair cut,' originated." They are not particularly bright or meaning on a casual hearing, and I am at a loss to account for the universality of their usage. The first phrase, "Let her go, Gallagher," I first heard in Kentucky several years ago, and have marked its gradual spreading. The circumstances under which it originated were these: In Harrodsburg, Ky., there was a terrible bully and desperado named Bob Gallagher, who had at different times killed some six or eight men, but under such circumstances that he always escaped punishment upon the plea of self-defense. In his broils he was usually abetted by his two sons, and the trio were a terror in the community. During the period of lawlessness which succeeded the war, he applied for the position of town marshal or policeman. The authorities thought it might prove a good thing, as he and his sons would be held in check, to some extent, and they needed just such a person to deal with the unruly element which was causing so much trouble. He was sworn in and with good effect for a time. He inaugurated a perfect reign of terror, and for several years it worked like a charm. Finally one day some turbulent spirits came in from a neighboring county, and under the influence of liquor there was a row which Gallagher and his two sons failed to subdue with the accustomed liberal use of their clubs. Pulling out a pistol he threatened to shoot quick as thought, the other fellow—Hanks, I believe was his name—pulled his pistol and snapped it so close to Gallagher that it burned the button on his vest, shouting as he did so, "Let her go, Gallagher." Gallagher did "let her go," and killed Hanks instantly; he and his sons then fired a number of shots into the dead body of his victim. The murder and trial by which he was acquitted created a great sensation at the time, and the account of it was spread far and wide, coupled with the phrase, "Let her go, Gallagher," which has since become a by-word.—St. Louis Spectator.

Only a Habit.

Judge McCue of California, now in Washington, told a friend a few days ago that he had solved the food problem, and that he could live in Washington on 10 cents a day. Asked for an explanation, he said: "I usually turn out at about 11 o'clock and take breakfast. I go to the dairy around the corner and buy a cup of coffee for five cents, and with the other five cents I get five Maryland biscuit."

"Well, that exhausts your 10 cents, judge; how do you get your other meals?"

"I am coming to that presently, my friend. Don't be impatient and you shall have the whole story. My breakfast is eaten slowly and well digested. It generally lasts me until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. At that time the gnawing of hunger begins to assert itself. This is where my discovery comes in. I always go provided with several pieces of alum. When I begin to get hungry I place one of these bits of alum in my mouth and allow it to slowly dissolve. The effect is that it constricts the throat and the stomach, and the sensation of hunger disappears. I repeat this dose until bedtime, and I fall asleep like a child. Gentlemen, let me tell you that eating is nothing but a habit after all."—N. Y. Tribune.

Hawthorne to his Friend Pierce.

Franklin Pierce and his friend Nathaniel Hawthorne were the closest friends. During the presidential canvass in 1852 the author of the "Scarlet Letter" took part in politics, and wrote a pamphlet in favor of his friend. After the election of Mr. Pierce, Hawthorne was among the first to come and offer congratulations. He sat down mooty and silent, as was his wont when anything troubled him, and then, without a word, seized Mr. Pierce's hand, exclaiming: "O Frank, what a dreadful pity!" A stranger hearing the exclamation might have supposed that Hawthorne's friend had been arrested for embezzlement rather than elected to the presidency of the United States.—Youth's Companion.

Dr. D. W. Bliss, who attended President Garfield, is again reported to be in seriously failing health, so that he has been obliged to give up work.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

Navigation was open at Manistique April 10th.

At Escanaba the log output of that river is estimated at 26,000,000.

The Bay View Camp Ground Association will hold a meeting in Grand Rapids on Tuesday to arrange for the coming season.

The body of Miguel Christianson, who was supposed to have been drowned last fall, has been found in ice of Betsey Lake.

Myron W. Scranton, who has been postmaster at Sault St. Marie, is in the United States Court to answer to a claim of $600 shortage.

It is said that the officials of the Chicago & West Michigan railroad are in Boston at present arranging for funds to push their northern extensions.

The governor has reappointed Mrs Mary E. Cooley, wife of the late Justice Cooley of Ann Arbor, as a member of the board of control of the Industrial Home for girls at Adrian.

Robert Shields of Menominee is under arrest, charged with ballot-box stuffing. It is alleged that Shields, on the election board, cast an anti-prohibition vote for every citizen who failed to exercise that freeman's privilege.

F. J. Smith informs the Petoskey Democrat that on July 1st he has forty-two new mail routes to start, covering territory in northern Michigan. Mean while he has seven other new routes to start later in the season.

As soon as the weather will permit another track will be laid between Petoskey and Bay View. This will be a great improvement and will prevent any possible chance of an accident by collision, as the trains going north will take one track and those south the other.

Gov. Luce and Secretary Campbell are carefully keeping a file of the State papers who kick over the action of the Executive in vetoing the board of supervisors bill. An immense pile of clippings has already been scissored, and the kicks have just begun coming in.

The Detroit dry dock company is preparing the ground in its yard to lay the keel of the Mackinac car ferry. It will have the power of a 2,000 ton steamship. The ferry will have two wheels, and is expected to be powerful enough to keep the Mackinac passage open all winter.

The Petoskey Democrat says that Mr. Crysler has had the little steamer Gracie Barton thoroughly overhauled and repaired, and that she is now a perfect image of the Thomas Friant, only on a smaller scale. The addition of the upper deck gives almost double the passenger capacity she had before, besides adding greatly to the beauty of appearance.

Alf. G. Drake visited Charlevoix last week to attend a meeting of directors of the D. G. & E. R. R., where and when arrangements were made to send surveyors out to look up a practicable route for the line and do such other preliminary work as may be necessary. I cannot say who will think for a moment that the above mentioned railroad is to be only a paper one they may as well undeceive themselves. It is bound to be commenced at an early day, and completed in the not far distant future.—Kalkaska Leader.

MISSING LINKS.

A five legged soft shell turtle is one of the natural curiosities inviting attention at Seymour, Ind.

In Ireland there are immense beds of oysters at sea, off the coast of Dare county, North Carolina.

The Louisville Courier-Journal believes that whole cities "might be warmed by piping the base of an active volcano."

A Mexican in the city of Aguas Calientes, Mexico, is said to have pawned one of his children for $1 in order to obtain money to buy pulque.

A sturgeon weighing 160 pounds was caught a few days ago in Lake Erie. It is thought to be the largest one ever captured in that body of water.

The legislature of the state of Sonora, Mexico, has exempted from all municipal taxation any ice factories that are or may be established within the state.

After expending $8,000,000 in surveys, it is to be expected that a country of the magnitude of the United States should have a correct map, yet it is without a single one.

There is at least one know-nothing in Boston, and he owns a house, on which this sign hangs: "To Let—Four rooms to an American family; $12 per month. No foreigners need apply."

The Maryland militia, by an act of the last legislature, is to be organized on the Pennsylvania plan, except that the troops are to be formed into battalions instead of regiments.

Thomas Brown, of Thorbrook, N. S., is 70 years old, and this year sheared 650 sheep. He has worked in that capacity for nearly sixty years. Yes one farmer alone he has sheared for fifty years.

Sinclair Phelps, who has been writing some bright verses recently, is a son of Congressman William Walter Phelps and was graduated from Yale this summer. He is a tall young man, and his hung rivals his fathers.

If young Mrs. Gould's hired girl should ever go on a strike Mr. George Gould wouldn't have to go to Delmonico's for his breakfast or dinner. The bride is a typhoon cook, and knows all about household matters.

The Earl of Carnarvon, who was expelled from the Salisbury-Churchill Cabinet because he was too much of a home-ruler, has been translating into English verse the first twelve books of the Odyssey, which Macmillan will publish.

Queen Victoria bought at the Edinburg exhibition an "artistic baby robe," which she gave to the Princess Beatrice, and which the Court gossips say was a little present in behalf of royal incumbrance of the English people being expected early in December.

Roast dog is to the Sioux Indian what roast turkey is to Americans. Dogs intended for the table, or its Sioux equivalent, are always carefully fattened beforehand. It is used on all state occasions and at the making of treaties, and army officers say it isn't bad.

Most of the Washingtons now living in this country are descended from George Washington's brother, Samuel. George contented himself fully occupied in being the father of his country, and left to Samuel, who was married five times, to father the family.

Jenny Chamberlain is the American girl whom rumor assigns as the prospective bride of Prince Albert Victor, it being said that the pair became engaged while she was in Europe last winter. Her friends, however, deny all knowledge of such engagements, and it is doubtless mere idle gossip.

A Texas editor alluded the other day to a "pretty young widow" and when his brethren jumped on him for the mistake he corrected as follows: "The truth is, we have never read the darned thing but we'll bet a good maverick that there is a pretty young widow in the state who can truthfully say the same thing."

The most astonishing of all the recent announcements is that of five volumes on "Christ and Christianity," by the Rev. H. R. Haweis. He is a clergyman of popularity of the hunting order, unknown as a theologian or student of church history, and too well known as a dippant writer on miscellaneous subjects.

There are several new houses in New York city that are only fifteen feet wide. A large and pleasant entrance hall, with a fire-place and ornamental staircase, occupies the whole width of the house and extends twenty-two feet back. The kitchen is in the rear, and the parlor and dining-room on the second story.

Mr. George Casey has in his greenhouse at Auburn, N. Y., a century-plant that is thirty feet high and the stem is six inches thick at its base. It has thirty-two flowering branches, with over five thousand buds and bright yellow flowers. The plant was purchased by Mr. Casey in 1837, and is about sixty years old.

There is much apprehension in Pittsburg, Pa., over the prospect of a sudden stoppage of the natural gas supply which would cause great inconvenience to many manufacturers. Two large establishments have already ceased operations, owing to the lack of gas. The most serious fear is that coal will have diminished the flow.

Mr. Bunyiye's "American Diplomacy," is described by the Spectator as a very comprehensive and interesting treatise. Commencing follow at the sigardily allowance by the United States for diplomatic and consular service, with an expression of wonder that America is able to obtain such good men in such unremunerative places.

Niagara is not as free as it is generally credited to be. Visitors who expect to find the falls almost open are apt to be considerably surprised when they learn the true state of affairs, as the system of extortionate prices still remains. The ferry charge is that the ferry man charge of 50 cents to get upon Goat Island and 25 cents for entrance to Prospect park have been done away with.

When Brodie, the newsboy, jumped from the East River bridge some of the newspapers said that he was thirty seconds in reaching the water. The Manufacturer and Builder has figured it out exactly, and demonstrates that he dropped from the bridge to the water in just 2.8 seconds. In thirty seconds he would have fallen 14,752 feet if there had been room to fall so far.

There was a surprised Italian in Baltimore one day last week when he stopped with his monkey and organ in front of a saloon where a cat was sunning itself and began to churn out "Il Trovatore." As the monkey went along the pennies there was a brief conversation between it and the cat and then the latter went teeth and claws for the former's tail, hanging on while the Italian pulled the monkey to the top of the organ by the tail. It took him about two minutes to pry the edge the cat and get over his surprise. As he went up the street, nursing his poor pet, he kept saying: "Dat catta licka da monk; licka da monk."

The son of a rich American was in Paris with an open credit from his father on a certain banking house there, the head of which was over to New York, where he happened to run on the father. The banker reported that the young man was in good health and having a good time, but that he was spending a good deal of money. "Yes let him have 20,000 last month, and 20,000 last July," said the father with a sigh of relief, "those little things—let him have as many of them as he wants."

Mrs. Josephine Omobundro, who as "the Peerless Moriacchi" danced in many countries, and with "Texas Jack's" company appeared in pretty much every town and hamlet in the United States, died at her home in East Billerica, Mass., recently. She was born in Milan in 1843, and, after achieving some fame as a dancer and pantomimist on the Continent and in London, visited this country in 1867, and remained here until her death. She married J. B. Omobundro, "Texas Jack," and became a widow some five years ago. Since her husband's death she has resided in Lowell and Billerica.

When a word is taken from some other language and enbalmed in the English tongue the original spelling is preserved, though the pronunciation may be altered. It is different with the French, from whom beefsteak becomes "bifeck," and roast beef "rosbif." The latter is put in pocket is dropped or rather transferred to poker (the game), the words looking odd when they appear respectively as "poke," and "pocker." A favorite dish of sea food in New England is called "clamback," while the c, which seems a favorite letter, appears as follows in the word "breack" in English quotations.

Essex Payne, of Grand Prairie Township, near Centralia, Ill, has two dogs. In a fight with a rattlesnake they were so badly bitten and poisoned that they swelled up fearfully before he reached home, and he was afraid he would lose them. But he administered to them a strong decoction of green cockleburs, boiled in seven milk, pouring it down the dogs' throats. One of them was so far gone that he had to be held up to be given the medicine. The remedy was effective, and in a short time he had the pleasure of seeing his dogs rapidly recover.

It is related that Senator Beck not long ago received a letter from a bachelor friend, who had recently been married, and who had promised the constituent a pair of pointer pups. The Kentuckian was anxious to get the pups provided they had certain marks, but unless this distinguished lawyer did not care for dogs. He wrote to Beck that as "Cumberland was not very far from Washington he wished he (Beck) would go up there, examine the pups," and if marked as he described have them shipped to Kentucky.

Chauncey Depew, who was sent abroad by his railroad company to avoid the pass-beggars during the vacation season, has returned. He was much struck with the greatness of some of American ideas in England. The hotels, or at least the larger ones, now have American elevators, where formerly it was necessary to walk up and down stairs. There are other improvements in their railroad system. They have adopted the American brakes, heaters, and other useful appliances, and it is only a question of time when the English railroad cars will be built on the same style as ours. As to speed their railroads are superior to ours, because the country is better adapted to speed.

Here is the way a Zulu bride is dressed, according to a recent traveler: Her hair, or rather wool, is done up on little ridges, running from one ear to the other across the head until it reaches the top of the skull, then it changes its course and goes up and down to the back behind the ears. The hair is then oiled with a red clay, mixed with palm oil, or grease, which has a curious appearance, being blood-red. For a bridal robe the lady has a coat of oil or grease rubbed all over her body, which makes it shine like a piece of polished marble. Her fingers are adorned with brass or iron rings, on her wrists several rows of brass bangles, on her ankles iron rings, and she wears a little apron made of colored beads, about six inches square, fastened by a few strings of large green and yellow beads around her hips. For the back apron the skin of a monkey or goat hangs from her girdle and serves the purpose of a bridal train.

Father Dacey, who married James G. Blaine Jr., is known, says the New York Mail and Express, as the fashionable priest of New York. His church is attended by almost as many Protestants as Catholics, and his congregation is largely made up of women. He conciliates about the same position that Pere Hyacinthe Loyson did in Paris before a fair American widow enticed him from the fold. Father Dacey may be frequently seen speeding up Fifth avenue behind a fast horse in company with a friend. His connection with the disappearance of Broker John C. Eno is still remembered. He is somewhat called Monsignor, but he is not one. There is a legend that some years ago some of his New York friends secured the order naming him Monsignor from Rome. But when it reached Cardinal McCloskey, who he could withhold it if he chose, that prelate signified tartly said: "We will wait awhile," and locked it in his desk. It is there yet.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills are suited to every age. They are mild and pleasant in effect, sure and searching in effect, and, being sugar-coated are easy to take. These pills never fail to give satisfaction.

G E O. W. M I L L E R

I am not selling out, but I am selling all the goods I can; and if you will give me a call, I will convince you that I am selling better goods for less money than can be bought in this or any other town. The "4 off" and "selling out" sales are getting old. All I ask is, give me a call for anything in the clothing line and convince yourself.

G E O. W. M I L L E R

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 21, 1887.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 12y4w.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

$5 A fine new stock of Laces, Collars and all kinds of Ladies' Fancy and Millinery goods are found at

MRS. LEINET & CASE.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

$5 Two or three good new milch Cows for sale cheap.

O. D. HERON, Inwood.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Boss Cod Fish; come and get some and try it. WM. SEE & CO.

Minute Photos, $1 per dozen, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

Dr. G. W. Crouter went to Lansing Monday.

J. A. Bacon's new house is ready for the plaster.

J. S. Smithson expects to be in Charlevoix next week.

Light-keeper Ripley resumed his season's duties on the 15th.

Moran work was commenced on the Belvedere house this week.

Geo. Wright, of Harbor Springs, is in town fitting out the Tan Raalte.

The fish tug Anspach left the Harbor last Friday.—the first boat out.

J. A. Bacon lost a valuable horse and a thoroughbred Holstein cow last week.

The familiar sound of the factory whistle was heard again last Friday noon.

Why cannot Charlevoix have a base ball club. We have good material for one.

Lee Thomas, of St. Johns, is a new addition to Frank Wood's force of barbers.

L. E. Allen commenced the new protection to the bridge Monday morning.

H. D. Wood will ship this season as chief engineer of the propeller Van Raalte.

Amos Fox is grading and mulching the yard in front of his new house on Main street.

Schooners Fleetwing, F. M. Smith, and Lottie Mason are receiving paint this spring.

The hoop factory at South Arm will commence operations next Monday morning.

It is said that four boats will make regular trips to East Jordan the coming season.

Geo. C. Sweet is putting in new machinery at South Arm for the manufacture of shingles.

James E. Wood came home Saturday from Ludington, to spend a few days with his family.

Capt. J. H. Wilson is adding a kitchen to the east wing of his residence on Antrim street.

John Kelly and wife rejoice in the possession of a twelve-pound baby boy, born last Wednesday.

A. T. Washburne & Co., announce the arrival of new spring goods in a change of advertisement this week.

We are told that at the New York postoffice thirteen two cent stamps are selling for a cent and a quarter.

At East Jordan the liquor bonds have been placed at $6,000. Good healthy temperance sentiment there.

The table of official figures on our first page will be a good thing to keep and file away for future reference.

James Gellick has purchased the interest of B. F. Ingalls in their Charlevoix property, and the firm has dissolved.

Miss Gladys Jefferies will commence a four months term of school in the Black district the first Monday in May.

W. J. Stevenson's cow broke through the ice, at the foot of Mason street, last Thursday afternoon, and drowned.

J. V. Sine has purchased the steamer Nellie Booth. He has not yet fully decided where she will run this season.

Upright Brothers improved the looks of the interior of their office this week by new paper, both on the walls and ceiling.

Geo. W. Crouter has a very fine assortment of wall paper. Those desiring the article will do well to call and look it over.

Lewis Smith has procured a good honey draft horse and a substantial dray, and is now prepared for any thing in the line of draying.

The merits of the Sherwin-Williams paints are proclaimed by "Bro. Gardner" in L. D. Bartholomew & Co.'s new advertisement this week.

The Elk Rapids Progress says that Henry Barth and P. S. Brown of Charlevoix are doing some work on the Iron Company's boilers.

A. Buttars has resigned the superintendency of the Charlevoix Mfg. Co., and F. J. Meech has been elected by the directors to the place.

John Conner is back to Charlevoix, and is putting up a shoe shop next to Mason's store and will soon be ready to do all kinds of shoe making.

The most interesting feature of the gospel meetings in the singing of Mr. Sayles. His voice is highly cultivated and every word distinctly pronounced.

The Grazelle was launched Monday and is now ready for the season's work. Her hull has been painted black, which very much improves her looks.

Lightning struck the house of J. E. Dwyer, at Clayton, recently, doing some damage to the chimney and roof. Some of the family narrowly escaped injury.

Rev. T. F. Van Auken and wife returned home on Tuesday. Mrs. Van Auken expects to spend the summer in Charlevoix, and Mr. V. will be here the most of the time.

Lorenzo Cook has taken possession of the Antrim House and is putting it in order to be ready for the public. The house will be opened for business next Monday.

O. S. Washburn was selected by the fire company Monday evening as chief of the department. The selection is a good one and we hope will be satisfactory to the council.

Oscar Upright started to Manistique last week in the interest of the Ribenburg mill, but stopped at Petoskey long enough to learn that the road is in the upper peninsula.

The owners of the steamer Clara Belle are negotiating for her sale to Capt. Lepson, of Manistee. Its not yet decided whether she will be taken off from the Boyne City route this season if the sale is consummated.

It is said that the propeller T. S. Faxton has been "leeked over" to the tune of $1,500 this spring, under the auspices of a Chicago ship carpenter. Hall's dock will continue to be headquarters for the Lake and Grand Rapids at Charlevoix.

The gospel meetings in the opera house under the lead of Harold F. Sayles are constantly increasing in attendance and interest. Many lookers of good have already been seen. Let all our people work for the success of this affort and by our presence and labors do what in us lies to make our friends partakers in the blessings of the gospel of peace.

Board of Supervisors, 1887-8.

Bear Lake—John Kilborn, Petoskey.

Boyne Valley—William Nelson Jr., Boyne Falls.

Chandler—W. J. Pearson, Springvale.

Charlevoix—Fred J. Meech, Charlevoix.

Evangeline—H. C. Helrigle, Horton's Bay.

Eveline—Eva Smith, Ironton.

Hayes—Fred Smith, Undine.

Hudson—James McKibbin, Berryville.

Marion—George Cooper, Charlevoix.

Melrose—A. K. Smith, Clarion.

Norwood—William Harris, Norwood.

Resort—John B. Williams, Petoskey.

South Arm—Frank H. Ranney, South Arm.

Springvale—Jacob Levack, Dot.

Wilson—Tie between Marion Hudkins and Geo. W. Bailey, not yet solved.

Growth of Temperance Sentiment.

Written for the JOURNAL.

The marked growth of a temperance sentiment in all parts of the country, during the past year is not to be denied by the most bitter opponent of all good movements. This tendency is not to be misinterpreted as a distinct gain in the ranks of the advocates of prohibition. Gains and losses are each to be placed to their account, and the general movement is one of temperance as a general principle, and in the proper significance of the word, rather than one of any particular method of dealing with the vexed problem.

The advocates of high license laws have made gains no less marked than those of prohibition, and more significant because some of the most earnest workers in the latter cause, for many years, have now joined the ranks of the former.

The victims of the saloon constitute our discontented, turbulent, criminal classes, who, while wasting their substance in riotous living, blame society for their poverty, and are always ready to make reprisals for their fancied grievances; they clog all legitimate labor movements, lower the rates of wages, foment disturbance, and disunion in labor organizations, and are to blame for about all the violence that occurs in connection with strikes. The drink traffic is the greatest enemy of the poor, the cause of their poverty, the hindrance to their progress. With sobriety and industry they may still be above want, and have enough to support their families in comparative comfort, enough in this land of free schools to give their children an education and a better start in life than they have had. F. S. S.

Burgess.

Fred Willis lost a valuable horse last week.

E. H. Green and Dr. Chamberlain were up at Mr. Josiah Gilmore's on Sunday to enquire after his health. He is very poorly.

Mrs. Margaret Willis is seriously ill with pneumonia.

For two or three days past, we have been having good sugar weather.

Moses Cooper has been quite busy since election, getting his season's wood.

A. R. Struthers expects to have his mill at Oyster Bay running the last of this week. He is rushing it along nicely.

Messrs. Ward, Tillotson, Mineer, Scroggie, Ross, Austin, Hale, and Tabassah are the sugar makers in this town.

Morell Long, of Evangeline, called on some of his friends in Hayes last Sunday.

Mrs. Zillah Gibson expects to leave for Chicago as soon as the boats commence running.

Mr. Wm. Baker has lately purchased a fine span of horses.

F. L. Wolf bought a nice yoke of oxen last week of A. R. Upright, of Charlevoix.

Mr. Loren Hamlin is improving the looks of his place, by putting up a board fence along the road.

How to Fasten a Collar.

"I suppose you will be indignant when I tell you that in all your life you have not yet learned to fasten your collar properly," said a clerk in a Suitliffe-Street shop to a customer, who was a reporter.

"Why, what's the matter with it?"

The clerk's features lighted up with a quiet smile of superiority as he replied.

"There is nothing the matter with it as far as appearances goes. But, tell me, do you not find it rather a trouble from matter to button your collar in the morning?"

"Well, yes; these stand-up-all-round collars are awkward things to handle, anyhow."

"Exactly. And you button the left side first so that the right side lays over?"

"Yes."

"And you button the left side with the right hand, and the right side with the left hand afterward?"

"Yes."

"And when, after wrestling for a while with the left side, you get it fastened, you button the right side with the left hand—much the weaker hand of the two unless you are left-handed—and you have a terrible time that makes you perspire all over and use profane language, unless you are a very good man, eh?"

"You hit the truth very nearly, I am afraid."

"Of course, I know how it goes. Now, if you will only button your collar the other way you will have your right hand in reserve to do the hardest work, and your collar will go on ever so much easier, especially if you put your tongue to the trouble first and soften the starch a little. You need not feel ashamed because you did not know all this, because I notice that nine well-dressed men out of every ten have their collars on the wrong way. The remedy for the trouble is very simple, but very few people think of it till they are shown."—Pittsburgh Penny Press.

Did Not Understand Tactics.

Mr. Webster used to tell a story at the expense of Peter Little, who had in early life repaired clocks and watches, but who had for some years represented a Maryland district in the house. One day he had the temerity to move to amend a resolution by John Randolph on the subject of military claims. Mr. Randolph rose up after the amendment had been offered, and, drawing his watch from his fob, asked the Hon. Peter what o'clock it was. He told him, "Sir," replied the orator, "you can mend my watch, but not my motions. You understand tactics, sir, but not tactics!"—Boston Budget.

Congregational Church.

Rev. C. F. Van Auken will preach Sunday morning. Sunday school after preaching service.

T T T The best 50-cent Tea in town, at Emrey Brothers.

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive Organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated by taking Ayer's Pills. They are purely vegetable in their composition, mild in their action, yet most decisive in their effects. They cleanse the system effectually, but do not gripe or sicken the patient, as do many other cathartics. They are the most perfect safety by persons of all ages and conditions.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had a terrible appetite, coupled with a costive habit, which I constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family physician, who prescribed for me, at various times, all the cathartic medicines he could think of. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills, which gave me immediate relief. In a short time my digestion and appetite were greatly improved, and my bowels were regulated, and I feel sure that I finished two boxes of these Pills, which have cured me of the distressing tendency to headaches and dizziness, and I become strong and well.—Mrs. H. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and Dull Headache. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and before finishing half a box of this invigorating medicine my appetite and strength were restored.—C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time. I now feel well and hearty, and I attribute my health—Philip Lockwood, Trenton, Tenn.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me considerably. For months I suffered from loss of appetite and Headache, which would come on every morning, about 10 o'clock, and last for hours. Since I have taken Ayer's Pills, I have not been troubled with either Headache or Dizziness.—Mrs. Mary Newbury, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by Ayer's Pills. I am now free from any symptom of that painful disease.—Edward Everett Wood, Sandy Hill, N. Y.

John Lazarus, Sr., Ashland, Ohio, writes: "Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I know of for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint."

Ayer's Pills

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists everywhere.

A SWINDLER

does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Lancaster, Wis.

I have suffered more or less with rheumatism, also general debility. For the past year the trouble has constantly increased so that for a month I could not dress myself, could not get up from my chair without help. From my head to my feet every cord and muscle was stiff and sore. During this time I used various remedies all to no purpose, and continued to grow worse. My attention being called to Athlophoros I procured a bottle. I took five doses then slept easily till eight o'clock A. M. I got up and dressed myself and walked out without a cane. I was astonished at the result, could hardly realize that it had produced such an effect. I am getting to be an old man (72). I don't suppose it will make me a young man, but will help the lamp of life to burn down calmly.

SAMUEL BARSTOW

Montfort, Wis.

I have derived more benefit from Athlophoros than any other medicine I have ever taken. I have been troubled with inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years, at times I was helpless, have tried all the medicine I could hear of but found no cure, until I got a bottle of Athlophoros. After taking one-half of it I have not been bothered since. GEO. GALLOWAY.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but if there they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and bowel diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous prostration, general debility, sick headache, and kidney troubles, Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

A Million Dollars

Millions of dollars would be saved to the invalids of America if they would adopt a physician for every ailing. Instead of this they buy Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a certain cure for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Diseases of the Kidneys, Constipation, Nervousness, Exposure and Infirmity, Malaria in its various forms, such as Scrofula in its various forms, Rheumatism, Diseases of the Bladder, Diseases of the Blood, Kidneys and Bowels, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Constipation, Biliousness, Diseases of the Liver and Bowels, Malaria, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Constipation, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Biliousness

WATCHING AND HATCHING.

BY EDWARD WARREN.

Nancy Brown, a rural maiden,
One pleasant morn, with produce laden,
Went gaily tripping across the fields to town.
Farmer Green's son Ben was missing,
And without his parent's blessing,
But in a mossy-arbring with Miss Nancy Brown.

In the woodland, by the heather,
Sure enough they met together,
'Neath the shades of spreading branches talk of love.
Eggs and butter are neglected,
Naturally to be expected;
But we did sun and shade and cease to move.

Beat the sun's rays hotter, hotter
Fall away the golden butter,
Still the lovers talked and the moon future day.
Two white Cupid hearts was catching;
Nancy's eggs began a hatching
Shocking to relate, they ran away.

Now beneath those spreading branches
Stands a nest where bird strutches,
All the neighbors know the story to-day.
Life is meeting like the hatches,
Blessings hatching without number;
Unlike produce they do not run away.

The Twin Brothers.

BY FRANK J. MARTIN.

On a bright autumnal afternoon in the year 1849, three well-to-do farmers were sitting on the veranda of the ancient and unique Grand Hotel, in the village of Lowndale, Vt.

The discovery of gold in California was the all-absorbing topic of the time. The excitement became so general that it even reached sleepy Lowndale. Our three friends were talking the matter over, and had just fallen into a dreamy state through the influence of the hot sun and their recent energetic argument as to the best overland route to the gold-fields.

They had given themselves up to the most fanciful midsummer day dreams for upward of an hour before they were disturbed by the approach of a horseman. He came from the north, rode his steed sure with grace, and was well known in the village. The three farmers raised their heads mechanically, and looked up the road toward the advancing horseman.

"John Signer!" they exclaimed, with as little energy as possible, and then fell back into their old positions, after routing sundry dogs and cats that congregated about their feet for the sole purpose of being as lazy and indifferent to the things of the world as their masters.

John Signer was the horseman, and was too well known in Lowndale to excite even the passing interest of any of the villagers. He, I added with his twin brother Albert, about two miles north of the village. He was noted as a daring rider and a dead shot. He was just the friend to have when in need, and the worst enemy you would wish to meet in a tight place.

Albert, his brother, was as much like him in disposition, features, and manners as cream is possible for a man brother to be. They looked alike, walked alike, and were in love with the same girl—Edna Biddwell.

While dressing and looking alike was conducive to harmony, living the same life was a different thing altogether. Neither one had ever spoken to the other about the affair, yet each one was perfectly aware of the movements and desires of the other.

Edna Middway, the object of their love, was a charming little country maiden of eighteen summers. She liked John well, and thought a great deal of Albert. By her they were alike, both looked charmingly; both were handsome men, and both were wealthy. What more could a young lady want? The truth of the matter, as it stood then, was she was in love with both, but not deeply enough to be able to distinguish one from the other.

Edna had received a college education, and, besides owning considerable land, she was the only heir of a rich old aunt with whom she resided. Both John and Albert were well aware of the feelings that existed between the brothers, and both were in a quandary as to what to do in the pending crisis. Edna, not being able to make up her mind, let matters drift along in the same old way, and at the same time kept the flame of love burning in the breasts of the brothers.

On this particular bright day in October, 1849, Edna was seated in the orchard under the branches of a huge pear tree. In her lap was a work-basket, the contents of which she was busily engaged in mending, while at her feet sat Albert, reading glowing accounts of California life from a Boston paper.

Edna did not pay very strict attention to Albert or his reading, and he got the stretched himself, and said:

"Edna, I would like to go out there and try my luck, but—"

"What would," asked Edna innocently enough.

"But"—here Albert heard the clatter of horses' feet, but after assuring himself that no one was looking he bent over her until his face almost touched hers and continued:

"But I would prefer to remain here, love, you and be loved in return."

"Oh, Albert! How foolish you are! What would John say to this?"

"John! John! What do I care for John? whispered, in a tone that was intensely deadly pale. "Yes! Edna, I love you. Will you be mine? Answer, Edna!"

Albert looked pleadingly into her large hazel eyes. Edna remained silent and thoughtful for a few moments, but when she was about to reply they were both startled by a long, loud whistle—a whistle they both knew to be John's. They both jumped to their feet, and there, sure enough, was John reining up against a fence not ten yards distant.

John looked at both in silence for a few seconds, then turned, mounted his horse, and rode away. No sooner had he turned out of the lane than Albert made a hasty departure, telling Edna that he would return the next day to hear her answer. What occurred or what words passed between the brothers that night was a mystery for a long time. On the following morning, however, John Signer turned up among the missing.

The village was thoroughly agitated over the affair. Albert could in no way account for the strange disappearance of his brother. No one had seen him on the previous evening, and it was thought there was some for his strange conduct. But, after all, in three months' time this was all forgotten. There was one person who did not forget John so easily, and that was Edna.

Three years rolled away, and found Albert still in Lowndale, and still courting Edna; but in spite of all his persuasive speeches she still refused to become his wife. She had at last received a letter from one of the brothers she loved, and it was John. True, John was away, where she could not tell, yet she consoled herself with the idea that he would return some day.

Albert prospered so well that it became necessary for him to seek new and more substantial barns and storehouses on his farm. Accordingly he hired a double team and set about demolishing the old ones. When the workmen came to tear up the flooring of a certain barn, they were horrified to find the countless skeleton of a man lying under it.

Once upon the village was wrought into fever heat over the strange case. Suppositions formed themselves into conclusions, and the outcome of the whole affair was that Albert was arrested, thrown in jail, and charged with the murder of his brother John.

At the preliminary examination he was bound over to the higher court under the charge of murder in the first degree.

Albert stoutly protested his innocence, but the fact that he could give no satisfactory account of what had happened on the fatal night weighed heavily against him.

During his confinement in the county jail Edna, who ministered to his wants and cheered him up to pass through the ordeal like a man.

The day of the trial came, and the villagers turned out en masse to witness the proceedings. The case had become a celebrated one throughout the country. Witnesses were introduced to show that the brothers quarrelled frequently. The three sleepy farmers who were sitting on the veranda that afternoon in October, 1849, testified that John had used some little "cross words" when he returned that afternoon from the south and stopped to water his horse.

With tears in her eyes Edna told of all that happened on that particular afternoon, and even went so far as to tell all Albert had told her about "love.

Albert's defense was entire innocence. He retailed how John had entered the house that night about eight o'clock, and had asked him if he had asked Edna to be his wife. He testified that he told John that he had, whereupon John took his hand, pressed it tightly, and left the house without saying another word. That was all that Albert could say.

To all present this was a very improbable story.

The prosecuting attorney in his argument introduced the skeleton and demonstrated the fact that it was none other than that of John Signer. Albert's attorney made a short but forcible plea; the Judge made his usual charge to the jury; and the twelve men, "tried and true," retired to an ante-room.

Wise heads said that the jury would not be out very long, so the crowd remained in the court-room. Albert was transferred back to the jail. Ten days passed, and still the jury did not come in. Some rich families have a private tower of their own—a sort of family mausoleum. The public burial towers, of which there are two, stand on Malabar Hill, in a garden of flowering shrubs overlooking the sea. Here, amid fragrant bowers of roses and jessamines, stand these towers of silence, as they are called—ghastly receptacles for the dead. They are about thirty feet high and sixty feet wide. On the top of each is an open grating on which the bodies are laid in three circles—child in the center, then the women, and men at the outer edge. Immense vultures, of prey are forever hovering with their sharp hungry eyes, round these towers, or sitting perched on them, solemnly waiting for the grateful feast that is never long delayed—a feast which daily averages three Parsees, besides women and children, for it is estimated that each day three of these prosperous, intelligent, well-to-do, looking merchants find their last resting-place in the voracious maws of these ravenous birds. And when the birds have done their part, and wind and sun and rain have all combined to whiten the skeleton to a thing like polished ivory, gradually the bones separate and fall through the open grating into a well below the tower, whence, it is said, they are taken by a subterranean passage and cast into the sea, and so the space is left clear for the next comers. Mrs. Sullivan's Magazine.

TO THE COLLEGE STUDENT.

BY LARRY LUNDY.

Study hard and study long,
Study right and study strong,
With your vocabulary of song,
Life is but begun.

Study Latin, study Greek,
French and German, too;
Learn to write and how to speak,
Is good advice I hand on.

Give mathematics earnest thought,
Study science, too;
Study everything that's taught—
Yes, and dabble a little more!

Then prepare to choose a sphere
Where all your powers
And perhaps you'll find it here—
Out upon the plains.

Be a cowboy, gaudy, grand,
Punching uncle steers,
Sweeping o'er the prairie wild,
Mocking mortal fears;

Or, if you your talents ply
Here's another plan:
Rent a hoosgow and—wait—
Be a base-ball man!

The Little Tramp.

BY TOM TEASALL.

Several years ago, while employed as local editor of a Western rural newspaper, I was taking my customary afternoon ramble about town one day when I heard a voice behind me. I turn to see who was approaching and:

"Where do you sleep last night, Bud?"

I stopped and turned to see who this "bud" was that had been asked such a singular question. I saw a spare and apparently not over nine years old, and his pinched features gave evidence of pain. His feet were bare, and a hat several sizes too large covered his head to the ears. His clothes were common, not neat. He passed the crawl of dogs, and with a step that indicated energy and activity came toward me.

"Mister, do you know anybody that wants to hire a boy?" he asked, in a pure childish voice, and the lonest blue eyes looked at me hopefully for an answer.

I knew of no one who was wanting to hire a boy, especially one so small. My interrogator was disappointed at my negative answer, and was doubtless greatly in need of assistance.

"What kind of work, I inquired, "can you do?"

"Oh, sir, most any kind," he replied. "I can build fires and sweep and run errands and saw wood, but the last work I had was on a farm, and there I dropped corn and pulled weeds and watered and fed the stock, but I took the chills, and Mr. Thompson told me that he wouldn't need me any longer, and he gived me two dollars and told me I have to go somewhere else."

"And how long now have you been without work?"

"Almost six weeks."

"And do you mean to say that you have lived on two dollars all this time?"

"No, sir. I got so cold o' nights that I almost froze, and I took one dollar and seventy-five cents and bought this coat"—and he looked down at the coat fondly—"and the balance I put in my pocket to save it so when I got hungry," he added.

The boy stood before me as if he expressed me that he was telling the truth, and, interested in being a part of business, I began questioning him.

"Where is your home?" I asked.

"I haven't got any," he replied.

"Is your father or mother alive?"

"No, sir; they're both been dead a long time. When they died a man come and got my little brother and took him away, and I don't know where they went. Mr. Campbell said I had take care of me, but I wanted to be with my brother and sister, and I ran away and went the way I saw the man go, but I got lost and couldn't find them, so I just kept on going," and here the little strange tramp broke out into deep sobs.

"Mister, if you know anybody that wants to use a boy, please tell him," he said imploringly after a moment's silence, "cause I'm so hungry."

I took the boy to a restaurant near at hand and directed the waiter to give him whatever he wanted. In the conversation in the meantime I learned that he had been tramping from place to place since the death of his parents, working at whatever he could get to do for a living, often going for days with scarcely anything to eat, and frequently sleeping out-doors at night. However, in all his tramps he had never been in a city, and seemed wholly ignorant of the homeless boy in the world. He knew nothing about foundlings and newsboys. When asked why he did not go to the "orphans" Home, he answered that if there was such a place, and his eyes beamed with delight at the thought of such a place, he knew it.

"Oh, I'd do anything for a home!" he exclaimed. "I don't know what I'd do if I have good home and good parents to take care of—and aren't you so tender!

"Did you ever go to school?" I asked.

"No."

"Can you read?"

"Yes, sir. My mother and Sunday-school teacher learned me to read, and I never forgot how. I read old papers whenever I can get them."

"Can you write, also?"

"Yes, sir; and just let me write something for you to show you."

I handed him my note-book and pencil.

"What do you want me to write?" he asked.

"Well," I replied, "write your name."

He slowly and carefully scrawled his name on a page of the note-book, and with a sort of triumphant smile handed I to me, remarking:

"Can you beat that?"

The awkward, irregular letters, running across the page so though each was afraid of getting too near the other, formed the boldest, most "Spencerian" hand I ever looked at.

As I had considerable rock to do, I told Tom that I would now have to go, but requested him to come to the Journal office in a few days, and there I dropped corn and pulled weeds and watered and fed the stock, but I took the chills, and Mr. Thompson told me that he wouldn't need me any longer, and he gived me two dollars and told me I have to go somewhere else."

"And how long now have you been without work?"

"Almost six weeks."

"And do you mean to say that you have lived on two dollars all this time?

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dados, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of the Democratic Party.

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DOCHHEIMER, EDITOR.

Daily, Weekly, and Sunday Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

An Eight-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press.

Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Financial and Commercial, Political, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its columns will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.

Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fashion.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Free of Postage to the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City.

Single copy one year (including Sunday)	$2.00
Three copies, one year	5.00
Every Day, six months	3.00
Sunday, six months	1.00
Sunday, without Daily, one year	1.00

ADDRESS, THE STAR,

Broadway and Park Place, New York.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and energy can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

The unequaled Organs are celebrated for vocal quality of tone, great volume, variety of cone blending, artistic finish, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, orna mental and durable organs for the home, schools churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL.

CONSTANT, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, free.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO. 831 BLUE ISLAND AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE DAILY STAR.

The Daily Star contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin, is a commendable feature.

At Washington, Albany and other news centers, the Star maintains, specially related by Tele Press, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

The financial and commercial departments are specially full and complete.

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Free of Postage to the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City.

Every Day, one year (including Sunday)	$7.00
Every Day, six months	3.50
Every Day, six months	2.00
Sunday, without Daily, one year	1.00

ADDRESS, THE STAR,

Broadway and Park Place, New York.

"Our First Gray Hair."

As the first big pattering drops that fall
Make us shiver and start in fear
Make us shiver and start in fear lest they warn us of
Of a storm, or of coming rain,
So it is with life, when we are growing old,
And age steals unawares,
We shiver and start if the truth were told,
At the sight of our first gray hair.

We mark not the light of our noonday hours;
Like the first strokes of down doth bring;
We hail not the birth of our summer flowers
As we do the first snowdrops of spring:
On the bleak winter wind we look not with grief
Though it howl through the branches bare,
But we sigh when we witness the brown autumn leaf,
And behold nature's first gray hair.

Gray hairs may come when the beaming eye
Has none of its brightness left,
When the cheek has become a wrinkled fain decay
Youth's flower has been nipped in the bud,
Yet the wrinkled brow looks young and green,
Though a sapless trunk may be there,
And thought of decay on our cheeks may be seen
When we witness our first gray hair.

Come early, come late, like a knock at the door
Is our first gray hair to us,
And it joins with its silence the years that await
With the years forever fled;
It silently tells us we are journeying on—
It silently questions—Where?—
Oh! where unknown, were the truth but known,
Is soon in our first gray hair.

SHORT-LIVED.

Mortality Statistics of Various Countries Show that Americans Are Short-Lived.

The Medical and Surgical Reporter has recently printed a comparative analysis of the mortality statistics of the United States, France, England, and Ireland, which is anything but flattering in the presentation it makes of the probabilities of life in this country. The tables for this country are those found in the volume of the last census report, which has recently been issued, and the tables of the other countries are made up from official data of the same period. As in the year 1880 there was no general epidemic in this country, and as it is not known that that year was in any way out of the common in the countries of Western Europe, it is presumable that the record presented is a fair average of other years.

Not to confuse the reader by statistical tabulations, it may suffice to say that the tables in the census report show that the average duration of life of people in the United States is less than twenty years; that is to say, of all of those born fully one-half die before they have completed their twentieth year. Of course, the death rate is largest among very young children, about 40 per cent dying before the age of five. But after that period the death rate with us seems to maintain itself on what might be termed the high pressure scale, and thus only twenty-two American men and women out of 100 live to be more than fifty years of age, and only about four out of 100 live to be eighty years of age. It is asserted in the census reports that the rates of mortality are higher in the large cities than in the country districts, though it is quite probable that this increase is shown in the mortality of children under five years of age, rather than in the rates of death appertaining to those of more advanced years.

The comparison of our tables with those of England is somewhat to our disadvantage, though not as much as similar comparisons instituted between the death rates of metropolis and those of France and Ireland. The average duration of life of age in England is, on the whole, higher than that of this country. On the other hand, 17 per cent of our population as between the ages of five and twenty years, while in England the death rate of this period is only 8 per cent of the whole. In the United States 24 per cent of the population die between the ages of twenty and fifty, while in England the average mortality is only 21 per cent between the ages of twenty and fifty-five. It thus transpires that there are, proportionately, as many people in England who live to be seventy-five years of age as there are people in the United States who live to be seventy years of age.

But when we come to France the showing is very much more to our disadvantage. As we said above, only twenty-two people out of 100 in the United States live to the age of fifty, while in France forty-eight people out of 100 attain that age; and while with us only about 10 per cent of the inhabitants reach the age of threescore years and ten, in France 25 per cent of all those born survive that traditional limit of human life. The death rate among children in France is relatively unarakable, standing at 26 per cent for those under five years, to 40 per cent as given in our statistics.

In Ireland the death rate among children under five years of age is about the same as in France. Where we lose half of our population by the age of twenty the Irish only part with 35 per cent of theirs, and almost one-half of the deaths are of persons over forty-five years of age. The Irish do not seem to die as long a period as the Frenchman, and yet nearly five in 100 of the deaths are of persons over eighty-five years of age—a showing in all respects better than ours.

The conclusions to be drawn from this exhibit, says the Boston Herald, are entirely to the detriment of our sanitary system of social and business life. The high rate of mortality among children under five years of age may be due to a number of different causes, such as insufficient care, want of physical strength on the part of parents, and, perhaps, unsanitary conditions of life. The exceptional high rate of mortality at the period between ten and twenty years of age can doubtless be attributed to the social excitement, vertigo almost, on dissipation, in which young people in this country are allowed to indulge, and, perhaps, also to the tension upon the physical system of our methods of education. It is certainly a significant fact that, proportionately, nearly twice as many Americans die in the decade between their tenth and twentieth years as English young people of similar ages. That so few of our people live to be over fifty is equally significant; for, while we have better food and better lodgings, and while the sanitary conditions of existence are studied here with, perhaps, as great care as elsewhere, there are evidently altogether insufficient to offset the results of the wear and tear of existence, which are the concomitants of our highly nervous and intense social and business activity.

There are, no doubt, advantages attendant upon the American system of life; but if statistics prove anything, they demonstrate that we obtain these advantages at an enormous cost. Certainly, for the purpose of sustaining our social and business system, and for the enjoyment of life as we endeavor to enjoy it, we practically sacrifice not less than 25 per cent of our possible years of existence. It is said that the exhibit now is less appalling than it once was; that the statistics of life insurance companies indicate the slow but sure tendency toward greater longevity; but this is, perhaps, the case all over the world, and our people are at the present time so far down on the list that enormous gains would have to be made before we can put ourselves on a plane of equality with the people of other countries. Clearly, the exhibit that we have given above is one deduction from our census reports of which we have no reason to be proud.

Mrs. Ferdinand Ward.

In a recent interview with reporters who visited him in his Sing Sing Prison, Ferdinand Ward, ex-wizard of Wall street, told them it was not true that he had stored away several millions of dollars out of his illgotten gains. "My wife is living on less than $1,500 a year," he said. I was in Stamford, Conn., the other day on business, and chanced to make some inquiries about the life of Mrs. Ward, who is living there. From what I heard and saw I was convinced that if Mrs. Ward really drew on less than $1,500 per annum she is as peculiarly talented in financial management as her enterprising husband. Her house is a large, three-story dwelling. A sweeping carriage drive leads near the portico on the side, and in the rear is a well-appointed stable sheltering three horses.

The big shade-trees on the grounds, from one of which depended a hammock filled with satin-covered cushions, a group of cozy easy-chairs on the portico, and hanging baskets filled with flowers and trailing plants—all this gave an appearance of wealth which seemed altogether incompatible with the small income which Mrs. Ward says she enjoys. While I stood eying the house with the curiosity and freedom of a stranger Mrs. Ward came out the front door and commenced to water and arrange the plants in the swinging baskets on the portico. She wore a dainty morning wrapper of foulard silk, which, despite its flowing proportions, could not conceal the beautiful contour of her graceful figure.

There was a cold, indifferent look on her face and a certain mechanism about her movements which showed that her mind was not on her work. Could she have been thinking of her dashing young husband, prowling about somewhere within the gray stone walls up among the Hudson hills? It seemed more than possible, as once she paused, and, setting herself slowly in one of the chairs, she gazed wearily down the road. She sat like a statue for nearly three minutes, when she caught a glimpse of the motionless spectator near the street, then she got up and disappeared. Mrs. Ward's house is small, but it is handsomely furnished, and she keeps three servants. It can cost no less than $5,000 or $4,000 per annum she certainly has acquired the faculty of making a dollar go a great deal further than most people.—New York Letter in Baltimore American.

Song of the Shirt.

"Say," said a conductor on the Big Four road this morning, as he jumped out at North Bend is fairly profile with the moonlight, "I do flourish in its darkened atmosphere."

"Anything new lately?"

"Not just lately, but good, nevertheless. A passenger from the west and eastward-bound were lines dissolved with the dust and grime of travel. It seems he expected to meet friends in Chicago, and, wanting to make an early appearance, he concluded to change in his sleeping car. He got the change and was ready to drop the worn garment. I saw him when he came for his clean shirt just as we shot into the station. There was a few seconds of deafening din and clatter, and then we shot into daylight with an echo that seemed to cling to the cars, and, to gold what a sight met our eyes. The poor fellow had put his head through the neckband, but the sleeves were stuck together by the starch, and there he stood, like Don Quixote's windmill, with his arms thrashing about, his hands trying to push through to the wristbands, and a generous spread of snow-white linen, that reached his knees on all sides. You bet I hustled him into a private department, and you should have seen him do a fancy job of frescoing in the seamstress line. He ripped up the shirts, the road, the tunnel, and my how he did give it to the starch, and the conductor laughed until he was red in the face as he called "Riverside."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

The Fourteen Great Mistakes.

Somebody has condensed the mistakes of life, and arrived at the conclusion that there are fourteen of them. Most people would say, if they told the truth, that there was no limit to the mistakes of life; that they were like the drops in the ocean or the sands of the shore in number, but it is well to be accurate. Here, then, are fourteen great mistakes: It is a great mistake to set one's heart too much on anything; and judge people accordingly; to measure the enjoyment of others by our own; to expect uniformity of opinion in this world; to look for judgment and experience in youth; to endeavor to mold all dispositions alike; to yield to temptation; to strive to look for perfection in our own actions; to worry ourselves and others with what can not be remedied; not to allow for the human; not to believe only what our finite minds can grasp; to expect to be able to understand everything.—New York Sun.

A New York bookkeeper states that the tissue is the best cultivated paper for producing honey. It yields a honey that is quite liquid, very sweet, and almost white.

COMPOUND OXYGEN

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN

A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT

A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU

FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN have discovered a remedy (in proof of their standing as Physicians) to the following named well known persons who have used their Treatment: Hon. William Penn Lloyd, Congressman, Chicago, Ill.; Prof. Vincent L. Conklin, Author, Business Director, Phila.; Rev. Chas. W. Cushing, Lockport, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quincy, Ill.; thousands of other reviews part of the world.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS," is the title of a book of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives an all sided view of Compound Oxygen, and the cases in which it is a curative agent. Its use in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned as incurable—will be made free to any address on application.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, the Brain, Spinal Marrow, and the Nerve Ganglia—"Nervous Centers"—are nourished and made more active. Thus the vitality of the nerves, which are the basis of both mental and physical activity, is restored to a state of energy, and the nervous system, the organs, and the tissues all act more kindly and efficiently.

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

STORY & CLARK FINE ORGANS

SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!

N. J. PERRY, Agent, Charlevoix.

CHICAGO + Canal AND 16TH STS

FOR MAN AND BEAST!

Mexican Mustang Liniment

Sciatica,	Lumbago,	Sprains,	Bruises,
Swellings,	Stiffness,	Strains,	Contracted
Burns,	Stiff Joints,	Stitches,	Muscles,
Scalds,	Sore Throat,	Bites of	Extensions,
Stings,	Backache,	Insects,	Head Ail,
Bites,	Gall,	Poisons,	Scurvy,
Scratches,	Spavin,	Corns,	Worms,
Sores,	Crack,		Swinney,
Boils,			Saddle Galls,
Bunions,			Piles.
Cuts.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it, and has been used so long and with such success that it has become the household remedy in many families. The Mustang Liniment is found in every section of the country, and its wonderful adaptability, to the Lumberman needs it in case of accidents with men and teams.

The Farmer needs it for his family and stock.

The Mechanic needs it in case of cuts, bruises, etc., which are of so frequent occurrence in his trade.

The Miner needs it in case of accidents to himself or his men, and he knows that it is the best and most reliable remedy for man or beast.

The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it, and he knows it.

The Merchant needs it about his store among his employees, accidents will happen, and a bottle of the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.

Keep a Bottle in the House. "To the best of my knowledge and belief it is the best remedy in the market for the purpose for which it is recommended."

Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Invaluable in case of accidents never know the hour of need.

Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when it is needed.

CONVENTIONS.

CHICAGO, ILL.	NEW YORK.
BOSTON, MASS.	CINCINNATI, O.
PITTSBURGH, PA.	ST. LOUIS, MO.
BUFFALO, N. Y.	SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
DETROIT, MICH.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix Michigan

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts. Express office and telegraph office in house. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 75

ADVERTISERS can obtain estimates for advertising in this paper, or obtain advertising contracts at our office. Send for Advertising Circular and Catalogue. 41 to 49 Randolph St. Chicago. The Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

100 CLEAN PAPERS FOR SALE—Inquire at this office.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 198. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHARLES J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Butters Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. GRIER.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. W. WOMER, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

Z. N. GARRUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services every other Sunday at 3 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. F. Brown, carver of Bridge and Clinton streets, superintendent.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Sunday services as follows: Preaching at 10.30 A. M. and 7.00 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. A. T. WATERMAN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services as follows: Preaching at 3 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. W. H. McARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office at West's Drug Store CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HASKIN, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Easter Post No. 191, meets second Tuesday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. U. T. Charlevoix Lodge No. 57, meet every Monday evening at Jefferies' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 299, meets every Wednesday evening.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 108, meets second and fourth Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

P. O. L.—True Blues No. 197, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard's school house

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 347, meet Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.

Brown & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix

CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn payable at any of the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention and proceeds promptly remitted. Interest allowed on time deposits. CORRESPONDENTS.—Chase National Bank, New York. Second National Bank, Detroit. Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX

Savings Bank

Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.

Henry Bennett, President. John Nicholls, Vice President;

F. A. Smith, Cashier,

DIRECTORS:

Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood, Chas. Hayes, A. Durand, A. R. Upright, F. A. Smith, A. Fox.

CAPITAL	$25,000
Surplus	2,000

The liabilities of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Art. 8, Sec. 8, and Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock taken, which is a guaranteed fund of $50,000 to depositors. Superior facilities for the transaction of every legitimate branch of banking business extended to our customers. Rates as favorable as are compatible with safety.

Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world. Time deposits received. Money to loan on approved security. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.

We respectfully solicit your patronage.

CORRESPONDENTS:

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE,	NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK,	CHICAGO.
FIRST NATIONAL BANK,	GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK	DETROIT.

GENTLEMAN having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Debility, Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their symptoms he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so easily used in his case.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PINKNEY, 45 Cedar St., N. Y.

LETTER HEADS, Note Heads, Statements, Envelopes, Business Cards, and Job Printing neatly and promptly done at the JOURNAL office.

1872. 1887

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

NEW LIVERY AND Feed Barn.

LITNEY & STEIMEL

PROPRIETORS

Opposite Bridge Street House. Charlevoix.

FIRST-CLASS RIGS REASONABLE RATES.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

HEADQUARTERS —FOR— WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the latest, best and most improved Watches at wholesale.

Repairing Promptly Done and Warranted.

C. R. BELLINGER, Bridge St., Charlevoix.

WILL H. FRANCIS,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop.

—Will also do—

CONTRACTING AND BUILDING,

in Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in my shop a full set of Hand and Foot power machinery which enables me to do

Jobbing, Repairing Etc.

ON SHORT NOTICE.

Shop on South Terrace, Opposite Harris and Jordan's ice house.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING.

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagon and Carriage work a specialty. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and can sell as low as the low, and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ON BRIDGE STREET, NORTH OF BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 12

Daily Mail —AND— Stage Line TO EAST JORDAN.

During the coming winter, Burns & Scroggie, agents for the Daily Mail, will carry the mails between Charlevoix and East Jordan, leaving Charlevoix at 7.00 A. M. and leaving East Jordan by noon. Returning, leave East Jordan at 1.00 P. M., arriving at Charlevoix by 6.00 P. M. Passengers and light express will be taken.

BURNS & SCROGGIE,

Charlevoix - - Mich.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Lowest Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts can be made for it in New York.

Political Notes and News.

THERE are now any number of country republican papers willing to subscribe to the assertion made a year ago by certain partisan democratic journals that Gov. Luce is narrow-minded. They are vexed at his veto of the supervisors' proceedings bill, and are disposed to make the governor realize that there is no balm in Gilead.—Saginaw Courier.

HENRY W. GRADY, of the Atlanta Constitution, writes of Cleveland's prospects: "The south is more than satisfied with his record, and there will not be a division of sentiment in any state from Virginia to Texas on the question of his renomination. He will carry every state in the south into the convention and will not lose half a dozen delegates. In the electoral college he will not lose a single vote from the south."

It is unfortunate that the first official acts of the interior examination should be a suspension of some of the most important features of the law. The commission is given authority to suspend certain features of the law, after investigation, but it has suspended them pending investigation. The public would have been much better satisfied if the law had been tried first and suspended upon a demonstration of its impracticability or pernicious effect.

JUSTICE COOLEY is taking the same course on the inter-state commission that he did while on the Michigan supreme bench. There never was a finding of fact by your but that Cooley could find a pretext for setting it aside, there never was a cause in equity appealed to his court wherein he failed to find reason to disagree with the court below if he felt so disposed, and there never was an enactment of the legislature that Cooley could not find reasons for holding un-constitutional.

The surest way of procuring the repeal of a pernicious law is to enforce it, that the evils may be made to appear. This rule should be applied to the inter-state commerce law. Enforce the law to the bitter end then if it may see its effects on commerce and if the effect is injurious it will be repealed. But if the law be suspended in some localities and enforced in others it will be difficult to see just what effect on the commerce of the country at large the law will have. Let the law be enforced while it is the law, and let its merits and demerits be known.

The special committee which was appointed to investigate the national banking system of the land made its report in the house Friday morning. They examined 17 companies doing business in the state, and the disclosures are of a most damaging character. The report of the assessment companies were found to be rotten to the core, insuring anybody, no matter of what age, state of health, or occupation the party insured knew of the transaction. The report shows that nine out of every ten of the persons insured in these companies made no application nor were they aware that such insurance had been placed upon their lives. The insurance was generally taken out by some beneficiary who forged the signatures to the application, paid the assessments, and pocketed the money obtained on the death of the insured.

Even since the world began there has been a class of men who are a species of parasite, desiring to live upon the pecuniary strength of others, and are continually working up schemes with which to dupe those of their fellow men who are honest themselves and think all men are. This is the class of beings that of late have been working the towns in the northern part of Michigan and Wisconsin, and are now working western and southern towns. The following from the Detroit Evening Journal gives a fair illustration of the game: The scheme of "booming" towns in the west is the principal work of a syndicate of Minneapolis capitalists. It is said that they are working Duluth and Wichita at the same time by the same methods. They pick out an obscure town with few natural resources, and after one or two "wash" deals in real estate they succeed in working up a "boom." The suckers are taken in and the excitement is kept up until the originators have pulled out with their "boodle." Then the town falls back deader than ever and the plotters go to another place. In California the same thing is being done, but the papers of San Francisco have had the courage to expose some of the humbugs. It is said that a man cannot alight from a train to stretch his legs without danger of being kidnapped by real-estate sharks and hurried off in a buggy to view the site of some future city. At Wichita the speculators have boomed some property till it is bringing $3,000 a front foot, with plenty of gulls to buy it, and they have cut roads through corn-fields and on them have laid rails down over which mules pull empty street cars so that they may say "the street cars pass the door." It is simply a revival of the old trick by which Martin Chuzlewit and Mark Tapley were decoyed into the ague-smitten swamps of Eden.

The National Banks.

A new interest seems to be awakening on the currency question. Many who never gave it any thought, want us to tell them "all about the national banks."

The national banks were created early in the war and their currency became plentiful in 1863-64. They are corporations created by the government, with not less than five incorporators and no less than $50,000 capital. These incorporators secure U. S. interest bearing bonds to the amount of capital they desire, and and deposit them in the federal treasury and draw interest on them, which has ranged upon various classes of bonds all the way from 3 to 5 per cent. The secretary of the treasury then issues to them a charter and 90 per cent of their bonds in national bank notes, upon which they pay the government one per cent tax. They are then ready to open a national bank and loan these notes to the people at such rates of interest as they can get, or speculate with them as best they can. They also have to deposit $100,000 bonds with the government, and draw interest on it too from Uncle Sam, and issue $90,000 of national bank notes and draw interest on them from the people. The deposit of bonds with the government is to secure the redemption of these notes, and in no way secures depositors. So that a national bank is no safer than any other bank so far as depositors are concerned. The bulk of these bonds which secure the national bank issue, were procured at a discount of 50 per cent during the war, so that a deposit of $100,000 bonds represented $50,000 real capital, which makes 5 per cent interest on the bonds, 10 per cent on the real capital invested in the bonds. This enabled five men with a capital of $50,000, to draw interest on $100,000 and loan $90,000 to the people at from 6 to 25 per cent interest, as out in the territories.

The money power, which sits behind the national bank throne secured the depreciation of the green back at the very inception of the system. The bill under which all our greenbacks were issued originally provided that they should be a full legal tender for all debts, both public and private. The bill was so framed and so passed the house, in the face of the opposition of every gold gamber in the land. The money power in the senate and conspired to have the greenback would be a legal tender for payment of soldiers, but not for this bond-holders and gold gamblers. This enabled them to so depreciate it that at times during the war one dollar of gold would purchase $2.85 of greenbacks. This conspiracy between the money power and congress enabled the national banks to purchase bonds at from forty to fifty cents on the dollar. They thus purchased the $400,000,000 bonds which are deposited in the federal treasury to secure the payment of their notes for about $200,000,000 or less. On this $200,000,000 they have drawn an average rate of five per cent interest for about twenty four years, which compounded semi-annually would make about $7,000,000 paid by the American people to the national banks for furnishing them $350,000,000 in currency twenty four years and to this must be added their notes for about $200,000,000 which they made on the bonds at fifty cents on the dollar, which are now worth a premium. A profit of $9 on an investment of $2 for twenty-four years is pretty good.

But this is only part of the steal, it may be regarded as only the tools with which the national bank patriots opened the great American vault. Upon depositing the $400,000,000 of bonds with the federal treasury, they received $350,000,000 national bank notes, for which they paid the government a tax of one per cent per annum. They took these notes home and loaned them out to the people at an average rate of 9 per cent and this has been the work of the national banks ever since and their profits can be best measured by the depression of our industries, the impoverishment of labor and widespread bankruptcy, which has devastated our land.

The interest compounded on the loan of these notes for twenty-four years and the profit of speculations, at a modest estimate, would reach at least $1,000,000,000!

But this is not all. The profits of usurious greed can only be measured by its opportunity. These national banks had an average deposit available for loans on call of no less than $1,000,000,000. Assuming that they loaned this on call at only three per cent, this would mean a profit of $1,000,000,000; but it is far more likely they got six per cent for it, in which case it netted them $2,000,000,000, but in order to do them no injustice we estimate this item at $1,000,000,000.

Now, to recapitulate:

Profit on bond speculation	$ 200,000,000
Interest on $400,000,000 bonds, secure issue of notes 5 per cent twenty-four years	700,000,000
Interest on $350,000,000 at 9 per cent	1,000,000,000
Interest on deposits loaned at 3 per cent twenty-four years on call	1,000,000,000
	$2,900,000,000
Original gold investment deducted	200,000,000
Taxes paid government	8,000,000
Net profit	$2,692,000,000

This shows a net annual profit of $112 per cent on their original investment of $200,000,000, or twelve times the annual profit of the average producer in the most prosperous times. These are indisputable facts. The record is there, and the astounding development of millionaires in our land during this period, and the impoverishment of the real producers, corroborate the record.

Of course, the national bank monopoly, with such a corruption fund at its disposal, backed by every other monopoly, with access to the ear of the administration, in possession of the United States treasury and senate, sustained by a hireling press and every corrupt party boss in the land is strongly, will not admit these facts. But the light is spreading, and while every industry in the land is under their thumb, they have not yet got a mortgage on the intelligence and patriotism of the rolling of mass.

They say that the national banks are a great improvement upon the old wild cat state bank system. This is true, but the national bank system is conducted by the old state bank robbers, and it is not likely that in this age of invention they have failed to make some progress.

When Sherman alleges that the national bank currency is the best that human wisdom can devise, he utters a falsehood, because he knows better. He knows that during the past twenty-four years we have had an equal amount ($350,000,000) of greenbacks which never cost the people anything except the cost of printing them. He knows also that they never would have been depreciated had not the senate entered into a conspiracy with the money power to commit the crime. He knows that specie payment was resumed simply by the government accepting its own notes at their face fourteen years after the war was over. He knows that the depreciation of the greenbacks was kept up purposely for the benefit of the gold gamblers, and to induce the people to abandon the greenback. He knows that in 1874, he, as the secretary of the treasury and the agent of Wall street, commenced his pet scheme of destroying the greenback, and that he was stopped by a bill forced through congress by public sentiment. He knows that then the shylocks still insisted that the greenback was not money, and that they appealed to the supreme court of the United States for a decision, and that, to their astonishment, the court decided in favor of the people's money, pronouncing the greenback money for all purposes. He knows that it is the duty of congress, under the constitution, to furnish the people a stable and uniform currency. He also knows that congress has no more right to furnish the people banks than it has to furnish them dry goods stores and saloons. All these things are well-known to Mr. Sherman, and when he asserts the contrary he poses as a knave or fool, and no one for a moment imagines that John is a fool, except in the scriptural sense, that all monopolists are fools in the end.

We hear no malice to Mr. Sherman. On every question except currency he was on the side of the American people, and why he permits this fatal mistake on finance to mar a brilliant career is incomprehensible.—Industrial News.

The Inter-State Commerce Law.

It was to be expected that the new inter state commerce law should create much dissatisfaction in certain localities and in certain lines of business. Any city which was favored by the railways at the expense of other cities, or of the towns of a section, might naturally be expected to raise an outcry against the taking away of special favors. The same would be expected of a class of travelers who as a rule obtained special rates.

Hence the denunciations of a bill on the part of the theatrical combinations, and of the "drummers" and their employers, because they can get no cheaper tickets than the general public; and the noble army of deadheads, the "free pass fiends," who squeal like hungry pigs because they have to pay to travel, like the rest of humanity.

That the law will act unfavorably in some instances is undoubtedly true. It was to be expected. The old order of things favored the large cities which are the terminal points of all through traffic, at the expense of all intermediate points. The discrimination was in favor of the great cities against the smaller interior towns. The law undoes this injustice and the cities denounce it. The towns which are thus benefited, because they do not realize the advantages which have been restored to them. The work of rectifying the results of years of discrimination will be unfavorable to many interests in the cities enjoying the advantages through that injustice. It is going to take time to remedy these things and equalize matters.

The operation of the statute will largely increase the earnings of the roads. The increased revenue to the Pennsylvania alone, from the cutting off of free passes, is estimated at $200,000 annually. The commission should take hold of this matter at once, and exercise the power vested in them to the utmost to protect the people.—Toledo Blade.

What the Tariff has done for the Farmer.

Some idea of the loss resulting to the farmers of this country from the restrictions of international commerce which have been imposed by our monopoly-dominated congresses under the plea of "protecting home industries." Any city which was favored by the railways at the expense of other cities, or of the towns of a section, might naturally be expected to raise an outcry against the taking away of special favors. The same would be expected of a class of travelers who as a rule obtained special rates.

Hence the denunciations of a bill on the part of the theatrical combinations, and of the "drummers" and their employers, because they can get no cheaper tickets than the general public; and the noble army of deadheads, the "free pass fiends," who squeal like hungry pigs because they have to pay to travel, like the rest of humanity.

That the law will act unfavorably in some instances is undoubtedly true. It was to be expected. The old order of things favored the large cities which are the terminal points of all through traffic, at the expense of all intermediate points. The discrimination was in favor of the great cities against the smaller interior towns. The law undoes this injustice and the cities denounce it. The towns which are thus benefited, because they do not realize the advantages which have been restored to them. The work of rectifying the results of years of discrimination will be unfavorable to many interests in the cities enjoying the advantages through that injustice. It is going to take time to remedy these things and equalize matters.

The operation of the statute will largely increase the earnings of the roads. The increased revenue to the Pennsylvania alone, from the cutting off of free passes, is estimated at $200,000 annually. The commission should take hold of this matter at once, and exercise the power vested in them to the utmost to protect the people.—Toledo Blade.

What the Tariff has done for the Farmer.

Some idea of the loss resulting to the farmers of this country from the restrictions of international commerce which have been imposed by our monopoly-dominated congresses under the plea of "protecting home industries." As it is blighting the fairest and the richest agricultural sections on the globe with the mildew of restricted markets and low prices. How the farmers feel the cause of their misfortunes which have been imposed upon them by this infernal system of high tariff.—Lansing Journal.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Columbia College has just celebrated its 100th anniversary.

At a crossing near Waverly, N. Y., J. P. Taylor, aged 60, his wife and his 17-year old son were instantly killed by a train.

Secretary Edge, of the Pennsylvania State Board of Agriculture, killed five cattle infected with pleuro-pneumonia on the farm of John Frye, in Manor Township.

Because of the low stage of water and the scarcity of boats, work in the mines between McKeesport and Brownsville, Pa., is suspended. Six millions bushels of coal are ready for shipment. High railway rates have crippled the trade.

The continued heavy importations of iron and steel prompt a trade journal of Philadelphia to allege that there are under-valuations in the Custom House at New York.

Mrs. Sarah E. Howe, of Boston, who was once imprisoned for swindling women by a woman's bank scheme, and who re-established her bank on being released from prison, has fled with $50,000 intrusted to her. A warrant has been issued for her arrest.

Thousands of dollars' worth of spurious Virginia bonds have been unloaded in Boston and New York.

The Mayors of Pittsburg and Allegheny appear in license an exhibition by the John L. Sullivan combination.

A big fire in the New York docks was caused by a large leakage of oil from the Standard Company's main pipe, the oil floating on the water being set on fire by sparks from a passing tug. The aggregate loss was about $150,000.

The pews in Grace and Trinity Episcopal church, on Broadway, N. Y., are to be made free as rapidly as private ownership ceases or sittings can be official. The late Miss Wolfe left $250,000 to Grace Church and in the abolition of rentals.

WESTERN.

The wholesale jewelry firm of Clapp & Davies, of Chicago, confessed judgment for $137,500. Their assets are estimated at $85,000.

George Werner, teacher of a village school near Minneapolis, punished a refractory pupil named Henry Sengbusch by striking his wrists with a ruler, and the boy fell back in his seat unconscious. Supposing that he had fainted the teacher threw two pails of water over him, but the pupil was dead. Werner fled, but subsequently gave himself up. The parents of the deceased had been pursuing him with threats of lynching, as the boy's father claimed that his son was choked to death.

The body of President Lincoln, which has been secreted for eight years, was on the 14th inst., removed to the main chamber in the monument, together with the body of Mrs. Lincoln, and deposited in a grave excavated for that purpose near the stone sarcophagus, which is supposed to have held the body of the martyred President. A dispatch from Springfield, Ill., says:

Since the attempt to steal the body made several years ago it has been concealed in a corridor reached only by traversing a winding stair and a ladder. Then was apparently secure as the vault in which it was sealed. When the funeral of Mrs. Lincoln was finally placed in a secretary vault, and public attention was not attracted to the subsequent disposition of the remains of her husband, the Board of Home Lands where the bodies were kept, thought it a fitting and appropriate disposition that the body of the President was in view of the vault in which it has been placed was built for that purpose exclusively. It was made with solid, arched cover, and leveled to conform to the floor of the corridor, and was concealed. The grave in which the body was secreted was excavated by members of the guard of honor in the sublevel of the monument, and at that point was sitting. The members of the guard of honor were sworn to secrecy and faithful. Before Mr. Lincoln's body was finally established in the place of rest it was twice disturbed. The last and whatever has fallen off and the face is very black. The contour is lovely, perfect and the face is said to strongly resemble that of the bronze statue on the monument.

The premature explosion of a blast in the Iron Vein, Calumet, resulted in the killing of six men and the wounding of seven others.

Sixty meat-dealers at Akron, Ohio, recently received in handsome engraved blotters from Chicago by Armour & Co. The firm opened three retail markets and speedily brought the hornets to a halt.

The explosion of a barrel of varnish resulted in a fire which destroyed the building at Milwaukee occupied by the Charles Bannbach Company, wholesale druggists. The loss is about $17,000, with insurance of $60,000.

The business portion of Ainsworth, Iowa, was swept by fire, causing a loss of between $50,000 and $75,000. Twenty-seven buildings were destroyed, and many families rendered homeless.

A genuine Western cyclone visited the allnearby vicinity of Wessing, Minn., last week. The storm commenced at St. Clairville, Ohio, extended ten miles west, and is as rare as a Wheeling. Everything in its path was swept away, but strange to say the loss of life reported as being small. The damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

The jury in the case of John Arensdorf, charged with the murder of the Mr. Haddock, of Sioux City, Iowa, failed to agree, and was discharged after having been out twenty hours. On the first ballot the jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction, but after the third ballot one of the jurors joined the majority, leaving only one—Dennis O'Connor, in favor of conviction. Judge Lewis was at first disposed to send the jury back, but changed his mind when Juror O'Connell announced his resolute determination, and his mind in the matter could not be changed if he was given twelve days for work.

For the murder of Miss Ella Bower in July last, E. F. Cunn was last week executed at Centralia, Ill., in the presence of 10,000 people.

Burglars at Coshocton, Ohio, administered a fatal dose of chloroform to Mrs. Amanda Murphy and her young daughter.

The condemner of an omipotent train reported night hirf to German mothers between Bellaire and Mount Vernon on his train.

In one of the schools at Wabash, Ind., thirteen children are down with cerebro-spinal meningitis.

The Governor of Colorado has issued a quarantine proclamation against the introduction of cattle from many of the Eastern States, including Illinois.

SOUTHERN.

Heavy rains have fallen in Western Texas, and the condolence of farmers and stockmen is fully restored.

The gross postal receipts at thirty of the larger postoffices in the country for the first three months of the current year, were $4,746,046, an increase of $381,481 over the corresponding period last year, or 8.7 per cent. The receipts increase and percentage increase at the principal Western and Southern cities were:

	Total receipts.	Per Increase.	Per cent.
Chicago	$530,603	$46,983	9.8
Boston	372,000	34,000	10
Cincinnati	111,000	5,000	4.7
San Francisco	91,000	5,000	5.8
Philadelphia	96,110	9,598	14.2
Cleveland	49,407	9,557	16.1
Detroit	40,000	6,317	8.7
New Orleans	74,859	8,419	6.4
St. Louis	79,000	8,000	6.3
Milwaukee	48,700	6,900	8.2
Kansas City	40,957	17,937	28.1
Indianapolis	42,278	10,000	19.1
St. Paul	44,472	10,964	20.1
Minneapolis	62,000	10,000	21.1
Toledo	39,000	5,000	9.1

The Rev. Dr. Alfred Lee, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Delaware, died at Wilmington, aged 81.

William A. Jay, of Champaign, Ill., will probably succeed Mr. Maynard as Second Comptroller of the Treasury.

At Union City, Tenn., John Thomas, a young married negro, brutally assaulted a little colored girl. He was arrested and arraigned in a Justice Court to answer the charge. The negro failed to secure a lawyer, but introduced several witnesses as the vain attempt to prove an alibi. The little victim gave her testimony, the tears brought tears to the eyes of the many spectators with whom the courtroom was densely crowded. At the close of the testimony, and before the court could render a verdict, a yell was heard and in an instant the office was overpowered. The negro was seized, a rope was placed around his neck and over a beam in the courtroom, and a hundred hands drew him to a merited death. Not more than two minutes were consumed in the act. The body hung for one hour and was then cut down, and a Coroner's jury returning a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death by hanging at the hands of parties unknown." It was impossible to find witnesses to testify as to who they were.

The City Council of Laredo, Texas, has granted to a Mexican mining company ten acres of land and five years' exemption from taxation, conditioned upon the erection of a smelter to cost $150,000.

John T. Fernandez and Henry Bernard, members of a New Orleans fencing club, had a friendly set-to with foils. The button of Bernard's weapon was broken off during the encounter, and a sudden thrust drove the point of the blade into Fernandez' brain, entering below the left eye. Fernandez died, and Bernard surrendered himself to the police.

WASHINGTON.

A contract for furnishing steel-gun forgings and armor plates to the amount of $4,512,000, was awarded by Secretary Windom to the Bethlehem Iron Company, of Pennsylvania.

The quarterly report of the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics shows that the consumption of distilled spirits, domestic and imported, in this country has increased from 43,000,000 gallons in 1880 to 72,000,000 in 1886; of wines from 4,800,000 gallons to 22,000,000; malt liquors from 60,000,000 gallons to 642,000,000. An elaborate table accompanies the report, in answer to a request of the chief of the bureau shows that the present average expenditure in this country per annum for malt and spirituous liquors and beer at retail is $700,000,000. The drinking population is estimated to be in 1886 14,925,417, making the average expenditure per capita $46.90. The wholesale cost of this liquor for which the retailer receives $700,000,000 is not more than $400,000,000. During the period from 1881 to 1886, inclusive, the consumption of coffee rose from 8.2 pounds per capita to 9.11 pounds, while the consumption of spirits and wine was decreased, and that of beer increased.

A Western firm of lawyers, of whom the Interstate Commerce Commissioners have never before heard, have asked permission to make use of the Commissioners' names as "references." A Pennsylvania man asks to be informed if that state can tax him for representing a New England manufacturing company "by sample only." He complains that the State's "trying to work a so-called mercantile tax on any one who has no office for headquarters to receive letters and samples and write letters." A California complains that he can't send refrigerators to Los Angeles under the present condition of things and asks relief. These are samples of hundreds of letters upon irrelevant matters received by the commission every day.

A. R. Lawton, of Georgia, has been appointed Minister to Austria, and N. W. McConnell, of Tennessee, Chief Justice of Montana. General O. B. Wilcox has been placed on the retired list.

The Commissioner of Agriculture has issued a new set of rules governing the operations of the department in the suppression and extirpation of pleuro-pneumonia and other infectious diseases.

POLITICAL.

The Illinois House of Representatives has passed a bill prohibiting pool-selling in the State.

An Anti-Prohibition State Convention will be held at Dallas, Texas, May 4.

The Governor of New York has selected the Crosby lighthouse site.

The entire Election Board of a precinct in Jersey City was arrested for tampering with the ballot-box.

The Michigan House defeated, by a vote of 52 to 31, the bill conferring suffrage at school meetings on women.

A joint resolution proposing a woman suffrage constitutional amendment passed the Pennsylvania Senate.

A Lansing (Mich.) special says that "a dangerous organization, attended by fifty Legislators, appointed a committee to draw up a bill establishing three liquor license zones. For cities with 10,000 inhabitants and over, $500; under 10,000, $500; incorporated villages, $400; townships, $300. No discrimination is proposed between wine and beer licenses, and no brewer or liquor dealer will be allowed to sign a bond. After some discussion it was decided that drug stores wishing to sell liquor should pay the same tax as saloons. A proposition for the new laws enforced by a State constabulary met with favor by a majority of the members present."

The Dakota Senate has passed a bill prohibiting absolutely the manufacture and sale of bogus butter.

The Wisconsin Legislature, which has just adjourned, cut appropriations aggregating about $95,000.

The Florida Senate has passed a bill prohibiting the granting of free passes to delegates attending a nominating convention.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The missing steamer Eagle has arrived at St. John with the thousand seals.

The report is confirmed of the purchase of the Von Raabe library for the purpose of bringing it to America. It was not bought for the Garrett Biblical Institute of Evanston, Ill., however, but is going to the Syracuse University. The library contains 25,000 volumes and 75,000 pamphlets, and is considered the finest historical collection in the world.

Largely attended meetings, called by Irish-American citizens to express sympathy for Ireland and protest against the coercion bill now before the British Parliament, were held in various cities of the United States on the 16th inst. In Washington City Congressman Springer presided over a gathering that filled Masonic Temple. Speeches were made by Congressmen Springer, Crain of Texas, and Staveley of Indiana, Gen. Rosecrans, Gen. Broderick of Virginia, Gen. George A. Sheridan, ex-Senator Van Wyck, and others. Letters expressing sympathy with the object of the meeting were read from Senators Cameron, Sherman and Sabin and Congressman S. S. Cox. Strong resolutions were adopted. Gov. McGill presided at a mass-meeting in St. Paul. Speeches were made by Congressmen Wilson and McDonald, Mayor Ames, Senator Platt and others. Sympathetic letters were read from Senator Sherman and Congressman Kasson. Nelson, and resolutions were passed which strongly condemn coercion. There were similar demonstrations in New Orleans, Baltimore and other cities, at which the usual resolutions were passed and ordered sent to Mr. Gladstone.

Many prominent manufacturers of Canada appear anxious to be taken for US States as immical to their interests, and will favor any such scheme with all the means in their power.

Daniel Jewell, a wife-murderer, was executed in the jail yard at St. Louis. Ben Brown, a negro, was hanged at Nashville.

The failures throughout the United States for the week were only 186, as it from Co., in their weekly review of trade, say:

Considering the embarrassment from uncertainty which has prevailed, it is made more satisfactory outlooke for a healthy general recovery of trade is unusually well. The unfavorable aspects are confined to a few points where real estate or mining speculation has been unusually active, and to those industries of which the supply of such stuff has been the most abundant

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Columbia College has just celebrated its 104th anniversary.

At a meeting near Waverly, N. Y., J. P. Taylor, aged 65, his wife, and his 17-year old son, were instantly killed by a train.

Secretary Edge, of the Pennsylvania State Board of Agriculture, killed five cattle infected with pleuro-pneumonia on the farm of John Frye, in Mason Township.

Because of the low stage of water and the scarcity of beds, work in the mines between McKeesport and Brownsville, Pa., is suspended. Six millions bushels of coal are ready for shipment. High railway rates have crippled the trade.

The continued heavy importations of iron and steel prompt a trade journal of Philadelphia to allege that there are undervaluations in the Custom House at New York.

Mrs. Sarah E. Howe, of Boston, who was once imprisoned for swindling women by a woman's bank scheme, and who re-established her bank on being released from prison, has fled with $50,000 intrusted to her. A warrant has been issued for her arrest.

Thousands of dollars' worth of Western Virginia bonds have been unloaded in Boston and New York.

The Mayors of Pittsburg and Allegheny refused to license an exhibition by the John L. Sullivan combination.

A big fire in the New York docks was caused by a large leakage of oil from the Standard Company's main pipe, the oil floating on the water being set on fire by sparks from a passing tug. The aggregate loss was about $150,000.

The pews in Grace and Trinity Episcopal churches, on Broadway, N. Y., are to be made free as rapidly as private ownership centers or purchasers can be effected. The late Miss Wolfe left $200,000 to Grace Church to aid in the abolition of rentals.

WESTERN.

The wholesale jewelry firm of Clapp & Davies, of Chicago, confessed judgment for $137,000. Their assets are estimated at $85,000.

George Werner, teacher of a village school near Milwaukee, punished a refractory pupil named Henry Soughnoch by striking his wrists with a ruler, and the boy fell back in his seat unconscious. Supposing that he had fainted the teacher threw two pails of water over him, but the pupil was dead. Werner fled, but subsequently gave himself up. The tyranny of the community had been pursuing him with threats of lynching, as the boy's father claimed that his son was choked to death.

The body of President Lincoln, which has been covered for eight years, was on the 14th inst., removed to the vault beneath the monument, together with the body of Mrs. Lincoln, and deposited in a grave excavated for that purpose near the stone sarcophagus, which is supposed to have held the body of the martyred President. A dispatch from Springfield, Ill., says:

Since the attempt to steal the body made some years ago it has been concealed in a surface vaulted cell by traversing a winding passage to which there was no apparent access, the entrance being in the floor of a room in the Funeral of Mrs. Lincoln. When the body was placed in a receiving vault, and preparations were not obtained to the satisfaction of ex-Gov. Oglesby and others, the members of the Lincoln Guard of Honor knew where the bodies were deposited, although the popular impression was that the place of the deposit of the dead man in the tomb of the monument. The vault in which it has been placed was built for that purpose underneath the floor. It is walled with the finest of brick, and the work is uniform in the floor in the vaulted wing of the monument. The grave in which the bodies of Lincoln and his wife were deposited by members of the guard of honor in the stillness of night. The atmosphere of the place was chilly, and the members of the guard bound themselves to secrecy within an hour. The place of the deposit was away so far beneath the coffin was placed that the sound reverberated. The hair and whiskers of the dead man and his features are plainly discernible, however, perfect, and the face is said to strongly resemble that of the bronze statue in the capitol.

The premature explosion of a blast at Buena Vista, Col., resulted in the killing of six men and the wounding of seven others.

Sixty meat-dealers at Akron, Ohio, recently refused to handle carcasses shipped thither from Chicago by Armour & Co. The firm opened three retail markets and speedily brought the boycott to a close.

The explosion of a barrel of varnish resulted in a fire which destroyed the building at Milwaukee occupied by the Charles Bassmann Varnish Company, wholesale druggists. The total loss is about $17,000, with insurance of $6,000.

The business portion of Ainsworth, Iowa, was swept away by fire, causing a loss of between $60,000 and $75,000. Twenty-seven buildings were destroyed, and many families rendered homeless.

A genuine Western cyclone visited the immediate vicinity of Wheeling, W. Va., last week. The storm commenced at St. Clairsville, Ohio, extended ten miles west, and as far east as Wheeling. Everything in its path was swept away, but strange to say the loss of life is reported as being small. The damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

The jury in the case of John Arendorf, charged with the murder of the Rev. M. Haddock, of Iowa City, Iowa, failed to agree, and were discharged, after having been out twenty hours. On the first ballot the jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction, but after the third ballot one of the jurors joined the majority, leaving only one—Dennis O'Connell—in favor of conviction. Judge Lewis was at first disposed to send the jury back, but changed his mind when Juror O'Connell addressed the court and announced that his position in the matter for evil can be changed if the jury were locked up for weeks.

For the murder of Miss Ella Bowen in July last, E. F. Chun was last week executed at Unionville, Mo., in the presence of 10,000 people.

Burglars at Coshocton, Ohio, admittedly intend a fatal dose of chloroform to Mrs. Joseph Bellaire and Mount Vernon on his trade.

The conductor of an emigrant train reported eight births to German mothers between Bellaire and Mount Vernon on his trip.

In one of the schools at Salem, Ind., thirteen children are down with cerebro-spinal meningitis.

The Governor of Colorado has issued a quarantine proclamation against the introduction of cattle from many of the Eastern States, including Illinois.

SOUTHERN.

Heavy rains have fallen in Western Texas, and the confidence of farmers and stockmen is fully restored.

The gross postal receipts at thirty of the larger postoffices in the country for the first three months of the present year, were $4,746,046, an increase of $281,481 over the corresponding period last year, or 8.7 per cent. The receipts increase and percentage increase at the principal Western and Southern cities were:

	Total receipts.	Increase.	Per cent.
Chicago	$759,831	$66,993	9.5
Cincinnati	122,000	7,900	6.9
St. Louis	171,082	5,415	3.3
San Francisco	96,110	11,509	14.2
Pittsburg	89,407	9,964	12.7
Cleveland	65,000	4,317	7.1
Detroit	74,830	4,419	6.2
New Orleans	49,000	3,000	6.5
Milwaukee	46,000	3,000	7.0
Kansas City	90,857	17,337	26.5
Indianapolis	45,274	3,305	12.1
St. Paul	64,477	10,964	20.4
Minneapolis	67,232	10,809	21.1
Toledo	20,232	363	1.8

The Rev. Dr. Alfred Lee, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Delaware, died at Wilmington, aged 81.

William A. Day, of Champaign, Ill., will probably succeed Mr Maynard as Second Comptroller of the Treasury.

At Union City, Tenn., John Thomas, a young married negro, brutally assaulted a little colored girl. He was arrested and arraigned in a Justice Court to answer the charge. The negro failed to secure a lawyer, but introduced several witnesses who testified that he was at home at the time of the alleged outrage. The little victim gave her testimony, which brought tears to the eyes of the many spectators with whom the court room was densely crowded. At the close of the testimony, and before the court could render a verdict, a yell was heard and in an instant the officers were overpowered. The negro was seized, a rope was placed around his neck and over a beam in the court room, and a hundred hands drew him to a merited death. Not more than two minutes were consumed in the act. The body hung for one hour and was then cut down, and a Coroner's jury returning a verdict to the effect that "deceased came to his death by hanging at the hands of parties unknown." It was impossible to find witnesses to testify as to who they were.

The City Council of Laredo, Texas, has granted to a Mexican mining company ten acres of land and five years' exemption from taxation, conditioned upon the erection of a smelter to cost $1,000,000.

John T. Fernandez and Henry Bernard, members of a New Orleans fencing club, had a friendly set-to with foils. The button of Bernard's weapon was broken off during the encounter, and a sudden thrust drove the point of the blade into Fernandez' brain, entering below the left eye. Fernandez died, and Bernard surrendered himself to the police.

WASHINGTON.

A contract for furnishing steel-gun forgings and armor plates to the amount of $4,952,938, was awarded by Secretary Whitney to the Bethlehem Iron Company, of Pennsylvania.

The quarterly report of the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics shows that the consumption of distilled spirits, domestic and imported, in this country has increased from 45,000,000 gallons in 1880 to 72,000,000 in 1886; of wines from 4,800,000 gallons to 22,000,000; malt liquors from 23,000,000 gallons to 642,000,000. An elaborate statement prepared by Mr. F. N. Barrett by request of the chief of the bureau shows that the present average expenditure in this country per annum for mail and spiritous liquors and beer is about $20 per capita, of which the drinking population is estimated to be (in 1886) 14,000,000, making the average expenditure per capita $45.90. The wholesale cost of this liquor for which the retailer receives $700,000,000 is not more than $300,000,000. During the period from 1882 to 1886, inclusive, the consumption of coffee rose from 8.7 pounds per capita to 11 pounds, while the consumption of spirits and wine was decreased, and that of tea increased.

A Western firm of lawyers, of whom the Interstate Commerce Commissioners have written to inquire if they were authorized to make use of the Commissioners' names as references, if a Pennsylvanian man asks to be informed if that State can be his line for representing a New England manufacturing company by sample only." He complains that the State is "trying to work a so-called mercantile tax on any one who has no office for headquarters to receive letters and samples and write letters." A Californian complains that he can't send refrigerators to Los Angeles under the present condition of things and asks relief. These are samples of hundreds of letters upon irrelevant matters received by the commission every day.

A. R. Lawton, of Georgia, has been appointed Minister to Austria, and N. W. McConnell, of Tennessee, Chief Justice of Montana. General O. B. Wilcox has been placed on the retired list.

The Commissioner of Agriculture has secured a new set of rules governing the operations of the department in the suppression and extirpation of pleuro-pneumonia and other infectious diseases.

POLITICAL.

The Illinois House of Representatives has passed a bill prohibiting pool-selling in the State.

An Anti-Prohibition State Convention will be held at Dallas, Texas, May 4.

The Governor of New York has vetoed the Crosby high-license bill.

The entire Election Board of a precinct in Jersey City was arrested for tampering with the ballot-boxes.

The Michigan House defeated, by a vote of 52 to 33, the bill conferring suffrage at municipal elections upon women.

A joint resolution proposing a woman suffrage constitutional amendment passed the Pennsylvania Senate.

A Lansing (Mich.) special says that "in Republican legislative caucus, attended by fifty Legislators, appointed a committee to draw up a bill establishing these liquor license fees: For cities with 10,000 inhabitants and over, $700; under 10,000, $500; incorporated villages, $400; townships, $200. No discrimination is proposed between wine and beer licenses, and no brewer or liquor dealer will be allowed to sign a bond. After some discussion, it was decided that drug fiends should not be allowed to sell liquor without pay the same tax as saloon-keepers." It is believed the new law will be enforced by a State constabulary met with favor by a majority of the members present."

The Delaware Senate has passed a bill prohibiting absolutely the manufacture and sale of bogus butter.

The Wisconsin Legislature, which has just adjourned, made appropriations aggregating about $950,000.

The Florida Senate has passed a bill prohibiting the granting of free passes to delegates attending a mourning convention.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The missing steamer Eagle has arrived at St. Johns with ten thousand seals.

The report is confirmed of the purchase of the Von Hanke library for the purpose of bringing it to America. It was sold bought for the Garrett Biblical Institute of Evanston, Ill., however, but is going to the Syracuse University. The library contains 35,000 volumes and 25,000 pamphlets, and is considered the finest historical collection in the world.

Largely attended meetings, called by Irish-American citizens to express sympathy for Ireland and protest against the coercion bill now before the British Parliament, were held in various cities of the United States on the 17th inst. In Washington City Congressman Springer presided over a gathering that filled Masonic Temple. Speeches were made by Congressmen Springer, Crain of Texas, and Bynum of Indiana, Gen. Rosecrans, Gen. Broderick of Virginia, Gen. George A. Sheridan, ex-Senator Van Wyck, and others. Letters expressing sympathy with the object of the meeting were read from Senators Jones of Nevada, Stanford and Cameron of Pa. Strong resolutions were adopted. Gov. McGill presided at a mass meeting in St. Paul. Speeches were made by Congressmen Wilson and McDonald, Sen. Pettigrew, ex-Senator Platt and others. Sympathetic letters were read from Senators Hoar and Dawes, Congressman Knute Nelson, and resolutions were passed which strongly condemn coercion. Similar meetings were held in New York, Baltimore and other cities, at which the usual resolutions were passed and ordered sent to Mr. Gladstone.

Many prominent manufacturers of Canada express themselves as "hoping the States as inimical to their interests, and will resist any such scheme with all the means in their power."

Daniel Jewell, a wife-murderer, was executed in the jail-yard at St. Louis. Ben Brown, a negro, was hanged at Nashville.

The failures throughout the United States for the week were only 146. R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say:

Considering the misrepresentment from unwarranted fears, the progress of trade seems wonderfully satisfactory, and the almost universal testimony that retail trade is improving, and the embarrassment appears in collections except where real estate or mining speculation has been specially prominent. The iron and textile fabrics where bad roads still block business, but the general tone of trade is better than at any time in the last six months, and very emphatically better than it was in the exceedingly plentiful supply of money, which is now abundant beyond any one who has not specially reported, while at many points, as in Philadelphia, Boston and Western cities, the complaint is that borrowers are scarcely to be seen, only at some for Western points, where the demand for money is reported as increasing with the locality.

The third and last week of Miss Kate Claxon's Chinese engagement will be devoted to the production at McVicker's Theater of an adaptation of one of Sardou's plays called "The Brain-Stealer." The play is said to deal with subjects in a very realistic manner. The cast is a strong one, including Miss Claxon, Miss Catherine Lewis, and Mr. Charles A. Stevenson.

Mr. Dowerby has written and published a long article on the objects and interests of the Knights of Labor, the gist of which he says:

Knights of Labor need not go away from home to get "issues" to advocate. They have a decision of principles, any one of which, carried out, would materially advance the welfare of the Knights of Labor. The four-tail platform, for instance, for instance, that the public lands, the heritage of the people, should not be used as speculation or another save for full trade or speculators—and that all lands now held by speculators reverse the land to their original owners. The latter clause especially would materially benefit the Knights of Labor, and indirectly benefit all people in the country. Granted income tax, which is the third fourth principle, would not more equitably divide the burdens of taxation. The doing away with the tariff would be a third important plank, a question which will soon have to be met, for the reason that it is a tax on necessities of life, and it is a tax which is not needed in a service national bank currency to ask Congressmen whether they know another means of raising hold of this source of income; and last, first and foremost, the nationalization of railroads, telegraph, and the like means of railroads, telegraph, and the like means of railroads, telegraph, and the like means of railroads, telegraph, and the like means of railroads, telegraph, and the like means of railroads, telegraph, and the like means of railroads, telegraph, and the like means of railroads, telegraph, and the

A wealthy citizen of San Francisco named Wilkes has secured a divorce from his wife on the ground that she had been plotting against him for encouraging the Blood family contrary to his father's wishes. He accordingly lobbied several of them. The other fled.

The trial of twenty-four socialists and others charged with conspiring to violate legal secret societies has just been concluded at Posen, Germany. Nine of them were convicted, sentenced to various short terms of imprisonment.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
CATTLE	$4.00	@$5.20
Hogs—No 1 White	5.50	@ 5.60
No. 2 Red	.93	@ .94½
CORN—No. 2	.39	@ .39½
OATS—No. 2 White	.36	@ .36½
PORK—New Mess	10.00	@10.25
CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00	@ 5.20
Good Shipping	4.60	@ 4.85
Common	3.50	@ 4.00
HOGS—Packing and Shipping	5.30	@ 5.45
Butchers' Weight	4.35	@ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.83	@ .83½
No. 2 Red	.85	@ .85½
OATS—No. 2	.30½	@ .30¾
No. 2 White	.32	@ .32½
No. 3 White	.30	@ .30½
RYE—No. 2	.59	@ .60
BARLEY—No. 2	.65	@ .66
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.29	@ .31
Fine Dairy	.20	@ .21
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.09½	@ .10
Full Cream, new	.11½	@ .12½
EGGS—Fresh	.11½	@ .12
POTATOES—Per bu	.35	@ .40
PORK—Mess	10.12	@10.25
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.79	@ .79½
CORN—No. 3	.38½	@ .39
OATS—No. 2 White	.32	@ .32½
RYE—No. 1	.58	@ .59
PORK—Mess	10.25	@10.37½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Cash	.83½	@ .83¾
CORN—Cash	.40	@ .40¼
CLOVER SEED—Cash	4.40	@ 4.45
DETROIT.
BEEF CATTLE	4.50	@ 5.12½
HOGS	5.40	@ 5.50
SHEEP	4.25	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.85	@ .85½
CORN—No. 2	.41	@ .41½
OATS—White	.31	@ .32
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.82	@ .83
CORN—No. 2	.40	@ .40½
OATS—No. 2	.31	@ .31½
PORK—Mess	10.00	@10.12½
LIVE HOGS	5.00	@ 5.25
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Best Shipping	5.00	@ 5.25
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.42	@ .42½
HOGS	5.60	@ 5.65
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEF CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.00
SHEEP	3.25	@ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.82	@ .82½
CORN—No. 2	.38	@ .38½
OATS	.29	@ .29½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	5.00	@ 5.25
Fair	4.50	@ 4.60
Common	4.00	@ 4.25
HOGS	5.35	@ 5.65
SHEEP	4.75	@ 5.50

BILLY KISSANE.

Interesting Incidents in the Life of a Somewhat Remarkable Man.

His Adventures in Cincinnati, New York, Nicaragua, and California.

It is now about sixty-two years since "Billy" Kissane was forced to remember the distress of a poor Irish family. Exactly how or when he crossed the Atlantic has not yet been made public, but somewhere in the '30s he turned up in Canada. He did not stay there long, for within the next decade he made his appearance in Cincinnati. It was at the latter place that "Billy" Kissane acquired in the pick-and-shovel school of Martha Washington and collect an enormous insurance upon a fabulous cargo of lard and other freight shipped on barrels and hogsheads, from Cincinnati to New Orleans, was burned near Helena, Ark., on the night of January 14, 1862. There were eighteen lives lost, but enough of the cargo was thrown overboard and saved to expose the fraud. That had not cost such a horrible loss of life, and Kissane and his associates, who had planned the scheme, had arrested and tried in Ohio for their share in the transaction. As no jurisdiction over a crime committed in Arkansas and Kissane was carried to Helena. There the prosecution fell through for want of funds after several cartridges had been made to kill Sidney C. Burton, the principal witness against the prisoners. Kissane was next heard of in New Orleans, where in August, 1862, he was arrested, convicted, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the Chemical Bank of that city. He was pardoned at the close of the law in Helena and falling into them there, he came to New York and then Cleveland, Ohio, where thirty-four years ago he married Miss Ann Jane Hogan. The couple lived together five months, when he left for Chicago, and taking up plates of $1 and $5 bank notes were almost exactly in the same place he remember him by. The deserted wife produced a marriage certificate and secured $1,000 alimony, which she put in a bank in her own name, which she kept. Her husband, a daughter of Mr. Hogan, died in Chicago. She has never seen her father, but if the Michigan Legislature should be so generous as to bestow on her long-lost husband, a daughter of Mr. Hogan, it is said that she

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

"The United States Maimed Soldier League," located at Philadelphia, a concern asking for contributions to assist in procuring legislation, is said to be a swindle. Ex-soldiers should be on guard.

THERE are seventy-four more furnaces in action in the United States on the first of this month than on the corresponding date of 1886. At the present rate of production the output of pig iron for the current year will exceed that of 1886 by nearly one million tons.—Mining Journal.

THERE was a bill pending in the legislature for revising the charter of Saginaw City, and was being urged by Milo H. Dakin the representative from Saginaw district. April 19 was made the date for the hearing of the matter before the committee. Dakin informed some of his constituents who were in Lansing on that day and who were anxious to have the bill pass, that in order to get it through he would have to have some money to use among his brother legislators. One of the gentlemen to whom he made requisition was Frederick L. Eaton of Saginaw City, a brother of our townsman J. Milo Eaton, and at once Mr. Eaton inquired particularly regarding the members who would need to be "seen" in order to insure their support for the bill, and the amount of money that would be required for the purpose. Dakin gave him the names of several with the amount that would be required to influence each member set opposite his name, on a slip of paper. He supposed that Eaton would raise the money among the Saginaw City parties interested and turn it over to him to be applied in the manner indicated. Instead of doing this, Eaton sent the criminating piece of paper to the speaker of the house, with a sworn statement setting forth what Dakin had said to him regarding the advisability of using money among the members to get the measure through the legislature. This uncorked a big sensation in that body, and Dakin will probably be impeached and expelled on his own statement in relation to the matter.

His explanation is that he had no intention of bribing any of the members whose names he gave Eaton, but meant to give them a "feast" and furnish them with a little money to spend for drinks and cigars, in the expectation that they would reciprocate the friendly attention when the bill entrusted to his care was put upon its passage.

From Dakin's statement and that of Eaton, it is plain that he has no just conception of the dignity and responsibility of his position as a member of the legislature.

A committee of investigation was at once appointed who, on the 21st made their report, which consisted of informal charges against Dakin. This report was accepted and the trial set for Tuesday of this week.

Additional Local.

Wilson.

The roads are quite muddy.

A fine shower of rain fell on Friday evening.

The mill did not run last week.

We notice that Henry St. John and Perry May of South Arm, and Dugald McMillan of Echo, are helping in the mill this week.

The special election of supervisor is to be held on Monday, May 2.

Quarterly meeting will be held next Saturday and Sunday. Elder May of South Arm will conduct the services.

We understand Jake Roberts is going into gardening on a large scale this season. That is where you should get your nice fresh vegetables.

Harry Hudkins and Olive Smith took a trip to Boyne City last Sunday to bid good-bye to friends about to go to foreign lands.

Elder May held a prayer and praise service at Milburn Healey's on last Wednesday evening.

"Ye scribe" was recently presented with a candy heart, with "do keep still" inscribed thereon, by one of the boys who frequent these parts. After that pathetic appeal, we will "keep still" about him, unless he dies, or—or gets married.

Thinks it is Too Large.

The Charlevoix JOURNAL has been enlarged to a six column quarto paper. We wish it success, but fear that the step is taken a little premature. As a general thing, a small folio paper, well gotten up and neatly printed, gives better satisfaction to the public than a blanket sheet, besides giving the publisher a better recompense for work and time expended.—Muscelona Herald.

Presents a Neat Appearance.

The Charlevoix JOURNAL has been enlarged from a five to a six column quarto, and presents a neat appearance.—Frankfort Times.

"At Home" Days.

The fashion of "At Home" days is gaining favor rapidly with those who once condemned it as formal and oppressive of genuine friendliness. The woman who engraves the name of a certain day, afternoon or evening, on her visiting cards as the time when she is ready and glad to receive calls, says, in effect, that she appreciates the desire of her acquaintances to see her; sets too high a value on their time and here to risk the loss of a visit. She furthermore, marks her recognition of the duty of hospitality by resigning a stated portion of the week to the performance of the grateful task. Her visitors are never doubtful as to the chances of inconveniencing her or of finding her within doors. She belongs, by choice, on that day to all who will come, and, being prepared to receive them, will be disappointed if they stay away. Any one, except a very intimate friend, is guilty, however unwittingly, of impertinence in presuming himself at any other season unless by especial permission. People who have never taken the pains to think twice of this view of the subject have a way of saying, "Let me call sometime when I can see more of you—have you all to myself; I hate reception days." Our mistake was Frederick L. Eaton of Saginaw City, a brother of our townsman J. Milo Eaton, and at once Mr. Eaton inquired particularly regarding the members who would need to be "seen" in order to insure their support for the bill, and the amount of money that would be required for the purpose. Dakin gave him the names of several with the amount that would be required to influence each member set opposite his name, on a slip of paper. He supposed that Eaton would raise the money among the Saginaw City parties interested and turn it over to him to be applied in the manner indicated. Instead of doing this, Eaton sent the criminating piece of paper to the speaker of the house, with a sworn statement setting forth what Dakin had said to him regarding the advisability of using money among the members to get the measure through the legislature. This uncorked a big sensation in that body, and Dakin will probably be impeached and expelled on his own statement in relation to the matter.

His explanation is that he had no intention of bribing any of the members whose names he gave Eaton, but meant to give them a "feast" and furnish them with a little money to spend for drinks and cigars, in the expectation that they would reciprocate the friendly attention when the bill entrusted to his care was put upon its passage.

From Dakin's statement and that of Eaton, it is plain that he has no just conception of the dignity and responsibility of his position as a member of the legislature.

A committee of investigation was at once appointed who, on the 21st made their report, which consisted of informal charges against Dakin. This report was accepted and the trial set for Tuesday of this week.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

The Detroit base ball club opens the league season at Indianapolis, on April 28.

Col. D. B. Ainger, of Charlotte, was appointed adjutant general by the governor on the 23d.

The Evening News says that a Lansingburg man has three daughters and a dog that chew gum!

Reports show a decrease of 250,943,000 feet of pine lumber on hand April 1, as compared with last year.

Rev. W. G. Puddefoot has resigned the pastorate of the Congregational church at Traverse City to take effect July 1st.

Mr. Dudley G. Stone, of Negaunee, has invented and patented an auto-car coupler, which has many meritorious features.

The straits of Mackinac are free from ice and the fleet of grain steamers are leaving Milwaukee and Chicago for Buffalo.

It is stated that the Antrim Iron Company at Mancelona expect to work 30,000 to 40,000 tons of iron ore the coming season.

The good people of Finching have raised $1,000, with which they propose to prosecute every violation of the liquor law in that village.

The Evening News says the corner stone of the big Bardeen paper mill at Otsego was laid last Tuesday with appropriate ceremonies. A special train took over 100 people from Kalamazoo to the scene.

The business men of Cheboygan propose to have a branch of the G. R. & I. from Levering, if work will accomplish it. They have authorized a committee to wait on the officers of that road to that end.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor & Northern Michigan road last year earned $880,251.01, of which $47,113.38 was profit. It built 45 miles of road and opened 71 miles, giving it a line from Toledo to Mt. Pleasant, 171 miles.—Evening News.

The Petoskey Democrat donned a bright new dress of type last week, of more modern cut than its old one, and considerable smaller body, increasing the capacity of the paper for more news by a large per cent. Bro. Guinon evidently proposes to hustle his neighbors some if they keep up with his procession.

Adolph Stimmer, an employe at the Mancelona furnace, went to the residence of A. Henry last Wednesday evening and struck him with a club. Henry struck his assailant with an ax, crushing his skull and probably fatally injuring him. It is probably a case of self-defence, as Stimmer was intoxicated.

Cadillac is one of Michigan's enterprising towns. The Express says: "The establishment of an electric light plant in this city is now an assured fact. Upwards of sixty business firms have agreed to become regular patrons." It is proposed to have the machinery located and in readiness to operate within the next sixty days.

David Preston of Detroit, died suddenly Sunday morning at his home. For a long time Mr. Preston has suffered from poor health, but during the winter he has been much better, and worked hard for the amendment from its submission until the polls were closed. He was one of Michigan's most honorable citizens, and died at the ripe age of sixty years.

Mrs. Bouchard, of Oscoda, bought a piece of land from the Smith & Fryer lumber company, and believing that she could do what she pleased with her own, began the erection of a building to be used for a saloon. There is a stipulation in every deed made by the Smith & Fryer company that in case any liquor business is attempted on the premises they will revert to the original grantors. The company notified Mrs. Bouchard that they would claim the property if she violated the conditions of the purchase; and the saloon will not be built.—Evening Journal.

A year ago the business men of Traverse City, thinking to advance their interests by a united effort, asked the G. R. & I. railroad to give them its best figure from Chicago, and promising, for a reasonable reduction, to receive all their goods by rail. The railroad company made a reduction, the bargain was consummated for a year, and it made a most disastrous season's business for the "City of Traverse," the steamer which ran weekly trips between Chicago and Traverse City. This season the boat will be run on another route, which forces the wily merchants to patronize the railroad and the interstate commerce bill, whether they want to or not.—Evening News.

Judge C. C. Fuller has brought suit against the Big Rapids Herald for alleged libel, and lays the damages at $10,000. The alleged libel grew out of the fact that Fuller ran on a stump ticket for judge at the late election, and the Herald charged that he was circulating bogus tickets, his name being on five or six different tickets, including that headed democratic, on which D. F. Glidden was the regular nominee, and who was being heartily supported by the Herald. We trust that the Herald is not guilty in manner and form as the said plaintiff hath in his said declaration alleged, and that it will be able to so prove to the satisfaction of the court.

An Enterprising Journal.

We notice the Charlevoix Journal has recently been enlarged from a five to a six column quarto, and is much improved in general make-up and appearance. As an enterprising journal, sound and reliable, brim full of energy and spice, typographically bright, and always newsy, the JOURNAL is rapidly coming to the front.—Leelanaw Enterprise.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has tried Boschee's German Syrup to let the wonderful qualities be known to their friends in earlier consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can say it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and generally cure in one week. We feel it to be our duty and pleasure to recommend it to the public. Sold by all druggists in recommend it to the public. Sold by all druggists in recommend it to the public. Sold by all druggists in

THE ROMANCE OF A POOR YOUNG MAN.

BY W. B. A.

I.

Full many a time, in the days gone by,
I have passed my hand over my cheek—
My cheek once so soft and so ready to blush—
To try "Do my whiskers look?"

And if I felt roughness I straightway lied
To the mirror, which, with a face and soap,
Would cunningly stop the lie.

But, alas, those old days are for me passed
Far by;
The thought makes me nervous and weak—
I haven't a dime in the world at last,
Yet my whiskers continue to be—

Yes, yes—it is driving me slowly mad—
Strange gaming (with sinners) eclipse
Great poverty, and with the closest of luck—
They, crazy, you whiskers lack?

II.

And oft, in the times when I knew "what was
Was right,"
When all the world seemed at my beck,
On leaving the barber's I'd shout, "Stop, fellow!
Stop, mister, please give us yer check!"

And little I thought, in those moments of wealth,
When I'd silver and bills by the peck,
That the time might arrive when the barber
Me
Would himself wait around for a check.

But, alas and alack, I am down on my luck—
A most sad lot, I ween—
And, to-night, at the doorway, I heard my own Mother
Saying, "Sir, may I ask for your check?"

UNITED IN DEATH.

BY W. A. PHIL.

"Well," said Tom, in reply to my repeated and imperative request to be told how it happened, "if you must know, I will have to ask you to go back in mind to the little but glorious old Green Mountain State, and to go some dozen miles out from Montpelier, into the township of W. You know the lay of the land well, so it is an old fishing ground of yours. As you pass through, or skirt, the huge boulders of the 'Devil Land' you suddenly come to an opening, and a view of a beautiful lake, from which the land recedes in a gentle, smooth, rising slope or elevation, till a mile away it reaches big, bulky basically covered with timber. Seven miles away or so, you are near the lake and cross roads, at which place a very pretty white church and school house is built. Coming out of 'Devil's Land' and coming down upon this lovely valley, it certainly reminds one of paradise, or a vale of happiness, peace and plenty.

"On the right end of the lake lived good old Deacon Lyman, who was a pillar of the church, and, indeed, needed a pillow during sermons. He farmed his broad acres, dotted on his 'doorbed' stock of cattle and sheep and Morgan Hitchhawk horses; his granary was full, as was his pocket-book and bank account. He lived in the old green stone house built years ago by his ancestors; he was comforted and blessed with wife, two sons, and a daughter of seventeen, and this daughter was lovely as a pink rose, and good as she was beautiful. She was a complete puzzle to the old Deacon—a puzzle he could not solve with his hens and hawes, or "according to one hoss rules of hit." She was just as great an enigma as ever was produced in the woman line. It was a sore puzzle, as well as a sore spot in the old Deacon's heart; he fretted more and more about her. And not unconscious of this Ethel parried the arrows of her life, learning all the musical accomplishments and biblical lessons with astonishing rapidity. Her biscuit and bread were of the whitest and lightest, and if they tickled the old Deacon's 'taster' and purified his stomach to such an extent as to allow him to doze and snore in his easy chair in the corner in the chimney, her music would startle him from his semi-conscious state with the belief that he was entering heaven's gate and being welcomed by angelic music. He was often found in the library gazing at the old painting of one of his lady ancestors, to whom Ethel bore a strong resemblance. After looking long at this portrait he would turn away muttering, "I feel, oh, I fear! not one who ever bore that face has escaped a hell-fire!"

"About half a mile east of the old Deacon's lived William Harrington. You know that large brick house with immense red barns? He also was proud on 'thorbred stock and large sweet pea sugar; he also owned a saw mill and sent thousands of dollars worth of lumber to market. He farm joined Lyman's, even to the mountain top. He had two daughters and two sons; his two daughters had married the Deacon's lawyer—so as families were by these ties closely united. Harrington's eldest boy, Willie, was a tall, good-looking boy, an excellent specimen of a son of Vermont. He was the best student in the township, a fine scholar, a good worker, and level-headed. The Deacon often consulted Major Harrington in regard to his sons Ethel, but to this arrangement the lady and the Major strongly demurred. Let there was an excellent understanding between the two. Joe I have told you just how things were up to 1860 and now—

"Now double begins," said Sandy.

"Shut up, sir; or I quit. No interruption. Wait, understand? The war broke out, I came, and with it the Grand Social and Scriptural Plan at the church for the benefit of the township poor, and pay for preaching. Rehearsals were going on, and afterward brave men and beaming women walked homeward, enjoying the New England winters mom, and crisp, invigorating atmosphere. It was amusing to see the coquetry between men and girls in their desire to be Ethel's champion on the homeward walk. They gathered around her by the dozen; her admirers were many, and she graciously gave to each a recognition. Well, things had come to a pass that an intruder was wanted to polish up the vocal in the chorus, etc. A letter was dispatched to Elder Peabody, to see if he could be been received. Deacon Lyman was in the Montpelier turnpike looking at his maple orchard, but now set mouthly meditating about the scandal and its outcome, and why Elder Peabody did not answer his letter in a good, upright Christian manner, should, when there came to his ears the words of a song that sends a thrill through the veins to the heart of every New England man, especially a Vermonter. In this instance the Deacon's pipe was dropped, and his ruddy face paled and eyes flashed. His blood seemed to boil beneath his heart in the clear, peculiarly sweet voice came floating on the breeze to his ears. The words were sung with an emphasis, an unctuous intonation, never dreamed of by the simple-minded yet shrewd Deacon. The singer drew near and called to his young three:

"Others may seek the western climes;
They may be happier far;
That sunny are its laughing skies,
And soft its balmy air;
We'll linger round our childhood's home
And sing our native lay;
And sleep content beneath the sod
Where
Hurrah for old New England, say.

"This is our own, our native—

"Hello, old boy! What the deuce's the trouble? Weeds? Fetch us yes fair Wife pull hair?

"Yes, the song had struck a chord in the Deacon's composition that brought tears like rain from his eyes. He walked away, and dried his eyes with his 'checkered cloth' and hurried off to the back corner, who was a tall, broad-shouldered young man, with a very dark complexion, piercing black eyes, curling black hair, and white, even teeth. He (anything) introduced himself as Lawrence Leydham, sent down by Elder Peabody to instruct the amateurs, etc., taking part in the socialne. In a half hour he had good-humoredly integrated himself into the graces of the Deacon, and in a half hour more was installed in the Lyman mansion as a guest. In twenty-four hours he had fallen deeply in love with Ethel; in forty-eight hours he was down on her slyly at the close of the successful socialne he proposed—and was rejected, and he laid the cause of his defeat to Will Harrington, who, all the day before successfully hunted and killed a bear, and was the hero of the Corners, and praised greatly by sweet Ethel. The next day an encounter took place between a Will and Mr. Leydham; it was said Leydham drew a knife upon Will; however, Leydham was badly whipped and left town, threatening to get even and that revenge was sweet.

"Again the Corners settled down to its old time sleepiness, and was not disturbed till the awful news of war and call for men to defend the Union. We all responded. Our company was full to a man, and waited for acceptance. I will pass over the parting, which is said to be so sad, yet so sweet. Everyone left with God's blessing and loving prayers, except Ethel's lover, who, I was informed, had parted with vows of love and lasting fidelity, and I honestly believe Will then got his first kiss.

"Well, to continue this recital, let me suppose a couple of years have passed. You find us a tough lot of humanity. We are rough, sunburned, full of jokes and droll ideas; we are cooks, chambermaids, etc.; we have battle marks upon us, and lead in our bodies; danger and battles have become a pastime; life is a fleeting vision; we do not take the trouble to solve or bring into thought as a reality it is simply possessed to-day, lost to-morrow. Will Harrington has been our First Lieutenant for eight months. Over there in Company B, we found Lieutenant Leydham. In many ways he did meanness to Will, and he often warned Will that Leydham only sought a good opportunity to do him a fatal injury. Will would not listen. His frank, honest disposition and fearless nature scorned all meanness, and he avenged others by his own manly generosity. You know our Colonel, and what a fanatic he was in way of getting up theatricals, by doing the composing and hero biz himself in his Immortality.

"From Death arises still more precious Life?"
So says the poet, and his lofty word
Is true and strong as is the Word of God.
It finds an easy door in every heart,
Where hope and love are cherished as one.
With this conception man cannot believe
That death life annihilates, and, as leaves fall,
His spirit, too, will vanish into nought,
In dark annihilation lost and gone.

So man, nature, and science join to teach
That nothing vanishes when once had
The form may change, the inner being Lives:
The germ, the living force, must still survive.
And, as man's mortal frame doth change
And passes,
Just never vanishes, so does the soul of man
But pass and not vanish.

For, since no thing can perish in its germ,
Man's spirit cannot die. It still must live.
Eternal life is his. The sun may fade,
And heavy Time may falter with his years;
Still fresh and fair, man's life of life remains
The same.
The stars will pass away, but to man's soul
The war of inner auty still shines on
From life to life, a luminous intelligence,
Forever and forever.

—Frederick Gerhard.

ETCHING,

A Visit to the Studio of an Artist—The Tools He Works With and the Effects He Produces.

On the top floor of a high brick building, which fronts one of the largest squares in the city, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, is the studio of an etcher whose name on an artist's proof is a sure guarantee that the subject is worthy a place in any salon. There is something characteristic in the home of every artist—something which enables even a casual observer to classify the occupant at once. So the first glance at the room in question leaves no doubt in the mind of a visitor that it is inhabited by a man devoted to art. The hardwood floor is covered with rugs; the walls are lined with unframed pictures and plaster of Paris models; the panels of the door and the larger pieces of furniture are decorated, to correspond, and in the center of all stands the easel.

It is to be observed, however, that the easel does not occupy the principal place in the room. Indeed, it may be said that this alone constitutes the chief difference, in the general appearance, between a painter's and an etcher's studio. The painter executes his work on a piece of canvas, stretched over a frame, and placed on an easel. The etcher does his work on a heavy copper plate, placed flat on the top of a table. Near at hand are a set of sharp-pointed steel tools, etching ground, spirit lamp, a twisted lump of "wall-wax," burnisher, and roller.

On a certain rainy night the writer was seated in a comfortable chair in this studio. Crackers, cheese, and beer, unfailing accompaniments of an artist's quarters, occupied a conspicuous place on a heavy oak table. The air had begun to turn blue with smoke from the pipes, when the etcher, to answer the innumerable questions which had been asked, said:

"Let me give you in a connected story the history of an etching from the time the copper plate is placed in position for work until it leaves the hands of the printer. In the first place the copper plate is thoroughly washed with turpentine, or better, with benzine, for the former is a little too thin. This is to remove any grease. The plate is then heated, commonly by burning under it heavy paper, or if the plate is a large one, by a spirit lamp. It is heated to such a temperature that water will roll off in globules. When the plate is sufficiently heated a preparation known as etching-ground is applied. This is a composition which comes prepared in the shape of a round ball, about the size of a black walnut, and is made of asphaltum, beeswax, and oil of lavender. This composition is carefully tied up in silk, and through this silk the etching ground oozes or as the phrase, where it is laid with a roller. After the ground is applied and has sufficiently cooled it is smoked, in order to give the etcher a black surface on which to work. The smoking is done with a twisted wax taper, candles, or in fact with any substance which will produce the desired effect. When the plate is laid the ground is perfectly hard. So much for the first part of the process; that of preparing the plate.

"The etcher is now ready for work in earnest. He takes a drawing, which, of course, may be original or a copy, and etches the design on the plate before him. If he wishes to take special pains with his subject, which is usually the case, he does not copy the drawing directly on the plate, but takes an intermediate step. Over his drawing he fastens a perfectly hard transparent gelatine compound, and with his stabbing point etches the drawing on this, exactly on the principle of the transparent slate in our nursery days. The gelatine plate is removed, and presents a rough and scratched surface. It is lightly scrubbed, but so lightly that the indented lines are not disturbed or effaced. These lines are filled with a soft chalk. The gelatine plate is then reversed and placed on the etching ground of the copper plate. A burnisher is applied, which transfers the chalk to the etcher's form or upon the plate. This the etcher has a perfect outline of the drawing on the plate on which he is to work. In this way he is guided in his task, and his work is expedited.

"The etcher now begins to use the tools of his trade, each of which is known as an 'etching point.' With these instruments the subject is again etched, this time on the etcher's ground. Where the etcher wishes to obtain the dark effects fewer lines are etched and are made further apart to enable them to stand a longer 'bite' by the acid. Of course the acid bites into the copper plate only where the ground has been scratched through the etcher's ground by the original point. If the plate on which the artist is at work is a small one, it is placed in a pan and the acid is then poured on. If, however, it is a large one, there is put around the edge of the plate what is known as a 'frame of wax-wax,' in the corner of which is placed a spout for conveying in pouring off the acid. The first application of the acid is weak. It is then clean and delicately. It leaves the sky lines, the distance lines, and, in general, the better part of the picture. After these lines are bitten in, the acid is poured off, the ground washed with water, and then the parts which the artist does not want to have longer acted upon by the acid are covered with a 'stopping-out varnish. The next application of the acid is stronger, in order to obtain the heavier effects. So the artist continues stopping-out one place after another until the plate is sufficiently bitten, and until he has rescued the foreground. When the entire plate has been sufficiently bitten, or, in other words, when the picture has been etched into the copper plate by means of the acid, the wax wall is removed and the plate thoroughly cleaned with benzine. Now he can go to the printer and see what he has. If some of the lines prove too heavy, a little instrument known as the burnisher will reduce them. The lines can even be run out entirely. If the lines are not strong enough, a new resisting ground can be put on wherever desired and the changes made.

"When the last touches have been completed the plate is sent to the publishers. The publishers send it to an electrotyper to have a steel face put on. This is done to protect the plate, which would otherwise soon be worn out on the press. The operation of electrotyping the plate is so delicately done that when needed the picture which it prints could not be distinguished from the picture printed before the operation by the original copper plate. The finest lines are coated; lines which are hardly visible to the naked eye, and which originally have the appearance of a hair.

"The beauties of etching are explained in many ways. I think, however, that the special adaptation in the hands of an artist is to enable him to give to the public, not to one person, something of his individual work, something which has the charm of a sketch, yet which can be produced to any extent. For instance, an artist sketches a landscape. It is impossible for more than one person to own that piece of work that is, there is but one copy. There can possibly be but one. Now the etching enables the artist to give his sketch to the public in just the mood in which it was made. For, instead of marking it on paper or canvas, he has made it on a copper plate, from which it can be indefinitely multiplied.

Washington and the Sculptors.

Washington had constant applications from persons who wished to write his life or paint his portrait. There was a sculptor, named Wright, who undertook to get a model of Washington's face. "Wright came to Mount Vernon," so Washington tells the story, "with the singular request that I should permit him to take a model of my face, in plaster of Paris, to which I consented with some reluctance. He oiled my features, and placing me flat upon my back, upon a cot, proceeded to dash my face with the plaster. Whilst I was in this indurious attitude, Mrs. Washington entered the room, and, seeing my face thus overspread with the plaster, involuntarily exclaimed. Her cry excited in me a disposition to smile, which gave my mouth a slight twist, or compression of the lips, this is now observable in the busts which Wright afterward made."

A more successful sculptor was Houdon, who was commissioned by Virginia to make a statue of Washington. He also took a plaster model, and the fine statue which he made stands in Richmond. A portrait painter, named Pine, also paid a visit to Mount Vernon about this time with a letter from one of Washington's friends to whom Washington wrote during Pine's visit:

"In for a penny, in for a pound,' is an old adage. I am so harassed to the patience of the painter's pencil, that I am now altogether at their beck, and sit like patience on a monument I wield day and delineating the lines of my face. It is a very tedious business, and, I think, may be done much easier. At first I was as impatient as the painter, but I submit under the operation as a cob is at the sadiron. The next time I submitted very reluctantly, but with less fumming. Now my dispositions are reality to the full than I do to the painter's exact. It may easily be conceived, therefore, that I yielded a ready assent to your request, and to the views of Mr. Pine."

—Horace E. Scudder, in St. Nicholas.

Peculiarities of Holstein Milk.

1. It takes the cream longer to rise than it does from the milk of other breeds.

2. Holstein milk is more dense and does not sour as soon as other milk; hence this quality is particularly valuable to the animals and cheese manufacturer.

3. Holstein milk is remarkably rich in caseine, the cheese basis; hence for the production of cheese it has no equal.

4. Holstein milk is rich and has a good body even after it has been skimmed.

Some of my friends who are breeding Jersey cattle may question these statements, as they claim Holstein milk is thin even before the cream is taken off. How do they know? Not one Jersey breeder in a hundred ever owned or milked a Holstein cow. I make no war on Jersey cows, as they are good for butter, but I do know that many of the assertions made by Jersey breeders regarding Holstein milk are not true. I know whereof I speak, as I have made tons of Holstein butter and cheese. I know the appearance and nature of Holstein milk when it is first taken from the cow; also after it has been skimmed; and for family and general dairy purposes it has no equal. Not one drop of the cream has been taken out of Holstein milk it is not blue and thin, like the skimmed milk from Jersey cows, but is still rich in caseine, and is of superior quality for raising calves and pigs.

Origin of an Odd Name.

A citizen of Tidioute gives this explanation of the odd name of the town: The first man who had a cabin here in the year 1745 had a daughter. She had a pet owl. One evening the old man shot the owl by accident, and when the girl heard of it she fainted and the old man thought she was dead. At last she opened her eyes and whispered: "Oh, pa, did he hoot?" He was so delighted with the girl's recovery that he named the place after the first words she spoke and that gradually was corrupted into its present form.—New York Tribune.

Scorpions, spiders and various insects were formerly observed to be medicines. It is a pleasant question, whether they in a vertical sense.

THE SACRED TENT OF WAR.

The Gift of an Indian Tribe to the Peabody Museum.

The eighteenth and nineteenth annual reports of the trustees of the Peabody Museum of American Archæology and Ethnology to the president and fellows of Harvard College, have just appeared together in one handsome pamphlet. Among the articles added to the collections in 1884 was a contribution of great interest and value, secured by Miss Alice W. Fletcher, as a result of her remarkable self-sacrificing ethnological researches among the Omaha Indians in Dakota. This is nothing less than the contents of "The Sacred Tent of War" of the Omaha tribe, given by the tribe as a proof of their earnestness in adopting a new life, abandoning their tribal system, and taking up lands in severalty as citizens, according to arrangements by the government. As Prof. Putnam says, one must enter fully into the inner reverence of Indian thought and customs in order to appreciate the great importance of the trust the museum has in its perpetual keeping, for it is composed of objects which, for generations, have been held sacred among the Omahas.

Miss Fletcher thus characterizes the collection in a letter, in which she gives the patriotic speech of the chief in presenting it:

"The sacred tent of war was vital to the autonomy of the tribe. Without it, war and chieftainship were impossible. It gave rank to the tribe among other tribes, and caused the Omahas to be feared as enemies and consulted as friends. The power of all the keepers of the sacred articles is without a parallel. The binding of a people by sentiment signs and symbols of authority, without any iconoclasm, but with the sober appreciation that it was for them upon the people, wherein they have no part or place, marks the depth of the hold possessed of men having extraordinary degree of mind and character. To our own race these ceremonies may seem strange, trivial, or forbidding; they are certainly objectionable to our thoughts, but they have a significance which tells of courage and self-sacrifice. These noble traits lie at the base of the act that has gently laid these articles among the historical remains of the Indian race; a race of the past, whose only future lies in the hopes of our American citizenship. To-day as Mahin-thin-gaw came to put his sacred things out of his keeping and into the care of the museum, I could not but wish that his brave and unique act might find its worthy place in history. In a low voice he said: 'These sacred articles have been in my family for many generations, no one knows how long.' My sons have chosen a different path from that trodden by their fathers. I had thought to have these things buried with me, but if you will care for them and place them where they will to think of the past and the way that fathers walked, you may do so. Should there come a time when I care to look once more on that which has been to my fathers, I would like to be permitted to do so. I know that the members of my family are willing I should commit these articles to your keeping. Our ponsons have a right to question my action, though there are men who will say hard things of me because of this act.

"It was late in the afternoon when we reached Mahin-thin-gaw's house. The sun had set. The old man was sitting alone outside his dwelling in the twilight, with his pipe in his hand, ancient belongings of his gens. On one side of him was the tent in which we gathered them for delivery, and, lifting them into the wagon, said with quiet haste: 'They are all there, and nothing away. We, too, turned and left as the moon rose and silently rose over the valley.'—Boston Herald.

The Kaiser Years Ago.

This is how the veteran German emperor appeared many years ago, when he was prince of Prussia. It was Capt. Chamier, of the British navy that gave him the description. "He was a 'Willemeier,' he wrote, "I found a miserable-looking, dirty vehicle driving to the door, from which descended a young man, with another of more mature age. There was a servant who looked nearly as poor as his masters, and who handed out a carpet-bag which seemed the working material to the lot. The first two went into the modest public room, and at one end of the long table were soon enjoying what in England is called a substantial tea; the servant swaggered, and of course was better fed. He was not disposed to dispose himself of the master in accord, he was evidently somebody, this servant—and very soon, unable to contain within himself the honor of his position, informed my courier that his master, the young man, was the prince of Prussia. I never saw a more modest and agreeable-looking young man in my life. At 4 in the morning, without in the slightest manner disturbing the inhabitants of the inn, and paying a bill of about 15 francs, this active prince continued his journey. Here was an example well worthy of being followed. There was no foolish ostentation, no encouragement for plunder, no overbearing importience, but the manner and conduct of a thoroughly nobleman and a careful gentleman."

Some Startling Figures.

What startling results one finds in our railway statistics! We have 340,000 miles of track—enough to girdle the earth a dozen times, with several thousand miles left for side-tracks. More than half of these lines have been laid down at a cost of $6,000,000,000—enough to pay the public debt four times over. There are 50,000 engines, 50,000 passenger-carriers, and a million freight-cars, and over 4,000 patents have been taken out for inventions in railway machinery and appliances. Every year 300,000,000 tons of freight are carried. For moving this freight the companies receive an average of 1.29 cents per ton per mile, and for each passenger carried they get 2.35 cents per mile. It requires a half-million employes to run all these roads, and yet it is only fifty-six years ago the 28th of August that Peter Cooper ran the first steam-car from Baltimore to Ellicott's Mills at the unparalleled speed of a mile in every four and a third minutes!—Baltimore American.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Pease on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1885, made and executed a mortgage to William H. Hine to secure Six Hundred and Fifty Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents, which said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of nine per cent per annum, was on mortgage made recorded in the office of register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1885, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 384, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said William H. Hine to William J. Hipp, by assignment, dated the 2d day of January, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1884, in liber 2 of assignments of mortgages, on page 384, and was assigned by said William J. Hipp to William Hipp, by assignment, dated the 2d day of January, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1884, in liber 2 of assignments of mortgages, on page 384, and was assigned by said William J. Hipp to William Hipp, by assignment, dated the 2d day of January, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1884, in liber 2 of assignments of mortgages, on page 384, and whereas, the sum of Six Hundred and Fifty Dollars and Twenty-Nine Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents of interest, and the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars as an attorney fee, provided for in the foreclosure of said mortgage, in the sum of Six Hundred and Twenty-Five and Four Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents ($706.25) principal, interest and attorney's fee, is due on said mortgage at the date of this notice, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt, or any remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage, or any part thereof, or to foreclose said mortgage, or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that the undersigned, assignee of said mortgage, will foreclose said mortgage, by sale of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with the interest and attorney fee as aforesaid, and costs and expenses, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover the debt, or any part thereof;

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The failure is announced of George Clark, a millionaire land-owner and hop-dealer of Springfield, New York. There are $200,000 in judgments standing against him.

Old "Spot," the horse which Gen. Kilpatrick rode in his famous expeditions during the war, died at Dorkerson, N. J., a few days ago. He was 33 years old.

A paper-mill boiler at Paterson, N. J., blew up, injuring twenty persons.

Orders have been issued to the Police Captains of New York and Brooklyn to rigidly enforce the Sunday-closing law.

"Dr." Levi Wilson, who is widely known through his famous suit against Philip L. Moon, the barbed-wire manufacturer of Worcester, Mass., attempted suicide in his rooms at a Providence hotel, by taking laudanum. Medical assistance was quickly summoned and his life was saved. Wilson's wife recently began divorce proceedings against him, and refused to allow him to see his children. This greatly depressed Wilson, and is the probable cause of his act.

The Vosburg Manufacturing Company's building at Brooklyn, N. Y., was burned, creating a loss of $200,000.

WESTERN.

Sam Jones and Sam Small began revival meetings in the Exposition building at Minneapolis Min., last Sunday. Over three thousand people attended the first meeting and hundreds were unable to enter the building.

Details of the disaster wrought by the recent cyclones in the West and Southwest indicate that the loss of life was much greater than first reported. The storm ragged a strip of territory about 500 miles long and from half a mile to a mile wide. A tornado in the vicinity of Mount Carmel, Ill., caused $50,000 damage to property. John H. Wirth and Lewis Scretchin, were killed, and Harvey Eigee, two sons of a Mr. Hutchins, Miss Maggie Wirth, and Mrs. John Keller were seriously hurt. James H. Knott and Scott Sellers were killed by a cyclone which passed near Marshfield, Mo. Great damage was done to property. The small village of West Plains Texas, Ind., was seriously wrecked, only two houses remaining uninjured. In Evansville dispatch says that a small black cloud suddenly appeared in the west, moved east, and when directly over the farmhouse of Leonard Stansbury it expanded with a terrific force, and what appeared to be a ball of wind attacked the house with terrific fury, tearing off the roof, turning out one section of the house, and playing havoc generally. Leaving the house, it tore down the cattle fence and then died away. There were no rainfall or lightning with the cloud-burst.

The Indians in the Winnebago and Crow Creek Reservations are said to have put on war-paint, and preparations for a war time they have been holding war dances and singing war songs.

Chicago elevators and vessels contain 13,693,081 bushels of wheat, 12,538,415 bushels of corn, 1,745,065 bushels of oats, 141,687 bushels of rye, 24,442 bushels of barley; total, 27,626,161 bushels of all kinds of grain, against 16,125,637 bushels a year ago.

A five-story brick building on Dearborn street, Chicago, occupied by Schwendt & Lee, manufacturers of gold leaves to printers' supplies, was completely gutted by fire. The loss on building and stock is estimated at $125,000, insurance, $60,000.

The Chicago Daily News, commenting editorially upon the verdict in the Schwartz-Watt case, recently tried at Morris, Ill., says:

Within forty-eight hours after the Sioux City murderers were found guilty in Grundy County, Illinois, a verdict was rendered commands the respect and confidence of every intelligent person who has read the evidence in the trial. The case was much more complex and obscure than that submitted to the Sioux City jury. The evidence was purely circumstantial, and involved a mass of testimony which, if true, proves conspiracy two weeks and a half in duration, and the defense was conducted by the ablest lawyers. The state was unwise in selecting the jury out of upward of two hundred individuals, because it put the character of the community from which they were selected on trial. Nevertheless, the ability of the State and her fearless and able prosecuting attorney challenges, while the defense failed to expose a single flaw in the evidence. There was no prejudice or bias for or against the accused. The jury, from the first, seemed to be wary. When the verdict came it was sure and true were sworn both prosecution and defense to abide by that verdict rather than the evidence would be rendered. With unswerving patience Hanna and Wilson, and Mr. Scott and Inderwood for fifteen days to the testimony of 100 witnesses, and then, with a patience and intelligently the evidence of each, and at the close they had arrived at a positive conviction of the conspiracy of Schwartz and Watt in the murder of Kelloggs Nichols. The many causes of doubt and confusion which arose in the course of the conspicuous judge of the trial made upon these men a lasting impression of their ability to faithfully discharge a sworn duty, resting upon minds advice to the sacredness of the law and free from angry testimonials upon the one hand and sympathy with the criminal upon the other, and the conscientiousness, concentration and fidelity to their verdict is more than the avenging of Nichols' murder. It is a victory of the moral sentiment which dominates the community in which they live.

SOUTHERN.

At Rolling Fork, Miss., hailstones larger than hens' eggs fell for fifteen minutes, riddling the roofs of houses and stripping trees of their foliage.

John S. Blaine, an army paymaster, brother of the Maine statesman, died at Hot Springs.

The rains in Western Texas, by filling the dry channel of the Brazos River, brought the greatest rise in twenty-a man of cattle carcasses that threatens to cause disease.

The Apache captives taken from Arizona to Florida, numbering 450, are about to be transferred to Mount Vernon barracks, Alabama, not far from Mobile. Geronimo and several others will continue to work at Fort Pickens, under guard.

WASHINGTON.

President Cleveland appointed Edward F. Bingham, of Ohio, to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ch.of Justice Carter. Judge Bingham was born in New Hampshire in 1829 and moved to Ohio in early life. He has for the last three years been Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas for the Columbus district, and in 1881 was the Democratic candidate for Congress in a district which has been for a permanent Republican majority of 2,000.

CIRCULAR.

Circuit Judgeship, to which Judge Jackson was appointed last year.

President Cleveland has mitigated the sentence of dismissal against Major F. W. Benteen, of the Ninth Cavalry, to suspension for one year at half pay, on account of long and faithful service.

A Washington special says: "There are some indications that a proclamation of non-intercourse with Canada, on the basis of the Edmunds bill, is regarded as possible. While Lord Salisbury's latest proposition to extend the provisions of the Washington treaty without the indemnity clause is considered almost as a modest proposition the cause of its carrying with it the fishery clause which was not included in Secretary Bayard's temporary arrangement, it is demanded in Toronto as an unworthy surrender of Canadian interests. The conclusion is therefore believed to be inevitable that non-intercourse will first have to be proclaimed, to be followed, as is anticipated, by a joint commission to adjust the matters in dispute, which was the course originally recommended."

POLITICAL.

The New York Assembly has passed a bill to permit bettor on race-tracks, 5 per cent. of the gross receipts for admission to be paid to the State Comptroller, to be disbursed for prizes on the stock.

The Illinois House has passed a bill to prohibit idiots, insane persons, and inmates of prisons from marrying.

The Democratic primaries in Kentucky point to the choice of General Buckner as a candidate for Governor.

President Cleveland's Private Secretary has sent out a denial of the story that the President would not under any circumstances be a candidate for re-election, and some of the President's friends even go so far as to say that he not only wanted an indorsement of his administration, but was willing to that end. Ex-Lieut. Gov. William Dorsheimer said that the President recently wrote a letter declaring that he would not be a candidate for re-election, but its destruction was secured by the personal appeal by Mr. Dorsheimer.

William J. Vickery, of Indiana, has been appointed as fourth assistant examiner in the Patent Office; Henry C. Morgan, of Arkansas, has been appointed chief of the reception division in the General Land Office; Robert Kemp has been appointed storekeeper at Chicago in the First Illinois District; Thos. G. Raames, Postoffice Inspector on mail depredations at Portland, Oregon, vice Pinkerton, the President has appointed these Postmasters: Michigan—Grassville, Charles L. Moore; Manistee, James Dempsey, Sr.; Iowa—West Liberty, Thomas F. Mickel; Nebraska—Norfolk, Charles B. Durland; Sterling, Chas. C. Ellis; West Point, Mary O. Sullivan; Wahoo, Charles J. Harrison.

Col. Dorsheimer denies that he has seen a letter from the President positively declaring to be a candidate for a second term.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The New York manufacturers of gold and silver have locked out all their employes who are connected with the Knights of Labor.

A manufacturing firm in Cincinnati has arranged with the employes a plan for Mutual Benefit Association, which will hereafter work nine hours per day. The engineers of Detroit threaten to strike unless a reduction of wages. The closing of the stove foundries at Cincinnati means idleness all summer for several thousand men.

The Knights of Labor organization in New York is threatened with disruption, the immediate cause of the trouble being the refusal of the Executive Board to give the Knights of the Montauk District charter. Other districts have taken up the fight, and the result of it all will be, it is said, that 100,000 men will leave the order. The printers have taken sides with the Montauks in the quarrel. Silver manufacturers in the East have notified their men that it will be their turn the order. The lock-out of the journeymen silversmiths in New York still continues.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The St. Paul Road has made special arrangements with the Signal Service Department for frost warnings from May 1 to Oct. 1 each year for the special benefit of tobacco and cranberry raisers along its lines.

The Illinois Central Road has let a contract for a new depot at Kansas, to cost $8,500,00.

The Kentucky Central Road has been sold for $1,505,500 to parties interested to represent C. P. Huntington.

Robert Garrett, after stating that negotiations with the Pres ayndicate are almost completed, remarked that the combine of the Jersey Central, Reading, Lehigh, and Pennsylvania Roads rendered it necessary for the Baltimore and Ohio to build from Philadelphia to New York, with Staten Island as the terminus, for which purpose he had been authorized ample capital.

The Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad has, it is reported passed into the hands of Sidney Dillon.

Barnum has settled his suit brought against the Grand Trunk Railway Company to recover $100,000 for the loss of the elephant Jumbo. He will receive $5,000 in cash and his circus will be transported over the road this year for nothing.

REGULATING THE RAILROADS

Congressman Payson is alleged to have said that the railroads appear to have captured the Interstate Commission, the same as they capture everything.

E. M. Herrick, President of the Pacific Fast Lumber Company, and J. C. Williams, President of the Redwood Manufactured Lumber Co. of San Francisco, have telegraphed the Interstate Commerce Commissioners as follows: Our two corporations, employing 5,000 to 10,000 men, and about $20,000,000 capital, have addressed you by wire stating that our Eastern business has been entirely destroyed by the operation of the law, and asking your interposition at our behalf. Meanwhile will you allow us roads over which we have been operating to give old rates, and so revive our business with the East, provided the rate is once to all?

The manager of a Chicago manufacturing house, in a letter to the Interstate Commission, complains that he is now compelled to pay his fare, whereas formerly he rode upon a pass. He also that section 22 as amended by the Chicago & Northwestern Road.

Mr. Tarbell presented a communication to the Interstate Commission, from Solon O. Cadwalader, setting forth that the action of the transcontinental roads toward the shipping interest via Cape Horn has been of the most violent nature. They had started every effort to annihilate the shipping interest of the country. They had taken the long-haul traffic at a loss, which they must make up from charges on the short-haul traffic. Complaints against unjust discrimination and excessive rates were received from several dairymen of Orange County, New York, and milling firms of Atchison, Kan. J. Scarles, Jr., representing the Eastern sugar refiners, entered a protest against granting the petition of the Western refiners. He recited the history of the Hawaiian sugar trade, and showed how, by a combination with the railroads, San Francisco refiners could by this foreign commodity down in New York at prices their Eastern competitors could not meet. Ralph W. Thatcher, a miller of Albany, N. Y., told the Commission he had a contract for certain favorable terms of transportation, under which he had built an elevator. The Delaware and Hudson Canal Company refused to carry out the contract since the interstate law went into effect, and his business was in a stand-still. He wanted an order directing the company to fulfill its contract. A "sufferer" from Mankato, Minn., writes that for the last five years the people of that vicinity have been paying their fares to the conductors, instead of to the railroad company, because the conductors have experienced a change of heart, and are charging schedule rates, evidently fearing the effect of the new law. He asks the aid of the commission for a return to the old system. James, Batman & Co., wool merchants of Philadelphia, in a letter protest against suspending Section four as regards transcontinental lines. They say the protests against the section come from parties who have been enjoying great benefits from cut rates, and believe the case of wool. Last year San Francisco merchants had a rate of 20 cents per 100 pounds, while parties several hundred miles nearer had to pay for it a $1.75. There is wool, they say, now in Philadelphia, grown in Montana, which the railroads forced to be sent there via San Francisco, at a transit of a 4,000 miles, while if shipped direct it would have traveled only 1,000 miles. The object of the discrimination was to give the San Francisco merchants an opportunity to buy wool at prices they cannot afford to.

Hotel proprietors in Chicago are complaining that the interstate commerce law is working serious injury to the hotel business.

The operation of the fourth section of the interstate commerce law has been suspended for seven days due on the Northern and Southern Pacific, Atchison, and St. Louis and Texas roads.

A Washington special says the Canadian Pacific is carrying sugar from the Pacific coast to St. Paul at rates less than prevailed on American lines before the order of suspension.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Queen of the Hawaiian Kingdom, accompanied by a train and a number of high officials, reached San Francisco April 20. The royal object of the Queen's journey is to attend the jubilee celebration of Queen Victoria at London.

Lieut. John W. Danenhower, the Arctic explorer, committed suicide at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

The secession of the province of Nova Scotia from the Dominion Confederation is again strongly agitated.

The total amount of trade dollars redeemed to date is 5,040,000.

The Legislature of Ontario, by a vote of 52 to 28, adopted a resolution of sympathy with Irish home rule, and regret that coercion is about to be resorted to.

The constitutional amendment allowing two months' vacation annually, passed the Mexican House of Deputies, and now goes to the Senate, where it will probably be passed without debate. This is said to be the creation of Diaz.

The National Council of Administration of the Grand Army of the Republic has adopted resolutions approving of the order of General Pershing requesting posts not to make an official expression of opinion on the subject of pension legislation by Congress.

Canon Wilberforce and wife have arrived at New York from England.

Henry Cowles, the late member of his paper, the Standard, says he was the first person to tell David, Dillon, and Parnell about the Phœnix Park murders. He got a telegram from Dublin concerning the crime, and showed it to them.

Immediately made what haste I could to the Westminster hotel, where I found Parnell showed him the telegram. Stunned by the tidings, the report, we all of us, went to Parnell's room out of doors and getting far more exercise than he had ever had before. Yet, although he seemed to be in the best of spirits, he was the last man in the world always been one of the most methodical of men, and he always got on his hat.

Three weeks ago Mr. Mitchell and Dr. Kenny left Dublin, proceeded to Cork and, and going immediately to the Hoffman House, two days later Mr. Mitchell completed of feeling unwell and developed fever. Dr. Kenny, who had been received and was able to go down town, although the foreign condition returned at intervals. His son, John L. Mitchell, who had been in the meantime, and with his son and a friend, Mr. Arnold Mr. Michael Davitt sing at the Metropolitan Opera House Valley on Sunday night, sitting in the front of the box with Parnell and Mrs. Parnell. Mr. Mitchell fore the last act he complained of illness and left his seat. He said the weak was he when his carriage reached the hotel that he had to be assisted to his room, that he had never felt his bed. Dr. Edward Brady, an eminent physician, found that he was suffering from a malarial trouble, with a slight pneumonia, from which he failed to rally. He died at 5 o'clock on Friday Monday evening and Lever recovered consciousness. Death resulted from asphyxia, caused by bronchial pneumonia.

Alexander Mitchell was born Oct. 18, 1817, in the Parish of Irlton, Aberdeenshire, Scotland. His father was a farmer, and the early days of the boy were spent on his father's farm. He was educated at the Grammar School of Aberdeen, and then went into a bank at Peterhead, and remained there until he came to Milwaukee in May, 1839, when, in company with his father and his brothers, John and Hugh, he opened a Banking and Fire Insurance Company, an institution which, in the fifty years of its existence, has never failed to pay its creditors in force. The bills of this company were in great demand throughout the Northwest, and had for many years, yet despite the times of financial stringency, not a bill issued by the company has been presented for payment. It is said that the deceased was worth $10,000,000, and that he had been

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

After three days of trial, and argument by six counsels the house of representatives by a vote of 83 to 11 declared Milo H. Dakin, the member from Saginaw county, whom we mention last week as having had charges found against him, guilty of corruptly soliciting money with which to procure the passage of the Saginaw charter bill, intending to convert the money to his own use. By a unanimous vote of the house, they found him guilty of making a list of the names of members with figures showing the amount to be paid to each for securing the passage of the bill. And by a unanimous vote Dakin was expelled from the floor and debarred of all the rights, privileges and duties of a member of the house.

One legislature has been in session over four months, or something over one hundred and twenty days, at an expense of from $1,000 to $1,200 per day. And judging from the number of bills introduced, and the amount of business already disposed of, the session will last several months yet. What have the people received at the hands of this legislature to show for this enormous outlay of money? Would it not be wise to pay our representatives a fixed salary for services whether the session be long or short? This would tend to shorten the sessions, and make legislation less expensive. Representatives in the Wisconsin legislature are paid a salary and although they have only bi-ennial sessions as in Michigan, it adjourned some twenty days ago with the two years business completed.

Lieut. John Danenhower, of Arctic fame, was discovered in the morning of the 20th, dead in his quarters at the Naval Academy, with a bullet hole in his right temple. He was found on his rug with a tag tied to his button hole saying: "Send to my brother at Washington." Lieut. Danenhower's career was eventful, and his sufferings on the ill-fated Jeannette Arctic exploration are even now fresh in the public mind. He was born about thirty-seven years ago in Illanois, and entered the naval service in 1866. He was attached to the United States steamer Vandalia during her cruise in the Mediteranean in 1876-7 when Gen. Grant with his family was on board, and visited the Holy Land. His wife, formerly Miss Sloan, was away with her parents in New York at the time of his death. Not the slightest doubt is felt at the department of his insanity when he committed the act which caused his death, as he was very happy in all his domestic relations, and future prospects were of the brightest.

Courting in New Jersey.

A writer in the Brooklyn Eagle tells of a rich experience he enjoyed on the Pennsylvania road a day or two since:

A woman of prodigious size sat in front of me, and beside her was a small, rapt, and nervous man. He had a pair of big, staring eyes, that looked as if they might pop out of his head at any moment, and his beauty was further enhanced by a straw-colored chin whisker, very narrow and very long. He pulled this constantly with one hand, while he glared up at the mountainous woman beside him with rapture and devotion. The harder he pulled the whiskers the more the eyes bulged out. His companion looked over the vast and billowy expanse of herself that rolled between them and down into the bulging orbs with an expression of loving affection. This went on until the train reached Newark. Then he lifted his thin left arm and attempted to place it on the back of the seat. As she lapped over the seat several inches in all directions, this was impossible. He held his arm up by sheer muscular strength for a time, and then boldly lifted it and allowed it to rest upon her neck and shoulder. Whereat she smiled with elephantine coyness and confusion. By the time the train arrived at New Brunswick, where I alighted, their noses were not an inch apart; he was glazing at her harder than ever and tugging fiercely at his whiskers, and she was gazing faintfully downward, while the passengers grinned delightedly at one another.

What an Actress' Maid Should Be.

"The duties of an actress' maid" was the remark of a trim little lady yesterday who had advertised for a maid. "Why that's something curious to make a newspaper article about. Well, an actress' maid must be a maid of all work. She must know a little of everything, and one thing in particular, she must have some knowledge of dressmaking. A good maid in this respect is worth her weight in gold to an actress. She is a regular money-saver. You see it requires a vast outlay for an actress to carry a full wardrobe of part dresses, and a good maid knows just how, by making an alteration here and there, to adapt a costume to two or three parts, and be able to change them back again. Then a maid must have some idea of hair dressing, and rightly what will make her employer appear more effective.

"She must be able to tell her mistress whether 'make-up' is correct. By this she means that con tusion of grease, paint and powder that adds to the appearance of an actress when she appears before the footlights. Aside from this she must keep a careful eye on the effects of her mistress, and see that they do not go astray. A good maid is a jewel generally very hard to find, and valuable accordingly. They are paid all the way from $20 to $50 a month and expenses."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Popular Drink.

"Koumiss is fast becoming the popular drink with Brooklynites who have large families of children," said a local druggist recently to a reporter. "Koumiss is made of cow's milk with the addition of a little sugar. It is highly essential that the milk should be fresh and pure. It is said that koumiss is a great cure for dyspepsia. Within a year a number of companies have been formed in Brooklyn for the sale of the beverage. An excellent formula for the preparation of koumiss was furnished some years ago. Here it is:

"Fill a quart champagne bottle up to the neck with pure milk; add two tablespoons of white sugar after dissolving the same in a little water over a hot fire; add also a quarter of a 2-cent cake of compressed yeast. Then tie the cork on the bottle securely and shake the mixture well; place it in a room of the temperature of 70 to 80 degrees Fahrenheat for six hours, and finally in the ice box over night. Drink in such quantities as the stomach will require. It may be well to observe several precautions in junctions in preparing koumiss, and they are: First, to be sure that the milk is pure; second, that the bottle is sound; third, that the yeast is fresh; fourth, to open the mixture in the morning with great care on account of its effervescent properties; fifth, not to drink it till it there is any curdle or thickened place resembling cheese, as this indicates that the fermentation has been prolonged beyond the proper time.

"The above formula, I think, is the best for preparing koumiss. Dyspeptics find much relief in its use. I sell almost as much on drought as soda water. If prepared in a certain way koumiss will keep for a long time. It has a delicious taste, and is, I think, the best of all the summer beverages."

"From what is the word koumiss derived?"

"The word and the drink originated in Asia, and is largely in use by the tribes of that country. The Tartars make it of mares' milk, which ferments into liquor which is very palatable. Koumiss, as made in this country, certainly gives great relief in all stomach troubles, as it is so easily assimilated."—Brooklyn Eagle.

How To Remove Hides.

A paper devoted to the leather trade gives the following directions: In taking off a hide or calfskin, never cut the throat crosswise in the least. Slit the skin from the brisket to the tail, and from the brisket to the jaw; then cut around each leg to the hoof. Slit the hind leg from the hoof up directly over the gambrel, and the forward legs in the front, directly over the knee, to the top of the brisket bone. This leaves the hide or skin then in the proper shape for finishing. Skin the head and legs carefully to avoid cutting them; then, commencing at the head, draw or fist off the skin without any further use of the knife, thereby avoiding the holes and cuts that almost spoil so many calfskins. Some farmers use a windlass to draw off the dairy skins, and others use a horse; but one or two men can do it a great deal more quickly and easily. When taken off, lay the hide or skin flat on the floor in a cool place, where the sun can not shine upon it, and cover it with salt—rather fine salt being better than too coarse salt. Do not roll it up, but let it remain in the salt until you take off another; then place that one upon the other, salting freely as before, and so on until you get enough to make quite a pile; then commence another pile in the same manner. Do not be afraid to use salt freely; what the skins do not require will shake off and can be used again. If you prefer to dry out your skins before selling them be sure that they are thoroughly cured with salt before drying them, and then that they are thoroughly dried before being baled up for shipment. Never dry out a skin without having it salted as described to preserve it from moths and other injuries on the hair side, which are liable to occur if the skins are not properly salted before being dried out. If your skins remain on hand very long after being dried out before delivery to the tanner, even if salted, watch them carefully to detect any indications of moths or worms on the hair side, and if any are discovered have the skins vigorously whipped with a stick so often they shall be wholly eradicated from the entire lot of skins, as they often work serious injury in a very short time.

Too Many Railways.

There are, it is said, about 125,000 miles of railroad in this country, much more than there ought to be. It has often been asserted that 1,000 people are required to support a mile of road, and we have more than a mile to every 500. In no other land are there anything like so many railways, and they have all been built within 56 years. In 1830 there were 23 miles of road; in 1840, nearly 3,000; in 1850, 9,000; and in 1861, 30,000 miles were in operation. In the past 15 years more roads have been built than were built during the previous 49. Railroad building is irregular. We overbuild for a while, and then a reaction ensues. In 1882 we built 11,500 miles; in 1883, 7,000 miles, and we are at present building 4,000 or 5,000 miles a year. The average cost of construction and equipment of a railroad is $50,000 a mile. The value of railway property in the United States is enormous—about one seventh, it is said, of the entire property of the republic. The excessive building will no doubt continue. Many persons predict that at the close of the century we shall probably have 250,000 miles. It scarcely seems credible, but it may be, nevertheless. The trouble is that paralleling continually goes on. The men immediately interested in the construction make money, and do not care a fig for the stockholders and the general public. Enterprise is often another name for downright swindling.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

By the present out look of the Lake Superior trade for the coming season, the Sault canal will be taxed to its utmost capacity.

Several hundred men are hard at work cutting out the right of way to Minneapolis & Sault Ste. Marie road between the Soo and the Mackinaw road, and operations will be under way all along the line within a few days.

The Bellaire Breeze says: The Breeze received forty-eight cords of wood on subscription during the past winter. Did any of our brothers do as well? The Manceloua Herald replies: A mighty small thing to brag over. We had 148 cords promised.

Down in Cass county last week four men went fishing contrary to the statute in such case made and provided, and on their return the game and fish warden was after them, and it cost $82.10 in fines to settle the matter. Fish are rather expensive in Cass county.

Work on the extension of the T., A. A. & N. M. railroad between Mt. Pleasant and Clare was commenced Monday at both places. Iron will be laid and an engine and train put on this end before long.—Clare Democrat. It is expected that this road will be extended to Grayling where it will connect with the Detroit, Charlevoix and Escanaba R. R.

Last summer Daniel Hadley killed the husband of Etta Taylor, at East Claire, Berrien county, in a fight. The widow instituted a suit against Henry Messenger, a saloon keeper in East Claire, and his bondsmen. The case was tried at the circuit court in Berrien county last week resulting in verdict for the widow of $2,875.

The liquor dealers of Houghton and Hancock show their respect for law and decency by promising to keep their shebangs closed until noon on Sundays, and stop business at 11 p. m. daily. Inasmuch as the law says no liquor on Sunday and closed bars at 10 o'clock p. m., the concessions made by the traffickers will be appreciated.—Evening Journal.

The steamer City of Traverse will leave Chicago next week Saturday for Traverse City, arriving here on Sunday night. This boat has been thoroughly rebuilt from stem to stern $40,000 having been expended upon her during the past winter. The wooden arches have been taken out and steel ones put in thier place. The boat is in fact in the best condition she ever was. Her time card appears soon.—Traverse Bay Eagle.

Gen. Innes has remarked that if he Grand Rapids papers had boomed their town like the Minneapolis and St. Paul papers do their towns, Grand Rapids might now have 100,000 inhabitants, and the Grand Rapids papers have promptly, aptly and pithily replied that the people of Grand Rapids should boom their local newspapers as the people of the Minneapolis cities do theirs. Gen. Innes hit the nail, surely enough, and the papers hit the nailer.—Evening News.

Two carloads of whitefish, each containing 3,000,000, left Detroit last week for Oscoda and Sand Beach. Two cars are now kept constantly busy by the state commission in planting from the Detroit hatchery. It is feared by Supt. A. J. Kellogg that the ice at Cheboygan and Saginaw Bay will prevent the commission favoring those points this spring. Some 35,000,000 fry yet remain in the hatchery, and 12,000,000 a week is the most that can be placed—Free Press.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railroad Co. issued a circular the first of May wherein it agrees that all employes, officials, except president, who shall have served the company five years shall receive a dividend based upon the amount of their salaries for the previous year. If an employe or officer be disabled in service and remains unfit for duty six months, he will receive a certificate of stock to the amount of his previous year's salary or wages. In case of death his heirs will be given a certificate of stock equal to five times the yearly salary. Every official or employe voluntarily resigning will receive stock equal to the last year's salary paid him.

A Canadian Dog Story.

A lad was crossing the fields in the country, some distance from any dwelling, when he was pursued by a large and fierce dog belonging to the gentleman whose land he was crossing. The lad was alarmed and ran for his life. He struck into a piece of woods and the dog gained on him, when he looked around to see how near the creature was, and, tumbling over a stone, he pitched over a precipice and broke his leg. Unable to move, and at the mercy of the beast, the poor fellow saw the dog coming down upon him and expected to be seized and torn when, to his surprise, the dog came near, and, perceiving the boy was hurt, instantly wheeled about and went for that aid which he could not render himself. There was no one within reach of the child's voice, and he must have perished there or have dragged his broken limb along and destroyed it so as to render amputation necessary if the dog had not been right help. The dog went off to the nearest house and barked for help. Not receiving attention, he made another visit of sympathy to the boy and then to the house, there making such demonstrations of anxiety that the family followed him to the place where the child lay.—Canadian News.

Shipments.

April 23—Steamer Lawrence, 4,000 ties, Emrey Bro.'s, to Chicago.

25—Schr. Mecaskigbird, 2,100 cedar ties, 2,000 branlock ties, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

26—Schr. Jennie L. Green, 125 cords wood, Geo. Burnham & Sons, to Milwaukee.

29—Schr. Cascade, 100,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.

29—Schr. A. H. C. F. M., 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, John Wheeler, to Milwaukee.

29—Schr. Sea Gull, 2,300 cedar ties, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Milwaukee.

May 2—Schr. Fleetwing, 2,000 bushels potatoes, J. Lovejoy, to Chicago.

4—Schr. Eaglewing, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.

Bridge-tender J. S. Martin reports the number of times he has opened the bridge during the month of April as follows:

Steamers	12
Schooners	42
Small boats	8
Fish boats	20
Total	82

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and caves, and thousands of sums of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people live, living it up dreamily, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no reason for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Palpitation of the Heart, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. 1 eow1

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crouter can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and that are popular. Having the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs, we sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

Take your Butter and Eggs to Emrey Brothers. They pay the highest market price in cash or trade.

Wonderful Cures

Dr. G. W. Crouter, retail druggist of Charlevoix, Mich., says: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery Electric Bitters, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for six years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Emrey Brothers are selling a first-class Syrup for 40 cents per gallon. Try it.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192m4.

Whole Codfish 5 cents per pound. Boneless Codfish 8 cents per pound, at Emrey Brothers.

The feeling of weariness, so often experienced in the spring, results from a sluggish condition of the blood which Ayer's Sarsaparilla will quicken with the changing season. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by vitalizing and cleansing the blood strengthens and invigorates the system.

Emrey Brothers are retailing Boots and Shoes at wholesale prices.

Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic for correct, but gentle action of the stomach and bowels. Gentle, yet thorough in their action, they cure constipation, stimulate the appetite, and digest the organs, and strengthen the system.

Emrey Bros. will pay the Highest Cash Price for three hundred bushels of first-class sorted Potatoes.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Death a week passes but the mention by the newspapers of sudden death, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer we can give is that given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Mrs. Carrie Lee, Kenosha, Wis., says: "I don't believe any one ever suffered as rheumatism as I did and lived; in fact neither I nor my people expected to see me walk about again, and at times despaired of my life. I was stricken during the month of January. I had taken a severe cold in the cars on my way to Chicago; I had returned home, when one evening I was taken so suddenly that in a few minutes from its first appearance I was so prostrated that I had to be carried to my bed-room, where I remained until the following May. During the interval of January and May the suffering I bore could not be described. I was treated by the best physicians, also had different ones in consultation without any material change. My arms and limbs were drawn in such shape that I could not lie down, and was helpless to assist myself in any way. I was in the constantare of a nurse both night and day. One of the nurses I had applied magnetism, but that was a failure. I commenced taking Athlophoros, and could feel its effects upon me as soon as I commenced taking it. It was certainly marvelous. I was soon able to straighten my limbs, and when I had taken five bottles I was free from rheumatism."

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, which they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and Bilious diseases, dyspepsia, digestion, weakness, nervous debility, complaints of women, sick headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed Proposals will be received by the Highway Commissioner of the township of Charlevoix, for the repair of the protection to the iron bridge across Pine River, consisting of about 27 M. ft. of pine and hardwood timber, until 2 o'clock P. M. of Monday, May 16, 1887.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the town Clerk's office in the village of Charlevoix. The Commissioner reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Charlevoix, Mich., May 9th, 1887.

ROSWELL MUDGE
Highway Commissioner.

NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY is complete without the monthly visits and aid of the mother. Multitudes in the world devoted to the care of young children. We are glad to recommend it. (5 Beekman St., N. Y.) $1.50 a year; 15 cents a copy.

G E O. W. M I L L E R

G E O. W. M I L L E R

G E O. W. M I L L E R

I am not selling out, but I am selling all the goods I can; and if you will give me a call, I will convince you that I am selling better goods for less money than can be bought in this or any other town. The "I off" and "selling out" sales are getting old. All I ask is, give me a call for anything in the clothing line and convince yourself.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,

Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.

TERRACE FARM, - - CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

For Toilet Use.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, or faded, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, Ayer's Hair Vigor is prescribed for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is healthy, and is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. E. Fox, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

PERFECT SAFETY, prompt action, and wonderful curative properties, easily place Ayer's Pills at the head of the list of popular remedies for Sick and Nervous Headaches, Constipation, and all ailments originating in a disordered stomach.

I have been a great sufferer from Headache, and Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the only medicine that has ever given me relief. One dose of these Pills will quickly remove my headache, and free my head from pain.—William L. Page, Richmond Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising can be placed for it in NEW YORK.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 5, 1887.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

Advertisers are requested to hand in their favors before six o'clock Wednesday evening each week, to avoid the hurry of publication day.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

☞ Two or three good new milch Cows for sale cheap.
O. D. HILTON, Inwood.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Elegante Photos, $1 per dozen, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

"The hit bird flutters."

Rub Vigor on Winkle to-night.

Chas. E. See is clerking for Will See & Co.

Mrs. Partington to morrow (Friday) night.

Capt. Harrison Miller moved his family to Frankfort this week.

The melodious tones of Nicholls' mill whistle is heard this week

Will See our new village marshal an in four drunks last week Sunday.

William Ferguson completed his barn on Mason street this week.

Prof. J. B. Allen joined the railroad survey party yesterday morning.

Bert Jarvis, of Traverse City, arrived to-day on the Grand Rapids.

Lou Smith and Lewis Campbell of Petoskey Sundayed in Charlevoix

If you lose or find anything advertise it in the Journal. It will pay you.

Our street commisioner, Gurly Book is doing good work on the street this week.

Three act English comedy "Everybody's friend" at opera house Saturday night.

John Shrier has sold his house and lot on the south terrace to James Lindsay.

Gov. Buttars returned Saturday from his extended sojourn in southern Michigan.

Aldrich Sisters will receive an invoice of millinery goods of the latest styles, this week.

A corps of surveyors left Charlevoix Monday to survey the route of the T. & A. R. R.

The steamer City of Grand Rapids came into the harbor Monday on its first trip of the season.

Frank Craine left yesterday, for Cadillac, where he intends to make his home for the present.

The song of the whip-poor-will was heard last Sunday evening for the first time of the season.

The engine for W. A. & G. R. Brown's new steam yacht, the Beulah B., is expected here to-day.

Frank Wood advertises his bath rooms in large letters on the south wall of the Odd Fellows' hall.

A. T. Washburn & Co. display excellent taste in the arrangement of their new store. Call and see.

The heart of James Lawrence was gladdened Monday on the arrival of a little daughter at his house.

Fred W. Mayne was at Bellaire the fore part of this week attending the Circuit Court in session there.

The Lawrence loaded with cedar ties and posts at Carpenter, Bartholomow & Co.'s dock on Monday.

John Shrier and John Marshal have each purchased a lot on Mason's addition, and are building thereon.

J. A. Heath arrived Tuesday from Mackinaw Island, and today he returned, taking his family with him.

Prof. W. Brown and wife returned Friday from their visit east. They had been absent nearly three months

Geo. W. Cook is now acting agent for the express company, and at present has his office at Emery Bro.'s store

Mr. R. Brainard recently of the Petoskey Democrat, is in town, and gave the JOURNAL a pleasant call this morning.

Nelson N. White has been appointed Lodge Deputy of Charlevoix Lodge, No. 927 I. O. G. T. A good selection.

Captain Aldrich, of Charlevoix, is in town fitting out the steamer Faxton, for its season's business.—Traverse Journal.

The steamer Joseph Gordon made its first trip to Boyne on Monday. This boat has been rebuilt this spring so that now it is a very comfortable passenger boat, and seems to be just the boat for the Pine lake trade.

Miss May Todd, of Cheboygan, is visiting her sister, Miss Emma Todd, of Rosenthal's store, and will remain another week.

G. W. Miller's windows show some goods in the gents furnishing line, and they are arranged to show off to the best effect.

A. T. Washburn & Co. yesterday received an order to furnish carpets, curtains, sheeting, towels, etc., for the Belvedere house.

The Russell Family, comedy and specialty company, of Detroit, are expected to give an entertainment in Charlevoix early in July.

The cresting has been placed upon Amos Fox's new residence this week which is a great addition to the appearance of the structure.

Wm. Miller, formerly of Eveline, but now of Bald Knob, Ark., arrived Saturday, and is shaking hands with his many friends this week.

The North Star made its first trip to Charlevoix on Saturday. The boat has received repairs and paint this spring, and looks well.

W. H. Downer has purchased the winter products of the Smithson Lumber Company and will continue the business during the summer.

Will Dennis has returned to Charlevoix, and will be found in Jay Price's barber shop; he will also be found at his old place in the band.

W. P. Brown has improved his lot this week by setting several maple trees. This should be encouraged as it is one way of making a beautiful town.

The village marshall has given notice that the rude and boistrous lads must keep off the street in the evening or make less racket. And he means it too.

Ben Weaver has been appointed deputy register of deeds, which should be very satisfactory to the patrons of that office. Ben is an excellent officer.

There will be preaching by Rev. J. T. Iddings at Johnson's school house Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 12. And preaching at Black's school house at 3 P. M.

The two weeks series of gospel meetings under the lead of the evangelists, Harold F. Sayles, was closed on Monday evening with much good having been accomplished.

The propeller Van Raalte has received thorough repairs at Campbell's ship-yard, and looks all fine and fresh as she is expected to be ready to sail the last of this week.

Kenny Brothers, feather renovators, who were at Charlevoix last fall, have opened up in Jordan, and will soon be ready to take orders. Their work at Charlevoix was satisfactory, and we can recommend them to our friends up the lake.

Ed F. Carmelee of the Sentinel, has been appointed observer for Charlevoix county for the state weather service. Thermometric reports of the temperature at 7 a. m., 2 and 9 p. m. daily, are sent monthly to the headquarters at Lansing.

Thos. F Nelson has sold the East Jordan Enterprise to H. C. Miley, and has severed his connection therewith. He has been very outspoken in a paper in Kenosha, Wis., and left East Jordan last Saturday for that place. Our good wishes go with him.

Mrs. Francis Herson died at her home in Kalamazoo last week of consumption, after an illness of four years. Mrs. Herson is the mother of Mrs. William Cross of this place, who has the sympathy of her friends. Mrs. Cross by reason of sickness was not able to attend the funeral of her mother.

Advices from Capt. Jepson, of the Clara Bella, is that the repairs on the boat will be completed this week, and the boat will be here to commence the season's work on the Boyne route next Monday. The boat will leave here every morning and afternoon, making two round trips each day.

Thomas Nelson, late of the East Jordan Enterprise, has gone to Kenosha, Wis., H. C. Miley, late of the Boyne Citizen, has taken hold of the Enterprise, Theodore R. Chapin is now running the Citizen alone; Phil Badour has got the measles and a baby, and we wish them all good luck.—Boyne Falls Gazette.

The Lou A. Cummings will give an excursion from East Jordan, Ironton and Charlevoix to Petoskey and Harbor Springs next Sunday leaving East Jordan at 8 o'clock, Charlevoix at 10. Giving two hours at Petoskey and one hour at Harbor Springs. Tickets to Ironton 75 cents, Charlevoix 50 cents.

The Joseph H. Kean dramatic company, which appears at the opera house Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings of this week, come highly recommended by those who have seen the company play. Thursday evening, Rip Van Winkle; Friday evening, Mrs. Partington; Saturday evening, a three-act English comedy, Everybody's Friend, and Solon Shingle.

The McGibbeney Family, now in the west, will divide at the close of this season. Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGibeney will organize a concert company at the opening of the fall season. Miss Florence Smith, eldest daughter of the senior editor of this paper, has accepted a proposition to travel with them through the west, under the tutorship of her cousin, Mrs. McG. and her husband, in piano, cornet and vocal work. The first tour will be through California, Oregon and British Columbia, and will begin about Sept. 1st.—Sentinel.

Eveline.

Lots of wild flowers in the woods now.

Mr. E. G. Jarman is still getting worse.

M. J. Staley lost a cow on Sunday, April 24th.

Potatoes seem to be in great demand, at 40 cents.

Box's mill was busy last week sawing pine logs.

The Ironton boys played ball last Saturday afternoon.

Sunday and Monday were warm days, and very windy.

Mart. Staley's family are all able to be out again, after a long illness with scarlet fever.

We were pleased to see the little steamer North Star commence her regular trips last Saturday.

School in the Beers district opened last Monday morning, with Miss Anna Metealf, of Charlevoix, as teacher.

Mrs. Elias Hammond and children, of East Jordan, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Freeman, of this place.

It sounds good once more to hear the whistles of the boats on Pine Lake, which help to make business more lively.

Miss Mary Harris, who has been visiting in Ludington the past winter, returned to Ironton last week, where she has many friends.

A well 10 feet deep has been dug in the Lewis district. There is now four feet of water. Joe Trudgeon and Luther Hayden did the work.

A large number of our people went to the dock last Wednesday to see the Friant and Cummings as they passed on their first trip to East Jordan.

Last Saturday the Ironton free ferry was let to Robert A. Miller, at $1.05 a day, he being the lowest bidder. The bonds are fixed at $500. Two-thirds of the expense is to be paid by the county, and one-third by the township of Eveline. The committee from the board of supervisors to regulate it are Ava Smith and John Ward. The ferry commenced running on Monday.

May 3d, 1887.

Burgess.

The supervisor has finished making the assessment in this town.

Messrs. Saunby & Sayers will soon resume their butchering business.

Mr. Josiah Gibson has been ill for some time, and is failing fast.

The various grocery merchants in our town are doing a thriving business.

Rev. W. G. Clark is expected to preach at the Burgess school house May 13th.

The box social at Geo. O. Scott's was a financial success, and all present report a very enjoyable time.

Jack Saunby has his scows all painted and caulked, and is now ready for business. He has about 25,000 pieces ready for shipment.

Elder Horton, who preached in this vicinity last fall, and had such large and appreciative audiences, is expected here about the 12th of May, to hold a few meetings.

Barnard.

Beautiful warm weather the past few days.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely.

Susan Thorp has been very sick with inflammation of the throat, but is recovering under the treatment of Dr. Lewis.

Now is the time to make gardens.

Mr. Thomas Thorp had a plowing bee on Monday, and got a good job done.

One of our Best Exchanges.

The Charlevoix JOURNAL has been enlarged to a six-column quarto. The JOURNAL is one of our best exchanges, and we are glad to note this evidence of prosperity. Traverse Eagle.

Report of Charlevoix Schools for the Month ending April 29, 1887.

NUMBER ENROLLED.

First department	59
Second department	46
Third department	41
Fourth department	46
Fifth department, grammar section	39
Fifth department, high school	29
Total	261

NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	49
Second department	44
Third department	39
Fourth department	36
Fifth department, grammar section	29
Fifth department, high school	20
Total	228

DAYS ATTENDANCE.

First department	907
Second department	858
Third department	735
Fourth department	720½
Fifth department, grammar section	542
Fifth department, high school	358
Total	4,571½

DAYS LOST BY ABSENCE.

First department	46
Second department	26½
Third department	29
Fourth department	32
Fifth department, grammar section	16½
Fifth department, high school	14
Total	163

AVERAGE ATTENDANCE.

First department	45¾
Second department	41.9
Third department	36¼
Fourth department	36
Fifth department, grammar section	27.1
Fifth department, high school	26¼
Total	218½

ATTENDANCE, PER CENT OF NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	96¾
Second department	93½
Third department	98
Fourth department	98
Fifth department, grammar section	98¼
Fifth department, high school	98¼
Total	97½

CASES TARDY.

First department	23
Second department	17
Third department	2
Fourth department	3
Fifth department, grammar school	3
Fifth department, high school	1
Total	50

NUMBER OF PUPILS NEITHER ABSENT NOR TARDY DURING THE MONTH.

First department	14
Second department	15
Third department	15
Fourth department	19
Fifth department, grammar section	19
Fifth department, high school	15
Total	97

M. E. Church.

Prayer meeting for converts and seekers on Tuesday evening at 7.30. Do not fail to be present and take part in the meetings.

General prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30, lasting one hour. Come promptly. Everybody come. Teachers' meeting at 8.30 sharp. Let all the teachers be present.

On Sabbath morning a five minute sermon to the children immediately after the singing of the second hymn. Preaching by the pastor.

Sabbath evening Bro. J. S. Smithson will preach at the usual hour. All are invited.

W. H. MCCARTNEY.

Ellsworth.

Last Monday was a very warm day.

The muddy roads are drying fast.

L. Deline is drawing shingles from the mill to South Arm.

H. S. Beardsley, civil engineer, and J. S. Dixon reached here last Friday, from Charlevoix, on their preliminary survey of the D., C. & E. R. R., but we dare not express our feelings yet.

We are glad that the JOURNAL expressed its opinion so plainly last week in regard to the hotels, restaurants, and boarding houses being closed in East Jordan, and we understand that they are not yet open.

May 3, 1887.

East Jordan Hotel Keepers Explain.

East Jordan, Mich., May 2, 1887.

EDITOR JOURNAL,—In your issue of April 28, wherein you make the statement that all the hotels and restaurants were closed on account of the village council refusing to accept bonds for saloons, we wish to inform you that your information is not correct, from the fact that the hotels and restaurants were closed to the traveling public before the council had taken any action on saloon bonds; neither had there been any such bonds presented for their consideration.

WM. J. WEIKEL,
D. B. JERRUS.

Congregational Church.

Tuesday evenings, young converts' meeting.

Wednesday afternoon, Children's meeting. Sermon to the children every Sunday morning. Rev. C. F. Van Anken will preach, subject "Will I hold out?" In the evening Rev. A. T. Waterman, subject "The city of refuge."

Episcopal Church.

Divine service with bible study at Green's hall on Sunday next, at 3 p. m. Subject: Coming to Christ.

Question: How can an anxious soul come to Christ. Come and bring your bibles, and your children.

W. P. BROWN, Warden.

Evaporated Apples, splendid and cheap, at Emrey Brotherss.

SELLING OUT!

at

ROSENTHAL & SON'S

COME AND GET

Bargains.

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, borders, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

Where Shall I Buy my Carpet, and What Shall I Wear?

THESE ARE THE QUESTION

"OWED" TO SPRING.

BY BETTO.

Springtime is here with its gladness,
Bird music, balmy air and bright sky;
Hark! the merry-toned Italian organ-grinder,
Plays "Wait Till the Clouds Roll By."

Springtime is here with its grass,
Making all nature rejoice;
What pleasure, forsooth, the garden-truck vender,
Is vending the air with his voice.

Springtime is here with its pleasures—
"The song-birds" notes scarcely cease;
The gay book-beer sign, in unique designs,
Quite schoolmen at five cents apiece.

Springtime is here with its splendor—
Its glorious beauty enchants;
The street sprinkling cart has begun a new start,
Remaining ten-dollar spring pants.

Springtime is here with its verdure,
Its flowers and its foliage, too;
The circus appears, at least three years,
To gather spare dollars and dimes.

Springtime, loved season, you're welcome,
Welcome your pleasures and joys,
With sweet-scented flowers and "refreshing showers"
Base-ball clubs and bare-footed boys.

ALIVE AT HER BURIAL.

I.

From a boy, it was my steadfast ambition to be a physician; and the desire grew with my growth, and increased from the opposition with which it met at the hands of my friends and relatives. Early in life, as I have said, the profession seemed to me desirable above any other; not so much from the realization of its great usefulness as from a sense of its dignity, which is to me farto obtain over their fellow-creatures.

And sometimes, even while a mere child, precocious as I was, in reading the tales of enchantment which are often set before the young, instead of a feeling of awe and amazement, I actually entertained one of contempt.

"Magicians and genii, forsooth," was my thought, "whose business was only to invoke idle spirits! I can and will be a mightier magician than these!"

But, lest I should grow too digressive in these multiplying reminiscences, let me hasten to my narrative. Barely three years had elapsed from the first day of my association in my study, when I again emerged into the world, prepared to fulfill those dreams which haunted my pillow, dreams, not of wealth or love, but of power, of mastery.

I was well known in the community in which I took my stand, as the young man adjudged to scoff and sneer at my profession. At such, however, I could well afford to smile. My appearance, it is true, was boyish and unprepossessing in the extreme. I was barely twenty-two, and the pale cheek and restlessness of the eye, contracted by incessant application to books, which, at this time, characterized me, were not well calculated to win either confidence or faith. But as for myself, I knew that there was that within me which, sooner or later, would cause my name to be upon every tongue, and elevate me to the position to which I had long my genius merited.

And I was right. Commencing among the lower classes of the great city—for among those I was at first compelled to operate and practice—a rumor of the wonderful skill and knowledge which the "boy physician," as they were pleased to name me, was continually displaying, spread to the upper circles of its fastidious society.

And more, I assure the reader, this was the falsity of the rumors, and to crush out a new aspirant and a formidable foe, the cause of any better motive, I was one day summoned to the city hospital, on a difficult case that had arisen there. I immediately obeyed the summons, as an opportunity not to be neglected; and they conducted me to one of the wards, where all the professors of medicine were assembled from all parts of the city, and among them many whose renown had been acquired by a lifetime of laborious toil and study. One of these latter took my astonishment by the hand and led me to the couch where a poor sufferer lay writhing in the last convulsions of a dissolution caused by the effects of a most virulent vegetable poison. An involuntary and contemptuous smile went round the room as he did so.

"Here, my young friend," he observed, "is your patient. He is beyond our influence, but your extraordinary medical knowledge may perhaps benefit him. Proceed; you certainly cannot hurt him."

My blood tingled beneath this insult, which could not even respect the presence of death, but my time for triumph had now arrived. Assuming a coolness which confounded my professional brethren, I looked at my watch and observed:

"Gentlemen, in three minutes this man will have breathed his last, supposing, too, you will understand, that he remains under your treatment! But I am here; you have done well to call me, and if you will repress your prejudices and give me your assistance, I will show you a mode of procedure which you cannot learn from books."

Half an hour quickly elapsed, and at its expiration I stepped back from the bedside, triumphant in my victory, in secret—externally as cool and passive as before. Life, quivering in the balance, and tickering to extinction, had been restored beneath my hands; the feeble, fluttering pulse was quickened, the sluggish current of vitality leaped into renewed action, and falling upon his knees at my feet, the patient delivered himself my handkerchief, and hailed me as his benefactor.

I stared and bewildered beyond description, as they beheld my unheard-of treatment and its marvelous results, the faculty and all present remained dumb for a moment, and then, as their consciousness of my merits and superiority shamed them into generosity, the whole world rang with their enthusiastic plaudits, and, gathering around me, they confessed themselves vanquished, and strove with each other for the honor of taking me by the hand. Friendly, I gloried in this first public recognition of my genius; but, representing all outward manifestations of the feeling, I treated them with a cool severity which nonplussed and confounded them. Nor was the feeling unmixed with one of triumph. They the sage and venerable ones of the profession, forsooth! I had with all difficulty proved them to be tyros.

My name and fame were now established; the calls of the hospital were not strong enough to shut from the world the wonderful story of the scene they had witnessed. My name was mentioned with curiosity, with approbation, and with tearful blessing; men pointed me out to each other, and walked the streets, as the wonderful youth, whose experience had taught him unfoldedly deep expansive for his body. And, anxious that it might not be thought that my wonderful success hitherto had been the result, I labored day and night in the manifold duties of my profession, bringing every faculty of mind to bear upon each particular case, so that even a month had passed, since my advancement at the hospital, the whole city was ringing with my praise. The delicacy of luxury, which would have been barred against me as a humble individual, now eagerly opened to the physician, and soon all acknowledged my skill.

I gave myself time to rest or sleep; I hardly slept, I hardly rested, which I have devoted. I strove to give her a vivid picture of my life up to this time, speaking first of the one absorbing idea which had engrossed every faculty of mind, and how the passion of love had been first excited in my breast. When I had finished, she answered, and as I listened, emotion, to the utterance of that pure and spotless heart, I knew that I was beloved, not because I had preserved her from the grave, but because I was worthy to be loved!

The purpose of my narrative do not require that I should speak particularly of the year that followed the recovery of Edna. We were betrothed from that moment, and from that moment a new existence opened to me. I told now, not merely of fame, or to gratify myself by the exhibition of my power, but for the more substantial rewards of that toil which had already been mine were, I chose to take them. My success continued undiminished; more came to me at my command, and even Edna's father now looked approvingly upon our intimacy. The day had at length been set for our union; and as it drew rapidly near I experienced myself more and more in society of my betrothed, waiting expectantly for the time when it should be mine exclusively.

Long practice—perhaps, I should say extensive—had accustomed me to detect signs and symptoms, without my attention being called to the person in whom they appeared. And while sitting beside Edna one day, I fancied that I could perceive in her appearance some indications of delinquescion. In answer to my anxious questions, she confessed that she felt at all unwell, and then confessed to a sensation of lassitude, of physical weariness, which had already lasted several days. They seemed to be nothing alarming in this, but as several days more elapsed and I secretly noted that this weariness seemed to increase, I became more attentive. The symptoms seemed to portend nothing; my medical information, extensive as it was, suggested to me no certainty which could begin thus, and I was thoroughly puzzled to account all appearances from my mind.

The day came my intervened before that which had been appointed for our wedding. It had become a necessity for me to call upon Edna daily; and early in the morning of the day which is now referred to, I presented myself at the mansion. A Negro servant informed her mistress that I was in the parlor. I leaned forward in my chair, and the sixty, half a minute more may have elapsed, and then I heard the rustling of Edna's chamber which sent my impetuous blood back, rushing to my heart. The pale and ideas flashed instantly through the gulf chaos of my brain, and prominent among them, the recollection of Edna's illness of a few days before. Hastily rushing wildly up the stairway, I encountered the girl at the landing. She was pale and speechless, and could only point toward the room of her mistress. Hastening past her, I gave a passionate tearing at my heart, I entered it.

Edna lay upon the bed, and, as I advanced, I uttered her name. There was no reply. I took her hand, and its icy coldness struck a chill to my heart; exploring the wrist I discovered no any pulse, and it was entirely pulseless! I investigated no further—why should I? The horrible, stupefying truth that DEATH and I were face to face, we already stood together in parent; and, every particle of physical and mental vigor deserting me, I fell forward upon the couch at her feet, and wept not and bitterness of spirit. There I was discovered when the alarm had spread, and friends filled the apartment. And there I persisted in lying through the remainment and heart-broken.

The following day I rose drearily away, as did also the next. Upon the third she was to be buried, yet, for a moment, did I leave her. Even in the most insane wonderment of the mind, I had not yet wavered under this awful blow, I could not be persuaded to leave the presence of the dead—my dead. And upon my urgent prayer, the clergyman consented to delay the burial her forever from my sight, I was left alone with the corpse. Edna lay before me, smiling in placid beauty—not pale, not cold, but, I could well tell, conscious of with the vital current; and yet two days had passed "gorgeous heaven! was this, could it be, death? Death—who is hideous—who? Death was the secret, mysterious cause which had worked her bereavement. I asked the question, and strove in vain to answer it, and then, with a bitter smile, confessed all my study and labor to have been useless. It seemed little that I have called great among men—that I had met and conquered disease in every shape and form, that, in matters, I said, in the bitterness of my poetry, "when this death, dead one, has fallen, I, I, in whom all my life and love was centered, and I unable to save her—not even to tell why she is not now, upon this bridal day, smiling her was my bride!"

She had lain thus for almost three days, and that which should have been my bride was my dead. In vain! not a drop of blood followed the stroke of the lancet; not a sigh, one last, long sigh, I bade farewell to all that remained of my beloved. Edna before the coffin-lid closed over her.

IV.

The funeral was last over, and the crowd that had attended it had dispersed. It was a dream to me. I knew nothing, I heard nothing of the service, or of aught that was passing around me. I sat in mournful "Dust to dust, ashes to ashes," as the coffin was shut from my view. Friends gathered around me, as they had during the two days past, with expressions of sympathy and condolence; but I made no answer—I was mute, and lost to everything save a sense of my great bereavement. And some, I should not, married and by seeing indifference, or perhaps, had expected to see an outpouring of disguised grief. They had not looked down into the depths of my heart—they had not seen it, broken, crushed and shattered as it was.

A number of friends accompanied me home, where they wished to remain awhile to share the hours of my loneliness, but when they came to understand that I wished to be left alone they expressed my feelings, and left, one by one, until the last one had departed. The hours of the afternoon had passed away unconsciously, and when I found myself alone darkness had intervened. Darkness without, not within; for one of my friends had thoughtfully left the argand lamp, and its clear, strong light was flooding my chamber. For it was to it that I had retired—disclosing every object with singular minuteness.

I was lying on my back upon the sofa, trying to obtain a moment's cessation from the acute agony of my thoughts, by allowing my eyes to rest successively upon every object in the room for my vision. You I looked at the table, littered over with books and papers, upon one of which I could distinguish the name of "Edna" in my handwriting. I closed my eyes with a shudder, all things visible—all sights and sounds—seemed to remind me of her. Reopening them, they fell upon my bookcabinet, where the greatest old medical treatises that I loved to study now quietly reposed. Rising, from an idle impulse, I took one of the volumes from its place, and, sitting by the table, carelessly turned over its musty leaves. And it was by the merest chance, without the shadow of an intention, that my eyes rested upon the following passage, expressed in the primitive style of some of the earlier writers of the language:

"But it was at Berlin, in the year of grace 1295, that the most singular instance of this notable kind of thing did occur. It was there that a woman of health and strength (to most sound, did of a sudden fall in a fit, the which was so bolike unto death, that all did suspect naught otherwise, and did bury the same, with goodly and careless heart. I know that I was behoved, not because I had preserved her from the grave, but because I was worthy to be loved!

"The purposes of my narrative do not require that I should speak particularly of the year that followed the recovery of Edna. We were betrothed from that moment, and from that moment a new existence opened to me. I told now, not merely of fame, or to gratify myself by the exhibition of my power, but for the more substantial rewards of that toil which had already been mine were, I chose to take them. My success continued undiminished; more came to me at my command, and even Edna's father now looked approvingly upon our intimacy. The day had at length been set for our union; and as it drew rapidly near I experienced myself more and more in society of my betrothed, waiting expectantly for the time when it should be mine exclusively.

Long practice—perhaps, I should say extensive—had accustomed me to detect signs and symptoms, without my attention being called to the person in whom they appeared. And while sitting beside Edna one day, I fancied that I could perceive in her appearance some indications of delinquescion. In answer to my anxious questions, she confessed that she felt at all unwell, and then confessed to a sensation of lassitude, of physical weariness, which had already lasted several days. There seemed to be nothing alarming in this, but as several days more elapsed and I secretly noted that this weariness seemed to increase, I became more attentive. The symptoms seemed to portend nothing; my medical information, extensive as it was, suggested to me no certainty which could begin thus, and I was thoroughly puzzled to account all appearances from my mind.

The day came my intervened before that which had been appointed for our wedding. It had become a necessity for me to call upon Edna daily; and early in the morning of the day which is now referred to, I presented myself at the mansion. A Negro servant informed her mistress that I was in the parlor. I leaned forward in my chair, and the sixty, half a minute more may have elapsed, and then I heard the rustling of Edna's chamber which sent my impetuous blood back, rushing to my heart. The pale and ideas flashed instantly through the gulf chaos of my brain, and prominent among them, the recollection of Edna's illness of a few days before. Hastily rushing wildly up the stairway, I encountered the girl at the landing. She was pale and speechless, and could only point toward the room of her mistress. Hastening past her, I gave a passionate tearing at my heart, I entered it.

Edna lay upon the bed, and, as I advanced, I uttered her name. There was no reply. I took her hand, and its icy coldness struck a chill to my heart; exploring the wrist I discovered no any pulse, and it was entirely pulseless! I investigated no further—why should I? The horrible, stupefying truth that DEATH and I were face to face, we already stood together in parent; and, every particle of physical and mental vigor deserting me, I fell forward upon the couch at her feet, and wept not and bitterness of spirit. There I was discovered when the alarm had spread, and friends filled the apartment. And there I persisted in lying through the remainment and heart-broken.

The following day I rose drearily away, as did also the next. Upon the third she was to be buried, yet, for a moment, did I leave her. Even in the most insane wonderment of the mind, I had not yet wavered under this awful blow, I could not be persuaded to leave the presence of the dead—my dead. And upon my urgent prayer, the clergyman consented to delay the burial her forever from my sight, I was left alone with the corpse. Edna lay before me, smiling in placid beauty—not pale, not cold, but, I could well tell, conscious of with the vital current; and yet two days had passed "gorgeous heaven! was this, could it be, death? Death—who is hideous—who? Death was the secret, mysterious cause which had worked her bereavement. I asked the question, and strove in vain to answer it, and then, with a bitter smile, confessed all my study and labor to have been useless. It seemed little that I have called great among men—that I had met and conquered disease in every shape and form, that, in matters, I said, in the bitterness of my poetry, "when this death, dead one, has fallen, I, I, in whom all my life and love was centered, and I unable to save her—not even to tell why she is not now, upon this bridal day, smiling her was my bride!"

She had lain thus for almost three days, and that which should have been my bride was my dead. In vain! not a drop of blood followed the stroke of the lancet; not a sigh, one last, long sigh, I bade farewell to all that remained of my beloved. Edna before the coffin-lid closed over her.

IV.

The funeral was last over, and the crowd that had attended it had dispersed. It was a dream to me. I knew nothing, I heard nothing of the service, or of aught that was passing around me. I sat in mournful "Dust to dust, ashes to ashes," as the coffin was shut from my view. Friends gathered around me, as they had during the two days past, with expressions of sympathy and condolence; but I made no answer—I was mute, and lost to everything save a sense of my great bereavement. And some, I should not, married and by seeing indifference, or perhaps, had expected to see an outpouring of disguised grief. They had not looked down into the depths of my heart—they had not seen it, broken, crushed and shattered as it was.

A number of friends accompanied me home, where they wished to remain awhile to share the hours of my loneliness, but when they came to understand that I wished to be left alone they expressed my feelings, and left, one by one, until the last one had departed. The hours of the afternoon had passed away unconsciously, and when I found myself alone darkness had intervened. Darkness without, not within; for one of my friends had thoughtfully left the argand lamp, and its clear, strong light was flooding my chamber. For it was to it that I had retired—disclosing every object with singular minuteness.

I was lying on my back upon the sofa, trying to obtain a moment's cessation from the acute agony of my thoughts, by allowing my eyes to rest successively upon every object in the room for my vision. You I looked at the table, littered over with books and papers, upon one of which I could distinguish the name of "Edna" in my handwriting. I closed my eyes with a shudder, all things visible—all sights and sounds—seemed to remind me of her. Reopening them, they fell upon my bookcabinet, where the greatest old medical treatises that I loved to study now quietly reposed. Rising, from an idle impulse, I took one of the volumes from its place, and, sitting by the table, carelessly turned over its musty leaves. And it was by the merest chance, without the shadow of an intention, that my eyes rested upon the following passage, expressed in the primitive style of some of the earlier writers of the language:

"But it was at Berlin, in the year of grace

Story of a Sardine.

I was in a first-class restaurant dining with a friend, and feeling in a generous mood, called for a box of sardines.

"Mind, now," I said to the waiter, "I can't go anywhere without address.

"Address! what address?"

He disappeared and soon returned, bringing what seemed to be the real noble young lord, picked up from the gutter and placed in a fine gilt frame.

"Ah!" I said, tipping back the lid, which had been skillfully opened by the waiter, "this is the fellow for a king. Look," I added, turning the box about to let my companion see the crest, "he was the condition of her I had that day buried! Horror of horrors—impossible—impreducible!

The thought, the fancy, the bare supposition of such a fact was fearful in the extreme; and yet, when I fearfully probed it to its source, I was startled, electrified, to discover that it proceeded no more from the chance reading of the passage I have quoted, than from a consciousness of the same fearful "Horror of horrors—impossible" with the supposed decease of Edna, with its mystery, which had so shaken the tomes of language to which I have averted, and which stamped Edna's death, coupled with them almost the force of conviction! Such were the ramifications of delinquescion. In answer to my anxious questions, she confessed that she felt at all unwell, and then confessed to a sensation of lassitude, of physical weariness, which had already lasted several days. There seemed to be nothing alarming in this, but as several days more elapsed and I secretly noted that this weariness seemed to increase, I became more attentive. The symptoms seemed to portend nothing; my medical information, extensive as it was, suggested to me no certainty which could begin thus, and I was thoroughly puzzled to account all appearances from my mind.

The day came my intervened before that which had been appointed for our wedding. It had become a necessity for me to call upon Edna daily; and early in the morning of the day which is now referred to, I presented myself at the mansion. A Negro servant informed her mistress that I was in the parlor. I leaned forward in my chair, and the sixty, half a minute more may have elapsed, and then I heard the rustling of Edna's chamber which sent my impetuous blood back, rushing to my heart. The pale and ideas flashed instantly through the gulf chaos of my brain, and prominent among them, the recollection of Edna's illness of a few days before. Hastily rushing wildly up the stairway, I encountered the girl at the landing. She was pale and speechless, and could only point toward the room of her mistress. Hastening past her, I gave a passionate tearing at my heart, I entered it.

Edna lay upon the bed, and, as I advanced, I uttered her name. There was no reply. I took her hand, and its icy coldness struck a chill to my heart; exploring the wrist I discovered no any pulse, and it was entirely pulseless! I investigated no further—why should I? The horrible, stupefying truth that DEATH and I were face to face, we already stood together in parent; and, every particle of physical and mental vigor deserting me, I fell forward upon the couch at her feet, and wept not and bitterness of spirit. There I was discovered when the alarm had spread, and friends filled the apartment. And there I persisted in lying through the remainment and heart-broken.

The following day I rose drearily away, as did also the next. Upon the third she was to be buried, yet, for a moment, did I leave her. Even in the most insane wonderment of the mind, I had not yet wavered under this awful blow, I could not be persuaded to leave the presence of the dead—my dead. And upon my urgent prayer, the clergyman consented to delay the burial her forever from my sight, I was left alone with the corpse. Edna lay before me, smiling in placid beauty—not pale, not cold, but, I could well tell, conscious of with the vital current; and yet two days had passed "gorgeous heaven! was this, could it be, death? Death—who is hideous—who? Death was the secret, mysterious cause which had worked her bereavement. I asked the question, and strove in vain to answer it, and then, with a bitter smile, confessed all my study and labor to have been useless. It seemed little that I have called great among men—that I had met and conquered disease in every shape and form, that, in matters, I said, in the bitterness of my poetry, "when this death, dead one, has fallen, I, I, in whom all my life and love was centered, and I unable to save her—not even to tell why she is not now, upon this bridal day, smiling her was my bride!"

She had lain thus for almost three days, and that which should have been my bride was my dead. In vain! not a drop of blood followed the stroke of the lancet; not a sigh, one last, long sigh, I bade farewell to all that remained of my beloved. Edna before the coffin-lid closed over her.

IV.

The funeral was last over, and the crowd that had attended it had dispersed. It was a dream to me. I know nothing, I heard nothing of the service, or of aught that was passing around me. I sat in mournful "Dust to dust, ashes to ashes," as the coffin was shut from my view. Friends gathered around me, as they had during the two days past, with expressions of sympathy and condolence; but I made no answer—I was mute, and lost to everything save a sense of my great bereavement. And some, I should not, married and by seeing indifference, or perhaps, had expected to see an outpouring of disguised grief. They had not looked down into the depths of my heart—they had not seen it, broken, crushed and shattered as it was.

A number of friends accompanied me home, where they wished to remain awhile to share the hours of my loneliness, but when they came to understand that I wished to be left alone they expressed my feelings, and left, one by one, until the last one had departed. The hours of the afternoon had passed away unconsciously, and when I found myself alone darkness had intervened. Darkness without, not within; for one of my friends had thoughtfully left the argand lamp, and its clear, strong light was flooding my chamber. For it was to it that I had retired—disclosing every object with singular minuteness.

I was lying on my back upon the sofa, trying to obtain a moment's cessation from the acute agony of my thoughts, by allowing my eyes to rest successively upon every object in the room for my vision. You I looked at the table, littered over with books and papers, upon one of which I could distinguish the name of "Edna" in my handwriting. I closed my eyes with a shudder, all things visible—all sights and sounds—seemed to remind me of her. Reopening them, they fell upon my bookcabinet, where the greatest old medical treatises that I loved to study now quietly reposed. Rising, from an idle impulse, I took one of the volumes from its place, and, sitting by the table, carelessly turned over its musty leaves. And it was by the merest chance, without the shadow of an intention, that my eyes rested upon the following passage, expressed in the primitive style of some of the earlier writers of the language:

"But it was at Berlin, in the year of grace

HUMOR.

KEY to poor house—Whisky.

THE most popular trade mark—$.

HIGH and dry—A tall Kentuckian.

AN envelope is like a woman. It can't go anywhere without address.

AN Irish gentleman made smallest the middle. It shows the waist of time.

"BUSINESS before pleasure," as the man said when he kissed his wife before going to the ball.

A POET says: "I listen for the coming of his feet." We suppose the girl's father doesn't tackle to him kindly.

SENATOR EDMUNDS breathed on the side hill on his Vermont farm and the people in the neighborhood are using it for a toboggan slide.—New Haven News.

IT appears to us that the woman's heart kept in alcohol in Philadelphia isn't much of a curiosity. We have no doubt several women have hearts.—The Judge.

A PENNSYLVANIA man has been granted a patent for an improved umbrella. It rings a chestnut bell when any one attempts to take it by mistake.—Burlington Free Press.

AT the opera: "I can't explain the success of that singer." "Neither can I." "Why, you thought her magnificent atrociously." "Perhaps that is the reason why I thought her so." Who notes of the escaping gas is like the roar of Niagara. The whole town is brightly illuminated by it at a similar cost.

When I made my visit to the well, I was astonished to discover that it was covered the ground to the depth of three or four inches; but for a distance of two inches from the top of the curbstone, the best of the flame had melted the snow. Even a few inches from the grass and weeds had grown two or three inches in height. The crickets chirped, the birds twittered, and the sun of the year, for they were enlivened by the genial influence of spring. The neighborhood of the well was also very pleasant. I noticed one who lay sonantly sleeping in the bottom of a barrel, and the rest of his body was concealed from view by the genial warmth from the flame high up in the air above. Cold as it was all around, he slept in perfect comfort, upon the turf and in the open air. There was a sweet smile on the sleeper's face, and charmed circle.—G. Frederick Wright, in St. Nicholas.

Great Quakes and Shakes.

The following is a list of the principal earthquakes that have taken place since the twelfth century, with the casualties caused:

Year.	Place.	Persons Killed.	Year.	Place.	Persons Killed.
1138	Syria	10,000	1773	Country in Guatemala	2,000
1170	Sicily	15,000	1783	Calabria	32,000
1293	Japan	30,000	1797	Quito, S. America	40,000
1456	Naples	40,000	1805	Naples	6,000
1531	Portugal	30,000	1812	Caracas, S. America	12,000
1556	Shensi, China	30,000	1822	Syria	20,000
1626	Naples	70,000	1828	Mytelene	6,000
1692	Jamaica	1,000	1835	Chile	10,000
1703	Syria	20,000	1842	Cape Haytien, Hayti	5,000
1707	Japan	200,000	1851	Naples	1,000
1718	Palermo, Italy	5,000	1857	Naples	10,000
1728	Yeddo, Japan	100,000	1861	Quito, S. America	5,000
1731	Japan	100,000	1862	Arica, S. America	1,000
1746	Abruzzi	15,000	1868	South America	70,000
1755	Lisbon	60,000	1870	Peru	50,000
1759	Spain	10,000	1872	Peru and Ecuador	1,000
1772	Persia	40,000	1873	Persia	10,000
1772	Guatemala, Central America	6,000	1873	Canada	1,000
1773	Calcutta	20,000	1873	Cuenca, Colombia	1,000
1773	Cumana, S. America	10,000	1874	Persia	14,000
1773	Kashan, Persia	20,000	1881	Scio	4,000
1773	Tabriz, Persia	40,000	1882	Andalusia, Spain	1,000
1773	Cairo	20,000	1882	Provence, France	1,000
1773	Syria	30,000	1882	Italy	1,000
1773	Tarabulus, Syria	10,000
1773	Asia Minor	5,000

—New York Herald.

Better than a Cabinet Position.

"My dear," said a K street father to his daughter, "who is the gentleman you seem to be so attentive to you of late?"

"O, papa, he is such a nice gentleman, and he gets $8,000 a year."

"Great Scott, child, he must be a Cabinet Minister!"

"O, no, he isn't, papa; he is the principal in a base-ball nine."—Washington Post.

A Very Good Conundrum.

Why is an old maid like an old gold ring? Because it is a trifle dear and no one is worth more than half a dozen of the more dazzling and flashy sort of the Boston market is well supplied. And in five chances out of ten she doesn't even get half more to any man than the one he got.

SOUND is much increased by the echoes in a closed vault. In a cave of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, on the flap of his great coat makes a noise like the report of a cannon. The same phenomenon is found in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky. In the cave of Sinolo, near Vyborg, in Finland, by throwing in a live animal terrible noises are heard. Darting into it of a similar cave in Dalmatia where the falling of a stone raised a perfect storm. Pingala Cave, in the Island of Staffa, presents a no other remarkable phenomenon. The end of this cave is dark and gloomy, and may be compared to the channel of a church, while the basaltic columns on each side resemble the organ pipes in the extremity of the grotto, and near the level of the water, is a small opening whence come harmonious sounds which are produced by the sea rising and falling.

IT is found that when paraffine is thoroughly mixed with linseed oil, and the mixture is then boiled, it may be used to make any fabric, as linen, cotton, or wool, waterproof, by rubbing with such a boiled mixture, afterward to equalize the distribution of the material in the pores. If too much is not put on the material may be made to only impervious to water, but not to air, the small, greasy particles simply repelling water.

THE ill-fated Franklin expedition consisted of two ships, Erebus and Terror, commanded by Sir John Franklin, with Captain Crozier and Fitz James, amounting in all to 138 persons. The last heard from them was a letter dated July 12, 1845.

DAUGHTER (reading letter)—"But, pa, dear, in this last word you put a letter too much." Pa (self-made, and not a little proud of his spelling)—"Aye, I dear?" Never mind, I dessy I've left it out in some other word, so that's square it."

DID you ever see the pig wash—No, but I have seen the pig-iron.

A New Use for Frozen Champagne.

It was nearly midnight in the city of American watering-places and nothing was going on. The millionaire kicked his heels peevishly against the table and motioned to one of the waiters. They all scrambled forward in such haste that the oldest one slipped and almost fell. The great man smiled, whereat a wave of joy passed over the dusky group, and all but one retired with teeth in full review. Who is unhappy when a millionaire smiles?

"Is the champagne well iced?" asked the man of means good-naturedly.

"It is, indeed, sah. De las' bottle wuz froze dead sah."

"Bring me some."

When the wine was poured it out it was so cold that it dribbled slowly into the glass and sent up a milk-white mist almost as thick as the foam that rose to the top of the glass, while the dew gathered in beads on the bottle. The millionaire smiled gently as he gazed at the champagne, and then no glanced at the panting waiter.

"Would you like to shiver, Thomas?" he asked solemnly.

"Me, sah?" said the waiter with a chuckle. "Dere ain't nott'n in dis hull wuld yd make de sinfuls t'night, sah—no'ndeedy."

"O, yes, there is."

"Scuse me, sah, but I'm rosstin, I'm ice, I'm dat shiver I'll evah be cot again."

"I'll make you shiver in two minutes if the waiter—I'll give you $50."

"Go ahead, sah!"

Without more ado the millionaire took the cake of ice from the bottle, turned it upside down, and thrust it among the wines. In a few more or less inches; but for a distance of two inches from the top of the cake, the best of the flame had melted the snow. Even a few inches from the grass and weeds had grown two or three inches in height. The crickets chirped, the birds twittered, and the sun of the year, for they were enlivened by the genial influence of spring. The neighborhood of the well was also very pleasant. I noticed one who lay sonantly sleeping in the bottom of a barrel, and the rest of his body was concealed from view by the genial warmth from the flame high up in the air above. Cold as it was all around, he slept in perfect comfort, upon the turf and in the open air. There was a sweet smile on the sleeper's face, and charmed circle.—G. Frederick Wright, in St. Nicholas.

Great Quakes and Shakes.

The following is a list of the principal earthquakes that have taken place since the twelfth century, with the casualties caused:

Year.	Place.	Persons Killed.	Year.	Place.	Persons Killed.
1138	Syria	10,000	1773	Country in Guatemala	2,000
1170	Sicily	15,000	1783	Calabria	32,000
1293	Japan	30,000	1797	Quito, S. America	40,000
1456	Naples	40,000	1805	Naples	6,000
1531	Portugal	30,000	1812	Caracas, S. America	12,000
1556	Shensi, China	30,000	1822	Syria	20,000
1626	Naples	70,000	1828	Mytelene	6,000
1692	Jamaica	1,000	1835	Chile	10,000
1703	Syria	20,000	1842	Cape Haytien, Hayti	5,000
1707	Japan	200,000	1851	Naples	1,000
1718	Palermo, Italy	5,000	1857	Naples	10,000
1728	Yeddo, Japan	100,000	1861	Quito, S. America	5,000
1731	Japan	100,000	1862	Arica, S. America	1,000
1746	Abruzzi	15,000	1868	South America	70,000
1755	Lisbon	60,000	1870	Peru	50,000
1759	Spain	10,000	1872	Peru and Ecuador	1,000
1772	Persia	40,000	1873	Persia	10,000
1772	Guatemala, Central America	6,000	1873	Canada	1,000
1773	Calcutta	20,000	1873	Cuenca, Colombia	1,000
1773	Cumana, S. America	10,000	1874	Persia	14,000
1773	Kashan, Persia	20,000	1881	Scio	4,000
1773	Tabriz, Persia	40,000	1882	Andalusia, Spain	1,000
1773	Cairo	20,000	1882	Provence, France	1,000
1773	Syria	30,000	1882	Italy	1,000
1773	Tarabulus, Syria	10,000
1773	Asia Minor	5,000

—New York Herald.

Better than a Cabinet Position.

"My dear," said a K street father to his daughter, "who is the gentleman you seem to be so attentive to you of late?"

"O, papa, he is such a nice gentleman, and he gets $8,000 a year."

"Great Scott, child, he must be a Cabinet Minister!"

"O, no, he isn't, papa; he is the principal in a base-ball nine."—Washington Post.

A Very Good Conundrum.

Why is an old maid like an old gold ring? Because it is a trifle dear and no one is worth more than half a dozen of the more dazzling and flashy sort of the Boston market is well supplied. And in five chances out of ten she doesn't even get half more to any man than the one he got.

SOUND is much increased by the echoes in a closed vault. In a cave of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, on the flap of his great coat makes a noise like the report of a cannon. The same phenomenon is found in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky. In the cave of Sinolo, near Vyborg, in Finland, by throwing in a live animal terrible noises are heard. Darting into it of a similar cave in Dalmatia where the falling of a stone raised a perfect storm. Pingala Cave, in the Island of Staffa, presents a no other remarkable phenomenon. The end of this cave is dark and gloomy, and may be compared to the channel of a church, while the basaltic columns on each side resemble the organ pipes in the extremity of the grotto, and near the level of the water, is a small opening whence come harmonious sounds which are produced by the sea rising and falling.

IT is found that when paraffine is thoroughly mixed with linseed oil, and the mixture is then boiled, it may be used to make any fabric, as linen, cotton, or wool, waterproof, by rubbing with such a boiled mixture, afterward to equalize the distribution of the material in the pores. If too much is not put on the material may be made to only impervious to water, but not to air, the small, greasy particles simply repelling water.

THE ill-fated Franklin expedition consisted of two ships, Erebus and Terror, commanded by Sir John Franklin, with Captain Crozier and Fitz James, amounting in all to 138 persons. The last heard from them was a letter dated July 12, 1845.

DAUGHTER (reading letter)—"But, pa, dear, in this last word you put a letter too much." Pa (self-made, and not a little proud of his spelling)—"Aye I, dear?" Never mind, I dessy I've left it out in some other word, so that's square it."

DID you ever see the pig wash—No, but I have seen the pig-iron.

Don't Neglect Her Mamma.

The saving grace of the young American, says a writer in Harper's Bazar, is respect for women. That is a sincere national religion. A young American rarely passes a lady on the star seat of a hotel without raising his hat, he rises when she enters a room, and he assists her across a muddy street. Herein he is miles ahead of the young Frenchman of the period.

But in conventional breeding the foreigner has the advantage. The young Frenchman understands that he must be polite to the mother before the daughter. In this respect and the blame is in the mothers who have not commanded it! the young American is often at fault in society, if not in the street.

A card should never be left by a young gentleman for a young lady without also including one for her mother. He should inquire for the elder lady first, and if poss ble the mother should receive him. He should, if the mother invite him to a ball, show her some attention; if she be a dressing-gown day, he should call on that day. He should show her that he regards her as the person of the house, and should allow her to feel herself neglected at a public ball just as much as he allows for those who suffer, no matter how society or fashion may. Mrs. Sage's "Twenty Prescriptions" Safe in its action, it is a blessing to mothers, and to sons, too, for when women suffer the household is askew.

"Tom-cat-scratch-fever" hats worn by some very little girls make it difficult to decide which there is the more of—hat or child.

An Offensive Breath

Is most disagreeable, not only to the person affected, if he have any pride, but to those with whom he comes in contact. It is a delicate matter to speak of, but it has parted not one friendship, but many. Bad breath and catarrh are inseparable. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is the worst case, and thousands can testify.

PERSONS who take measures to enlarge their business—tailors.

He Loved Her.

"George, I am going to ask a favor of you, and if you grant me it you have so often told me, you will grant it."

"Mabel, you know I adore you, and will do anything you ask. I would peril my life for you, my dear."

"My request is not a perilous undertaking, George, but is something I very much desire. I want you to subscribe for the Chicago Ledger for me. Indeed, I cannot get along without it. The Ledger is one of the best and cheapest story papers in the country. Will you do it, George?"

"Certainly, my dear; you shall have the Ledger. I will send for it for you next week. I will add my great pleasure to please you. I want you to read the story that will commence in the number for May 11. I hear it is to be a very interesting one."

Remember, sample copies of the Chicago Ledger sent you on application. Address, Chicago Ledger, 271 Franklin street, Chicago, Ill.

Posterity vs. Ancestry.

It is no longer questioned, it is admitted, that the blood of man is improving, the children of to-day are better formed, have better muscle and richer minds than our ancestors. One cause of this fact is more than the general use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic by pregnant women.

For dyspepsia, indigestion, depression of spirits, and general debility in their various forms, also as a preventive against fever and ague, malarial or intermittent fevers, the "Peruvian Syrup" is a sure remedy. It is a complete blood-maker, and gives life and vigor to all drugging, is the best tonic, and the only one which can safely be given to children. Its action is so prompt.

RELIEF is immediate, and a cure sure. Price's Remedy for Catarrh, 50 cents.

Especially to Women.

"Sweet is revenge, especially to women," said the gifted lady novelist Lord Byron. Surely he was in bad humor when he wrote such words. But there are complaints that only women suffer, that PHEBE'S ROMANCE.

Phœbe Tasson was sent to Grand-Aunt Garraway's, at the foot of High peak, to get her out of the way of Mr. Middleton De Motte.

She was little disappointed that the snug Queen Anne cottage was not more dungeon-like, and that the solitary mountain path turned out to be a well-traveled turnpike; and Mrs. Garraway, instead of being a book-nosed old crone with a gold-headed cane and a temper, was a cheerful old lady, whose cheeks were tinted with fresh bloom like a winter apple, and who wore a black silk dress with lace ruffles.

"Darling aunty," faltered Phœbe, after she had been in banishment several days, "may I tell you a secret?"

"Confide entirely in me, my child," patting her on the cheek.

"Well, then, he met me under the apple-tree last night," confessed Phœbe.

"You've written to him, then?" said Grand-Aunt Garraway, with a shrewd twinkle in her hazel eyes.

"Yes," owned Phœbe. "I told him it was unlike anything that I had anticipated. I described your pretty furniture and choice china and the solid silver tea service, with the Garraway monogram on it, and your set of amethysts, and he came on by the earliest train."

"Oh, he did!"

"He said he was hungering and thirsting for one of my sweet glances," added Phœbe, very prettily. "And he slept on the hay in the barn last night."

"My dear child, this will never do. He must come here."

"Here, aunty?"

"It isn't in the fitness of things that my grand-niece's suitor should be sneaking around the back orchard and sleeping in the hay-loft like a tramp."

Phœbe colored.

"But what else could he do, Aunt Garraway?" she also.

"For that very reason," said the old lady, with dignity. "I ask him here as a guest. My husband's nephew, Harry Sanford, is to be here from Ruston, but there is plenty of room. Harry shall sleep in the other chamber. Mr. De Motte shall have the red room. Where is he now?"

"I—I think he is having a cigar and reading the newspaper in the smokehouse," quilling confessed Phœbe.

"Call him in. Tell him he shall be welcome," said Mrs. Garraway.

Mr. De Motte was tall and trouble-dour-like. He had dark, pensive eyes, and wore a very handsome satin necktie; and if his finger-nails were not as clean as Mrs. Garraway liked to see, still some people thought differently upon such subjects.

"Harry Sanford looks the most of a gentleman," thought Mrs. Garraway. And even Phœbe, in a mental comparison, could not help owning to herself that Mr. Sanford was the most at his ease.

"But then," thought Phœbe, "the man's in some diplomatic troubles on his mind. I wish, though, that dear Middleton wouldn't eat green peas with his fork, and that he wouldn't take a little more notice of the chair-covers and not drag them off everytime he sits down. I hope it won't make my grand-aunt nervous."

But Grand-Aunt Garraway smiled her sweetest and seemed to notice nothing amiss.

And Harry Sanford diligently talked politics and did his best to amuse the stranger.

Nevertheless, when Phœbe went to bed that night she was not as happy as she expected to be. For a diplomat Mr. De Motte was not remarkably intelligent after all, and she was very certain that his grammar was not also perfect; she hoped that Harry Sanford had not observed it.

In the dead of the night Grand-Aunt Garraway's hand fell softly on Phœbe's shoulder. She started.

"Hush!" said the old lady. "Don't utter a sound. Get up and come downstairs with me."

"What is the matter?" gasped the girl.

"Your fine lover is breaking into my big cherry-wood bureau," said Mrs. Garraway, quite as calmly as if it were burglar's tools. But don't look so frightened, my dear. The jewel-case is there, but it is empty. Harry Sanford has the pins and rubies in his coat-pocket by hook. He's a welcome to all he can find. Harry and the farm laborers have got his accomplice safely tied outside, and they're ready to seize him the moment he rings across the threshold. But come quickly! I want you to see for yourself.

And, standing on the staircase, where she could peep through the transom right into the back parlor, Phœbe beheld her troubadour lover picking the locks and prying open drawers in a most business-like manner.

In spite of her resolution she uttered a little cry. Mr. De Mott looked up and saw her. The next instant the room was in darkness.

"But we caught the fellow as neatly as possible," Harry Sanford said, afterward, "with the empty jewel-case in his possession and a lot of silver spoons in his breast-pocket. We'd an old hand, the Albany authorities say. 'Light-Fingered Lemuel,' they call him, and he's a sale for a long term in the penitentiary."

Alas, poor Phœbe!

Harry Sanford set himself so diligently to work at the diplomatic troubles that maiden that he soon succeeded in restoring her temporarily eclipsed suitor.

So the end of Grand-Aunt Garraway's proved a success after all. The Middleton De Motte engagement was broken up, and there is every probability that a new one will rise, Phœnix-like, out of its ashes.

Tecumseh's Prediction.

Connected with the great earthquake period of 1811-12, already mentioned, occurred one of the romances of American history. It was the lurky prediction of great earthquake that made the celebrated "Prophet," and led to the Indian nation of the Tecumseh followed. The warrior, and his opinoles in the and Tecumseh's prediction for courage.—Indiana Gazette.

HEMMING APRONS.

The Latest Fashionable Amusement—Not for Women but for Men.

In addition to the "quotation" party, which may take the place of progressive euchre this winter to a large extent, there is another novelty which bids fair to be popular. It is styled the "rainbow" party and takes its name from the bright hues of the ribbons which play an important part. It is not, undoubtedly be popular with the ladies, as it gives them an excellent opportunity to air their superior knowledge and skill before the lords of creation and to laugh heartily at the awkwardness which they are sure to exhibit to an amusing extent. The first stage is the passing of bows of ribbon to the men, who fasten them to their buttonholes and proceed to find the young woman whose color matches. This will be found in the strings of a pretty and coquettish apron, and the strings themselves are tied about a trim waist. The men having thus been provided with partners are further provided with needle, thread, and a thimble, which they are obliged to select from a heap on the table. It is then explained to the men that they are expected to hem the bottom of the apron and that prizes will be the reward of good work. The young woman is to keep on her apron and give no assistance whatever, either by advice or by lending a helping hand. Notwithstanding the restrictions the young woman usually cannot resist helping her partner, especially if she happens to be least bit interested in him; but if she gets caught at it by the judges she forfeits her apron. The temptation, however, is very strong, for he is obliged to sit reasonably close, since the apron occupies the position for which it was intended, and it comes very natural for skillful white hands to touch awkward brown hands when they are busy together with one piece. It may be remarked that some of the knowing men, after being once seated in this manner, are inexcusably stupid and make the same mistake over and over again.

Even when the tyros are doing their best there is room for a vast amount of amusement. Nearly every man in the room is as awkward in his general attitude as can be easily imagined, and most of them look as though life and death depended upon their efforts. Here is a chap in a high collar; he can barely see over it when his head is erect, and his efforts to focus his eyes on his work without cutting his throat are decidedly funny. Next to him sits a man who has been trying for ten minutes to thread his needle, and, judging by the way he goes at it, the merriment of the company will be prolonged for some time. On the other side of the room is a bald-headed man who is making heroic attempts to make progress, and working backward as well as left-handed, to the infinite amusement of every girl within seeing distance. The degrees and varieties of awkwardness are limited only by the number of sewers. Probably one of the whole number there will be not more than one or two who go at the work with anything like method or skill, and even their efforts are so nearly on a par with the little girl taking her first lesson that the exhibition is usually more amusing than the out-and-out awkwardness of the others. When all are done the aprons are handed to the judges for inspection, and after long deliberation the prizes are awarded. Matchsafes, scarfpins, etc., are the proper thing for the first and second prizes, while the booby prize is usually a treasure in embroidery or something equally interesting to the masculine mind. As souvenirs of the occasion the lads keep their aprons and the gentlemen their thimbles.—Chicago Tribune.

Essence of Business Law.

It is a fraud to conceal a fraud.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

Notes bear interest only when so stated.

The law compels no one to do impossibilities.

Signatures made with a pencil are good in law.

A receipt for money is not always conclusive.

Principals are responsible for the acts of their agents.

No consideration is sufficient in law if it is illegal in its nature.

The presents should be distinctly named in the note unless it is payable to bearer.

A bill may be written upon any paper or substitute for it, with either ink or pencil.

A note obtained by fraud or from a person in a state of intoxication can not be collected.

An indorser has the right of action against all whose names were on the bill when he received it.

Notice of protest may be sent either to the place of business or of residence of the party notified.

The time of payment of a note must not depend upon a contingency. The promise must be absolute.

A note made by a minor is void; a contract made with a minor is void; a contract made with a lunatic is void.

If the drawer of a check or draft has changed his name he should make use all reasonable diligence to find him.

An agreement without consideration is void; a note made on Sunday is void; contracts made on Sunday can not be enforced.

Each individual in a partnership is responsible for the whole amount of debts of the firm, except in case of special partnership.

If the letter containing the protest of non-payment be put in the post-office, any miscarriage does not affect the party giving notice.

A note indorsed in blank—the name of the indorser only written—is transferable by delivery, the same as if made payable to bearer.

Eleven-year-old David Breitenbucher, of Hood'ot, was terribly kicked in the face by a horse. While a physician was sewing up the wounds the boy's mother could not restrain her tears, but David never flinched. "Don't cry, mamma," he said. "I ain't hurt much." All of his front teeth but one in both jaws were knocked out.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Beebe on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1865, made and executed a mortgage to William H. Hipe to secure his promissory note of even date, payable in three years from the date of said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of nine per cent per annum, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1865, in liber 4 of mortgages, on page 104; and whereas the said mortgage has been duly assigned by said William H. Hipe to Wallace Hipe, by assignment dated on the 17th day of April, A. D. 1866, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1866, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 524, and the same is now owned by the said Wallace J. Hipe; and whereas, the sum of Six Hundred and Fifty Dollars of principal, and the sum of Ninety-Five and Twenty-Five Cents of interest, and the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars as an attorney fee, remained due on the foreclosure of said mortgage, making together the sum of Seven Hundred and Four Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents ($704.25) principal, interest and attorney fee, due on said mortgage, at the time of the foreclosure whereon, notice of which has been made in the paper hereinafter mentioned, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section eighteen (18), in township number four (4) north of range seven (7) west, being in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the Bridge Street House, in the village of Boyne City, on the 28th day of May, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated February 16th, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPE,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GREEN,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage, Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents ($25.25) principal and interest, which is now claimed to be the sum due on a certain mortgage made by Sylvester Bedford and wife, of Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, Mich., to Mary A. Wilson, of the same place, dated the 9th day of November, 1885, and mortgage was assigned by said Belle Williams to Jacob H. Pennoyer, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and said mortgage is duly recorded in said register's office July 14th, 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said Jacob H. Pennoyer to Charles E. Pratt, and the assignment thereof is duly recorded in said register's office, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section eighteen (18), in township number four (4) north of range seven (7) west, being in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the Bridge Street House, in the village of Boyne City, on the 28th day of May, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated February 16th, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPE,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GREEN,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage, Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents ($25.25) principal and interest, which is now claimed to be the sum due on a certain mortgage made by Sylvester Bedford and wife, of Charlevoix county, Mich., to Mary A. Wilson, of the same place, dated the 9th day of November, 1885, and mortgage was assigned by said Belle Williams to Jacob H. Pennoyer, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and said mortgage is duly recorded in said register's office July 14th, 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said Jacob H. Pennoyer to Charles E. Pratt, and the assignment thereof is duly recorded in said register's office, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section eighteen (18), in township number four (4) north of range seven (7) west, being in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, Mich., that being the place where the circuit court for the said county is holden, on the 28th day of June, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated March 8, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GREEN,
Attorneys for Mortgagee
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage made by William A. Nobes, of Boyne Valley, Mich., to Emma Jane Bedford, of Charlevoix, Mich., dated July 17th, A. D. 1879, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1879, in Liber 4 of Mortgages, on page 76 on which mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, the sum of one hundred and sixty-six cents, and an attorney's fee of twenty dollars, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 28th day of March, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, Mich., that being the place where the circuit court for said county is holden, I shall sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house aforesaid, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due and unpaid for the recovery of interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney fee of twenty dollars, provided for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows: The southeast quarter (1/4) of lot one (1) of section eighteen (18), in Boyne Valley, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and known and described as follows: The north-west quarter of the south-east quarter of section eighteen (18), in township four (4) north of range five (5) west and containing forty acres of land more or less.

Dated March 12, 1887.

LEMUEL D. BARTHOLOMEW,
Mortgagee.

J. MILO EATON,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage, dated March 1st, 1886, made by Jacob Beeler and Mary Ann Beeler, to Hiram Williams, of Wolverine, Michigan, and Sylvester Williams, of Boyne City, Michigan, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 19th day of March, 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 395, on the premises hereinafter described, and assigned by said Belle Williams to Jacob H. Pennoyer, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, and said assignment was duly recorded in said register's office July 14th, 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said Jacob H. Pennoyer to Charles E. Pratt, and the assignment thereof is duly recorded in said register's office, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section eighteen (18), in township number four (4) north of range seven (7) west, being in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, Mich., that being the place where the circuit court for the said county is holden, on the 28th day of June, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated March 8, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GREEN,
Attorneys for Mortgagee
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents ($25.25) principal and interest, which is now claimed to be the sum due on a certain mortgage made by William A. Nobes, of Boyne Valley, Mich., to Emma Jane Bedford, of Charlevoix, Mich., dated July 17th, A. D. 1879, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1879, in Liber 4 of Mortgages, on page 76 on which mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, the sum of one hundred and sixty-six cents, and an attorney's fee of twenty dollars, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, now therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 28th day of March, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, Mich., that being the place where the circuit court for said county is holden, I shall sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house aforesaid, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due and unpaid for the recovery of interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney fee of twenty dollars, provided for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows: The southeast quarter (1/4) of lot one (1) of section eighteen (18), in Boyne Valley, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and known and described as follows: The north-west quarter of the south-east quarter of section eighteen (18), in township four (4) north of range five (5) west and containing forty acres of land more or less.

Dated March 12, 1887.

LEMUEL D. BARTHOLOMEW,
Mortgagee.

J. MILO EATON,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage, dated March 1st, 1886, made by Jacob Beeler and Mary Ann Beeler, to Hiram Williams, of Wolverine, Michigan, and Sylvester Williams, of Boyne City, Michigan, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 19th day of March, 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 395, on the premises hereinafter described, and assigned by said Belle Williams to Jacob H. Pennoyer, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, and said assignment was duly recorded in said register's office July 14th, 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said Jacob H. Pennoyer to Charles E. Pratt, and the assignment thereof is duly recorded in said register's office, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section eighteen (18), in township number four (4) north of range seven (7) west, being in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the Bridge Street House, in the village of Boyne City, on the 28th day of June, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated March 8, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GREEN,
Attorneys for Mortgagee
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents ($25.25) principal and interest, which is now claimed to be the sum due on a certain mortgage made by Sylvester Bedford and wife, of Charlevoix county, Mich., to Mary A. Wilson, of the same place, dated the 9th day of November, 1885, and mortgage was assigned by said Belle Williams to Jacob H. Pennoyer, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and said mortgage is duly recorded in said register's office July 14th, 1886, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said Jacob H. Pennoyer to Charles E. Pratt, and the assignment thereof is duly recorded in said register's office, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 154, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt now remaining due and unpaid on said mortgage or any part thereof, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section eighteen (18), in township number four (4) north of range seven (7) west, being in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, Mich., that being the place where the circuit court for said county is holden, on the 28th day of June, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated March 8, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GREEN,
Attorneys for Mortgagee
Charlevoix, Mich.

COMPOUND OXYGEN
Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN
A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT
A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU.
FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.
Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN have the liberty to refer to some of their standing patients in the following named well-known persons who have tried their Compound Oxygen: Hon. William D. Kelley, "Father of the House," Phila.; Rev. Wm. Paxton, Editor Lutheran Ledger, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quincy, Kas.; & thousands of others in every part of the world.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS" is the title of a book of two hundred pages, just published by Drs. Starkey and Palen, containing a record of surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. It will be mailed free to any address on application.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, is carried by the blood to the minutest and most remote parts of the body, permeating every tissue, giving vitality and strength to all the functions of life, and the organic action of the system is so invigorated and stimulated as to cause a complete and permanent cure of the disease and its concomitants, when all else has proved powerless to do good. Our patients are not left to experiment on themselves, but the case is carefully diagnosed, and a record of symptoms is kept, on which we base our treatment, which is modified from time to time as the case demands, the patient reporting from time to time, when we are enabled to judge of the effect of our treatment, and to make such changes in the treatment as may be indicated by the symptoms. Our patients are not confined to any climate or locality, but may be treated at their own homes with equal success. Our Compound Oxygen is not to be confounded with the nostrums called Oxygen, which are for the most part only Compound Carbonic Acid Gas, but is a combination of the two vital gases in their proper proportions, and is prepared only by Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN, Nos. 1527-1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., to whom all orders should be addressed.
Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

STORY & CLARK FINE ORGANS
SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE.
N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.
CHICAGO + Canal AND 16TH STS

FOR MAN AND BEAST!
Mexican Mustang Liniment
CURES
Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Sting, Bites, Bruises, Sunburn, Corns, Scratches, Sprains, Bruises, Stiffness, Stiff Joints, Rattlesnake Bite, Galls, Sores, Spavin Cracks.
Contracted Muscles, Ringbone, Hoof Ail, Screw Worms, Swinney, Saddle Galls, Pile.
THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY
accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. Cures other pains and injuries. Relief is the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Every family needs such a medicine. The Lumberman needs it in case of accident. The Housewife needs it for general family use. The Canaller needs it for his horses and his men. The Sportsman needs it in his kennel, or work bench.
The Miner needs it in case of emergency.
The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it.
The Farmer needs it for his family, his farm and his stock yard.
The intelligent man or the Rustman needs it in literal every-day use and labor.
The Mechanic needs it—it is his best friend and relief reliance.
The Stockgrower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.
The Railroad man needs it—he can't do without it as long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.
The Steamboat man needs it. There is hardly a big lake it is an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and property which surround navigation.
The Merchant needs it about his store among his employes. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.
Keep a Bottle in the Factory. It is the best economy.
Keep a Bottle in the Factory. It immediate use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages.
Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.
$25,000.00 IN GOLD!
WILL BE PAID FOR
ARBUCKLES' COFFEE WRAPPERS.
1 Premium, - $1,000.00
2 Premiums, - $500.00 each
5 Premiums, - $200.00 "
10 Premiums, - $100.00 "
100 Premiums, - $50.00 "
200 Premiums, - $20.00 "
1,000 Premiums, $10.00 "
For full particulars and directions see Circular in every pound of Arbuckles' Coffee.
A GENTLEMAN having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of youthful indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple method of self-cure. To those who wish it he will give him their symptoms, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.
Address in perfect confidence, JAMES W. DINNEY, 43 Cedar St., N. Y.
DIMPLES. Twilmed in France. Sent on receipt of 25 cents, stamps or silver, a recipe for a secret VEGETABLE BALM FOR FRECKLES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BLACK HEADS, Etc., leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful.
Touch with this compound the soft fly cloth. And the bright gem will look the virtuous one.
Also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a smooth face or scalp. Address—A. D. SUMMER, 59 Ann St., New York.
THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia, at the office of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.
THE STAR
A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Party of Principles.
Published in the City of New York.
WILLIAM DORSHEIMER, EDITOR.
Daily, Weekly, and Sunday Editions.
THE WEEKLY STAR,
An Eight-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.
A clean, sane, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.
It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press, and discusses Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Financial and Commercial, Political, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial
Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability, and presents to its friend contest with good things from beginning to end.
Subscription Price, Distinguished American and Foreign writers of fiction.
TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS.
Free of Postage in the United States and Canada.
Address the Publisher of New York City.
ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.
Clubs of 10 to the same P. O. address, with an extra copy to the person getting up the club, at the rate of $10.00 for THREE MONTHS, or trial, 25 cents.
Sample copies sent free to any address on receipt of stamp for postage.
Send for Circulars.
THE DAILY STAR.
THE DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in the most concise form, the special correspondence by cable, and the full reports of the Markets, Financial, Commercial, Political, Theatrical, Fashion, Fourth of July, Wednesday, May 18, 1887.
Plans and specifications can be seen at the town clerk's office in the village of Charlevoix. The Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.
Charlevoix, Mich., May 9, 1887.
LETTER HEADS. Note Heads. Statements, Envelopes, Visiting cards, neat, quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The undersigned having been relieved of a long standing and painful suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dreadful disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh, Kings County, New York.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which no other organ can claim.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can procure.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combinations, and for being in tune much longer than other organs. Combining the qualities of the finest reeds, and durable scales for tones, schools and churches, they are unrivaled.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION.
UNEQUALLED FACILITIES.
SKILLED WORKMEN.
BEST MATERIAL.
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instructive Books and Piano Steels.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 WEST LAKE AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 200. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY ORAS J. STONE, M.D.,
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Collections promptly attended to.

CRUCKSHANK & GREEN, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Bulger Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. GREEN.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate Broker and Conveyancer, Petoskey, Mich. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor of United States Patents, Lumber, Commercial, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. F. WOODS, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

N. SARGENT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH, REV. H. L. DUHAMEL, Rector. Sundays, at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m., every other Sunday morning service. Sunday school at 12 m. Seats free. Corner Bridgman and Green's hall, over F. W. Crane & Co.'s store.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. A. T. WATERMAN, Pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock. W. H. MCKAY, Pastor.

DENTISTRY

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Office in Perry's drug Store. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

J. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office: See in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. CROUTER, M. D., Dedicated Homœopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HAMLIN, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday evening in each month. W. H. CROUTER, Adjt.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 207, meet every Monday evening at Odfellow hall.

I. O. O. F.—Boyne City Lodge No. 30, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 98, meets every Tuesday night in Odfellow's hall. J. STONE, Commander. L. C. WILSON, Record'r.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 362, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.
Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix
Charlevoix, Mich.
Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Money received on deposit. Collections promptly attended to. Interest allowed on time deposits. Special attention given to the business of Corporations, Banks, Bankers, Manufacturers and others, on favorable terms. Correspondents—First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank
Organized under the General Banking Law of the state of Michigan.
Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Butters,
A. B. Upham, F. A. Fox,
F. A. Smith.
CAPITAL, $25,000
Surplus, 2,000
The liabilities of stockholders in this state bank as provided in Act 374, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is double the amount of stock taken, making a guaranty fund of $50,000 for the security of depositors, besides for the transaction of every legitimate branch of banking business pertaining to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safe banking.
ONE PER CENT INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS FOR A YEAR.
Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money to loan on approved security. Gold and silver bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.
We respectfully solicit your business.
CORRESPONDENTS:
NATIONAL PARK BANK, NEW YORK.
NATIONAL LAKE BANK, CHICAGO.
NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK, DETROIT.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix - Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of the lake and surrounding country. Sample rooms for Pedestrians. Rates, $1.00 per day. Special rates by the week. Good accommodations for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed Proposals will be received by the Village Commissioner of the township of Charlevoix, for the repair of the pontoons to the Front Bridge across Pine River, consisting of driving of piles and furnishing materials, as specified. P. McGEE.

Dated Tuesday, May 10, 1887.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the town clerk's office in the village of Charlevoix. The Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Charlevoix, Mich., May 9, 1887.

LETTER HEADS. Note Heads. Statements, Envelopes, Visiting cards, neat, quick, at the JOURNAL Office.

1872. 1887

DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

Political Notes and News.

MANITOU county gave 156 democratic and 2 republican votes at the late election.

A MEASURE prohibiting insane persons, paupers and inmates of prisons from marrying was recently passed in the Illinois house. Spies the anarchist and Miss Van Zandt probably know what that means and how it came about.

A STATEMENT of the business done at the pension office shows that during the month of last April there were 11,399 pension certificates issued, classified as follows: Original pensions 5,543; increase of pensions 5,347; Mexican war pensions 509. This is said to be the largest number of pension certificates issued in any one month in the history of the bureau.

THE murder by saloon keepers of a minister in Iowa for his activity against the saloon has been duplicated in Ohio, by the murder of a physician for doing the same thing. It seems to be the most wanton murder conceivable, and two saloon-keepers are the assassins. We trust the vengeance of the law will be swifter and surer than has been the case in Iowa.

THE enemies of the inter-state commerce law never let a train interprise will be ruined if the long and short haul clause is not rescinded. Two big mills near Philadelphia have closed, and the California sugar refiners, who import their material free of duty from the Sandwich Islands—a privilege no other importers have—say that they will lose a large part of their trade if the clause continues in force. All this may be true. In some cases it undoubtedly is true, but the object of the bill was to run just such enterprises as can only live through robbery. A great cry of pain will go up, but the knife of equality must cut some time, and it may as well do it now.

NEW ENGLAND manufacturers are reported as having been paying but 12 cents for the labor of making a leg of nails. In some other sections

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

In a brutal prize-fight between two professional pugilists, near New York, the arm of one of them was broken in two different places.

By the burning of the grocery of Willis Brothers, in Allegany city, two persons were suffocated and two others were fatally injured by leaping from the upper floors.

The Dolton dyeing and bleaching mills near Fordham, N. Y., were damaged to the amount of $150,000 by fire and the explosion of drying-cases.

A dispatch from Ashland, Pa., says: "Harry Gill, Michael Bohannon, Harry Marron, Daniel Finn, and Eben Frances were asphyxiated in the Tunnel colliery. Owing to an anticipated 'run' of pillars, the west gangway has not been working for a couple of weeks. Notwithstanding all possible precaution, the unprepended 'run' occurred, bringing down with the coal a volume of deadly gas by which the men above named and six mules were suffocated."

Fire destroyed the large factory building at Nos. 225 to 227 Canal street, New York. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

Continuous rains in portions of Maine and New Hampshire have resulted in injurious floods.

Miss Alice Cobb committed suicide at Portland, Me., and left a note stating that her father was the cause of it, and that her spirit would haunt him as long as he lived.

WESTERN.

Indictments for murder have been returned at Des Moines, Iowa, against Joseph Row and J. Reed Hurlbut, the case arising out of the killing of Constable Logan on March 7, while attempting to arrest the driver of a wagon containing liquors, consigned to Hurlbut, Hess & Co. The men were admitted to bail in $10,000 each.

The Calumet and Hecla Mining Company of Michigan has made contracts for the delivery this summer of eight million pounds of copper at the low price of 10 cents per pound.

The Dakota Board of Agriculture has decided to hold the first fair at Grand Forks, the date being fixed for September 15-17. It has also been arranged to hold trotting races at Grand Forks, Hillsboro, and Fargo.

A west-bound train on the Northern Pacific jumped the track near Steele, Dakota. One man was killed and several people injured.

Judge James Bradley, a pioneer and prominent citizen of Fort Wayne, Ind., is dead at the age of 77.

The gambling-houses at Toledo, Ohio, were ordered closed, last Sunday, which is the first move of the reform police board, and the result was the gambling material was all packed and shipped to Detroit.

Twenty-one buildings, including two churches and a number of business houses were destroyed by fire at Kankakee, with a total loss of $45,000. The fires are attributed to incendiaries.

The condition of the winter wheat in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas has improved during the past week, although in some sections the need of rain is still felt. Spring wheat looks promising in Iowa, Minnesota, and Nebraska.

George W. Zenkanka, who is serving a five-year term in the Milwaukee Workhouse for larceny, has made affidavit that three crooks named Murray, Blake and Carter tried to hire him to help in the Rock Island express robbery, for which crime Schwartz and Watt were recently convicted. The attorneys for Schwartz and Watt will use the affidavit in support of a motion for a new trial.

The will of Alexander Mitchell gives the widow the homestead in Milwaukee, $300,000 in such bonds or stocks as she may select, and an annuity of $50,000, to be paid in monthly installments. To David P. Mitchell, grandson, is left $100,000; to Isabella Mackie, a niece, $25,000, and in various educational and charitable institutions $40,000 in great. The remainder of the estate, except some bank stock, was given to his only son, and, as soon as the will was promulgated he was elected to succeed his father as president of the bank, and the capital stock was increased $500,000.

The coal-laden schooner Louis C. W. Smith, foundered on Lake Erie in a collision with the wood Thomas W. Parker. The entire crew of eight souls perished.

SOUTHERN.

A negro named Foster, living in Harrison County, Texas, suddenly went crazy, attacked his 5-year-old child by the hair, dashed its brains out against a tree, and ran with the body to the creek bottom, where he was inoffensively followed by his family. Assistance was procured and he was finally captured. When found Foster was reading the child's body with his teeth, spitting flesh onto the ground.

Vast numbers of people from States North and South and from the surrounding towns assembled at Chattanooga, Ga., on the 26th of April, to witness the unveiling of a monument to the memory of John Caldwell Calhoun. The order of exercises included the unveiling of the monument by thirty-two young ladies, artillery salute of nineteen guns, and an oration by Secretary L. Q. C. Lamar.

James H. Marcum, who killed his cousin, Esther Marcum, in the night of Feb. 10, 1886, was executed last week at Louisa, Ky. He was convicted in a circumstantial evidence, but confessed his crime when he was told the Governor had positively refused to pardon.

The Galveston News declares that unless rain comes within six or eight days the corn crop of Texas will be "very much of a failure," while the cotton prospects are very bad, by reason of the prolonged drought. Jobbers in Texas are withdrawing their salesmen from the dry district, "pending a solution of the rainfall problem."

Edward E. Samuels, a St. Louis merchant, jumped into the river at Nashville, Tenn., and was drowned. He gave as his reason that he had broken his promise to his wife that he would drink no more intoxicating liquor.

Two men were killed near Brighton, Mobile County, Ala., by a falling tree. Their names, name of Sylvester, were found hanging to a tree near Proctor, W. Va. Each body bore a placard on which was written: "Nigger throwing round the world to broke up." The crimes in the neighborhood had inflicted depredations at the hands of unknown parties, and it seems they finally settled on the Sylvester brothers as the guilty ones.

WASHINGTON.

Gen. Terry, in addition to other duties, has been assigned to the temporary command of the Department of the Missouri.

It is rumored that Consul General Waller is to be recalled from London. A coolness is said to exist between Mr. Waller and Minister Phelps.

Secretary Lamar said to a Washington reporter that he was fully in accord with the President in the Guilford Miller matter, and that there was no difference of opinion between them. He further said in reply to a question that he would try to carry out President Cleveland's suggestions if possible.

Treasurer Jordan has returned to Washington and resumed his labors. He reports the health of ex-Secretary Manning greatly improved, and that he will return from England June 1.

POLITICAL.

Mr. Blaine, after remaining in Chicago for a week, left last week for his Maine home, where he will remain until he sails for Europe in June. His health is much improved since his arrival in Chicago.

A bill prohibiting the playing of base-ball on Sunday was defeated in the Illinois House of Representatives.

The Pennsylvania Senate defeated a bill designed to reduce by $4,000,000 per annum the profits of the National Transit Company in piping and storing petroleum. Oil producers were unanimous in support of the measure.

The majority against the Prohibition amendment at the recent election in Michigan was 5,855.

The Illinois Senate has passed a bill to repeal the right of aliens to acquire real and personal property.

Milo H. Jakin, a member of the Michigan House, having been convicted of soliciting bribes, was expelled by a unanimous vote.

A new liquor bill has been introduced in the Michigan Legislature. A feature of the proposed act is that a fine of $100 is provided for any assessor, county treasurer, or prosecuting attorney, or other officer refusing to make complaints against persons violating the law.

The Grant relics are being placed in exhibition in the National Museum at Washington.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

The Troy (N. Y.) stove molders, who had been out on strike, resolved to go to work last week, but the manufacturers held a meeting and decided to keep their factories closed till the difficulty at St. Louis is settled.

The locomotive engineers on the New York Central Railroad are dissatisfied, and threaten to strike if their grievances are not redressed.

The coal miners in the Hazelton district of Pennsylvania have decided to ask an advance of 10 per cent in wages.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

The Pacific Railway Commission, sitting at Washington, has been investigating the workings of the Union and Central Pacific roads during the past week. T. P. Huntington gave some interesting testimony. Among other things he said that the company's lawyer in Washington was paid $27,000 a year salary, and was allowed from $30,000 to $40,000 for "helping" the attorneys to the public to be derived from the approval of the Central Pacific bill, whereas in Washington, Charles Francis Adams testified in regard to the management of the Union Pacific Company for the past three years. He expressed the belief, from careful scrutiny, that Jay Gould and Sidney Dillon had always been more than fair to the company. He reported the two annually paid by the road at $1,100,000.

A Peoria dispatch says: "The main line of the Santa Fe road has been located to run from Chillicothe, on the other side of the river, and will enter Peoria over the Peoria and Pekin Union.

A competition by the Grand Trunk line led the Indianapolis and St. Louis road to return to the pass system for shippers of live stock, on the ground that only those in charge are virtually employes of the railway.

J. Y. Goddard has been promoted to superintendent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad and all its branches, vice C. W. Smith, resigned.

Jay Gould is said to have purchased 150 acres of land at St. Louis, on which the machine shops of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain and Southern Railroads are to be erected.

REGULATING THE RAILROADS

The Interstate Commission concluded its sittings at Atlanta on the 30th ult., and left for Mobile. A memorial was received from the Washington (N. C.) Chamber of Commerce and Produce Exchange strongly urging the enforcement of the long and short haul section. A memorial was presented from business men of Opelika, Alabama, showing how railroads discriminated against that town in favor of Columbus and Montgomery. Judge Cooley, counsel of the Commission, made an argument favoring the suspension of the long and short haul clause. He was followed by Mr. F. P. Alexander, President of the Georgia Central Road, on the same side. The Tacoma (W. T.) Chamber of Commerce has written the Commission, asking that transcontinental lines be compelled from the operation of Section 4. It represents that freight rates between New York, Chicago, and the Pacific coast have ranged between 100 and 300 per cent, and adds: "If a strict construction of the law is adhered to, the effect will be practically prohibitory of either emigration from or to the East, and our Territory will suffer incalculable injury." The following letter from Judge Cooley, addressed to the Sisters of St. Joseph, St. Louis, Mo., explains itself:

Yours of the 14th inst., requesting that the railroad commissioners be asked to give you free transportation, as they have been accustomed to do, has been received and considered, and the Commission regrets that it can make no such order upon them for your benefit. The railroad commissioners have to determine for themselves what shall be their duties under the statutes, and, were to persons engaged in religious works the statute, in plain terms, allows the giving of reduced rates to ministers of religion, and if they are given on some general and impartial rule it would be difficult to find any ground on which the railroad company could have occasion to incur penalties.

A numerously signed petition from citizens of California was received in Washington requesting the commission not to suspend the operation of section 4 so far as the Pacific coast is concerned, until an opportunity be afforded all persons interested to be heard.

Before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Mobile, on the 29th ult., Col. W. Butler Duncan, President; U. S. Depew, Traffic Manager, and Col. Talcott, Vice President of the Mobile & Ohio Road, testified as to the necessity of a suspension of the fourth section of the long and short haul clause. Mr. Depew explained that the rates to some intermediate points between East St. Louis and Mobile were greater than the full distance charged the competitors of the Mississippi River boats to New Orleans compelled it. The Commissioners were informed that Memphis controlled the rates at competitive points by her low all-rail rate to New York. Petitions for a suspension of the fourth section were presented from the coal and lumber interests from Mobile, Pensacola, and other Florida and Louisiana planters, in convention at New Orleans, declared in favor of the strict enforcement of the law. The Union Pacific Railroad has asked for the suspension of Section 4.

James Dunavan, Secretary and Treasurer of the Tennessee-Alabama Coal, Iron, and Railroad Company, testified before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Mobile that his company had $16,000,000 invested in lands and property. The business of the company had grown and expanded under the effect of low rates so that before the interstate law went into effect the pig-iron products of Alabama were 400 tons per day. All this output had to seek distant markets. Since the law went into effect the daily sales had fallen to 100 tons, mostly for shipment by water. Petitions for a suspension of section 4 were received from Birmingham iron and coal interests, representatives of the Southern Yellow-Pine Lumber Manufacturers' Association. A protest against the suspension of the law was presented from the Mobile Cotton Exchange. The Commission then proceeded to New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

It is alleged that two of the recent bad bonanza finds in Colorado have been discovered by American prospectors.

About three hundred persons attended the banquet of the American Republican Club of Pittsburgh, given to commemorate the sixty-sixth birthday of General Grant. Colonel Fred D. Grant was among the number. The chief orator was Governor Foraker, of Ohio.

The marine hospital service has established inspecting stations at Yuma and Nogales, on the Mexican border, to prevent the introduction of contagious diseases.

The government's repeal resolutions were adopted in the Nova Scotia House of Assembly, and the resolutions opposing confederation with the Dominion were rescinded.

A hurricane swept over the northeast coast of Australia the 221 of April. The pearl-fishing fleet, numbering 400 boats, was overwhelmed, and 140 perished.

During a gale on the North Atlantic coast, boats in charge of lobster fishers of Tucket Island, N. H., were capsized, and six men perished. Many others had marvelous escapes.

The steamer Bentoo, of Singapore, was sunk in collision with a bark off the island of Formosa, and 1,000 lives were lost.

The schooner Flying Scud was recently lost off the coast of Alaska, with the crew, Captain, and passengers, all drowned.

The Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs says there is not a single case of cholera in Mexico or Central America.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade claims that evidences have multiplied during the last week of the beneficial effects of the interstate commerce law, but nevertheless general reports of the condition of business are favorable, and it is cheering to note how hopeful a spirit is everywhere expressed, an spirited improvement being manifested in all the leading branches of trade.

FOREIGN.

Messrs. Short, East India merchants, of London and Birmingham, have failed.

The Prince of Wales's year-old colt Iolyre threatening over Europe.

At the dinner given in London by the latest arrival in the peerage, Lord Ulick, stone declared his entire disbelief in the accusations against the Irish leaders. He said that in May, 1882, immediately after the assassination in Phœnix Park, Parnell wrote him a letter and offered to place himself, without reserve, in Gladstone's hands, apparently foreseeing that he would be associated with that crime. He wrote that he regarded the murders with the utmost abhorrence, and offered to resign the leadership of the Irish party and retire altogether from political life if Gladstone considered such a step advisable in the interests of Ireland.

A heavy snow-storm prevailed in Scotland and Wales on the night of April.

Seven Turkish soldiers have been massacred by religious fanatics in Albania.

A dispatch from Madrid states that the street of Schnebeels was irregular.

The Swiss State Council has ratified the copyright convention with the United States.

The new Russian loan has been subscribed to the extent of two millards of rubles.

The English poet, Swinburne, published a brochure in commemoration of Gladstone's Irish policy. The following reference to the ex-Premier is sent by cable across the water:

The lonely gentleman of the gang
That plays the game of life not to win or lose
But to play it as well as he can, is a man
Grand beneath all the clamorous clouds of his Whom time cannot no longer escape
Or the years that have taken the years
May also when money sleeps.

The German Government has ordered the release of M. Schnaebelen. It is understood that the French Government will place him on the retired list.

As a agent of the Irish Wooler Manufacturing and Exporting Company recently organized by Messrs. Parnell, Davitt, and others, a commissioner has sailed for America to develop trade for the new company.

The Petit Journal, of Paris, has just declared a dividend of 19 per cent on its last year's business. The profits for 1886 amounted to over $1,000,000.

The Pope will shortly send out an encyclical letter on the land question, in which it is said, he will unreservedly denounce the theories of Henry George.

M. Schnaebele, released from a German prison, has been enthusiastically received by his countrymen, and is likely to be retired on a pension.

William O'Brien, the pugnacious editor of United Ireland, has started from Queenstown for Canada, where he proposes to raise things interesting for Lord Lansdowne.

France is still hot over the prospect of a war with Germany, and Germany is making preparations for the conflict by large financial appropriations for strategic railways, barracks, and hospitals, and for increasing the efficiency of the army.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The Interstate Commerce Commission decided one day to investigate in New Orleans, and a pretty busy day it was. Judge Cooley, in opening the proceedings, remarked:

It may be well to say at the outset that the scope of our authority in the premises is very limited, and we have no power to make any order in regard to the matters now under consideration, but they are not for any purpose of questioning the propriety, justice, or expediency of that legislation. On the other hand, all that we have to do with the law, and we are here simply for the purpose of determining the facts and the reasons for the existence of the law, we shall in certain specified cases which have been brought to our attention make exceptions from it, when shall arise no less than in those cases from the ordinary operation of the law. That is all we have to say, and all we have any authority to say.

The following is a recapitulation of the public debt statement issued on the 30th inst. by the United States Treasurer:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4 per cent.	$250,000,000
Bonds at 4½ per cent.	737,707,450
Bonds at 5 per cent.	655,699,500
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent.	177,750
Navy pension fund at 4 per cent.	14,000,000
Pacific Railroad bonds at 6 per cent.	64,623,512
Total	$1,722,208,212
Interest thereon	21,005,772
Interest	6,780,555
Total	$1,749,493,968
DEBT ON WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MATURITY.
Principal	$6,310,715
Interest	125,003
Total	$6,435,718
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Old demand and legal-tender notes	$346,738,395
Specie certificates	54,000,000
Gold certificates	34,454,481
Silver certificates	29,000,000
Fractional currency, less $8,173,913 lost or destroyed	6,945,872
Total	$469,131,573
TOTAL DEBT.
Principal	$1,696,314,200
Interest	21,005,772
Total	$1,704,174,077
Cash in the treasury available for reduction of the debt	$ 261,178,459
Less reserve held for redemption of United States notes	100,000,000
Total	$ 161,178,459
Total debt less available cash items	1,542,995,618
Net cash in the Treasury	18,946,459
Debt less cash in Treasury May 1, 1887	1,524,049,159
Debt less cash in Treasury April 1, 1887	1,518,023,524
Decrease of debt during the month	$ 6,025,635
CASH IN THE TREASURY AVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF THE DEBT.
Gold held for gold certificates actually outstanding	$96,494,485
Silver held for silver certificates actually outstanding	37,748,409
U. S. notes held for certificates of deposit outstanding	30,000,000
Cash held for matured debt and interest unclaimed	15,984,072
Cash held for banks called not redeemed	8,305,903
Fractional currency	2,952
Total available	$188,535,822
RESERVE, FIZE.
Held for redemption of United States notes, January 14, 1875, and July 31, 1882	$ 100,000,000
Thereof held for redemption of gold Fractional silver coin	$35,921,296
Total	$ 27,928,638
Balance held as cash	8,072,740
Net cash balance on hand	18,946,459
Total cash in Treasury as shown by the Treasurer's general account	$ 187,197,995

Three thousand Chicago hod-carriers are on a strike for an advance of wages.

The proprietors of the Echo factory at Cincinnati locked out the members of the knives and fifters' assemblies—women and girls—who had refused to send delegates to the Board of Arbitration for settlement of the annual wage difficulty.

David S. Fotheringham, the alleged accomplice of "Jim Cummings" in the famous case of that name, in the Canadian courts, was placed on trial at St. Louis on the 23d inst.

The points and affidavits in support of a new trial for Fielden, Schwartz, and Parsons, in the Chicago Anarchists' case, were filed last week. They claim that new evidence has been discovered, that the Court erred in several instances, that certain jurors were incompetent, and that the minds of the jurors were prejudiced by Dr. Ashtli's sermon, and that the sentence, as pronounced, was not according to the evidence presented.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
CATTLE—Steers	$ 3.00 @ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.80½@ .80½
No. 2 Red	.87½@ .87½
CORN—No. 2	.47 @ .47½
OATS—No. 2	.29½@ .29½
PORK—New Mess	10.00 @ 10.25
CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	5.00 @ 5.25
Stockers and Feeders	2.50 @ 4.75
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.50 @ 4.85
FLOUR—Winter Wheat	3.25 @ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.77 @ .77½
No. 2 Red	.78 @ .78½
CORN—No. 2	.37½@ .37½
OATS—No. 2	.21 @ .21½
RYE—No. 2	.62 @ .63
BUTTER—Creamery	.18 @ .22
Fine Dairy	.11 @ .16
CHEESE—Full Cream, Cheddar	.10½@ .11
Full Cream, new	.10½@ .11½
EGGS	.11½@ .12
POTATOES—Choice, per bu	.72 @ .75
PORK—Mess	10.25 @ 10.37½
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.78 @ .79
CORN—No. 3	.37 @ .37½
OATS—No. 2 White	.29½@ .30½
RYE—No. 1	.62 @ .63
BARLEY—No. 2	.65 @ .66
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Cash Red	.81 @ .81½
CORN—No. 2	.40 @ .40½
OATS	.29 @ .29½
DETROIT.
BEEF CATTLE	4.25 @ 5.00
SHEEP	4.00 @ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.81 @ .81½
CORN—No. 2	.41½@ .42½
OATS—No. 2	.30 @ .30½
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.82 @ .83
CORN—No. 2	.41½@ .41½
OATS—No. 2	.27 @ .28
PORK	10.50 @ 10.75
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.87½@ .87½
CORN—No. 2	.42 @ .42½
OATS—No. 2	.30 @ .30½
RYE—No. 2	.63 @ .64
LIVE HOGS	5.00 @ 5.75
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Red	.84 @ .85
CORN—No. 2	.43 @ .43½
OATS—No. 2	.31 @ .31½
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEF CATTLE	3.00 @ 5.00
HOGS	4.80 @ 5.15
SHEEP	4.00 @ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.80½@ .81
CORN—No. 2	.40 @ .40½
OATS—No. 2	.29 @ .29½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	5.00 @ 5.25
Fair	4.70 @ 5.00
Common	3.50 @ 4.50
HOGS	5.00 @ 5.25
SHEEP	3.75 @ 4.25

THE MITCHELL FUNERAL.

One of the Largest That Ever Took Place in the City of Milwaukee.

Impressive Services by the Clergy at the Church and the Pilgrimage to the Grave.

[Milwaukee special.]

The funeral of Alexander Mitchell was the largest ever witnessed in Milwaukee. It took place on Saturday, from Christ Episcopal Church. Before removing the casket from the house, Rev. Dr. Keene read a prayer in the presence of the family.

The interior of the church was in accordance with the beautiful ritual of the Episcopal Church, of which Mr. Mitchell was a devoted member.

About all of the seats in the church were reserved for the relatives and friends, for the Governor and staff, the State and city officials and delegations of societies, commerce and railroad bodies and delegations. The casket was opened, and the remains lay in state until the hour of the funeral. A constant stream of people had been passing through the church, and during the forenoon thousands viewed the remains. The casket was of the finest and most costly like and natural, and there were many and scores and incidents during the day of old friends looked at the dead man for the last time. The casket was then hermetically sealed, and on its lid rested a cross of calla lilies.

A special train from Chicago brought hundreds of people, many of whom could not get near the church. During the service the broad avenue was blocked with a dense mass of humanity that had gathered to pay their last respects to the dead millionaire and citizen. Hundreds of strangers from over the Northwest and from other parts of the country were assembled.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Cudahy, Pabst, Ilbacher, Wauzeka, Bloodgood, and Coe. Other prominent men were selected as honorary pall-bearers, among the number being Jay Gould, Russell Sage, Chauncey M. Depew, Henry Villard, Marshall Field, Philip D. Armour, Cyrus H. McCormick, Henry Ward Beecher, Henry Hilton, Henry Clews, Thomas Nast, Thomas Hitchcock, Thomas Dickinson, Anthony Dyer, Ex-Governor Jerome, Ex-Mayor Grace, Ex-Mayor Cooper, Ex-Mayor Low, Ex-Mayor Hewitt, Ex-Mayor Edson, Ex-Mayor Ely, Ex-Mayor Wickham, Ex-Mayor Gilsey, Ex-Mayor Pearsall, Ex-Mayor Cornell

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE Detroit Evening Journal issued last Saturday a 12 page edition giving also, in supplement form a birds-eye view of Detroit, 33x44 inches in size, showing the water front and the business part of the city very clearly. The Journal managers are hustlers, and never do things by halves.

THE Chicago Herald celebrated the completion of its sixth year by issuing a 12 page historical edition, giving among other things a complete list of voters registered and voting at the city election fifty years ago, many of whom are still doing business in that city. The Herald issues a valuable memorial each anniversary in addition to its interesting and valuable issue every day.

Additional Local.

Resolutions Adopted by Baxter Post G. A. R. May 9th, 1887.

WHEREAS, our comrade Josiah Gibson has answered his last roll call, and been mustered out, and discharged from all further duty by that dread general order that awaits us all.

AND WHEREAS, the comrades of Baxter Post, in his muster out, recognize the sad fact that they have lost an honored and genial comrade, whose place in their ranks can never be filled; one who in the days that tried men's souls is said to have done his whole duty faithfully and well; one who in the neighborhood where he resided was respected for his many good qualities of heart and hand; one who was ever kind and affectionate as a husband, and loving and indulgent as a father.

Therefore resolved, that out of respect to the memory of our deceased comrade, the charter and flag of our post be draped in mourning for the space of thirty days. That we turn out in a body and in a fitting manner pay our respect to the remains and memory and of our deceased comrade. That we tender to the bereaved widow our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in this dark hour of deepest sorrow, and sad bereavement, knowing full well how weak words are to heal a sorrowing heart. That a copy of the foregoing be made and presented to Mrs. Gibson, and that the editors of the Charlevoix JOURNAL and Sentinel be requested to give these resolutions publication.

Dated May 9, 1887.

EMERY CARPENTER,
HENRY P. MILLER,
SAMUEL M. SEE,
Committee.

Attest:
C. B. GLASS, Adjutant.
E. H. GREEN,
Commander.

Resolution from the W. C. T. U.

WHEREAS, Death has entered our Union and taken our beloved sister Wilson from our midst, we feel when we look at her vacant chair that our loss is her eternal gain. Her funeral was a beautiful service; rare and beautiful flowers bedecked her richly upholstered coffin, and her hands which had so often ministered to others, lay snow white and beautiful across her breast. Many loving friends assembled and the mourners took the last look of their beloved dead. May her memory be hallowed to the good of those who so deeply mourn her loss.

Resolved, That we as a Union tender to the bereaved husband and son the heartfelt sympathy of the society; but while we mourn her loss, heaven and the angels are blessed with her presence, and we bow submissively to the divine will, and hope for a final re-union in the great beyond.

Resolved, That we as a Union will have a watchful care over little Frank and will try to keep fresh in his memory the many valuable lessons his sainted mother taught him. Our prayer is that God will guide him through life so that at last he may reach that beautiful land, the Christian's home.

I. O. G. T. Election.

At the regular election of officers of Charlevoix Lodge No. 927, I. O. G. T. the following were elected for the ensuing term:

Worthy Chief Templar—W. W. Washburn.
Worthy Vice Templar—Mrs. Josie Dartt.
Secretary—Nelson White.
Financial Secretary—Milton W. Sturgis.
Treasurer—Cornelius Budd.
Marshall—Fred M. Green.
Inside Guard—Fred L. Hemmings.
Outside Guard—Geo. McCartney.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Josiah Gibson, of Hayes township, requests us to return her grateful thanks to the many kind neighbors and friends, and to the members of Baxter Post G. A. R., who have so thoughtfully and tenderly aided her in the sickness and burial of her husband; and she earnestly hopes that the same kindness may be extended to all in the hour of need.

Ironton M. E. Church.

There will be preaching at the Ironton M. E. church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

J. T. IDDINGS.

RINGING THE LADIES.

The Way Male Flirts and Sealsways Buy Engagement Rings.

"Oh, you talk like a sentimental girl when you ask what's new in engagement rings! Don't you know that there is no such thing in stock as an engagement ring? Well, there isn't. We try to keep as fine a line of rings as the market affords, and the only classification recognized by the trade includes stone, seal, and plain rings. Other than those there are no classes. Any further more we ring all our customers from the same tray—babies, belles, matrons, maids, and men of all ages. This talk about engagement-ring novelties has ceased to amuse us.

"As I suppose you know, we sell most of our goods to men, but that does not imply any great weakness for stones or bands on their part. I guess that the average man buys about six rings in his life-time, and of that number not less than five go to make some fair hand fairer. When he buys Bridget a ring we show him a thick, stout affair, that does not cost a great deal, and will stand the siege of laundry, scrub-bucket, broom and coal-cellar. If he asks for a baby ring, he has his choice of a dollar square band, or a solitaire worth $25 or $30. There is no class in wedding rings, save in weight, but for any other purpose the amount he cares to pay will determine the class of goods we show him. Men know this, too, and if a sister or pretty cousin is to be the recipient of a jewel the customer very plainly states that he wants a little ring for $15 or $18. Of course, there are all sorts of buyers and all sorts of rings, and if there is no necessity for economy he picks out what he likes, pays for it, and the chances are the sale is a pretty one.

"Perhaps he has a pleasing palpitation of the heart. In that case he flashes up a little, asks to see some 'engagement' rings, and out comes the identical tray from which his sister's ring was selected. There are cluster and solitaire stones of every size, shape, and variety in perhaps fifty styles of setting. The price he pays for the ring depends entirely on the price of the girl. That may strike you a little as an absurdity but the fact is anything else. The fellow who is only having some fun with the blind boy gets a very gingerly weapon, and $18 is quite as high as his investment goes. He would like to take a cameo at $7 if he dared but the hankest and most carroty-headed girl in the country knows that cameos are as dead as tin belts, fashionably. A plain gold is as bad as a cornelian, but the heart-killer picks out something with plenty of alloy in it and a fair chip of some genuine pebble. The rich scalawag takes to a bor-pattern and willingly pays $60 to $80 for a symbol of his passion. If the best gets turned off, the ring is recalled; and when he loses his miserable heart again, the ring is sent to us and the stone are so cheap that the identity of the jewel is past recognition.

"The serious, earnest, honest swain is readily identified, for he buys with the future in view and as much liberality as his income will allow.

"The fact that plates have been entirely ignored by gentlemen in society, and will be similarly treated this winter by the ladies, has had a tendency to brush up the ring trade, and some very unique settings are shown. From a mineral standpoint there is nothing new. Diamonds are just as precious and plentiful as they ever were, and rubies and emeralds are quite as rare. Opals and sapphires will never lose their favor till, like mortals, their beauties fade, and in spite of witches and old women opals are as lovely as Luna herself. For those who can afford them, solitaires are matchless, and genuine pebbles in real-gold and Roman setting can be had for $60 or $4,000. Clusters are plentiful for those omniverous people who call for an apple-dumpling and want the whole orchard under dough. Opaque mountones and semi-transparent opals make pretty rings when combined with sapphires or rubies. The red, white and blue rings come under the cluster rings, and are meeting with unusual favor. One style is a triplexian ring ridged with three five-stone-bars set with small rubies, diamonds and sapphires. The prettiest rings of the season are of Roman gold with three stones in mosaic setting. Old mine stones of this style, made of a blue diamond, a sapphire, and ruby are very choice, and cheap at $375.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Jury's Joke.

During the present session of the present term of the superior court of Forsyth county, some strange and laughable incidents occurred in a courtroom.

On Wednesday a certain case came on to be tried on exceptions filed to the report of an auditor—said case having been previously referred to an auditor.

When the distinguished attorney for the party filing the exceptions told the jury that if they found for the report of the auditor, $1.17, the amount found by the auditor, that he wanted their photographs—everyone knew that the auditor was a fool, and if the jury found the same way, thereby showing that there were twelve more fools in the country, he wanted their photographs. After the charge by the judge the jury retired and quickly brought in a verdict in accordance with the report of the auditor, and as soon as the court took recess the jury got together, had their pictures taken and presented them to the distinguised attorney who made the remark.—Atlanta Constitution.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

At the last letting of the Harbor Springs and Beaver Island mail route C. W. Caskey, one of the owners of the propellor Van Raalte, was awarded the contract.

The patent fence men have a new scheme for roping in the grangers. They drugged a farmer in Calhoun county and when he was in a half-dazed condition they sold him some territory. These fellows should always be referred to the bull dog.

Marshal Ryan, of Marquette, found a saloon a little off its base, so far as the liquor law is concerned, last Sunday, and promptly run the proprietor into court, where he might have experienced a sad depletion of purse had not Mayor Tim Nestor heard of the transaction. The doughty chief executive hurried to the scene, and after reading the officer a red hot lecture on the impropriety of making an arrest without a warrant, ordered the proceedings quashed, which was done.—Evening News.

"Roasted Hostess."

There are sensible people in civilized communities who comprehend that a woman who is worth visiting may have stated work to do that cannot be entirely laid aside for weeks, or days, for the delight of a favorite guest's companionship. The visitor who cannot see this is an absorbent of the spongiest type. Make your invitations to her as few as is compatible with policy.

While giving your friends graciously of your best, avoid the appearance of "putting yourself out" to accomplish this end. Let the flow of hospitality be that of the mountain spring, not the forcing pump.

"The first course was roasted hostess," said a wicked satirist of a dinner party. Your guests will not easily forgive themselves if they remark so entire a change in your every-day manner of living as argues an extraordinary press and strain upon yourself and helpers. However skillful may be your endeavor to bring up "the style" of your establishment to the level of one which has an undergirding of five times your income, you cannot achieve a counterfeit that will deceive others. Strike the true key in the beginning, and do not change it. Be yourself, and keep what belongs to, and is of you, in just harmony.

Bear in mind that Recreation, Repose, Refreshment, are the Blessed Three that should attend upon the stranger or acquaintance within your gates. The hospitality that comes short of this is a misnomer.—Marion Harland, in Good Housekeeping.

The Design of the Puritan.

It having been suggested from some unknown source that Mr. Burgess, the designer of the Puritan, being a naturalist, had taken the lowly conformation of some surface-water insect which had developed speed of movement as his model for the sloop's bottom, a scientific friend of that gentleman was asked about this mishap. "He would more likely have taken a wasp for his pattern," said he; "and if he had taken either he is such an enthusiast as a naturalist that he would certainly have mentioned the circumstance to his associates." "But the fact is," interposed another friend, "Mr. Burgess has been for years observant of all in boats that was indative of speed, and he combined everything in the Puritan that seemed likely to contribute to her success. If he saw anything in a cutter worthy of adoption, you may be sure he has taken it."

"The fact is," said the first gentleman, "the Puritan as she floats is a deep centre-board, and Mr. Burgess has taken ideas from illiterate boat-builders who have stumbled on to good models, men who measure with their thumbs, to speak metaphorically—as well as from the more scientific naval architects who have won fame by their productions. Whatever the result, you may rest assured that, using his own ideas as a basis, he is not egotist enough to omit the good points originated by other minds that have been brought to his notice to the enhancement of the Puritan's success."—Boston Transcript.

Reading in Total Darkness.

Though M. Chevreul, the veteran French chemist, will complete his hundredth year on the last day of this month, he had an experience a day or two ago of which it is safe to say he would search his scrivenin in vain for a parallel. He received a visit in his laboratory from the members of the Chinese mission in Paris; and the conversation naturally turning on the subject of light and color, which M. Chevreul has spent his life in investigating, one of the party astonished him by declaring that he could see perfectly without light, and he already read some pages of a book in the dark. M. Chevreul doubtless knows that a predecessor of his own, Jerome Cardan, a learned savant of the sixteenth century, was credited with the same power, and the young Scaliger assures us that when he awoke from his brief slumbers he was able to read in the dark without lighting his lamp. The younger Scaliger was rather given to boasting; and this statement of his has usually been classed with that of his eminent contemporary and philologist rival, the learned Buchanan, who claimed to have discovered a key to the language of the angelic choir; but the feat of the living Chinese goes some way to establish the genuineness of this particular pretension of the dead Grecian.—St. James's Gazette.

Emily Soldene is the mother of seven or eight children. She speculates. When the pilot boarded the incoming Celtic a week ago, Miss Soldene hurriedly asked him for a newspaper. She turned to the market reports and saw the price of wheat. "Good heavens!" she exclaimed, "wheat has gone up like the mischief, and I am short of it."

Coming to Charlevoix.

The sick treated free of charge.—Fourteen doctors.

Doctors of the great English Staff of Physicians and Surgeons will visit Charlevoix, Fountain City House, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, May 21, 22, 23, and 24. Four days only.

OFFICE HOURS 8 A. M. TO 8 P. M. SUNDAYS 10 TO 4.

The doctors return every three months.

The treat all variety of disease and deformity. As this is their advertising trip, they will give advice and perform all surgical operations free of charge, viz: removal of cancers, tumors, cataracts, curvatures of the spine, club feet, and all other surgical operations. If constitutional treatment is required, all it will cost will be their medicine.

They will not take any case to treat without there is a moral certainty of giving entire satisfaction.

If your disease is incurable, they will frankly and honestly tell you, and will give such advice as may be required to prolong life; also caution you against spending more money for medicine and appliances which traveling impostors usually suggest.

The number of patients were treated and rejected in the following places, viz: Ottawa, 1,325; 640 rejected; London, Ont., 1,270, 560 rejected; Hamilton, 1,460, 655 rejected; Toronto, 2,768, 1,165 rejected.

This staff is composed of men who have reached the highest round in the ladder of medical and surgical sciences.

Remember the date and go early, as they can only wait upon about 150 patients a day.

All diseases of the eye, ear, throat, lungs, heart, liver, stomach, kidneys, and all the various forms of female complaints are successfully treated and satisfaction guaranteed. Catarrh a specialty.

Notice: Electric batteries and appliances, trusses for rupture furnished to patients until cured free of charge.

Emrey Bros. have some nice Potatoes for sale.

☞ Pain and disease removed without the agency of medicine, at the Metaphysical Bethesda.

Buy your Butter and Eggs at Emrey Brothers.

Many ladies admire gray hair—on some other person—but few care to try the effects on their own charms. They need not, since Ayer's Hair vigor restores gray hair to its original color, free from the objectionable features of other preparations.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

In the spring, hundreds of persons suffer from boils, pimples, and other eruptive diseases. These are evidences that the system is trying to purge itself of impurities, and thus it needs the powerful aid which is afforded by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Evaporated Apples, splendid and cheap, at Emrey Brothers.

Good Timothy Hay at Emrey Brothers.

Portable Boiler
FOR SALE.

Twelve feet long, 2½ feet shell, 4 feet wood; in perfect order, good and cheap. Address,

L. E. ALLEN,
200tf Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas, default has been made in the payment of a mortgage made by a mortgage dated the twenty-fourth day of December, A. D. 1885, executed by Cyrus Kane and Ann Kane, of Michigan, to Robert W. Kane, of Charlevoix, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber eleven of mortgages on page 172, on the 25th day of November, 1885, and which said mortgage was given to secure the sum of forty-two and fifty-five hundredths dollars of principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part of it, and no part of said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale, and pursuant to the statute in such case provided, the said premises will be foreclosed by sale at the premises hereinafter described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county is held), on the 8th day of August, 1887, at 12 o'clock noon of said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: A part of lot 4 of block "A" in the village of South Boyne, as per the records of said village, bounded as follows, viz.: Commencing at the southeast corner of said lot, thence south along Water Main street to the intersection of Pine street, thence north on the line of said lot, thence west on the north line of said lot to the northwest corner of said lot, thence south along the west line of said lot to the place of beginning.

Dated May 9th, 1887.

ROBERT W. KANE,
Mortgagee.

F. W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Michigan.

F. E. Wood,
BARBER SHOP
And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR

JOB WORK

AT THIS OFFICE.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts can be made for it in NEW YORK.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

FULL SIZE, WELL MADE AND PERFECT FIT.
TRY THEM. For sale by G. W. MILLER.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,
Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.
TERRACE FARM. - CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a tumor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. There seemed to be a film on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing much pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight is now perfect, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Randall T. Evans, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

By Taking

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she had the use of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look upon a brilliant light with without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. F. Sutherland, Evansville, Indiana, City, Ky.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY is complete without the monthly visits of BARYOMOL that delight, comfort and aid of the mother. Only publication in the world devoted to the care of young children. We are glad to recommend it. (Dekoman Co., N. Y.) $1.50 a year; 15 cents a copy.

ADVERTISERS or others, who wish to examine an advertising space where in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 W. Randolph Street, Room 1, Tribune building, the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 12, 1887.

☞ Mrs. Ed. Bedford purchased last week one of the finest organs that ever came to Charlevoix, made by Story & Clark, Chicago. Dr. N. J. Perry, agent, Charlevoix.

☞ Wanted, a TEACHER, for two months, in school district No. 2, fractional, of Bear Lake township. Address, stating terms, etc., N. N. CARD, Norwood, Charlevoix county, Mich.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

Advertisers are requested to hand in their favors before six o'clock Wednesday evening each week, to avoid the hurry of publication day.

☞ We have just received a large invoice of Ironstone China Dishes, Glass-ware, and Crockery.

WILL SEE & CO.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

☞ Come in and see our new stock of Francis Folson Cleveland glass ware. WILL SEE & CO.

☞ Two or three good new milch Cows for sale cheap.

☞ Pain and disease removed without the agency of medicine, at the Metaphysical Bethesda.

The Charlevoix Journal has been enlarged to a six column quarto, which to our eye is an improvement, and an indication of prosperity.—Kalkaska Leader.

Boys who are in the habit of killing birds, should remember that they are liable to a fine of $5.00 for every robin, thrush or other song birds which they might kill.

Last week Friday S. M. See returned from Milwaukee, where he had been purchasing a stock of furniture for S. M. See & Sons. They now have a large stock.

The steamer Lou A. Cummings gave an excursion from East Jordan, Ironton, and Charlevoix to Petoskey and Harbor Springs last Sunday, which was quite well patronized.

Forest fires are doing considerable damage on the north side of Pine lake. F. J. Smith's barn burned yesterday afternoon, and it is reported to-day that his house burned last night.

The new residence of H. Lee Iddings on Grant street, next to the high school building, and a cottage for John Burns and A. Cameron, its builders, and will be ready for occupancy soon.

R. A. Campbell, late of the Bridge Street House and now of the Occidental at Petoskey, was in Charlevoix Tuesday morning, shaking hands with friends, and made the JOURNAL a call.

At the meeting of the society of the Congregational church Monday evening the resignation of C. F. Van Auken as pastor was accepted, and the trustees authorized to extend a call to a successor of the fit.

The steamer Joseph Gordon is running between Charlevoix and Boyne, leaving Charlevoix at 8.00 a. m.; returning leave Boyne at 3.00 p. m., passed into the hands of Capt. Nicholas, who at once opened the house to the public, and who will undoubtedly keep up the excellent reputation of the house.

The Clara Belle is running on the Boyne route, leaving Boyne at 6.30 a. m. and 1.00 p. m., and leaving Charlevoix at 9.45 a. m. and 3.30 p. m., touching at all intermediate points, and connecting at Charlevoix with steamers Friant and Cummings.

At the regular meeting of the village council last week the following saloon bonds were approved: Jos. Robert and Michael Tolleck, principal, with Robert Tolleck and John Bell as sureties; James A. Gellick as principal, with O. D. Wood and Nelson Ainslie as sureties.

Geo. W. Miller never gets left, and when there is a distribution of clothing and gents' furnishing goods going on, he manages to keep very near to the front of proceedings. If you don't believe this, go and look at his mammoth stock of new goods just received.

The trial of William Holland for beating his wife was had yesterday before Esquire McLeod by a jury who pronounced him guilty. Thereupon he was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs, which were $34.75, and in default of payment of his fine and costs that he be taken to the Detroit house of correction for a term of 85 days. As yet the fine is not paid.

The Rev. Father Luke, O. S. F., who was expected to be at Charlevoix to-day and to-morrow, has sent word that it is impossible for him to fill this appointment, as he has been called out of the state unexpectedly. Announcement of his coming will be given in due time.

Since the East Jordan Enterprise passed into the hands of H. C. Miley, late of the Boyne Citizen it has been enlarged from a seven column folio to a six-column quarto. Now if the subscription price is raised to $1.50 and the paper is made worth it, the change is a good one.

The Clara Belle returned from Manistee last Friday, where Capt. Geo. Jepson took her for repairs, and she now comes back repainted, and refurnished, and is in first class condition for the trade and will continue to run on the Boyne route. See time card in another column.

An eastern editor has started a crusade against the bustle, and insists that it isn't desirable for women to look like an arm chair walking backwards. The editor is correct. More hustle than woman is out of proportion. Still we continue to sell old newspapers at forty cents per hundred.

Alick Rosenthal has purchased his father's interest in the business of Rosenthal & Son, and that firm is dissolved. Alick will remain in Charlevoix, removing to the Lewis block about May 18th, where he will continue to carry a full stock of dry goods, carpets, clothing and gents' furnishing goods.

Josiah Gibson, one of the well known and respected citizens of Hayes township, died Sunday evening, May 8th, at his home, at the age of 56 years, 5 months, and 6 days. Mr. Gibson was born in the state of New York, where he lived the greater part of his life. In the late war he served his country in Company I, 16th Regiment, New York Artillery. He became a member of the Baxter Post, May 12, 1883, and died a worthy member of that order. The funeral occurred at the Methodist church on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Baxter Post G. A. R. and Rev. W. H. McCartney.

Rev. A. T. Waterman has severed his connection with the Congregational church, and will 'remove his family from Charlevoix next week to his home at Ovid, in this state. Mr. Waterman has resided in Charlevoix about six months as assistant pastor of this church during the temporary absence of its pastor in other states. While he has been with the church, although he has labored under many disadvantages, the church has enjoyed a renewed and substantial spiritual growth through his efforts, and he leaves this work in an excellent spiritual condition. In his efforts to substantially build up and advance the cause of Christ to other fields, he much devoted, nothing but a character at once genteel, cultured and energetic has been exhibited. We do not know where his next field of labor will be, but many good wishes go with him, knowing that during his residence in Charlevoix good seed was sown that will eventually bring forth an abundant harvest.

Charlevoix will surely have a railroad. The surveyors have been out now almost two weeks surveying the D. C. & E. route, and when the survey is completed, which will be within ninety days, grading will begin at once, and it is the intention of the officers of this company to have at least a part of the iron laid during this year. They are consummating arrangements by which money to complete the road will be furnished, and this will be done without delay. H. S. Beardsley the engineer in charge of the survey reports a very direct and practicable route with grade from Charlevoix to Intermediate points, and the construction of the road will cause him any particular trouble to surmount. There is no question about Charlevoix being the most important town in the state not on a railroad, and considering the country through which this line is to pass it cannot help being a paying investment. Charlevoix is not alone in pushing this matter. Ironton, Bellaire, Kalkaska, and Grayling are each as earnestly at work as we. We believe that Charlevoix will have a railroad within 1887. And if we get the road we are sure of the C. & W. M. road which is being pushed this way, as Chicago cannot afford to lose the trade in northern Michigan which the D. C. & E. route will, without competition naturally draw from the east. Let us take courage.

☞ Pain and disease removed without the agency of medicine at the Metaphysical Bethesda.

Eveline.

Sunday was a scorcher.

Mr. Dennis has moved back on his farm again.

Whitney Bettas and family, who have been absent from here the past winter, has moved back in with his father James Bettas.

It should have read last week that Mrs. E. G. Jarman was still getting worse, instead of Mr. E. G. Jarman. She is still no better.

W. S. Stripp lost a horse one day last week by being burned, so that it became necessary to shoot it.

Robert Newson left last Thursday for Sault Ste. Marie, where he will be absent for a while, working at the carpenter trade.

Most of our farmers will finish seeding this week.

That awful whistle of the Gazelle's is once more heard through the land. She looks neat after a fresh coat of paint.

There was a night cap social at the Hillegas school house last Friday evening. Something over $6.00 was the receipts of the evening, which is to help pay for an organ for the Sunday school.

The trees are beginning to look quite green, which seems more business like.

The Ironton boys played base ball last Saturday on Bedwin's place. They have organized a club, but we have not learned who the officers are.

May 10.

Wilson.

Lovely spring weather.

The crops are doing nicely but we need rain.

Mrs. Baker, of South Arm, has recently visited friends in this vicinity.

Miss Ruth Hurley, who has been spending a few months in East Jordan has returned home to stay.

Delbert Smith, of southeastern Michigan, nephew of Mrs. Harp, is visiting here for a few weeks.

Mr. Sydney Burley has a new barn in process of erection.—Albert Todd, builder.

School began May 2d; Miss Sarah Jones, teacher. Eleven pupils are enrolled.

The special election resulted in the election of Marion Hudkins supervisor by five majority.

The boys who went to the Upper Peninsula came back and reported business dull. They decided to stay at home and clear land.

Rev. H. C. Scofield and daughter Prudie, of Wayne Co., father and sister of J. R. Vance, recently visited at J. R.'s. Miss Prudie remained behind to assist in other work as expects to remove here soon with his family.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ed ward Rogers tender them a farewell hop on Friday evening. They contemplate moving away soon.

Burgess.

Moses Cooper loaded a large vessel at Oyster Bay last week with over 5,000 ties for W. H. Downer.

Hayes is losing some of its valuable floating population this week: Chas. Arnold takes a position on the steamer Van Raalte; Richard Cooper takes his old position on the Florence Smith, and I. S. Webster left Monday morning for Detroit to fill a position on the steamer Japan, of the Lake Superior route.

Mr. Peter Long, of Evangeline, was visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Edna Kane, the first of the week.

Loren Hamlin is quite sick at the residence of his brother in law, Mr. Cline.

The trees are putting on their beautiful green robes.

May 10.

Milnes.

May 1—Schr. Charles Crawford, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, C. J. Lloyd, to Detroit.

9—Schr. Felicd, 27,000 feet, hardwood lumber, John McKay, to Milwaukee.

9—Schr. Ostrich, 6,000 cedar ties, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

9—Schr. Kate Hinchman, 9,000 cedar posts W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

9—Schr. John Schuette, 525 tons pig iron, P. L. I. Co., I. Cleveland.

7—Schr. Fort Shaler, 100 cords wood, Burnham & Son, to Milwaukee.

11—Steamer Van Raalte, 47 packages mdse., C. L. Co., to Manistique; 26 package mdse., Nell Gallager, to Milwaukee; 1 package mdse., Gallager, to St James.

11—Scow, Arctic, 150 cords wood, W. S. Stripp to Milwaukee.

Every boat from Chicago brings New Goods for Emery Brothers.

☞ Pain and disease removed without the agency of medicine at the Metaphysical Bethesda.

Buy your Flour and Feed of Emrey Brothers.

☞ NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.—The co-partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned in the hamelet Rosenthal & Son is dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be hereafter conducted by Alick Rosenthal to whom all indebtedness of said firm will be paid.

SAMUEL ROSENTHAL
ALICK ROSENTHAL.

Dated Charlevoix, May 9th, 1887.

Will Stay.

Having purchased the interest of Mr. S. Rosenthal, and by request of many patrons and friends, I have decided to remain.

May 18th I will remove my stock to the Lewis block, second door south of the bridge, and before moving I will sell goods at almost any price. Call in and secure great bargains for the next TEN DAYS.

Respectfully,
ALICK ROSENTHAL,
Successor to Rosenthal & Son.

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring effects in ceiling and side wall decorations, cornice pieces, dados, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

Come and see our New Carpets and Curtains.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Successors to F. W. Craine & Co.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1887. «TIME-CARD» 1887.

OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS.

THOMAS FRIANT, CAPT. E. VANDERHOEF. Going South Every Morning. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	7.00
PETOSKEY	8.00
CHARLEVOIX	9.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	11.30

Going North Every Afternoon. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	1.30
CHARLEVOIX	3.00
PETOSKEY	4.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	6.00

LOU A. CUMMINGS, CAPT. W. A. SNYDER. Going South Every Morning. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN	7.00
CHARLEVOIX	8.00
PETOSKEY	11.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	11.30

Going North Every Afternoon. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	1.00
PETOSKEY	2.00
CHARLEVOIX	3.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	6.00

Baggage and Freight Carried at Low Rates.

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Sash, Doors and Blinds,
Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.
Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.
A GOOD STOCK OF
PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING
FLOORING, CEILING, AND FRAMING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.
Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.
Summer Cottages a Specialty.
CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

A BENEDICTION.

BY C. R. CRESPI.

In asking for you, heaven's most gracious blessing,
One word alone I need—
One word in which our want of strength confessing
For God's clear aid we plead.

You go forth boldly as to joust or tourney,
Grand in your dauntless pride;
If God be with you through life's untried journey
Naught else you need beside.

You gaze with fearless eyes beyond the portal
Through which your way path leads;
May God be with you! for His love immortal
Suffineth all our needs.

What will your war-cry be when foes grow bolder
And strike on either hand?
When swing grow darker, love and friendship colder
"God, and the promised land?"

Tread by the touch of bright angelic fingers,
Tread upon your way,
Where yet the guilelessness of childhood lingers—
"Go forth and conquer now."

Go boldly forth, by God's clear love defended,
To guide you heaven's clear light;
Your pathway let all angels pure attended—
Go forth and win the fight!

IN THE REALM OF SCIENCE.

BY S. M. JELLEY.

Like many other young women, not yet out of their teens, I was, through financial misfortune, thrown upon my own resources for a livelihood. By dint of steady practice I mastered stenography, became a proficient typewriter, and subsequently secured a in a lucrative position as private secretary to Mr. Banks, senior partner of Banks, Price & Co., publishers.

Last summer, during the fine weather, I found a pleasanter way to earn bread, instead of riding in the crowded street cars, and usually at five o'clock I dressed my hat and gloves and started on my little journey. My attention was always attracted by a gentleman of clerical appearance whom I frequently met at a certain corner. Tall, of fine form and pleasing address, he was noticeable among the stream of commonplace humanity one meets upon a city thoroughfare.

As the days wore on, the constant meeting with this stranger became a matter of course, and I wondered at it, not, indeed in truth, so familiar was his face that I experienced a sense of disappointment when, occasionally, I failed to meet him. He was some professional man, I thought, whose business hours were over about the time mine were, and our ways were opposite.

One day our eyes met, and I was startled at the peculiar brilliancy of his. They were blue, shaded by heavy, white lashes, and a serious, kindly, try flame seemed to scintillate in them. He seemed to regard me with pleasure, for a light came lighted up his intellectual features, yet his manner was so respectful that I did not resent the liberty, and went on my way with a vague wish for some introduction.

Two weeks later, while busy with my type-writer, my silent acquaintance was ushered into Mr. Banks' office. His name was Robert Sutherland, and he business with my employer concerned the publication of a ponderous manuscript upon nervous diseases and their connection with insanity. In a low, well-bred voice he carried on a rapid conversation, displaying profound knowledge of medicine and deep research in the mysteries of human ailments. Apparently engrossed in my work, I paid close attention to the conversation, and inspecting to look up I found him gazing at me, the speaking brilliancy of his eyes arrested my attention. He smiled kindly, and slightly inclined his head in a deferential salute. In a few minutes the interview was ended, and he departed.

In a few days he had further business with Mr. Banks, and an introduction followed, as portions of his manuscript were sent to me to be transcribed. Dr. Sutherland revised it. I found him courteous and pleasant, and as I progressed with the work we became quite friendly. Upon examining a roll of closely written sheets, I found an envelope addressed to me. It read as follows:

MISS ORA OLNEY—Pardon my seeming forwardness in thus coming to you, but I can think of no other agreeable method of approach. I sympathize with you in your acquaintance, and with the desire to obtain such, also with a stubborn sense directed by a will we are bonnet to take a park drive, to-morrow afternoon, with your acquaintance.

ROBERT SUTHERLAND.

My surprise was unbounded. After thinking the matter over I decided to accept the invitation. He was waiting at the door of the office, and for two hours I was well entertained. The park was in the full foliage, the air was balmy and pleasant, and when he lifted me to the elegant fortuna home, I thanked him cordially for the pleasantness I had enjoyed.

After his departure I remembered that his eyes seemed to possess a peculiar charm, and that I had accidentally touched. Deeming it a little note, I dismissed the thought from my mind.

The drive was followed by a request to go with him to see Mary Anderson, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." Evening fell with a storm of wind and rain. He came in his coupe, and if ever I felt a protector

GAMBLER'S SUPERSTITIONS.

"No, I'm not betting to-day," was the reply of a sporting man in answer to an inquiry from another of his kik whether he had bought any pools on the races.

"Busted?" was another laconic inquiry.

"No, but I laced one of my shoes up wrong this morning. It's a bad sign. I'll let 'em alone to-day."

"Are you superstitious?"

"I frankly confess that I am," he replied, as he lit a cigar, "and I don't know of a sporting man or gambler that is not superstitious, and, furthermore, I do not believe there is a human being living who is not. Of course, some are more so than others, but take gamblers and horsemen as a class and you will find that each one has his own peculiar quirk. Now, this morning I laced my shoe up wrong. If I had left it that way it would have been a lucky day for me, but I didn't; I unlaced it, and I'll bet two to one I bought a pool on a horse he would break his neck before he came under the string."

"That's quite interesting. Would you mind giving me some of your experience? What do you consider a lucky omen?"

"You want to know what I call a lucky omen, eh? That's just as the dice strikes me. When I was in New York last summer I used to count white horses. Say I would be standing at the corner of Fulton street and Broadway. I'd take out my watch—when I had one—and time myself and count the number of white horses that turned from Broadway into Fulton street during five minutes' time. I sometimes would go on the odd numbers and sometimes on the even. Like this: If I made up my mind on even horses and an even number went by during the five minutes then I would be lucky, and vice versa."

"I have heard of gamblers visiting fortune tellers for tips. Do you ever visit them?"

"Many a time, sir. Here's one instance. I was a hard-shell republican, and was backing Jim Blaine to shovel and grain, when I went one day to see a fortune teller. Says she: 'You have been making foolish bets; go and bet the other way all that you have—all the money you can beg or borrow.' I told her I was betting on Blaine, and she said: 'Wait.' Then she went into another room and came out in about a minute. 'Cleveland will be elected as sure as you sit there in that chair, but he will never serve his term out.' That was a fortune teller, but I took stock in it, for she never fooled me in her life. I hedged and bet on Grover, all on her account, and made $2,000 clear above my hedge off of Kelly, the bookmaker. Here's another instance from the same women. I had been playing in hard luck, till I only had $12 left. I went to her and told her how I was fixed and that I wanted a tip on the races. She told me to read the names of the horses to her. I did so, and when I got through the list she said: 'Tilford is the only one I am sure of; bet your money on Tilford.' time the little compartment was quite filled with a cloud of smoke—to the horror and consternation of the old gentleman, whose features grew dark and lowering under the unwonted exercise to which his lungs were being subjected. "Pardon, madame!" he gasped, "pardon! but I am too ill to support the smoke of your cigarette."

"If you are," cried Sarah, "you can just open these windows. The fresh air will revive you." "I cannot do that," was the reply, "as it would only aggravate my cold, and, besides, permit me to remind madame that this is no smoking compartment." "Permit me to remind monsieur," exclaimed Sarah, indignantly, "that I am not to be trifled with in this fashion. Hold your tongue, or I will compel you to do so!" The old man protested against this insolence, but his pronunciation were cut short by a pair of fists applied to both his cheeks in the tragic scissors. At the first station at which the train stopped the old man got down and told the station master that there was a raving lunatic in the compartment he had just left. An inquiry was instituted on the spot, with the result that Sarah, after receiving a sharp reprimand, was allowed to proceed with her smoke and her journey in peace.—Brussels Letter in Philadelphia Press.

"Done In Pay?"

A correspondent, who evidently wishes she was a big, bad man, writes to the Woman's Journal to ask if it pays to be a woman? I should ask to know why, not! If it pays to be petted and absidized if you behave yourself, if it pays to be worked for and treated and poor-pussy'd, if it pays to be pretty, and graceful, and charming, if it pays to be loved and honored and respected, if it pays to make somebody glad they were born and happy to live for your sake, if it pays to be the greatest power for good or evil that this world knows, if it pays to be the mother of that sweetest of all God-given things, a baby, if it pays to be a mother whose children grown to manhood rise up and call her blessed, if it pays to be a wife dearer to a good man than his honor or his life, if it pays to have the blessings of the poor, the sick, the friendless, or the helpless—if any of these things pay, then it pays to be a woman.

Fie! on the woman who asks such a question. Shame on her for admitting even to herself that she has done nothing so good or so womanly that it "paid." The woman who takes the best of birthrights and so traduces it is no woman at all. She is a creature! A being so selfish, so whining, so hard, so bitter, and so complaining that she not only does not enjoy the pleasures that are here, but she puts an iron bar before the man or the woman who tries to do anything for her, simply makes her own misfortune, for it would take not only the disposition of an angel, but the heart of a lion as well, to make up and be pretty day after day to a woman who takes a proffered caress as if it were a dose of medicine, and never gives one in return; who finds a sinister motive in every bit of gallantry and has a sneer for every pleasantry of every sort. We should be devoutly thankful there are few such women in this world. Some there are, and they, they alone, are the kind who find "it does not pay!"—Graphic.

The Isle of Man.

In the midst of the Irish Sea, at about an equal distance from England, Scotland and Ireland, is situated a small island, thirty-three miles long, twelve miles broad and about 100 miles in circumference, which bears the name of the Isle of Man. Whence it derived this name is unknown. Some say that it comes from a Saxon word, manig, which means surrounded, others from a Scandinavian word, mon, signifying isolated, to which, it is said, Cæsar gave a Latin termination, calling it Mona. According to some philologists it is the Samaria mentioned in scripture, and was so called because it was the abode of "holy, wise men," viz.: the Druids of Britain. The Mona to which Tacitus refers is undoubtedly Anglesea, for he speaks of the infantry of Suetonius crossing from the mainland in flat-bottomed boats, and of horses swimming across and fording the stream; but it is not improbable that the same word was used by Cæsar to designate this remote island also, especially if the last derivation be accepted, as the Druids occupied both islands. The natives call it in their tongue Mannin (or being the Celtic for an island), which some render into 'the middle island,'" and others into "island of the wise men." They also speak of it as Mannin-veg, veen (the dear little Isle of Man) and Ellan Vannin. Some regard the name as a corruption of Manno, the son-in-law of St. Patrick, but both words may have been derived from the same root. The Danes and Northmen appear to have pronounced it Maun.

Merely a Figure of Speech.

"This habit of yelling and howling seems a very common practice among American ladies and children. Can it be a mere whoop of your aboriginal predecessors upon your native soil handed down as an American car-mark? I was once a guest at an elegant soirée in an illinois town of 10,000 inhabitants. The house was sumptuous, so was the hostess, so the guests. At supper the charming daughter of the house remarked to me: 'Mr. Taurus, if you don't see what you want just yell for it!' That there was that pretty Philadelphia bride who told us how horribly embarrassed she felt in going into church to be married two weeks before. 'I told Ned I knew I could not do it,' she prattled; 'I knew that when the clergyman came to the word 'obey' I should roar right out, and if I didn't roar I should squall! 'Did you roar or did you squall?' asked Johannes, 'father,' answered the lovely girl. 'I waited until we returned to the carriage, and then I just howled!"—Art Age.

It is related that an Oil City dog, who wouldn't or couldn't get out of the way of an oncoming freight train, calmly lay down between two ties hugging the earth as closely as possible, until the train had passed on over him, when he got up and scampered away, wagging his tail in a knowing manner.

Base-Ball Profits in New York.

The directors of the New York Base-Ball Club are going rich out of the craze in that city with regard to the so-called national game. A New York correspondent writes:

Barnet Forbes told me the other day how a friend of his in Wall street offered to let him in on the ground floor at the time the base-ball club was started. The capital to be raised was $25,000. Four men had already volunteered to take a piece of it at $5,000. The remaining share was placed at the disposal of Mr. Forbes as a special mark of friendliness. He took a night to consider the advisability of making the investment, and in the meantime consulted Sheridan Shook, the theatrical manager, bon vivant, politician, and a man about town. Mr. Saook said the enterprise could be nothing but a failure in New York, where the people were wedded to horse-racing and yachting. There was not a cent in it, he said, on his reputation as a man who had dealt with the public as an entertainer for years. Mr. Forbes let the golden opportunity slip. The first year of the club a profit of $40,000 was divided. Last year $80,000 was cut up into three slices among the backers who bought out the others. This year heaven only knows what the earnings of the club will be with it in her company for the pennant and the deciding games to be played at home. It is nothing for $10,000 to go into the turn-sticks at a single game on the polo grounds.

IT IS WONDERFUL

how easily rheumatism begins, and how insidiously it grows in the system, until one is startled to find himself in victim in either the acute or chronic form, and then learns the fearful tenacity of its grip and the utter powerlessness of the ordinary remedies to give relief.

Probably no to disease have physicians given more study, and none have so completely baffled their efforts to provide a specific; and until Athlophoros was discovered, there was no medicine which would surely cure rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous or sick headache. Thousands of testimonials like the following prove beyond question that Athlophoros is the only reliable remedy, and that it will do all that is claimed for it.

East Saginaw, Mich.

About four weeks ago I was taken with a severe attack of rheumatism. My feet were so swollen that I could not wear my boots; in fact, I could just hobble around and get very little sleep at night, as I suffered intense pain whether I sat up or laid down. I went out and bought a pair of crutches to enable me to get around. After buying them, when on my way home, I stopped in at W. B. Moor's drug store, and noticing Athlophoros for sale I decided to try a bottle. After taking half a bottle I laid my crutches aside, only using them the one time—on my way home. The swelling is all reduced, and I now may boots with perfect ease. I have not had any pain since. I would not take $20 for the balance of the bottle if I could not get more. Any one suffering with rheumatism need not suffer any longer if they will take Athlophoros.—Jed Grouward.

Mate of Steamer W. R. Burt, running between East Saginaw and Bay City, Mich.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

Sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, costiveness, biliousness, nervous disorders, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unexcelled. 1

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful properties be known to their friends. For Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptives, at least to try one bottle, as 50,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as this German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. For sale by all druggists and dealers in the United States and Canada. cow2

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Hull, druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: I can recommend Electric Bitters to all as the best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Beloville, Ohio, affirms: The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a ball a dollar a bottle at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris Texas by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Carley who was so helpless he could not turn in bed or raise his head; consumption was the disease dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial bottles of this great discovery for consumption free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 102md.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week

Try it.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Peaslee on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1885, made and executed her mortgage of Fifty Dollars, to secure $6.25 and Fifty Dollars, to secure $6.25 and Fifty Dollars, to secure $6.25 in two years from the date of said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of nine per cent per annum, which mortgage was recorded in the office of register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 14th day of August, A. D. 1885, in Liber 3 of mortgages, on page 1, and whereas the said mortgage has been duly assigned by William H. Hipp to Wallace J. Hipp, by assignment dated the 22 day of January, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Charlevoix on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1884, in Liber 3 of assignments of mortgages, on page 1, and no part owing to the undersigned, the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars as an attorney fee, and the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars as an attorney fee, and the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents, for one year's interest, and the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars as an attorney fee, and no suit or proceeding at law has been had to recover the said mortgage at the date of this notice, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been had to recover the said mortgage at the date of this notice, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been had to recover the said mortgage at the date of this notice, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and no part thereof, therefore said mortgage will be foreclosed, sale of the premises therein described, to wit: The northwest quarter (¼) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), in township thirty (30) north of range five (5) west and containing forty acres, in the United States survey, in the County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, on the 20th day of May, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage.

Dated February 20, 1887.

WALLACE J. HIPP,
Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the ninth day of February, A. D. 1885, executed by Samuel Orner (an unmarried man) to Wm. Mason, of Detroit, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 1, on the 9th day of March, A. D. 1885, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon, and there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage. And whereas the said mortgage contains a power of sale, which has become operative by reason of default in payment of the money secured thereby, and doth hereby describe the premises described in said mortgage, as follows, to wit: The south half of the southeast quarter of section one and unpaid. And whereas the amount now due and unpaid. And whereas the amount due and unpaid on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of ninety-one dollars and forty-six cents, and an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, and no suit or proceeding at law has been had to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 20th day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, at twelve o'clock at noon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the southeast quarter of section one (1), in township thirty (30) north of range five (5) west, containing ninety (90) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 20th, 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Lemuel D. Bartholomew of Valley, Mich., to Lemuel D. Bartholomew of Charlevoix, Mich., dated Aug. 1st, A. D. 1879, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1879, in Liber 4 of Mortgages, on page 104 on which said mortgage there is claimed to be due the date of this notice the sum of ninety-one dollars and forty-six cents, and an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, and no suit or proceeding at law has been had to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 20th day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, at twelve o'clock at noon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the southeast quarter of section one (1), in township thirty (30) north of range five (5) west, containing ninety (90) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 20th, 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the ninth day of February, A. D. 1885, executed by Samuel Orner (an unmarried man) to Wm. Mason, of Detroit, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, in liber 3 of mortgages, on page 1, on the 9th day of March, A. D. 1885, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon, and there is now claimed to be due on said mortgage. And whereas the said mortgage contains a power of sale, which has become operative by reason of default in payment of the money secured thereby, and doth hereby describe the premises described in said mortgage, as follows, to wit: The south half of the southeast quarter of section one and unpaid. And whereas the amount now due and unpaid. And whereas the amount due and unpaid on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of ninety-one dollars and forty-six cents, and an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, and no suit or proceeding at law has been had to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 20th day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, at twelve o'clock at noon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of the southeast quarter of section one (1), in township thirty (30) north of range five (5) west, containing ninety (90) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 20th, 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN,
Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Lemuel D. Bartholomew of Valley, Mich., to Lemuel D. Bartholomew of Charlevoix, Mich., dated Aug. 1st, A. D. 1879, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1879, in Liber 4 of Mortgages, on page 104 on which said mortgage there is claimed to be due the date of this notice

GAMBLER'S SUPERSTITIONS.

"No, I'm not betting to-day," was the reply of a sporting man in answer to an inquiry from another of his ilk whether he had bought any pools on the races.

"Busted!" was another laconic inquiry.

"No, but I laced one of my shoes up wrong this morning. It's a bad sign. I'll let 'em alone to-day."

"Are you superstitious?

"I frankly confess that I am," he replied, as he lit a cigar, "and I don't know of a sporting man or gambler that is not superstitious, and, furthermore, I do not believe there is a human being living who is not. Of course, some are more so than others, but take gamblers and horsemen as a class and you will find that each one has his own peculiar quilp. Now, this morning I laced my shoe up wrong. If I had left it that way it would have been a lucky day for me, but I didn't; I unlaced it, and I'll bet two to one if I bought a pool on a horse he would break his neck before he came under the string."

"That's quite interesting. Would you mind giving me some of your experiences? What do you consider a lucky omen?"

"You want to know what I call lucky omen, eh? That's just as the idea strikes me. When I was in New York last summer I used to count white horses. Say I would be standing at the corner of Fulton street and Broadway I'd take out my watch—when I had one—and time myself and count the number of white horses that turned from Broadway into Fulton street during five minutes' time. I sometimes would go on the odd numbers and sometimes on the even. Like this: It made up my mind on even horses and an even number went by during the five minutes then I would be lucky, and vice versa."

"I have heard of gamblers visiting fortune tell-ers for tips. Do you ever visit them?"

"Many a time, sir. Here's one instance. I am a red-hot republican, and was backing Jim Blaine to shovel and gouge, when I went one day to see a fortune teller. Says she: 'You have been making foolish bets; go and bet the other way all that you have—all the money you can beg or borrow.' I told her I was betting on Blaine, and she said: 'Wait.' Then she went into another room and came out in about a minute. 'Cleveland will be elected as sure as you sit there in that chair, but he will never serve his term out.' That was a parlyzer, but I stock stock in it, for she never fooled me in her life. I hedged and bet on Grover, all on her account, and made $2,000 clear above my hedge and of Kelly, the bookmaker. Here's another instance from the same woman. I had been playing in hard luck till I only had $12 left. I went to her and told her how I was fixed and that I wanted a tip on the races. She told me to read the names of the horses to her. I did so, and when I got through the list she said: 'Tilford is the only one I am sure of; bet your money on Tilford.' I went down to the track and when the horses went to the post there were only four tickets out on him. That was a bonanza, you know, if he won. I bought nine $5 tickets. The track was a regular duck pond, slush up to the horses' knees. Tilford came in last. Oh, I forgot; he was entered for two races that day. The next race he was in I heard that Mike Daly, who owned him, wanted to scratch him, but the judges wouldn't have it. That wasn't very encouraging, but I stuck to him and put my last fiver on him. His jockey fanned him every jump, and brought him in a winner by two lengths. I got five hundred odd dollars for my $5 tickets. So much for fortune-tellers' tips. Some fortune-tellers are saide, but take one educated, or that has it naturally born in them, and they get there as a general rule."

"You gamble with cards, do you?"

"Oh, yes; I make my living as a sporting man."

"Does your superstition affect you in playing cards?"

"Yes, indeed. If I am going to play cards for money I always hunt up a beggar and give him some money for luck. I have walked some times two miles to find a beggar, but I don't have to do it here. There is one on every corner. I know a gambler in New York who goes daily to St. Jean an Iniau Green and who has these little canaries who tell fortunes by pulling an envelope out of a pack. He always follows the advice of the bird, and I have actually seen him shed tears ever some luck. I have walked some times two miles to find a beggar, but I don't have to do it here. There is one on every corner. I know a gambler in New York who goes daily to St. Jean an Iniau Green who has these little canaries who tell fortunes by pulling an envelope out of a pack. He always follows the advice of the bird, and I have actually seen him shed tears ever some luck. If the bird tells him to go to church and pray for luck, he does it. If it tells him to go to a faro bank and bet on number one, he does it. If it tells him to go home and bet on the odd numbers and sometimes on the even. Like this: It made up my mind on even horses and an even number went by during the five minutes then I would be lucky, and vice versa."

"I have heard of gamblers visiting fortune tell-ers for tips. Do you ever visit them?"

"Many a time, sir. Here's one instance. I am a red-hot republican, and was backing Jim Blaine to shovel and gouge, when I went one day to see a fortune teller. Says she: 'You have been making foolish bets; go and bet the other way all that you have—all the money you can beg or borrow.' I told her I was betting on Blaine, and she said: 'Wait.' Then she went into another room and came out in about a minute. 'Cleveland will be elected as sure as you sit there in that chair, but he will never serve his term out.' That was a parlyzer, but I stock stock in it, for she never fooled me in her life. I hedged and bet on Grover, all on her account, and made $2,000 clear above my hedge and of Kelly, the bookmaker. Here's another instance from the same woman. I had been playing in hard luck till I only had $12 left. I went to her and told her how I was fixed and that I wanted a tip on the races. She told me to read the names of the horses to her. I did so, and when I got through the list she said: 'Tilford is the only one I am sure of; bet your money on Tilford.' I went down to the track and when the horses went to the post there were only four tickets out on him. That was a bonanza, you know, if he won. I bought nine $5 tickets. The track was a regular duck pond, slush up to the horses' knees. Tilford came in last. Oh, I forgot; he was entered for two races that day. The next race he was in I heard that Mike Daly, who owned him, wanted to scratch him, but the judges wouldn't have it. That wasn't very encouraging, but I stuck to him and put my last fiver on him. His jockey fanned him every jump, and brought him in a winner by two lengths. I got five hundred odd dollars for my $5 tickets. So much for fortune-tellers' tips. Some fortune-tellers are saide, but take one educated, or that has it naturally born in them, and they get there as a general rule."

"You gamble with cards, do you?"

"Oh, yes; I make my living as a sporting man."

"Does your superstition affect you in playing cards?"

"Yes, indeed. If I am going to play cards for money I always hunt up a beggar and give him some money for

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

BLER'S SUPER

s, I'm not betin
ity of a sporting m inquiry from anoth her he had bought ces.
usted?" was anoth

, but I laced one
g this morning. It
'em alone to-day.
re you superstitious frankly confess tha
as be lit a cigar, of a sporting ma
is not superstitious.
I do not believe t
being living wi e, some are more take gamblers and and you will find his own peculiar qu ing I laced my sh
d left it that w a lucky day for p e luck, and I'll bet
it a pool on a k his neck fulus ering."
"That's quite interes
d giving me some d? What do you ck?"
"You want to know
y unless, sh? Th a strike me. Wh rk last summer I h
ses. Say I would corner of Fulton s ck." Here the f one—and time number of white
ing five minute hold go on metimes on of t made up my and a seven nu
e five minutes
d view every
"I have heard
mus teller ait them?"
"Many a t ance. I am ma backing ous, when one teller.
making foolis cher way money you co
ar I was told said: 'Wait.'
room and cal
Cleveland will hit there in u erve his terr yer, but I yever fooled and bet on G and made $2
and of Kelly
another insta ana: I had b till I only ha and told her wanted to sp to read the na
I did so, and list she said:
nam sure, sa t went down t horses went to four thirteen out bonanza, you
one $5 ticket
black pond, knees. Tilton forgot; he was horses that heard that him, wanted
Indigo would very encoura and put my lockey fanned him brought him in Angelus. I got five lars for my $5 ticke line-selling tips are aside, but ra that is natural they get there as
"Go gamble
ing." Said I, sporting man."
"Have you playing cards?
"Yes, Inde cards and beggar and bold." I miles to fin to do it be correct, you
York who Green who the who envelope
how you actually of gambling from wel great." I "Have European
"Oh,
"How
"Oh,
else,
at school you ch a stiff choice.
"Yo
"Ha
a stic quiet night ing t clain in a
I kn expe case mor first ore ete

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

While drunk at Nicholville, N. Y., Charles Morrow shot his wife and then sent a bullet through his head, surviving his victim a few hours.

Nine railway employes were injured and $21,000 worth of property destroyed by the explosion of a locomotive boiler in a roundhouse at New Haven, Conn.

Peter Smith was hanged in the yard of the Tombs Prison, New York, for murdering Watchman John Hannon on the night of April 7, 1883.

The Dwyer Brothers have purchased the old Remsen farm for $75,000 cash. He sold as yearling in 1884 for $275.

Dr. C. C. Carroll, of Meadville, Pa., has discovered a method by which aluminum can be cast, soldered, and welded.

WESTERN.

The Villard House at Brainerd, Minn., was destroyed by fire the guests narrowly escaping with their lives. Loss, $64,000.

W. C. De Pauw, the wealthy glass manufacturer of New Albany, Ind., died last week at the Palmer House in Chicago. He was stricken with apoplexy while waiting for a train in the Union Depot, New Albany & Chicago Depot. Mr. De Pauw was born in Salem, Washington County, Indiana, in 1821. When quite young he entered into the banking business under the free-banking law of Indiana in 1855. In 1861 he removed to New Albany, and during the war he was one of the largest army contractors in the country. He was the owner of the immense plate-glass manufactory at New Albany in which 1,000,000 is invested. He was a man of unbounded charity, and his donations to the Methodist Church during the last thirty years will aggregate $1,000,000. His will provides for a donation to the De Pauw University, at Greencastle, of $1,500,000, he having endowed that institution with $500,000 several years ago.

Three mills, a chair factory, an elevator, and a hotel at Elk River, Minnesota, were destroyed by fire. Loss, $85,000.

Three sheep-herders of the Alamogueroe (N. M.) district died from fright during the recent earthquake shocks.

A Marquette (Mich.) telegram says: "Reports of the recent windstorm are coming in freely. The thirteen counties of the upper peninsula were all swept. In some rich pine fields the trees were mowed down like grass. Millions of feet of pine are destroyed, houses unroofed or demolished, unfinished buildings scattered, and chimneys and outhouses destroyed. Scarcely a town or settlement escaped. Only three fishermen are reported, but many persons were seriously injured."

Judge Blodgett has sentenced Colonel W. H. Bolton, the defaulting treasurer and second-class master in the Chicago Postoffice, to two years in the penitentiary.

An assignment has been made by the St. Louis Supplies Company, which has been business at St. Louis for twenty years. The total liabilities are placed at $147,000.

SOUTHERN.

Birmingham (Ala.) dispatch: "Men working on the Good Water extension of the Georgia Central Railroad brings news of a frightful accident on that road in the Coosa Tunnel. One white man and seventeen negroes were at work in the tunnel when the blast prematurely exploded with terrific force. Twelve out of the eighteen men were instantly killed. The white man escaped death."

In a shooting affray at Jackson, Miss., Colonel James S. Hamilton, lessee of the penitentiary, killed R. D. Gambrel, and was himself mortally wounded.

The yearly drive of Texas cattle into the Indian Territory aggregates 45,350 head.

The bodies of three negroes, brothers, named Sylvester, were found hanging in a tree near Proctor, W. Va. Each body bore a placard on which was written: "Niggers that try must be broken up." The farmers in the neighborhood had suffered depredations at the hands of unknown persons, and it seems they finally settled on the Sylvester brothers as the guilty ones.

By the accidental discharge of a gun at Wilmington, N. C., four negro boys were killed, and a fifth badly wounded.

Joseph Compton, a member of the Alabama Legislature, proves to be an escaped convict from the North Carolina penitentiary, where he was sentenced in 1874 for twenty-four years for murder. He has fled from his home in Alabama to avoid arrest.

Louisville comes to the front with a prodigy of judicial acumen in the person of a magistrate named Stofer. John J. Cornelison, who was serving a three years' jail sentence for the assault upon John Reid which caused the latter's suicide, was brought before Stofer the other day on a writ of habeas corpus, and ordered released on the ground that his conviction was illegal. As the judgment against Cornelison had been affirmed by the Court of Appeals, the magistrate's presumption amazes the public, and will lead to an inquiry.

The remains of a mastodon of the largest size have been discovered about twenty miles from Atlanta, Ga.

A negro man and woman named respectively Richard Goodwin and Grace Hudson, who confessed to having robbed and burned the store of a country merchant, were taken from the West Carroll parish (La.) jail by a masked mob and hanged to a tree.

Fifty colored persons who had gathered at New Orleans to witness an innovation were precipitated into the river by the collapse of the railing on the wharf, and eight were drowned.

Three murderers were legally executed on Friday, the 6th inst, namely: John Rogers, at Eureka, Cal.; Theodore Baker, at Las Vegas, N. M.; and Henry Anderson (colored), at Socorro, N. M.

Crop prospects in South Carolina are reported more favorable than at this season in any previous year since 1882.

Gen. Greeley, Chief Signal Officer, has arranged to issue a special weekly bulletin with a view of promptly placing before the public each Monday morning reliable information relative to the climatic condition in the agricultural districts of the country. It is believed that these bulletins will serve as a reliable basis for determining the conditions favorable or unfavorable for the growing crops.

POLITICAL.

The Ohio Republican State Central Committee has decided to hold the State convention at Toledo, July 27 and 28.

Charles J. Faulkner was elected United States Senator from West Virginia to succeed Camden. The new Senator is a jurist of high reputation, and said to be a man of excellent ability.

The President has approved the amendments to the rules for the regulation and improvement of the executive civil service proposed by the Civil-Service Commission. The principal change is in rule 6, clause 3, which, as amended, gives the Commission power to make regulations under which examinations for promotion in any classified department, possibility, or customs office must be made. And in any classified department, customs office, or postoffice in which promotions are made under such examinations, the Commission may, in special cases, if the exigencies of the service require such action, provide non-competitive examinations for promotion. In their letter transmitting the new rules the commissioners say that all the evils resulting from the promotion system in vogue when the civil-service law was enacted continue to exist, except in the New York customs house.

Governor Hill has signed the bill making Saturday a half-holiday in New York State.

THE INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK.

A general strike among the miners of the Connellsville coke regions is believed to be imminent, the operators having refused to accede to the demand for a raise. The outlook in the Schuylkill region is also threatening, the anthracite miners having demanded an advance of 10 per cent, in which they are to be joined by the miners of the Scranton region.

Not one of the 12,000 coke-ovens in the Connellsville, Pa., district is now operated by the members of the Scranton region.

The total number of labor strikes and lockouts this year to April 30 is 476, against 40 reported in a like portion of last year. The total number of men involved is 148,000, against 120,000—a gain of 14 per cent.

The stove foundries of Detroit have stuck down, throwing 2,800 men out of employment.

REGULATING THE RAILROADS

The Interstate Commerce Commission concluded its two days' labors at Memphis, after hearing evidence from merchants of Memphis, Louisville, Lexington, Little Rock, and Newport, Ark., to the effect that the enforcement of Clause 4 would be disastrous to the commerce and industries of the points named. The Louisville and Nashville, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern Railroads were granted two weeks' time to file documents and statistical information to support of their petition for the permanent suspension of Section 4. Representatives of the river interests were also given leave to present their case in writing.

United States Consuls in Canada report that the interstate commerce law is creating considerably to the export and import trade in that country, and that our trade interests in that quarter are threatened with serious consequences.

Secretary Moody, of the Interstate Commission, has received a petition from the New York Central, Lake Shore, and Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad Companies asking for an order permitting them, in connection with the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and the New York, Lake Erie and Western, to make passenger and freight rates to Eastern Pennsylvania, New York, and New England points to connect with rates made by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Up to this time forwarding freight companies have filed with the commission formal petitions asking to be restored from section of the law. Probably as many more have been returned for further information. A much larger number has been received from trade organizations, private corporations, and individuals protesting against the suspension of section 4 in particular.

The Interstate Commission received a complaint from Chicago that the Secretary ordered workers were cut off from "passes" and "free" privileges, and asking redress. The reply was that all such questions were in the hands of the railroad companies, and they alone were responsible for the rules themselves and the points under it had been adjudicated.

RAILROAD INTELLIGENCE.

A number of new railroad enterprises projected by American capital, are projected in Mexico.

The annual report of the Michigan Central Railroad gives the following statement of the year's business:

Gross earnings from traffic	$12,291,627.22
Operating expenses and taxes	8,911,627.22
Interest and rentals	2,380,000.00
Total	11,291,627.22
Canadian Southern's share of net earnings	492,939.78
Net receipts from traffic	1,492,939.78
Income from investments	46,000.00
Total net revenue	1,538,939.78
Dividend, 2 per cent., paid Feb. 19, 1885	1,000,000.00
Surplus to income account	538,939.78
Total liabilities	27,293,893.00
Total assets	27,293,893.00

The Railroad Commissioners of Iowa in a decision in the case of Gov. Larrabee against the Burlington Railroad Lawsuit decided that a greater charge for a short haul than a long haul is illegal, and have fixed a maximum rate for one mile within the State.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The steamer John Knox, from Glasgow for Montreal, foundered off Channel Island, Newfoundland, all on board, thirty in number, perishing. Loss, $80,000.

Lightning struck and a dense fog prevailed at the time of the accident.

There is said to be a good deal of anxiety at Montreal lest the President issue a proclamation of non-intercourse with Canada. A prominent lumber merchant is quoted as saying that such action would bankrupt Canada in six months.

Dispatches from Nanaimo, in British Columbia, state that the white men and Chinese were in the Vancouver mine at the time of the explosion. An exploring party entered the burning colliery and found dead miners lying in all directions. Thirty-five bodies have been taken out. All hope of finding any of the men alive had been given up. The fire was still burning, but was under control. There are forty-seven widows, and over one hundred and thirty children left fatherless. Nearly all of the imprisoned miners were from Cornwall, Wales, Nova Scotia, and Nova Scotia. The mine is owned by the Vancouver Coal Company, of London, England.

McDowell's Comedy Company, now fulfilling a two weeks' engagement at McVickers' Theatre, Chicago, proves to be a very bright organization of players. A local paper says: "While it is impossible to avoid mental comparisons between the work of the Daly company and that of the McDowell company, it can be properly claimed for the performance now being given at McVicker's that it is in every way commendable, and will afford an evening of pleasure to the patrons of the house."

The Canadian Minister of Agriculture has announced the appointment of Wright & Hilliard, of Montreal, against the Bell Telephone Company, the effect of the decision being to confirm the Bell Telephone monopoly in Canada.

The business failures in the United States and Canada, during the week, numbered 182, against 206 during the corresponding week of 1884. R. G. Dun & Co's weekly trade review says of the business outlook:

The feature of business reports for the last week is the encouraging character of the reports. Workers generally, in that section interested, act, though checking trade at some points, seem, according to the reports, to have a strong extraordinary confidence in a much larger trade for the future. Many more inquiries are being made for real estate and activity in building, contracts for which are being made, accordingly. Jobbers seem to be not just now expanding improvement in trade. Already orders have been placed for goods which will be made in the last year, and new securities are offered, which show that the investment of large unemployed money is safe and respectable. The decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission have greatly relieved trade, and improved a little. The enormous supply of money seeking investment continues to depress rates, and the money lenders added about $4,000,000 to the circulation last week, by taking out gold from the Clearing House, which now nearly sixty per cent. Unfortunately large amounts of money are locked up in the South, and the outlook in cotton or in real estate seems because of the impoverishment of the South, not good. The prospects are not good, but the crop prospects grow more favorable the season for planting is past. The failures are not numerous, and are likely to be fewer in number.

The schooner Nellie Crosby, of Boston, and business men, having compared the alleged Parnell letter with certain documents in the possession of the Parnell family, pronounce the handwriting of Mr. Richard Pigott, forged. Mr. Parnell's counsel in Dublin Evidence, at noon last week, the letter was read. The letter bears the signature of Mr. Parnell.

A dispatch from Guaymas, Mexico, says the consumptive stomachs cannot at times be comprehended, and rendered understandable.

Many buildings are cracked and rendered unsafe. Nobody has been hurt, but the inhabitants are alarmed. The earthquake felt at a place of a mountain near the town fell down in a mass, and the inhabitants fled to the hills, leaving the woods, causing a belief that Indians had broken out. At Dolores Santa Ana several of the houses crumbled, and a great panic. A whole hill fell down, scattering stones weighing 120 persons. Fortunately nobody was hurt."

According to the statistics of the Emigrant Aid Society of New York city, showing the destination of the immigrants arrived at that port last year, illinois is the third in the list, following New York being first and Pennsylvania second. The total number was 395,346, of which New York obtained 160,554, Pennsylvania received 42,193, Illinois 36,232.

The Attorney General has given an opinion to the effect that the Director of the Mint has no authority to invite and pay for new designs for the coinage, but may with the sanction of the Secretary of the Treasury.

W. W. Vroonan, socialist editor of the Labor Organizer of Kansas City, was assaulted at Allegheny City, Pa., to save his life, by a mob.

The London cablegram to a New York paper says that Mr. Parnell is really in a critical state of health, and that his absolute withdrawal from public life can not be long delayed. His malady is believed to be cancer of the stomach.

The Hungarian Government is about to make a contract with Henry Nordenfelt to manufacture a small-arms factory at Pesth with a capital of 4,000,000 florins. Hungary will double the land, exempt the property from taxation for ten years, and guarantee a minimum order for 400,000 rifles, to be delivered in two years.

The movements of the Russians in Asia wear a sinister aspect. It is rumored at Paris that they are concentrating troops at Charjoui, about two hundred miles from the Afghan frontier, preparatory to an advance on Khamah. There is also a report from Berlin that part of the world in the near future.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.
CATTLE—Steers	$ 4.50 @ 5.50
Cows	2.50 @ 3.75
WHEAT—No. 1 White	80 @ 80
No. 2 Red	78 @ 78
CORN—No. 2	48 @ 48
OATS—Mixed	35 @ 35
PORK—New Mess	10.00 @ 10.25
CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	5.60 @ 5.25
Fair to Good	5.00 @ 4.75
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.75 @ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	82 @ 82
No. 3 Red	72 @ 72
CORN—No. 2	37 @ 37
OATS—No. 2	27 @ 27
PORK—Mess	10.00 @ 10.00
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	11 @ 12
Full Cream, Cheddars	11 @ 12
BUTTER—Fresh	16 @ 18
EGGS—Fresh	12 @ 12
POTATOES—Per bush	35 @ 40
PORK—Mess	10.00 @ 10.50
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2	82 @ 82
CORN—No. 2	37 @ 37
OATS—No. 2	27 @ 27
RYE—No. 1	56 @ 56
PORK—Mess	10.00 @ 10.00
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2	77 @ 77
CORN	37 @ 37
OATS	31 @ 31
DETROIT.
WHEAT—No. 1 White	80 @ 80
No. 2 Red	78 @ 78
CORN—No. 2	37 @ 37
OATS—No. 2	27 @ 27
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	74 @ 74
CORN—Mixed	34 @ 34
OATS—No. 2	24 @ 24
PORK—New Mess	10.25 @ 10.50
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	80 @ 80
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	38 @ 38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	28 @ 28
PORK—New Mess	10.00 @ 10.25
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	85 @ 85
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	42 @ 42
OATS—No. 1	32 @ 32
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEF CATTLE	3.25 @ 4.75
HOGS	3.75 @ 4.00
WHEAT	80 @ 80
CORN—No. 2 Red	37 @ 37
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	26 @ 26
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Fair	4.75 @ 5.25
Common	3.50 @ 4.50
Hogs	4.25 @ 4.50
Sheep	3.50 @ 4.50

DWIGHT L. MOODY.

His Four Months' Incessant War Upon Sin in Wicked Chicago.

A Brief but Interesting Sketch of the World-Famous Evangelist.

[Chicago special.]

After four months of incessant labor, Chicago's honored evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, has brought his mission to a close in this city. None but those who have watched the evangelistic services closely can form any conception of the immense amount of labor he has accomplished. Day after day, and week after week, he has sacrificed comfort, and even health itself, in the effort to accomplish one great and noble object—to proclaim the glad tidings of salvation to the people, and seek to win souls to Christ. On Jan. 7 he preached at the First Congregational Church for the first time in the campaign against sin and Satan, and from that hour his audiences grew so large that the church would not contain them. Equal to the emergency, he at once held services in the afternoon for the church-workers and those who could attend in the day, and in the evening for those whose business occupied them during the day. Still the crowds increased at night, and he noticed how a pair of neat, well-fitting gloves enhanced the effect of his pleading by the summits for a long distance.

The principal work was here by local scientists that Mexico is about to undergo a series of earthquakes, and recent records of earthquakes show that the volcanoes of Mexico are in a state of activity from one end of Mexico to the other.

Dispatch from Arizona dispatch:

A party just arrived from the Santa Catalina Mountains and report that the volcano is still in a state of activity, the surface by the earthquake. This is a great disturbance in the Catalina region, as there are thousands of acres of good farming land at the foot of the mountains which can be used water to make them valuable. Another cause for alarm is the fear that the pledge of temperance may lose the signatures of two hundred thousand men, which caused the Mexican Government to allow the whole side of a mountain and above the whole side of a large lake to be thrown up. Several prospecting parties left today to look for signs of the fire. The two slight shocks of earthquake have been felt here for several days. They are too slight to cause alarm. There is no doubt that nearly every high mountain in Southern Arizona has a greater or less crater and its topography changed, but so far as can be learned there is no active volcanoes among them.

Nogales (Arizona) dispatch:

Later accounts received here tend to show that the report of a volcano having broken out near Nogales, Sonora, is true. Men who arrived from Sonora yesterday say that the crater of a volcano erupted at a point about 20 miles from Nogales, in that state, and it is confidently said that one peak is blown out and large volumes of smoke, accompanied by streams of lava, issue from the crater. Ashes have fallen for a distance of several miles from the scene of the eruption. The report is generally credited in this city, and it is believed that the earthquake shocks felt here yesterday are the result of the volcanoes will break forth in a few days.

Passengers arriving on the Monterey train from Guaymas report the raging on the summit of the mountains are so high that they can see the coal. Whether these fires have any connection with the recent earthquakes in Arizona and New Mexico is not yet ascertained, but many of these mountains are almost inaccessible.

TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE.

Three Mexican Towns Almost Obliterated by Earthquakes and Volcanoes.

One Hundred and Seventy People Instantly Killed and a Large Number Wounded.

[Guaymas, Mexico dispatch]

The town of Bahispe, in the district of Montezuma, in Sonora, was destroyed by the recent earthquake, and 150 people lost lost. Twenty persons were killed at Opoto by the falling of buildings. Many people were injured at Granadas and others, which towns were almost completely destroyed.

Hermosillo (Mexico dispatch.)

The earthquake caused terrible damage in Montezuma. It destroyed several villages, but little is known. Nacozari has suffered most terribly. Opoto had all the houses destroyed, and nine persons were killed. Bahispe was utterly destroyed, and 150 people were killed. The houses were leveled to the ground. A new volcano appeared, and its crater is destroyed all the timber and pastures of adjoining valley and mountains.

City of Mexico dispatch:

The Government has just received its first information regarding the disastrous earthquake on the 3d inst. at the town of Bahispe, in the district of Montezuma, Sonora, by which 150 persons lost their lives. The earthquake occurred at 3 p.m. At the same time volcanic eruptions began in the neighborhood, the crater lighting up the summits for a long distance.

The principal work here by local scientists that Mexico is about to undergo a series of earthquakes, and recent records of earthquakes show that the volcanoes of Mexico are in a state of activity from one end of Mexico to the other.

Dispatch from Arizona dispatch:

A party just arrived from the Santa Catalina Mountains and report that the volcano is still in a state of activity, the surface by the earthquake. This is a great disturbance in the Catalina region, as there are thousands of acres of good farming land at the foot of the mountains which can be used water to make them valuable. Another cause for alarm is the fear that the pledge of temperance may lose the signatures of two large gold veins which was discovered in the side of a mountain. Prospectors at a point where the whole side of a mountain and above the whole side of a large lake to be thrown up. Several prospecting parties left today to look for signs of the fire. The two slight shocks of earthquake have been felt here for several days. They are too slight to cause alarm. There is no doubt that nearly every high mountain in Southern Arizona has a greater or less crater and its topography changed, but so far as can be learned there is no active volcanoes among them.

Nogales (Arizona) dispatch:

Later accounts received here tend to show that the report of a volcano having broken out near Nogales, Sonora, is true. Men who arrived from Sonora yesterday say that the crater of a volcano erupted at a point about 20 miles from Nogales, in that state, and it is confidently said that one peak is blown out and large volumes of smoke, accompanied by streams of lava, issue from the crater. Ashes have fallen for a distance of several miles from the scene of the eruption. The report is generally credited in this city, and it is believed that the earthquake shocks felt here yesterday are the result of the volcanoes will break forth in a few days.

Prospectors arriving on the Monterey train from Guaymas report the raging on the summit of the mountains are so high that they can see the coal. Whether these fires have any connection with the recent earthquakes in Arizona and New Mexico is not yet ascertained, but many of these mountains are almost inaccessible.

ALIVE IN HIS COFFIN.

A Supposed Corpse, Shipped on a Railroad, Revives to Have Ghastly Consciousness.

[Vincennes (Ind.) special.]

During the session of the Lutheran Evangelical Synod of the Lutheran Church, a wealthy citizen of Mount Auburn, O., was shipped here in a coffin, to be made a few remarks. He had scarcely been from his seat when he was seized by a stagger, and the next second fell on the floor. Dr. A. Dyskins was called and pronounced his case apoplexy. The remains were placed in a vault to be buried, and ordered shipped at once to the place of his residence. Ten hours after the supposed death the remains were placed on a freight train from Evansville, John Kuster, a Pullman porter, and Jack Clark, transferred the corpse from a Pullman car to the Illinois and Mississippi train. Harry Meyer, who had been the last man kick against the lid of the box three or four times, and he said: "I have handled more coffins than any man about this depot, and I know myself that I am not superstitious. The sensation I experienced in kicking the coffin was as if I had another the same as lifting a crate having a live chicken in it. The corpse seemed to be alive. There was no weight. We had a few minutes in which to transfer the corpse, and it was crowded in some of the boys that the boy in charge of the baggage-room, lighting up the summits for a long distance.

The principal work here by local scientists that Mexico is about to undergo a series of earthquakes, and recent records of earthquakes show that the volcanoes of Mexico are in a state of activity from one end of Mexico to the other.

Dispatch from Arizona dispatch:

A party just arrived from the Santa Catalina Mountains and report that the volcano is still in a state of activity, the surface by the earthquake. This is a great disturbance in the Catalina region, as there are thousands of acres of good farming land at the foot of the mountains which can be used water to make them valuable. Another cause for alarm is the fear that the pledge of temperance may lose the signatures of two large gold veins which was discovered in the side of a mountain. Prospectors at a point where the whole side of a mountain and above the whole side of a large lake to be thrown up. Several prospecting parties left today to look for signs of the fire. The two slight shocks of earthquake have been felt here for several days. They are too slight to cause alarm. There is no doubt that nearly every high mountain in Southern Arizona has a greater or less crater and its topography changed, but so far as can be learned there is no active volcanoes among them.

Nogales (Arizona) dispatch:

Later accounts received here tend to show that the report of a volcano having broken out near Nogales, Sonora, is true. Men who arrived from Sonora yesterday say that the crater of a volcano erupted at a point about 20 miles from Nogales, in that state, and it is confidently said that one peak is blown out and large volumes of smoke, accompanied by streams of lava, issue from the crater. Ashes have fallen for a distance of several miles from the scene of the eruption. The report is generally credited in this city, and it is believed that the earthquake shocks felt here yesterday are the result of the volcanoes will break forth in a few days.

Prospectors arriving on the Monterey train from Guaymas report the raging on the summit of the mountains are so high that they can see the coal. Whether these fires have any connection with the recent earthquakes in Arizona and New Mexico is not yet ascertained, but many of these mountains are almost inaccessible.

THE LADIES.

A Budget of Breezy Gossip Relating Exclusively to the Fair Sex,

Accompanied by Some Notes on the Ever Changing Styles in Feminine Attire.

"Right as My Glove."

"Oh, poverty! where is thy sting?" do you exclaim?

Well, we'll tell you; it wounds most sadly when in the shape of a pair of worn gloves. There is nothing more a proud, refined girl like a seedy glove. Pardon us, but it is a sense that cannot be repealed.

A lady, trim girl can rearrange a well-worn frock; she will deal her old pieces of necklace; a tarnished hat and its rusty trimming she can freshen into respectability, and she can even go so far as to manipulate an old pair of boots into good use, but a pair of disabled gloves breaks her heart as effectually as that mythical straw breaks the camel's back.

A pretty girl's buoyancy of young spirits is difficult to repress. Say "Scene my pretty" and froth at the slightest stirring; but a pair of non-le-soaled, mended, and rusty gloves takes all the sparkle and head from her indeed, and she is down and out.

Again, looking at the question from another standpoint, you must have noticed how a pair of neat, well-fitting gloves enhances the effect of pleading by the summits for a long distance.

The principal work here by local scientists that Mexico is about to undergo a series of earthquakes, and recent records of earthquakes show that the volcanoes of Mexico are in a state of activity from one end of Mexico to the other.

Dispatch from Arizona dispatch:

A party just arrived from the Santa Catalina Mountains and report that the volcano is still in a state of activity, the surface by the earthquake. This is a great disturbance in the Catalina region, as there are thousands of acres of good farming land at the foot of the mountains which can be used water to make them valuable. Another cause for alarm is the fear that the pledge of temperance may lose the signatures of two large gold veins which was discovered in the side of a mountain. Prospectors at a point where the whole side of a mountain and above the whole side of a large lake to be thrown up. Several prospecting parties left today to look for signs of the fire. The two slight shocks of earthquake have been felt here for several days. They are too slight to cause alarm. There is no doubt that nearly every high mountain in Southern Arizona has a greater or less crater and its topography changed, but so far as can be learned there is no active volcanoes among them.

Nogales (Arizona) dispatch:

Later accounts received here tend to show that the report of a volcano having broken out near Nogales, Sonora, is true. Men who arrived from Sonora yesterday say that the crater of a volcano erupted at a point about 20 miles from Nogales, in that state, and it is confidently said that one peak is blown out and large volumes of smoke, accompanied by streams of lava, issue from the crater. Ashes have fallen for a distance of several miles from the scene of the eruption. The report is generally credited in this city, and it is believed that the earthquake shocks felt here yesterday are the result of the volcanoes will break forth in a few days.

Prospectors arriving on the Monterey train from Guaymas report the raging on the summit of the mountains are so high that they can see the coal. Whether these fires have any connection with the recent earthquakes in Arizona and New Mexico is not yet ascertained, but many of these mountains are almost inaccessible.

Dwight Lyman Moody.

D. L. Moody was born near Northfield, Mass., Feb. 5, 1837. When the boy was four years of age his father died, leaving the care and support of a large family to young Moody's mother, a most estimable lady of the Unitarian faith, to whose influence and example he attributes many of the strong elements of Mr. Moody's character. At the age of seventeen he left home to seek for work in Boston. In 1854 he sought employment in Chicago, and, after a stay in the following year came to this city, to join his uncle, who was engaged in the boot and shoe business. Among the pupils in one of these classes in earnest Christian work, and in the following year came to Chicago, to join his uncle, who was engaged in the boot and shoe business. Among the pupils in one of these classes he earned the sobriquet of "the Nonsuch." Upon his return to his native town he was received into the church by the Rev. Mr. Kimball, the pastor, and soon after was appointed to a mission in the Second Ward, which was then a very wicked part of the city. Here he labored for two years, when he was called to Boston, where he was employed by the Young Men's Christian Association, and was successful in building up the association, and in carrying on its work in two years thereafter, called to the city of Chicago, to take charge of the Illinois Street Church, which he helped to build, and which was then in a very prosperous condition. He was called to his assistance Evangelist Bliss, of Boston, and the churches were then in a state for deeper work. Ministers of the various denominations united, the Chicago Evangelization Society was inaugurated, and a powerful revival of religious work was organized. After being here a month, Mr. Moody left for England, with his associate Francis Murphy, the well-known temperance orator, and of which Mr. Murphy delivered his first address at Exeter Hall, temperance hall, and formed the pledge of temperance among the people. Thousands nightly flocked to hear Murphy, and thousands signed the pledge and donned the blue ribbon, until the good temperance army now numbers over 17,000.

Miss Spangler's Strange Singularities.

One of the "characters" of Euclid avenue is Miss Spangler, the wealthy maiden who lives in one of the corner of the avenue bearing her name, and who, in the words of the World, She lives all alone with a servant, a girl who has been in her employ a great many years, in a rather ancient wooden house in the midst of a funereal, ill-kept pine grove. Everything about the place has a "running to waste" look. To the east lies the street and oval park which she laid out over a year ago through her extensive property, but which has never been built upon.

Miss Spangler herself is a short and exceedingly square woman, quite indifferent as to her personal appearance, and full of ways of her own of doing things.

In tax-paying time she may be seen camping out in the court house for whole days at a time, running over long columns of figures and verifying her extensive tax lists. At noon she does not adjourn to any highbred restaurant, but simply opens her lunch basket, which has been standing on the register, and eats her frugal repast right at school.

Miss Spangler has a great many other peculiarities. I used to see her often riding on the platform of a street car last winter.

"What makes you stay outside in such cold weather?" I finally asked one day.

"Well, I will tell you why it is," she replied. "I'm so much pestered by people who want to get some of my money that I prefer to escape from their importunities. Now, if I wind inside, some girl would come and sit down beside me, and ask for a chance to work for me or get into my good graces somehow.

"That's because they think you've got enough and to spare," I suggested, trying to be funny. "Some say you are the richest woman in Cleveland."

"Oh, my! no; that's a mistake. Mrs. Bradford is the richest woman in the city, and I suppose Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Scranton follow her."

Miss Spangler is eminently plebeian. No enemy of hers would be so reckless as to charge her with being aristocratic. I often see her picking up kindling in her front yard, and carrying it into the house in her manual service. Even now a vivid picture of her looms up before my mind's eye as I see her in a sunbonnet and a pair of pressents her in the act of crossing the public square in the midst of the snow, with a bundle of tops of which nearly brushed the telephone wires which crossed the square.

Yet she is not an illiterate woman. She is well informed and fitting to be called well informed on a wide range of subjects, pleasing to converse with, and, for all her plebeian ways, a very fine piano in her parlor, and is considered a good musician.

A Few California Women.

MRS. MARK HOPKINS resides in a palatial dwelling on "Nob Hill," and occasionally gives entertainments, of which she carefully counts the cost, while she prefers to keep the details of the feast to be returned to the caterer.

THE marriage of Miss Hattie Crocker to Mr. Charles Fair, of Virginia, City, Nev., occurred at Grace Church at high noon on the 22d inst. Two months, or so, after the death of Mrs. Charles Crocker there was a flutter among the dry leaves of the respectable and wealthy families of San Francisco.

BETTER than titles or heraldry is the drinking fountain in the center of the city presented by Mrs. Leland Stanford, built by Lotta, and erected in the summer of 1884. Lotta's idea of the fountain is to offer all the good fortune that comes to this city and State, and it cost her over $1,000,000.

NO CHARLES CREMS is emblazoned upon the door of Laura D. Fair's residence, but, instead, the name of Mrs. Fair is put down as young as the memorable day when she shot down Crittenden. The Fair family is well known in the city of San Francisco, and are among the unostentatious, but wield a powerful influence.

MRS. CROCKER is one of the most generous and charitable women in the Golden State. Her late donation was a valuable one to the city of San Francisco. There seems to be no end of wealth to the Crocker family, and yet Mrs. Crocker is one of the most economical women in the Golden State. She is a very hard worker, and is the mother of the majority of all important questions, and is a behind the scenes worker. She is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of California, and a member of the Board of Lady Managers of the Lady Manager of the Lady Managers, and a member of the Board of Control of the Home for Incurables. She is a member of the Board of Lady Managers

LEER'S SUP

Pa, not bet
y of a sporting quiry from an e bad bongi
ed!" was an but I laced on this morning,

rve alone to cal
you superstit kably confess e bo ill a cig
f a sporting not superstitio
I do not believ being living some are mor gamblers a and you will fi own peculiar ng I laced my left is that a lucky day fo ed it, and I'll it a pool on his neck before ing."
hat's quite inter giving me mon
What do you pu ou want to kn omen, eh? W strikes me. W t last summer I Say I woul
corner of Fulton
I'd take out
one—and time
number of whit
Broadway—five minut ld go ou stinus on ade up m as even five minut vice vers
d have bet une telle them?"
Many a ti nce. I sa
s backing na, when ne teller.
aking fool her way ney you
y I was be d: 'Wait om and co
Cleveland
there in t
rve his ter rser, but I ever fooled ad bet on and made $ nd of Kelly
another inst
n. I had t ill I only ha and told her wanted a tip u read the did so, and list she said
am sure of;
I went down horses went four tickets ronus, y
ps $5 tick
ck pool hness. "Ti forget; he that day.
heard the him, want judges wo ish is that lucky day fo ought hir lengths. I lars for my $5 ti tune-tellers are stubb that has it
they got it
"You go
"Oh, yo sporting m
"Does yo playing cal
"Yes, indee cards for mo bigger and hide. I hav miles to fin to do it bey corner. I
York whe
Green stre rice who an relept lows the actually of the $1 from ves grains."
"Have Exper
"Oh,
"Yes
ple.
ed who you chi choice.
"Ha
"Its
the an aid I
I quit
night.
ing th ing th claim in a
I kno ance case o nner"
first they clos

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

ENERAL WILLIAM B. WOODS, of the preme court of the United States,
ed at his residence at Washington Saturday.

e are pleased to note that the death penalty bill was com-choked to death with the rope ation when it reached the e unveiling of the bronze f the late Gen. Garfield at ton last week, President and paid a tribute to the mem-the former in the finest and ching manner the pages of tial oratory has ever been thousand and sixty three ar in one day at Castle Garden new free trade in labor is work

The arrival of 9,063 boxes of andise would call for a tax of per cent. in the interest of the who are to employ this free la-
Chicago Herald.

Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald that the indorsement of the ent by the democratic convention of Kentucky will be repeated with sincerity in all the Southern States. "The drift of Southern sentiment," it says, "is clearly and un mistakably for a second term for the present able, industrious and honest president." A synopsis of addresses made at the Kentucky convention are found on the inside of this paper.

EX CONGRESSMAN Charles L. Mitchell, of Connecticut, says Cleveland is very strong in Connecticut, especially among the conservative and business people. "The men who work around the polls all day at election," Mr.
Mitchell says, "and who expect to get an office for their services, are dissatisfied with what they call the ming wump and civil service policy of the administration," but, the ex-congressman adds, if President Cleveland is renominated, there can be no question but that he will carry Connecticut, and, he thinks, by at least 5,000 majority.

AGAIN the month that ushers in memorial services in commemoration of the fallen soldiers who nobly gave up their lives,—their all,—for the preservation of our country, has come.
In conformity with custom, May 30th has been designated as memorial day, to be devoted to decorating soldiers' graves with flowers, and will be observed appropriately in Charlevoix, remembering that the mounds that we now make fragrant with flowers cover all that was mortal of comrades who once stood by our side, ready to share any peril for our country, and that they finally gave up their lives for its sake. The program for memorial services will be found in this paper.

Additional Local.

Program for Memorial Day.

1. Baxter Post, No. 117, G. A. R., to meet promptly at 10 o'clock a. m., to receive visiting posts.

2. Procession will form promptly at 1 p. m. under the direction of Comrade M. J. Stockman, in the following order: 1.—Band. 2.—Schools. 3.—Civic societies. 4.—President and common council. 5.—Fire department. 6.—Visiting posts. 7.—Baxter post. 8.—Car of flowers. 9.—Ambulance, with aged and infirm comrades.

A cordial invitation is extended to all soldiers, whether members of posts or not, to fall in and take a part in the ceremonies. The same invitation is extended to citizens generally.

3. At the cemetery, in addition to the services as laid down in the ritual, there will be music, both vocal and instrumental. Rev. W. G. Clark will invoke the Divine blessing; Rev. W. H. McCartney will deliver the oration, after which there will be short addresses by visiting comrades and others, when the procession will reform and return to headquarters, where it will be dismissed. The boys' band will be assisted by the Boyne City band and the post drum corps. Comrades Byron Sese and Wm Kanagy will receive and care for any flowers that may be contributed.

HARMON BERDAN,
ROBERT MILLER,
BYRON SESE,
WM. KANAGY,
S. W. SOLTER,
Committee on Arrangements.

M. E. Church.

Every Tuesday evening bible reading and prayer meeting. Bring bibles and take part in the meeting.

General prayer meeting on Thurs day evening. All come and renew your strength.

Sunday morning it is expected that Rev. Dr. Gray, of the Freedman's Aid Society, will preach at the usual hour. Pastor will preach in the evening. All are invited. Seats are free.

W. H. MCCARTNEY.

Meech-Lewis.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mr. John Nicholls, Dar F. Meech and Miss Minnie Lewis were married last evening at eight o'clock, by Rev. C. F. Van Auken. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present. During the evening the cornet band played several choice selections in honor of the occasion.

A very pleasant evening is reported.

Ironton M. E. Church.

Preaching at Johnson school house in Marion, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 12 o'clock.

Sunday school at Black's school house at 2 o'clock p. m. Preaching at 3 o'clock. J. T. INGOLS.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

Crocker & Hudmutt, of Big Rapids, have the contract for building the new depot at Petoskey.

The little village of Clare pays $20,000 bonus for the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railroad.

Ex-Gov. Alger has bought Munkaysas' painting "Last days of Mozart," for $20,000, and will present it to the Detroit museum.

The state library will get $3,000 for the purchase of new books and for the pay of temporary assistance during legislative sessions.

The new railroad from Kalkaska to Elk Rapids will soon be built and cars will be running over the line by October, 1887.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

At the firemen's convention at Grand Rapids last week, it was decided to hold the convention next year at Charlotte on the first Monday in May.

The Kalamazoo canning factory house at 2 o'clock p. m. Preaching at 3 o'clock. J. T. INGOLS.

Turpentine Farming.

Finding myself in the pine region of Southeast Georgia, and thinking that some information on the subject above named may not prove uninteresting to your readers, I will endeavor to tell them that which has been imparted to me by those thoroughly conversant with the whole business.

A turpentine-farm consists of from five to forty crops of ten thousand five hundred boxes each. The work is sometimes carried on by the owners of the pine-forests themselves; again, the trees are leased out for a certain number of years, two or three being about the limit. Negro labor is principally employed in this section. The work commences in November, when the boxing of the trees begins. The boxes, which are cut sloping back into the trees, about a foot from the ground, measure three inches back at bottom, four deep, and about seventeen in length. In March they are cornerized, that is, a chip is taken off on both sides just above the ends of the boxes. Next the faces for dripping are cut V-shape between and above the places chipped. The number of faces on each tree depends upon its size, varying from one to three. Besides the original cutting of the faces, the trees are hacked once a week during the dripping-season with a peculiarly shaped knife suited to the purpose.

The dipping of the crude product into barrels begins about the middle of March, and the boxes are emptied seven or eight times during the season. They hold from one to two quarts each, and from 10,000 boxes 210 barrels is considered a fair, 250 a fine yield. The first year's dripping is called "virgin," the second "yearling," and all after, "old stuff." From eight barrels of crude they get two of spirits of turpentine, and five to five and a half of rosin. Of the latter there are several grades: W. W., "water-white"; W. G., "window-glass"; M. "next highest and so on up the alphabet, but down in quality, to A, the letter J being omitted. The first dripping, if not scorched in boiling, make beautifully white, transparent rosin; hence the name "white-water." The crude producing the can never be obtained from the trees after the first month's running; that for W. G., "window-glass," possibly into July or August.—L. W. Roberts in Popular Science Monthly.

James Doller, of Santa Fe, fell in love with a dark-eyed Mexican girl and became engaged to her, but could not induce the young senorita to set a day for the wedding. One evening last week she told him that if he would call on the following afternoon she would fix a time for the happy event. In the morning, however, he received cards for her approaching wedding to his father. A few hours later the young man was found dead in his room. He is supposed to have killed himself by taking poison.

Buy your Butter and Eggs at Emrey Brothers.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

PANTS, OVERALLS AND SHIRTS

FULL SIZE, WELL MADE AND PERFECT FIT.

TRY THEM. for Sale by G. W. MILLER.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,
Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.
TERRACE FARM. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the Sherwin-Williams Paint IS THE CHEAPEST And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

AYER'S PILLS. Sugar-Coated Cathartic

If the liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia.—F. Mithoff, Amsterdam, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Dowsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure the disease, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain was gone, and a speedy cure was removed.—Theodore Ewing, Richmond, Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,
MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING
FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders and General Jobbers.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

Buy your Butter and Eggs at Emrey Brothers.

Good Timothy Hay at Emrey Brothers.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1887. TIME CARD 1887.

OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS.

THOMAS FRIANT, CAPT. W. VANDERHOEF.

Going north Every Morning, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at 7.00
PETOSKEY 8.00
CHARLEVOIX 9.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN 11.30

Going north Every Afternoon, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at 1.30
CHARLEVOIX 3.00
PETOSKEY 5.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS 6.00

LOU A. CUMMINGS, CAPT. W. A. SNYDER.

Going north Every Morning, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN 7.00
CHARLEVOIX 9.00
PETOSKEY 11.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS 11.30

Going south Every Afternoon, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at 1.00
PETOSKEY 3.00
CHARLEVOIX 4.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN 6.00

Baggage and Freight Carried at Low Rates.

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 19, 1887.

☞ Wanted, a TEACHER, for two months, in school district No. 2, Bricelanti, of Bear Lake township. Address, stating terms etc., N. N. CARD, Norwood, Charlevoix county, Mich.

☞ All afflicted with rheumatism, piles, hemorrhoides, eczema, falling of the hair, cancers, heart disease, dyspepsia, swelled joints, etc., will do well to call at the Sanitarium.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

Advertisers are requested to hand in their favors before six o'clock Wednesday evening each week, to avoid the hurry of publication day.

☞ We have just received a large invoice of Ironstone China Dinner, Glass-ware, and Crockery.

WILL SEE & CO.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

☞ Come in and see our new stock of Travels Folsom Cleveland glassware. WILL SEE & CO.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Minute Photos, $1 per dozen, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

Miss Maggie Green is on the sick list this week.

Alick Rosenthal is now located in the Lewis block.

H. A. Effener, of the Detroit Safe Co., is in town this week.

Dr. Crouter has covered the floor of his drug store with linoleum.

Meeting of the Loyal Legion have been discontinued until after school closes.

John Haley's team ran away at Advance last Friday and broke his little boy's leg.

The bank of Charlevoix had their offices neatly painted and papered last week.

The scow Contest brought in six horses last Sunday morning for W. L. French.

Propeller T. S. Faxton is at Campbell's ship yard, putting on a new speed wheel.

Carpenter, Bartholomew & Co. painted their block this week, which adds much to its appearance.

James Beauvais has been engaged as guide among the trout streams of Lake Superior for the most of the summer.

The schooner Willard A. Smith was re-caulked and received a new center board at Washburn's shipyard last week.

The soda water season is at hand. You should go to Weed's for the genuine article, as Perry keeps nothing but the best.

Rev. C. F. Van Auken occupied the Congregational pulpit last Sunday morning, and Rev. W. G. Clark in the evening.

We inadvertently omitted last week to mention that R. W. Kane was making several very artistic flower beds. But such is a fact.

The steamer Gazelle was sold last week to St. Ignace parties and will be taken away soon to run between that place and Mackinac Island.

The steamer North Star commenced Monday morning, to run on the Gazelle's time, and carries the mail between here and East Jordan.

J. S. Smithson will give a gospel address at the Congregational church next Sunday morning. It will be interesting, and the house should be filled.

Mrs. Dr. Sweetland will go to Chicago this week where she has been called to attend the sickness. It is expected that Dr. Sweetland will be cared for by the doctor.

W. H. Moore, of Sarnia, Ont., supplied the M. E. church pulpit last Sunday morning. He will be assisted by his wife, who is a lady of much ability.

Rev. J. J. Kansgy returned to Charlevoix from his pastorate at Vanderbilt last week. He left yesterday for Lansing to attend the Congregational state association.

An asbestos roof is being placed upon the opera block this week by L. D. Bartholomew & Co., the agents for this material, which is popular where its merits are known.

James Lawrence, warden of the Charlevoix resort, received a letter Monday, stating that H. W. Page is very sick at his home at Kalamazoo. LATER—Mr. Page died Tuesday.

E. B. Hodge and family went to Traverse City Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lucinda Johnson who died Monday. Mrs. Johnson was a sister of Mrs. Hodge, who has the sympathy of her friends.

Rev. C. F. VanAuken and wife left this morning for southern Michigan and will be absent about two weeks. He will represent the Congregational church of Charlevoix at the state association held at Lansing this week.

Henry Barth, Tuesday, purchased of E. H. Green the water front on the south side of Round Lake between Washburn's ship yard and Wilcox's boat house, which extends south to Newman street. Mr. Barth expects to move his boiler factory to this lot soon.

In this paper may be found the announcement for the new consolidated railroad line comprising the Detroit, Mackinac, & Marquette, the Marquette, Houghton, & Ontonagon, and the new Duluth, South Shore, & Atlantic, now in process of construction, connecting St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Mary, Marquette and the mining regions of Lake Superior and the entire upper peninsula.

"Beulah B," the steam yacht built by Joseph Beauvais for the Brown boys is completed and is a beauty. It is twenty feet long over all, with five feet beam, and has a two horse power Shipman oil engine which enables it to make ten to twelve miles per hour. It was launched Monday, and sailed to Boyne City Tuesday in one hour and forty minutes. Mr. Beauvais never makes a mistake on his pleasure boats. They are always a success.

The survey party which started from Charlevoix to lay out a route for the D. C. & E. R. R., has been out about a week, and May 5th had made 7 miles. Mr. Beardsley, the man who laid out the line for the Muskegon branch of the G. R. & I. R. R., is in charge, and the party all told numbers nine men. Mr. Beardsley expects to reach Bellaire Saturday night of this week, and is much pleased with the prospect for a cheap and easy route. He is very enthusiastic over the prospect, and everything looks highly favorable. The outlook now is that the survey will be immediately followed by choppers and graders, and that the road will be through Kalkaska before snow flies. The above is no idle guess-work on our part, but cold, hard facts obtained direct from headquarters. And if there are still any doubting Thomases among us, in regard to the D. C. & E. R. R., they might as well begin to look for a hole to crawl into, or move to Mancelona.—Kalkaska Leader.

Since the Mancelona Herald discarded its rotary print, and printed four pages at home with the help of patent plates, it takes every possible opportunity to condemn the use of ready-prints. We have figured it out, and find the greater per cent of profit in the double sheet with ready print inside, at $1.50, as against the single sheet all-at-home print, at $1.00; and the subscriber gets more than double the amount of good reading matter for the extra half dollar. Touching the quality, we will put our inside pages in comparison with the best all at home print north of Grand Rapids. It requires one-half more subscribers at $1.00 to make the same gross business, and in this country, at least, they are not to be had for the reduced price. The higher rate does not allow any thing beyond the necessities of living. We are of the opinion that local competition by a live man, with the aid of ready-print, would wake up Bro. Slusser's ideas, and compel him to either adopt the same, or spend all his profits in extra labor on his own pages.

Episcopal Church.

Bible study in Green's ball on Sunday next at 3 p. m., sharp. Service one hour hereafter. Come all and bring your Bibles. Subject of study. Confirmation: its place and use in the development of life in Christ. Come prepared by study of Acts, 8th chapter.

Eveline.

Awful smoky.

Wanted—some rain.

H. S. Freeman is able to walk out again.

Memorial, or decoration day, May 30.

Charles Bedwin was at Norwood last week.

We are patiently waiting for straw berries and cream. They're in full bloom.

The plum, cherry, and crab apple trees are in full bloom, which looks like living.

Mrs. Lon Sheldon, who has been spending a week with her parents Mr. & Mrs. G. McDonald of this place, returned home last Wednesday.

The following are officers of the Ironton baseball club: Captain, Chris Huggard; secretary and treasurer, Will Bird; general manager, J. M. Harris. The boys play every Saturday afternoon.

We understand that John Morehouse, of Ironton, has purchased an interest in F. J. Cutler's restaurant at East Jordan. The firm hereafter will be Cutler & Morehouse. We wish the new firm success.

The tug Bob Stevenson was launched at Charlevoix last Wednesday afternoon, and was towed to Ironton. She has been thoroughly rebuilt, and freshly painted. It has the appearance of a new tug.

W. H. Jarman, of this place, starts out soon to canvass Eveline for the JOURNAL and wishes all who do not already take it, to be prepared to meet him with the intention of subscribing. He will also make a journey around Pine lake.

By request, next Friday evening, May 19, at 7:30, the Charlevoix teacher's association will meet at Ironton, at the school house and will continue Saturday. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present at each session. A good program is being prepared.

According to a paper received by us, "The Exponent," published at Oberlin, Ohio, under date of May 4, they are not any farther advanced than in northern Michigan, as the leaves are only just putting forth, and that they have been having some cold weather. Come north, where we have Florida weather all the time.

On Tuesday, the 10th, Mrs. Jarman, of this town, walks in Charlevoix, in A. E. Mason's store, fainted away; doctors were called and she was carried into the Bridge Street House, where she was tenderly cared for until Saturday, and being a great deal better, came home on the Friant, and at this writing is fast improving.

The following is the monthly report of the Ironton schools for the month ending May 6th, handed to us by the principal, J. M. Harris:

NUMBER ENROLLED.

Grammar department	33
Primary department	48
Total	81

AVERAGE NUMBER BELONGING.

Grammar department	30
Primary department	40
Total	70

NUMBER OF DAILY ATTENDANCE.

Grammar department	545
Primary department	777
Total	1322

AVERAGE DAILY ATTENDANCE.

Grammar department	28
Primary department	38
Total	66

Regular monthly examinations omitted on account of review work.

Burgess.

Henry Cook lost a valuable cow a short time ago.

Mr. F. J. Smith has the sympathy of his neighbors in his loss by fire last week.

House cleaning is nearly done, and the men folks wear a more smiling countenance.

The many friends of Loren Hamlin are pleased to learn of his recovery from his recent sickness.

Mrs. Charles Sheldon, of Evangeline, has been visiting at her mother's, Mrs. I. S. Webster's, this week.

The Sunday School at Maple Grove is in a flourishing condition with Philip Howe and Thomas Dake at the helm.

Mrs. Gibson expects to go to Louisville, Ky., to her daughter's, as soon as she can arrange her business affairs.

May 17th.

A Proclamation.

To the members, and all who may wish to become members of the very ancient and most honorable I. O. M. B., wherever they may be scattered throughout the earth. I make this my WOOOOOOh proclamation, and by the power vested in me by virtue of my high and exalted office of master supreme of the order throughout the universe, I do hereby command you to assemble yourselves together in conclave in that commodious building, the Charlevoix skating rink, on the evening of Friday, May 20th, 1887, at 7:30, for the purpose of making arrangements for the proper observance of that memorable occasion the proclaiming the independence of this nation, which was done July the 4th 1776. At the same time you will have to choose captains over tens, and captains over fifties. Also some one of the most eminent to take the supreme control, as my term will expire on that night. In this conclave arrangements must be made to so display our great emblem Helias, and those of our lesser lights when the memorable day comes as to reflect great credit on ourselves and our glorious order throughout the universe.

Witness my hand,

HANNIBAL ALEXANDER VAN DUNDER BEROE.

May 16th.

Wilson.

Spring cleaning is now in order.

The spring crops are nearly all in. The mill started again this morning.

Mr. Lewis has been on the sick list, but is better now.

Miss Sarah Jones went home to spend last Saturday and Sunday.

Will Bowen is about to start to Wisconsin, to visit relatives there.

H. Wilks has just returned from a three-weeks' trip to Ionia and vicinity.

The weather has been very dry and sultry. Thermometer 90° in the shade.

The woodland is now beautiful with wild flowers, especially the trail ing arbutus, which is the queen of spring flowers.

Misses Alice and Ellen Sanders went to Charlevoix last week to visit their sister, Mrs. Coulter. Miss Alice will remain during the summer.

Mr. William Sanders and Miss Arwilda Burley, of this place, were married on May 11th, at Charlevoix, and are now domiciled in their pleasant home. They have the best wishes of their friends.

Rev. Mr. Tracy did not preach here last Sunday, on account of being called elsewhere. He is now visiting in this neighborhood, accompanied by his wife and son.

May 18th.

Jury List.

The following is a list of the petit jurors drawn for the next term of court, commencing May 24th:

Bear Lake—Almond Barnard, John D. Duvall.

Boyne Valley—Sidney M. Jones, Lewis Meeker.

Chandler—Benj. F. Rice, Chas. Gallup.

Charlevoix—James M. Thompson, John M. Eckert.

Eveline—Henry Sheldon, Robert Newton.

Evangeline—Jacob Kahler, Robert Crawford.

Hudson—Wm. Gillett, Wm. Counsilor.

Hayes—Samuel W. Solter, Wm. Lawson.

Marion—Wm. S. Gregory, Lorenzo D. Porter.

Melrose—John Hass.

Norwood—Jacob Vandusen.

Resort—Christ. Engle.

South Arm—Wm. H. Lanway.

Springvale—Geo. W. Mitchell.

Wilson—John A. Newville.

Baptist Church.

Service next Sunday morning at the usual hour. Subject: "The gift of eternal life." Five minutes talk to children immediately preceeding the sermon.

Sunday school after morning service.

Evening services at 7:30. Subject: "Man's obligation to receive the religion God has sent."

Regular prayer meetings Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Preaching at Bay Springs, Friday evening, May 20. Preaching at Hilton's school next Sunday at 3 p. m.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve a tea cent lunch in the Maddaugh rooms on decoration day. Ice cream and lemonade will also be served. SEC.

Barnard.

The woods have put on their green dress again.

Farmers are about through seeding.

Henry Harkness has potatoes up and hoed once. How is that for northern Michigan?

Preparations are being made for children's day services here this year.

Mrs. Mekeel, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harkness, has been quite sick, but is recovering under the treatment of Dr. Lewis.

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring decorations in the city. Ceiling and side wall pieces, dados, friezes, etc., etc., etc. W. CROUTER.

Finest Store, Largest Stock.

The Finest Store North of Grand Rapids, with the best stock of CARPETS, DRY GOODS, AND FANCY GOODS. We are exclusive.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Emrey Bros. have some nice Potatoes for sale.

☞ All afflicted with rheumatism, piles, hemorrhoides, eczema, falling of the hair, cancers, heart disease, dyspepsia, swelled joints etc., will do well to call at the Sanitarium.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

There is no danger to human life more to be dreaded than that which arises from vitiated blood. Dyspepsia, rheumatism, headache, and general debility, all result from it, and are cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Take it this month. Six bottles, $5.

Evaporated Apples, splendid and cheap, at Emrey Brothers.

☞ All afflicted with rheumatism, piles, hemorrhoides, eczema, falling of the hair, cancers, heart disease, dyspepsia, swelled joints, etc., will do well to call at the Sanitarium.

Buy your Flour and Feed of Emrey Brothers.

Portable Boiler FOR SALE.

Twelve foot long; 22 foot shell, 4 feet wood; in perfect order; good and cheap. Address

L. E. ALLEN,
200tf Charlevoix, Mich.

F. E. Wood,

BARBER SHOP And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

Time Cards of Pine Lake Steamers,
(STANDARD TIME.)
SEASON OF 1887.

Steamer JOSEPH GORDON,
CAPT. LEWIS GUARD.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 6.30, arrive at Boyne City at 7.30, leave Boyne City 8.30, arrive at Charlevoix 10.00.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 1.00, arrive at Boyne City 2.30, leave Boyne City 3.30, arrive at Charlevoix 4.30.

Excursions at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer NORTH STAR,
CAPT. J. M. THOMPSON.

Morning—Leave Carbonville at 7.00, arrive at East Jordan 9.00, leave East Jordan at 9.30, arrive at Charlevoix 11.30.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix at 2.00, arrive at East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan at 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Excursions at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer CLARA BELLE,
CAPT. GEO. JENSON.

Morning—Leave Boyne City at 6.30, arrive at Charlevoix 9.15, to connect with the Steamer Lou A. Cummings, for Petoskey; Harbor Springs leave Charlevoix upon the arrival of the Steamer Thomas Friant, at 1.45.

Afternoon—Leave Boyne City at 1.00; returning leave Charlevoix at 3.30, finishing at 5.45; intermediate points.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway.
THE MACKINAW SHORT LINE.

Only Direct Route to Marquette, Michigan Iron and Copper Regions of the Upper Peninsula, and the Gogebic.

Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections in Union Depots at all Points.

The territory traversed is famous for its

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

Tickets for sale at all points via this route.

Rates, Maps, Folders, and Time Tables furnished on application to any agent of the Company, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

☞ NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION. The copartnership heretofore existing between the undersigned in the name of Rosenthal & Son is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be wound up by Alex. Rosenthal, to whom all indebtedness of said firm will be paid.

SAMUEL ROSENTHAL,
ALEX. ROSENTHAL.

Dated Charlevoix, May 9th, 1887.

☞ NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY is complete without the most lovely visits of Babyhood, that delight, comfort, and aid of the mother. Only publication in the world devoted to the care of young children. We are so sure you will be pleased, we recommend it. Sample copy free. Address, N. Y. $1.50 a year; 15 cents a copy.

SOMETIME?

BY DELLA D. BARNY.

It may be when the forest trees
Are called upon to say farewell
To autumn, and winter sees
His dazzling white—I cannot tell;
But hope tells me stay,
While my thoughts fly away
To dreams that may
Be sometime!

It may be when spring's wondrous dreams
Wrap soul in sweet rumanca's spell,
And earth's bright rhythm seems—
I cannot tell;
But Hope tells me stay,
While my thoughts fly away
To that glorious day
In sometime!

It may be in proud summer's hours,
When days are and dreamy heart hopes swell,
And bloom the fragrant dancing flowers—
I cannot tell; I cannot tell
But Hope bids me stay,
While my thoughts fly away,
And a soft voice doth say,
Yes—sometime!

It may not be till earth is done,
And life a shut door, we know well,
In the high realms our souls have won—
I cannot tell;
But there we will
His face shall then see
In sweet bliss that shall be
In that sometime!

CAPTAIN MURRAY'S TRUST.

BY R. A. RILEY.

Stories of shipwreck are common. We can swallow up many who venture upon its treacherous waters, and have them with their lives, after their vessel has gone down into the bitter flood, can call back both with a shudder of horror at the perils and privations they have passed through.

In the days before steamships were in vogue, the well-built and seaworthy brig Roman, commanded by Captain John Bragg, used to make an occasional trip across the city of New Orleans and the city of New York, carrying such passengers as desired to make the venture. On one of these occasions an unusually large number of passengers embarked on board the vessel at New Orleans. Among this number was a young young girl, about seventeen years of age, and remarkable beauty, who had been placed in charge of the Captain by her relatives, with the request that she should be landed at Charleston, South Carolina, where the vessel expected to touch. This young girl was named Adelaide Bronson, who had been on a visit to her brother in New Orleans, and was returning to her parents in Charleston. The passengers soon discovered that, in addition to being a marvellously beautiful, Adelaide was very intelligent, and possessed all other qualities necessary to insure admiration. Captain John Murray felt his heart warm toward her from the first. The Captain was not, as one might suppose, a rough old sea dog, who by years of command over his men had acquired a bluff air and a stern demeanor, but was young—only twenty-four—with a handsome, pleasant face and gentlemanly air, yet the set of his mouth and the steady poise of his head showed that he possessed a will-power that would carry him through dangers and difficulties where a vast majority would fail. His men loved, respected, feared, and obeyed him.

Captain Murray was unmarried, and it was natural that his heart should warm toward the most lovable, the most beautiful of all the opposite sex he had met, and found himself toward her with his natural gallantry, and showed her those delicate attentions which a lady of her intelligence and refinement appreciated. The voyage was made under favorable auspices. After the storms cleared the Mississippi, a fair breeze carried the brig swiftly and smoothly upon her course.

"Fine ship, that," said the Captain to his mate, "we shall be opposite to Havanas in three days at the rate we are going. Fine ship, and a good sailer under the influence of fine weather. Why, we have made more than fifty-eight miles had arrived at Key West City, on Key West Island, off the coast of Florida, which is about one hundred and fifty miles northwest of Havana. Stopping here for a few hours, the brig resumed her course, steering south of the Florida Reefs, upon which so many vessels are annually wrecked. For five or six hours the vessel kept steadily on its way. All at once there burst upon the brig one of those sudden and furious storms so common in that latitude. It came upon quickly that they had not time to prepare the vessel before it was upon them.

Bronson—should sailors curned pale who had never felt fear before, for in spite of all the efforts of the gallant crew, the furious tempest was hurrying the unwieldy craft toward the fatal Florida Reefs. Crowds the vessel pitched, sending under bare poles, for every sail was split to ribbons. The chain of low island extending the Florida Reefs were not yet in view when the storm began to lull, and hope sprang up once more. A storm stay-sail was tried and found to bear. Other sails were bent, when suddenly a crashing, grating noise was heard along the vessel's keel.

"Ah! we're done for now," exclaimed the Captain to his first mate, "we have reached the edge of the sunken reefs. Go below and see what is the damage, while I order men to the pumps and have the boats made ready in case we can do any good with them."

"Ay! ay! sir," responded the mate, as he bounded down into the hold. He soon returned, with an ashen hue upon his face, and said: "I fear, sir, the pumps will be of little use; the water is rushing in at a leak great and faster than forty times the number of pumps we have could pump it out."

"How long do you suppose we can keep afloat?" asked the Captain calmly, though his face expressed the anxiety he felt.

"Twenty minutes, and not more than half of that further."

The gurgling sound of the water rushing into the hold was now plainly to be heard. The passengers were collected around, whispering as best they could to keep the shrinking of the vessel from throwing them overboard, and manifesting great courage, with the exception of a small group who had collected near the Captain, and among this group was Adelaide Bronson. Captain Murray gave one glance upon Adelaide, a hopeless, longing glance, and then looked out upon the stormy sea. The waves were higher than the masts, and the prospect indeed seemed hopeless.

All at once the Captain placed his trumpet to his mouth and shouted: "Man the boats!"

"Why man the boats?" said the mate; "no boat could live in such a sea as this."

"That may be true," replied the Captain, "but we can try it; the boats, and all! there remain fastened to the brig, until the very moment we abandon it, and then we cut loose, and thus we won't be sucked downward in such a great depth by the sinking vessel, nor be killed by the fragments bursting upward, and if the boats swamp some may be able to get hold of fragments, that will support them, until the sea becomes calm.

"I understand," replied the mate, "but I can't see much hope in either case.

"Heave away, my hearties, never say die!" shouted the Captain to the men, who were lowering the yawl; and they did heave away and the boat was soon rocking upon the billowy tide. The other boats, three in number, had been lowered at the same time at other points, and a general scramble commenced to see who should be first to get in them. Captain Murray now turned to Adelaide Bronson and said: "Miss Adelaide, this is probably our last hour on earth, and I will tell you how what I would not have had the courage to tell you under other circumstances, I love you as I never loved any other before. You were placed under my charge to watch over and protect, but now I usurp place you under the care of some one else in one of the boats, for I must be the last to leave my vessel, and it may go down before I can leave it. Come, and as we go I'll say farewell."

"Nay, Captain Murray, I would stay with you. I have no husband, or child, as you do me, and when you die I wish to die also."

The Captain clasped her in his arms, and amid the howling of the storm, and the lurches of the vessel, imprinted upon her lips a kiss of pure and holy love. The storm had not abated perceptibly, yet the sea was globally rough. The last of the passengers and seamen were scrambling into the boats. Pete, the Captain's cook, was lay-ing down into the yawl a little girl, the daughter of the mate who stood just behind and anxiously looking on, when suddenly the vessel gave a great forward lurch.

"Cut loose," cried those in the boat, "she's going immediately." It was immediately done. Pete and the mate sprang over into the yawl, at the risk of missing some one, and the boats all shot away from the doomed vessel, on whose deck alone was left Captain Murray and Adelaide, clasped in each other's arms, and thus they went down, down, down, with their ill-fated vessel to its watery grave. To Captain Murray, who had Adelaide clasped tightly in his arms, it seemed as if they would never begin to rise again. All at once he felt something surge up beneath his feet, bearing them upward. He never lost his consciousness, but a great roaring was in his ears, and it seemed as if he would suffocate for want of air. Let any one hold their breath until they are ready to burst, and he will have some idea of his feelings as he went up, up, to the surface. It was reached at last. The Captain caught a gasp of air, and before he could catch another, felt himself and Adelaide going down, down, again; but in a few seconds they rose again, and the yawl was close alongside. Some of the men had lost their grasp upon the sunken vessel and had arisen immediately beneath the yawl, and his buoyancy had saved them from going to a much greater depth and from being perilled. The portion of deck which had broken loose was some eight or ten feet in width and double that in length. The planking had been evidently loosed together, so that there was but little danger of its going to pieces immediately. Near the outer edge of this planking, securely fastened to it, were some iron rings, which had been thus placed that ropes might be drawn through and secured.

Providentially as they came to the surface the second time, Captain Murray was directly over one of these rings. The Captain instantly grasped the ring with his left hand, while he supported the now unconscious Adelaide with his right. He caught his breath rapidly as the planking beneath them arose to the top of a huge wave. The lightning gave reason for his most exhausted strength, and he instantly cross over, and lifting Adelaide as high as he could reach above his head, he ran his foot through the ring, so that he could not be swept backward and off into the water as they went down into the trough of the billow. As they went downward, the planking shaded, and was for a short time so deeply submerged in the next wave that the water swept up over the face of the Captain's face, and had it not been for his foot in the ring, and the other hand he had leaved behind him, he would have been instantly swept away; as it was, he was with difficulty held Adelaide clear of the water above him, and maintained his balance. The ring was near the forward end of the planking, and when the vessel went down it had been and submerged their frail support much more than it would otherwise have been. The Captain felt that he could not maintain his position long. As they arose to the top of the next wave he looked back and saw, as he expected, another ring at the back end of the planking.

He immediately reached toward it, bearing Adelaide with him. His experience in walking upon the deck of his vessel when it was rolling and lurching so that a landsman would have fallen headlong, now enabled him to reach the other ring in safety, just as they went swooping down into the trough of the next billow. The weight now suddenly transferred to the back end, so raised the front of the planking, that the water was thrown off of it, and water barely swept around the gallant captain's waist. He now felt more secure and turned his attention to Adelaide, who was coming to consciousness and gasping for breath. In a short time she had fully recovered, and the Captain placed her on her feet beside him, while he supported her with his right arm, his right foot being firmly braced in the ring. Occasionally they had to move from side to side to balance their frail craft and to keep it from turning end for end. In this way an hour passed, and the sea grew comparatively smooth, so that they could move about together on their frail craft in safety. A few more hours, and the sea had resumed its natural placidity. The day wore away, and night came on. They passed the night in a manner side by side upon the planking, which still held together remarkably well. And morning at last dawned. Ten o'clock came, and to the joy of both, a sail was descried bearing directly toward them. They were both beginning to suffer from hunger and thirst, Adelaide very severely. The afternoon and evening proved to be a very small schooner sailing from San Augustine to Havana. At dear sean, a boat was sent out, and the Captain and Adelaide were taken on board, where they received every courtesy from captain and crew. At Havana, a vessel was found about to sail for Charleston, and, taking passage, they soon arrived at the latter place, where the gallant Captain had the satisfaction of delivering his charge safely into the hands of her parents; but as the price of his delivery he demanded his reward, and his demand was complied with, and he and Adelaide in a few weeks were united in marriage.

Only one of the boats from the ill-starred brig escaped; the other three were swamped, and the occupants perished.

The gallant Captain tried the sea no more, but with his lovely bride settled down on a rice plantation back of Charleston, where his wealthy father-in-law had given them.

He Hit It.

"What's generally kept in a bottle in the bar?" he asked of a butcher on the market.

"Oil, liniment, kerosene, poison, and other stuff, including whisky. Did you find a bottle in a barn?"

"Yes, sah."

"And drank the contents?"

"Yes, sah."

"And how do you feel?"

"Sorter exalted, sah—sorter jist like I was smart 'nuff to skip all de insignias an' piran an' hit de whisky pinnab-center."—Detroit Free Press.

"Women is the chief wife" asks a prominent lecturer. In the cellar spiling anything, most likely.

A Terrible Fix.

BY JOHN DE MORGAN.

"By Jove, I'm in for it this time. What a scape-grace I must have been. How can I get out of the difficulty?"

Handsome Bertie Raymond raced up and down the floor of his law office in Broadway, like a caged lion anxious to get loose. He was in a fix, for Handsome Bertie, as he was called, was the pet of society, the idol of the ladies, and he loved of at least two of the fair sex.

And the fix, unpleasant enough to cause the perspiration to pour from every pore of his body, was in relation to these two ladies. He had compromised himself with each. There was Clarissa Polly Cipion, whose winsome ways had so won on Bertie's affections that he had all but popped the question. We say "all but," for Polly's young brother rushed into the room just as Bertie was about to ask the momentous question, and he was saved, which of course she could not answer, in order to teach him a lesson not to be so careless in future.

"Well, I'm a bigger idiot than I thought," he said, as he read the letter, and knew that he was in a terrible fix.

He managed by some means to gently intimate to Clarissa, and had her he loved—with a brother's affection.

Polly Cipion became Polly Raymond in two weeks, and, under her gentle guidance, the brother became a happy and prosperous as anyone could wish to be.

Of Gilbert Maud we have not yet spoken, but he had not failed to find fault in some way or other, with the manner in which he had left the letter, which was the cause of a terrible fix.

He was never regretted his carelessness, but whenever Maud visits Polly, as she sometimes does, he always hears his story that he was once in a terrible fix.

The Distributions of Earthquakes.

The present condition of the earth is erratic, so far as the brief historic record goes to show, earthquakes of an intensity sufficiently high to be felt over a certain regions which probably do not exceed in area a few hundred or one-fourth of the area of the lands, though shocks of a less degree of violence appear to be common to every part of the surface of the continents. The recorded shocks of considerable violence are so irregularly distributed that they cannot be adequately noted in the brief record. Over include, in Europe, Iceland, Portugal, Spain, and Southern Italy; the region of the Lower Danube, and some of the islands of the Grecian Archipelago. In Asia, the larger part of Asia Minor, several limited areas in Hindostan, the region of the Caspian and Black Sea, region of Asia, and the islands of the Indian and Malayan Archipelagoes are subjected to destructive shocks.

In Africa, there is, save in Egypt, comparatively little to notice from earthquake disturbance, and even little is known of it. The thirty years in which it have been, on the whole, singularly exempt from great earthquakes, while the western portion of the Mediterranean has been subjected to severe disturbances from which the Spanish coasts have not repeatedly suffered. The vast Australian and Polynesian district of the Pacific affords a number of regions of considerable earthquake activity, of which New Zealand is the only one that we have specially noted, and we observations for even a few score years.

It may be said, however, that the greater part of the world are seem to be more exempt from these indications of activity in the earth's crust than are equally extensive part of the earth's surface.

We now come to the twin continents, North and South America. The obvious resemblance in the physical configuration of the continents lead us to expect a likeness in their conditions of stability. This resemblance is in some measure exists. The western shore of both of both of these continents, the seaward face of the great Cordilleran range of mountains, is the seat of the most frequent and, on the whole, the most energetic disturbances which occur within the limits of the land, even shore of each is comparatively little subject to shocks. The Andes, in the Washington district, of South America, which is apparently the seat of an active mountain growth, of which it is no parallel in the northern continent, is a district of frequent and, at times, violence, such as have never been observed in the Rocky Mountains, our own continent. On the other hand, the region from the mouth of the Amazon to the Plata River, which is remote from our seaboard Atlantic States, and has provinces of Canada, enjoys an immunity from disturbances probably not exceeded by any other equally extensive area on the surface of the earth, while the corresponding region in North America is much less fortunate.—Prof. N. S. Shaler, in Scribner's Magazine.

"It's an Art to Mix Drinks.

"Oh, yes, it is a good deal of an art to mix drinks properly," and the barkeeper, as he set the cocktail on the mahogany and put fifteen cents in the drawer. "Some bartenders make big wages, too, because they can mix a drink in a fancy shape, but that's nothing compared with what some can make that can mix the liquors themselves. Almost any man can put a little Angostura and syrup and whisky in a glass and stir it up, but when a man can put some Angostura and syrup and a few drugs in a barrel and make a cocktail that will stand up and walk alongside of a man, he is a man indeed. These follows come high, but they are worth it. I have to have one, I know one big liquor house in Chicago that pays a man $10,000 a year to make them for them. Some of them are worth more than that. Now, you take a man that can have the head of the house say to him at supper: 'Casey & Corazos Bitters, I think, is the best thing for a right off,' and can go and make up the whole order out of raw material and get it barreled by six in the morning, and he's the life of the business. Six-year salary is much for him."—Detroit Journal.

A Proverb.

A PROVER safe working load for wire ropes is as follows: One-half inch in diameter, 12,000 pounds; five-sixths rope, 7,500 pounds; three-fourths rope, 3,00 pounds; one-inch rope, 6,000 pounds. This is for nineteen wires to the strand, hemp socket.

REV. ROBERT CUSHMAN preached at Plymouth, Nov. 9, 1621, what was the first sermon ever delivered in New England by a regularly ordained minister.

An Abe Lincoln Story.

I heard a story repeated the other day as an "Abe Lincoln story," but which is older, and must have slumbered somewhere for a good while. Certainly it is not one that the politicians would be likely to repeat on the stump, because it reflects on their ex. In a little group at the Parker House a rather noisy young politician from Ward Two was talking about the sentiments of Henry Watterson and defending the principle that the spoils belong to the victor.

"I see no reason," said he, "why any Republican should not be kept in a Federal office here in Boston while I, a Democrat, who have worked hard for the party, am left out in the cold."

"That reminds me," said a gentleman who couldn't escape him—"Mr. Jones, old boy, how dy' do? Beastly weather this. It's so unsettled, don't you know."

Tailor—Ugh—yes—just like my bill.—Washington Critic.

An advertisement in a French newspaper: "Lost, on the Place Vendôme, a young man, with a good education and good manners. He will accept any salary, and will be grateful to the person who will restore him to his disconsolate parents."

Training for Motherhood.

Just what is meant by the term "being trained for motherhood," or why this training should be designated as "one of the two great channels of preparation of physiological forces," I find myself unable to understand. But it may safely be asserted that any training which does not include a knowledge of the laws of health, or which, in part, by matter where applied, or for what purpose, would straightway be condemned. The "competition" and the "fertile strain" theories seem to me to have but little foundation. In my university life I saw nothing to confirm them. The work was pleasant and inspiriting, and I am sure I can safely say that for the most part we enjoyed it. We did not trouble ourselves about the relative weight of our brains, and, as in the athletic school or the high school, so here, it mattered little whether it was Jane or Jane who stood best, and it was quite as likely to be Jane as Jane.

As I recall the animated faces, the healthy bloom and high spirits of the young women, I fail to find any ground for the assumption that their work was in any sense done at the expense of their vitality. On the contrary, I know that in many cases there was decided improvement in health from the beginning to the end of the course.

All this much-talked-of "physiological expenditure" is a myth. The intellect is quickened and strengthened by proper exercise, and, cannot the marriage fee. On opening it, for I found it "with regard to the marriage was written, "We desire your prayers."

An ambitious young painter has gone to Washington to get a commission to paint the House of Representatives for a small historical picture. Well, we see no objection to his painting the honorable House. It has been whitewashed and painted so often that the operation has to be repeated too frequently.—Juliette.

"A SENSIBLE" woman, as Dr. Abernethy would have called her, was discovered by a friend to be about to be married. She stopped a lady friend in the street and said: "Do you know I am to be married? I have had a rather original proposal. He bought a wedding ring, and sent it to the lady, inclosing a note, in which he put the brief question, "Does it fit?" By return of post he received the answer: "Beautifully."

"Do you think 40 cents too much for the hack?"

He marked it "collect."—Pittsburgh Penny Press.

Work as Well as Honor.

A Concord gentleman relates the following interesting anecdote: "During the late war, I was in charge of a corps of telegraphy in Boston. I went to Gov. Andrew's house about midnight one night with an important message. To my statement of my errand he replied: "Aye, Miss Clalwa, I was, aw, knocked senseless, don't you know."

She—"Oh, I'm so glad you escaped. They told me you had been injured."

He—"Be I, wonders what she meant.—Texas Siftings.

She's Here Already.

Dr. Brown—"I can't say the coming woman will wear pants. If Dr. Mary Walker had been a married man she would have gone to Washington and set up a business that the woman is here. Jones—"Well, I don't know. Mary is large and most enthusiastic majority.—Burlington Courier.

MOST of the superstitions about the moon come to us from old England, the Scottish, and Irish sources. In Devonshire, England, it is lucky to see the new moon over the right shoulder, but to see it straight before is good fortune in the shape of a month. In Berkshire, if a man's house be burned during the wane of the moon it is unlucky, but if the moon is waxing it is lucky. To have money, particularly gold or silver, in your pocket at that time is a token of good fortune, but to be without it is a very bad omen. In Orkney it is considered very unlucky to dit or move from one place to another during the waning of the moon. Old people in some parts of Argyllshire are most careful to avoid any mention of the moon after the monthly change. The Gaelic word for fortune is derived from the moon, and it is a common belief in the provincials who, being subscribers, received into their homes the "Doctor," to be paid for those who wanted to know how the story was spread that it had become of Pierre de Monte and principal Rigolette was safe. The Debats sight ladled out a little more than the powers that were, for it was conceded that if the hideous mess had not brought down from the loft. The Pierre-passon, co-can you r-r-raise da-d-devil?

"Yes, if you give me a light," came the answer. A light was brought, the cotton was set on fire, and lo! the Pierrot jumped the little black negro, and the cold-blooded husband, frightened, yet fully convinced of the person's supernatural powers, exclaimed aloud: "Sacrebleu! Sacrebleu! the servant-liar of the day!

"Pry-parson, I'm yore m-m-meat; I'll quit," and, sure enough, he never "smiled" again.—Baltimore American.

THE Scandinavians, one of the chief branches of the Teutonic people, do not figure in history until the ninth and tenth centuries, when they appear as the Norsemen.

Agony Is Courted

By persons who, affected by a mild form of rheumatism, neglect to procure relief. Subsequent torture is prevented by an immediate resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Slight exposure, an occasional draught, will beget this painful malady, where there is a predisposition to it in the blood. It is not difficult to arrest the trouble at the outset, but well nigh impossible to eradicate it when once fastened. No evidence in relation to this superb blood depurent is more positive than that which establishes its efficacy as a preventive and remedy for rheumatism. Not only is it thorough, but safe, which the vegetable and mineral poisons, often taken as curatives of the disease, are not. Besides expelling the rheumatic virus from the system, it overcomes fever and ague, biliousness, constipation, and dyspepsia.

Sheep in the Early Days.

"He called his own sheep by name and leadeth them out. And when he putteth forth (from the fold) his own sheep, he goth before them and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice. And a stranger they will not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers."—John x. 3-5.

In reference to this passage of Scripture, John Hartley, in his "Researches in Greece and the Levant," says: "I asked my man if this usual in Greece to give names to sheep. He informed me that it was the custom for every one the shepherd when he called them by their name.

I had an opportunity of verifying the truth of this remark. Passing by a flock of sheep, I called to the shepherd the same question which I put to my servant, and received the same answer. I then bade him call one of his sheep. He did so, and immediately left its pasturage and companions and ran up to the shepherd. It was evident that it was not a blind obedience, for if he had not called he would have before fled. The shepherd when the sheep had been named, and called, ran up to the shepherd, and he called them by their name, and they followed him. The shepherd then called another, and the same question which I put to my servant, and received the same answer. I then bade him call one of his sheep. He did so, and instantly left its pasturage and companions and ran up to the shepherd. It was evident that it was not a blind obedience, for if he had not called he would have Tennyson's Jubilee Ode.

Tennyson's "Carmen Saeculare: An Ode to Honor of the Jubilee of Queen Victoria."

I.

Times the rose has flowered and faded,
Times the golden harvest fallen,
Your sons assembled late globe, the people.

II.

Be beloved for a brightness
Rare in fable or history,
Queen, and Empress of India,
Queen of no long with a diadem
Queen, where by a worthier,
Queen, where the Queen augurties
Queen at set Victoria
Crowning year of her jubilee.

III.

Ruling of the lawless, of the despot,
Ruling of the vulgar, of vainglorious,
All a gracious, gentle, great, and queenly.

IV.

Queen, loyally, all of you,
Sound your trumpets, blow your
Proclaim your feast of festival,
Let it in unanimous
Let, each, to the heart of it,
Full voice of allegiance,
The great ceremonial
Year of her jubilee.

V.

Queen true to womanhood as to queen-ship,
In the glories of her people,
With the sorrows of the lowest
VI.

Queen, what wanton influence,
Ever now to be humble,
Ever to be helpful to all
Ever neighborhood insufficiline,
Your goal to the hospital,
Weary be comforted,
Needy be banqueted,
Poor be in her rejoice
Year of her jubilee.

VII.

Years are all in shadow,
Sunshine. Edward's fifty summers,
Sunshine's fifty half forgotten.

VIII.

You, the patriot architect,
Raising a statelier memorial,
Queen, it could suggest,
Queen, in the Queen's jubilee,
Irish Sphinx, the irresolute,
Which may speak to the centuries,
All the centuries after us,
Of this year of her jubilee.

IX.

Fifty years of ever-broadening commerce!
Fifty years of ever-brightening science!
Fifty years of ever-widening empire!

X.

You, the mighty, the fortunate,
You, the land-territorial,
You, the lord-manufacturer,
You, the merchant-princes,
Patient children of Albion,
You, Canadian, Indian,
Australian, African,
All your hearts be in harmony,
All your voices in unison,
Singing, "Hail to the glorious
Golden year of her jubilee!"

XI.

Are there thunders meaning in the distance?
Are there phantoms moving in the darkness?
Trust the Lord of Light, guide her people,
Trust the thunders, the spectre vanish,
And the light is victor, and the darkness
Dawns into the jubilee of the age.

EARTHQUAKES.

Queer Theories That Have Been Held Concerning Them by Superstitious People.

In the course of a lecture delivered recently before the Rigaku Kyokai, or Science society, of Tokio, on the causes of earthquakes, Prof. Milne classified the theories as to the cause of these phenomena into three kinds—unscientific, quasi-scientific, and scientific. The former class he included the explanations of the negro preachers of the Southern states, who attribute the earthquakes to the wickedness of the people. The Musulmans in Syria ascribe to the volcanoes there the shakings, at the same time proclaiming the reformation of life. The idea that shakes are the direct result of sin, wickedness is an idea to be met with in Japan. About 1700 earthquakes were felt in many parts of Europe, which were widely attributed to sin. Sermons and innumerable sermons were preached, inculcating the lesson that if mankind would live better lives there would be no earthquakes. In 1786, after a long series of shocks, the people are reported to have been about scourging themselves thinking extremely wicked. An English earthquakes' pub- lished in somewhat the disturbances of an unknown force, gings of the imprison- to the shaking of the tridents:

"Ye people free
Earth impatient fears
Ye earth's weight
Ye slaves for her bad race
Ye
Ye
Ye
Ye

Prof. Milne says, which can scarcely be met with in Japan, but which is not in the myths which ascribe earthquakes to a creature living in Japan it is an enormous catfish covered with scales, having eight legs, or a fish having a certain rock on his head which helped to keep it quiet. Mythologists the animal was said to be a frog, in India the world-bearing elephant, in the Hebrews a world-supporting bog, in North America a tortoise. In Africa there was a myth, connected with the great bones found there, that these were the remains of animals that lived underground, the stamping of which made the ground quake. In Kamschatka the legend was connected with a god. Tull who went about quarreling with the dogs. When the latter attempted to scratch themselves their movements produced earthquakes. In Scandinavian mythology Loki, having killed his brother Baldwin, was bound to a rock, face upward, so that the poison of a serpent should drop on his face. Loki's wife, however, intercepted the poison in a vessel, and it was only when she went to go away to empty the dish that a few drops reached him and caused him to writhe and shake the earth.

The lecturer had no means of collecting the fables of the southern hemisphere, but they would obviously be worth knowing for purposes of comparison. As to quasi-scientific theories, these endeavored to account for earthquakes as parts of the ordinary operations of nature. It was supposed, for instance, that they were produced by the action of wind confined inside the earth. The Chinese philosophers said that Yang, the male element, pressed the earth and caused it to expand and shake the ground in its efforts to escape. Its effects would be more violent beneath the mountains than in the plains, and therefore earthquakes in the north of China, which was mountainous, were said to be more violent beneath the mountains than those in the south. It was supposed that when the wind was blowing strongly on the surface of the earth there was calm beneath, and vice versa.

Aristotle and many other classical writers attributed earthquakes to wind in the earth. Shakespeare, in "Henry IV.," speaks of the teeming earth being pinched and vexed with a kind of colic by the imprisoned and unruly wind within her womb. Then came the theory of electrical discharges, which was advocated in 1760 by Dr. Stukely, as well as by Percival and Priestley. They are strongly held in California at the present day, where it was believed that the network of rails protected the state against any dangerous accumulation of electricity. But Prof. Milne showed that the laying down of rails in Japan had no such effect. He thought the electric phenomena which sometimes attended earthquakes were their consequences, not their causes. He had himself experimented with dynamite placed in a hole: an earth-plate was fixed about thirty yards away from the dynamite, and from it a wire was carried some distance to another earth-plate. When the dynamite charge was exploded there was certainly a current produced as was indicated by a strong deflection of a galvanometer-needle at the end of the wire. He attributed this to chemical action. When the ground was shaken there was always a greater or less action by increase or decrease of pressure in connection with the earth-plate.

VII.

Earth currents unquestionably accompany earthquakes, but, as has been said, they appear to be the consequences, not the causes, of the latter. Next came the chemical theories, which were very strongly in Europe up to the beginning of the present century. It was imagined that under ground there were various substances, such as sulphur, nitre, vitriol, which, by their action on each other, resulted in violent changes, giving rise to vapor, the sudden production of which, in certain cases, would shake the ground.

VIII.

It was only in 1760 that Dr. Mitchell, who wrote a good deal on the subject, first threw out the theory that earthquakes were connected in some way with volcanoes, because they were most frequent in volcanic countries. He observed that large quantities of steam were given off from volcanoes, and came to the conclusion that an earthquake was produced at the time that an attempt was made to form a volcano; the steam got in between certain strata, and, as it ran between them, caused pulsations. Prof. Rogers, about the same time, in North America, endeavored to show that it was steam—not really lava—that ran along underneath the ground, causing it to rise and fall, thus producing an earthquake. Prof. Milne having thus dealt with unscientific and quasi-scientific theories, passed on to those of modern times. It is unnecessary here to follow him into this portion of his subject, although it occupied the main part of the lecture.—Nature.

An Absent-minded Composer.

In Cassell's Family Magazine the following story is told about the eccentric composer of the "Three Hunters":

Mr. Hullah was a composer who, being largely made up of Wagner's music, did not much trouble him. His daughter became absorbed in his own thoughts, and sat motionless for a long while, evidently unaware of what was going on around him. His absentmindedness became proverbial. Madame Antoinette Sterling, for whose singing he had an ardent admiration, had commenced to sing his own "Three Fishers," nor did he make the slightest movement until the last phrase was peeling forth in Miss Sterling's fullest notes, when, slowly rising to his feet he murmured:

"What a fine song that is!"

It was clear that it was not until some seconds after he had spoken that Mr. Hullah was quite a conscious one, that what had fallen so pleasingly on his ear was of his own composing.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can enjoy ourselves better than we imagine, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving in to despondency, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make these free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonder ful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. 3

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are troubled with headache, you are filgetty, nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of liver and kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store. 2

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, chief of police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are benefited by your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that can claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, unite in a very emphatic endorsement." Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, croup, and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store. Large size $1.00.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by Dr. G. W. Hime & Co., Druggist, Chatham, Ontario. 192w4 expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

William Blair, train dispatcher of the D. G. H. & M. railroad, Detroit, Mich., says: "For about three years I have been almost a constant sufferer from neuralgia, many times unfitting me for my business duties as well as making life a burden. The strain on my nerves was so great that I nearly lost the use of one of my eyes. I was suffering very much, and had never succeeded in getting anything that would give me but temporary relief, and that was of very short duration. The first bottle of Athlophoros made a very decided change, in fact I had some relief from a few doses. I probably have used a dozen bottles, and it is six months since I had a severe attack. I keep the medicine on hand all the time; I have some at my office and some at home, so that in case I should need it I am well prepared. I have had times during my use of this medicine that my neuralgia would come on during my business hours, and by having the medicine close at hand a dose or two would drive the neuralgia away. For neuralgia Athlophoros is undoubtedly the best medicine, and I think I ought to know, as I have during the many years that I have suffered had occasion to try about every thing in the line of medicine for this complaint."

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggists the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 7

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of a mortgage executed by Carl G. Van Platen to Lewis S. Brown, Jr., dated the 7th day of December, 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County, Michigan, on May 10th, 1886, in liber four of mortgages, page 336, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Conrad D. Farthmann to Lewis S. Brown and Walter F. Brown, on the 22d day of December, 1885, and said assignment is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 10th day of December, 1885, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 1, upon which there is now due and unpaid the sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars ($295) principal and interest, for the recovery of which no proceedings have been instituted; and whereas the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative; therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale therein contained said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the north-west quarter of the south-east quarter of section thirty-six, town twenty north, range four west in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the south-west quarter of section thirty-six, town twenty north, range four west in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the south-east quarter of section twenty, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the north-west quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the south-west quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the south-west quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the north-east quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the north-east quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the north-west quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the south-west quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-one, town twenty north, range four west, all in the township of Boyne City, in said county, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half of the north-east

THE JOURNAL
CHAS. J. GEIER, EDITOR.
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Expensive Legislation.

The JOURNAL May 5th called attention to the sluggish manner in which our legislature was serving the people, and the small amount of work accomplished at so great an expense. Since then the Detroit papers, following the suggestion of the JOURNAL, have been agitating the subject somewhat. Finally the Evening News reporter last week went throught the records in the auditor general's office and published the following result:

Legislature come high, partienlarly when the session drags out toward the dog days. An inspection of the records of the auditor general's office shows the present session has already cost the state $100,000. As 200 laws have been framed, this makes an average cost of $500 per law. It is likely that the total cost to the state will reach $150,000 before members stop drawing their per diem and mileage. The exact figures up to the close of business in the auditor general's office last Friday night are as follows:

Pay to members and employes, mileage, etc.	$72,014 90
Expenses of investigating committees and mismanagement	9,138 67
Printing and binding the legislative journal	7,865 15
Total to date	$89,018 72

But even those figures are considerably short of the actual cost for many members have an accumulation of pay and mileage, and this, of course does not show on the auditor general's books. There are, too, innumerable incidental expenses which follow legislative sessions. The state offices are all given a large amount of extra work requiring extra clerks. Altogether the amount will exceed $100,000. The expenses of the next month will be much larger than those of any previous month, for all accumulated pay accounts will be presented for payment, and the usual allowance of extra pay will be voted to those officials who are lucky enough to be courtions and popular.

There is now fear that this session may eclipse all former ones for length. That of 1885 lasted until June 20, which was the longest up to that time. The record of adjournments for the last 20 years as follows:

1866	April 3	1877	May 22
1867	March 28	1879	May 31
1871	April 18	1881	June 11
1873	May 1	1883	June 9
1875	May 4	1885	June 20

A resolution was introduced last Friday fixing June 4 as the day of final adjournment, and was laid over under the rules. Clerk Crossman says it will be impossible to get through by that date. In his opinion, the session will last until June 11 at least, and probably until June 18.

Like Captain Scott's Coon.

The prompt and cheerful acquiescence of the Northern Pacific Railroad in President Cleveland's decision of the Guilford Miller case, and its generous proposal to respect hereafter the rights of settlers, convey at first blush the impression that this corporation is an exception to the general rule, that "corporations have no souls."

We are afraid, however, that calm consideration of the company's attitude and offer will not justify the first impression. It has only "come down" for the same reason that Captain Scott's coon did. It may well offer to select its "indemnity lands," so called, from unoccupied land, when it is extremely doubtful whether it has any indemnity land coming to it. Inquiry from the Land Office showed, two years ago, that the company was making claim to hundreds of thousands of acres to which it could never get title; and millions of acres of its original grant have been forfeited, or are to be, for failure, on its part, to comply with the conditions of the grant.

Before the advent of a democratic administration, the treatment of settlers by this corporation was simply outrageous. In selecting its indemnity lands it utterly disregarded valid land and "gobbled" the improved farms of settlers, some of whom had entered into possession long before the railroad crossed the Missouri. It is a good thing for the honest settler that we have a democratic administration to bring rapacious land-grabbing corporations to terms, and to squeeze from them such propositions as the Northern Pacific now makes.—Detroit Free Press.

Protecting Animals from Piles.

At this season of the year the annoyance caused to animals by flies and mosquitoes often amounts to positive agony, and at all time, in what is called good corn weather, it is sufficient to prevent the stock eating enough to keep them in good condition. The animals will stand in the water or pass the greater part of the day in the shade, rather than expose themselves to the sunshine, going out to eat only when driven by hunger. They quickly lose flesh, the flow of milk shrinks, and a loss is incurred that cannot be easily made good again. At all times a good feed of grain is beneficial to stock, but it is especially so when flies are very annoying, since it will do much to prevent shrinkage of flesh and milk. Horses and milch cows may be protected, in a great measure at least, by wiping them all over with a sponge dipped in soap suds in which a little carbolic acid has been mixed. Bulls confined in stables often suffer enough from the attacks of flies to drive them half mad, and there is no doubt that the continual fretting caused in this way develops a savage disposition. The most satisfactory results have followed from sponging, with soap suds and carbolic acid mixed.—Chicago Tribune.

Care of Young Trees.

It is poor policy to plant fruit trees and leave them to shift for themselves until "pruning time" comes next spring. A little timely care during the summer, will often greatly benefit the trees. If heavy winds have thrown some trees out of the perpendicular, right them, and hold in place if need be, with stakes. All newly planted trees should be mulched, otherwise the dry weather will injure their roots. Whatever will cover the surface of the soil, will answer. Old straw, bog hay or other litter; leaves, chips, or even stones; sawdust and old tan-bark, or whatever of like nature may be procurable, will answer. Not only should a mulch be applied to newly planted trees, but shrubs and vines in the fruit garden will all so be benefited.

Wherever the caterpillar spreads its white tent, there is a call for work. The hand with or without a glove, is the most effective implement to use. Pull out the nest and kill the insects with the foot. Apply bands of carpet or coarse fabric around the trunks of the trees, to entrap the caterpillar of the codling moth, when it seeks a place to spin.—American Agriculturist.

An Expensive Bit of Brag.

In a leading restaurant in St. Petersburg six officers of the Imperial Guards sat recently, it is stated, drinking champagne. Not far from them sat an insignificant little man, with a shabby coat and an unkempt beard, and a glass of liquor in front of him. It was not long before he became aware that he was being ridiculed by the officers aforesaid. Presently, as they became more offensive in their remarks on his personal appearance, the cheapness of what he was drinking, etc., he called for the waiter and said: "Bring me six bottles of your best champagne. The waiter hesitated. "Did you not hear what I said?" asked the little man. The waiter brought the wine and six glasses. "Take these glasses away and fetch a basin—one as large as you can find." The waiter again hesitated, but obeyed instantly at the peremptory repetition of the order. "A piece of soap," was the next order. It was brought. "A towel." The waiter handed him one. "Now open the bottles." The waiter did so. The little man now filled the basin with the contents of the six bottles, rolled up his sleeves, washed himself in the costly fluid, wiped his hands, laid £10 on the table, and, casting a look of withering contempt upon the officers, strutted out of the room.—London Standard.

In Washington territory the Indians have an ingenious scheme by which they kill a large number of deer with but very little trouble. Taking some old blankets they fasten them at short intervals upon the bushes, making a long line of bushes so covered. Then taking in a large area of timber, they gradually close in on the frightened deer. When the animals have reached the line of blankets they travel around in a circle like a whirlpool, refusing to pass the line of blankets. This enables the Indians to kill them as rapidly as they please.

There is not an unmarried woman in Turkey who can both read and write the Turkish language, and there are but few men who are able to do so. It requires six years of hard study to acquire these accomplishments. When you hear of a Turk with the title bey prefixed to his name you may know that he is one of the few educated men in that country, as the title is only conferred upon those who can both read and write.

Lord Lonsdale is writing an account of his experiences of America.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

Losses by forest fires in the upper peninsula have reached nearly $4,000,000, up to this date.

A 12-year-old Bay City girl named Grinnell jumped so hard one day last week that she died from internal injuries.

The six year old son of E. H. Foote, of Traverse City, was drowned last Wednesday by falling into the river accidently.

The state signal service office at Lansing will be made a full reporting station in the United States service after June 1.

The university engineering class leaves next week for a trip to Charlevoix, to take some practice in field work.—Evening News.

A fire last Friday at Lake Linden a village in the upper peninsula, destroyed nearly $2,000,000 of property, and left 300 families homeless.

Andrew Martin, of Chandler, Charlevoix county, killed a 400-pound bear recently while out hunting for his cows.—Kalamazoo Ted-graph.

Kalkaska has a box factory which will give employment to about fifteen hands. It is expected to have it in running order in about ninety days.

Elk Rapids and Charlevoix are to have a "sure enough" railroad in the near future and they are happy, as well they might be.—Leelanaw Enterprise.

Another boy and a hatchet removed one of Harry Somerville's eyes at Manistee, Monday. Both lads are six years old and learning something every day.

Grand Haven has two rival ball clubs, one called the Paris Greens and the other the Potato Bugs. It is needless to say the Paris Green club is a deadly enemy of the Potato Bugs.

THE bill to prohibit the use of stoves in cars passed both houses and is now a law. This is an excellent measure and will help to decrease the chances of fire during railroad accidents.

President Cleveland has been invited to attend the semi-centennial anniversary of the Michigan university in June. A number of the leading college presidents are expected to be present, as well as other notables.

The steamer Faxton, of Traverse City arrived about 10 o'clock yesterday and unloaded some 200 barrels of flour. She also delivered a quantity at Thompson. The managers of that boat have fitted her up in good style, and just as soon as the railroad is completed to Charlevoix she will run regularly between that place and this.—Manistique Pioneer.

The Petoskey fish hatchery will send out a special car the latter part of this month with eight or nine million wall-eyed pike. They are especially adapted for and will be principally planted in the southern part of the state. The car will take the G. R. & I. from here to Sturgis; from there they will pass through Branch, Hillsdale, Jackson, Lenawee, and Washtenaw counties to Ypsilanti; planting in all the principal lakes and rivers in those counties.—Petoskey Democrat.

Mrs. Walter S. Meade, of Adrian, evidently has beaten the physicians. About a year ago she was taken ill and suffered excruciatingly for months. During the winter her numerous cure by faith was heralded over the country, and the physician laughed. They said the woman was suffering from an incurable disease, and that as soon as the excitement was past she would die. Mrs. Meade declared that her "God could save without excitement," and she continued to improve. Last Sunday week Mrs. Meade united with the Methodist church of Adrian, as well as ever, and still firmly of the opinion that faith cured her body.—Detroit Journal.

Hunting on Horseback.

A few days since in riding across the upcountry, near the mountains, I started a jack-rabbit, and soon we were taking things as they came, through a last year's cornfield. I knew there was a small canyon ahead, and by a little maneuvering I brought the jack to my left and fired my right barrel, making the fur fly, and that was all the pace over the rough ground being too much for good shooting; but almost the moment I fired, and before I could head the horse for the wounded jack, a large roadrunner, the finest I have ever seen, darted up with the peculiar lurching leap directly under my horse's nose, who became so excited, not to speak of the rider, that she bolted ahead with such a rush that, in the confusion, I aimed and attempted to fire my left barrel without cocking, a difficult feat, and before I could correct the error my faithful mare had jumped on the edge of the little canyon, perhaps twenty-five feet deep, into which the magnificent bird plunged like an arrow, and was gone.

Shooting from horseback at full speed is, to my mind, a sport to be encouraged, combining more excitement and pleasure than anything I have seen yet in this country. Shooting jack-rabbits on foot is well enough, often giving plenty of amusement to the animals, and, again, being rather monotonous when they are plentiful; but to follow a rabbit at full speed across country, letting your horse enter into the spirit, and shooting or falling on the dead game, contains more of the elements of true sport than anything I have found in Southern California.—San Francisco Call.

Some Venerable Oaks.

During the past two months there have been a large number of oak trees felled in this city, as time has decayed them or they were in the way of public improvements, and some residents were impressed with the idea that the shade they gave to the buildings was unhealthy, and for the cause were cut away.

These oaks were huge and venerable and constituted old landmarks, and it is said were left here from the forests by the early settlers—the Doggetts, Harts, Palmers, Hogans, Poinsetts, Fortunes.

There were also some planted by present citizens in the early days of Jacksonville. In a few years time there will be probably not one of these standing. With their departure the last vestige of anything of a rural character will go. They afforded splendid picnic facilities, they were pleasant retreats for children and adults, but there glory is departed—they have outlived their usefulness. The inexorable march of progress of the city compelled their removal. Their loss is felt, even if handsome cottages have sprung up in their places.—Florida Herald.

☞ In chronic diseases, medicines should be restoring and not debilitating, in their action. The wonderful strengthening and curative effects realized from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, sustain the reputation of this remedy as the most popular blood purifier.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

FULL SIZE, WELL MADE & PERFECT FIT.
TRY THEM. for sale by G. W. MILLER.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions promptly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Dunnsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome tumor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it became so inflamed and the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from my old foe, the digestive property, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. G. Dandee, Dardanelle, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Edling, Richmond, Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

Jos. Beauvais
BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery
In connection with shop.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Portable Boiler
FOR SALE.
Twelve feet long, 24 feet shell, 4 feet wood; in perfect order, good and cheap. Address,
L. E. ALLEN,
200tf Charlevoix, Mich.

THE JOURNAL
Charlevoix, Mich., May 26, 1887.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash NOW.

Advertisers are requested to hand in their favors before six o'clock Wednesday evening each week, to avoid the hurry of publication day.

☞ We have just received a large invoice of Ironstone China Dishes, Glass-ware, and Crockery.
WILL SEE & CO.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

☞ Come in and see our new stock of Francis Folsom Cleveland glassware. WILL SEE & CO.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

Additional local on eighth page.

G. W. Cook received a new dray last Saturday.

MRS. G. W. Miller returned from Chicago on the Lawrence last Friday.

Thomas J. Hill has moved his family to Frankfort; for the summer.

The board of review are in session to-day and to-morrow at the village clerk's office.

Gus. Brown had his new house painted this week. Chas. Swallow did the work.

Chas. Graves has painted James Inwood's house; also G. W. Miller's store front this week.

The propellor Van Raalte came into the harbor Monday for slight repairs at Campbell's yard.

Jacob Keller, of East Jordan, brought the five draft horses from Chicago last week by the Lawrence.

C. S. Brown, representing the Chicago Newspaper Union, made the JOURNAL a call last Saturday.

A. T. Washburne & Co. advertise a grand opening of summer goods, Friday, Saturday and Monday.

H. Lee Iddings returned Friday from his visit in southern Michigan accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Gale.

Miss Josie Litzau has been engaged to teach a two months term of school in District No. 2, in Bear Lake township.

The Lawrence Monday brought an hose cart with hose to the Pine Lake Lumber Company for protection against fire.

Tripp & Stevens have just received a new supply of the Peerless plow, and expects to hereafter be able to supply the demand.

A ton cent lunch will be served by the M. E. ladies in their vacated building on decoration day from 10 a. m. till night. Ice cream also on sale.

Henry Aldrich has accepted a position as book-keeper for F. S. Kildsan, a grocer of Cadillac, and has left the Faxton, and gone to that place.

The general association of Congregational churches of the state at its annual meeting in Lansing last week, selected A. T. Waterman assistant moderator. Gen. B. M. Cutcheon was moderator.

The Northern Michigan Line of propellors, Champlain and Lawrence, commenced this week to run on their schedule time. The Champlain will arrive from Chicago Thursday night and the Lawrence Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. C. M. Burrell left on Monday for her home at Port Clinton, Ohio. She was accompanied by Miss Mable and Fred Green. Miss Mable goes with her to her home while Fred spends six weeks with relatives at Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cruickshank have the heartfelt sympathy of all, in the decease of Don, their only son, of thirteen months, who died last Friday morning. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the home, which friends had endeavored to brighten by gifts of beautiful flowers. A few years ago these parents sustained a similar loss in the death of their son Lyle, a manly little boy of five, and now to be again thus bereft is indeed a sorrow.

The Van Raalte now on her route between Harbor Springs and Manistique, leaving Harbor Springs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 7 o'clock; returning, leaves Manistique Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 7 o'clock.

Jacob Weyburn has procured the necessary apparatus of C. N. Shaw, of Petoskey, for polishing linen collars and cuffs, and is now prepared to do first class work in that line. We have tried the work and know it to be equal to that done in Grand Rapids.

Hannah Lay & Co., have sold their large propellor City of Traverse to parties in the upper peninsula, and will be taken from the Chicago route, and put into the Lake Superior trade. Negotiations are also pending for the sale of the City of Grand Rapids, which will probably be consummated soon.

Printing both sides of the JOURNAL at home is not our choice but our necessity, and failure to receive our ready-print inside in one of the emergencies we must provide for in this way until regular trains on the D. C. & E. R. R. shall bring our paper promptly and regularly. We live in hope.

J. W. Barnes has obtained a contract to clear and fence four miles of railroad, leading south of the cattle guard that side of the depot. Contracts for clearing and fencing the entire distance from Mancelona to Petoskey have been taken up and the work will be prosecuted with all speed.—Boyne Falls Gazette.

The propellor T. S. Faxton has been sold by Hannah Lay & Co., to the Mackinac Transportation Co., composed of the three railroad companies terminating at the straits, and was delivered Tuesday. She will run between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace in connection with the steamer Algomah. The purchase price of the Faxton was $13,000.

On our second page this week will be found a very interesting description of the origin, growth and present management of the government printing office, written by Mr. J. Y. Scammon, formerly a democratic editor of this state, but now connected with that office. Mr. Johnson is an able writer, and we can rely on his observation and judgment wherever he mentions a fact or expresses an opinion.

Of the bell-ringers who are to be here June 7th, the Grand Haven Herald has the following: "Grand Haven has rarely been favored with more pleasurable, versatile, and highly gratifying entertainments than those given on Monday and Tuesday evening at the opera house by the Royce Swiss Bell ringers. Every feature of the profuse, recherche and unique program was of the most entertaining and pleasure inspiring character, and the performance throughout held the rapt interest of the large interest of the large audience. To make particular mention of all the specialties of this grand and varied entertainment worthy of such distinction would be to cover the entire program.

Memorial Services.

HEADQUARTERS
BAXTER POST NO. 159, G. A. R.
Charlevoix, Mich., May 24, 1887.
[Circular No. 7.]

1. In accordance with a unanimous vote of Baxter Post, G. A. R., at its last meeting, all members of said post are hereby ordered to assemble at the Bridge Street House on Sunday, May 29, 1887, at ten o'clock a. m. sharp, for the purpose of attending memorial services in a body at the M. E. church.

2. The committee on memorial services have perfected the arrangements for a proper observance of memorial day, and every old soldier and sailor of the late war, whether a member of our post or not, is cordially invited to join us at the opera house on next Monday at ten o'clock a. m., and aid in doing honor to the cause and to ourselves.

By order of E. H. GREEN,
C. B. GLASS, Commander.
Adjutant.

Ironton M. E. Charge.

There will be preaching at the Ironton M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening.
J. T. IDDINGS.

Eveline.

Seeding is almost done.

Potatoe planting is the order of the day.

W. H. Jarman was on the sick list last week.

Peter Tuttle was at Boyne City this week.

Our ferryman R. A. Miller finds lots to do these days.

Charles Bedwin contemplates starting up his store at Bedwin in a couple of weeks.

John Smith has returned from St. Ignace. He says that they did not feed him good.

Frank Cater, Jr., of Grand Rapids, but formerly of this place, returned last Saturday for a visit.

Mr. G. McDonald has thrown up his contract for 40 acres of land, which he made with Mr. Parker last fall.

Miss Jennie Denver, of Canada, is visiting her sister Mrs. G. McDonald, for a while. She expects to remain through the summer season.

A letter received from Geo. Jarman states that he and Bob Newson are at work in a lie camp in the upper peninsula, on the Minnesplis rail road. Bob has a job of cooking, and George is chore boy.

The following are the crew on the ing Bob Stewart, on Capt. A. H. Benedict, of Charlevoix, will ring the bells; Mr. Marshall of Traverse City, will handle the throttle, and John Stewart, of Ironton, fireman.

The Charlevoix teachers association met at Ironton last Friday evening, and Saturday forenoon. It was a grand success in every feature. The kindergarten work by Mrs. Pope, of Ironton, was well rendered. Also the select reading by Miss May Waterbury, of Charlevoix. The association then adjourned but expect to hold another session this fall. Six teachers from Boyne City, and five from Charlevoix were present.

Our highway commissioner Richard Williams, will soon commence work on the road running east from the Ironton ferry. This road is already cut out from the ferry to Sid. Hayden's corners a distance of nearly five miles. If we are not misinformed this road will, after leaving Sid. Hayden's corners go east to the beach of Pine lake and then following the beach around to Advance, and to Boyne City When it is fully opened for travel this will be the most practicable route from Ironton to Advance and Boyne City. It is laid through a very level tract of country, and entirely avoids the large hills which have so long been a terror to the traveling public east from Ironton.

May 24.

Wilson.

Fires have been raging recently but a delightful shower on Sunday last nearly quenched them.

Mr. I. Bartle and sister, Mrs. Rogers, of East Jordan, called on Mr. and Mrs. Vance one day last week.

Miss Pradie Scofield spent a few days in Echo last week, visiting relatives and old friends.

Mr. Frank Votruba, of Traverse City, was a guest of his sister, Mrs. D. Shepherd, on Sunday last.

Messrs. W. F. Empey and W. Palmiter were seen on our streets on Thursday last.

Mr. Jabez Bowen has been on the sick list, but is recovering. Dr. Foster was in attendance. Also, his grand-daughter, Stella Smith, has been quite ill, but is able to be around again.

We hear that Miss Lottie Moore, who has spent a winter on a sick-bed, and fears had been entertained as to her recovery, is now able to sit up, for which her many friends are thankful.

Mrs. Harp and children left for Lapeer county on Friday last, where they will visit relatives for a few days, thence to Wayne county, their new home. Mr. Harp started on Sunday, with team and buggy, to drive through.

M. E. Church.

Come to the Sunday evening Bible reading, prepared to take part in the meeting.

Thursday evening prayer meeting as usual, led this week by F. J. Meech.

Sunday morning, theme "National Guards and Dangers." Sunday evening, theme "Quit you like men." Seats free. All invited.
W. H. MCCARTNEY.

Elsworth.

We need rain very much, as everything is drying up.

The mosquitoes have come at last, in swarms.

Well, we feel that we are to have a railroad at last. Ellsworth has been honored by the presence of the surveyors for a week past. Last Saturday night their work was about four miles below us.

Last Friday Mr. Rose started for Rolla with his sawmill, which now presents a very nice appearance, but he met with so much difficulty on the way down, on account of low water, that he has decided to abandon this lake and run the boat between Bellaire and Elk Rapids. We are sorry to lose the boat, but wish Mr. Rose success on the new route.

May 24th.

Congregational Church.

Rev. William Woolnansee, of Hudson, will conduct the service at the Congregational church Sunday morning. The union services in the evening, will be conducted by Rev. W. G. Clark.

Shipments.

May 19—Schr. J. H. Handy, 26 cedar posts, A. Boyle to Milwaukee.

20—Schr. Jas. Duvall, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Sheboygan.

22—Schr. Stampede, 100,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Sheboygan.

23—Schr. Florence M. Smith, 2,600 posts, R. Tulbock to Milwaukee.

24—Schr. Louie A. Barton, 200,000 feet hemlock lumber, Perkins & Co., to Milwaukee.

24—Schr. L. B. Shepard, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, 3,500 cedar ties, Glenn & Porter to Chicago.

25—Prop. Mary Pringle, 150,000 feet hardwood lumber, Perkins & White to Detroit.

25—Schr. Adventure, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Perkins & White to Detroit.

24—Schr. Sea Gem, 85 cords wood, W. S. Stripp to Milwaukee.

25—Schr. Cascade, 180,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter to Chicago.

☞ Malarial poisons contain the germs of dangerous diseases. If these poisons accumulate in the system, Typhoid, Bilious, Intermittent or Chill Fever is sure to follow. Ayer's Ague Cure is a warranted specific for malaria.

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dados, friezes, etc., etc.
G. W. CROUTER.

GOOD-BYE SPRING.
Welcome Summer!
A. T. Washburne & Co.'s
Grand Opening for Summer
WILL OCCUR FRIDAY, SATURDAY, AND MONDAY,
May 27, 28, and 30,

At Which time we shall place on sale an elegant line of all the leading Summer Wash Goods and Fine Wool Suitings. We shall make a specialty of Ladies' Wraps, Jackets, and Shawls. In Shawls from the cheapest 90-cent Cashmere Fringe Scarf to the finest Silk and Wool.

A complete line of the latest styles in PARASOLS will be opened.

If you wish to choose a CARPET, now is the golden opportunity, as we shall show you from the cheapest 20-cent Ingrain to the finest Moquette.

Remember the days: FRIDAY, SATURDAY, and MONDAY, May 27, 28, and 30.

Yours truly,
A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Buy your Butter and Eggs at Emrey Brothers.

Every boat from Chicago brings New Goods for Emrey Brothers.

Good Timothy Hay at Emrey Brothers.

Emrey Bros. have some nice Potatoes for sale.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

Evaporated Apples, splendid and cheap, at Emrey Brothers.

Buy your Flour and Feed of Emrey Brothers.

F. E. WOOD,
BARBER SHOP
And Bath Rooms.
Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

THE GRAND RAPIDS
DAILY DEMOCRAT
Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at
50 CENTS A MONTH!
Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.
Try it.

ADVERTISERS can find the place to place their advertisements in this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at the Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia, at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

Tennyson's Jubilee Ode.

Tennyson's "Carmen Saeculare: An Ode to the Lord of the Jubilee of Queen Victoria."

I.

Fifty times the rose has flowered and faded, Fifty times the golden harvest fallen, since Victoria assumed the globe, the sceptre.

II.

Fifty times the sun has risen to behold a kindlier face in fable or history, Queen, and Empress of India, Queen of no long with a diadem Queen even when by a worthier, Queen with prosperous auguries Queen, and to the beneficent Queen of her jubilee.

III.

Queen of the lawless, of the deepest, Queen of the vulgar, or vainglorious, Queen of the treacherous, gentle, great, and queenly.

IV.

Queen then loyally, all of you, Queen your houses, Hesperian Queen your towers for a festival, Queen each, to the heart of it, Queen each, to the heart of it, Queen all voice of allegiance, Queen ceremonial Queen the year of her jubilee.

V.

Queen to be true to womanhood as to queenhood, Queen the glories of her people, Queen "With the sorrow of the lowest.

VI.

Queen that wanten in affluence, Queen not now to be bountiful, Queen poor Brotherhood sleepless, Queen poor Sisterhood tasklessness, Queen to be hospitable, Queen to be comforted, Queen to be humoured, Queen to be banqueted, Queen to be heart rejoice Queen of her jubilee.

VII.

Fifty years are all to shadow, Sorrow: Edward's fifty summers, Sorrow's fifty half forgotten.

VIII.

Fifty times the patriot architect, Fifty times the memorial, Grace it really gorgeous, Grace it really glorious, Such magnificent in ornament, Which may speak to the centuries, All the centuries after us, Of this year of her jubilee.

IX.

Fifty years of ever-broadening commerce! Fifty years of ever-brightening science! Fifty years of ever-widening empire!

X.

You, the mighty, the fortunate, You, the merciful, You, the land-manufacturer, You, the hearty, laborious, You, the children of Albion, Colonists, Africans, Australians, Africans, All your hearts be in harmony, All your voices in unison, Singing, "Hail to the glorious Golden year of her jubilee!"

XI.

Are there thunders meaning in the distance? Are there spectres moving in the darkness? No, the thunders are but the echoes you raise, No, the spectres are but the spectre-shadows, And the light is victor, and the darkness Dawns into the jubilee of the age.

EARTHQUAKES.

Queer Theories That Have Been Held Concerning Them by Superstitious People.

In the course of a lecture delivered recently before the Rigakn Kyokai, or Science society, of Tokio, on the causes of earthquakes, Prof. Milne classified theories as to the cause of these phenomena into three kinds—unscientific, quasi-scientific, and scientific. The former class he included the ex-voto of the negro preachers of Georgia, who attribute the late earthquakes to the wickedness of the people; the belief of the Musulmans in Java ascribing them to the volcanoes there being shakings, at the same time, of the foundations of the earth; the belief of the Japanese that they are the direct result of wickedness is an idea that has always been common. About 1750 earthquakes were felt in many places, which were widely attributed to that cause, and innumerable sermons were preached, inculcating the lesson that if mankind would live better lives there would be no more earthquakes. In 1786, after a long interval of peace, the people are reported as being about scourging themselves and looking extremely penitent. An English author, in "Earthquakes" published in 1840, is somewhat severe on the disturbances of the unknown force, as being the result of the imprisonment of Satan, who, on his being released, goes to the shaking of the earth with tridents.

Of Japanese feeling, which can scarcely be called that of the poet himself, Prof. Milne says: "Attached to the myths which attribute the cause of earthquakes to a creature living in the earth, in Japan it is an article of faith that the insect covered with scales and having eight legs, or a creature having a certain rock on its back which helped to keep him quiet, is Kujira, or Kujira the animal was said to be in India the world-bearing elephant, in the Hebrides a world-supporting ox, in North America a tortoise, in Siberia there was a myth, connected with the great bones found there, that these were the remains of animals that lived underground, the kindling of which made the ground shake. In Kamchatka the legend was connected with a god. Tull who went angry with his wife, the dogs. When the latter stopped to scratch themselves their movements produced earthquakes. In Scandinavian mythology Loki, having killed his brother Odawin, was bound to a rock, face downward, so that the poison of a serpent should drop on his face. Loki's wife, however, intercepted the poison in a vessel, and it was only when she went to go away to empty the dish that a few drops reached him and caused his writhe and shake the earth.

The lecturer had no means of collecting the fables of the southern hemisphere, but they would obviously be worth knowing for purposes of comparison. As for quasi-scientific theories, these endeavored to account for earthquakes as parts of the ordinary operations of nature. It was supposed, for instance, that they were produced by the action of wind confined inside the earth. The Chinese philosophers said that Yang, the male element, entered the earth and caused it to expand and shake the ground in its efforts to escape. Its effects would be more violent beneath the mountains than in the plains, and therefore earthquakes in the north of China, which was mountainous, were said to be more violent beneath the mountains than those in the south. It was supposed that when the wind was blowing strongly on the surface of the earth there was calm beneath, and vice versa.

Aristotle and many other classical writers attributed earthquakes to wind in the earth. Shakespeare, in "Henry IV.," speaks of the teeming earth being pinched and vexed with a kind of colic by the imprisoned and unruly wind within her womb. Then comes the theory of electrical discharges, which was advocated in 1750 by Dr. Stukely, as well as by Percival and Priestley. They are strongly held in California at the present day, where it was believed that the network of rails protected the state against any dangerous accumulation of electricity. But Prof. Milne showed that the laying down of rails in Japan had no such effect. He thought the electric phenomena which sometimes attended earthquakes were their consequence, not their causes. He had himself experimented with dynamite placed in a hole; an earthquake was felt about thirty yards away from the dynamite, and from it a wire was carried some distance to another earth-plate. When the dynamite charge was exploded there was certainly a current produced as was indicated by a strong deflection of a galvanometer-needle at the end of the wire. He attributed this to chemical action. When the ground was shaken there was always a greater or less action by increase or decrease of pressure in connection with the earth-plate.

Earth currents unquestionably accompany earthquakes, but, as has been said, they appear to be the consequence, and the causes, of the latter. Next came the chemical theories, which were very strong in Europe up to the beginning of the present century. It was imagined that under ground there were various substances, such as sulphur, nitre, vitriol, which, by their action on each other, resulted in violent changes, giving rise to vapor, the sudden production of which, in certain cases, would shake the ground.

It was only in 1760 that Dr. Mitchell, who wrote a good deal on the subject, first threw out the theory that earthquakes were connected in some way with volcanoes, because they were most frequent in volcanic countries. He observed that large quantities of steam were given off from volcanoes, and came to the conclusion that an earthquake was produced at the time that an attempt was made to form a volcano; the steam got in between certain strata, and, as it ran between them, caused pulsations. Prof. Rogers, about the same time, in North America, endeavored to show that if was steam—not really lava—that ran along underneath the ground, causing it to rise and fall, thus producing an earthquake. Prof. Milne having thus dealt with unscientific and quasi-scientific theories, passed on to those of modern science. It is unnecessary here to follow him into this portion of his subject, although it occupied the main part of the lecture.—Nature.

An Absent-minded Composer.

In Cassell's Family Magazine the following story is told about the eccentric composer of the "Three Fishers": Mr. Hullah was at a concert which, being largely made up of Wagner's music, did not much interest him. He gradually became absorbed in his own thoughts, and a metronome for a long while, evidently unaware of what was going on around him. His attraction continued even after Miss Antoinette Sterling, for whose singing he had an ardent admiration, had commenced to sing his own "Three Fishers," nor did he make the slightest movement until the last phrase was peeling forth in Miss Sterling's fullest notes, when, slowly rising to his feet he murmured:

"What a fine song that is!"

It was clear that it was not until some second after he had spoken that Mr. Hullah awoke to a consciousness that what had fallen so pleasingly on his ear was of his own composing.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glory of oceans, and thousands of scenes of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Constipation, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonder full effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. 3 cow1

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are fidgety, nervous, and generally out of sorts, you need a tonic to brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of liver and kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at the G. W. Crouter's drug store. 3

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, chief of police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtues. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity."

Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, croup, and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottles free at the G. W. Crouter's drug store. Large size $1.00.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This one effect. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192ad expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment, thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

William Blair, train dispatcher of the D. G. H. & M. railroad, Detroit, Mich., says: "For about fifteen years I have been almost a constant sufferer from neuralgia, many times unfitting me for my business duties as well as making life a burden. The strain on my nerves was so great that I nearly lost the use of one of my eyes. I was suffering very much, and had never succeeded in getting anything that would give me but temporary relief, and that was of very short duration. The first bottle of Athlophoros made a very decided change, in fact I had some relief from a few doses. I probably have used a dozen bottles, and it is six months since I had a severe attack. I keep the medicine on hand all the time; I have some at my office and some at home, so that in case I should need it I am well prepared. I have had times during my use of this medicine that my neuralgia would come on during my business hours, and by having the medicine close at hand a dose or two would drive the neuralgia away. For neuralgia Athlophoros is undoubtedly the best medicine, and I think I ought to know, as I have suffered from it so long, and have spent a lot of money in trying to shut every thing in the line of medicines for this complaint."

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carrier paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For free well-bound book on Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the twenty-fourth day of December, A. D. 1883, executed by Mary Ann Kane, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Robert W. Kane, of Charlevoix, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber seven of mortgages, on page 172, on the 26th day of November, 1883, and which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of the sum of forty-two and fifty-five hundredths dollars of principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted for the recovery of the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale, and pursuant to the statute in such case provided, the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The east one-half of the south one-half of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range five west in said county, will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house where the circuit court for said county is held, in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 14th day of June, 1887.

Dated March 14th, A. D. 1887.

WALTER P. BROWN, Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEB, Attorneys for Assignee, Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage executed by Lucius Lamberson and Jane Lamberson, his wife, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Robert W. Kane, of Charlevoix, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber seven of mortgages, on page 170, on the 26th day of November, 1883, and which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of the sum of forty-two and fifty-five hundredths dollars of principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted for the recovery of the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale, and pursuant to the statute in such case provided, the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The east one-half of the south one-half of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range five west in said county, will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house where the circuit court for said county is held, in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 14th day of June, 1887.

Dated March 26, 1887.

CHARLES E. PRATT, Assignee of Mortgage.

E. C. BARNUM, Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage, Petoskey, Mich.

PIMPLES I will mail (sealed) to ladies, receipt of stamp, a recipe for making a simple VEGETABLE BALM FOR TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BLACK HEADS, &c., leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. Address, J. Scott, 41 Cedar St., N. Y.

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES

Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Bites, Stings, Sprains, Cramps, Stiffness, Soreness, Swellings, Gall Sores, Spavin Corns, Cracks, Contracted Muscles, Eruptions, Hoof Ail, Screw Worms, Scratches, Saddle Galls, Piles.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed. Our testimonials are from people who know what the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal application to every ailment it is a remedy for. The Lumberman needs it in case of accident. The Farmer needs it for every general purpose. The Canaller needs it for his teams and his men. The Mechanic needs it to always on his work bench. The Miner needs it in case of emergency. The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it. The Traveler needs it in his home, his stable, and his black yard. The Prospector, man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply about and adrift. The Sportsman knows the value of it—it is his best friend and sides reliance. The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble. The Horse-owner needs it—he can't afford to be long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers. The Farmer's wife needs it. There is a thrilling like it as an antidote for the dangers to him, from a disaster which another may be the victim. The Merchant needs it about his store among his employes, accidents will happen, and when those come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once. There is in the Mustang Liniment a world of economy. Keep a Bottle in the Factory, the unmanageable one is sure of serious pain and loss of wages. Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Peppler on the 8th day of August A. D. 1885, made and executed a mortgage to William H. Hipp to secure his Eleven Hundred and Fifty ($1,150) dollars, payable in three years from the date of said mortgage, which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of said principal sum, and was recorded in the office of register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on page 304, on the 8th day of August A. D. 1885, in liber 5 of mortgages, on page 304; and whereas said mortgage was duly assigned by said William H. Hipp to Wallace P. Hipp, by assignment dated the 8th day of August, A. D. 1885, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Charlevoix, on the 8th day of August, A. D. 1885, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 524, and the same is now owned by said Wallace P. Hipp; and whereas default has been made in the payment of interest on said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale, and pursuant to the statute in such case provided, the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The south half of the south-east quarter of section ten, in township thirty-four north of range five west, in Charlevoix county, Michigan, will be sold at public vendue, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, on the 26th day of May, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated February 26, A. D. 1887.

WALLACE P. HIPP, Assignee of Mortgage.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEB, Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage, Charlevoix, Mich.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising can be made for it in NEW YORK.

COMPOUND OXYGEN

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN

A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT

A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU,

FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN bring the liberty of testimony in proof of their claim to be Physicians, in the following-named well-known persons who have tried their Treatment: Hon. William D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. Lanahan, Baltimore Observer, Phila.; Rev. Dan. W. Cushing, Tribune, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge R. P. Vroman, Quenemo, Kas.; & thousands of others in every part of the world.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS" is the title of a book of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives a record of surprising full information as to this remarkable curative agent, which has been administered to the relief and cure of many who had been abandoned to die by other physicians. It will be sent free to any address on application to

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

STORY & CLARK ORGANS

N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.

CHICAGO Canal AND 16TH STS

SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!

FOR MAN AND BEAST!

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which claims of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

These excellent Organs are celebrated for rich tone, quality of tone, quick response, variety of stops, durability, elegance of finish, and have been pronounced by musicians, making the use of a musical instrumental and durable organ for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES. SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THE

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instructive Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, mailed free.

CHICAGO CABINET ORGAN CO., 831 BLUE ISLAND AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

THIS PAPER may be found on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Bureau of N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of Jefferson and Jackson.

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM M. SHEIMER, EDITOR.

Daily, Weekly, and Sunday Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

An Eight-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, high-toned, and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press.

Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Financial and Commercial, Political, Humorous and Editorial Departments, all of the highest order of literary excellence of the highest ability. Its editorial utterances are quoted as authority throughout the land.

Original stories by distinguished American and Foreign writers of fiction.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Free of Postage in the United States and Canada.

One copy for one year, $1.00.

ONE DOLLAR FOR ONE YEAR.

Clubs of 10 to the same P. O. address, with an additional copy to the person who makes up the club, at the rate of $1.00 each.

FOR THREE MONTHS, 25 CTS.

Special terms and extraordinary inducements to local agents and canvassers.

Send for Circulars.

THE DAILY STAR.

The Daily Star contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its great correspondence covers all the news centers, such as Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the commercial, financial, and political news of the day, condensed into a readable form, and presented in the choicest language possible.

The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Free of Postage in the United States and Canada, excepting the City of New York City.

Every Day, for one year (including Sunday), $7.00

Daily, without Sunday, one year, 5.00

Every day, six months, 3.50

Daily, without Sunday, six months, 2.50

Sunday, without Daily, one year, 1.00

ADDRESS, THE DAILY STAR,

Broadway and Park Place, New York.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 202. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIEB, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Bliss Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK. C. J. GRIEB.

JAMES CAMPBELL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Bankruptcy. Practice in Northern District, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. A. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

N. S. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal service has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the twenty-fourth day of December, A. D. 1883, executed by Mary Ann Kane, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Robert W. Kane, of Charlevoix, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber seven of mortgages, on page 172, on the 26th day of November, 1883, and which said mortgage was given to secure the payment of the sum of forty-two and fifty-five hundredths dollars of principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted for the recovery of the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale, and pursuant to the statute in such case provided, the premises described in said mortgage, viz: The east one-half of the south one-half of section twenty-four, in township thirty-four north of range five west in said county, will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house where the circuit court for said county is held, in the village of Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 14th day of June, 1887.

Dated March 26, 1887.

CHARLES E. PRATT, Assignee of Mortgage.

E. C. BARNUM, Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage, Petoskey, Mich.

JAMES STARK, Manufacturer of Stark Boots, Stark Hoots, etc., neat, cheap, and quick, at the JOURNAL office.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

1872. 1887

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

MILLINERY,

Dressmaking,

Ladies' Fancy Goods,

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

ALDRICH SISTERS,

At the Ingleside, Charlevoix, Mich

NEW LIVERY AND Feed Barn.

LITNEY & STEIMEL

PROPRIETORS

Opposite Bridge Street House Charlevoix,

FIRST-CLASS RIGS REASONABLE RATES.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Car Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

HEADQUARTERS FOR WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the latest, best and most improved Watches

Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted.

C. R. SELLNER, Bridge St., Charlevoix.

WILL H. FRANCIS,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop.

—Will also do—

CONTRACTING AND BUILDING,

in Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in my shop a full set of Hand and Foot Power machinery which enables me to do

Jobbing, Repairing, Etc.,

ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Shop on South Terrace, Opposite Harrison Bertken's residence.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons. The best material used and warranted. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

A provoking delay in the arrival of our usual ready-print makes it necessary to slightly reduce the size of the JOURNAL this week, and to print both sides at home. However, our readers may congratulate themselves that we are able to even partially overcome the disappointment, and avoid the issue of half sheets. What we lack in quantity, we have tried to make up in quality.

Political Notes and News.

Gov. Luce has signed the bill increasing the salaries of the supreme court justices to $5,000, and the same is now the law. Yet the salary is rather small for justice of the supreme court.

The supreme court of Kansas has decided that when a woman married she need not take her husband's name unless she so chooses. This will be opportune for those husbands who desire to hide their property under their wife's name.

One steamer unloaded about 600 Italian emigrants at Escanaba last week to engage in work on the new railroads in the northern peninsula in direct competition with American laborers. Thus is the protection of American labor demonstrated.

The Philadelphia Telegraph, a republican organ has this to say of the administration: "President Cleveland has made most of his important appointments with so much judgment and with such great satisfaction to reasonable men of all parties and sections, that there is curiosity rather than anxiety in the expectation of nomination for the vacancy on the supreme bench caused by the death of Justice Woods."

"Ox Friday, a young man named Clay shot and probably killed another at Grand Ledge, in a quarrel over a farm lease. Near midnight, Saturday, one Peterson, in the vicinity of Flint, killed his brother with an axe. Both had been drinking. About the same hour, Campau, near Bay City, stabbed Welch, who will probably die. All these murders, or attempted murders, within 24 hours, did not occur in Texas, or Kentucky, or among the rough mining population of the Pacific slope. They all occurred in Michigan. All three of the assailants made no attempt to escape."—Evening Journal. They knew perfectly well that in a state like Michigan, where trial by jury is a mere farce, and where all the rules of criminal practice are favor of the accused their chances of punishment are very slight, and their chances of permanent freedom are great. Yet our legislature is about to do nothing to remedy the evil, while our soil is becoming literally soaked with human blood.

August 14th, 1886, John Boyd, of Rockford, Kent county, procured a rifle and proceeded to the house of Wm. B. Johnson, a well-known and respected resident, called him out of doors and shot him dead, and is now expiating his crime in Jackson state prison, having been sentenced for life. He had long indulged to excess in intoxicating liquor, which he procured from the saloon of Christopher Post, and in consequence had neglected and failed to support his family, a wife and four children. Mrs. Boyd then brought suit against Christopher Post in the Kent circuit court for damage, for ruining her husband with liquor, and depriving her of his support, and the jury returned a verdict last Thursday, of $9,500 for Mrs. Boyd against Post. This judgment will have to be collected of Post's bondsmen, if he is not able to raise the amount himself. Thus we see the necessity of village councils and township boards requiring saloon keepers not only sufficient bond, but with good substantial sureties.

FIVE MEN DROWNED.

The Yacht Coral Capsized on Little Traverse Bay Last Sunday.

Last Sunday morning, Little Traverse bay was the scene of the most shocking accident that has occurred in northern Michigan for years. Between ten and eleven o'clock, a party of ten pleasure-seekers left Petoskey in the sailing yacht Coral for a sail on the bay, and only five returned alive. The party consisted of L. W. Cole, his son Fred Cole, Dana Stark, George Wise, Marion Tripp, Frank Henika, Clarence Blood, and Walker Fell, of Petoskey, G. M. Freeman, of Milwaukee, and Harry Blout, of Chicago. Of this party, the following were drowned:

L. W. Cole.
Fred Cole.
George Wise.
Marion Tripp.
Dana Stark.

On Monday morning the Harbor Springs Independent issued an extra, from which we glean the following particulars:

The boat left Petoskey a short time before eleven, and stood off towards the northeast corner of the bay. The wind was fresh, but did not seem to be near the water, and shortly after leaving Petoskey the peak of the foresail was hoisted. They saw the squall coming, but supposed it was only a little puff of wind. The pressure of the blast upon the high and broad foresail forced the boat upon the port bow. There was no excitement, and all succeeded in climbing upon the side of the yacht without getting wet. The yacht was ballasted with several tons of iron, and as the air escaped from her hold she gradually settled until it was supposed she would surely sink. A small yawl which would carry five persons still was seen floating towed behind the Coral, and it was decided to take to this. All ten crowded into the yawl, sinking her gunwale to within two inches of the water, but, strange to say, they got safy or eighty rods from the wreck before the yawl swamped, and five of the party were crowned.

Henika, Blood, Fell, Freeman, and Blout were rescued by Capt. Andris Wilson, of Harbor Spaings. His son Leon saw the yacht when it capsized, and running into the scene, told his father. The captain had noticed the Coral a short time before, and knew in an instant that she was the s boat. It was a risky thing for a boat in a squall with a heavy sea, and without reefing sail or getting help, but without hesitation he ran alongside of the wreck, and with only his thirteen-year-old boy to help him, hoisted the sail of the pound boat and headed for the wreck.

The Coral lay on her port side, with the hull well out of water, and all sails set except the gaff topsails. Not a sign of life was to be seen, and for a moment the rescuers believed that in spite of their endeavors they had come too late. Eagerly they scanned the tossing waves to leeward, and Leon's quick eyes caught a glimpse of a hand waved in the distance. An instant later a dark object rose on the crest of a wave some sixty rods away, and they bore down towards it. The five survivors of the dreadful accident were in or on the little yawl, which was entirely submerged, so that as they clung to it the water was up to their necks, and the chopy waves broke over their heads. They were too exhausted to utter the shout of encouragement from the pound boat, and realizing that they were entirely helpless and that not a moment was to be lost, Captain Wilson buffed up just to windward, and let his boat drift down upon the drowning men, he and Leon taking their places in the stern to lend a helping hand, and calling to them to seize the boat as it came within reach. With strength born of despair they lifted their benumbed hands and clutched at the boat. With the assistance of Capt. Wilson and his lit-sailor's cool head and a hero's heart—this four men fastened their stiff fingers upon the gunwale as with the grip of death, but young Fells, who is but a boy of fourteen, missed the boat and went down out of sight. Mr. Wilson watched for him to rise on one side and Leon on the other, and it was fully a minute before they learned that he was clinging to the logs of one of the men in the water, Plunging his arm down in the water to the shoulder, Mr. Wilson caught hold of his wrist, and drew him into the boat limp and senseless. Then the others were pulled in, which was by no means an easy task, for they were utterly helpless, and were so chilled that hardly one of them could rise from the bottom of the boat where they lay.

Mr. Wilson started for Petoskey, but the wind went down, leaving the boat becalmed about half a mile from the shore of Newberry's mill. Assistance soon arrived however, and they were taken to shore, and cared for in the mill boarding house, until able to go to their homes.

The event casts a gloom over the village of Petoskey, especially the death of Mr. L. W. Cole, who was counted as one of the foremost and most progressive citizens of that town. He was buried on Wednesday with Masonic honors.

There's Money in Beer.

Ehret's wealth is estimated at between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000. He holds more mortgages than any man in the city, and he is the owner of vast blocks of real estate. A dozen German brewers, busied in piling up immense fortunes, are trailing in his wake. Jacob Ruppert, John Eichler, Monroe Eckstein, George Bechtel, the Kuntz Brothers, and Peter Doelgers' Sons are among them. Each of these is a millionaire, and three at least are worth $6,000,000 apiece. For years the lager beer field was left entirely with the Germans. Now, however, the Phelan

Tennyson's Jubilee Ode.

Tennyson's "Carmen Saeculare: An Ode to the Year of a Jubilee and Queen Victoria."

I.

Times the rose has flowered and faded,
Times the golden harvest fallen,
Queen assumed the globe, the sceptre.

II.

We believed for a blindness
Here in folly of history,
Queen, and Empress of India,
Queen, but Queen of a million million
Over whom by a world-wide
Wave with prosperous auguries
Blows at last to the bountiful
Growing year of her jubilee.

III.

Sing of the lawless, of the despot,
Sing of the vulgar, or talented,
Gracious, gentle, great, and queenly.

IV.

Then loyally, all of you,
Your houses, illuminate
Your towns for a festival,
Each let a shillinglet
Each, to the heart of it,
Glow of allegiance,
Great is the jubilee,
Year of her jubilee.

V.

Love true to womanhood as to queen-
hood,
Love the glories of her people,
Love with the sorrows of the lowest.

VI.

Hard wanton in affluence,
Not now to be bountiful,
Poor to repay with you,
Poor neighborhood breakfaster,
Good to the hospital,
Poor to be comforted,
Poor to be healed,
Poor with the heart rejoice
Year of her jubilee.

VII.

Years are all in shadow,
Sunny Queen, Edward's fifty summers,
Victoria's fifty half forgotten.

VIII.

Then the patriot architect,
Who, having a certain rock on Land which helped to keep him up
In Australia the animal was said to Pray, in India the world-bearing
Rock, in the Hebdes a world-supporting Rock, in North America a tortoise,
In Siberia there was a myth, com-Pared with the great bones found in House 20 feet 7 inches by 25 feet; a
Coal house 23 by 27 feet; a wagon
Shed 25 feet 4 inches by 24 feet; and Stables 25 feet by 41 feet 2 inches.
These buildings are all of brick,
Built of the best material, sand in the Most durable manner."

Some idea of the growth of the establishment and the increase of work turned out may be formed by a comparison of the appropriations made by congress for different years. In 1863 the annual appropriation was $1,417,750; in 1866, $1,865,379; in 1873, $1,911,536; in 1880, $2,034,750; in 1886, $2,500,000.

As the work increased the necessity of having more room was soon apparent, and the first addition, or extension, to the building was put up in 1865, and extended west on H street from the west end of the old structure 60 feet by 76 feet, north and south. In 1870 the second addition was erected, extending south on North Capitol street 113½ feet by 61½ feet east and west. In 1879 a third addition was made, in the form of an L, running south from the east end of the main building, 88½ feet by 53½ feet east and west, thence east 60 feet by 60 feet north and south. Two fireproof hall-ways, each twelve feet in width, were also built, affording easy communication between and virtually connecting the old and new parts together.

Like the main building the additions are four stories high, constructed of brick, have self-supporting iron roof and are very substantial. The entire building, exclusive of the boiler-house, coal-house, and stables, covers an area of over 40,325 square feet, and affords floor room for workmen, machinery, etc., of 160,820 square feet,—nearly four acres.

For the safety of employes, fire escapes have been constructed at various points, and these, added to the broad stairways with which the building is provided, afford an easy and rapid mode of exit for those employed in the building, in case a fire occurs, a calamity that is carefully guarded against at all times. Chemical fire extinguishers and hand grenades are distributed over the building, stand-pipes are placed in the walls, and regulation fire hose is kept at different places on each floor ready for instant attachment and use, and the whole placed in charge of trusted employees who have had experience in fire-department work and who are drilled in the use of the apparatus under their care. The building is heated by steam, smoking in it is forbidden, and when light is needed it is furnished by gas or electricity, thus reducing the probabilities of fire to a minimum.

In this immense establishment employment is given to upwards of two thousand people, about one-third of whom are females and two-thirds males. About three-fourths of the latter have served regular apprenticeships and are numbered among the most skillful workmen in the country, as the high order of work demanded requires the most competent, skillful, and best trained craftsmen to be obtained. The pay-roll of this large force amounts to nearly six thousand dollars per day, and to meet the total expenses of the office, including paper stock, ink, improvements, etc., requires an annual outlay of from two to two and a half million dollars.

Improvements are constantly being made and the value and usefulness of the office daily increasing. Judging by the experiences of the past it is but natural to anticipate in the near future the erection of additional buildings, and the employment of more men, as well as an increase of the facilities for doing work, to meet the growing demands by congress and the departments. An appropriation has already been voted by congress for the purchase of more land and the building of a warehouse, but the amount is not sufficient for the purpose, and this much needed improvement must be postponed until an additional appropriation is made.

Up to the time of the appointment of Hon. S. P. Rounds to the office of public printer there seems to have been a lack of system in every branch of the establishment. Day days were irregular, employees were furloughed frequently, and a spirit of free-and-easy prevailed throughout. Fortunately for the government Mr. Rounds possessed that peculiar executive ability so necessary to the management of a large business, and this, together with a practical knowledge of every kind of work to be done, enabled him to bring order out of discord in a very short time. During his administration regular pay days were established, the force reorganized, new and improved machinery bought to replace the old, and the entire business of the office thoroughly systematized. Unquestionably, Mr. Rounds was the most effective, popular, and economical public printer who had ever occupied the place.

The present incumbent, Hon. Thos. E. Benedict, has thus far proven himself an efficient organizer, a thorough business man, a strict disciplinarian, an economical manager, is well informed as to the needs and requirements of the office, and determined that it shall attain a still higher standard of excellence than heretofore if an intelligent use of the means at his command will secure this result. He has reorganized the entire force, more thoroughly systematized the business, elevated the moral tone, and introduced many valuable improvements in various parts of the establishment. He has also established semi-monthly payments of the employees, and exhibits a lively interest in their welfare and comfort.

Congress, apparently recognizing Mr. Benedict's determination and ability to reduce the expenses to a minimum, appropriated a half million dollars less for the coming year (although a much greater amount of work is expected to be accomplished than for the year now soon to close. That he will keep the disbursements within the required amount is a foregone conclusion.

As a whole the government printing office, under its present management, is a credit to the ability and administration of every citizen of the United States, and should be personally inspected by every one who visits Washington. It is open to visitors from ten o'clock a. m. to two o'clock p. m. and competent guides are always kept in readiness to escort those who come over the entire office.

JONSSON.

The Meditated Suicide.

Speaking of suicides—there have been several lately, and a good many people are talking about them—a story is told confidentially by a worthy citizen, who contemplated shuffling off this mortal coil. He thought of it, and thinks he was in earnest, but this I doubt, because killing one's self is said to be a painful operation, and the worthy citizen is a man who is extremely careful of his own comfort. However, business had gone wrong, another man had secured the chosen pew he set his heart upon, rents had been raised, he wasn't very well anyway, and life didn't seem worth living. His wife would get his insurance money, she knew as much about his business as he did himself, and could get along without him.

That might be but some a box of rat poison and after his wife had retired took it out and read the directions. Then he got out his razor and stropped it and loaded his revolver. He didn't know which method he would use, or whether he would try all three and make a sure thing of it. He would decide after the razor was properly sharpened. Then he stropped away, and while he was trying to cut a hair a sleepy voice came from the next room: "George, Uncle John brought us a gallon of new maple sirup to-day, and we will have fritters and sirup for breakfast. I—thought—you'd like—to know." The razor and the pistol were laid away promptly; life took on a more pleasant aspect, and the next morning after breakfast the rat poison was carefully distributed along the trail of troublesome vermin, and he still continues cheerful.—Indianapolis Journal.

Too Dignified by Half.

Writing lines is the penance Harrow boys do for all their sins. She also is a school. If a boy is late for school, he writes lines; if he misses "drill," he writes lines. If the lines they go in finished at a stated time, their number is doubled. There was one clever boy who escaped writing half the ordered quantity, and the masters tell the story of how he did it to this day. He was an untidy boy and was often taken to task for his carelessness and disorder. One day his master, who had very dignified and impressive manners, and who always said "we" instead of "you" when addressing the boys, found occasion to reprove him.

"We do not look very clean," he said, with much severity. "We have not washed our hands this morning, have we?"

"I don't know about yours," was the innocent boy's answer, "but I've washed mine."

"Ah!" said the master, "we are very impertinent to-day. We will have to write a hundred lines before the next drill."

When "drill" time came, the master sent for the boy.

"Have we written our lines?" he asked.

"I've written my fifty," the boy answered very promptly, handing in his paper; "but I don't know whether you've done your half!"—Elizabeth Robins Pennell, in St. Nicholas.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

The San Juan Pie.

The San Juan pie is by no means of ancient origin. The centennial year ushered the stranger in, and ever since it has been looked upon in the same category with the poem "Beautiful Snow." That is to say, the patentees of each have taken to the brush, and do not acknowledge their progeny. As built at our hostelries, pies are warranted to keep in any climate and are nice and burglar proof. They are sometimes inclosed by a barbed-wire fence to keep out the cattle, but otherwise are said to be harmless enough unless partaken of too freely by strangers unacquainted with the customs of the country. A tenderfoot loaded with our best brand of pie is always a subject for the surgeon's knife. If he survives the operation he is said to have become acquainted. The foundation for this unique edifice sprung from a happy thought of the patentee while singing "Sis hat a little faded flour," and the balance of the structure was completed by entered apprentices, who, mistaking the designs of the master-builder, filled it in with tenpenny nails, scrap iron, and other tropical fruit. The plans and specifications of the first structure have been hands! faithfully down until even to this day the signs, passwords, and grips of the original job, like the poor, are always with us. High Jinks, who are old timers, daily with this luxury, and are the best patrons of our drug stores, hence the crying demand for compounds of antacid pills. As a cold binder and reaper it has no superior outside of newly made cheese, and will stick closer to you than the friend of your girlhood." To the unsophisticated within our gates we say beware of the San Juan pie when it is loaded. It is more to be dreaded than a dose of salts and of a mule, or the track of the deadly snow-slide.—Gurney Solid Maldoon.

Minute Photos, $1 per dozen, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Time Cards of Pine Lake Steamers,
Season of 1887.

Steamer JOSEPH GORDON.

CAPT. LEWIS GUARD.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 5.30, arrive at Boyne City at 9.00, leave Boyne City 9.30, arrive at Charlevoix 12.00.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 1.00, arrive at Boyne City 4.30, leave Boyne City 4.00, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer NORTH STAR,

CAPT. J. M. THOMPSON.

Morning—Leave Carlevoix at 7.00, arrive at East Jordan 9.00, leave East Jordan 9.30, arrive at Charlevoix 11.30.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix at 2.00, arrive at East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer CLARA BELLE,

CAPT. GEO. DUNCAN.

Morning—Leave Boyne City at 6.30, arrive at Charlevoix 9.15, to connect with the Steamer Lou A. Cummings, for Petoskey, returning, leave Charlevoix upon the arrival of the Steamer Thomas Friant.

Afternoon—Leave Boyne City at 1.00, returning leave Charlevoix at 3.30, touching at intermediate points.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway,

"THE GOGEBIC AND MARQUETTE SHORT LINE."

Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron and Copper Regions of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections in Union Depots at all Points.

The territory traversed is famous for its

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

Tickets for sale at all points via this route.

For Maps, Folders, Rates and Information address

A. W. ALLEN,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY is complete without the monthly visits of Babyhood, that delight, comfort and aid of the mother. Only $1.50 a year. Devoted to the care of young children. We are glad to recommend it. (5 Beekman St., N. Y.) $1.50 a year; 15 cents a copy.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1887. TIME-CARD OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS. 1887.

THOMAS FRIANT, CAPT. WM. RICHARDS.

Going South Every Morning.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	7.00
PETOSKEY	8.00
CHARLEVOIX	9.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	11.30

Going North Every Afternoon.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	1.30
CHARLEVOIX	4.00
PETOSKEY	5.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	6.00

LOU A. CUMMINGS, CAPT. W. A. SNYDER.

Going South Every Morning.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN	5.00
CHARLEVOIX	6.00
PETOSKEY	7.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	11.30

Going North Every Afternoon.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	1.00
PETOSKEY	4.30
CHARLEVOIX	6.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	8.00

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING

FLOORING, CEILING, AND PORCH LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,

Mills, Butter, and Vegetables,

TERRACE FARM, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we thus will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days

MISSING LINKS.

In boring a well near Pine Grove, Somerset county, Pa., steam of a temperature hot enough to cook potatoes was struck at a depth of sixty feet below the surface.

On one of the principal streets in Thomaston, Ga., a physician and a shoemaker occupy the same building. Over the door is chalked the sign: "We repair both sole and body."

A New York physician has informed a Scribner's Monthly that their brain teapots generate a very poisonous substance, and society has concluded to limit their use of brass to doorknockers and other things.

Mrs. Margaret Arnold, of Ross County, Ohio, is 109 years old; her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Hilliard, who lived in Iowa, is 112; and Mrs. Susan Bailey of Dakota, another sister, is 96—the aggregate age of the three being 317 years.

Flour barrels made from paper pulp have been tested and approved by the chief inspector of the New York produce-exchange. They are light, tight, seamless, and strong, and the pulp can be made from any kind of marsh weeds and grasses.

The equestrian statue of Andrew Jackson in Lafayette Square, Washington, is sometimes pointed out to strangers as a representation of General Lafayette. To prevent such blunderings the name of "Jackson" has been cut on the base.

Miss Augustine Harasthy, daughter of the champion swordsman, is one of the wealthiest heiresses on the Pacific coast. Her father is a Hungarian and her mother is a lineal descendant of old Castilian family. She is said to possess remarkable beauty and any number of suitors are ready to pop.

Frances Hodgson Burnett began her literary career at 14. Her first two sketches were printed in Godey's Lady's Book, for which she received $35. She gathered and sold wild grapes in East Tennessee for money to buy the postage stamps which covered the transmission of her stories.

One of several gamecocks that were being shipped to Portland, Ore., escaped from the express car and baggage car, and all the efforts of the train hands to catch it was unavailing until a bright brakeman climbed to another cock. In a moment the two had engaged in battle, and were easily picked up.

The beaver, which before the war was pretty well known in some of our southern states, appears to be returning, showing that the negroes are not such keen and industrious hunters as the whites, and the latter have not the license to give to their game the liberty. The fur of the southern beaver is inferior.

General Boulanger must be a dreadful fellow in the eyes of the German officials. The police of late have just seized all the clay pipes they could find in that town with his revengeful image on their bowls. The pipes were not broken, however, and a fine was then imposed upon the whole proceeding will end in smoke.

J. H. Lester of Henry County, Georgia, was born in North Carolina in 1769, and is still in fair health and in possession of his mental faculties. He fought in the War of 1812, and also under Gen. Floyd in the wars against the Creek and Seminoles. He had three sons in the Confederate service in the late War, all of whom were killed.

A young lady at Branford saw some boys pelting a dog with stones and throwing their heels around their coats. A day or so later the young lady was missed, and on search being made she was found in her chamber, prostrate on the floor, with both hands on her neck, and utterly unable to get them down. She said she knew that she would have died before calling.

A Kingston (N. Y.) woman, says The Freeman, has recently purchased a borrowed book to a friend the other day. She had had the book some time, and the friend expressed some surprise that she had returned it so soon. "Well," said she, "I'll tell you how it happened. My husband just bought quite a number of books, so I had to take out the borrowed books to make room for the new ones in the bookcase."

A Pittsburg Silas Wegg, with a wooden leg, saw two boys fighting over a bone, and attempting to play peacemaker, he balanced himself on his peg and kicked the bone with his sound foot. Whereupon one of the dogs grabbed the wooden leg, upsetting its owner, and yanking it home made off down the street with it. It required several citizens to restore the leg and the equilibrium of the peacemaker.

The secretary of state for Massachusetts has issued a report showing to what extent the laws have taken advantage of the law passed in 1880 permitting them to vote at school board elections. In 1881, only 1,000 ladies voted and in 1886, 1911. The largest possible female vote in the state is 84,000, and hence it would appear that after six years less than six women out of every thousand take the trouble to record their votes.

The horses in the mountain camps of California are in winter provided with snow-shoes. The Nevada City Transcript thus describes these shoes: "To make one of the shoes you first take a piece of rubber belting about twelve inches in diameter. Fasten to one side of it a steel plate so perfected that the ankle of the horse's equal shoe will fit in it. Then by a camp fasten one of these with the rubber side down securely to each foot of the animal.

As a railroad train rounded a curve near Bristol, Conn., the other morning, the engineer saw a large black Newfoundland dog standing by the side of the track. He waited until the engine was within a few yards of him, and then deliberately stepped upon the track, and trembling all over, with tail between his legs, head turned away, waited for the death stroke from the pilot. The engineer says that if ever anyone committed suicide, that dog did.

The story of the faithful dog who lies on his master's grave and starves to death is by no means new, but a really true one now comes from Padukay, Ky. The master was Uncle Ike Eudora, an aged negro, said to be one hundred and two years old when he died. The dog himself was grizzled and aged, and when the old man's body was put in the grave the old dog refusted to leave the spot, and then he died the other day from exposure and hunger, and his body still lies on the grave.

A writer in the Pall Mall Gazette reveals the story of the late Phillip Bourke Marston's love tragedy. Blind from boyhood, when he was still a young man he became engaged to a beautiful young lady, and the time of their marriage was near at hand. They were together in the parlor one evening. Suddenly he noticed she no longer spoke to him. He called her, but there was no reply. He groped about the room in search of her, found her on the sofa, and put his hand upon her face, only to find that she was dead.

A German chemist has invented a new kind of gunpowder which, he says, will, if brought into general use, eliminate the horrors of war. The bullet is of a brittle substance, breaking directly when it comes in contact with the object at which it is aimed. It contains a powerful anesthetic, producing instantaneously complete insensibility, lasting for twelve hours, which, except that the action of the heart continues, is not to be distinguished from death. While in this state, the German chemist points out, the bodies may be packed in wagons and carried off as prisoners.

Giving and Taking a Light.

There is a certain variety in the manner of giving and taking a light for a cigar that is interesting to all smokers. The Italians and French successfully copy the Spanish style, which is the most graceful and elegant of all, the only possible objection to it being that it may sometimes carry politeness beyond a reasonable range. But, after all, it is simply and freely enough. The Spaniard bows and asks his neighbor for a light. The latter returning the bow, immediately presents him with his cigar, holding out the lighted end at a slight angle between the thumb and second finger. The other takes the cigar and, after procuring the needed fire from it, reverses it skillfully and returns it, the entire operation being accompanied by another graceful bow, and such raises his hat as his politeness may dictate. The Spaniard always smokes through his nose. He considers it extreme vulgarity after grasping a request for fire, to smoke in the presence of considered rude and boorish in the extreme, and is sometimes regarded as positively insulting.

The average Englishman hesitates before he gives a light, and will ask if he had achieved a mighty feat in consequence. Instead of lifting his hat, his hand goes very slowly to his pocket, and he is apt to give a parting puff with an air of indignation as he stalks away. Possibly this comes from the fact that he never asks for a light himself, and is always well supplied with matches.

The American, of late, seems to be somewhat averse to letting anyone take a light from his cigar. He takes it for granted that it must be much better than his neighbor's, and, not thinking to contaminate it, he answers an appeal for the fire with a match. Sometimes he politely hands the cigar and in such cases he presents it with an air good enough for any Spaniard. But this somewhat new custom may possibly be of Irish parentage. The Irish peasant always strikes a match for his fireless friend or fellow traveler, and even in a gale of wind he will hold a lighted match in the hollow of his hands and humorously issue orders for the giving of the precious flame.

The giving or taking of a light for a cigar is a small affair, but it does often reveal a great deal of the character, disposition, and breeding of a man. It should always be either cheerfully and taken politely. In this country it need not be done with the extreme politeness and elegance which may be well in place in a ladies' property of the Latins, and which is probably beyond the reach of coarser and more robust races; but it should be accompanied by that good-fellowship which is governed by common sense, the foundation of all politeness.—New York Sun.

A farmer in the Black Hills is said to have made $1,200 in onions grown on his farm and a quarter of land. He sold 450 sacks.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

of but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and minutes and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Mrs. R. F. Bowers, 502 State St., Racine, Wis., says: "I have been troubled with rheumatism for the last three years, not suffering as much pain as some do with the same complaint, my difficulty being stiffness of the joints, it was mostly in my knee joints, so that it was with much difficulty that I could bend them, especially in going up and down stairs. During the time I have been troubled in this way I have tried many different medicines without any good effects. Athlophoros coming to my notice, and being anxious to get some relief, I thought I wo'd try it. After using it for a short time I was able to bend my knees easily, and could go up and down stairs without suffering any inconvenience.

Janesville, Wisconsin.

"I was seriously afflicted with rheumatism in my hips and lower limbs, so that it was with great trouble and intense pain that I could move around. I have now used one bottle of your Athlophoros with the most satisfactory results.

K. L. DIBOCK,

Insurance Agent, East Milwaukee St.

Enough testimony about Rheumatism and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

Dyspepsia and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of the urinary organs, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

Why He Wanted to Laugh.

Dr. Talmage told me the other day that he never suffered so much from any disease as once when he undertook to have risen to make the opening prayer of a service, but could not do it on account of an overflowing desire to laugh. He was in a country church sitting alone on a little pulpit room waiting for the minister when he should begin the heavily preparing his mind, when the door opened and a gentleman and two ladies entered. They were city people, and they wanted that fact known. The ladies were very expensively dressed, but the man was a curiosity. He was apparelled with the care of a debutante at a white house ball. His eyebrows and mustache were dyed jet black, and his cheeks showed the effect of a recent visit to a barber's shape suggested stays. He strutted to a seat with the air of a peacock on parade.

The ladies sat down and their escort flourished in after them, dropped himself between them on a bench. The bench broke. Then a stirring scene was enacted. The gentleman had fallen through to the floor and was caught between the splintered ends of the seat. He wriggled helplessly and lost his eyeglasses and cane and hat. The look of misery and fright on his face succeeding the proud dignity that had previously sat there was too much for Dr. Talmage. He wanted to get out in a too-much-for-me way. He could not help laughing, and had to part his handkerchief up to his face and pretend that he had a very bad cough.—Bamber in Brooklyn Eagle.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Hunter's Orchard Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact as throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. These doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the sick, and consequently, at least to try one bottle, as 50,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the Orchard Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular sizes, 25 cents. Sold by all druggists and dealers, in the United States and Canada. 1097

Playing Hookey.

The precocious small boy finds a rival in the small girl who figures in the primary department of the Cacahoharie Academy.

Teacher (to the small girl who had "skipped school")—Where have you been and what have you been doing all the morning?

Small girl (working the heel of her shoe into a crack in the floor)—Part of the time riding down hill.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, late Westport, Ct., commanding the Atlantic City and New York, had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him the desired relief, but relieved the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free Trial Bottles of this Standard Remedy at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

COMPOUND OXYGEN

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN

A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT

A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU.

FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN have the liberty to publish the following testimonial (standing as Physicians) to the following-named well-known persons, who have tried our Treatment: Hon. William D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia; Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Minister Lutheran Church, Lancaster, Pa.; Rev. Wm. Conning, Lockport, N. Y.; Hon. William Penn Nixon, Ed. for Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.; Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quincy, Kan., & thousands of others in every part of the world.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS" is the title of a book of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives to all inquirers the history and use of remarkable curative agent and a record of surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. It will be sended free to any person asking for it.

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

STORY & CLARK FINE ORGANS

SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!

N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.

CHICAGO Canal AND 16TH STS

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

These excellent Organs are constructed for vocal use, and are adapted to the church, school, lodge, music, school, or home, playing, study or prayer consecration, making them the most attractive, cheap general and desirable organs for home, schools churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

$25,000.00 IN GOLD!

WILL BE PAID FOR

ARBUCKLES' COFFEE WRAPPERS.

1 Premium,	$1,000.00
2 Premiums,	$500.00 each
5 Premiums,	$250.00 "
25 Premiums,	$100.00 "
100 Premiums,	$50.00 "
200 Premiums,	$20.00 "
1,000 Premiums,	$10.00 "

For full particulars and directions see Circular in every pound of ARBUCKLES' COFFEE.

A GENTLEMAN having been cured of nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their symptoms, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used on his case.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PINKNEY, 43 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIPELESS TOBACCO PLUG

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts can be made for it in NEW YORK.

MAN AND BEAST!

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES

Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Stings, Bites, Bruises, Sprains, Sore,	Scratches, Spavin, Strains, Stiffness, Stiff Joints, Backache, Galls, Sores, Spots, Cracks, Contracted Muscles, Eruptions, Hoof Ail, Fever Worms, Scitonsy, Saddle Galls, Piles.

THIS COOD OLD STAND-BY

is recognized as far superior to any exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great demand for the Mexican Mustang Liniment is its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine.

The Farmer needs it in case of accidents.

The Housewife needs it for general family use.

The Blacksmith needs it for his horses and his men.

The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.

The Miner needs it in case of emergency.

The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it.

The Farmer needs it in his house, his stables, and his barnyard.

The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in literally unbounded numbers.

The Horse-fancier needs it—it is his best friend and ready reliance.

The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.

The Railroad man needs it and will find it so time and life in a round of accidents and dangers.

The Backwoodsman needs it. There is no big log big as an accident for the dangers to life, limb or comfort which surround the pioneer.

The Merchant needs it when his stores among the employes. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.

Keep a Bottle in the House. "'Tis the best of economy."

Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Instantaneous in case of accidents saves pain and loss of wages.

Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the mean of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send free of charge a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his formula, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 202. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUCKSHANKS & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Masters Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. S. CRUCKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Office in Dart's office, Petoskey, Mich.

JNO. W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Real Estate Business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and U. S. Commissioner, Office in Dart's office, Petoskey, Mich.

WM. A. CHRISTIANSEN, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty A Specialty.

W. L. GARRITT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services and Sunday school at 3:30 p. m., every Sunday. Rev. J. F. Brown, rector of Bridge and Union streets.
W. P. BROWN, warden.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Sunday evening. Thursday evening at 7 p. m. All seats free. Corner of Bridge and Mitchell streets.
W. G. CLARK, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.
A. T. WRIGHT, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock.
W. H. MCCARTHY, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist. Over Wood's Drug Store, CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

LEWIS M. DAVIS, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic physician, Charlevoix, Michigan.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HIRAM S. HASKIN, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlev'x.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second G. Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. U. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 207, meets every Monday evening at Sefferles' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 293, meets every Saturday evening, in Masonic hall.

O. U. T.—Resort Tent No. 136, meets second Tuesday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. L.—Tree Shoots Tent, No. 1, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard school house.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 341, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. P. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

Brown & Co's Savings Bank

CAPITAL, $25,000.

Drafts drawn payable at the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention and the proceeds remitted on day of payment. Interest allowed on time deposits. Correspondents solicited.

CORRESPONDENTS.—Chase National Bank, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.

Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

MILLINERY,

Dressmaking,

Ladies' Fancy Goods.

A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Gaiters, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.

ALDRICH SISTERS,

At the Ingleside, Charlevoix, Mich.

NEW LIVERY AND Feed Barn.

LITNEY & STEIMEL PROPRIETORS

Opposite Bridge Street House Charlevoix.

FIRST-CLASS RIGS REASONABLE RATES.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades, WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

HEADQUARTERS —FOR— WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

WATCHES in Stock. All the latest, best and most improved Watches Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted

C. R. BELLINGER, Bridge St., - Charlevoix.

WILL H. FRANCIS,

Furniture and Jobbing Shop.

—Will also do—

CONTRACTING AND BUILDING,

in Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in my shop a full set of Hand and Foot power machinery which enables me to

Jobbing, Repairing, Etc.,

ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Shop on South Terrace, Opposite Harrison Borden's residence.

Political Notes and News.

Gov. Luce has signed the bill increasing the salaries of the supreme court justices to $5,000, and the same is now the law. Yet the salary is rather small for justice of the supreme court.

The supreme court of Kansas has decided that when a woman married she need not take her husband's name unless she so chooses. This will be opportune for those husbands who desire to hide their property under their wife's name.

Our steamer unloaded about 600 Italian emigrants at Escanaba last week to engage in work on the new railroads in the northern peninsula in direct competition with American laborers. Time is the protection of American labor demonstrated.

The Philadelphia Telegraph, a republican organ has this to say of the administration: "President Cleveland has made most of his important appointments with an much judgment and with such great satisfaction to reasonable men of all parties and sections, that there is curiosity rather than anxiety with respect to his selection for the vacancy on the supreme bench caused by the death of Justice Woods."

"On Friday, a young man named Clay shot and probably killed another at Grand Ledge, in a quarrel over a farm lease. Now midnight, Saturday, one Peterson, in the vicinity of Flint, killed his brother with an axe. Both had been drinking. About the same hour, Campau, near Bay City, stabbed Welch, who will probably die. All these murders, or attempted murders, within 24 hours, did not occur in Texas, or Kentucky, or among the rough mining population of the Pacific slope. They all occurred in Michigan. All three of the assailants made no attempts to escape.—Evening News. The Herald has perfectly well that in a state like Michigan, where trial by jury is a mere farce, and where all the rules of criminal practice are have of the accused their chances of punishment are very slight, and their chances of permanent freedom are great. Yet our legislature is doing absolutely nothing to remedy the evil, while our soil is becoming literally soaked with human blood.

August 14th, 1886, John Boyd, of Rockford, Kent county, procured a rifle and proceeded to the house of Wm. B. Johnson, a well-known and respected resident, called him out of doors and shot him dead, and in dying expiating his crime in Jackson state prison, having been sentenced for life. He had long indulged to excess in intoxicating liquors, which he procured from the saloon of Christopher Post, and in consequence had neglected and failed to support his family, a wife and four children. Mrs. Boyd then brought suit against Christopher Post in the Kent circuit court for damage, for ruining her husband with liquor, and depriving her of his support, and the jury returned a verdict last Thursday, of $9,500 for Mrs. Boyd against Post. This judgment will have to be collected of Post's bondsmen, if he is not able to raise the amount himself. Thus we see the necessity of village councils and township boards requiring saloon bonds not only against injuries to the world but good substantial sureties.

A provoking delay in the arrival of our usual ready-print makes it necessary to slightly reduce the size of the JOURNAL this week, and to print both sides at home. However, our readers may congratulate themselves that we are able to even partially overcome the disappointment, and avoid the issue of half sheets. What we lack in quantity, we have tried to make up in quality.

FIVE MEN DROWNED.

The Yacht Coral Capsized on Little Traverse Bay Last Sunday.

Last Sunday morning, Little Traverse bay was the scene of the most shocking accident that has occurred in northern Michigan for years. Between ten and eleven o'clock, a party of ten pleasure-seekers left Petoskey in the sailing yacht Coral for a sail on the bay, and only five returned alive. The party consisted of L. W. Cole, his son Fred Cole, Dana Stark, George Wise, Marion Tripp, Frank Henika, Clarence Blood, and Walter Fell, of Petoskey, G. M. Freeman, of Milwaukee, and Harry Blout, of Chicago. Of this party, the following were drowned:

L. W. Cole.
Fred Cole.
George Wise.
Marion Tripp.
Dana Stark.

On Monday morning the Harbor Springs Independent issued an extra, from which we glean the following particulars:

The boat left Petoskey a short time before eleven, and stood off towards the northeast corner of the bay. The wind was fresh, but did not seem to be near the water, and shortly after leaving Petoskey the peak of the foresail was hoisted. They saw the squall coming, but supposed it was only a little puff of wind. The pressure of the blast upon the high and broad foresail forced the boat upon the port bow. There was no excitement, and all succeeded in climbing upon the side of the yacht without getting wet. The yacht was ballasted with several hundred pounds of pig iron, and as the air escaped from her hold she gradually settled until it was supposed she would surely sink. A small yawl which had carry five persons in still water was launched and manned by the Coral, and it was decided to take in sail. All ten crowded into the yawl, sinking her almost level with the water, when, to say, they got sixty or eighty rods from the wreck the weight of the yawl swamped, and five of the party were crowned.

Henika, Blood, Fell, Freeman, and Blout were rescued by Capt. Andris Wilson, of Harbor Springs, who saw Leon saw the yacht when it capsized, and running into the house, told his father. The captain had noticed the Coral a short time before, and knew in an instant that she was the e boat. It was a risky thing to start out in a boat fitted with a pound bent without reefing sail or getting hoisted, but without even waiting to call his brother Capt. Wilson ran to the beach, and with only his thirteen-year-old boy to help him, hoisted the sail of the pound boat and headed for the wreck.

The Coral lay on her port side, with the hull well out of water, and all sails set except the gaff topsails. Not a sign of life was to be seen, and for a moment the rescuers believed that in spite of their endeavors they had come too late. Eagerly they scanned the tossing waves to northward, and Leon's quick eyes caught a glimpse of a hand waved in the distance. An instant later a dark object rose on the crest of a wave some sixty rods away, and they bore down towards it.

The five survivors of the dreadful accident were in or on the little yawl, which was completely submerged, so that as they clung to it they could only wash up into the necks, and the choppy waves broke over their heads. They were too exhausted to answer the shout of encouragement from the pound boat, and realizing that they were entirely helpless and that not a moment was to be lost, Captain Wilson ran up just to windward, and let his boat drift down upon the drowning men, he and Leon taking their places in the stern to lend a helping hand and calling to them to seize the boat as it came within reach. With strength born of despair they lifted their benumbed hands and clutched at the boat. With the assistance of Capt. Wilson and his lit. son—who showed that he has a sailor's cool head and a hero's heart—the four men fastened their stiff fingers upon the gunwale as with the grip of death, but young Fells, who is but a boy of fourteen, missed the boat and went down out of sight. Mr. Wilson watched for him to rise on one side and Leon on the other, and it was fully a minute before they learnet that he was clinging to the legs of one of the men in the water. Plunging his arm down in the water to the shoulder, Mr. Wilson caught hold of his wrist, and drew him into the boat limp and senseless. Then the others were pulled in, which was by no means an easy task, for they were utterly helpless, and were so chilled that hardly one of them could rise from the bottom of the boat where they lay.

Mr. Wilson started for Petoskey, but the wind went down, leaving the boat becalmed about half a mile from the shore off Newberry's mill. Assistance soon arrived, however, and they were taken to shore, and cared for in the mill boarding house, until able to go to their homes.

The event casts a gloom over the village of Petoskey, especially the death of Mr. L. W. Cole, who was counted as one of the foremost and most progressive citizens of that town. He was buried on Wednesday with Masonic honors.

There's Money in Beer.

Ehret's wealth is estimated at between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000. He holds more mortgages than any man in the city, and he is the owner of vast blocks of real estate. A dozen German brewers, busied in piling up immense fortunes, are realizing the

$1.50 PER YEAR.

in the Baltimore Argus.

Patent Poetry.

The poems printed from time to time under the head of "Patent Poetry," are manufactured on the Ames of wool plan, double-back action, self-feeding machine, which operated all wool and a yard wide, and is to work under a pressure of one hundred pounds to the square inch. All infringements will be vigorously prosecuted.

THE EDITOR'S STAFF.

Sic Deus-et si dant ferendas!—Latin Proverb.

Scene of Dana's Ten dollars a dress the other night, When everything was still; Present I saw the delegates Come trooping up for Hill. In East and West and South and North he throng together ran, and then whispering as they came said David was the man!

Crowded into the room they found A raw burning gusts flowed; Into banks the faces red Of pale or joy glowed as they drank, and played, and talked, rough plot, and laughed, and plan, thought was ever uppermost at David was the man.

Clubs marched proud and down, ing each crowded street; Hard their steps together kept, music soft and sweet. dry goods box each orator Addressed the hats, told the will, harrowing mob, d David was the man.

d have turned upon my back— heard some people say, frown of perfect joy Lo and off fightmares changed that way, ers the hard corridors, nurse I then beseech, ling that there, as everywhere, d David was the man.

I grave men paced to and fro, counsels deep were held, ning's close and steady thrill their faces, keen and cold, ere to closey scan, d dread my soul o'er spread, Hill was not in man.

ening dawned: convention met, ions plain were made; s, the banks, the secrets, the gangs strongest card had played, nelson's voice alone was heard, my breath a span, s she spoke, I shuddering, woke, ireland was the man!

ur Natural Resources.

llowing from the East Jor- enterprise will apply to numer- ions of this country, and it to the careful consid ur readers:

o uncommon thing to go droits and lose some i pecimen of humanity he came to northern Mi as though northern Mich to blamed for his failure in trouble is not confined to location of the man, it is man himself; had he been lly located among the rich n plains of a more tropical is natural indolence hasn't sck of accumulative judg old naturally lead to the ndition on his part, to growl and complain. Northern n Michigan presents a fa eld for the industrious to in all northern Michigan f no such favorable point levoix county. Land is limat d invigorating. Peas are diseases almost un s region is well watered d small streams, lakes e soil is generally adapt ural purposes. Good ly increasing in value ent near than pay fo d and building ma and abundant. any amount of good l nd that remains unse bought very cheap ident owners fo speculative purpo tch will range fro d acre, according t rapid development insures its contin d steady appreciati No better farming n born in the United st be found in Chicago wh it wants is proper devel t fault is not in the off n it is in the man, and l men who come to this country, should learn to lives and not the country.

ment of working-women's ter begins to be felt. Ver ears ago, has encoura n experiments of its pro he parent society, Paris there has been an ass ore of 108 members last ar, the central part of the ies amounting to $ hand some extra fees for of teachers, they enjoy which were formerly ns individuals. Among ts which have been ess ntage by the parent stab by branches that have ts National Bank, New York and vicinity ing. Type-writing, milli

Boston uses 12,805 street lamps, of which 401 are electric and 2,304 are.

The new Turkish Minister to the United States, Marquessi Bey, is spoken of in one of the newspapers as "a dignified and handsome Turk." No doubt he is a Turkish subject, but, of course, he is a Greek. The premier Modem is not found in diplomatic service to any great extent. The Turk has no taste for this kind of service, and, besides, is averse to leaving home. He prefers to remain where he can hand some extra fees for of teachers, they enjoy which were formerly ns individuals. Among ts which have been ess ntage by the parent stab by branches that have ts National Bank, New York and vicinity ing. Type-writing, milli

Blue pounds of sparlo in this country!

EARTHQUAKES.

Queer Theories That Have Been Held Concerning Them by Superstitious People.

In the course of a lecture delivered recently before the Rigakn Kyokai, or Science society, of Tokio, on the causes of earthquakes, Prof. Milne classified the theories as to the cause of these phenomena into three kinds—unscientific, quasi-scientific, and scientific. Of the former class he included the exclamations of the negro preachers of Jamaica after the late earthquakes "that they occurred in consequence of the wickedness of the people;" the Mussulmans in Java ascribe the volcanoes there to the wrath of God; the Kamtschadales, at the same time, gave no information of life. Others are the direct reverse of this, wickedness is an idea which has a tendency to prevent them. Others were felt in many places, which were widely separated, and insumerable sermons were preached, inculcating the idea that if mankind would mend their ways there would be no more earthquakes. In 1786, after a severe shock, the people are reported to have been about scourging themselves, looking extremely pious, and crying out, "An English earthquake! pull down the Church!" Others, interested in somewhat different directions, ascribed the disturbances to the unknown force, the spirits of the imprisoned Titans, to the shaking of the tridents! Impious feet, earth impatient bears the guilty weight, pave for her fad race pre- pare! Others, which can scarcely be put into words, ascribed it to the myths which make it to a creature living in Japan it is as large as a house, covered with hair, having eight legs, or a great fish having a certain rock on his back which helped to keep him quiet. In Mongolia the animal was said to be a frog, in India the world-bearing elephant, in the Bahrein a world-supporting hog, in North America a tortoise. In Siberia there was a myth, connected with the great bones found there, that these were the remains of antediluvian men, who lived underground, the burrowing of which made the ground shake. In Kamchatka the legend was connected with a god. Full who went out fishing with the dogs. When the latter stopped to scratch them selves their movements produced earthquakes. In Scandinavian mythology Loki, having killed his brother Baldwin, was bound in a rock. Loki's wife, however, intercepted the poison in a vessel, and it was only when she had to go away to empty the dish that a few drops reached him and caused him to writhe and shake the earth.

The naturer had no means of collecting the fables of the southern hemisphere, but they would obviously be worth knowing for purposes of comparison. As to quasi-scientific theories, these are advanced to account for earthquakes as parts of the ordinary operations of nature. It was supposed, for instance, that they were produced by the action of wind confined inside the earth. The Chinese philosophers said that Yang, the male element, entered the earth and caused it to expand and shake the ground in its efforts to escape. Its effects would be more violent, because it was stronger than in the plains, and therefore earthquakes in the north of China, which are mountainous, were said to be more violent beneath the mountains than those in the south. It was argued that when the wind was blowing strongly on the surface of the earth there was calm beneath, and vice versa.

Aristotle and many other classical writers attributed earthquakes to wind in the earth. Shakspeare, in "Henry IV.," speaks of the tremble earth being pinched and vexed with a kind of colic by the imprisoned and unruly wind within her womb. Then comes the theory of electrical discharges, which was advocated in 1750 by Dr. Stukely, as well as by Percival and Priestley. They are strongly held in California at the present day, where it was believed that the network of rails protected the state against any dangerous accumulation of electricity. But Prof. Milne showed that the laying down of rails in Japan had no such effect. He thought the electric phenomena which sometimes attended earthquakes were their consequences, not their causes. He had himself experimented with dynamite placed in a hole, an earthquake was felt about thirty yards away from the dynamite, and from it a wire was carried some distance to another earthquake. When the dynamite charge was exploded there was certainly a current produced as was indicated by a strong deflection of a galvanometer needle at the end of the wire. He attributed this to chemical action. When the ground was shaken there was always a greater or less action by increase or decrease of pressure in connection with the earth-plate.

Earth convulsions invariably accompany earthquakes, but, as has been said, they appear to be the consequences, not the causes, of the latter. Next came the chemical theories, which were very strong in Europe up to the beginning of the present century. It was imagined that under ground there were various substances, such as sulphur, nitre, vitriol, which, by their action on each other, resulted in violent changes, giving rise to vapor, the sudden production of which, in certain cases, would shake the ground.

It was only in 1760 that Dr. Mitchell, who wrote a good deal on the subject, first threw out the theory that earthquakes were connected in some way with volcanoes, because they were most frequent in volcanic countries. He observed that large quantities of steam were given off from volcanoes, and came to the conclusion that an earthquake was produced at the time that an attempt was made to form a volcano, the steam got in between certain strata, and, as it ran between them, caused pulsations. Prof. Rogers, about the same time, in North America, endeavored to show that it was steam which really lava—that raised along underneath the ground, causing it to rise and fall, thus producing an earthquake. Prof. Milne having thus dealt with unscientific and quasi-scientific theories, passed on to those of modern science. It is unnecessary here to follow him into this portion of his subject, although it occupied the main part of the lecture.—Globe.

An Absent-minded Composer.

In Cassell's Family Magazine the following story is told about the eccentric composer of the "Three Fishers":

Mr. Hullah was a concert which, being largely made up of Wagner's music, did not much interest him. He gradually became absorbed in his own thoughts, and sat motionless for a long while, evidently unaware of what was going on around him. His absent-mindedness was carried so far that Miss Antoinette Sterling, for whose singing he had an ardent admiration, had commenced to sing his own "Three Fishers," nor did he make the slightest movement until the last phrase was peeling forth in Miss Sterling's fullest notes, when, slowly rising to his feet he murmured:

"What a fine song that is!"

It was clear that it was not until some seconds after he had spoken that Mr. Hullah awoke to a consciousness that what had fallen so pleasingly on his ear was of his own composing.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can direct our labors in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people succumbed to the slow poisons, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can testify who satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease and misery. Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent of our sickness and wretchedness. Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonder ful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it, now!

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of liver and kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store.

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, chief of police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family use Dr. Kings New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be most excellent in the cure of consumption and all diseases of the throat and lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, croup, and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store. Large size $1.00.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This no other. Sold by G. Hines & Co., Druggists, Charlevoix. 12ya4.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and sycosis or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last recourse tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment, thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

William Blair, train dispatcher of the D. G. H. & M. railroad, Detroit, Mich., says: "For about fifteen years I have been almost a constant sufferer from neuralgia, many times unfitting me for my business duties as well as making life a burden. The strain on my nerves was so great that I nearly lost the use of one of my eyes. I was suffering very much, and had never succeeded in getting anything that would give me but temporary relief, and that was of very short duration. The first bottle of Athlophoros made a very decided change, in fact I had some relief from a few doses. I probably have used a dozen bottles, and it is six months since I had a severe attack. I keep the medicine on hand all the time; I have some at my office and some at home, so that in case I should need it I am well prepared. I have had times during my use of this medicine that my neuralgia would come on during my business hours, and by having the medicine close at hand a dose or two would drive the neuralgia away. For neuralgia Athlophoros is undoubtedly the best medicine, and I think I ought to know, as I have during the many years that I have suffered had occasion to try about every thing in the line of medicines for this complaint."

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

Athlophoros is recommended for dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c. Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 7

$25,000.00 IN GOLD!

WILL BE PAID FOR

ARBUCKLES' COFFEE WRAPPERS.

1 Premium,	$1,000.00
2 Premiums,	$500.00 each
5 Premiums,	$250.00 "
25 Premiums,	$100.00 "
100 Premiums,	$50.00 "
500 Premiums,	$20.00 "
1,000 Premiums,	$10.00 "

For full particulars and directions see Circulars with each pound of ARBUCKLES' COFFEE.

A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their symptoms, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.

Address in confidence, JAS. H. PINKERT, 43 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIMPLES. I will mail (sealed) FREE, a recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will clear the face of PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BLACK HEADS, Etc., leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful.

Touch with this compound the soft Rubber, and the bright glow will burn in crimson speak. Also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, J. H. STAPES, 60 Avon St., New York.

COMPOUND OXYGEN

Drs. STARKE AND PALEN

A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT

A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU, Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN have the county of Oxygen Gas (Physicians) FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, the Brain, Spinal Marrow, and the Nerves are invigorated, Nerve Force is nourished and made more active. Then the Fountain Head of all activity, both mental and physical, is restored to a state of integrity, and the nervous system, the organic, and the muscular life are made to act with vigor and ease.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS" is the title of a book of 200 pages, giving a full account of the nature, action, and results of Compound Oxygen in a wide range of chronic ills—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. It will be mailed free to any address on application.

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

STORY & CLARK ORGANS

SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!

N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.

CHICAGO & Canal AND 16th STS

FOR MAN AND BEAST! CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

These excellent Organs are celebrated for war tone, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combinations, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect workmanship, taking their place wherever musical and desirable organs for homes, schools churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES. SKILLED WORKMEN, CONDENSED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, mailed free.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO. 831 BLUE ISLAND AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES

Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Sores, Bruises, Bunions, Corns, Scratches, Sprains, Strains, Stiffness, Stiff Joints, Backache, Galls, Scrus, Spavin, Ringbone, Contracted Muscles, Erysipelas Heel Ail, Screw Worms, Swinney, Saddle Galls, Piles.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it, and no other article of the kind is capable of the Mustang Liniment is found to be universal in its adaptability to the relief of pain.

The Lumberman needs it in case of accidents.

The Horseman needs it for ailing stock.

The Canaller needs it for his crews and his men.

The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.

The Miner needs it in case of emergency.

The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it.

The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard.

The Stockman knows it is the Best man needs it in literal sooty afloat and ashore.

The Hunter—and every lover of the chase—knows it is his best friend and safest reliance.

The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.

The Railroad man needs it and will find it so long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.

The Backwoodsman needs it. There is everything like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and comfort which surround the pioneer.

The Merchant needs it about his store among his employes, and to keep it handy to give when those come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.

Keep a Bottle in the House. It may save you much danger and much loss of time and money.

Keep a Bottle in the Barn. It will be found invaluable in case of accidents never pain and loss of wages.

Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas Nancy M. Bates and Ira Bates, her husband, of Ionia, Ionia county, Mich., executed a mortgage to William H. Hipp to secure Six Hundred and Fifty Dollars and Interest, which mortgage is now owned and held by said mortgagee, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum, which mortgage was executed to the place of register of deeds for the county of Charlevoix, on the 27th day of November, 1885, in liber 15 of mortgages, on page 152, and whereas the said mortgage has been duly assigned by said William H. Hipp to Wallace J. Hipp, by assignment, dated the 1st day of January, 1887, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Mich., on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1887, in liber 1 of assignments of mortgages, on page 1, and now owned by the said Wallace J. Hipp; and whereas, the said mortgage has been duly recorded in said register's office July 16th, 1886, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 152, and whereas, the said mortgage has been duly assigned by said Hiram Bates to Jacob H. Pasco, by assignment, dated the 1st day of January, 1887, and recorded in said register's office July 16th, 1886, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 152, and whereas, said mortgage was assigned by said Jacob H. Pasco to Henry H. Vanderpool, by assignment, dated the 1st day of January, 1887, and recorded in said register's office July 16th, 1886, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 152, and whereas, said mortgage was assigned by said Henry H. Vanderpool to Henry H. Vanderpool, by assignment, dated the 1st day of January, 1887, and recorded in said register's office July 16th, 1886, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 152, and whereas, said mortgage was assigned by said Henry H. Vanderpool to Henry H. Vanderpool, by assignment, dated the 1st day of January, 1887, and recorded in said register's office July 16th, 1886, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 152, and whereas, said mortgage has been duly

Tennyson's Jubilee Od

...son's "Carmen Saeculare: A ... of the Jubilee of Queen V

I.

...ons the rose has flowered a ...times the modern harvest fall ... Queen assumed the ... empire.

II.

...e beloved for a kindliness ... in fame or history, ...en, and Empress of India, ...ved so long with a disaster ...ed to her by a worthier, ...with the sunlight of glories ...ose at last to the bounteous ...ewning year of her jubilee.

III.

...of the lawless, of the deep ...of the vulgar, or vainglori ...ous, genius, great, and gl ...

II.

...then loyalty, all of you, ...ion, the Queen, Windsor ...our towns for a festival, ...ment, let a multitude ...each, to the heart of it, ...a voice of allegiance, ...great ceremonial ...year of her jubilee.

V.

...true to womanhood as ...the glories of her peopl ...as the sorrows of the ...

VI.

...ent wanton in illusions ...not more to be admired, ...ne good to regale with ju ...ent neighborhood health ...ent gold to the hospital, ...ment may be comforted, ...ment may be pensioned, ...ment Gin his heart rejo ...ment of jubilee.

VII.

...ment years are all in shado ... Queen Edward's fifty ...ment fifty half forg

VIII.

...the gaiety is architect, ...ment Jubilee memorial, ...ment Jubilee hospital, ...ment Jubilee institute, Rich in symbol, in ornament, ...ch may speak to the centur All the centuries after us, ...ment year of her jubilee.

IX.

Fifty years of ever-broadening com
Fifty years of ever-brightening sci
Fifty years of ever-widening empir

X.

You, the mighty, the fortunate
You, the lord-territorial,
You, the merchant, the manufacturer,
You, the lowly, laborious
Patient children of Albion,
You, Canadian, Indian,
Australian, African,
All your hearts be in harmony,
All your voices in unison,
As your Queen and our gracious
Golden year of her jubilee!

XI.

Are there blunderers among us in the
Are there spectres to warning in the
From the Lord of Light to guide b
Till the thunders pass, the spectre
And the light is where, and the da
Dawns into the jubilee of the age

EARTHQUAKES

Queer Theories That Have Been ...cerning Them by Superstit People.

In the course of a lecture ...recently before the Rigaku K ...ence society, of Tokio, on t ...earthquakes, Prof. Milne ...theories as to the cause ...quasi-scientific, ...ment, entered the earth and ...to expand and shake the gr ...efforts to escape. Its effect ...more violent beneath the ...than in the plains, and the ...quakes in the north of Chi ...was mountainous, were said ...violent beneath the mount ...those in the south. It was ...that in the north the wind was ...strongly on the surface of

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

A Graphic Description of the Origin and Growth of the Largest Printing House in the World.

Few people probably, realize the wonderful magnitude attained by the governmental departments at Washington. Especially is this true of the government printing office, now the largest establishment of the kind in the world.

The first record that can be found in connection with printing for the government, is a resolution introduced at the session of Congress held in New York city in 1779. In 1794 the first regular appropriation was made for this purpose, ($10,000) and each house elected its own printer. In 1819, by a joint resolution, regulations as to the manner, etc, were adopted and the entire work given to one firm.

As the resources of the country were developed and the population increased, the expense of the work increased from year to year, and the printing for the 27th congress cost two hundred thousand dollars. A resolution introduced by Garrett Davis in 1845 was adopted providing that the work should be done by contract. This seems to have materially increased the expense as the work for the six years ensuing amounted to $3,462,655, and was very unsatisfactory. In 1852 a "superintendent of public printing" was provided for; but even this failed to remove the friction, and in 1860 an act was passed by congress authorizing the purchase of the printing establishment of Cornelius Wendell by the government. The contract for its purchase was consummated on Oct. 1st, 1860, and approved by the joint committee on printing of the two houses of congress on the 12th of the same month.

The first superintendent under this act was Hon. John D. Defrees, appointed by President Lincoln, who assumed control of the office March 2, 1861. By the annual report of the superintendent it appears that the office and fixtures at that time were estimated to be worth $146,545, as follows:

Twenty-six printing presses	$36,375
Type, metal, etc	19,150
Steam engine and appendages	12,000
Hydraulic presses	6,000
Drying room fixtures	3,000
Gas fixtures	2,175
Standing presses, cases, etc	19,534
Building and lot	48,311
Total	$146,545

From the date of its purchase by the government the growth of the establishment has been most marvelous. The superintendent at that time gave the following lucid description of it:

"The public printing establishment is situated at the northeast corner of square 624, at the corner of H street northwest, and North Capitol street. The lot is 264 feet 3 inches on H street, by 175 feet 3 inches on North Capitol street, containing 46,397 square feet, and affording ample space for any additions or improvements that may be deemed desirable. The building consists of a printing office and bindery, four stories high, with a breadth of 61½ feet and a depth of 243 feet; a paper warehouse 59 feet 7 inches by 79 feet 2 inches; a machine shop 22 feet 2 inches by 25 feet, for repairing and renewing the presses and machinery; a boiler house 23 feet 7 inches by 25 feet; a coal house 23 by 27 feet; a wagon shed 25 feet 4 inches by 24 feet; and stables 23 feet by 41 feet 2 inches. These buildings are all of brick, built of the best material, sand in the most durable manner."

Some idea of the growth of the establishment may be gathered from the increase of work turned out may be formed by a comparison of the appropriations made by congress for different years. In 1863 the annual appropriation was $1,417,750; in 1866, $1,869,379; in 1873, $1,911,596; in 1880, $2,034,750; in 1886, $2,500,000.

As the work increased the necessity of having more room was soon apparent, and the first addition, or extension, to the building was put up in 1865, and extended west on H street, from the west end of the old structure 60 feet by 70 feet, north and south. In 1870 the second addition was erected, extending south on North Capitol street 113½ feet by 61½ feet east and west. In 1879 a third addition was made, in the form of an L, running south from the east end of the main building 86½ feet by 53½ feet east and west, thence east 60 feet by 60 feet north and south. Two fireproof hall-ways, each twelve feet in width, were also built, affording easy communication between and virtually connecting the old and new parts together.

Like the main building the additions are four stories high, constructed of brick, have self-supporting iron roof and are very substantial. The entire building, exclusive of the boiler-house, coal-house, and stables, covers an area of over 40,205 square feet, and affords floor room for workmen, machinery, etc., of 160,820 square feet,—nearly four acres.

For the safety of employes, fire escapes have been constructed at various points, and these, added to the broad stairways with which the building is provided, afford an easy and rapid mode of exit for those employed in the building, in case a fire occurs, a calamity that is carefully guarded against at all times. Chemical fire extinguishers and hand grenades are distributed over the building, stand-pipes are placed in the walls, and regulation fire hose is kept at different places on each floor ready for instant attachment and use, and the whole placed in charge of trusted employes who have had experience in fire-department work and who are drilled in the use of the apparatus under their care. The building is heated by steam, smoking in it is forbidden, and when light is needed it is furnished by gas or electricity, thus reducing the probabilities of fire to a minimum.

In this immense establishment employment is given to upwards of two thousand people, about one-third of whom are females and two-thirds are males. About three-fourths of the latter have served apprenticeships and are numbered among the most skillful workmen in the country, as the high order of work demanded requires the most competent, skillful, and best trained craftsmen to be obtained. The pay-roll of this large force amounts to nearly six thousand dollars per day, and to meet the total expenses of the office, including paper stock, ink, improvements, etc, requires an annual outlay of from two to two and a half millions dollars.

Improvements are constantly being made and the value and usefulness of the office daily increasing. Judging by the experiences of the past it is not unreasonable to hope that the future the erection of additional buildings, and the employment of more men, as well as an increase of the facilities for doing work, to meet the growing demands by congress and the departments. An appropriation has already been voted by congress for the purchase of more land and the building of a warehouse, but the amount is not sufficient for the purpose, and this much needed improvement must be postponed until an additional appropriation is made.

Up to the time of the appointment of Hon. S. P. Rounds to the office of public printer there seems to have been a lack of system in every branch of the establishment. Pay days were irregular, employees were furloughed frequently, and a spirit of free-and-easy prevailed throughout. Fortunately for the government, Mr. Rounds possessed that peculiar executive ability so necessary to the management of a large business, and this, together with a practical knowledge of every kind of work to be done, enabled him to bring order out of discord in a very short time. During his administration regular pay days were established, the force reorganized, new and improved machinery bought to replace the old, and the entire business of the office thoroughly systematized. Unquestionably, Mr. Rounds was the most effective, popular, and economical public printer who had ever occupied the place.

The present incumbent, Hon. Thos. E. Benedict, has thus far proved himself an efficient organizer, a thorough business man, a strict disciplinarian, an economical manager, is well informed as to the needs and requirements of the office, and determined that it shall attain a still higher standard of excellence than heretofore if an intelligent use of the means at his command will secure this result. He has re-organized the entire force, more thoroughly systematized the business, elevated the moral tone, and introduced many valuable improvements in various parts of the establishment. He has also established semi-monthly payments of the employees, and exhibits a lively interest in their welfare and comfort.

Congress, apparently recognizing Mr. Benedict's determination and ability to reduce the expenses to a minimum, appropriated a half million dollars less for the coming year (although a much greater amount of work is expected to be accomplished than for the year now soon to close. That he will keep the disbursements within the required amount is a foregone conclusion.

As a whole the government printing office, under its present management, is worthy the pride and admiration of every citizen of the United States, and should be personally inspected by every one who visits Washington. It is open to visitors from ten o'clock a. m. to two o'clock p. m and competent guides are always kept in readiness to escort those who come over the entire office.

JOHNSON.

The Meditated Suicide.

Speaking of suicides—there have been several lately, and a good many people are talking about them—a story is told confidentially by a worthy citizen, who contemplated another of this mortal coil. He thought of it, and thinks he was in earnest, but this I doubt, because killing one's self is said to be a painful operation, and the worthy citizen is a man who is extremely careful of his own comfort. However, business had gone wrong, another man had secured the church pew he set his heart upon, rents had been raised, he wasn't very well anyway, and life didn't seem worth living. His wife would get his insurance money; she knew as much about his business as he did himself, and could get along without him.

That night he took home a box of rat poison and after his wife had retired took it out and read the directions. Then he got out his razor and stropped it and felt the blade with his thumb. He didn't know which method he would use, or whether he would try all three and make a sure thing of it. He would decide after the razor was properly stropped. Then he stropped away, and while he was trying to cut a hair a sleepy voice came from the bed—the voice of George, Uncle John brought us a gallon of new maple sirup to-day, and we will have fritters and sirup for breakfast. I—thought—you'd like—to know." The razor and the sirup put a new aspect upon things, it took on a more roseate aspect, and the next morning after breakfast he went to work carefully distributed along the trail of troublesome vermin. George still continues cheerful.—Indianapolis Journal.

Too Dignified by Half.

Writing lines is the penance Harrow boys do for all their sins, in and out of school. If a boy is late for school, he writes lines; if he misses school, he writes lines. If the lines are not finished at a stated time, their number is doubled. There was one clever boy who escaped writing half the ordered quantity; and the masters tell the story of how he did it to this day. He was an untidy boy and was often taken to task for his carelessness and disorder. One day his master, who had been a lack of system in every branch of the establishment. Pay days were irregular, employees were furloughed frequently, and a spirit of free-and-easy prevailed throughout. Fortunately for the government, Mr. Rounds possessed that peculiar executive ability so necessary to the management of a large business, and this, together with a practical knowledge of every kind of work to be done, enabled him to bring order out of discord in a very short time. During his administration regular pay days were established, the force reorganized, new and improved machinery bought to replace the old, and the entire business of the office thoroughly systematized. Unquestionably, Mr. Rounds was the most effective, popular, and economical public printer who had ever occupied the place.

The present incumbent, Hon. Thos. E. Benedict, has thus far proved himself an efficient organizer, a thorough

The San Juan Pie.

The San Juan pie is by no means of ancient origin. The centennial year ushered the stranger in, and ever since it has been looked upon in the same category with the poem "Beautiful Snow." That is to say, the patentees have taken to the brush, and do not acknowledge their progeny. As built at our bonfires, pies are warranted to keep in any climate and are fire and burglar proof. They are sometimes inclosed by a barbed-wire fence to keep out the cattle, but otherwise are said to be harmless enough unless partaken of too freely by strangers unacquainted with the customs of the country. A tenderfoot loaded with our best brand of pie is always a subject for the surgeon's knife. If he survives the operation he is said to have become acquainted. The foundation for this unique office sprung from a happy thought of the patentee while singing "In but a little fairy flour," and the balance of the structure was completed by chipped appetites, who, mistaking the designs of the master-builder, filled it in with tempery nails, tacks, tin, brass, and other tropical fruit. The plans and specifications of the first structure have been handed faithfully down until even to this day the signs, passwords, and grips of the craft are just like the pie, are always with us. High livers, who have dined with this delicacy, and are the best patrons of our drug stores, hence the crying demand for compound cathartic pills. As a self-binder and reaper it has no superior outside of newly made prairie, and will stick closer to you than the friend of your girlhood. To the unsophisticated within our gates we say beware of the San Juan pie when it is loaded. It is generally served round with some with nothing on but a halter. In all the stores and shops the clerks are in their shirt-sleeves, and in most cases they wear nothing above their white linen trousers but a gauze undershirt. The children up to five or six or even more years of age wear no clothes when about the house, and a naked Chinaman youngster can accumulate dirt enough to start a real estate boom. Most of the workingmen wear their shirts outside of the trousers, and the negro women go about with buckets and baskets and lades upon their heads, wearing a single garment, a loose-fitting Mother Hubbard gown, generally of bright colors, which slips down, uncovering shoulders and bosoms whenever they lower their hands or take down their burdens. But they are highly recognized as human beings.

Passing through a street in our rambles about the poorer part of the city we saw an old black beggar man asleep on the pavement in the hot sun, and his sole garment was a short skirt.

Speaking of beggars. Of course, under such a condition of things as exists in Havana, there are many of them. There are a great many more to bother you when you sit in front of the hotel. But they are nothing in numbers, nothing by old Havana, compared with the beggarly array of a Liverpool hotel, or, so far as numbers go, anywhere in Ireland.

The beggar-girls merely hold out their hands and pitifully coo you with their wonderful eyes. Articulate speech is a poor resource compared with the eyes. One barefooted, dark-skinned little vagabond, held out her dirty little paw to me and gave me such a look. It was a prayer, a petition, it was full of tears and pleadings, it was full of weariness, hope, and untold woe. She said only, "Ah, mister, mister," and about a mured all sorts of buenos, and chequitos, and bonitos, or something of the sort, as a matter of course. Her eyes spoke as carefully distributed along the trail of troublesome vermin. George still continues cheerful.—Indianapolis Journal.

Time Cards of Pine Lake Steamers,
(STANDARD TIME.)
Season of 1887.

Steamer JOSEPH GORDON,
CAPT. LEWIS GUARD.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 5.30, arrive at Boyne City at 6.30, leave Boyne City 8.00, arrive at Charlevoix 12.00.
Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 1.00, arrive at Boyne City 2.30, leave Boyne City 4.00, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.
Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer NORTH STAR,
CAPT. J. M. THOMPSON.

Morning—Leave Carlevoix at 7.00, arrive at East Jordan 8.00, leave East Jordan 8.30, arrive at Charlevoix 11.30.
Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix at 2.00, arrive at East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.
Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer CLARA BELLE,
CAPT. GEO. JENSEN

Morning—Leave Boyne City at 6.30, arrive at Charlevoix 9.15, to connect with the Steamer Leo A. Cummings, for Petoskey. Returning, leave Charlevoix upon the arrival of the Steamer Thomas Friant, at 9.45.
Afternoon—Leave Boyne City at 1.00, returning leave Charlevoix at 3.30, touching at intermediate points.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway;
"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."

Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron and Copper Districts of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections at Marquette with all the lines of the Upper Peninsula.

The territory traversed is famous for its

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

Tickets for sale at all points via this route. For Maps, Folders, Rates and Information address, A. W. ALLEN, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

NO HOME BLESSED WITH A BABY is complete without the monthly visits of BABYHOOD, that delight, comfort and aid of the mother. Only publication in the world devoted to the care of young children. We are glad to recommend it. (5 Beekman St., N. Y.) $1.00 a year; 15 cents a copy.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1887. TIME-CARD 1887.
OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS.

THOMAS FRIANT,
CAPT. A. WINTERNUTE, SR.

Going North Every Morning.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave BLOOMINGDALE at	7.00
CHARLEVOIX	8.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	11.30

Going South Every Afternoon.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	1.30
CHARLEVOIX	4.00
Arrive at BLOOMINGDALE	5.00

LEO A. CUMMINGS,
CAPT. C. L. SNYDER.

Going North Every Morning.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	7.00
CHARLEVOIX	9.00
PETOSKEY	11.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	11.30

Going South Every Afternoon.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	1.00
PETOSKEY	2.00
CHARLEVOIX	4.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	5.00

Baggage and Freight Carried at Low Rates.

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Sash, Doors, and Blinds
Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.
Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.
A GOOD STOCK OF
PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING
FLOORING, CEILING, AND FRAMING LUMBER ON HAND.
Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.
Summer Cottages a Specialty.
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,
Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.
TERRACE FARM, - - CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PERRY WEED
DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's
Footwear
Of Every Description, at
FOX & MILLER'S,
Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.
☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

A Pain of Life.

"Through the wild Ballet of our fevered time
The music of Heaven's mouth, grave and chaste,
Sounds sometimes like a dirge, but ever the Tedious which our worn, wearied age concedes,
Unchanged, through all the long unnumbered years,
The voice of Homer sings the song divine,
While the Iliad, pale, of heroes' tears,
And of the punishment of Troja's line.

The battle in the plain is raging yet
The warriors blade, the lead's deaths imp
In the shock of spears
For us the fray is long ago
Ah! just do we begin to say they fought of yore
Yet, we, too, like the heroes long ago
Must wage some weary war against the bitter sea;
Pierce to the quick, and wrench out the barbed spear
And the waves roar and rage unceasingly
Still must we wander over the stormy main Twixt rocks and whirlpools a steel passage make Still must the Sirens sing to us in vain;
Still from the tales of Circe must we break.

Turn, then, to Homer's Psalm of Life, and see
How they endured, whose plaintive song is dead;
And hear the message they have left for them!
Only by Patience is the victory won.
—Macmillan's Magazine.

PICTURES OF CUBAN LIFE.

Scantiness of Dress—Importunate and Thankless Beggars.

The carelessness in regard to dresses causes some exhibitions that are at first a little startling to people of a colder clime. But after the novelty of anything else in life ordained by man, is gone considerably, and people have the "chain." We all know, of course, that the Greeks and Romans were at the highest point of civilization when the garment ever reached, descended it is sin and outrage for man or woman to "hide the beautiful limbs the gods had given them." In Havana it is not a matter of beautiful limbs, but of comfort, and the higher class of people think no more of it than people elsewhere wear the baby on her head nearly fell off, and held to the hand of the modest old lady, who, with her eyes on the ground, was the center of observation, and the amused smile of the young girl red in the face and looked painfully embarrassed.

The old, sweet bastard Latin of the Spanish tongue is as superior to the Anglo-Saxon in begging as it is in lovemaking. It is very hard in any extremes of poverty or misery to offend, but it is remarkable that he has received a pretty strong, that free acquaintance to cold-shoulder the importunate, with the alacrative of an entire absence from town of the persuasive most interested in the jingle.—London Society.

Jacksonville, Fla., is paving its deeply sandy streets with wooden blocks, carved out by steam saw-mills right in town.

MISSING LINKS.

It is asserted that thirty languages are spoken by the learned residents of Boston.

The Empress Eugenie is said to be contemplating a tour through the United States, traveling incognito.

Prince Albert Victor, oldest son of the Prince of Wales, wears the tallest collars of any young man in England.

In Lacey, Ga., there is living a full-blooded negro who has a skin as white as that of the most immaculate Caucasian.

One of the finest specimens of the cork bark oak in California is growing in Visalia. It was planted about thirty years ago.

Col. Fred Grant's resemblance to his father increases with his years. He is said to resemble his father also in his fondness for smoking.

Even the ministers at San Louis Obispo, Cal., are going into the real-estate business, and they are usually successful in their speculations.

There are a thousand undertakers in New York, and only seven hundred butcher a week for them to bury—less than a corpse a week for each man in the trade.

New York contains 26,500 acres, 12,100 of which are on the island of Manhattan. This is about 41½ square miles. Brooklyn covers 15,337 acres, about 23 square miles.

The oldest son of the German Crown Prince is as strong, as good looking as Bismarck himself. He refuses even to drink champagne, and will drink only German wines.

Miss Florence Groff is the first American woman who has had the honor of being appointed a pupil of the School for Oriental Languages (Arabic and Persian) in Paris.

A. J. Drexel, Philadelphia's millionaire banker, has built a Greek temple of exquisitely carved white Italian marble to be used as a mausoleum. The floor is seven feet thick.

General Annenkoff, who is building the Russian Railroad in Bokhara, is a man of fifty-five years, full of vigor, energy, and hope. His wife is less than half his age, and is a very wealthy German lady.

A few days ago the historical works of the late M. Michelet, the French historian, were put up for sale at the Hôtel Drouot, Paris. They were finally knocked down to the historian's widow for the sum of $46,000.

Oscar Wilde's mother is in no immediate danger of the poor-house, as recently reported. She entertains freely at her London residence, and her latest work, "Irish Folk-lore and Fairies," will yield her $5,000 to $6,000.

John McCarty is the oldest bootblack in New York, having occupied a stand near the Astor House for twenty-eight years. He has over $20,000 in bank and a house and lot in Jersey, and is a shining example of the virtues of industry and economy.

M. Katkof editor of the Moscow Gazette, who rules Russia, Czar and all, receives but three a day and writes all the editorial matter that appears in his journal. Besides this, he reads all the newspapers and perhaps consumes much of the routine work of the office.

Prof. Richard A. Proctor, the eminent scientist and astronomer, is here after to be a citizen of Florida, having purchased a tract of land on Orange Lake. He says the lower atmosphere there is so clear and pure that constellations stand out in wonderful brilliancy.

The Rev. Jo. Cook proposes to start a journal which shall be "removed totally from the influences of money and popularity." The difficulty of running a newspaper on faith will be a little novel, if not unique. Subscribers will only be required to pay in their minds.

Mr. Charles H. Sprint of Baltimore, has in his possession a curious old copy of George Washington's will. It is printed on Jeweskrin in 1800, and consists of thirty odd clearly printed, but time-stained, pages. It makes very interesting reading and is a curious paper.

A deaf and dumb printing-office has been opened at Berlin for the purpose of instructing deaf mutes in the art preservative. It has taken the form of a private institution, where the boys will also be cared for in case of sickness and their general education looked after.

Joseph Rabbitt, a fireman at the Central House in St. Louis, has fallen heir to $5,000,000 by the death of his uncle, who named Joseph Rabbitt, at Mullingar, Ireland, as one of the species of Australian Rabbit whose rapid multiplication would be immensely popular in this country.

In Humboldt county, California, one man is employed exclusively in killing coyotes. The board of supervisors passed an ordinance to the effect that a coyote carcass, when properly presented to the justice of the peace, is worth $10 in county script. It is understood how often the same carcass can be presented for the justice's passes.

The most healthful temperature for the human body to live in, says a writer in the Popular American, is between 70 degrees Fahrenheit. The room must also be kept heated in a manner the breadraughts will be found. Especially beat the halls; it will not take so much coal, and will avoid the use of your heaters or stoves, and enable you to keep easy office.

An Indian child born recently in Big Valley Shasta county, California, is possessed of six well-formed toes on each foot and the same number of fingers on each hand, besides having both sides of its face covered with hair. The mother gave birth to a child about a year ago marked in a similar manner. But it sickened and died, and this last is in a fair way of taking the same road.

At Ausonia, Conn., a few days ago a clergyman married a couple and afterward discovered that the license had been issued in another town. In great perturbation over what he considered an illegal marriage, he hunted up the couple, who thought they were living in lawful wedlock, and insisted upon marrying them again in the proper town.

Another change in the tastes of the book loving public has been discovered by the acute English publishers. Instead of the dry character-picturing fiction, the age demands a more vigorous and more imaginative form of literature. The demand is for novels of incident, novels of the romantic school. There is a reaction against the realistic and bad chaos to a wide, fierce north Tibet, nine degrees west seven chains to a stake on the said north and south quarter line, thence south forty-two degrees west four and half chains to a stake, thence north Tibet, nine degrees west seven chains to a stake on the said north and south quarter line, thence south thirty-two, thence north sheep said quarter line, thence south forty-two degrees west to the place of beginning—containing four and fifty-hundredths acres of land, more or less, and the south-west quarter of the southwest quarter of section thirty-two, town thirty-three north of range five west, all in the township of Evelina, Charlevoix county, Michigan; excepting and reserving therefrom, and to the said grantor, its successors and assigns, the right of water privilege, and the right of way for the purpose of taking water from the said premises, and the right of way for the purpose of taking water from the said premises, and the right of way for the purpose of taking water from the said premises

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

$1.50 PER YEAR.

Tennyson's Jubilee Ode.

Queen's "Carmen Saeculare:" Ode for the Jubilee of Queen V.

I.

Times the rose has flowered, times the golden harvest fall since Queen assumed the sceptre.

II.

Blessed for a kindliness shown in fable or history, loved as the Empress of India, loved as the Queen of Freedom, ruler where law is a worship, ruler with prosperous auguries dawn at last to the bounteous evening year of her jubilee.

III.

Glory of the lawless, of the despotic of the vulgar, or valorous, glorious, gentle, great, and good!

IV.

Queen loyally, all of you, your houses, illuminate your towns for a festival, each, not a multitude, each, to the heart of it, broken by no quarrel, at most a rose commemorative year of her jubilee.

V.

Queen true to womanhood and wife, the glories of her people shared with the sorrows of their

VI.

Queen not wanton in affluence, but rather to be bountiful, Queen poor to repair with your abundance the ruin of neighborhood health, Queen good to the hospital, Queen to be comforted, touched by the touch of sorrow, satisfied in the inner rejoicing of her jubilee.

VII.

Queen, if years are all in shadow, Queen Edward's fifty fortunate's fifty half forgotten.

VIII.

Queen, the patriot architect, Queen, the absolutely universal, made it really gorgeous, Queen Imperial, halfdate, Rich in symbol, in ornament, in ceremony, in pageantry, Queen! All the world loves a lover. Of this year of her jubilee.

IX.

Fifty years of ever-brightening commerce, fifty years of ever-heightening arts, fifty years of ever-widening empire!

X.

Queen, the mighty, the fortunate Queen, the rich in virtue, Queen, the best-manufacturer, Queen, the hardy, laborious, Patient children of Albion, Queen, Canada, Indian, Australian, African, Queen, the Queen of the harmony, All your voices in unison, Singing, "Hail to the glorious Golden year of her jubilee!"

XI.

Are there thunders meaning in the Are there spectres moving in the dark? Fear the Lord of Light to guide us Till the thunders pass, the spectre and the lights is where, and the day Dawns into the jubilee of the age.

EARTHQUAKES.

Queer Theories That Have Been Bedeviling Them by Superstitious People.

In the course of a lecture recently before the Bigakn Science society, of Tokio, on Earthquakes, Prof. Milne theories as to the cause phenomena into three kinds—quasi-scientific, and a former class he include ideas of the negro preacher after the late earthquake, that they occurred in consequence of the wickedness of the people. The Mussulmans in olden times ascribed the volcano eruptions to the workings, at the instigation of the devil. Earthquakes are the consequence of wickedness is a very common one. Earthquakes were felt in Japan, which were thought to be the cause, and in olden times people preached, during the shock, that if mankind would be good there would be no earthquakes. In 1786 the people were quite sure about a volcano looking exceedingly like an Indian wigwam. The disturbances were unknown in the days of the Mosaic dispensation, when the shaking of the tridents of the Impious feet with impatient rage on the guilty earth were for her behoof.

Earthquakes, which occasion the poet him to the mystic shakes to a creed. In Japan the insect cover and having eight legs great fish having a certain room which helped to keep him in. Scholls the animal was a snail, in India the world-bearer, in the Bolebea a world-hog, in North America a turtle, in Siberia there was a myth, with the great bones found in Siberia were the remains of a race that lived undergrowing, of which made the Kamchatka the land inhabited with a god. Tell the latter stopped to scratch his ear, their movements earthquakes. In Scandinavia Loki, having killed his brother, was bound in a hard, so that the poison should drop on his face, however, intercepted in a vessel, and it was only to go away to empty the few drops reached him and to writhe and shake the earth. The lecturer had no mean ridicule the fables of the south, but they would be worth knowing for purpose. As to quasi-scientific, these endeavored to earthquakes as parts of the operations of nature. It was, for instance, that they caused by the action of wind inside the earth. The Chinese philosophers said that Yang, the heat, entered the earth and to expand and shake the efforts to escape. Its effect more violent beneath the than in the plains, and therefore quakes in the north of China mountainous, were said violent beneath the mounts those in the south. It was that when the wind was strongly on the surface of the

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX. - - MICHIGAN.

Expensive Legislation

The JOURNAL May 5th called attention to the sluggish manner in which our legislature was serving the people, and the small amount of work accomplished at so great an expense. Since then the Detroit papers, following the suggestion of the JOURNAL, have been agitating the subject somewhat. Finally the Evening News reporter last week went throught the records in the auditor general's office and published the following result:

Legislatures come high, particularly when the session drags out toward the dog days. An inspection of the records of the auditor general's office shows the present session has already cost the state $100,000. As 200 laws have been framed, this makes an average cost of $500 per law. It is likely that the total cost to the state will reach $150,000 before members make it really gorgeous, some imperial habitude. Rich in symbol, in ornament, in ceremony, in pageantry. Queen! All the world loves a lover. Of this year of her jubilee.

IX.

Fifty years of ever-brightening commerce, fifty years of ever-heightening arts, fifty years of ever-widening empire!

X.

You, the mighty, the fortunate Queen, the rich in virtue, You, the best-manufacturer, You, the hardy, laborious, Patient children of Albion, You, Canadian, Indian, Australian, African, All your voices in unison, Singing, "Hail to the glorious Golden year of her jubilee!"

XI.

Are there thunders meaning in the Are there spectres moving in the dark? Fear the Lord of Light to guide us Till the thunders pass, the spectre and the lights is where, and the day Dawns into the jubilee of the age.

EARTHQUAKES.

Queer Theories That Have Been Bedeviling Them by Superstitious People.

In the course of a lecture recently before the Bigakn Science society, of Tokio, on Earthquakes, Prof. Milne theories as to the cause phenomena into three kinds—quasi-scientific, and a former class he include ideas of the negro preacher after the late earthquake, that they occurred in consequence of the wickedness of the people. The Mussulmans in olden times ascribed the volcano eruptions to the workings, at the instigation of the devil. Earthquakes are the consequence of wickedness is a very common one. Earthquakes were felt in Japan, which were thought to be the cause, and in olden times people preached, during the shock, that if mankind would be good there would be no earthquakes. In 1786 the people were quite sure about a volcano looking exceedingly like an Indian wigwam. The disturbances were unknown in the days of the Mosaic dispensation, when the shaking of the tridents of the Impious feet with impatient rage on the guilty earth were for her behoof.

Earthquakes, which occasion the poet him to the mystic shakes to a creed. In Japan the insect cover and having eight legs great fish having a certain room which helped to keep him in. Scholls the animal was a snail, in India the world-bearer, in the Bolebea a world-hog, in North America a turtle, in Siberia there was a myth, with the great bones found in Siberia were the remains of a race that lived undergrowing, of which made the Kamchatka the land inhabited with a god. Tell the latter stopped to scratch his ear, their movements earthquakes. In Scandinavia Loki, having killed his brother, was bound in a hard, so that the poison should drop on his face, however, intercepted in a vessel, and it was only to go away to empty the few drops reached him and to writhe and shake the earth. The lecturer had no mean ridicule the fables of the south, but they would be worth knowing for purpose. As to quasi-scientific, these endeavored to earthquakes as parts of the operations of nature. It was, for instance, that they caused by the action of wind inside the earth. The Chinese philosophers said that Yang, the heat, entered the earth and to expand and shake the efforts to escape. Its effect more violent beneath the than in the plains, and therefore quakes in the north of China mountainous, were said to violent beneath the mounts those in the south. It was that when the wind was strongly on the surface of the

MICHIGAN MENTION.

Losses by forest fires in the upper peninsula have reached nearly $4,000,000, up to this date.

A 12-year-old Bay City girl named Grinnell jumped so hard one day last week that she died from internal injuries.

The six year old son of E. H. Foote, of Traverse City, was drowned last Wednesday by falling into the river accidently.

The state signal service office at Lansing will be made a full report ing station in the United States service after June 1.

The university engineering class leaves next week for a trip to Charlevoix, to take some practice in field work.—Evening News.

A fire last Friday at Lake Linden a village in the upper peninsula, destroyed nearly $2,000,000 of property, and left 300 families homeless.

Andrew Martin, of Chandler, Charlevoix county, killed a 400-pound bear recently while out hunting for his cows.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

Kalkaska has a box factory which will give employment to about fifteen hands. It is expected to have it in running order in about ninety days.

Elk Rapids and Charlevoix are to have a "sure enough" railroad in the near future and they are happy, as well they might be.—Leelanaw Enterprise.

Another boy and a hatchet removed one of Harry Somerville's eyes at Manistee, Monday. Both lads are six years old and learning something every day.

Grand Haven has two rival ball clubs, one called the Paris Greens and the other the Potato Bugs. It is needless to say the Paris Green club is a deadly enemy of the Potato Bugs.

The bill to prohibit the use of stoves in cars passed both houses and is now a law. This is an excellent measure and will help to decrease the chances of fire during railroad accidents.

President Cleveland has been invited to attend the semi-centennial anniversary of the Michigan university in June. A number of the leading college presidents are expected to be present, as well as other notables.

The steamer Faxton, of Traverse City arrived about 10 o'clock yesterday and unloaded some 200 barrels of flour. She also delivered a quantity at Thompson. The managers of that boat have fitted her up in good style, and just as soon as the railroad is completed to Charlevoix she will run regularly between that place and this.—Manistique Pioneer.

The Petoskey fish hatchery will send out a special car the latter part of this month with eight or nine million wall-eyed pike. They are especially adapted for and will be principally planted in the southern part of the state. The car will take the G. R. & I. from here to Sturgis; from there they will pass through Branch, Hillsdale, Jackson, Lenawee, and Washtenaw counties to Ypsilanti; planting in all the principal lakes and rivers in those counties.—Petoskey Democrat.

Mrs. Walter S. Meade, of Adrian, evidently has beaten the physicians. About a year ago she was taken ill and suffered excruciatingly for months. During the winter her numerous cure by faith was heralded over the country, and the physician laughed. They said the woman was suffering from an incurable disease, and that as soon as the excitement was past she would die. Mrs. Meade declared that her "God could save without excitement," and she continued to improve. Last Sunday week Mrs. Meade united with the Methodist church of Adrian, as well as ever, and still firmly of the opinion that faith cured her body.—Detroit Journal.

There is not an unmarried woman in Turkey who can both read and write the Turkish language, and there are but few men who are able to do so. It requires six years of hard study to acquire these accomplishments. When you hear of a Turk with the title bey prefixed to his name you may know that he is one of the few educated men in that country, as the title is only conferred upon those who can both read and write.

Hunting on Horseback.

A few days since in riding across the up-country, near the mountains, I started a jack-rabbit, and soon we were taking things as they came, through a last year's cornfield. I knew there was a small canyon ahead, and by a little maneuvering I brought the jack to my left and fired my right barrel, making the fur fly, and that was all, pace over the ground being too much for good shooting; but almost the moment I fired, and before I could lead the horse for the wounded jack, a large roadrunner, the finest I have ever seen, darted up, with the peculiar lurching leap directly under my horse's nose, who became as excited, not to speak of the rider, that she bolted ahead with such a rush that, in the confusion, I aimed and attempted to fire my left barrel without cocking, a difficult feat, and before I could correct the error my faithful mare had stopped on the edge of the little canyon, perhaps twenty-five feet deep, into which the magnificent bird plunged like an arrow, and was gone.

Shooting from horseback at full speed is, to my mind, a sport to be encouraged, combining more excitement and pleasure than anything I have seen yet in this country. Shooting jack-rabbits on foot is well enough, often giving plenty of amusement to the animals, and, again, being rather monotonous when they are plentiful; but to shoot a rabbit at full speed across country, letting your horse enter into the sport, and shouting or firing on the dead run, contains more of the elements of true sport than anything I have found in Southern California.—San Francisco Call.

Some Venerable Oaks.

During the past two months there have been a large number of oak trees felled in this city, as time has decayed them or they were in the way of public improvements, and some residents were impressed with the idea that the shade they gave to the premises by many was healthy, and for this cause were cut away.

These oaks were huge and venerable and constituted old landmarks, and it is said may date back from the forests by the early settlers—the Doggetts, Harts, Palmers, Hogans, Pointsette, Ferrises.

There were also some planted by present citizens in the early days of Jacksonville. In a few years' time there will be probably not one of these standing. With their departure the last vestige of anything of a rural character will go. They afforded splendid picnic facilities, they were pleasant retreats for children and adults, but their glory has departed—they have outlived their usefulness. The inexorable march of progress of the city compelled their removal. Their loss is felt, even if handsome cottages have sprung up in their places.—Florida Herald.

An Expensive Bit of Brag.

In a leading restaurant in St. Petersburg six officers of the Imperial Horse Guards sat recently, it is stated, drinking champagne. Not far from them sat an insignificant little man, with a shabby coat and an inkempt beard, and a glass of liquor in front of him. It was not long before he became aware that he was being ridiculed by the officers aforesaid. By-and-by, as they became more offensive in their remarks on his personal appearance, the cheapness of what he was drinking, etc., he called for the waiter and said: "Bring me six bottles of your best champagne." The waiter hesitated. "Did you not hear what I said?" asked the little man. The waiter brought the wine and six glasses. "Take these glasses away and fetch a basin—one as large as you can find." The waiter again hesitated, but obeyed instantly at the peremptory repetition of the order. "A piece of soap," was the next order. It was brought. "A towel." The waiter handed him one. "Now open the bottles." The waiter did so. The little man now filled the basin with the contents of the six bottles, rolled up his sleeves, washed himself in the costly fluid, wiped his hands, laid a 10 ruble note on the table, and, casting a look of withering contempt upon the officers, strutted out of the room.—London Standard.

In Washington territory the Indians have an ingenious scheme by which they kill a large number of deer with but very little trouble. Taking some old blankets they fasten them at short intervals upon the bushes, making a long line of bushes so covered. Then taking in a large area of timber, they gradually close in on the frightened deer. When the animals have reached the line of blankets they travel around in a circle like a whirlpool, refusing to pass the line of blankets. This enables the Indians to kill them as rapidly as they please.

Lord Lonsdale is writing an account of his experiences of America.

AYER'S PILLS. Sugar-Coated Cathartic

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia. —G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Dowsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured. —Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Dunlap, Durham, Me.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would nail a dead cat the disease became s worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored. —Theodore Koiner, Richmond, Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Portable Boiler

FOR SALE.

Twelve feet long, 24 feet shell, 4 feet wood; in perfect order, good and cheap. Address

E. E. ALLEN,
Charlevoix, Mich.

200tf

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 26, 1897.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

Advertisers are requested to hand in their favors before six o'clock Wednesday evening each week, to avoid the hurry of publication day.

☞ We have just received a large invoice of Ironstone China Dishes, Glass ware, and Crockery.

WILL SEE & CO.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

☞ Come in and see our new stock of Francis Folsom Cleveland glassware. WILL SEE & CO.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

Additional local on eighth page.

G. A. Cook received a new dray last Saturday.

Mrs. G. W. Miller returned from Chicago on the Lawrence last Friday.

Thomas J. Hill has moved his family to Frankfort; for the summer, at least.

The board of review are in session to-day and to-morrow at the village clerk's office.

Gus. Brown had his new house painted this week. Chas. Swallow did the work.

Chas. Graves has painted James Inwood's house; also G. W. Miller's store front this week.

The propeller Van Raalte came into the harbor Monday for slight repairs at Campbell's yard.

Jacob Keller, of East Jordan, brought five draft horses from Chicago last week by the Lawrence.

C. S. Brown, representing the Chicago Newspaper Union, made the JOURNAL a call last Saturday.

A. T. Washburne & Co. advertise a grand opening of summer goods, Friday, Saturday and Monday.

H. Lee Iddings returned Friday from his visit in southern Michigan accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Gale.

Miss Josie Litzan has been engaged to teach a two months term of school in district No. 2, in Bear Lake township.

The Lawrence Monday brought an hose cart with hose to the Pine Lake Lumber Company for protection against fire.

Tripp & Stevens have just received a new supply of the Peerless plow, and expects to hereafter be able to supply the demand.

A tea cent lunch will be served by the M. E. ladies in the Sentinel building on decoration day from 10 a. m. till night. Ice cream also on sale.

Henry Aldrich has accepted a position as book-keeper for F. S. Kildsan, a grocer of Cadillac, and has left the Faxton, and gone to that place.

The general association of Congregational churches of the state at its annual meeting in Lansing last week, moderator E. T. Waterman assistant moderator Gen. B. M. Cutcheon was moderator.

The Northern Michigan Line of propellors, Champlain and Lawrence, commenced this week to run on their schedule time. The Champlain will arrive from Chicago Thursday night and the Lawrence Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. C. M. Buzzell left on Monday for her home at Port Clinton, Ohio. She was accompanied by Miss Mable and Fred Green. Miss Mable goes with her to her home while Fred spends six weeks with relatives at Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cruickshank have the heartfelt sympathy of all, in the decease of Don, their only son, of thirteen months, who died last Friday morning. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the home, which friends had endeavored to brighten by gifts of beautiful flowers. A few years ago these parents sustained a similar loss in the death of their son Lyle, a manly little boy of five, and now to be again thus bereft is indeed a sorrow.

The Van Raalte now on her route between Harbor Springs and Manistique, leaving Harbor Springs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 7 o'clock; returning, leaves Manistique Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 7 o'clock.

Jacob Weyburn has procured the necessary apparatus of C. N. Shaw, of Petoskey, for polishing lines collars and cuffs, and is now prepared to do first class work in that line. We have tried the work and know it to be equal to that done in Grand Rapids.

Hannah Lay & Co., have sold their large propeller City of Traverse to parties in the upper peninsula, and will be taken from the Chicago route, and put into the Lake Superior trade. Negotiations are also pending for the sale of the City of Grand Rapids, which will probably be consummated soon.

Printing both sides of the JOURNAL at home is not our choice but our necessity, and failure to receive our ready-print insides is one of the emergencies we must provide for in this way until regular trains on the D. C. & E. R. R. shall bring our paper promptly and regularly. We live in hope.

J. W. Barnes has obtained a contract to clear and fence four miles of railroad, leading south of the cattle guard that side of the depot. Contracts for clearing and fencing the entire distance from Mancelona to Petoskey have been taken up and the work will be pushed with at once. —Boyne Falls Gazette.

The propellor T. S. Faxton has been sold by Hannah Lay & Co., to the Mackinac Transportation Co., composed of the three railroad companies terminating at the straits, and was delivered Tuesday. She will run between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace in connection with the steamer Algomah. The purchase price of the Faxton was $13,000.

On our second page this week will be found a very interesting description of the origin, growth and present management of the government printing office, written by Mr. J. V. Johnson, formerly a democratic editor of this state, but now connected with that office. Mr. Johnson is an able writer, and we can rely on his observation and judgment when he mentions a fact or expresses an opinion.

Of the bell-ringers who are to be here June 7th, the Grand Haven Herald has the following: "Grand Haven has rarely been favored with more pleasurable, versatile, and highly gratifying entertainments than those given on Monday and Tuesday evening at the opera house by the Royce Swiss Bell ringers. Every feature of the profuse, recherche and unique program was of the most entertaining and pleasure inspiring character, and the performance throughout held the rapt interest of the large interest of the large and appreciative audience present. To make particular mention of all the specialties of this grand and varied entertainment worthy of such distinction would be to cover the entire program.

Memorial Services.

HEADQUARTERS
BAXTER POST NO. 119, G. A. R.,
Charlevoix, Mich., May 24, 1897.

(Circular No. 7.)

1. In accordance with a unanimous vote of Baxter Post, G. A. R., at its last meeting, all members of said post are hereby ordered to assemble at the Bridge Street House on Sunday, May 30, 1897, at ten o'clock a. m. sharp, for the purpose of attending memorial services in a body at the M. E. church.

2. The committee on memorial services have perfected the arrangements for a proper observance of memorial day, and every old soldier and sailor of the late war, whether a member of our post or not, is cordially invited to join us at the opera house on next Monday at ten o'clock a. m., and aid in doing honor to the cause and to ourselves.

By order of E. H. GREEN,
C. B. GLASS, Commander.
Adjutant.

Ironton M. E. Charge.

There will be preaching at the Ironton M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening.

J. T. IDDINGS.

Evelina.

Seeding is almost done.

Potatoes planting is the order of the day.

W. H. Jarman was on the sick list last week.

Peter Tuttle was at Boyne City this week.

Our ferryman R. A. Miller finds lots to do these days.

Charles Bedwin contemplates starting up his store at Bedwin in a couple of weeks.

John Smith has returned from St. Ignace. He says that they did not feed him good.

Frank Cater, Jr., of Grand Rapids, but formerly of this place, returned last Saturday for a visit.

Mr. G. McDonald has thrown up his contract for 40 acres of land, which he made with Mr. Parker last fall.

Miss Jennie Denver, of Canada, is visiting her sister Mrs. G. McDorald, of Evelina. She expects to remain through the summer season.

A letter received from Geo. Jarman states that he and Bob Newson are at work in a tie camp in the upper peninsula, on the Minneapolis rail road. Bob has a job of cooking, and George is chore boy.

The following are the crew on the tug Bob Stevenson: Capt. A. H. Bennett, of Charlevoix, will ring the bells; Mr. Marshall of Traverse City, will handle the throttle, and John Stewart, of Ironton, fireman.

The Charlevoix teachers association met at Ironton last Friday evening, and Saturday forenoon. It was a grand success in every feature. The kindergarten work by Mrs. Pope, of Ironton, was well rendered. Also the select reading by Miss May Waterbury, of Charlevoix. The association then adjourned but expect to hold another session this fall. Six teachers from Boyne City, and five from Charlevoix were present.

Our highway commissioner Richard Williams, will soon commence work on the road running east from the Ironton ferry. This road is already cut out from the ferry to Sid. Smith's corners a distance of nearly five miles. If we are not misinformed this road will, after leaving Sid. Hayden's corners go east to the beach of Pine lake and then following the beach around to Advance, and to Boyne City When it is fully opened for travel this will be the most practicable route from Ironton to Advance and Boyne City. It is said through a very level tract of country, and entirely avoids the large hills which have so long been a terror to the traveling public east from Ironton.

May 24.

Wilson.

Fires have been raging recently but a delightful shower on Sunday last nearly quenched them.

Mr. I. Bartlett and sister, Mrs. Rogers, of East Jordan, called on Mr. and Mrs. Vance one day last week.

Miss Prudie Scofield spent a few days in Boyne last week, visiting relatives and old friends.

Mr. Frank Votruba, of Traverse City, was a guest of his sister, Mrs. D. Shepherd, on Sunday last.

Messrs. W. F. Empey and W. Palmiter were seen on our streets on Thursday last.

Mr. Jabez Bowen has been on the sick list, but is recovering. Dr. Foster was in attendance. Also, his grand-daughter, Stella Smith, has been quite ill, but is able to be around again.

We hear that Miss Lottie Moore, who has spent a winter on a sick-bed, and fears had been entertained as to her recovery, is now able to sit up, for which her many friends are thankful.

Mrs. Harp and children left for Lapeer county on Friday last, where they will visit relatives for a few days. Mr. Harp, of Wayne county, their new home, Mr. Harp started on Sunday, with team and buggy, to drive through.

M. E. Church.

Come to the Tuesday evening Bible reading, prepared to take part in the meeting.

Thursday evening prayer meeting as usual, led this week by F. J. Meech.

Sunday morning, theme "National Guards and Dangers." Sunday evening, theme "Quit you like men." Seats free. All invited.

W. H. MCCARTNEY.

WALL PAPER

GOOD-BYE SPRING.

Welcome Summer!

A. T. Washburne & Co.'s

Grand Opening for Summer

WILL OCCUR FRIDAY, SATURDAY, AND MONDAY,

May 27, 28, and 30,

At Which time we shall place on sale an elegant line of all the leading Summer Wash Goods and Fine Wool Suitings. We shall make a specialty of Ladies' Wraps, Jackets, and Shawls. In Shawls from the cheapest 90-cent Cashmere Fringe Scarf to the finest Silk and Wool.

A complete line of the latest styles in PARASOLS will be opened.

If you wish to choose a CARPET, now is the golden opportunity, as we shall show you from the cheapest 20-cent Ingrain to the finest Moquette.

Remember the days: FRIDAY, SATURDAY, and MONDAY, May 27, 28, and 30.

Yours truly,

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Elsworth.

We need rain very much, as everything is drying up.

The mosquitoes have come at last, in swarms.

Well, we feel that we are to have a railroad at last. Ellsworth has been honored by the presence of the surveyors for a week past. Last Saturday night their work was about four miles below us.

Last Friday Mr. Rose started for Bellaire with his steamboat, which now presents a very nice appearance, but he met with so much difficulty on the way down, on account of low water, that he has decided to abandon this lake and run the boat between Bellaire and Elk Rapids. We are sorry to lose the boat, but wish Mr. Rose success on the new route.

May 24th.

Congregational Church.

Rev. William Woodmansee, of Hudson, will conduct the service at the Congregational church Sunday morning. The union services in the evening, will be conducted by Rev. W. G. Clark.

Shipments.

May 19—Schr. J. H. Handy, 50 cedar posts, A. Boyle to Milwaukee.

20—Schr. Jas. Dowall, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Sheboygan.

21—Schr. Sunnyside, 150,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co. to Sheboygan.

22—Schr. Florence M. Smith, 2,400 posts, R. Tullock to Milwaukee.

23—Schr. Louie A. Barton, 200,000 feet hemlock lumber, Perkins & Co., to Milwaukee.

24—Schr. L. B. Shepard, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, 3,500 cedar ties, Glenn & Porter to Chicago.

25—Prop. Mary Pringle, 150,000 feet hardwood lumber, Perkins & White to Detroit.

26—Schr. Adventure, 300,000 feet hardwood lumber, Perkins & White to Detroit.

28—Schr. Sam Gem, 80 cords wood, W. B. Sutton to Milwaukee.

29—Schr. Cascade, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter to Chicago.

☞ Malarial poisons contain the germs of dangerous diseases. If these poisons accumulate in the system, Typhoid, Bilious, Intermittent or Chill Fever is sure to follow. Ayer's Ague Cure is a warranted specific for malaria.

Buy your Butter and Eggs at Emrey Brothers.

Every boat from Chicago brings New Goods for Emrey Brothers.

Good Timothy Hay at Emrey Brothers.

Emrey Bros. have some nice Potatoes for sale.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

Evaporated Apples, splendid and cheap, at Emrey Brothers.

Buy your Flour and Feed of Emrey Brothers.

F. E. WOOD,
BARBER SHOP
And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour of the day and evening.

THE GRAND RAPIDS
DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent post paid at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

ADVERTISERS can find out where to advertise any thing they want in this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

THIS PAPER is on file in the Philadelphia Office of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

From the Baltimore Argus.

Patent Poetry.

[The poems printed from time to time under patent rights, manufactured on the Amazy Poetry machine, double-back action, self-feeding machine, and warranted all wool and a yard wide, and not to warp under a pressure of one ton; 2½ square in the center. All infringements will be vigorously prosecuted.]

THE REPUTATION OF THE DEAD.

Time Dulces et dons Ferentes!—Latin Proverb.

Beware of Dulce! You don't know whose friend he is.—Free Translation.

I had a dream the other night,
When everything else was still;
I dreamed I saw the delegates
Came trooping up for Hill.
From East and West and south and North
The throng together ran,
I heard them whispering as they came
That David was the man!

In crowded hacks they came near mash
Down burning gullets flowed:
In fire banks the faces red
With pain or joy glowed.
But as they drank, and played, and talked,
Through plot, and trade, and plan,
The thought was ever uppermost
That David was the man.

The clubs marched proudly up and down,
Along each crowded street;
The bands their steps keep together kept,
From dry goods box each orator
On others hid the sun,
And told the wild, barnacing mob,
That David was the man.

I must have turned upon my back—
I've heard some people say,
Tall dreams of perfect joy
To nightmares changed that way,
But round the hotel corridors,
My course I then begun,
Thinking that there, as everywhere,
Great David was the man.

But lo! grave men paced to and fro,
And anxious deep were held,
And in every cloud and mack's thrill
Were both alike dispelled,
And on their faces, keen and cold,
I strove to closely scan,
An awful dread my soul o'er spread,
That Hill was not the man!

The morning dawned: convention met,
The issues plain were made;
Of the three parties, the caucuses, the gangs,
Their strongest could had played,
Calm wisdom's voice alone was heard,
I held my breath a span,
Then, as she spoke, I shuddering, woke,
For Cleveland was the man!

Our Natural Resources.

The following from the East Jordan Enterprise will apply to numerous sections of this county, and commend it to the careful consideration of our readers:

It is no uncommon thing to go on our streets and hear some disgusted specimen of humanity cursing the day he came to northern Michigan, just as though northern Michigan was to blame for his failure in life. The trouble is not with the geographical location of the man, it is with the man himself; had he been accidentally located among the rich and fertile plains of a more tropical climate, his natural indolence inactivity and lack of accumulative judgment would naturally lead to the same disposition on his part, to grow at nature and curse the climate.

Northern Michigan presents a favorable field for the industrious to settle, and in all northern Michigan we know of no more favorable point than Charlevoix county. The climate is healthful and invigorating. Fevers and ague are diseases almost unknown; the region is well watered and net-work of small rivers, lakes and springs; the soil is generally adapted to agricultural purposes. Good land is yearly increasing in value. It is at present more than pay for the cost of land. Fuel and building material is cheap and abundant.

There is any amount of good timber land that remains unentered. It can be bought very cheap, from first on resident owners for $1.25 per acre, not speculative purposes, some of which will range from $10.00 per acre, according to location.

The rapid development of this region insures its continued prosperity and steady appreciation in value. No better investment can be made by out-of-doors in the United States than is to be found in Charlevoix county. All it wants is proper development. The fault is not in the climate nor soil; it is in the man, and the class of men who are inclined to curse the country, should learn to curse themselves and not the country.

An experiment of working women's wages which was begun in New York four years ago, has succeeded beyond the expectations of its promoters. In the parent society during the last year there has been an average attendance of 106 members. They rent rooms in the central part of the city. With dues amounting to but one dollar a month, and some extra fees for the payment of teachers, they enjoy privileges which were formerly out of their reach as individuals. Among the institutions which have been established to their advantage by the parent club are many branches that have sprung up in New York and vicinity, including typewriting, music and drawing.

[illegible] million pounds of spanish [illegible] were made in this country [illegible]

THE CHARITY ... RNAL.

$1.50 PER YEAR.

Tennyson's Jubilee

Sweet charmer Secretary
Queen of the Jubilee of Queen

I.

Since the rose has flowered
Since the golden harvest
Queen has seasoned all
Queen.

II.

Sweetheart for a blushing
Queen in fable or history,
Queen, and Empress of India
Queen! do long with a diadem
Queen! wear by a wortbler,
Queen! with prosperous auspices
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! year of her jubilee

III.

Queen of the ladies, of the d
Queen! the vulgar, or valing
Queen, gentle, great, al-
Queen!

IV.

Queen loyally, all of you,
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! lower to a festival
Queen! each let a multitude
Queen! touch, to the heart of Queen! voice of allegiance,
Queen! great ceremonial
Queen! year of her jubilee.

V.

Queen to womanhood

VI.

Queen the glories of her pe
Queen! With the sorrows of Queen!

VI.

Queen! at wanton in affluence
Queen! not now to be boundlessly
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! good to the hospita
Queen! may be comforted,
Queen! may be banqueted,
Queen! Queen! in his heart
Queen! year of her jubilee.

VII.

Queen! are all in the Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! Queen's fifty half fo
Queen!

VIII.

Queen the patriot architect,
Queen! Queen! Queen! memorial,
Queen! is really gorgeous,
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! Which may speak to the cen
Queen! of the centuries after us,
Queen! Of this year of her jubilee.

IX.

Queen! fifty years of ever-broadening c
Queen! fifty years of ever-brightening
Queen! fifty years of ever-blessing on

X.

Queen! You, the mighty, the fortun
Queen! You, the land-aristocracy,
Queen! You, the land-manufacturer,
Queen! You, the Queen's Queen,
Queen! Patient children, Britishes,
Queen! You, Canadian, Indian,
Queen! Australian, African,
Queen! All your hearts be in harmony
Queen! All your voices in unison,
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!
Queen! Queen! Queen! Queen!

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 203. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

Tennyson's Jubilee

Poem, Carmen Saeculare of the Jubilee of Queen Victoria.

I.

Time the rose has flower
Time the golden harvest
Queen of Queens, hail a thousand times!

II.

I believed for a blindness
in fabric or history,
Queen, and Empress of Ind
ow'd no long with a died
Queen when by a worthier,
Queen with prosperous auspices
Queen, and Empress of Ind
ewing year of her jubilee

III.

Queen in the larkiest, of the ge of the vulgar, or vain
Queen, noble, great, at ge

IV.

Queen loyally, all of you
Queen, and Empress of Ind
ter power for a blessing
each let a multitude back, to the heart of voice of allegiance, great ceremonial
gear of her jubilee.

V.

true to womanhood
the glories of her p with the sorrows of

VI.

great nation in affluence
now to be beautiful
Queen, and Empress people's heart good to the hospit
may be comforted,
may be banqueted,
joy in his heart
of her jubilee.

VII.

Queen are all in sh
Queen Victoria's
Queen's fifty half

VIII.

Queen, the patriot architect,
Queen of a daily mon-arch,
palace is really gorgeous,
Queen, the Queen of Ind
ich is symbol, in ornament which may speak to the cen
the centuries after us,
Of this year of her jubilee.

IX.

Fifty years of ever-broadening
Fifty years of ever-brightening
Fifty years of ever-widening em

X.

You, the mighty, the fortu
You, the well-territorial,
You, the lord-manufacturer
You, the merchant-king,
Patient children of Albion,
You, Canadian, Indian,
Australian, African,
All your hearts be in harmo
All your voices in unison,
Singing, "Hail to the glorious
Golden year of her jubilee!"

XI.

Are there thunders meaning in
Are there whispers moving still
From the Lord of Lord, to the
To the thunders pass the spee
And the light is victor, and the Dawns into the jubilee of the a

EARTHQUAKE

Queer Theories That Have Been Forming Them by Super-stitious People.

In the course of a lecture recently before the Elgin Science society, of Toronto, on earthquakes, Prof. Miln said: Among the ancients earthquakes were held to be the result of the president of the world and said: "Mr. ——, if you want to sign this contract you can do it, but I never will." When asked why, he replied: "It is written in aniline ink, which fades, and long before the expiration of this contract this document will be entirely faded and practically worthless." The result was the return of the contract, with a request that hereafter all important documents, the preservation of which is desirable, should be written in ink that would not fade.

During Czar Peter's term as president one of his cabinet officers discovered that the records of an important branch of one of the departments had been for two years written in purple ink. It had at once based an order forbidding its use in the department, purchased a new set of books into which two years' records were copied, and thus saved what in a few years would otherwise have been lost. It is one of the problems of chemistry to find something which will make permanent the beautiful aniline colors, but thus far all efforts have failed.

It is growing more and more the custom to have deeds, contracts, and valuable documents printed on a type-writer in aniline ink. This is a great mistake, because in a few years they are sure to be obliterated.—American Grocer.

Theodore Tilton to Be Married.

The report that Theodore Tilton is coming back from Europe seems to be well founded. He has lived in Paris for eight or ten years. It is said that there is a woman in the case. She is Mrs. Louise Curtis Bullard, who inherited a fortune from the family proprietary medicine known as Mrs. Winslow's soothing syrup. She was an extremely fascinating woman, of high position in New York City society, with whom Mr. Tilton became infatuated, and whom he followed abroad, where she has been living for years. It is said that he has been so poor at times on account of his Bohemianism that he has been obliged to draw upon Mrs. Bullard's purse for subsistence, and now that she has returned to New York he is coming back in her train.—New York Letter.

It is estimated that foreigners own not 25,000,000 acres of land in this country.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 26, 1887.

Additional Local.

Teacher's Institute.

The state teachers' institute for Charlevoix county will be held at Boyne City, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., Monday, June 6, and closing at 4 p. m., Friday, June 10. Mr. R. L. Corbett, Boyne City, local committee.

The value of the instruction received at these Institutes is being very generally recognized by teachers and school officers. As a rule, it has been the experience of county examiners and other examining officers, that the most successful teachers are those who have availed themselves of the normal instruction offered by these local institutes.

The daily sessions of the institutes for this year will, as heretofore, be devoted exclusively to topics of special interest to teachers, presented by persons of extended practical experience as teachers, and who have made a special study of institute work. The evening lectures will be of a popular character.

The institute law allows teachers, whose schools are in session at the time appointed for the county institute, half under the direction of the state superintendent, to close their schools during the continuance of such institute without forfeiting their wages for as many half days as they are in attendance at the institute. This provision of law, and the fact that there will be no tuition or enrollment fee exacted, should insure the attendance of every teacher in the county who possesses the true professional spirit.

Full particulars in regard to board, etc., may be obtained upon application to the local committee.

JOSEPH ESTABROOK,
Supt. of Public Instruction.
Dept. of Public Instruction.
Lansing, Mich., 1887.

Aniline Ink.

I was chatting the other day with the vice-president of one of the trunk lines of railway when a messenger entered with an important contract, having twenty-one years to run. It was a traffic agreement with a competing line, and was a very valuable document. It happened to be written with a typewriter using aniline ink. Upon seeing this he positively refused to sign the paper. He then took the contract to the president of the road and said: "Mr. ——, if you want to sign this contract you can do it, but I never will." When asked why, he replied: "It is written in aniline ink, which fades, and long before the expiration of this contract this document will be entirely faded and practically worthless." The result was the return of the contract, with a request that hereafter all important documents, the preservation of which is desirable, should be written in ink that would not fade.

During Czar Peter's term as president one of his cabinet officers discovered that the records of an important branch of one of the departments had been for two years written in purple ink. It had at once based an order forbidding its use in the department, purchased a new set of books into which two years' records were copied, and thus saved what in a few years would otherwise have been lost. It is one of the problems of chemistry to find something which will make permanent the beautiful aniline colors, but thus far all efforts have failed.

Papier Mache.

"A dollar you can't tell me what that match-box is made of," said Dick, handing the object to his friend, Harry Dolt.

"Don't bet, in the first place," replied Harry, "and don't care in the second. Stone all a man wants to know is if it'll hold matches and isn't too big for his pocket."

"Never saw such a fellow as you in my life. I'm sure that if the last judgment was announced on good authority for noon, sharp, tomorrow, you'd take it as a matter of course."

"Why not? When I run up against the inevitable I try to manage things so as not to get concussion of the brain. Is there anything so startling as your supposed announcement in that match-box?"

"Did you ever see a piece of polished ebony as light as that?"

"Polished pancakes! It's nothing but papier mache. Any child can tell that."

"Perhaps so. But, admitting the fact, there is a child of almost six-and-twenty solid winters in front of me who can't tell how papier mache is made"

"I'm very much given to minding my own business, and the making of papier mache is no part of it. But I think it is open question whether you could accurately describe the process yourself. By the way, why does it interest you?"

"I have the prosperity of Pittsburgh at heart. Some people seem to think that all we can or ought to do here is to make iron, steel and glass. Now, with our splendid advantages in point of fuel, I think Pittsburgh would be a first-class place for the manufacture of paper car wheels."

"That's quite another matter. Now, I'm resolved to listen. But you want to I love brevity."

"Well, cotton forms the basis of the paper used. The sheets are pasted together with destrine until the mass is thick enough to go under the hydraulic press. There they are squeezed into any desired form, which, when dry, is as hard as and a good deal lighter, bulk for bulk, than any wood."

"Brief enough; go on!"

"This product is peerless, fiberless, sapless, and knotless. It is subjected for twenty-four hours to a high drying heat. Then it can be worked with any kind of tool. The varnishing of it is a mere detail."

"It is from this substance that are manufactured all those bracelets of large black beads studded with Scotch imitation diamonds, all those necklaces, pins, clasps, and trinkets of all sorts that are taken for pitch coal or some precious wood. Again, those handsome bracelets, composed of semi-lucid and opaline globules, that seem to have been cut out of a stone formed by concentric layers, like certain precious stones, are merely of papier mache, cemented with white varnish and coated with the same. So, too, those beautiful macrocus, painted, and gilded trays, round tables, and caskets that are known as Japanese work are merely of papier mache. The Japanese know but one kind of gilding, while we have two—the dull and the brilliant. We have, likewise, a liquid more taken from the scales of the whitefish that will imitate the white enamel and contain transparent pearls. The sauce is solidly inlaid by means of the hydraulic press, and finally the surface is finished with pumice stone to make it perfectly even, and covered with a colorless varnish of the first quality."

"Well, that was worth listening to, for, if I were as much interested in all this kind of stuff as you are I think I'd try and invent something myself."

"Too many patent sharpe around. Wouldn't pay. More fun in letting other fellows do that."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

The Barbers of Persia.

A Persian barber works in a style that is very different from that of contorial practitioners in this country. A typical shop, described by a traveler, was a square room with one side open on the street. In the center was a tiny bed of flowers sunk in the floor, from the middle of which rose an octagonal stone column a yard high. The capital of the column formed a receptacle for the water in which the barber dipped his hand as he shaved his customer's scalp—in Persia they do not lather. On the eastern platform outside the shop sat a burly man whose long beard was being died an orange color. It was full of yellow and (the henna is a paste) and bound up with cabbage leaves to prevent too rapid evaporation. The shop was very clean. On two recesses were displayed four vases filled with flowers, and the implements of the barber's art—razors, razors, lancets, handmirrors, large pincers to extract teeth, bandages to sutorize the arteries in amputating limbs, strong combs, but not a hair brush, for that implement is never used by Persians. From the barber's girdle hung a small copper water bottle, his strop, and a pouch to hold his instruments. In his bosom was a small mirror, the presentation of which to his customer is a sign that the job is finished and that the barber waits for his pay. The barber shaves the heads of his customers, dyes their beards, pulls their teeth, cups and bleeds them when ailing, sets their broken bones, and shampoos their bodies.

There is a "Home for Intemperate Women" in Boston, which has forty-one inmates.

How His Hair Became White.

"Young man to have white hair? Yes, that's so. I'm just turning forty, which is too young to have it so naturally. How did it happen? Well, I don't mind telling you, although the experience was a painful one to me and always makes me shudder when I think of it.

"I was in Boston when I was a young man—that was about twenty—and I wanted to call upon a friend of mine who had an office in one of the Washington street blocks. It was about six stories high, and I found that the room I had to visit was in the fourth story.

"I stepped into the elevator, which, by the way, was not provided with so many improvements and safeguards as at present. A gentleman got on to go up and I followed him. He dexterously started the thing and soon stopped it one story higher and stepped out, leaving me all alone.

"I gave a slight pull. It did not stop. I pulled again still harder, but the speed only seemed to increase. I was now just past the fourth floor and rapidly nearing the fifth. I pulled again, but still the thing kept on.

"I could hear the terrific rumbling of the machinery overhead. Would the thing ever stop, I thought, or was I to be hurled to death or crushed to nothing by the deadly cogs overhead?

"Past the sixth floor I went, and it commenced to grow darker. The machinery sounded louder, and I could almost see it from the light that struggled through the dingy loft window. I tried to cry out, but my voice failed me.

"I determined to make one more effort, and accordingly reached out in the dark. I encountered a wire, and yanked it with force enough, it would seem, to break it. Still upwards I groped further, and found another, and this time with both hands I pulled for dear life.

"Thank heaven, the elevator ceased its upward motion, and slowly descended. As it moved down into the light I saw that I had hold of another wire, which I had overlooked before. I let the elevator run until the lower floor was reached, forgetting all else in my desire to get into the air.

"As I stepped off a small boy, who had seen me go up, looked at me in astonishment and exclaimed:

"'Say, mister, are you the same man that went up a few minutes ago?'

"I thought it must have been a half hour, but answered, 'Yes.'

"'Did you go up to buy a wig?' he asked.

"'No,' said I, 'why?'

"'Cause yer had black hair when yer started, and now it's white.'

"I rushed to a convenient glass and grabbed my hat from my head. The boy was right, gentlemen; my hair was as white as you see it now, turned from jet black in the two short minutes I was in the elevator.

"Fact, gentlemen, fact. My parents did not live long after I left home, and I had to show several birthmarks before I could convince them that I was their son. Fact, gentlemen."

And the gentlemen looked at him, wondering whether he was a liar or a very unfortunate man.—Boston Globe.

A Monkey.

A writer in one of our journals tells an amusing little story which ought to be a warning to anyone who indulges in a little slang sometimes, though I am of course quite certain that none of my readers come under such a category, still I will go on with my recital.

It appears that three of the newspapers collaborated in a little comedy. The beginning of the joke was that one journal of sporting tendencies announcing the fact that the Duke of Westminster had just presented a £500 check to the Chester infirmary, used the words, "a monkey" to describe the gift. This, I believe, is the sporting phrase for £500. In due course a very proper and serious paper, whose editor is proximately unacquainted with slang, copied the paragraph, and taking the "monkey" in its most literal sense, commented on the curious present, but added the editorial supposition that the monkey was intended as food for the sick children to play with. And now a comic paper—a really bona fide comic paper—takes the paragraph from the religious paper, as serious, and enlarges upon it. We may soon hear, it says, that the Prince of Wales has sent an African elephant to Guy's, or that Sir Henry Irving has made a cage of white mice upon the London hospital, and given a performing donkey to the Royal Infirmary. Readers who, like me, are painfully conscious of a defective sense of humor, and who have wondered all their lives hear the world's jokes were made, may be consoled with the new experiment. If the writer of the original paragraph in the sporting paper referred to had seen the transmogrifications his item has undergone he will be as much surprised as amused at the climax.—Leeds Mercury.

Bob Ingersoll will have to look out or he will be accused of producing pipe fillings and rubbery. Bob says: "No American can be truly happy unless he spends each year a little more than his income."

Dakota Barking.

I ran across a New York man the other day who is largely interested in the banking business of Dakota. The conversation drifted into a discussion of the character of the people out there. "They may be rough in their manners," said he, "and uncouth in their ways, but they stand by a man when he is in trouble and they never forget their friends. I had an opportunity," he went on, "to test this fact not many years ago. The bank of the town where I was staying found itself greatly embarrassed one fine day by the failure of its principal correspondent in the Territory. This fact became known late in the afternoon of the day that the news of the failure reached the town. A run on the bank the following morning was inevitable. To meet it there was but $6,000 in the vaults. The remainder of the assets could not be immediately turned into ready cash. The President of the bank was at his wits' end. He didn't know what to do. Morning came and he decided to close the bank. He was about to give the necessary orders when in walked a committee of the leading merchants of the place. They asked for an explanation of the situation. It was given to them and likewise an opportunity to look at the books.

A short examination sufficed to show that the bank was only temporarily embarrassed. They said to the President:

"You open the doors at 10 o'clock as usual and pay the depositors. We'll see you through this thing."

"What do you mean? Are you going to do it?" said the President; "I have but $6,000 here and there are at least $20,000 in deposits and the run on the bank is clamoring on the sidewalk now."

"Never you mind," said the bank and go ahead," said the committee, "and we will see you through."

Well, the bank was opened, and in rushed the depositors, and out went the money. The pile of greenbacks on the cashier's desk grew smaller and smaller, and the crowd of depositors continued to increase with every minute.

Still the paying at the teller's window went on. On the sidewalk the people who had drawn their money were met by some of the merchants who had promised to see the bank through.

"What are you going to do with your money?" they would ask.

"I don't know," came the answer.

"Suppose you leave it with us? You know our house, and you know we are responsible. We will give you a note and so much interest."

To the farmers (for the majority of the depositors were farmers) the money in their pockets where it drew no interest was of little use. They preferred, of course, the notes, and were without difficulty persuaded to part with their money.

As soon as they had received the money the merchants would deposit it in the bank. The same money was paid over to another depositor, and then offered in the course of the day, and when the bank closed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon it had in its vaults as much money as it had started with in the morning, and with $6,000 it had paid over $20,000 of deposits. The promptness with which it met the demands of depositors stuck the bank, and the next morning there was not the slightest indication of a run. "This is an absolutely true story," said my informant, "because I know it I was myself the President of that bank. Now, can you match that by anything in the East?"—Washington Post.

As Old Campaigner's Experience.

The command to which I belonged in our Mormon campaign was conveying live stock sufficient for the army by route of Salt Lake. We had 20,000 sheep, 2,000 cattle, and 500 mules. Near Denver we came upon a natural soda fountain bursting out of the side of a mountain! The place was a great resort for the Indians, and especially elk. It was the 11th day of May, 1857, and our cavalry escort detached a dozen check to the Chester infirmary, used the words, "a monkey" to describe the gift. This, I believe, is the sporting phrase for £500. In due course a very proper and serious paper, whose editor is proximately unacquainted with slang, copied the paragraph, and taking the "monkey" in its most literal sense, commented on the curious present, but added the editorial supposition that the monkey was intended as food for the sick children to play with. And now a comic paper—a really bona fide comic paper—takes the paragraph from the religious paper, as serious, and enlarges upon it. We may soon hear, it says, that the Prince of Wales has sent an African elephant to Guy's, or that Sir Henry Irving has made a cage of white mice upon the London hospital, and given a performing donkey to the Royal Infirmary. Readers who, like me, are painfully conscious of a defective sense of humor, and who have wondered all their lives hear the world's jokes were made, may be consoled with the new experiment. If the writer of the original paragraph in the sporting paper referred to had seen the transmogrifications his item has undergone he will be as much surprised as amused at the climax.—Leeds Mercury.

A New Yorker has invented a musical toy in the shape of a champagne bottle laterally divided, and on the inside of the section is a violin and strings, on which music can be discovered.

Rough Work in the Army.

I served through the war in the 5th Ohio cavalry, beginning at Shiloh and ending my service with the march to the sea, says a writer in the Scientific American. We were an active regiment, always at the front and therefore remarkably unincumbered with tents or comforts. We were exposed to all weathers and all seasons. Many a time we were rained on for a week or more. When the rain came out the next week or the week after, it dried up. Many a time, long after dark, after a march in rain and mud all day, we have been filed into miry woods, where we slept in the rain, with the running water washing between us and our blankets. I have seen men wake in the morning with their hair frozen in mud. But none of us caught cold. We swam the Tennessee river after midnight, when the mercury was at zero, and among floating ice, and came out with our clothes, in cake armpits, frozen stiff as sheet iron, and then marched till morning. In the cold winter of 1863-64 we were in the mountainous country of East Tennessee, where it was as cold as Ohio. We were there from November until March, without any tents or shelter of any kind, moving every day and sleeping in a different place every night, and only describe the pen by below zero.

I have, with my comrades, ridden upon the skirmish line when I would not lift a cartridge out of my box nor even pick up a carbine cap. I have been on night picket, mounted, when the pickets had to be relieved every fifteen minutes, because they had longer the men could not load and fire. But we never caught the slightest cold, nor were even the worse for the exposure to wet see a soldier with a cold.

But I did catch one cold in the army and I never had such a one before or since. It came from excessive comfort, or what second comfort to us. We were at Camp Davies, Miss., the southern outpost of the great fortress of Corinth. Having been there some months we began to build neat log cabins, with openings for doors and windows—no glass or doors of course.

One of our mess being a young bricklayer we thought to surpass our neighbors in style and comfort, and we sent for brick, and he built a large fireplace and fireplace, and we built a good fire. That settled us. Four of us had to go to the hospital with tremendous colds on our chests and in our heads. We never had such colds in our lives. This was about the middle of our three years' service, and before and after that I never saw an exposed soldier with a cold. (Of course a few days after our cabins were finished we got marching orders.) I believe all old soldiers will bear me out that in any exposure, even, as we did, that in recent years, I never saw an Indian with a cold, though they stand more exposure than any cattle do. I worked not rooms that give us colds. It a person would sleep in a room full to spring, exposed to the weather of a severe winter, he would never take either a cold, pleurisy, or pneumonia, and would be absolutely free from them. But when you are in Rome you must do as Romans do, and take warm rooms and colds.

Language of the Commercial World.

A German contemporary wonders why the English commercial world is so barbarous a phrase as "per annum." The practical Teutonic mind observes, are crying out for the banishment of the Latin language from the schools to which they send their sons for a mercantile education; nevertheless they incessantly employ a little smattering Latin in their own daily counting-house language. A correspondent of the same journal reports that the German man of business is equally service to the traditional Latinisms of the shop and the exchange. Way, for instance, does he always write per April 1? when he means on the 1st of April, or for the first of April? His Latin is incorrect, moreover. The proposition has not the force of 'on' or 'for.' He ought to write pro instead of per. A third person has intervened in the controversy, who asserts that the technical language of accountants and bookkeepers—though they are not aware of it—is not Latin, but Italian. The Italians have only the one preposition per to do the duty belonging to the two Latin prepositions per and pro. The use of so many Italian words and phrases in the bookkeeping of other European peoples, and now in that of Americanized John Bull, is a survival of the epoch in which the Italians were the foremost commercial people in the world. "Per cent," "per annum," as well as "per cent," have got into the talk of men who change, not from the classical Latin, but from the mercantile Italian. The delusion that we owe these numerous terms to the Latin led our English bookkeepers, at some time or other, to substitute 'per annum' for 'per annum,' which was the correct and older phrase. We owe our use of this phraseology to a period in which Lombard street."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Mrs. Laura C. Holloway, of Brooklyn, according to the New York World is to be associated with Miss Rose Cleveland in her editorial labor.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CHUCKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Butters Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. D. CHUCKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

N. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services every Sunday morning at 10.30 a. m., every Sunday, at residence of W. F. Bennett, Boyne City. Sunday school at 3 p. m. W. F. Brown, warden.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30. All meetings held at Green's Hall. A. T. Wateman, Co. 's store. W. G. Clark, pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m., and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. A. T. Wateman, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. W. H. McCartney, pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist.
Office at Weed's Drug store.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. S. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate Agent. Office opposite Depot.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 302, meet every Monday evening in their hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 203, meets every Thursday evening at Round Lake.

K. O. T. M.—Beacon Tent No. 138, meets second and fourth Saturday evenings in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. G. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 407, meet every Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Boyne City Lodge No. 309, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Thursday evenings on or before full moon, at their hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at their hall.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Cashier.
Brown & Co.'s Bank of Charlevoix
BOYNE CITY, MICH.
Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections promptly attended to. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to European points, $20 and upwards. CORRESPONDENTS: National Bank, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Merchants National Bank, Detroit; Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank
Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan
Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
Henry Bennett, O. D. Wood,
John Nicholls, A. Butters,
A. Dyckman, F. A. Smith.
CAPITAL.....$83,000
Surplus.....2,000
The liability of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Act, 3174, Sec. 40 of Revised Statutes of the State of Michigan, is equal to the amount of stock taken, making a guaranteed capital of $166,000. Also, ample facilities for the transaction of all business pertaining to a banking business consistent with safety, on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.
Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Collections promptly attended to. Money bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.
We respectfully solicit your patronage.
CORRESPONDENTS:
NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.....ST. LOUIS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway,
"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."
Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron Ranges of Michigan.
All Rail Route to Ontonagon and Bessemer of Michigan.
Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections in Union Depots at all points.
The Ste'bey traversed is famous for its
UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.
Tickets for sale at all points via this route.
For Maps, Time Tables, Rates and Information address,
E. W. ALLEN,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOKE, Proprietor.
Charlevoix Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and resorts. Express office and headquarters for Pinkney and Mt. Ste. Hippie. Sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

1872. 1887
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

MILLINERY,
Dressmaking,
Ladies' Fancy Goods,
A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Goods always on hand at Lowest Prices.
ALDRICH SISTERS,
At the Ingleside, Charlevoix, Mich.

NEW LIVERY
AND Feed Barn.
LITNEY & STEIMEL
PROPRIETORS
Opposite Bridge Street House
Charlevoix.
FIRST-CLASS RIGS
REASONABLE RATES.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. Horseshoeing and repairing done in the best manner, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE.
The SUBURBAN MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

WILL H. FRANCIS,
Furniture and Jobbing Shop.
—Will also do—
CONTRACTING AND BUILDING,
in Charlevoix and summer resorts. I keep in my shop a full set of Hand and Foot power machinery for turning Wood.
Jobbing, Repairing, Etc.,
ON SHORT NOTICE.
Shop on South Terrace, Opposite Harris Jordan's residence.

Political Notes and News.

Two columns on the inside of the JOURNAL this week is of interest to women.

Os the inside of this paper appears the ceremonies at the unveiling of the Garfield statue at Washington, containing President Cleveland's address of acceptance.

SOME 9,000 immigrants landed in New York harbor in one day, week before last. According to the statistics of the immigration commissioner, it is shown that the arrivals at that port last year were 200,887.

IGNORANCE is no less destructive of profit in farming than in any other occupation. The successful farmer is he, who keeps abreast with improved systems, and applies thought and common sense to his business.

NOTHING but his death or declination to run can stem the tide for Cleveland's nomination for a second term. His popularity with the great masses of the people continues to grow. His administration is superb, and in the canvass next year Cleveland will be invincible.—Big Rapids Herald.

The Kent county equal suffrage association held another meeting Wednesday, and one good sister read an original poem of six stanzas, after which President Doe delivered an eloquent address, animadverting upon the obtuseness of the average Lansing correspondent, and scoring the legislature in a mild grandmotherly way. Two great horrid men were mixed up in the meeting, but they were so largely in the minority that they didn't peep. The séance closed with three signs for political disenfranchisement.—Evening Journal.

Two weeks ago we mentioned the great cattle show held in New York May 10th to 14th, and especially of the Holstein cows. As the result of this contest, we give the following from the New York World: "The sweepstakes prize of $150 for the best milch cow of any breed—the one producing the largest quantity of milk during the twenty-four consecutive hours of the exhibition—was awarded to Lady Fay, a Holstein cow, eight years old, owned by Messrs. Smith, Parnell & Lamb, of Syracuse, N. Y. Lady Fay had 65 pounds and 12 ounces of milk to her credit. The Holsteins have the phlegmatic, easygoing qualities incident to their Dutch origin. They are steady citizens, honest and good tempered, contented to take things as they come, and they fed as well, slept as well and performed the duties required of them as well in Madison Square Garden as at their comfortable homes. Our breeders and dairymen will learn how necessary it is to study the nature of their cattle and to take into consideration their peculiarities of construction."

"No less than 11,899 pensions were issued during the month of April—the largest number of any month in American history. This, twenty-two years after the close of the war, continues food for serious thought."—Adrian Times. Well, we should say it does. But what might be "serious thought" for the Times and other republican organs, may not be as serious to democrats and old soldiers. Is there anything very alarming about it? Is it food for serious thought to reflect that during the last presidential campaign, the standing argument of republican orators, and of republican newspapers, was that the continued care of our volunteer soldiers depended on their being in power of the republican party, and only party to which the soldiers' interest could be entrusted? Is it matter for serious thought" that the democratic administration is proving these assertions false? Is it food for sad cogitation, to know that the soldier is receiving more prompt attention than in past year, when indifference on the part of a republican commissioner forced thousands to make special application to congress, to get their rights? Is it beginning to sorrowfully dawn on the republican mind, that they lied to soldiers about what democrats would do for old soldiers? The Times must feel either that the republican party didn't do its duty in administering the pension laws, or else the present administration is too lax, and not using care enough in allowing claims. Which is it, neighbor? Do you think too many old soldiers are being pensioned? Please say just what you mean. If President Cleveland had not manfully come to the rescue of all worthy soldiers, and vetoed that stinging insult to them, known as the pauper pension bill, would not there have been more food for very "serious thought?"—Mason Democrat.

Saving Better Than Striking.

A time will come, it is to be hoped, when labor societies will consider themselves under obligation, not alone to maintain the rate of wages, but to see that when earned those wages are rationally and usefully employed. Hitherto there has been too much question of what men should receive for their labor, and too little question of how they should expend their earnings. Workingmen insist that the payment of the public ought to be with them in their struggles to improve their situation. They do not reflect that to deserve this complete sympathy they should be bent on them to show that they do not waste their earnings. If a man earns $1,000 a year and chooses to spend a fourth of his income in superfluities, and moreover, in mischievous superfluities, such as drink, he cannot make much of a showing in complaining of his poverty. It is alleged that the drink bill of this country is $900,000,000. To apportion half of that outlay to the working classes is certainly not an unreasonable division. What a fund for the improvement of the condition of labor is here worse than flung away.

Even a retrenchment of 50 per cent in this one source of waste would produce a capital large enough to establish co-operative industries all over the country, and to give to organized labor the impetus which its leaders desire can only be supplied by money. But in face of the fact that the workingmen at present prefer to spend this great sum in drink, is it not nonsense to assert that they are incapable of the common prosperity by any hands but their own? Nothing more conclusively demonstrates the peculiar axiom that the capitalization of wealth implies thrift. The capitalists are not, as too many workingmen seem to imagine, a class apart from the rest. Some unholy means, have got hold of masses of money. They are simply the men who have practiced self-denial, who have saved instead of spending their surplus earnings, who have put it to interest prudently as opportunity served; who have always expended less than they earned. Hundreds of them began poor, not seldom by day labor. But even when they only earned $1.50 a day they saved something, and this rule of life has brought them competence.—Cincinnati Artisan.

President Cleveland.

It is pretty early yet for the friends of President Cleveland to begin booming him for a second term; and yet it is not earlier than the friends of Grant began. Many of the wisest, brainy men in the democratic party have declared themselves emphatically for Mr. Cleveland's renomination. They believe him a safe man in the presidential chair. There is sound reason for this belief. President Cleveland has shown himself very conservative in his make-up. He has conducted the business of the nation much as a wise business man would look after his own affairs. He makes no pretensions of being a brilliant statesman, yet he meets the questions which daily arise with dignity, candor and unswerving decision. He finds opposition in his own party, because he has not turned out republicans fast enough, yet he made more changes during the first two years than did President Lincoln when he was elevated to power. He has been criticised for appointing so many southern men to office, yet he could not but recognize that the country was now united, and that if the south was ever to be recognized as having a share in the common government, it was time such recognition was made. He has not been more magnanimous to the south than Grant, or even Hayes. In fact, none of his southern appointees have met with such criticism as did those of of Hayes. The financial affairs of the government have been conducted with ability, and the public debt has been greatly reduced. He has kept peace with all nations, although he has been given extraordinary power to stir up strife by the Fisheries bill. There is little to criticise in his recommendations to congress that was not found in the messages of his predecessors. We believe that the conservative men of the country are generally satisfied with his administration, and fear less from his acts than from the acts of congress. President Cleveland may not be renominated, but certain it is that if such should prove to be the case, there would be far better reason for his election than in 1884. In making up the slates for 1888, it would be well for the leaders of the two great parties to bear these facts in mind.—Watertown Herald (republican).

Protection in Canada.

The agitation in Canada over the changes in the tariff is spreading. Singularly enough, however, it is still confined to the protected classes. One would suppose that the farmers and the firms which have been enjoying the blessings of protection would rejoice in the extension of those blessings to others, but they do not. The protected iron men protest roundly against the protection of puddlers and steel slab molders.

The government, however, seems to understand the protected doctrines thoroughly if the protestors do not. It says to the latter: "What additional protection will you need when we have protected the pig-iron men and the furnace men and the steel men?" And it intimates very plainly that if they will name their figure they can have it.

This is true protection. It saddles the entire burden on the consumer, who was made—in the protection scheme of creation—for that express purpose. By and by the consumer will possibly kick, too, though he will be stood off as long as possible with saccharine falsehoods about "home market" and "protection to home industries." When he does kick—as he surely will, sooner or later—the protection palace will come down.—Free Press.

Tariff Robbery.

DePauw, the great glass manufacturer who died recently, leaving a fortune of $15,000,000, was a beneficiary of the accursed system of high tariffism. The tariff on glass and glassware ranges from 40 to 125 per cent. It is estimated that in 20 years the consumers of glass have paid out not less than $100,000,000 more than they need to have done but for the tariff. A few manufacturers like DePauw have pocketed the lion's share of the swag. The workers in glass establishments have not been paid higher wages than those in other skilled trades. The real beneficiaries of the tariff are your DePauws. The people are taxed to permit these favored individuals to pile up $15,000,000 apiece. What do our readers think of this nice little scheme to enrich the few at the expense of the many? And pray what difference in principle is there between this infamous tariff system of spoliation and taking money directly out of the national treasury for the benefit of the manufacturers? We trust some of our protectionist friends will enlighten us on this point.—Lansing Journal.

A Cheboygan Branch of the G. R. & I. Railway.

At the instance of the Improvement Committee of the Cheboygan Business Men's Association, the editor of the Tradesman called on President Hoghart, of the G. R. & I. Railway, to ascertain whether a memorial presented to him in person by a committee from the Association would have any weight in securing the construction of a branch line of railway to that place. Mr. Hoghart received his caller very graciously, but asserted that all money his company could raise the present season had been pledged to two other enterprises, one of which is the construction of a branch from Kalkaska to Elk Rapids. Mr. Hoghart requested the writer to thank the business men of Cheboygan for the interest manifested in the branch referred to, and said he hoped that his company would be in a position to make an affirmative answer to another request of the kind later on.

The business men of Cheboygan should not give up hopes of eventually having direct connection with Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Tradesman.

Our Natural Resources.

The following from the East Jordan Enterprise will apply to numerous sections of this county, and we commend it to the careful consideration of our readers:

It is no uncommon thing to go to our streets and hear some prosured specimen of humanity on the day he came to northern Michigan, just as though northern Michigan was to blame for his failure in life. The trouble is not with the geographical location of the man, it is with the man himself; had he been accidentally born

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
ARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

An arch in a furnace in the Edgar Thompson Steel Works at Braddocks, Pa., collapsed, burying a number of men in the red-hot debris. Five men were fatally injured, their flesh being literally cooked.

Fire at Lebanon, N. H., destroyed over $300,000 worth of property, with an insurance of $80,000.

A horrible accident occurred near McKeesport, Pa., which resulted in the burning to death of Mrs. Cook and her two little children, and in the total destruction of the house. She was using petroleum oil to kindle a fire, when the contents of the can were ignited, and an explosion followed. The woman flashed out of the house with her clothing in flames, and perished in the yard. The house took fire and was consumed, and two little children who were in it perished in the flames. A third child only escaped a similar fate by following her mother out of the house.

The steamer Virginia State was destroyed by fire at Bristol, R. I., with a loss of $120,000.

The West Side haymarket and adjacent buildings in New York City were burned. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

An effort has been started at Boston to secure the pardon of F. J. Moses, ex-Governor of South Carolina, who is in the penitentiary there for forgery. His health is said to be broken down.

WESTERN.

Sherman & Marsh and Schnabel & Co., last-wide manufacturers of cloaks, have suspended. They were kindred associations, and the failures are most disastrous ones. The manager says the trouble is the new interstate commerce bill.

A woman afflicted with leprosy has been discovered in Pinebrook County, Minnesota. She is the mother of eight children. It is stated that her fingers and toes are gone, and that numbness pervades her extremities.

Mr. James Smith, living near Freeport, Ill., died last week, aged 102. He was a life-long Democrat; never rode on a railroad train and never ate a meal at a hotel.

The planing mill, machinery, and a quantity of lumber at St. Louis, the property of Schoenberg & Boeschler, were burned. Loss, $60,000.

La Crosse (Wis.) special: John Ass, second lieutenant of the Turners Club, was drowned here while on the river rowing with Frank Barnes of the same club. The boat got in the waves made by a steamer and was capsized. Earl and Barnes swam to shore, which was about two hundred yards off. Early says they turned and saw Ass sitting Tennyson's" on "Carmen of the Jul.

Queer Theories That Are Being Tested

EARTH

In the course of partment show that 6,300,626 trade dollars have been released to date. The principal redemption was in Philadelphia. The law authorizing the redemption of trade dollars has already been in operation over two months, and has nearly four months to run. It was originally estimated that there were about seven millions of these coins in this country, and the redemption thus far shows the estimate is nearly correct. Importations from China and Japan may swell the amount to $20,000,000.

James W. Hyatt, Bank Examiner of Connecticut, who has been appointed Treasurer of the Utah Commission, was a Republican until 1872, when he "Greeleyized." He is a man of large experience in affairs, reputed an able financier, and his appointment seems to be in every way creditable.

A motion for reargrument in the Maxwell land-grant case will be filed in the United States Supreme Court. Gen. Butler will be associated with the counsel.

The Government receipts this month have been very heavy and the expenditures less than usual.

Justice Woods, of the United States Supreme Court, died at Washington on the 14th inst. of kidney trouble, from which he had been suffering over a year. It is reported that Attorney General Garland is likely to be appointed his successor. The names of ex-Governor Hoadly, Secretary Endicott, Speaker Carlisle, Senators Pugh and George, and Congressman Hammond are also mentioned in connection with the appointment.

POLITICAL.

The Kentucky Republican State Convention, in session at Louisville, made the following nominations: For Governor, W. O. Bradley; for Lieutenant Governor, M. O. Doherty, of Louisville; for Attorney General, John Feland, of Hopkinsville; for Auditor of Public Accounts, A. J. Davis, of Carlisle. The platform favors Federal aid to education, a tariff for revenue only, and national aid for the improvement of rivers and harbors. The President is condemned for refusing to sign the river and harbor bill, as well as for his veto of the pension bill.

New Orleans telegram: "The prohibition movement, which has created so strongly in Texas and Mississippi has reached Louisiana, and is receiving much encouragement from the negroes. A meeting was held in all the negro churches in the city for a prohibition convention to meet in the St. Charles Avenue Methodist Church May 1, and about 1,000 were present. The idea of a permanent organization of the colored people of Louisiana to break up the liquor traffic."

The Michigan House of Representatives has passed a bill taxing liquor-sellers $500 each without any discount for beer and whisky. The brewers' tax remains at $500, as at present. The bill passed by a narrow margin of 52 to 35, 36 votes being necessary to pass it.

Senator John Sherman has accepted an invitation from Republican members of the Illinois Legislature to deliver a political address at Springfield on June 1.

A bill permitting pool-selling on race-tracks has passed the New York Senate.

REGULATING THE RAILROADS

Judge Cooley, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has addressed the following letter to the other members of the commission for their approval:

The Interstate Commerce Commission has had transmitted to it from the State Boards of Railroad Commissioners of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Indiana, and Minnesota, and also from the Legislature of Texas, copies of the recent act to regulate commerce, with the request that the Commission shall use its influence to prevent their charters, nature, and powers being impaired by the act. The Commission is under the impression it is expected some notice to be taken of it, and, therefore, ventures to express my own thoughts. Mr. Morrison and myself have conferred together, and I am well assured, excepting, they will not to any great extent, the Commission and conveyances must necessarily come from Washington, and from which attempts such conveyances may be made and by what means, and to what extent, after the working of the law has become well understood, it will be time enough to consider. Probably no legislation of consequence is needed at the present time, and, with a variety of opinions and views, it is not to be expected that Congress will do anything. It may be not as clear as they might have been, that the Commission is not to be a board of control, and that the frequently circumstances have come to an example of the kind of work which it is to do, and the manner in which it is to be performed. Washington's great mistake in the new law from the construction railroad managers put on it, and which induced the recent call of a meeting of the Commissioners to the Commissioners to the Commissioners to

JOURNAL

J. GRIER, EDITOR.

...DIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

Tennyson's ... on's "Carm" ... of the 2 ...

...mers and the Tariff.

...g is the great interest of the ...d of the Northwest. Its de... ...sion is an obvious fact, and the ... cause is to be found in pre-existent ... Queendition. Protection has been pre... ...ished as one to bring wealth to the ... ...ers. For over a quarter of a ... ...ntury this country has had more ... ...ff protection than any other civ... ...d nation on the globe. It has ... ...had to make the farmers prosperous. ... ...of it would be taking away ... ...of their earning to benefit other ... ...interests." Wiping out every vestage ... ...of protective taxation would lift from ... ...their shoulders a burden that amounts ... ...hundreds of millions of dollars an... ...nually. But perhaps they need to be ... ...pinched still harder before they wil... ...however punch prosperity ... the spots there may be at long inter... ...als, the mass of the people can never ... improve their condition by paying ... burdensome taxes, as they do under ... our tariff laws, on the necessaries of ... living.—Jackson Patriot.

Additional Local.

Charlevoix County Pharmaceutical Association.

Pursuant to call, the druggists of Charlevoix county met at Dr. Crouter's office, Charlevoix, Wednesday, June 1st, to organize a county pharmaceutical association. The following druggists were present:

H. W. Willard, M. D., L. C. Madison, F. C. Warne, M. D., Geo. W. ...man of East Jordan, H. H. Eaton ... Boyne Falls, F. G. Hines, Perry ...d, G. W. Crouter, G. W. Wilson, ... Charlevoix, John M. Harris, of ...ton, E. F. Allen, of Boyne.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Dr. H. W. Willard, president.
F. G. Hines, vice president.
W. Crouter, secretary.
...rry Weed, treasurer.

...e president, vice president, and ...tary were constituted a board of ...rd of trustees—Dr. H. W. Wil... F. C. Warne, H. H. Eaton, E. F. ...en, and L. C. Madison.

...committee on pharmacy—G. W. ... Jas. J. M. Harris, G. W. Wilson. ... Committee on trade matters—E. F. ...en, G. W. Beaman, F. G. Hines. ... Committee on legislation—G. W. ...ester, F. C. Warne, E. F. Allen. ... constitution and by-laws of ... Grand Rapids pharmaceutical ... were adopted.

...ture annual meetings will be ... the first Monday in June; regu... monthly meetings to be held on ...rst Tuesday of each month.

Burgess.

...his was received last week, [too ...for publication.]

One long-looked-for rain has come ...

...s. George, of Genesee, is visiting ...ins, George, Samuel, and ...ng, of Evangeline, and Mrs. ...ne, of Hayes. From here, ... go to Chicago to visit rela...

... Alex. Ross has gone to Chi... to visit her daughters.

...rs. Maggie Wolvertos, of East... ..., is visiting with her father, Alex. ...

...rs. Vaughn will soon move to ...orton's Bay, where her husband is ...ged in the Iron Company's store.

...here is a large bear prowling ...ound in the Mud Lake cedar swamp. It has been seen by several people.

Loren Hamlin has recovered from his sickness sufficient to allow him to return to his home.

May 28, 1887.

Crops are looking splendid since the rains.

Platt and Sam Webster have a nice piece of corn; ahead of any in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Ganson, of Evangeline, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Kane, and will start for Chicago on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tillson are happy over the arrival of a little daughter.

May 31.

M. E. Church.

Our Tuesday evening Bible reading may be made a source of profit to all. Attend and work, and you will reap the benefit.

Thursday evening prayer meeting as usual.

Friday evening, teacher's meeting at parsonage.

Saturday evening, quarterly conference meets at parsonage.

Sunday morning, love feast at 9:30, preaching at 10:30, after which the Lord's Supper. Sunday school as usual.

W. H. McCALTREY.

Eveline.

Pleasant weather.

It rained again Sunday.

Mr. Jarman and Alex. Curry were on the sick list last week.

Crops in this vicinity look well.

It should have read Miss Jennie Dewer instead of Miss Jennie Denver last week.

Platten's mill at Advance is kept busy these days sawing ties and lumber.

Many of our farmers are improving their farms greatly this spring.

The Pine Lake Iron Co., lost about 30 cords of wood by the recent forest fire in the Lewis district.

A large number of our people attended the baptismal service Sunday near Sweet's landing. Over two hundred was present, and fourteen were baptised.

Mr. John Haley's son was recently hurt by his fathers' team running away, but we now understand that he is improving.

The furnace started up again Monday after laying still for a few days.

Three schooners are at Ironton dis charging ore and loading with pig iron.

May 31.

South Hayes.

Somewhat rainy.

Mr. A. Webb is on the sick list this week.

Mrs. S. Martin and children are visiting friends and relatives at Mancelona this week.

A dance was had at Newson's hall last Friday night. A good time is reported.

Strawberries are in full bloom. A good crop is expected.

The rain makes the farmers look quite happy once more.

Preaching at the Hop Yard school house every two weeks by Rev. Mr. Craine.

The Eveline correspondent was visiting in Hayes last week.

We see that Peter McNally is building a new house.

May 30.

Ellsworth.

Last Sunday when the people of this place were all away from home except Louis Deline and his family, smoke was seen issuing from the house that H. Clugg and two sons have been living in. Mr. Deline burst open the door but the fire was under such headway, that the building could not be entered and nothing could be saved except a very few articles it could be reached from the door. By great exertion the barn was saved. The fire started from the outside where a fire near the house to burn rubbish had been, but was thought to have been put entirely out.

June 1.

Wilson.

Summer has begun.

The pupils had a holiday on May 30th.

Elder Tracy preached Sunday evening last at the school house.

The recent rains refreshed vegetation.

Miss Jones went home Friday night and returned Monday.

There will be no school next week on account of the Teachers Institute, to be held at Boyne City.

Rev. H. C. Scofield and family arrived from Wayne Co., this week having come from Alpena overland with team. They will soon be settled in their new home.

June 1.

How They Do It in China.

In New York when a burglar has stripped a house, we confide the secret to a detective, who keeps it and gets another detective to help him; the two hold on to it like grim death till you perish of old age. They manage things differently, however, in China. No long ago a missionary's earthly mansion was looted, and he informed a head policeman, who merely said, "H'ush!" and went away. Three weeks afterward, however, the man of God received a champagne basket containing six heads packed in tinfoil—not necessary for publication, but as an evidence of good faith—and a note from the Department of Truth and Justice—stating that the writer remained—"Yours truly, Hen Yah."—Modern Society.

Why She Wept.

A lady called on a friend who had only been married a few years and was surprised to find her in tears.

"I am the most unhappy woman in Austin, and it is all on account of my husband."

"Why, your husband lives for you alone. He stays at home all the time. He never goes away from home; he never brings any of his friends to the house."

"Yes," replied the unfortunate woman, putting her handkerchief to her eyes and sobbing convulsively, "that's—what—makes me—so miserable."—Texas Siftings.

Seventy-nine per cent of the soldiers in the Russian army are unable to read or write.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

Kalkaska and Elk Rapids claim to have assurance that they are to be connected by rail. We hope this is true.

The survey party on the D. C. & E. R. R. reached Bellaire Saturday night, and are probably by this time pointed at Kalkaska, and well on their way.—Kalkaska Leader.

The sheriff of Cheboygan had five prisoners in jail last week awaiting trial, but one evening when he went to lock them into their cells for the night he found the jail empty, they having all escaped by sawing off the bars in the complete window.

A new industry for Michigan seems to be springing up in some localities, and promises to become a business of importance. It is the raising of frogs for market. A representative of this industry visited Grand Rapids one day last week and the Leader speaks of him thusly: He was a frog farmer and had a box of the hind quarters of the water rabbits for which he did not long seek for a purchaser. He has a pond covering six acres of ground on his farm, and this pond is densly inhabited with a choice breed of frogs. Last night he went "fishing" for the animals and caught over a hundred in a single trip, and this morning he brought them to market and realized enough to pay his traveling expenses and a little over, and besides secured orders for future shipments. The legs were very large, and four or five of them would make a pound. The farmer believes he has a good thing in raising frogs and will devote his spare time to cultivating that industry, using this city as a market.

How to Make Yourself Agreeable.

Very rarely, if ever young persons acquire the ability to converse with ease and fluency. This implies, first of all, good ideas, clearly and sensibly expressed. An empty mind never made a good talker, remember, "you cannot draw water out of an empty well." Next in importance is self-possession. "Self-possession is nine points in the law"—of good breeding.

A good voice is as essential to self-possession as good ideas are essential to fluent language. The voice, from infancy, should be carefully trained and developed; a full, clear, flexible voice is one of the surest indications of good breeding; it falls like music on the ear, and while it pleases the listener, it adds to the confidence of its possessor, be he ever so timid. One may be witty without being popular; voluble without being agreeable; a great talker and yet a great bore. It is wise, then, to note carefully the following suggestions:

Be sincere; be who habitually sneers at everything, will not only render himself disagreeable to others, but will soon cease to find pleasure in life.

Be frank; a frank, open countenance, and a clear, cheery laugh, are worth far more, even socially, than "pedantry in a stiff cravat."

Be amiable; you may hide a vindictive nature under a polite exterior for a time, as a cat masks its sharp claws in velvet fur, but the least provocation brings out one as quickly as the other; ill-natured persons are always disliked.

Be sensible; society never lacks for fools. If you want elbow-room, "go up higher."

Be cheerful; if you have no great trouble on your mind, you have no right to render other people miserable by your long face and dolorous tones. If you do you will be generally avoided.

But above all, be cordial; true cordiality unites all the qualities we have enumerated.—American Agriculturist.

Detroit, Feb. 19, 1887.

W. Johnston & Co., druggists, Detroit:

Dear Sirs—Having had occasion to use your Extract of Sarsaparilla very extensively in my practice, and as an anti-scrofulous remedy, I take pleasure in recommending it to the general public, as the best preparation of its kind in the market. Yours truly,

M. HILTON WILLIAMS.

Proprietor Detroit Throat and Lung Institute, 153 Woodward Avenue.

Buy your Butter and Eggs at Emrey Brothers.

Good Results in Every Case.

R. A. Bradford, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes that he was serious ly affected with a severe cold that settled on his lungs; had tried many remedies without benefit. Being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, did so and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all coughs and colds with best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this wonderful discovery. Trial bottles free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store. 5

Evaporated Apples, splendid and cheap, at Emrey Brothers.

☞ A sound body and a contented mind are necessary to perfect happiness. If you wish to possess these, cleanse your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is perfectly safe to take, and is a thoroughly reliable, highly concentrated, and powerful blood purifier

Buy your Flour and Feed of Emrey Brothers.

The Appetite

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the Bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition. They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without yielding more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well.—Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

IMPROVED

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored. —C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years with Headache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Headache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry J. Hennaway, Rockport, Mass.

I was cured of the Piles by the use of Ayer's Pills. They not only relieved me of that painful disorder, but gave me increased vigor, and removed my health.—John Lazarus, St. John, N. B.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

Used all the Year Round.

JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA

—FOR—

LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA,

AND FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It has been in use for 25 years, and has proved itself the best remedy ever prepared for SICK HEADACHE, PAIN IN THE SIDE, OR BACK, LIVER COMPLAINT, PIMPLES, THE PALE, DYSPEPSIA, PILES, and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver or a Sluggish Bowel. There is no medicine like it for the blood. Try it to-day. Physicians prescribe it daily. Those who use it once recommend it to others.

It is strictly vegetable, and can not do harm. Its effects are wonderful. It is one of the best medicines in use for Regulating the Bowels.

It is sold by all responsible druggists at one dollar for a quart bottle, or three bottles for $2.50.

Those who can not obtain a bottle of the genuine, will find it cheaper to send to us for one dollar, and we will deliver it to them free of any charge.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Manufacturers, DETROIT, MICH.

Jos. Beauvais

BOAT-BUILDER.

The Best Modeled, Easiest Rowing, and Best Sailing Boats in Northern Michigan, for the Least Money. Give me a Trial. I am bound to Please.

Boat Livery

In connection with shop.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

HEADQUARTERS

—FOR—

WATCHES, CLOCKS AND JEWELRY.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the latest, best and most improved Watches manufactured.

Repairing Promptly Done And Warranted.

C. R. HELLINER,
Bridge St., - - Charlevoix.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS, & FAT STOCK WANTED

Portable Boiler

FOR SALE.

Twelve feet long, 24 feet shell, 4 feet wood; in perfect order, good and cheap. Address

L. E. ALLEN,
Charlevoix, Mich.

2006f

F. E. WOOD,

BARBER SHOP

And Bath Rooms.

Hot and Cold Baths at any hour so the day and evening.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

PANTS, OVERALLS AND SHIRTS

(TRADE MARK.)

FULL SIZE, WELL MADE AND PERFECT FIT.

TRY THEM. For sale by G. W. MILLER.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made on Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX - - MICHIGAN.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,

Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.

TERRACE FARM, - - CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

A GENTLEMAN, having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the sad effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their address, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PARKER BY, 43 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIMPLES. I will send (mention this paper) to any person a receipt for a simple BOTANIC VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, PIMPLES, FRECKLES, BLOTCHES, BLACK HEADS, Flesh Worms and all Skin Blemishes and Beautifies the Complexion. This formula is the well fly check. And the beautiful result of using this wonderful balm. Also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address—A. H. Fox, 4000, 40 Ann St., New York.

Emrey Bros. have some nice Potatoes for sale.

TO CONSUMPTIVES

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, and suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

ADVERTISERS of others, who wish to examine an advertising space when in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., the Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 2, 1887.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. We need the cash now.

Don't buy a Force Pump until you see the easy working "Trahern Pump". It has no packing. Sold only by

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Advertisers are requested to hand in their favors before six o'clock Wednesday evening each week, to avoid the hurry of publication day.

☞ We have just received a large invoice of Ironstone China Dishes, Glass-ware, and Crockery.

WILL SEE & CO.

☞ "Big Bite" a good washing machine for ten cents.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

☞ Come in and see our new stock of Francis Foleom Cleveland glassware. WILL SEE & CO.

☞ Good Paint.—A. J. Stroud and O. D. Hilton will paint with Sherwin Williams's colored lead.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Minute Photos, $1 per dozen, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

Charlevoix will celebrate.

Albert Mason is putting a new floor in his store.

The Cadillac Express has been absorbed by the News.

G. V. Nash, of Norwood, went to Chicago last Friday.

Henry Barth repaired the boiler of the tug Martin last week.

Tickets for the Swiss bell ringers are for sale at Weed's drug store.

Our merchants report a good trade on Monday, notwithstanding the rain.

Will See & Co. added a new delivery wagon to their grocery business this week.

See notice elsewhere of the union gospel meetings at opera house Sunday evening.

Commissioner Boak put a walk across the alley next to Cross & Son's store Saturday.

The steamer Gordon has changed whistles again,—now using the one it did last season.

The steamer Lou A. Cummings gave an excursion from East Jordan and Dwight last Sunday.

The ladies of the M. E. church took in over $20 at the lunch and ice cream room last Monday.

Capt. Snyder expects to put a fine new piano in the cabin of the Lou A. Cummings in a few days.

Mail service between Dwights and East Jordan was discontinued June 1. Also between Dot and Joy in this county.

The ladies of the M. E. church announce a ten-cent tea, to be served at the church next Monday evening from 6 to 9.

Those desiring cracked wheat should call on Will See & Co. They have just received a quantity of the genuine article.

The Mancelona Herald backs down on the ready-print question in great shape,—in fact humbly apologizes for saying anything.

A. T. Washburne & Co., report having made a contract to fit out the steamer Lou A. Cummings with new carpets, curtains, etc.

Those interested in a celebration in Charlevoix this year are requested to be present at the meeting at the village hall Friday evening.

The public schools will close next week with an entertainment at the opera house on Friday evening, June 10th. Particulars next issue.

The railroad surveyors are now between here and Central Lake. An excellent route has been found thus far from Charlevoix.—Bellaire Breeze.

The propellers Lawrence and Champlain are on their regular schedule time this week, and expect to continue the balance of the season.

Sneak thieves have been prowling around the country south of Charlevoix, entering grasseries, etc. For the good of their bodies they had better go slow in the future.

O. F. Glidden, 169 Ransom street, Grand Rapids, Mich, wants to buy 50 to 100 cords of pine tub staves for immediate use. For dimensions and prices address him as above.

S. M. See & Sons are making large additions to their stock of fine furniture. Some elegant baby carriages were also received last week, one of which went to the home of W. A. Brown.

Amos Fox is raising the Fox & Miller store to the same grade as the Hurd store, and will build new side walk on a higher grade from the Sentinel building to the bridge.

Capt. A. G. Aldrich has been retained by the Mackinac Transportation Co. as master of the Faxton during the season, and he will make St. Ignace his home. Mrs. Aldrich joined him this week.

H. D. Tallady, of Chicago, has a fine line of books, bibles and albums for which he is soliciting orders in town. He sells upon monthly payments which makes a very convenient way of paying for goods.

Chas. S. Hampton announces that he is about to remove the Northern Independent from Harbor Springs to Petoskey, in order to get into a better field of labor, where the rewards are to be something besides brilliant promises.

The meetings at the church (at Atwood) have closed. A great deal of interest was manifested and the house was filled every evening. There were quite a number of conversions. Rev. C. F. VanAuken will not be forgotten here soon.—Bellaire Breeze.

Chas. R. Bellinger is surely headquarters for watches, clocks, and fine jewelry. He has the largest stock and best assortment in northern Michigan, and is selling below retail prices in cities. He says repaired watches will be sold for charges after six months.

The Charlevoix JOURNAL has been enlarged, an additional editor put on the force and in every way seems to be prosperous. If the people over there know when they are well off they will give friend Strang a thousand prompt paying subscribers.—Manistique Pioneer.

Geo. W. Miller reports a fine trade in gents' furnishing goods on Monday, in spite of the rain. The reason is, the people from up-lake towns know that they can always find a good assortment of the best goods to select from, and can save enough in price to pay for their holiday. That is the reason why George always has a good trade on holidays.

Joseph Beauvais has just completed a model of a pleasure yacht for E. Shay, of Bay Springs, that will eclipse all yachts ever built in the county. It will be entirely of steel, thirty feet long, with several water-tight compartments, and will have an engine of Mr. Shay's own make. With this yacht Mr. Shay expects to make a trip down the Mississippi next fall.

John Ward has just completed a comfortable residence for himself, at his farm in Marion, consisting of a two story upright, with seven rooms, and a one-story wing with three rooms, arranged expressly for a farmer's convenience and comfort. Henry Burnard did the carpenter work, and David Hawkins the plastering. Mr. Ward is to be congratulated on his new home.

The grand opening of spring goods of A. T. Washburne & Co. on last Friday, Saturday, and Monday, was an interesting affair, as this firm's openings always are. Besides the artistic arrangement of the store, on memorial day they had erected across the street in front of the store a beautiful arch of evergreens, surmounted with flags, muskets, army canteens, cavalry sabres, and staff swords, appropriately arranged.

We heartily agree with an exchange when it says the improvement of streets and public parks is in the right direction and is in keeping with the enterprise that encourages manufacture and helps the growth of a town. To be continually growling at its officers, criticising and misrepresenting their earnest endeavors, and pulling backward at every public improvement is a sure way for killing a town or keeping it forever a dusty country cross-roads.

Ben Davis, of the Elk Rapids Progress, also denounces ready-print inside for same reasons as "the rotten patents." In our opinion, if Ben would use a little more of that kind of "rot," and make a little larger and better paper, it would not be necessary for him to run around the country selling letter presses and calling men bad names who do not agree with him as to the merits of his views. In a careful study we find those country publishers most prosperous, and running a paper more satisfactory to the people, who employ "ready-made" news and miscellany (whether plate or paper) for matters outside of their own community, and devote their entire editorial energies to home news and politics. Even the Progress, as well as the Mancelona Herald, recognizes the the value of "the rotten patents" by the use of several columns a week in the form of miscellany and story plates. Why not admit their value and make them complete, instead of trying to deceive your readers by saying you print all your paper at home, when you really do not.

It is fresh in the minds of some of our citizens that last fall, when Capt. Vanderhoef was running excursions on the Friant, it was charged that he was working against rather than in favor of Charlevoix. Capt. Vanderhoef insisted that he was working solely in the interest of the boat, and not in favor of any particular town. To prove his assertion that he was not working against Charlevoix he used his influence in persuading the owners of the Lou A. Cummings to run on the same route, this year but by nightnights at East Jordan, and making the daily round trip to accommodate those of our people who have business in Petoskey. During the excursion season the Cummings will carry excursion parties from Charlevoix, while the Friant will bring them here as in past seasons. But the excursion season two months hence does not pay for fuel and labor now. So if our shippers, and our dealers receiving freight by rail, will see that the Cummings has a fair share of freight from Petoskey and Harbor Springs, it may be the means of keeping our present excellent boating facilities. Capt. Snyder is a gentleman; pleasant and accommodating. He is master of a safe, seaworthy, fast boat. Most of his money is expended in Charlevoix county, and no small portion of it in Charlevoix village. Those who favor him with a share of their business will no doubt find it money well invested. By this we would not intimate anything against Capt. Vanderhoef, or the Friant. He has been the means of giving Charlevoix an excellent steamboat service, and Charlevoix and the Pine lake region has given him a good business as his reward. But to improve that service, we must give Capt. Snyder an equal chance to get a grip on the carrying business.

Purely Personal.

T. R. Chapin, of the Boyne Citizen, made us a brief call on Monday.

Capt. Geo. Jepson, of the Clara Belle, returned from Manistee Saturday.

O. F. Wisner, formerly of Charlevoix, lawyer of East Jordan, has located at Gaylord.

H. H. Miller, J. W. Rogers, and G. W. Fast, of East Jordan, were among our callers on Monday.

Walter S. Johnson, of Sutton's Bay, was in town Monday and Tuesday, jolly and hearty as usual.

John Murcy and Miss Lottie Compton, of Hayes were married yesterday by Rev. W. G. Clark.

H. C. Miley, of the Enterprise, called upon the JOURNAL Tuesday and spent a little time pleasantly.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rathbun will spend part of the summer at Charlevoix.—Detroit Evening Journal.

A. Brown, of Frankfort, was in Charlevoix yesterday in the interest of the Mattson Furniture Co., of Sheboygan, Wis.

Mrs. James Hemmings left on the Lawrence this week for Chicago, for medical treatment, and from there to Madison, Wis., to visit her brother.

Fred A. Cochran has accepted a position as prescription clerk in the drug store of A. H. Webber of Big Rapids, and entered upon his new duties this week.

Henry Aldrich, of Charlevoix, has again entered the employ of Fred S. Kieldsen. Mr. Aldrich will be remembered as the genial and popular assistant who helped "Fred" out in the four winters ago.—Cadillac News & Express.

Telephone Extension.

Manager Crouter has secured the necessary aid for the extension of the telephone system from Boyne City to Horton's Bay, and to Boyne Falls, thus practically connecting Charlevoix with every village in the county except Clarion.—and Clarion can be reached by a combination of telephone and telegraph. Mr. Crouter is pushing these extensions from time to time for all there is in them, and proposes to make the Charlevoix county service as complete and successful as any in the whole system. Smithson's camp is also to be connected with the Charlevoix exchange, to accomodate the constantly increasing business of the firm. To build the line will require over a thousand pounds of small wire. The material for all these extensions has been ordered, and is now on the road, and the lines will be put in operation at the earliest possible time.

Coming Events.

There will be a covenant meeting this (Thursday) evening, at Green's hall

Preaching at the Hilton school house tomorrow (Friday) evening by Rev. W. G. Clark.

The annual meeting of the Grand Traverse Baptist association will be held at Charlevoix, June 15-16.

At Green's hall the subject of discourse by Rev. W. G. Clark Sunday morning will be: "The Sabbath was made for man."

A social hop will be had at the rink Wednesday evening, June 15, for the benefit of the boys band. The bill will be fifty cents.

Rev. W. R. Stinchcomb, the presiding elder, will preach at the Ironton M. E. church next Sunday evening, after which sacramental services will be held.

Rev. William Woodmansee will conduct the services at the Congregational church Sunday morning; and at the Congregational church at Ironton in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A meeting will be held at the library rooms in the village hall, Friday evening at 8 o'clock, to appoint the necessary committees of arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth of July in Charlevoix this year.

Episcopal services at Green's hall Sunday, at 3 p. m. Subject for study: Confirmation; its necessity and use in perfecting life in Christ. All candidates for baptism and confirmation are requested to come with their friends and bibles.

Gospel meetings at the opera hall every Sunday evening at 7:30. The bells of both churches will ring as usual to give notice of the service. Don't fail to come and bring your friends. Seats are free, and no collection will be taken. Bro. J. S. Smithson will preach next Sunday evening.

Paul Philipoteaux' historic painting of the Battle of Gettysburg will be shown by the French stereoscopic process at Bartholomew's opera house on Friday evening, June 3d. The printed matter he would indicate a pleasant entertainment for those who enjoy a rehearsal of war scenes and incidents. The manager states that it is for the benefit of an old soldier of post 57, department of Illinois. Tickets 15 cents; children 10 cents.

Of the bell ringers who will play in the Opera House next Tuesday evening we clip the following: One of the most pleasing numbers of the evening was the vocal trio, with bell accompaniment. Lizzie Royce has a very sweet voice and her singing was received with great pleasure throughout the evening. Probably the thing which most interested the audience was the performance on seven distinct musical instruments at the same time by Web. Lansing. It was the best thing of the evening and was in itself worth the price of admission. He kept perfect time on all his instruments and perfect harmony as well, producing music, not discord The company will appear again tonight with a change of program, and the Mining Journal advises its readers to be present; it is the best troupe that has visited the city in some time. The entire audience seemed greatly pleased and many of the best people in the city were present.—Mining Journal, Marquette, Mich., May 26, 1886.

Memorial Services.

In spite of the clouds of Monday morning and the drizzling rain all day, the festivities of memorial services brought a large concourse of people to Charlevoix. They commenced at an early hour to gather in from the country, and the boats from up the lake were all well patronized, so that before noon it appeared that a general holiday had been agreed upon. Clifford Post, of Boyne, accompanied by the Cornet band, and Stevens Post, of East Jordan, were met at the landing of the boats by Baxter Post, with the boys band and escorted to quarters. The program of the heavy weather the program at the cemetery was made as short as possible, and was continued at the opera house, consisting of music by the several bands, vocal music, and addresses by Comrades McCartney, Woodmansee, Thurston, Tracy, and Will A. Norton. Had the weather been more pleasant memorial day would have been appropriately observed in Charlevoix. However the effort was far from a failure.

☞ Backache, stitches in the side, dullness and soreness of the bowels, are symptoms of a disordered state of the digestive and assimilative organs, which can be corrected by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

WALL PAPER

GOOD-BYE SPRING.

Welcome Summer

A. T. Washburne & Co.'s

Grand Opening for Summer

Was a Great Success.

Second Invoice of Summer Goods

Now on the Road.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Report of Charlevoix Schools for the Month ending May 27, 1887.

NUMBER ENROLLED.

First department	47
Second department	51
Third department	42
Fourth department	49
Fifth department, grammar section	29
Fifth department, high school	43
Total	261

NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	54
Second department	47
Third department	39½
Fourth department	38
Fifth department, grammar section	29
Fifth department, high school	43½
Total	232

DAYS ATTENDANCE.

First department	1061
Second department	873½
Third department	643
Fourth department	700
Fifth department, grammar section	462½
Fifth department, high school	435
Total	4,175

DAYS LOST BY ABSENCE.

First department	87½
Second department	38½
Third department	11
Fourth department	47½
Fifth department, grammar section	21
Fifth department, high school	11½
Total	217

AVERAGE ATTENDANCE.

First department	50.09
Second department	43.7
Third department	21.15
Fourth department	35
Fifth department, grammar section	23.1
Fifth department, high school	21.75
Total	206

ATTENDANCE AND PUNCTUALITY, PER CENT OF NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	94½
Second department	95.2
Third department	95
Fourth department	96.1
Fifth department, grammar section	97.4
Fifth department, high school	98.9
Total	96.1

CASES TARDY.

First department	29
Second department	39
Third department	4
Fourth department	5
Fifth department, grammar school	0
Fifth department, high school	0
Total	78

NUMBER OF PUPILS NEITHER ABSENT NOR TARDY DURING THIS MONTH.

First department	13
Second department	17
Third department	11
Fourth department	16
Fifth department, grammar section	9
Fifth department, high school	13
Total	79

Shipment.

25 Schr. Bert Barnes, 110 cords wood, O. Oberg, to Milwaukee.

25 Schr. John L. Green, 70 cords slabs, N. P. Peterson, to Sheboygan.

Schr. Ella Ward, 40 tons pig iron, P. L. Co., to Chicago.

21—Schr. J. W. Sweet, 1,100 cedar posts, R. Taylor, to Milwaukee.

May 31—Schr. Mecklenburg, 130 cords wood, W. H. Dewey, to Chicago.

June 1—Schr. Lettie Martin, 55 cords slabs, F. H. Mendenhall, to Chicago.

Bridge-tender J. A. Marsh reports the number of bridge openings for the month of May as follows:

Sloops	275
Steamboats	275
Fish boats	100
Small boats	100
Schooners	2
Total	562

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.—The following is a list of letters remaining in the post office at Charlevoix, Mich., at the close of business on May 31. If any called for in one week from this date they will be sent to the dead letter office.

Persons calling for any of them, please say "advertised."

Ayers, Elbert T.
Brandon, J.
Bogart, Andros—2
Bass, Mrs. Jerry
Babcock, F. M.
Bennett, L. W.
Cook, Mrs. H. J.
Cook, Mrs. H. D.
Avery, Miss Sidney
Dobbins, S. T.
Dubrake, John B.
Dennis, Mrs Moses
Dow, Jas.
Ely, Mrs. Robin B.
Fisher, M. D.
L. I. Co., Jas.
Jewett, Paul W.
Jewett, Ira
Grainer, Edward
Green, Mrs. Jas.
Hayes, Mrs. Jas Bradford
Hilton, John
Hilton, Mrs M. A.
Hoy, Thomas
Hoy, Thomas, guardian
Lewis, Mrs. M. M.
Martinson, Jas.
Nelson, Miss Genette
Nelson, Miss Hannah J
Patrick, Andrew
Peacock, Peter
Preston, David
Rogers, Jas.
Rice, Jas.
Ross, William
Sherman, John E.
Steel, Edwin A.
Smith, H. H.
Ryan, Michael
Sherman, Thomas
Sherman, E. J.
Smith, George
Stewart, Mrs. T. S.
Todo, John
Vanderhoef, Edmund
Valier, Anthony
Vosburg, Geo.
Washburn, Miss Bertie
Wade, William—2
Wilson, Jas.
Wilson, Jas. P.
Warner, Hiram
Warner, Mrs. Hiram
Whitcom, Frank
Whitcom, Frank L.
Wills, Lucy

JOHN J. STRAND, P. M.

W. C. T. U. County Convention.

The second meeting of the W. C. T. U. of Charlevoix county W. C. T. U. will be held in the Presbyterian church, at Eveline, Jordan, commencing Tuesday evening, June 21, and closing Thursday noon.

We much desire a representation from each township in the county, whether they sustain a Union or not. All will be freely entertained, and share all the privileges of the convention except voting.

Each session will be made interesting with reports, papers, and general discussions relative to the best interests of the work.

A large attendance is desired, and expected. Let all come prepared to report. Committee of entertainment: Mrs. D

...TEMENT'S MORE PRECIOUS THAN GOLD.

BY DR. MINER.

...within my cottage small,
...beautiful Angel fair,
...on the roof in sadness sob,
...some sweet tone I've heard quite oft,
...ire green the hearth in my night,
...the room with unclear light!
...Angel heart! Where have you fled
...sweet content, for all is well.

...the mide cottage my babe lay
...ven sweet pet, his father's joy,
...the fast asleep, his cheeks are
...brown o'er his head in graceful charm,
...the fair face, the little red
...ed peacefully—I'll not disturb
...ge pale as seems that angels might
...look down enchanted as the night.

...ain on that little table there,
...Mine I have sold with so much care.
...I watch a sweet face pale
...Then, will I not be here with me.
...heavy debts hang over my head
...We keep in eternal dread.
...simple my fare, but good my health;
...husband's love to me is wealth.

...and while the gentle raindrops fall,
...ain on us comes sad as all,
...And with the rich could live like me,
...Much sweet peace and quiet,
...Our little house is rude and poor,
...Yet love is here, love makes its floor;
...Love makes its bare table a bliss;
...My home to me a kingdom is.

A LEGEND OF LAKE GEORGE.

BY MRS. CLARA MERWIN.

The Raymonds were old settlers upon Lake George. When the trackless wilderness was only to the Indian and the pioneer, and his alone canoe alone dared venture, they had ventured hither to precarious livelihood. What was the object, or what the motive which induced them to take this hazardous one could tell. But some thinks who were in the habit of speculating, occasionally, to the effect that Teonderoga, gave him a reputation of strange fire, and many popular reports which were circulating him.

...said that Raymond was not the ...east of the lone hut in which he ...young the night, when the stars ...ished and the wind came whist... ...ough the pines, thrill cries rang out ...the air, and were repeated by the ..., until it seemed as if every tree and ...and shrub had been gifted with human ...

...Even the most savage of the Indians ...dreaded "when Raymond's spirit ...ylon whence these sounds proceeded, and ...ed the affrighted Indian quaver before the ...eye of the dark settler. It was also ...when he first came to dwell in that ...ary spot, he was accompanied by a fe... whose entire figure was hidden by a ...of black, even her features being ...in a masked rendering vain the least ...ept at recognition. ...and thus the story ran from mouth to ...mouth until even the officers at the fort, the ...Pirates themselves, and the settler women ...who furnished them with the little luxuries ...of a soldier's life, were as familiar with the ...as though each had been an actor in ...the mystery.

...The annual night of April a party con... ...of some half dozen officers were ...gathered about a table in a small apartment ...of fort, discussing sundry glasses of ...wine, when there came a knock ...form of foreign derivation. It was yet ...early in the evening of the night, but the ...had done its work with most of the ...men who were drinking, and one was dozing ...over his glass, another was preparing ...to follow his example, the other half ...two who seemed less affected than the ...

...Queer Theories Th... ...cerning The ...

...Are there ...Are there ...Are the ...Are the ...

...EAR ...

...In the course ...recently before ...ence society, ...earthquakes, ...

...

...

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 204. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

...TING MINES.

...vices Resorted to to Boom Valueless Holes.

A year ago, said Major ... St. Louis Globe-Democrat ... a friend of mine who had ... for years in mining in ... Nevada, and New Mexico, ... is about the best expert I ever ... was employed to examine a ... which had been favorably reported upon by three other experts. ... took his own assayer, and went to ... mine. It did not greatly please ... at the first glance, as the rock ... looked dead, and there were no indications of any rich ore. We went ... through the mine, taking samples from all parts, which he turned over ... the assayer, fully expecting that he would find very little mineral. But to ... surprise we got back about 4000 a ton. He went through the mine again, ... exercising particular care in the selection of his samples, and the results of ... assays were even greater than before. He was almost convinced that the mine was genuine, as he did not see the least trace of any salting process. He went to the owners and told them of his examination, but ... said that he should make no report unless they would turn the mine over to him by eight hours, and let him ... satisfied with it. After ... hesitating they consented, and ... morning he took a gang of men down the shaft and started to the ... left, leaving away the ... rock, and taking his samples ... the newly-opened walls. The ... made from these did not yield ... mineral, and he saw that he ... have been salted, but how ... it imagine. At last he went ... men and asked them point-blank ... they had done it. They, ... was no longer the slightest ... of selling the mine, finally ... him. They had scraped together ... of the soft talc that is nearly always found adjoining to the footwall, and mixed it with gold-dust till it until the composition would ... about $20,000 a ton. They then ... into shotguns and fired it against the walls of the mine. The force of ... explosion scattered it over the ... wall, and caused the talc to penetrate, every crevice, so that gold would ... mind in a sample taken from any ... of the mine. This was one of ... most clever tricks I ever knew, and ... calculated to deceive the oldest ... experienced miners. If the ... in which they tried it had not ... so utterly unpromising in appearance to arouse suspicion, there is ... doubt that it would have succeeded.

Another occasion I myself came ... very near being victimized. I went to ... a mine in New Mexico, and ... was very high. The mine ... looked well, and I thought at first that ... could be little doubt of its ... with the conservation which ... from long experience, I drew ... of to exhaust every means of exploitation, and told the owner that I ... not take my samples from the ... of the mine. This was one of ... very shrewd tricks, and hunted up ... calculated to deceive the oldest ... experienced miners. If the ... in which they tried it had not ... so utterly unpromising in appearance to arouse suspicion, there is ... doubt that it would have succeeded.

Quiet Theories concerning Tea.

In the course of ... science society of ... earthquakes ... the speaker ... Quiet Theories concerning Tea.

Young Logan at West Point.

Most young people would enjoy a visit to West Point, where the military school is located in which our array officers are educated, but few of them would enjoy long experience in the restraint of the place. The cadets look very pretty in their handsome suits, which show their forms to the best advantage, but life at "the post," as it is called, is a very serious business. Many a lad has gone there and found that he was not the young Logan, who was married recently to a wealthy lady of Youngstown, O., was one of the number. Lucky fellow, he now has a rich father-in-law, who has taken him into partnership, and his lines will be much easier than they would have been in the army.

Did you ever hear of a boy changing his name? Of course, girls do—when they marry some other girl's brother—but it is usual that the boys keep the name they are given at birth to the end of their days. Young Logan was an exception, however. When he was in West Point academy he was known as Manning Logan; but when his father, the famous general and orator, died, last winter, he changed his name to that of his father—John A. Logan. This young man went into West Point about the time his father was nominated for vice-president and exhibited considerable elation and a high silk hat. He was prompt to believe of both. A squad of third-class men seized him one night, perched him upon the mantelpiece, turned a spittoon over his head, put a waterproof on that, surrounded by a cavalry helmet, with the high hat crowning the edifice. Then encountered he was made to sing "I'm Getting a Big Boy Now" until he pleaded for mercy. This was not wholly efficacious, though and a day or two afterward a tall, and facetious-looking first-class man went up to him and told him he was wanted to join a theatrical company. Ten minutes later poor little Logan, completely terrorized, was sitting in the first-class man's room sewing buttons on a dilapidated jacket, while its owner assured him he was bound to make a hit in the part of the funny man of the theater.—Philadelphia Times.

The Streets of Pompeii.

The city is of an irregular oval form, about two miles in circumference, and was walled except on the side nearest the sea. It had at least eight gates, probably more, of which the best preserved ... probably the most ancient is the Nola. The streets are narrow, from twelve to fourteen feet wide, including the trottoirs. Some are even less, and the widest only about thirty feet. Rows of high stepping-stones cross the street from side to side between the trottoirs for the convenience of pedestrians in rainy weather. These stepping-stones must have greatly impeded the passage of vehicles. The walls, as before ... are low, and there is little left but the lower stories. There is no appearance of upper stories except slightly built, perhaps of wood, containing small rooms for the use of slaves. The walls facing on the streets are blank, in most instances, the windows and doors opening on the open square in the center. In some cases small shops filled the fronts of houses without communicating with any other part of them unless perhaps there is a door in the back, and signs still remain showing the particular business carried on in them.

A New York professor annually takes 1000 ... persons.

Why Men Get Bald.

"I have heard nearly as many explanations of baldness as I have seen bald-headed men, and that's a good many," said a down-town barber the other day, "but I never heard one that gave the true cause. Some people say it's disposition, cutting the hair too short, letting it grow too long, smoking too strong cigars, smoking a pipe, smoking cigarettes, drinking strong coffee, drinking bad whisky, wearing high hats, wearing low hats, wearing a hat in the house, not wearing a hat out of doors, worrying, late hours, and early piety.

"Now did you ever notice what classes of men are most commonly bald? That throws a deal of light on the cause of baldness. I have found that as a rule retail salesmen, bookkeepers, and some office clerks are more often bald than any other class of men. Why? Because they habitually stand or sit nearly every evening under a gas light.

"Bookkeepers always have a strong light over their heads. So do clerks who have to work at night. Retail salesmen sell goods under powerful burners that are most of the time directly over their heads. The strongest light dries out the hair, makes it brittle and unkindly, and finally kills it at the roots. That's how the people get bald. If you will pass your hand through your hair after you have been standing under the gas light for a few moments, you will see or feel the result. Although you may not have noticed the heat, your hair, if you've got any, will be fairly hot to the roots. You'll be surprised to notice, too, at what a distance from the light the heat will take effect. Now there's a man in the world that is so bad for the hair as getting it dry. It should be moist all the time, and with the oil that is naturally secreted by the little cells at the roots. When this oil is continually and rapidly evaporated, as it is when the head is kept heated by the gaslight, the cell dries up and the hair falls out.

"There won't be nearly so much baldness in the world after two or three generations have used the electric light exclusively. People who sit under gas-jets should wear some kind of a non-conducting head gear to protect themselves.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel this glorious gift, and how often are we witnesses of sorrow, disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent of such unhappiness. Indigestion, Dizziness, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dirziness of the Head, Palpitations of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonder ful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. now1

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years, no doctor could cure it. I have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, in-ted, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well." Electric Bitters is sold at 50 cents, and $1 per bottle, and Arnica Salve at 25c. per box, by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192w4.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas, default has been made in the payment of a mortgage executed by Carl G. Van Platen to Leonard D. Barnhouse, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 28th day of December, 1885, in liber four of mortgages, on page 500, on the second day of December, 1885, Jacob Van Platen to Lewis Reynolds and Walter F. Brown, on the 22d day of December, 1885, said assignment is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 24th day of December, 1885, in liber 10 of mortgages, on page 72, by virtue of which there is now claimed to be due the sum of twenty-five dollars, ($25) principal interest, for the recovery of which no proceedings have been instituted. And whereas the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale contained and said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, that being the place where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held, on Wednesday, the 6 day of August, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Said premises are described as follows: Commencing at a point on the north shore of Pine Lake, in said county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, where the north and east quarter line of section thirty-two, in township thirty-one north, of range twenty-one west, intersects said lake; south forty-eight degrees east along said beach, one and twenty-four hundredths chains, thence south thirty degrees east five and twenty-seven-hundredths chains to a stake; thence south forty degrees west twenty-one and one-half chains to a stake; thence south forty degrees east twenty chains to a stake on the north quarter line of said section thirty-two, thence north along said quarter line seven and twenty-one-hundredths chains to the place of beginning, containing four and one-half acres of land, more or less, being in the south-west quarter of the south-east quarter of section thirty-two, town thirty-three north, range six west, all in the township of Evelina, Charlevoix county, Michigan; excepting therefrom, from the south-east

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE WIDE WORLD.

A Catalogue of the Week's Important Occurrences Concisely Summarized.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World.

THE VERY LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

BLOOD SHED FOR ERIN.

Mr. O'Brien's Coachman Shot—An Orange Mob, Armed with Revolvers, Attempts the Irish Editor's Life.

ANDOVER, Dorchester attempt upon the life of William O'Brien, the brave Irish editor, was made by Orangemen at Hamilton, Canada, the particulars of which are embraced in the following dispatch from that city:

When Mr. O'Brien came down and to address the meeting there was another ovation. His voice was weak and he spoke with evident pain. He said: "I raise my voice very much to-night, he said, "because I have been shot at and attempted to be murdered by my friend, Mr. Kinbrick. Then he delivered in the same low intense tones a brief but scathing indictment of his persecution in Canada.

Mr. O'Brien's coachman was talking on Orange street when that gentleman came out of a side door and a yell like that which had startled the Andover mob was heard. Mr. McKenzie stepped forward and taking the riot act from his pocket, commenced reading its contents to the crowd. He was cheered by a few but hooted by the majority. Stones were thrown, stalwarts, hitherto peaceable, volunteered upon the mob and they gradually melted away. A telegram of sympathy from a meeting of Mr. O'Brien's Parliamentary colleagues having been read, Mr. Kinbrick made a lengthy statement of the wrongs of the Lagganvarn tenantry.

Mr. O'Brien with his antagonists a few moments before the meeting was concluded. He emerged through a side door in McKenzie's company with Messrs. Kilbride, McMahon, and Campbell, and a dozen Canadian Nationalists gathered about him. Mr. O'Brien and his friends made their appearance at the corner of Hughson and Jackson streets, where they found waiting them a close carriage which was in waiting down a side street. Behind the driver sat Mr. Kinbrick. Beside the driver sat a Mr. Kane, a Tory. As the carriage dashed into Hughson street there were a number of firearmers let off, some almost immediately followed by several discharges of revolvers. The driver, John Nelson, at the moment became terrified, and, exclaiming "Oh O'Brien, I am shot!" Nelson dropped the reins, and the horses started on a gallop. The shot had struck in the left eight by a bullet, T. P. O'Connor seized the reins, and the whip was piled out, but the sharpness of the crowd was evidenced by eight shots in all being fired. One grazed the carriage, and another struck the panel of the carriage.

As they reached the door of the hotel the crowd, which was close to them, fired a number of rotten eggs, followed by curses and groans. The police, who were drawn up in front of the hotel, had a sharp skirmish with the mob in trying to keep the door clear. Mr. O'Brien was shot in the window of the hotel and exclaimed, "Don't mind me, gentlemen, I am not hurt." He was carried into the hotel, and a number of revolvers were drawn in front of the hotel, but

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

The Tide of Immigration.

That a stream can rise no higher than its source is no truer than that the character of a people can be no better than that of the individuals who compose it. The population of the United States is about sixty millions, and if not—as Carlyle said of the English—"mostly fools," it is nevertheless the fact that it contains an appalling proportion of the fools, knaves, and paupers of every other nation under the sun. Added to these classes is the enormous majority of the immigrants who, being neither idiotic, criminal, nor dependent, still are incapacitated—by an inheritance of old-world ideas, traditions, and customs—for a ready comprehension of the fundamental principles of a free government.

The stream may not rise higher than its source; and if American politics is debauched, if city and county and state governments are shamelessly corrupt, it is because the current of our national life is fed by an unrestricted volume of immigration from the lowest sources.

There can be little hope of remedy for the increasing evils which beset us so long as we allow this country to be made a free Botany bay for the lunatics, cranks, and criminals of the rest of the world. Immigrants of the moral fiber, the sturdy virtues, the intelligence, thrift, sobriety, and independence which founded the republic, subdued the wilderness, and made this an asylum for the oppressed—not for the outlaws and convicts and incapables—will be always welcome.

But it is time to call a halt on the other classes. The wisest statesmanship is demanded to meet and check the evils of their swelling numbers.—Chicago News.

Protect the Public Lands.

The government needs to have its hands strengthened for the work of protecting the public lands which now, for the first time in its history, it is entering upon with intelligence and vigor. It needs the backing of the courts and of an aroused public opinion. There are large land grant corporation which have delayed to take out their patents in the hope that they might ultimately get possession of the millions of acres to which they now make a vague claim, but which are not a part of their actual grant. These corporations should have their territory exactly and finally defined, and the rest of their claim restored to the public domain. There are numerous private land claims which need a similar adjustment. There are large indemnity withdrawals which, having been made without the authority of the law, ought now to be revoked and the areas thrown open again to the people. And finally there are millions of acres which having been granted to corporations on conditions that have not been fulfilled ought now to be declared forfeited and restored to the public domain. To accomplish all this work the government needs all the support it can get from every quarter.—Providence Journal.

New York's Obscure Millionaires.

New York rich men are very often obscure. The persons whose names you see in the newspapers often turn out to be of dubious credit, but the millionaires who never get into print are the men to be afraid of. Here is one, Christopher Meyer, who is said to have money enough to buy the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and advance the cash. Probably no newspaper reader ever heard of him until yesterday. It is found out that he is a German who got into the rubber trade in his infancy and kept along with it until it made him a great fortune. In the same way the Poppenhausen family had their start. The first Poppenhausen was a German who was a potter or something inferior in a whalebone house. At that time whalebones were used for many of the purposes of India rubber, such as for umbrella rods. New and then there would be a sort of job lot of whalebones in the store which the potter would buy at a bargain. In course of time Poppenhausen became the head of the rubber industries, cranks, and criminals of the rest of the world. Immigrants of the moral fiber, the sturdy virtues, the intelligence, thrift, sobriety, and independence which founded the republic, subdued the wilderness, and made this an asylum for the oppressed—not for the outlaws and convicts and incapables—will be always welcome.

DEBUT OF THE DIVA.

Maurice Strakosch Talks About Patti's First Appearances A Spunky Girl.

"The debut of the diva was, as I may say, the result of an accident. A concert was given for charity at the New York Academy of Music in 1850, and a singer of some celebrity in her day, but now forgotten, made her first appearance. By way of novelty, a little girl 8 years old, the daughter of a singing teacher, was announced to sing the song made famous by Jenny Lind, the 'Echo Song,' and an aria from 'La Sonnambula.' When the child came upon the stage she was a symphony in black and white—luminous black eyes and white pinafores. She was given a round of applause on her appearance, and she was almost as self confident as she is now. Her singing was phenomenal, and she created an extraordinary sensation, starting her at once upon her career as the greatest singer of her age. I arranged for a series of concerts in Baltimore. The first night there were about a hundred persons in the house; the second twice as many; the sixth concert was given before an audience of 2,000 people, and the enthusiasm was unbounded. Even in those early days Patti was just as capricious and self willed as she has always been. One day I took her for a walk and she saw a big wax doll in a shop window. She dropped my hand and rushed to the window in an ecstasy of childish admiration. Nothing would do but I must buy the doll for her, so I promised her that she should have it. That evening there was a large house, and before her first entrance Patti sent for me.

"'La bambola! [The doll.]

"I told her she should have it in the morning. The tears came into her big, dark eyes, and she informed me, with a stamp of her little foot, that if the doll were not forthcoming then and there she should not sing. So the audience was kept waiting while I went to the shop keeper's house, thence to his store, brought the doll, and hurried with it to the child. She took it, kissed it with effusion, dashed the tears from her eyes, and went on the stage to sing in a style that astonished the public. Ole Bull was traveling with the company, and one day at dinner the old violinist refused to give little Patti her medicum of champagne—a beverage of which even then she was very fond. Another child would have pouted and cried, but Adelina rose and gave the violinist a resonant box on the ear, much to his consternation and the amusement of the guests in the dining room."—Chicago News Interview.

A Southern Yankee City.

Birmingham has just two characteristics of the southern town—wide streets and wooden awnings over the sidewalks. In all other respects she is Yankee—and beyond. There is the bustle of New York on her main streets, the push of Chicago in doing business. Everybody is on the rush, including even the colored man. If he finds a place here to sit in the sun and sleep somebody will soon walk all over him without deeming an apology necessary. On the street or in the hotel office you find the Yankee, the southerner, the Jew, Englishman, German, Italian, Frenchman and Mongolian, and all are looking in the same direction—after the mighty dollar. While the southerner was doubtless here first, he soon invited his Yankee friend to come down with his long pocketbook, and it was well for both that the invitation was not refused. There has been more money made in real estate in Birmingham in the last five years than in any speculation of whatever nature, north or south.

Though I call it a southern Yankee city let me do the southerner full justice. He has here shown his hand and it is here we will judge him. He has exhibited the push, enterprise and perseverance of the legendary Yankee. He has invested and reinvested. He has built and rebuilt. He made the town. He controls its local offices. He exhibits all the push and energy that can be demanded, even with a population half Yankee. The young southerner has come to the front in Birmingham as nowhere else in the south, and by his public enterprise and business sagacity has shown the world what is in him. Birmingham is a young man's town. It will continue to be so for all time to come. He has grown up so w'er the new order of things and he had to begin barehanded and to fight the prejudices of a hundred years. He has done nobly well—no one could have done better.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Railroad Conductor's Curse.

A funny thing came under the observation of a reporter the other day. He was talking to Conductor Fortinson, when the latter pulled out a pencil and made a railroad note in his memorandum book. This book and the pencil used by Mr. Fortinson brought up the subject of curses in a peculiar way. It was sharpened with a four sided point instead of being round.

"What's that for?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, nothing; just a freak of mine. But look at that finger."

"What's the matter with the finger?"

"Don't you see that corn?"

"Well, how did it come there?"

"By writing on the train."

"I don't have any corns on my fingers," suggested the reporter.

"You don't have to. You see, writing on the train while it is in motion is no easy job, and to write at all intelligibly you have to grip the pencil as tight as a vise. Nearly all of us have those corns."

The conductor's right middle finger, on the left side, had a thick, fat, hard corn on it, exactly the one caused from a tight shoe.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Successful Lawyer.

No person is so pestered by the cranks as a lawyer whose name appears often in the public prints in connection with important cases. Every mail brings him correspondence which refers to cases of the most desperate magnitude, and the worst of it is that they are mostly so cleverly written that one cannot detect the crankiness in them. I've had criminal cases put to me in this way, and if such cases ever existed they would be the marvel of the legal world, plots of murder and other crime which rivaled anything ever written in fiction. My best visitor was a man who wanted to sue the municipality of Quincy, Ill., for $500,000, for a fracture of his leg while walking on a plank sidewalk there. I was to get half the damages as my fee if I secured them, and then he was to enter similar suits against about ten other municipalities. That man had been to my office about eight years ago on the same errand. A person has to humor cranks and treat them as courteously as sane people, if he would avoid trouble.—Ex-Governor Johnson in Globe Democrat.

Gladstone and His Pug.

Gladstone is sensitive about having lost his way recently in a London fog. The many newspaper stories of the incident have greatly annoyed him. The queen was unconsciously one of his tormentors. The other day, when the ex-premier was visiting at Windsor, her majesty remarked:

"We hear all about your adventure in the fog, Mr. Gladstone."

The old gentleman drew himself up and frowned. "The incident, madam," he said, politely, "has been most unwarrantably exaggerated. It was merely a start, a failure and a return."—Chicago Herald.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

Manistee is to have a $20,000 Congregational church.

The Supreme court convened Tuesday with 192 cases on the calendar.

Frankfort claims to have assurance that the Chicago & West Michigan railroad will touch them on the Traverse City route.

In the memorial parade at Saginaw City on Monday was a snare drum which Charles Munger carried through the war of 1812, and his son Jerry frightened rebels with the music thereof during the rebellion. It is still able to do effective service.

Wm. M. Harmer, photographer, left Wednesday for the summer resorts of Charlevoix, Petoskey and Mackinaw City, where he will spend a few weeks vacation before leaving for the east via, the great lakes and St. Lawrence to Montreal, where he has accepted a situation.—Grand Rapids News & Express.

Hindoo Women.

"During the ten years of my residence among the Hindoos," said a female missionary just returned from India, in a lecture delivered before a Brooklyn audience, the other night, "I never saw a Hindoo child receive a caress from its mother. Scarcely clothed, beaten and despised, it knows hardly where to lay its head or to get its meals. If it is a girl the mother cannot be fond of it, for it may be the means of disgrace to her. If a wife has no male child, her husband may divorce her. This is changed somewhat when the child becomes old enough to be engaged. This is six years. The affair is settled without consulting the poor girl herself. And who do you think finds the girl a husband? The barber. He knows the circumstances of the family and rank in life, as he has to visit the house every day to shave the male members of the family before they can pray. He travels sometimes weeks and months through the country before he can find a young marriageable man of the same station in life as the girl. For in India there is no intermarriage between castes.

"Now for an idea of a Hindoo woman's home-life. She lives in a small room almost destitute. The floor and walls are of clay, with no ornamentation of any sort, and the least furniture possible. Every morning she has to pray—not for herself as she is taught that she has no soul—but for her husband, for rain, and for general blessings. Then she spends two or three hours in preparing the breakfast. She doesn't eat it with her husband, but, perhaps, fans him at his request. During the daytime she either sleeps, gossips with the other women, or sometimes a reader comes to them from the lives of the gods. These stories are such for human beings they are vile from beginning to end. The children and women are taught them. At night they prepare their husband's meals in the same manner. They are not protected against the weather and dampness, nor are they properly fed and clothed. This life they accept as their lot, as they are doomed cursed by the gods and are taken to the stable and left alone. The only food they can get is left by stealth. Thousands die of neglect. The first day that a Hindoo boy abuses his mother is a festal occasion with his father, who boasts of it to his friends. To be a widow is the sum of unhappiness. She is especially cursed by the gods. As the husband dies, half-a-dozen barbers' wives rush upon her and tear the jewelry from her ears and nose. Behind the funeral cortege she follows, surrounded by those relatives who throw her into the water. If she drowns they say she was a good wife after all. She has gone to meet her husband.' She is kept in a darkened room for fourteen days. At the end of this time her husband's ashes are taken to the river, and, after a peculiar ceremony of prayers, the soul is supposed to be free. It may enter an insect or an animal. The worst punishment the soul can sustain is to enter the body of a woman."

Name-Carving at Harrow School.

The school house at Harrow is still standing. There is a room down stairs where all the boys in the early days had their classes. But now it is only used two or three times a week, when masters and scholars assemble in it for prayers. It is a long, narrow room, with high, old-fashioned window. The walls are wainscoted, and all over the wainscoting and on the benches and desks, on the mantel-piece, and even on the head master's chair, schoolboys for the last three hundred years have carved their names. Some of these names are large and sprawly, others small and neat; and they are so close together that there is no space left for any new ones to be added. On one side, in very large letters, Byron's name is cut in two different places, and near it is that of Peel, the great English statesman. The boys were really forbidden to do this, and every name, now grown so rare, represents a good punishment. But the masters are now glad that the boys were disobedient; for many became famous in after life, and their school boy carvings are pointed out with pride. Harrovians, as Harrow boys are called, now have their names carved for them on new panels fastened to the wall for the purpose, and they think it quite an honor.—Elizabeth Robins Pennell, in St. Nicholas.

Rhinestones and cut steel buckles are used for fastening velvet belts.

The Gardens of Egypt.

At the beginning of March the gardens of Egypt are really wonderful; the orange and lemon trees spread their most pungent odor; the rose trees are covered with innumerable flowers; the palms, with their green and white crowns, swing there in the wind; the oleanders there border the avenues; on the lawns anemones, annual and perpetual flowering pinks, chrysanthemums, violets, zinnias, periwinkles, snapdragons, mignionettes, pansies, and petunias blend their innumerable colors with the shade of the trees, bushes, and shrubs. Groups of bamboo lift here and there their long, green or golden stems, crowned with an immense plume of pretty little trembling leaves. One comprehends on seeing these stems, which resume in a few months enormous proportions, the cruel ingenious punishment of the Chinese in binding a criminal in a young bamboo. The plant grows, and the wretch is quartered in a few weeks. No wood is lighter or more useful than that of the bamboo. One does not understand why the Egyptians neglect to plant it along the canals and on every cultivated land, where it grows so well.

But what gives, at least during winter and spring, the most smiling aspect to the Egyptian gardens, are the great sheets of rose bougainvillias that cling to the walls, the trees and groups of foliage, and which display everywhere their varied and exquisite tints of their flowers. The bougainvillias is certainly the finest of climbing shrubs. During five months it flowers under the winter sun, takes shades of extreme delicacy—one might say a light rose trail, the intensity of which every play of light modifies. The aloes, the agave, shake themselves on rocky slopes. On the banks of the water-courses the blue lotus and the papyrus still revive antique reminiscences. Grass cannot be raised in Egypt. The layer of soil is so thin that the sun dries it up immediately, and unless the grass is constantly submerged, it turns yellow and perishes at once. It is not the heat alone that produces this result, for there is very much fine grass in the tropics; but the heat, accompanied with the shallowness of the soil, renders the culture of grass impossible in Egypt.

It is with difficulty that a few isolated blades of grass sprout during winter along the Nile and the canals; they disappear as soon as spring begins, so that everywhere in the country where artificial cultivation finishes, the dry and bare desert begins. In the place of grass a pretty little brushwood is used, and this is encountered everywhere, the same as grass is encountered in America.—Brooklyn Magazine.

☞The life-giving properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla have established its well-earned reputation as the best, if the most effectual and popular blood purifier of the day. For all diseases of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, this remedy has no equal. Price $1.

"I suppose you will give your children an academic education?" said a gentleman to a pompous ignoramus who had been boasting of his own accomplishments.

"Yes, sir," was the prompt reply, "of course I will. That's the kind of an education I got, and if it takes every shilling of my fortune, my boys and girls shall be as much injured as their father was."—Youth's Companion.

JACKSON, MICH., Jan. 30, 1878.

WM. JOHNSTON & CO.:

GENTS—We are selling more of your Hubrect Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Dandelion and Wild Cherry than any other preparation for the blood, and it is giving satisfaction to all, everyone claiming it speaking highly of its favor. Sold one bottle for a man who had a very large tumor upon his back, which had been there for years, and had resisted every kind of treatment, costing him over $100. The cure effected by one bottle of your medicine has entirely cured him. Yours truly,

COLWELL BROS., Druggists.

SCROFULA

Humors,

Erysipelas,

Canker, and

Catarrh,

Can be cured by purifying the blood with

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5.

I do not believe that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has an equal as a remedy for Scrofula. Three bottles of it have done me much good. I shall recommend it to all my friends.—E. Haines, No. Lindale, O.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease.—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

For forty years I have suffered, for years, from Catarrh, which was so severe that it destroyed my appetite and wrecked my system. After trying a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I got no relief. I persisted in using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and getting no relief, I gave it up. Boston Highlands, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is superior to any blood purifier that I have ever tried. I have taken it for Scrofula, Canker, and Salt-Rheum, and received much benefit from it. It is good, also, for a weak stomach.—Mills Allen Paige, South Bradford, Mass.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

PANTS, OVERALLS AND SHIRTS

FULL SIZE, WELL MADE AND PERFECT FIT.

TRY THEM, for sale by G. W. MILLER.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX - - MICHIGAN.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON

Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.

TERRACE FARM. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1877. TIME-CARDS OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS. 1877.

THOMAS FRIANT, CAPT. R. VANDEKIRKOF. Sailing South Every Morning. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	7.00
PETOSKEY	8.00
CHARLEVOIX	9.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	12.00

Going North Every Afternoon. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	1.30
CHARLEVOIX	3.00
PETOSKEY	4.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	6.00

LOU A. CUMMINGS, CAPT. W. A. SNYDER.

Going North Every Morning. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	7.00
CHARLEVOIX	8.30
PETOSKEY	9.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	11.00

Going South Every Afternoon. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	1.00
PETOSKEY	2.00
CHARLEVOIX	3.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	4.00

Baggage and Freight Carried at Low Rates.

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 9, 1877.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. If the slip does not show a credit the week following payment, please notify us at once, that the omission may be corrected.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

The place to buy smoked shoulders at from six to ten cents per pound is at Will See & Co.'s.

☞Upright Brothers will pay the highest market price for wool.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

The resorters have commenced to come.

Perry Weed has just got in a large stock of fresh candies.

The public schools close to-morrow for the summer vacation.

M. S. Moulton has placed a stock of clocks and jewelry in the Journal.

A new sidewalk was put down in front of Will See & Co.'s store this week.

Emrey Bros., have laid a new side walk in front of their premises this week.

Geo. Madison has added a new porch to his residence on Clinton street.

At the ten cent tea Monday night the ladies of the M. E. church cleared $12.22.

Amos Fox has rebuilt his sidewalk this week, from the Sentinel building to the bridge.

A new sidewalk, of dressed lumber, was laid in front of the Sentinel building yesterday.

The new Belvedere House is completed and will be turned over to the committee this week.

Chas Graves reports six cottages to paint on the Charlevoix resort as soon as he finishes the club house.

The front of the Buttars block has been brightened with gold leaf this week. A. H. Bennett did the laying.

We call the farmers' attention to the department of "Farm and Garden" on our last page, just adopted this week.

Manager Book announces that the rink will be open every Tuesday and Saturday afternoon and evening, until further notice.

W. H. Francis has commenced an addition to L. W. Fisk's cottage, and will make numerous improvements about the premises.

J. L. Hurd & Co. are occupying the Fox store. Since the improvement of this building it is light and commodious, and makes a fine store.

On the 1st of July this week is a prospectus of the American Magazine. This is a magazine of high class, and is fit literature to be in every family in the land.

An examination of D. S. Way's samples of photographic work will convince the most skeptical that it is not necessary to go elsewhere for good work.

Jacob Weyburn advertises his laundry and polishing machine by cards this week. He guarantees first-class work,—equal to anything from Grand Rapids.

The Royce & Lansing Musical Comedy company played Tuesday evening to a full house, and it has been a long time since Charlevoix has been treated to so high a class musical entertainment as this.

A banquet in celebration of the completion of the Detroit, Charlevoix, & Escanaba railroad survey to Bellaire was given at that place last Saturday evening by the Business Men's Association, and a happy affair is reported.

Chas. Swallow is painting the Fountain City house with Sherwin-William's colors. The inside has also received a thorough renovating, new paper, lacquering, etc. Mr. Cooper proposes to have the brightest hotel in Charlevoix.

A dispatch from Mr. Van Auken states that he will not be able to return in time to conduct the morning service at the Congregational church next Sunday, consequently no service will be held at 10:30 a. m. Sunday school will be held at the usual hour.

Our rural friends can safely make up their minds to celebrate the Fourth in Charlevoix. Arrangements are being perfected for greater attractions than ever before offered, and a "six days' sport may be safe-calculated on. The particulars will be published as soon as the program is completed.

And still there are a few unbelievers who claim to think that the D. C. & E. R. R. is all moonshine. Mr. Nosh's day there were some gentlemen who sneered at the idea of a flood. But they got beautifully soaked, just the same.—Kalkaska Leader.

The railroad surveyors average about one mile a day, but they are doing thorough work and have found an excellent route from Charlevoix to Bellaire. The line follows Pine lake to within about a mile of Ironton then runs to the Ox-bow, then along the west side of the Intermediate chain of lakes through Central Lake and Snowflake village to Bellaire.—Bellaire Breeze.

Those farmers who persist in killing off the robins claiming that they hurt the crops were never more mistaken in their lives. Let them have a few cherries in cherry time, but spare them. We have watched them from our window pick out of the sod grub after grub, and they are just the ones that do the farmer the most harm. Don't kill the robin, for if you do you will kill the farmer's best friend.

Ask some men for an advertisement or some local—they answer they don't believe in advertising—a paper is never read. Let the man be caught kissing his neighbor's wife or holding up the side of a building some dark night, and his time changes instantly, and if the printing office is in a garret of a seventeen story building he will climb up to the top to beg the editor to keep quiet—don't publish it in the paper, you know.—Ex.

Mrs. Hugh Miller died last Saturday at her home in this township, at the age of 67 years, after a long sickness. Mrs. Miller was one of the pioneers of this region, having, with her husband, removed from their home in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., to their present home in May, 1856, where they have since resided, taking an active part in the development of this county. The funeral services were held at the family residences Sunday afternoon.

Last week Mr. Thomas Burns erected a very handsome monument in the Charlevoix cemetery, upon the lot of Mr. Winton Lumphere. It is by far the most beautiful monument in the cemetery and reflects much credit upon Mr. Burns for skill and proficiency in his business. He also while at Charlevoix secured the contract of placing a similar description upon a monument for Mr. William See, erected to the memory of his departed wife.—Petoskey Democrat.

Purely Personal.

Mrs. Spain is quite seriously sick this week.

Capt. A. H. Bennett has quit the tug Bob Stephenson.

Lon. Campbell, of Petoskey, Sundayed in Charlevoix.

Geo. H. Winans, of Kalamazoo, is at the resort this week.

C. B. Glass and L. Benson went to St. Ignace Monday, on business.

Miss Howey, of Barnard visited friends in East Jordan over Sunday.

Miss Maggie Holler, of Petoskey, spent Sunday in Charlevoix visiting friends.

Miss Grace Litney, of Sutton's Bay, is visiting friends in Charlevoix this week.

Miss Kate Smith, of Petoskey, Sundayed in Charlevoix with her brother Fred A. Smith.

R. C. Dart, attorney of Petoskey was in town Saturday and Monday on legal business.

Mrs. R. A. Stone and daughter, of Kalamazoo, arrived Tuesday, to remain the resort season.

Henry Barth, the boiler maker, left this morning for a business trip to Manistique and Chicago.

Geo. W. Miller goes to Chicago again this week, to buy new clothing and gents' furnishing goods.

Mrs. E. George, of Flint, and Mrs. Gannon, evangelist, were visiting at Mr. Wilks. They left on the Champlain Sunday for Chicago.

C. J. Pailthorp, of Petoskey, made us a call Friday morning, surprised to find the publisher with sleeves up and apron on, just pulling the last sheets of the week's edition.

W. P. Brown is in Big Rapids this week, attending the Diocesan convention of Christ Church Mission in session at that place. Rev. Dr. Fair of St. Mark's church of Grand Rapids, will officiate at the Episcopal church Sunday, will accompany Mr. Brown to Charlevoix.

☞"Do not take quinine for malarial disorders. Ayer's Ague Cure contains none, nor any other injurious ingredient. This preparation, if taken strictly in accordance with directions, is warranted to cure all malarial diseases.

Coming Events.

Usual Sunday services at the Baptist church.

Gospel meeting at the opera house Sunday evening.

Remember the dance at the rink next Wednesday evening, June 16th, for the benefit of the boys' band.

J. S. Smithson is expected to deliver a gospel address at Barnard school house, Sunday afternoon, June 19th, at 3:00 o'clock.

Children's day will be observed at the M. E. church at Ironton at 10:30 in the morning with an appropriate program. And there will be preaching in the evening.

The public school entertainment will be held tomorrow evening at the opera hall. Special efforts have been made that this entertainment be, if possible, more interesting than those had in the past, which is a sufficient guarantee of success.

The Barnard and Hilton Sunday schools have united for the purpose of celebrating children's day, June 12th, at Barnard school house. An interesting program has been prepared including an address by Rev. W. H. McCartney on Christian education. Exercises commence at 1:30 p. m.

The closing exercises of the Charlevoix schools will be held at Bartholomew's opera hall tomorrow evening. The public knows the character of past entertainments, too well to let this one pass without a liberal patronage. The program is varied, and contains a happy selection of subjects to please the listener, while the effort necessary to prepare the children, has benefited them greatly in reading and elocution. Everybody should attend.

The Rev. Campbell Fair, D. D., a prominent clergyman recently from Baltimore, now rector of St. Mark's church Grand Rapids, has accepted an invitation to officiate for Christ Church Mission on Sunday next, at Bartholomew's hall. Hours of service: Morning prayer and sermon at 10:30; half hour catechetical instruction on coming to Christ in baptism and confirmation, at 3 o'clock, p. m., followed by evening prayer and sermon. Candidates for either are expected and requested to be at this service, that their names may be taken and preparation made for the administration of the sacrament of baptism on Sunday, the 17th, by Rev J. W. Bancroft, and the Apostolic Rite of confirmation by Bishop Gillespie, on Sunday, the 20th.

Grand Traverse Baptist Association.

The 21st annual meeting of the Grand Traverse Baptist association will be held with the Charlevoix church, Wednesday and Thursday, June 15 and 16.

The association includes 15 Baptist churches, and extends from Traverse City on the south to Sault Ste. Marie on the north. Delegates from these churches, and others will be in attendance on the meetings.

Rev. S. U. Stimpson, D. D., of Terre Haute, Ind., will speak on foreign missions. Every one is invited to attend all the services of the meeting.

M. E. Church.

To search the scriptures is the duty of all men, and the high privilege of God's children. Tuesday evening affords an opportunity that should not be neglected.

Telegraphic communications with distant places illustrates God's method of receiving his people when they pray. Thursday evening we unitedly send up to the throne our requests.

Friday evening, Sunday school teachers meet for study and business, at the parsonage.

Sunday morning special services in honor of children's day.

W. H. McCARTNEY.

Shipments.

June 2—Schr. Sandusky, 100,000 feet hardwood lumber, P. L. L. Co., to Detroit.

3—Schr. Jessie Phillips, 120,000 feet hemlock lumber, 1,000,000 shingles, Wm. Mason, P. L. L. Co., to Chicago.

3—Schr. L. B. Shepard, 175,000 feet hardwood lumber, Gleason & Porter, to Chicago.

4—Schr. Oneida Chief, 140,000 feet hardwood lumber, P. L. L. Co., to Chicago.

4—Schr. Cleveland, 225,000 feet hardwood lumber, A. W. Olds, to Detroit.

4—Schr. Sunspeede, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, P. L. L. Co., to Milwaukee.

6—Schr. John L. Green, 38 cords wood, N. P. Petersen, 41,000 feet hardwood lumber, A. W. Olds, to Sheboygan.

7—Schr. Port Huron, 100 cords wood, O. Osborn, to Milwaukee.

7—Schr. Duncan City, 8,000 cedar posts, W. H. Dawson, to Chicago.

7—Schr. Sea Gem, 24,000 feet hardwood lumber John Nicholls, to Chicago.

7—Schr. Jos. Duvall, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, P. L. L. Co., to Sheboygan.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Eveline.

Good weather for farming.

Strawberries will soon be ripe.

Alex. Curry is still on the sick list.

Charles Norton returned home from St. Ignace last week.

There was a hop at Schoffen's hall last Friday evening. All had a big time.

Messrs. Parker & McDonald had a gang of men planting potatoes last week. They have about seven acres between them.

A good story is told on J. D. Parrish, the peddler, to illustrate one of the evils of not attending strictly to business when driving along a rough road. It is assumed that next time he will keep his eyes on his horses.

W. S. Stripp contemplates planting about fifteen acres of potatoes this season.

The Helping Hand society have adjourned their meetings until September next.

Miss Cleery returned last Thursday after an absence of a week.

We are glad to note that we have another correspondent from Hayes. We should enjoy reading correspondence from every town in the county.

Alex. Curry while away from home visiting last Friday had his house entered by some one and $24 in money and a pair of pants carried off. He says he thinks he knows who it was, and if the property is returned at once terms of settlement will be easy.

Wilson.

Beautiful weather.

Crops are growing finely.

Miss Ruth Bailey has gone back to East Jordan again.

Miss Dolly Shepherd is home again after a two months stay at Dwights.

Mrs. Jon Moore was taken very ill on Monday morning and Dr. Willard was summoned.

Mrs. Robert Shepherd went to Charlevoix, and spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Durance.

In traveling around we notice that Mr. Preble has greatly improved the Empey place which he bought recently, fencing and putting in crops; that Geo. Bowen has been clearing on his place, and fencing; also that John Vance has fenced his lot and put in a garden.

As young Alexander, driving one of Trimble liveries, was coming from Boyne Falls on Sunday last, he spied a large bear near C. Burch's place, which trotted down the road ahead of the horses. They being frightened and the driver having no weapon of warfare old bruin escaped.

Burgess.

Mrs. I. S. Webster received a letter last Saturday from Mrs. Mandraville, of Warren Co., Pa., announcing the death of Mr. Mandraville. They were old residents of Hayes, and have many friends there, and in Charlevoix, where they were well known.

School commenced at Maple Grove school house Monday, with Mr. Thomas Goodrich as teacher.

Miss Adelade Lewis is at home; having closed a very successful term of nine months school in South Arm.

John Ross has returned from Milwaukee, Wis., where he had been visiting his aunt.

June 8.

South Hayes.

Wild strawberries are ripe.

Saturday was one of the warmest days of the season thus far.

Mrs. W. Grandy who has been suffering with sore eyes for the past few weeks is recovering.

Crops are looking quite well in this vicinity.

Mr. A. Webb is rapidly recovering from his recent illness.

Cherry trees are heavily loaded with blossoms, and promise a good crop.

Peter McNally is loading a vessel with shipping wood.

June 6.

Excursion to Elk Rapids.

The Lon A. Cummings will give an excursion from East Jordan, Ironton, and Charlevoix, to Elk Rapids, on Sunday, June 19. Particulars next week.

A New Potato Bug Exterminator.

F. G. Hines & Co. have accepted the agency of a new article called "Bug Finish," which is destined to have a monstrous sale, and is guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. It is cheap, only 5 cents per pound. Special rates on large quantities. Requires no mixing, is ready for use dry. One pound will go as far as ten pounds of plaster or Paris green, as mixed by the farmer and is therefore cheaper, and saves the trouble and danger of mixing and using Paris green. It was used last season on the State Agricultural college farm at Lansing. The managers wrote the manufacturers as follows: "That it gave good satisfaction on garden and farm." The mixture is cheaper than any other used for the purpose.

Saved His Life.

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, afflicted with phthisic, also diabetes; the pains were almost unendurable, and would sometimes almost throw him into convulsions. He tried Electric Bitters and got relief from first bottle and after taking six bottles was entirely cured, and had gained in flesh 18 pounds. Says he positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at 50 cents a bottle by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

WALL

PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dadoes, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

GOOD-BYE SPRING

Welcome Summer!

A. T. Washburne & Co.'s

Grand Opening for Summer

Was a Great Success.

Second Invoice of Summer Goods

Now on the Road.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

HEADQUARTERS FOR

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

Sole agent for the celebrated AMERICAN WATCHES in Solid Gold. All the latest, best and most approved Watches manufactured.

Repairing a specialty. Promptly and Warranted. Watches left with us to remain for six months are subject to sale for charges.

C. R. BELLINGER.

Bridge St., - - Charlevoix.

Harbor Springs and Manistique.

Propeller A. C. Van Raalte,

CAPT. E. A. BOUCHARD.

Leaves Harbor Springs, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at 7:00 a. m. Leaves Manistique every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday at 7:00 a. m. Touching at Cross Village and Port Hope both ways.

This new Steamer is equipped for freighting from Harbor Springs to Mackinac Island every Sunday.

Time Cards of Pine Lake Steamers,

(STANDARD TIME.)

SEASON OF 1877.

Steamer JOSEPH GORDON,

CAPT. LEWIS GUARD.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 6:30, arrive at East Jordan at 7.00, leave Boyne City 8.00, arrive at Charlevoix 8.30.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 1.00, arrive at Boyne City 1.30, leave East Jordan 2.00, arrive at Charlevoix 2.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer NORTH STAR,

CAPT. J. M. THOMPSON.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 7.00, arrive at East Jordan 7.30, leave East Jordan 8.30, arrive at Charlevoix 9.00.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix at 2.00, arrive at East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer CLARA BELLE,

CAPT. GEO. JEPSON.

Morning—Leave Boyne City at 6.30, arrive at Charlevoix 7.30, connect with the Steamer Joseph Gordon, returning, leave Charlevoix upon the arrival of the Joseph Gordon, arrive at Boyne City 9.00.

Afternoon—Leave Boyne City at 1.00; returning leave Charlevoix at

THE ELOPEMENT.

BY LARRY LINNET.

It was such an undertaking that the lover fell to pacing back and forth in a cold sweat shiving. "It is now so dearest Hippy."

Said he, round the mansion sneaking, lowly to the watch-dog speaking; but his locks would weep keep sequenking, and each shadow leap to make.

In the parlor, fearing sleeping, sat the maid on a pape, keeping watch, and often slyly peeping, Which the moves failed to see.

"I'll wait and catch them going, sneak behind them, and their knowing, give them a hearty blowing," said he, chuckling in glee.

From her shadow, peering was a smiling face, quite cheering to the lover Harry leaning to the window just below.

"Darling," came the words entreating, "is there danger of falling? Hist! I think I hear him calling. No, I guess it was the wind."

"Don't you fear, my little darkey," said he, "and don't be lonely. Hard I'll try, I know my love was plucky. Brave, darling; not so fearful."

Ah, her fatal hesitating! Papa's voice gave indication that the time for the consultation of the villain heart was nigh.

"So! my dear, thou wouldst deceive me, and in style of laughing leave me; with thy foolish conduct grieve me," papa said, with gun in hand.

Still as statues both were standing, when effectual was the landing and the lover heard the voice commanding them to halt, with reprimand.

"My resort is such a measure and deny your pleasure, I do not, but I command you to live in the sound of papa's hand."

"You, young man, are bound to take her, so it seems to me; but will you make her your dear wife and see or forsake her—will you, sir? now turn and say."

"Ah, you will! then all is righted; now walk in, you gay young lighted. Your wishes have been heeded, and is sitting, nodding here."

Where the happy couple wended, and the lover for eye were blended, as her papa had intended when the plan had reached the case.

MORAL.

"Do as you are right, then go ahead."

THE TRAMP DETECTIVE.

BY HENRY DALE.

"I say, Miss, can't yer giv a poor fellur a bite to eat? I am mighty starved."

It was a ragged, dust-covered tramp who this accosted Olivia Cartridge as she stood with arms folded by the kitchen table. The girl had turned her head and stood in the middle of the room before she perceived him.

He was a savage-looking fellow, his assembled locks plainly to be seen beneath his battered hat, and his rough beard seemingly which appeared to be with some purpose, while his eyes glared with a hungry ferocity.

Any other girl would have moaned at sight of the tramp, but Olivia was brave as she was pretty and kind. Her large blue eyes scanned the man for a moment, and she perceived that he was really suffering with hunger, whatever his faults might be.

The farm at Cedar Creek was one of the finest in the country, and the great old farmhouse was well supplied with food; then why should she refuse this poor, suffering man a morsel.

"I swar, Miss, I aint had a bite to eat today," said the tramp, in a tone half pathetic and half savage, with nothing of the professional whine of a beggar.

"Could you spare nothing to eat?" she asked, her blue eyes beaming more sympathetic.

"No, I couldn't; I swar it."

"Then I shall never be said that any one was turned hungry from my father's house," said Olivia, and she quickly set before the hungry creature what was a feast to him.

He ate ravenously, and the food had almost entirely disappeared when he rose from the table, and dressed his dilapidated hat, which he had tucked under the table before sitting down.

"Take what is left—you may need it before you get out here," said Olivia.

"God bless ye, gal," said the tramp, as he crammed the biscuit into his capacious pockets. "I've got a heart in ye, which I was all other people had, then they wouldn't make sich devils out o' us as they do. I'm a bad man, I know it, but they made me what I am. Tell the old man I'll work, but now I'm out on the road, I don know where next bide's to come from."

Having taken all the remaining provisions that had been set before him, the tramp left the house after once more blessing the farmer's pretty daughter for her kindness and generosity.

As Olivia stood in the doorway, the rays of the setting sun falling upon her golden hair, she watched the tramp go down the road, that individual turned about and cast one more glance at the pretty girl. Some kindly thoughts were in the heart of that rough creature, and he had appreciated the manner in which he was fed.

"People are all bad—no use to say they aint," mutterd the tramp, further, when I say so that gal's a angel."

His soliloquy was in an undertone, and it was at the very end of his hearing that he could be heard by her.

"I wonder what time father will come home," said the pretty girl as she stood gazing down the great road.

"Olivia," called her mother from another apartment, "who was in the kitchen a moment ago?"

"A hungry man, mother."

"A tramp?"

"Yes, mother."

"Did you give him something to eat?"

"Of course, mother; I couldn't have say one go away hungry."

"That is right in the abstract. I reckon, my child, but it pears to me you have a great many tramps comin' around the country now."

"I wish father would come home," the pretty girl sighed, in a tone loud enough to be heard by her mother.

"Oh, he would be back soon enough, Mr. Long is going to pay off the mortgage on his place, and your father said it might be late before he got back."

"That is the reason I am anxious about father now," said Olivia to herself. "Father will bring the money home with him to take to the bank at Cambria tomorrow, for there is no bank at the village, and I do not like having him travel about the country with so much money—especially after night."

The clatter of hoofs came from down the road, and the girl of the beautiful face brightened as a young man, in vested on a dark bay horse, galloped into view.

"Hi, Harry!" she cried, and hastened around to the front gate just as Harry drew rein.

"There was an eager sparkle in the eyes of the youthful horseman and ruddy maiden, which would convince any one at one that they were lovers.

"Olivia, I met the hardest luck my tramp a few moments ago," said Harry, as he sprang from the saddle to talk a moment to his sweetheart at the gate, "that I ever met in my life.

"He was hard?"

"He was! Did he not scare you almost to death?"

"Oh, no; I am not afraid of him. I gave him his dinner.

"Of! Why the rascal might come and burn the house down."

"You are mighty energetic! if he did. Have you been to the village Harry."

"Yes."

"Did you see father there?"

"Yes; what is he doing?"

"Mr. Long is to pay off his mortgage to-day."

"To that so?" asked Harry, fixing his large, dark gray eyes on the pretty girl's face.

After a few moments more Harry mounted his horse and started up the road toward his father's farm, and his betrothed went into the house.

In the mean while, Tom Trudge, the tramp was slowly wending his way along the wooded road, keeping a sharp lookout about him for a comfortable place where he could pass the night. The sun had gone down before he came to the great bridge which spanned cheery Creek; and by the time he had reached the dark cut that ran between the hills on the other side it was quite dark.

"He's goin to come this way," the tramp suddenly heard somebody say.

He stopped and listened. There came sounds of human voices at a great distance away. Habitually cautious, the tramp crept forward until he was within a few feet of where the conversation was going on.

He saw three dark forms standing under the shadow of a projecting rock close to the roadside, and there Tom Trudge lay down among some bushes to listen.

"It will be risky," one voice said.

"Hes got a team."

"Know it.

"How much?"

"Good big haul."

"Well, now, how's this thing to be carried out? Yer goin' to lay it on some one."

A silence ensued, and then one of the men spoke:

"I tell yer what we can do. The country's full of tramps, and we'll lay it on them."

"Yes, hatchin' more devilitry off on us," growled the tramp, as he lay crouching like a beast crouch in the thicket. "All the sin o' the world is packed off on ter us. We do enough, I reckon, without havin' it all packed off onto us."

He did not speak loud enough to be heard by the group in consultation.

"It's about time," said one.

"D'yer think it's all right?"

"Of course it is."

"Mind yer, I'm not another more cautious speaker, 'there's not to be any one hurt.

"I wouldn't for the world have a drop of blood spilled."

"Pshaw, yer gittin' squeamish."

"Now, you know when I mentioned this thing, I told yer I'd have no hand in anything—no one was to be hurt. I occupy a respectable position in the community, and I can not afford to do anything that would compare yer with me. You and Bill this will neither be recognized by him. You can do yer work, bring the swag to me, and we will go. You have the masks on your faces?"

"Yes."

"Now, don't go to making any blunders. If my horses were stolen I'd be sold from over my head, I wouldn't think of such a thing, and I can't see my children—"

"What, there comes some one!"

"It's a tramp, I reckon."

"It's he!"

"Keep mum, and be careful—remember what I said to you."

"Hes coming! Yer goin' ter do?" the tramp asked himself.

The sound of the men's feet could now be distinctly heard, and the concealed tramp from his position became conscious that two of the men were masked. The group passed, and crept to the roadside, where they were crouching like wild animals in ambush.

"I tell yer he'll be here, whoever yer run inter trouble," thought the tramp, "but then I'd never be thanked for it, as maybe a man would be if I let these fellers go. I'm gin fight it out."

The tramp recognized a voice in the darkness.

"Let go!"

"Will yer?"

"Take that!"

A thud ensued, and the flash from the shot showed three or four objects engaged in a struggle. The tramp was rearing and plunging, while two dark forms were trying to drag the rider from the saddle.

Another shot was fired by the brave horseman, who was determined to defend himself and property against the footpads. There was a cry of pain and an oath.

"Hit that's what ye want we'll give ye enough."

Two or three quick blows followed, a sharp cry, a gasping sob, and the man fell to the ground. He lay very quiet, and the tramp, through the darkness, could only see two dark forms bending over him. When they rose one of them carried a heavy sack, and the horseman still lay upon the ground. The horse had broken away, and, startled with terror, ran down the road.

"Here's the swag, Otto," said one of them, handing the large wallet to the third man, who had remained concealed.

"But did you hurt him?"

"I did."

"Great heaven! you didn't—"

"Yes, we did, I tell yer, he's dead; it was his life or ours, and Bill done it, though we're all guilty alike.

"Bill, Bill," almost screamed the man who was the leader, "what have you done? do it, when I told you not to?"

"Quit; stop a shakin' me," said Bill. "It shot me in the shoulder, and I knifed him.

"Oh what shall we do?" groaned Otto. "Let us run home at once before we are arrested and it is informed upon."

"Do yer think I'm a fool? The deed is done, and I'm not to be recognized."

"No, it's one I found yesterday."

"Too let the owner of it prove himself innocent. For heavens sake let us go."

The three men hurried away, and the tramp, who was now interested in the affair, crept from his place of concealment, and for a moment gazed on the ghostly body, which lay stark and cold on the ground, the smooth-shaved face of the murdered man gazing up into the sky, and then followed carefully after the retreating footpads.

Long Olivia and her mother awaited the return of her husband and father. At midnight he had not come, and, unable longer to refrain in ignorance of the cause of his strange absence, they roused the hired man and sent him out to see if he could learn what was detaining Mr. Shortridge.

He went, and—reader, he is drawn aside from the scene of horror that followed. The whole country was wild over the affair. That a cold-blooded murder and highway robbery should be perpetrated in this quiet and hitherto peaceful neighborhood was astonishment and horror to everybody. For days the wildest excitement that had ever been known prevailed. Who had done the deed?

"It was the tramp," some one suggested, and the idea spread like wild fire. Everybody knew it must be the a vagrant tramp who had been born in the neighborhood.

It was two or three days after her father's funeral when this was first suggested to Olivia.

"It was the very tramp you fed, Olivia," said Mrs. Shortridge. "To think that the man whom you had fed should have stabbed your father."

"I don't believe it, mother," said Olivia; "I don't believe that the man had anything to do with it."

The sheriff, and the shrewd detective who had come all the way from Chicago to work up the case, came to Cedar Creek and closely interrogated Olivia in regard to the tramp. She told him over and over again every word she had been said by either herself or her father.

The detective went away to work in the thoroughness of the search. He was absent a day or two, and again called on Olivia.

"Did you speak with any one else save members of your own family on that evening?" the detective asked.

"No, sir.

"Think well before you answer. Was any one else here?"

"No—yes, there was—Harry Blake was coming by. He stopped at the gate, and I talked a moment with him.

"Oh, yes; this Harry Blake is the young man I have met her frequently—"

"Yes, sir," she answered, blushing profusely.

"He has been very active in trying to bring the murder of your father to light?"

"Yes, sir," blushing still more deeply.

"What did he talk about?"

"I do not remember—the tramp was one thing."

"Did you talk about your father?"

"Yes, sir. I told him that father was coming home from the village, where he had been to get the money from Mr. Long on his mortgage."

"Well, young lady, it is perhaps rather a disagreeable announcement to make, but that young gentleman is the man who murdered your father."

"What!" she shrieked, starting to her feet. "Harry—it's false, sir."

"I pity you, young lady, but it is true. The sheriff and I are still hearing stories of the crime was found near the spot. The knife has been recognized as his, and he his same cut on the back-horn handle."

Olivia swooned at this fearful evidence. When she recovered she implored the detective to not impute such a charge upon her lover, and told him all that had been said by either, but her statement only confirmed the detective in the belief of the guilt of the youth.

When he was arrested for the crime, Harry Blake declared himself innocent, and showed the officers that he had lost a knife only a day or two before the horrible deed was perpetrated.

But this was an old dodge, and the detectives had seen that it was used in more his case. Harry was at first inclined to think his arrest as a joke affair, but when he found his friends giving him rather suspicious glances, and heard that his case not being bailable he must go to jail, his heart began to fall him.

"I don't understand, while it did not come him, for he was conscious of his innocence, tended to greatly humiliate him. His father and friends still firmly convinced of his innocence, employed a lawyer for him.

The fifth day of his imprisonment Harry's heart was made glad by the appearance of his betrothed, she looked very pretty in her sable dress and mourning veil. She came to assure him that her confidence in his innocence of the death of her father was unshaken, and all that she could do to prove that her convictions were the truth would be done.

She consulted with the attorney, and told him all that had passed between her and her lover on that fatal evening. The lawyer was shrewd enough to see that the simple and unadorned story of the maiden was damaging to his client.

While they were sitting in the lawyer's office, talking over the evening, the door opened, and Olivia was astounded to see the very same tramp who she had fed on the evening of her father's assassination enter the office.

"Yer the gal what gin me the grub that night, ain't yer?" he said.

"Yes," she answered, after a moment's silence.

"I'm yer father what was killed an robbed."

"Dead!"

"I hear that a young chap named Blake's been accused o' the job. Well, I'm the tramp, interrogatively.

"He has been," said the lawyer, "but he is innocent."

"Mister, are you the feller what's his lawyer in this case?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I've got this much to say 'bout it mister, I know that he's innocent."

"You know—"

"Let I do, mister—I want ter see yer alone.

Olivia, with a grateful look at the tramp, left the office. For a long time the tramp and the attorney were together in the office. Olivia went to the home of a friend in the town where she was staying, and soon received a note from the lawyer that he would see her at two o'clock p. m. next day.

Oh, how wildly and anxiously her heart beat for the next twenty-four hours. Was the tramp really going to unravel this mysterious affair? She saw the sheriff and detective in close consultation with the attorney that evening.

She slept little that night, but when her eyes did close, she saw the tramp, his bounty face shining bright and clear in the pure soul within that rugged exterior. She awoke nervous and anxious.

At two, the lawyer sent for her to come to his office. The remaining magistrate was there, Harry Blake was there, and to her astonishment, Mr. Otto Hampton, one of their nearest neighbors and his two hired men, Tom Nettles and Bill Truesdale were there, in irons. The tramp was also present.

"Now, mister, I'll tell ye all about it," said the tramp, on being sworn. "I war almost starved that day, when I called at this feelin gal. She gin me satisfy to eat and said some kind words to me, which touched my heart. When I left her and went down the road, I war wishin I could jerk her. I crossed the bridge jist about sun an came to that dark road on t'other side.

I heard some on 'tablin an' planin' to robbery an. I went down there to pointing to the three men in irons. "Then I felt that I ought interfere, but the devil in me said, 'it's not your business, let them alone, specially as no one is going to be hurt. I war jist ready to interfere. I really is a coward when I see blood, but when I see a scrimmage, that man," pointing to Bill Truesdale, "was shot in the shoulder, guess yo'll find the bullet that yit, an the gal's pa war killed and robbed. I heard that feller who got shot say he'd dropped the knife he done it with, and then this man called Mr. Hampton, who they called Otto, took the money, said he war sorry they'd killed him, and wanted to git away.

"I followed em, an saw 'em bury the money at Mr. Hampton's house. The feller who got shot war sick and laid abed a long time, an they daren't send for a doctor. Guess that ar wound ain't healed yit. Well, arter I'd made sure of ever thing, an found out this young chap war innocent, I came in to give it away.

"I've slept in the woods, lived like a wild beast, and at sheerly nothing, jist to find out who killed the pa o' that leetle gal who war so kind to me. I'm glad it, an I've saved her lover, but I'll never forgive myself, when I think I might hev saved her pa, and didn't do it.

"There's the chaw who done it, for the sheriff and detective found the money where I send em bury it, an that ar feller's got the bullet in his ah shoulder."

The New York Police Force.

New-Yorkers religiously believe that they have the best police system and the finest force in existence.

What is the number of the metropolitan police force? what are its duties? how is it organized? and in what manner are its duties performed? are questions whose answers determine the soundness or unsoundness of the belief.

The number of the police force, of all ranks and grades, on the last day of A. D. 1885, was 2,933, including 32 probationers. The Leg-slature of the State of New York, on May 12, 1884, unanimously authorized the addition of 500, a defiance to the general conviction that it was numerically too small to cope with the possible emergencies of the times. The city of New York, estimating its population at 1,600,000, then had, exclusive of the Central Park force, one police officer to every 562 of the inhabitants. This, in view of the heterogeneous character of the people, and the peculiar relation of the city to the continent, was really an insufficient supply. In 1883 Philadelphia had one policeman to every 426 of its citizens; Baltimore, one to 525; Boston, one to 487; the metropolitan district of London, one to 342; and the ancient city of London, one to every 100.

The Police Department of New York, established and organized under the Act of 1857, consists of the Board of Police—which is composed of four Commissioners, appointed by the Mayor—the Chief of Police, and of officials appointed by the Commissioners.

The bulk of the police force, corresponding to the privates of other forces, is divided into patrolmen, who on the 1st of January, 1886, of the 2,836 patrolmen, on the 15th of that, according to the return of Deputy Chief Clerk Delamater, 1,700 were of the rank and grades then constituting the police force, of which number 1,326 were sergeants, 1,745; lieutenants, 974; Germany, 1,95; Canada, 1,; Ireland, 1,; Scotland, 1,; Canada, 13; England, 30; Finland, 1; Scotland, 14; France, 6; Bavaria, 1; Sweden, 1; Denmark, 1; Wales, 1; Australia, 2; West Indies, 1. Thus the United States furnished nearly two-thirds, Ireland 33.17, and all other countries 7.37 per cent. of the whole. The Hibernian element, including those born in this country, is decidedly predominant. Naturally enough, those to whom constitution habits of subordination have been ingrained by generations of servitude are most watchful and resolute when the performance of law is entrusted to them. Nationality and their ancestral antecedents, the New York police have invariably illustrated the virtues of implicit obedience, self-control, manly courage, and intelligent fidelity to duty. The city has always freely used. The ideal policeman is a non-entity. The service is not an approximation to the imaginary archetype, because he is only a man under all the limitations of the common-place

HUMOR.

THE beer drinker would seem to be his own worst enemy in that he treats himself so persistently.

WHY is x the most unfortunate of letters? Because it is always in a fix, and never out of perplexity.

ONE of the most forcible stump orators that ever took the field is the farmer whose plow strikes a snag.

MERCHANTS don't always give themselves away in trade, but they frequently exhibit signs of gilt edge on their stores.

"THERE was a very long story that Colonel Sozzle told after dinner," said one club man to another. "Yes, was the reply, "and I am sorry to say it was as broad as it was long."

BOSTON landlord (to porter)—"See if the gentleman in parlor F have finished discussing their dinner." Porter returns—"They is fin cata', boss, but dey ain't done cassis it yet."

"MADAME," said the tramp, "I'm hungry enough to eat raw dog." "Well," she responded, kindly suiting the action to the word, "I'll whistle some up for you." The tramp left, taking his appetite with him.

A MAN wanted a horse to ride in the parade. He said, "Have the best spirited animal?" asked the livery man. "No, not very," was the reply; "you want, then?" "I want a horse that looks a great deal more spirited than he really is."

SOME remarkable stories have been told under the head of "Antiquities," but the most remarkable we ever heard was that of the man who could not sleep in church because the nap was too long for comfort.

IN Bavaria the Mayor of a little village was ordered by the higher authorities to make a list of the dogs kept by the inhabitants. He did so, and sent the list to the town. The absent-teacher—a dog; the pastor—a dog; the doctor—a dog; myself—a dog; all of us dogs, and dogs only.

TOM—"I don't see why so many people complain of the hard times. Look at me, I'm only a better-looking or as nice as some of the other girls." Harry—"Why, you don't know what you are, you're a millionaire. That's why she carries that big fan, and why she's so proud." Tom—"Is it? She holds up her head by a cheque regn."—Boston Budget.

Mississippi general—"Sa, Mr. Secretary, not long ago we asked for a couple of the biggest cannon in the country for the fort at Biloxi, and we have not yet received them. Now, we want a couple of the smallest ones. Sa, we have decided to fire the salute to present."—That's quite reasonable. "Yes, sa, we have just received two of the most small mustakes we have made in our lives." "Mistakes?" "Yes, sa, we have just received two of the most small mustakes we have made in our lives." "Mistakes?" "Yes, sa,

FARM AND GARDEN.

HOW TO MAKE A SATISFACTORY SILO AT SMALL EXPENSE.

All About Kohl Rabi—Condition of Cattle—Important Points in Field and Garden Culture—A New and Early Pole Beans—Agricultural Notes.

Catalogued among novelties this season in vegetables by seedmen in various sections of the country is the early climax golden wax pole bean shown in the cut.

GOLDEN WAX BEAN.

Vick says of it: "Its points of excellence are such that we are confident its advent will be hailed with satisfaction by both market men and private gardeners. It is earlier than any other pole variety, following ten days after the Dwarf Golden Wax. The vine makes a rapid, healthy growth, bearing clusters of three to six large pods of rich golden color. The pods average seven eight inches in length and are exceedingly tender and plump. As the flavor is also delicate and the pods stringless, it is not excelled as a snap bean. Unlike many pole beans, it is very productive, continuing to bear, if the pods are picked, until frost. The showy appearance and cooking qualities of this bean, with its great productiveness, will commend it as an excellent and profitable variety for market."

The Cattle of the Country.

The latter part of this winter was severe on the stock in the Atlantic states as far south as the Carolinas. The average by states, however, varies but little from that of last year. According to Statistician Dodge the cattle of the New England states are in generally good condition. The states north and westward from the Ohio to the Missouri rivers show an average condition as regards flesh and freedom from disease. Shelter and food are provided as required, and losses are reduced to a minimum. Condition is high in California and Oregon, both being slightly above the average. The cattle on the ranges suffered severely from the inclemency of the winter, and the results of the season will more strongly than ever impress upon ranch owners the necessity even from a financial point of view, of providing sufficient shelter against the dreaded blizzards and of supplying themselves with forage for more winter feeding.

The losses of the past year were more severe than usual, owing in some measure to the hard winter. Deaths from exposure were a very large item in the total loss, and were heavy in some of the range sections. In Georgia and Texas starvation was a fruitful cause of death, while in the latter state the drought produced great loss. Cattle have been comparatively free from serious diseases in most sections. The crowded places pneumonia has appeared in a number of counties, mostly near large cities in the east, to which the infection is generally traced.

Kohl Rabi, or Turnip Cabbage.

Kohl rabi, sometimes called turnip cabbage, is a vegetable intermediate between the cabbage and the turnip. In Europe it has been prized, not only as a vegetable for the table, but as an excellent feed for stock. In recent years our leading seedsmen have included several varieties of Kohl rabi in their catalogues, and our cultivators are beginning to test its uses—more especially as a general crop to be used for feeding stock.

KOHL RABI.

It is cultivated by sowing the seeds in rows in May, June and July, according to the latitude, the soil and the season, and, when the plants are about as may be desired, pulled and fed to the vegetable or feed stock. It resembles a fine rutabaga, tender and sweet, and is nearly as good with less of the turnip flavor. When properly matured it becomes tough for the table and makes excellent food for stock.

In the Cornfield.

Each year the cultivation of corn grows less deep and shallow. By drilling in the seed and giving shallow culture some of the largest corn yields on record have been obtained. Two common methods now in vogue are drilling and checking. When drilling the farmer understands what he is about. In a sense checking is a form of "double row system" is practiced.

A plan of drill culture that works well on light, dry upland is termed the "furrow system." Work is done in the usual manner, and as planting time is left off and thrown up into five feet beds, it being designed to plant the furrows between the beds. The main object is to insure the moisture the crop may need. The fertilizer is sown in the bottom of the furrows and mixed with the soil, the grain is then dropped and covered by a corn planter of otherwise. The subsequent cultivation is done with shovels and cultivators, which will gradually level down the surface of the beds, returning the soil to the center.

The system of checking corn, largely adopted in the northern and western states and also common in the valley of Virginia, admits of cultivation in two directions—direct and across—and has the advantage of saving a hoe labor, in addition to giving the plants a better opportunity for sun and air.

At the east large areas of corn are usually sown in drills, and corn planters and cultivators are adopted. That culture is yearly gaining advocates and the old hill system is gradually disappearing.

Points in Pea Culture.

At the New York Experiment station, during tests made in pea culture, the following points were noted: Permitting the seed of peas to sprout before planting indicated an advantage in the earliness of the first pods of three to eight days. The position of the seeds in the pods did not appear to have any influence on the resultant plants. A slight promotion of earliness—three or four days—was noted as the effect of pinching the terminal shoots. Mulching the soil lightly between the rows of peas with straw retarded the attack of mildew very perceptibly. August 12 the mulched rows were free from mildew, while unmulched rows planted at the same time were entirely enveloped.

Barn Silos.

The idea is quite prevalent that a silo must be of masonry and very substantial and expensive in order to gain paying results. Such, however, is not the case. Many silos are now being built in the interior of the log barn, using a whole or part of a bay. According to Prairie Farmer nearly five times as much forage can be put into a given space in the form of ensilage as can be stored in the same space if the same crop is dried—fifty cubic feet of ensilage weighing a ton—200 feet or more are requisite for a ton of hay.

A Minnesota correspondent in the journal quoted from Hills how he took part of one wing of his barn, which is eleven feet wide in the clear, for a silo by way of experiment. There was a stone wall on one side and one end seven feet high, with framework extending eight or nine feet above, the latter being boarded up with two by six-inch studding, and double boarded with building paper between. This was filled with large ensilage corn (slightly frost bitten) cut to one-half inch lengths. It was put in pretty fast about half way up, and well tramped. After that it was filled in more slowly, indeed three or four days elapsing between fillings. When it was in, it was left about a week, when it was leveled and covered with building paper, with boards on top of paper, and after several days four inches of earth was put on. Opened the silo and commenced feeding the middle of January. Found it in very good condition with the exception of some at the corners, where the boarding joining the wall was not perfect. The ensilage was quite sour, but the cattle ate it greedily, preferring it to almost any other feed, and there was an increase in the flow of milk about five per cent. Some friends who were skeptical in regard to the ensilage making good butter acknowledged, after tasting it, that it was as good as from any other feed. This farmer has a farm of 110 acres and has been able to keep forty head of stock by buying some stuff feed. With ensilage he thinks he can double the number of stock. Farmers are commencing fitting up both wings of his now barn, making two silos twenty-eight by sixteen feet and fifteen feet deep, which he estimates will hold about 170 tons. He will be particular to make the silos air tight.

Conclusions About Potatoes.

After many years of practical experience Edmund Henry, a well known Manchuria settle cultivator, has arrived at the following conclusions:

1. Whole potatoes will produce a crop, if early or late cut seed potatoes fail to do so.
2. Small whole potatoes will produce results as good, if not better, than large ones.
3. The seed end is the better one to plant, because it starts with more vigor and produces more and larger potatoes.
4. A large piece is better, on ordinary soil, than small pieces or cut.
5. Potatoes with sprouts long enough to break off in planting are not so good as those with eyes advanced just enough to indicate vigor.
6. The form cannot, as a rule, be changed by planting any particular form.
7. Two distinct varieties won't mix in the same hill.
8. The more we investigate the scab the less we know about it.

To Cure a Horse of Kicking.

The simple prescription here given has the indorsement of a prominent authority in such matters: "If you have a horse that is in the habit of kicking, put him in a narrow stall that has both sides thickly padded. Suspend a sack filled with hay or straw so that it will strike his heels, and let horse and sack fight it out. Be sure to have things arranged so that the horse cannot hurt himself. The sack will be victorious every time, and in the end the horse will absolutely refuse to kick the sack or anything else."

Agricultural Notes.

According to the national agricultural department's report the general average condition of the wheat crop for the whole country is represented by 98.

The losses of sheep from all causes during the year ending April 1 is 7 per cent. of the whole number of sheep, as against an equal percentage during the corresponding period of 1886-8. Numerically the loss is smaller than in 1885-6, for, although the percentage is the same, it applies to a reduced number, the total number of sheep being now 45,000,000, as compared with 48,000,000 a year ago.

The losses of swine from all causes through the entire country have been heavy, amounting to nearly 6,000,000 during the year.

A recent estimate places the value of the dairy products of this country in 1886 at $790,445,000.

The Texas legislature has passed a public land bill giving the farmer a chance to secure a homestead on forty years' credit at 5 per cent. interest.

Recent reports made by Florida orange growers make it appear that during the season of 1886-7 about 1,000,000 boxes of oranges have been marketed at an average price of $2 per box. The outlook now is said to be promising and a crop of 1,500,000 boxes is predicted for next year.

A Story of Gen. Scott.

Gen. Winfield Scott, while he was still at the head of the army, was coming out of his office one day to enter his carriage, came in hand. A volunteer orderly approached him with a letter, which he had been directed to deliver to Gen. Scott at once. The orderly, recking nothing of adjutant-generals or chiefs of staff, interpreted his order literally, and hastily giving a careless salute, began:

"Oh, General, here's a paper I want you to look at before you ——"

"Clear out, sir! clear out of the way!"

The startled orderly sprang to one side, and the General got into his carriage and was driving away.

The soldier then delivered his letter to some one in the office and walked slowly out.

Gen. Scott's carriage had not gone thirty rods before it stopped and turned about. The driver, raising his voice, summoned the offending orderly to the door.

Trembling in every limb, cap in hand, he approached.

Gen. Scott asked his name and regiment. He gave them.

"Well, sir," said the General, "report to your colonel that you were guilty of gross disrespect to Gen. Scott as an officer, and that Gen. Scott was guilty of gross disrespect to you as a man. Gen. Scott begs your pardon! Go to your duty, sir!"—The Argonaut.

He was an Amateur.

He was a clerk in a shoe store, but rather new to the business. When a pretty girl tripped in and asked for shoes, he inquired politely:

"What number do you wear?"

"Why, two, of course, she snapped; "how many feet do you suppose I have?"

"I—I meant, what size?" he stammered.

"Oh! size 3, and D wide," she responded, carelessly.

He fainted before a brother clerk could explain that the width of shoes was regulated alphabetically, and that no profanity was intended.—Detroit Free Press.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in regard to Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptives, at least to try one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all druggists and dealers, in the United States and Canada.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems at first only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because it can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good or just the same. Don't be deceived but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery which is guaranteed to give relief in all throat, lung, and chest affections. Trial bottles free at all drug stores.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hinze & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192n4.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 19th day of January, A. D. 1885, executed by Hiram Gilmore, of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Robert W. Kane, of Grand Traverse, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, in liber eleven of mortgages, on page 172, on the 24 day of January, A. D. 1885, at 8 o'clock in the forenoon, and whereas there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the money now secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; therefore, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 25th day of June, A. D. 1887, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and the legal costs, together with an attorney fee of fifteen dollars, stipulated for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows, viz.: The south one-half of land situate in the township of Evelyn, Charlevoix county, Michigan, and state of Michigan, and the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section thirty-two.

Dated Charlevoix, May 16, 1887.

ROBERT W. KANE,
Mortgagee.
A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 19th day of February, A. D. 1885, executed by Samuel Oxner to William Gleich, of Detroit, Wayne county, Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, in liber 14 of mortgages, on page 90, on the 26 day of February, A. D. 1885, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon, and there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, the sum of one hundred and twenty dollars ($120), and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the money now secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; therefore, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 25th day of June, A. D. 1887, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and the legal costs, together with an attorney fee of fifteen dollars, stipulated for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows, viz.: The south one-half of land situate in the township of Evelyn, Charlevoix county, Michigan, and state of Michigan, and the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section thirty-two.

Dated Charlevoix, May 16, 1887.

WILLIAM GLEICH,
Mortgagee.
A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 19th day of January, A. D. 1885, executed by Hiram Gilmore, of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Robert W. Kane, of Grand Traverse, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, in liber eleven of mortgages, on page 172, on the 24 day of January, A. D. 1885, at 8 o'clock in the forenoon, and whereas, there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the money now secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative; therefore, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 25th day of June, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and the legal costs, together with an attorney fee of fifteen dollars, stipulated for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows, viz.: The south one-half of land situate in the township of Evelyn, Charlevoix county, Michigan, and state of Michigan, and the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section thirty-two.

Dated March 24, 1887.

ROBERT W. KANE,
Mortgagee.
LEROY H. BARTHOLOMEW,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

J. MILO EATON,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a mortgage made by William Smith and Ann Smith, of Rock to J. Milo Eaton, bearing date the 19th day of January, 1885, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 19th day of May, 1886, in liber seven of mortgages, on page thirty-six, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said J. Milo Eaton to Henry Bennett, which said assignment is dated the 19 day of May, 1886, and duly recorded in the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, in liber 11 of mortgages, on page 175, on the 19th day of May, 1887, and the sum is now claimed to be due on said mortgage and upon which said mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, the sum of four hundred and twenty dollars ($420), and no suit or proceeding at law has been taken to collect the money now secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained having become operative; therefore, notice is given that I will sell the premises in the mortgage, or so much thereof as will be sufficient to satisfy said mortgage and costs, including attorney fee provided for by law, and the legal costs, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, that being the place where the circuit court for said county is held, on the 16th day of August, A. D. 1887, at 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon of said day. Said premises are described as follows, viz.: The south one-half of the east quarter of section 24, township 34 north, of range 7 west, in the township of Marion, Charlevoix county, state of Michigan.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., May 9, 1887.

HENRY H. ANGUIN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage, dated 19 October 4th, 1885, executed by Warren Whitman and wife, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, in liber 14 of mortgages, on page 87, on the 26 day of November, 1885, said mortgage was assigned by Nathan Bell to William H. Anguin, on date April 20th, 1886, and the assignment recorded in said register's office, February 26, 1887, in liber 15 of mortgages, on page 91, said mortgage was made to secure the payment of one hundred and twenty (120) dollars, and the assignment thereof

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

A DAY'S DOINGS.

Eventful Happenings in Every Hemisphere, as Transmitted by Telegraph.

Political, Social, Financial, Commercial, Industrial, Criminal and Other News.

THE VERY LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

FAREWELL BANQUET TO O'BRIEN.

The Irish Editor Given $25,000 to Aid the Cause of Home Rule.

A FAREWELL banquet was given to Editor O'Brien Tuesday evening at the Hofman House, New York, by the united Irish societies of that city and vicinity. Mr. Croker was presided. On his right sat the guest of the evening and on the left the retired leader, Dennis Kilbride. Among the distinguished persons present were Governor Green of New Jersey, ex-Governor Leon Abbett, Judge Van Hoesen, Mayor Whitney of Brooklyn, Mayor Cleveland of Jersey City, Congressman Dunn, Bishop Loughlin, D. F. Carson, Author of "Letters of Inglis" were read from Governor Hill, Senator Gorman, Attorney General O'Brien, ex-Governor Hoadly, Gen. Sherman, Abram S. Hewitt, and others. Mayor Grace, in introducing the guest of the evening, said that he had created sympathy in the hearts of all Americans for the Irish people. Mr. O'Brien, in responding, was received with enthusiastic applause. He expressed his gratitude for the many kindnesses he had experienced since coming to America, and said the greatest difficulty he had experienced during the trip was in finding words now to thank his hearers. Toasts were responded to by Charles A. Dana, Robert O'Farrell, Rev. W. T. Lloyd, Governor Green of New Jersey, and Col. W. L. Brown. At the close of the banquet Mr. O'Brien was escorted to the Astoria and sailed for home. His escort was the Sarsfield Guard, composed members of the municipal council of the League, and a large body of citizens. Before leaving the vessel Eugene Kelly, on behalf of the Irish-born of New York, presented Mr. O'Brien with $25,000 for the Irish people.

The Interstate Commission.

WOODRUFF SUTTON, of New York, has protested to the Interstate Commerce Commission against the suspension of the long and short haul clause of the law in favor of the transcontinental railroads. The firm of Sutton & Co. are engaged in copper transportation around the continent, and on behalf of their clients claim it is stated that the transcontinental roads have made war upon them. It is alleged that the route employed is shorter than into contract to ship all overland freights by rail, and that independent lines are compelled to carry their lower rates on freight than those accorded the general public. In the case of the Pacific Express the belief that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company is interested with the railroad companies in the effort to secure a suspension of the fourth section of the law, the object being to crush out the copper competition.—Reuben Darby, of Indiana, formerly a Washington correspondent for the Indianapolis Sentinel, has been appointed stenographer to the commission.

Still Thundering at the Parnellites.

THE London Times runs another broadside at the Parnellites. It prints a fac-simile of a page of the Irish World of February 16, 1884, and the greater portion of Patrick Ford's address published in the same impression, and editorially declares that the whole Irish conspiracy, whether carried on by measly-mouthed gentlemen who sit at London dinner tables, or by those who organize murder and arson, is one and indivisible."

Meeting of the Prohibition Leaders.

A MEETING of prominent New York and adjoining States were in conference in New York City on Tuesday. Dr. J. P. Fitzgerald presided and addresses, speeches and addresses were made by the Hon. J. B. Finch and others on the Sunday law. Resolutions were adopted denouncing the murder of Editor Gambrill, of Mississippi. Among those present were ex-Judge John E. St. John, of Kansas; the Hon. C. S. Wolfe, of Pennsylvania; Col. Davis, of Kentucky; J. H. Heisley, of Washington; and Jos. Beaumont, of Ohio.

The Iowa Republican Convention Called.

THE Republican State Central Committee of Iowa, at a meeting in Des Moines on Tuesday, decided to hold the Republican State Convention, in that city, Aug. 25. The ticket to be nominated will consist of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Superintendent of Instruction, and one Justice of the Supreme Court.

Labor Conventions.

BOOT and shoe workers from all parts of the country have been in session at Brooklyn trying to perfect an organization strong enough to enable them to control their craft.

EXIT independent of the Knights of Labor and the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel workers, and in convention at Pittsburgh, the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, there were 18 delegates present, representing 24 lodges.

A TEMPLE accident occurred at Manitou, Colorado, Tuesday, by which Mr. Bakken, a Norwegian settler named Bakken went away from home, leaving his wife and two children, aged 5 and 3 years. Mrs. Bakken left the house for a few minutes, and on returning found that the room in which she had left the children was on fire. Snatching up the youngest child, she made a rush for the door, but found the oil-can, setting fire to her clothes. Running out, she lay down on the ground, and her dress and the child were roasted alive. The other child was burned to death in the house.

NEAR Huron, Dak., Simon Nelson shot and killed Mrs. Shaw, her 15-year old son, and her 12-year old daughter. The woman's name was Mrs. Shaw. A Huron dispatch gives the following account of the affair: Nelson, a Swede, lived with Mrs. Shaw. A Huron dispatch gives the following account of the affair: Nelson, a Swede, lived with Mrs. Shaw. Nelson expected to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Mr. Dawes, who is now in the city, and will be in Washington next week, and will make a report

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE steamer Cephalonia, of the Cunard line, has been fined $1,000 for bringing a demented female pauper to Boston. Good! The attempt of England to dump her paupers and idiots into this country, if it can not be entirely prevented, ought to be made very expensive.—Chicago Mail.

MANIFESTLY there is no tariff made rate of wages in this country or they would not be from 300 to 500 per cent higher in some states than they are in others—50 per cent higher in Connecticut than they are in Maine, and over 100 per cent higher in Kentucky than in North Carolina.—Jackson Patriot.

A PROTECTIVE tariff is avowedly hostile to foreign trade. Six years ago the value of cheese exported from this country was $16,000,000; last year it was $6,500,000. In 1880 we exported 39,236,000 pounds of butter; last year, 14,404,000 pounds. Lard exported six years ago amounted to $35,000,000; last year to $22,000,000. During these years the trade of the world increased. Europe purchased more than it did six years ago, and we had more to sell, but the purchases were made of people who are more willing to trade with Europeans than we are.—Kalamazoo Herald.

Gov. LUCE has shown himself to be a wise and careful executive officer by his veto of the university appropriation bill. A careful reading of the text of his veto message shows that the question was given a careful study by the governor before the bill was returned with his disapproval. The grounds upon which the veto is based are purely economical in their nature. In connection with the fact of the enormous increase in state taxes, he urges that the rate of tuition required of pupils, residents of other states, should be advanced, to the end that a larger revenue might be derived from that source to aid in the maintenance of the institution. The governor shows himself anything but opposed to higher education, yet in this matter as in all other public institution there comes a time when it is necessary to call a halt, that a reckoning may be had. The grounds set forth in the message seem to be founded upon reason and justice and although the senate has passed the bill over the veto, the house before doing the same should give the matter as careful study as did the governor.

TOCCHINO the matter of "patent insides" we call attention to the inside columns of the JOURNAL and ask readers to give it a thorough examination. Each and every week the JOURNAL bears to its readers not only all the items of interest concerning our village and vicinity for miles around, but on the inside is column after column of news carefully gleaned and admirably presented, touching on all the important subjects and events now before the American people. And to these columns are many times more editorial work devoted than can possibly be given by a country publisher. In this week's issue will be found a notice of the death of ex-Vice-President Wheeler; a sketch of O'Brien, the famous Irish editor; a full report of the Sunday school convention in Chicago; several columns devoted to trade and the tariff, a subject which should be studied by all classes at this time; an interesting article on the work of the pension bureau; base ball notes; proceedings of the Michigan legislature; besides the usual abundance of instructive and entertaining or at least miscellaneous reading to enough to fill a good size magazine. Such a paper cannot be excelled by any country newspaper.

Additional Local.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Report for the Term ending June 10, 1887.

TOTAL NUMBER DIFFERENT PUPILS ENROLLED AND NOT TRANSFERRED.

First department	62
Second department	51
Third department	42
Fourth department	41
Fifth department, grammar section	39
Fifth department, high school	29
Total	264

AVERAGE NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	52.4
Second department	45
Third department	35.8
Fourth department	37.8
Fifth department, grammar section	36
Fifth department, high school	25
Average	221.7

DAYS ATTENDANCE.

First department	2277½
Second department	2138½
Third department	1643½
Fourth department	1789
Fifth department, grammar section	1717½
Fifth department, high school	1195½
Total	10,721½

DAYS LOST BY ABSENCE.

First department	165
Second department	153
Third department	126
Fourth department	107½
Fifth department, grammar section	45
Fifth department, high school	30½
Total	579

AVERAGE ATTENDANCE.

First department	48¼
Second department	47½
Third department	33⅓
Fourth department	36½
Fifth department, grammar section	34⅓
Fifth department, high school	23½
Average	219⅓

CASES TARDY.

First department	69
Second department	55
Third department	11
Fourth department	5
Fifth department, grammar school	2
Fifth department, high school	1
Total	143

ATTENDANCE AND PUNCTUALITY, PER CENT OF NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	96.7
Second department	96
Third department	96.1
Fourth department	97.4
Fifth department, grammar section	98
Fifth department, high school	98.5
Average	97.1

NAMES OF PUPILS NEITHER ABSENT NOR TARDY DURING THE ENTIRE SPRING TERM.

First department—Edith Atchinson, Mattie Brink, Ernest Brown, George Emery, Cora Lawrence, Ralph Newman, Frank Ripley, Mabel Ward.

Second department—Katie Kirkpatrick, Alice Brink, Minnie Krebs, Maggie Mossington, Frank Lawrence, Willie Mossington, Forest Bartholomew.

Third department—Mattie Lamoreaux, Minnie Newland, Frank Graham, Edith Lewis, Gertrude Myers, Lillie Newman, Walter Krebs, Hiram Ross, Ida Cook.

Fourth department—Winnie Bartholomew, Lottie Moore, Chloe McCartney, Eva Swails, Carl Clifford.

Fifth department, grammar section—Chauncey Upright, George Newman.

Fifth department, high school—Blanche Bartholomew, Phila Wood, Edith Hawkins, Emma Glass, Adah Mason, Lola Carter, Pearl Dart, Kate Smith, Ralph Washburn.

Summary for the Entire Year.

NUMBER DIFFERENT PUPILS ENROLLED.

First department	81
Second department	60
Third department	46
Fourth department	47
Fifth department, grammar section	43
Fifth department, high school	42
Total	309

AVERAGE ATTENDANCE FOR YEAR.

First department	37.8
Second department	40.1
Third department	33.6
Fourth department	40.6
Fifth department, grammar section	29½
Fifth department, high school	29.2
Average	217.6

AVERAGE NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	41.2
Second department	42.8
Third department	41.8
Fourth department	40
Fifth department, grammar section	36.8
Fifth department, high school	31.2
Average	213.1

DAYS ABSENCE.

First department	1614½
Second department	1277½
Third department	967
Fourth department	1194½
Fifth department, grammar section	1175½
Total	7383½

TARDY CASES.

First department	178
Second department	195
Third department	67
Fourth department	84
Fifth department, grammar section	21
Fifth department, high school	22
Total	567

ATTENDANCE AND PUNCTUALITY, PER CENT OF NUMBER BELONGING.

First department	95—
Second department	95.1
Third department	97 2
Fourth department	97.1
Fifth department, grammar section	98 5
Fifth department, high school	98.4
Average	96.6

Roll of Honor.

The following named pupils have been present and punctual every day during the entire year:

Blanche Bartholomew, 11th grade.
Ralph Washburn, 8th grade.
Chauncey Upright, 8th grade.
George Newman, 8th grade.
Winnie Bartholomew, 4th department.
Lillian Eaton, 4th department.
Eva Swails, 4th department.
Minnie Newland, 3d department.
Frank Graham, 3d department.
Gertrude Myers, 3d department.
Lillie Newman, 3d department.
Katie Kirkpatrick, 2d department.
Mattie Brink, 1st department.

RICHMOND, Mich., Feb. 5, 1883.

WM. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit—Gents: Your Compound Extract Sarsaparilla sells well and gives good satisfaction. I have taken two bottles myself and can recommend it as a good blood purifier, laxative and alterative.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

Commencement week exercises of the state normal school at Ypsilanti begin June 24th, and continues to the 28th.

The Petoskey and St. Ignace ball clubs played a game of fourteen innings with a result of 5 to 3 in favor of Petoskey.

An effort is to be made to connect Bellaire with the telephone line that runs from Charlevoix to Traverse City.—Bellaire Breeze.

It is estimated that between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000 will be expended in railroad construction in the United States during the current year. And Michigan is having her share.

A base ball stock company has been organized at Petoskey, with P. B. Watchell as president, and they contemplate having lots of sport. They have grounds fitted up in excellent shape with a new grand stand affording seating capacity for eight hundred people.

We are in receipt of a copy of the year book of Facts and Figures about Michigan for 1887. This book has been considerably enlarged since the last's year's number, and as the title indicates contains figures for almost every thing that is desirable to know of the state. It is alike of interest to the farmers, merchants and the professions, and can be had for 25 cents of O. W. Ruggles, Chicago, Ills.

There has been considerable figuring of late between the G. R. & I. R. R. Co., and the Iron Co. at Elk Rapids, regarding the proposed branch to that place. The railroad company is trying to drive a close bargain in the matter, and squeeze all they can out of the proposed line. In this they will probably fail, however, for if the truth was known the G. R. & I. are more than anxious to build the line, for they can readily see that some other line, perhaps and probably the Michigan Central, will eventually gather in the D. C. & E. R. R., and see the advantage of a branch to Elk Rapids, and the first named road is sharp enough to consult its own best interests without being hired to do so.—Kalkaska Leader

An artist in Boston who has for years been considered one of the best portrait artists in that city was a few years ago somewhat poorer than at present. He was accustomed to take his lunch at a little eating house situated at that time in the lower part of the old Scollay building. Beans were then sold at 10 cents per plate. The artist called for "beans." They were brought to him, but after the waiter left he observed that there were no pickles on the table. In his gruff voice he called: "Waiter! Where are you pickles? For heaven sake, what are beans without pickles?" "Nine cents, sir," replied the waiter.

Charlevoix Improvement Association

President—Byron See.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Robert Miller.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Grier.
Financial Secretary—
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.
Executive Committee—J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cruickshank, and E. F. Parmelee.
Corresponding Committee—H. Lee Iddings, W. A. Brown, and C. V. Cook.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Barthelomew, M. J. Stockman, R. Cooper, Geo. W. Crouter, R. W. Miller, S. M. Soo, W. C. Newman, E. M. Clark, H. Berdan.

The objects of the Association are to aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to advance the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity. Regular meetings are held at Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7.30 p. m.

Charlevoix Business Men's Association.

President—John Nicholls.
Vice President—Harvey L. Iddings.
Secretary—R. W. Kane
Treasurer—W. F. Brown.
Executive Committee—President, Secretary, Treasurer, L. D. Barthelomew and Geo. W. Miller.
Business Committee—G. W. Crouter, L. D. Barthelomew and O. S. Washburn.

The objects of this association shall be to unite merchants and other respitable business men for reform, development of industries and work for the general good, and to promote, by all legitimate means, the social, moral and business interests of its members.

Regular meetings on the first Tuesday evening of each month at Odd Fellows' Hall.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crouter can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and such as are positively warranted to give satisfactory results. The New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs, will sell in on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

For chronic catarrh, induced by a scrofulous taint, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the true remedy. It stops catarrhal discharges, removes the sickening odor, and never fails to thoroughly eradicate every trace of the disease from the blood. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

For Toilet Use.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald fr... six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color, and gave it a healthy growth. My hair, this gray... Mary N. Hamm VIGOR, you... be preserved... the use of Ayer... ease of the sca... come back... freely. Nothin... any good... Ayer's Hair V... this preparatio... healthy condit... and vigorous... is also free fro... Foss, Milwauk...

Ayer's
Sold by Dr...

PERFECT SAT... wonderful cu... place Ayer's F... of popular rem... ous Headaches ... mass original...

I have been... Headache, and... are the only... given me relie... will quickly r... my head from... Richmond Va...

Aye
Prepared by Dr...
Sold by...

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

PANTS, OVERALLS AND SHIRTS

JOURNAL EXTRA

Friday Morning, June 17, 1887.

FIRE.

Propeller Champlain Burned

TWENTY-ONE LIVES LOST

Last night, about midnight, the propeller Champlain, of the Northern Michigan line, was discovered on fire, two miles off Smithson's camp, about six miles from Charlevoix. As near as we can learn, a lamp exploded in the fireman's room, and in an instant the engine room was filled with heat and flame and the engineer was severely burned. The propeller then headed for shore, but her speed so interfered with lowering the small boats that the passengers and crew were driven into the water, as their only chance for life.

From official information from the officers of the boat, J. Milo Eaton, deputy collector, fixes the number lost at twenty-one.

As soon as possible, a tug started for the wreck, and the burning hull was brought to Charlevoix and beached just south of the pier. The fire engine was then taken to the pier and put out the fire, to aid the search for bodies.

A large number of people throng the pier, this morning, while the fire engine is at work.

Numerous relics are being carried away.

A tug is now searching for bodies near the little island.

THE DEAD.

Mrs. ELLA SMITH, daughter of Richard Cooper, of Charlevoix, drowned. Body recovered.

GEORGE WRISLEY, of Charlevoix, drowned.

ROBERT WILKS, of Charlevoix, drowned.

CAPT. LUCAS, of Petoskey, drowned.

I. J. ROGERS and son, of Fort Mackinac.

HENRY BRENNAN, clerk of the Champlain, died from exhaustion, after being brought ashore.

Mr. RUSSELL, agent for a Jackson, Mich., corset house, died from exhaustion, after being brought ashore.

Mrs. Capt. KEROE, of Chicago; coming to Charlevoix.

Four Indian deck-hands, from Elk Rapids.

Two children of Martin Bean, steward of the Champlain, drowned. He and his wife were saved.

EDWARD WILKINS, cabin boy.

Second cook.

One fireman.

A young man from Chicago.

A lady and daughter from Manistique.

NOTES.

George W. Miller, of Charlevoix, swam ashore, and assisted W. H. Albright, agent for the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co., Chicago, saving his life.

Henry Brennan, clerk, and a Mr. Russel, of Jackson, were brought ashore, but died from exhaustion.

Capt. Casey, after jumping into the water, pulled off his shoes, and swam ashore, then got into a small boat and went back to help rescue the floaters.

Fred Wrisley and Antoine Sharrow swam ashore.

John O'Neil and Mox Leibnitzsky found the bodies of Mrs. Ella Smith and Capt. Lucas, of Petoskey, floating about three miles northwest from the scene of the wreck, and brought them in at 8:00 o'clock. Both had life preservers, but they were imperfectly put on, and threw their heads under the waves.

Several horses, belonging to Wm. Stevens, were burned.

The charred foot of a man was found in the ruins after the fire was out.

We learn that there are a number of bodies at Smithson's camp, which have not yet been brought to Charlevoix.

12 M.

The tug Alice Campbell just arrived with the bodies of Brennan, Russel, the second cook, the cabin boy, and I. J. Rogers of Fort Mackinac.

Saturday Morning.

The bodies of Robert Wilks, Geo. Wrisley, and the lady from Manistique, were recovered this morning.

The burned firemen was brought to Charlevoix last night, and is now being cared for at the Fountain City House.

The burned engineer was not able to be moved, and is being cared for at Smithson's camp.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 16, 1887.

Strayed Colt.

One year old, brown male colt, one white hind foot, and other partly white. Will pay liberal for any information.

J. J. BENNETT,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Look at the date on the yellow

JOURNAL EXTRA

Friday Morning, June 17, 1887.

FIRE.

Propeller Champlain Burned

THIRTY LIVES LOST.

Last night, about midnight, the propeller Champlain, of the Northern Michigan line, was discovered on fire, two miles off Smithson's camp, about six miles from Charlevoix. As near as we can learn, a lamp exploded in the fireman's room, and in an instant the engine room was filled with heat and flame that the engineer was severely burned before he could stop the machinery and start the fire pump. The propeller was then headed for shore, but her speed so interfered with lowering the small boats that the passengers and crew were driven into the water, as their only chance for life. It is impossible now to learn the number lost, but it is believed to be over thirty.

As soon as possible, a tug started for the wreck, and the burning hull was brought to Charlevoix and beached just south of the pier. The fire engine was then taken to the pier and put out the fire, to aid the search for bodies.

A large number of people throng the pier, this morning, while the fire engine is at work.

Numerous relics are being carried away.

A tug is now searching for bodies near the little island.

THE DEAD.

Mrs. ELLA SMITH, daughter of Richard Cooper, of Charlevoix, drowned. Body recovered.

GEORGE WRISLEY, of Charlevoix, drowned.

ROBERT WILKS, of Charlevoix, drowned.

CAPT. LUCAS, of Petoskey, drowned.

HENRY BRENNAN, clerk of the Champ-plain, died from exhaustion, after being brought ashore.

Mr. RUSSELL, agent for a Jackson, Mich., corset house, died from exhaustion, after being brought ashore.

R. M. MCKEEL, painter, just moving to Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. KROON, of Chicago.

Four white men, deck hands, are known to be drowned.

Four Indian deck-hands, from Elk Rapids.

Two children of Martin Baugh, steward of the Champlain, drowned.

NOTES.

George W. Miller, of Charlevoix, swam ashore, and assisted W. H. Albright, agent for the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co., Chicago, saving his life.

Henry Brennan, clerk, and a Mr. Russel, of Jackson, were brought ashore, but died from exhaustion.

Capt. Casey, after jumping into the water, pulled off his shoes, and swam ashore, then got into a small boat and went back to help rescue the floaters.

Fred Wrisley and Antoine Sharrow swam ashore.

John O'Neil and Mox Leibnitzsky found the bodies of Mrs. Ella Smith and Capt. Lucas, of Petoskey, floating about three miles northwest from the scene of the wreck, and brought them in at 8:00 o'clock. Both had life preservers, but they were imperfectly put on, and threw their heads under the waves.

Wm. Albert was in court before Justice McLeod on Monday to answer to a charge of retailing liquor without a license, and after being convicted by a jury was fined $5 and costs, total $25, or 15 days in jail, and he is now in jail.

Mr. Stillman Parker and Mrs. S. J. Kimball were married Monday morning at the home of Mr. Wright Bipley, on Mason street, by Rev. W. G. Clark. Mr. and Mrs. Parker took the steamer City of Grand Rapids at noon for Port Austin to spend a few days with relatives of Mrs. Parker.

Main street, East Jordan, is just now badly torn up, but when the grading is completed, and the street covered with clay and gravel, it will have much more the appearance of a city. A new sight-look sidewalk is to be laid on both sides the entire length of the business portion of the street.

About three tons of groceries and provisions have already been shipped in from the outside for the Belvedere House for this season. Here is food for reflection by those who have given liberally of their property to make a pleasant place for strangers, expecting returns from an increase of business.

Stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers spoiled in directing will be refunded at the postoffice in stamps by the postmaster, if satisfied they have never been sent by mail, and that the misdirection actually occurred in the postoffice.

Wm. FRELIGH, ALCHINSON FOX COME... day morning on the Champlain for California, her former home.

L. G. Cross of Eastport, is calling on his Charlevoix friends today.

A. D. Cruickshank left Tuesday for Sault de Ste Marie on legal business.

Prosecuting Attorney H. L. Corbett was in town Monday on legal business.

A. L. Faulkner, of the Traverse Journal made us a brief call this morning

Mrs. G. C. Gelken is visiting friends in St. Joseph, her old home, this week.

Rev. G. S. Robinson, of East Jordan, was in town Tuesday, and made us a pleasant call.

Mrs. Minnie Goss went Monday to Bruce Suffield, died at the home of J. T. Kelly, near Dillsburg, on Tuesday, of consumption, aged 42 years, 3 months, and 17 days. She was born at Rochedale, England. When fifteen years old she became a member of a Baptist church in Cass Co., and since then did much valuable service for the religion she believed to be the light of the world. She was always prominent in christian and temperance work. To her bereaved husband she was married April 9, 1863. Two intelligent daughters, old enough to feel the loss of an affectionate mother, survive her. Funeral services were held at the Congregational church on Thursday, June 9, by Rev. Fonda; sermon from the text, "For we are his fellow workers—ye are God's husbandry, God's building." The remains were buried in Maplewood cemetery.

Eveline.

Strawberries are ripe.
Very warm the past week.
Raspberries promise a good crop.
Path masters have begun work on roads.
Chas. Peterson, of Petoskey, made us a pleasant call Friday.
Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Tuttle are visiting their daughter at Boyne City.
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bedwin, of Hayes, was in town last Thursday visiting friends.
J. M. Harris and Nellie Noyes attended the institute at Boyne last week, and in consequence there was no school at Ironton.
Friday evening, June 24th, Miss May Papineau will give an exhibition at the Hilegas school house that being the close of a nine months term in that district.
Geo. Clendonnings, path master in road district No. 11, is doing some good work.
Charles Bedwin opened up the grocery business again last week at his old stand at Bedwin. Charles has many friends and we hope that he will do well.
Miss Alice Hayden has been very sick for some time, but she is now improving.
Children's day was observed appropriately last Sunday at the Ironton M. E. church. A good time is reported.
The Helping Hand society will give an ice cream and strawberry social at the M. E. church, Friday evening of this week.

June 16.

Wilson.

The mill started again on Monday.
The school bell rang again yesterday.
Full attendance at church on Sunday last. Elder Tracy preached at 12.
Elder Scofield will preach next Sunday at the usual hour.
Miss Myrtle Hudkins spent last week with her aunt, Mrs. Stackus, at Boyne City.
Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Scofield spent two days last week with their brother A. E. Scofield, of Echo.
Mr. David Kuhns is selling off his personal property preparatory to going with his wife to Pennsylvania for her health.
Mr. and Mrs. Stackus, of Boyne City, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hudkins one day recently.
Messrs. Smith and Hudkins are making extensive clearings, that greatly improve the looks of their farms.
We now shake the strawberry tree and gather the delicious product in abundance.
David Shepard's horses ran a way as he was going to Advance on Tuesday morning, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt.

June 16.

M. E. Church.

Tuesday evening bible reading at 7:30. Theme: "Hold Fast." Let us all get hold and keep hold that no man take our crown.
Thursday evening at 7.30 we meet to pray and praise him who has loved us and given himself for us.
Friday evening teachers meet to search the scriptures, and do business for the school.
Saturday evening an adjourned meeting of quarterly conference to examine plans for proposed church repairs.
Sunday morning services at usual hour. Strangers invited. Sunday school at 12. W. H. MCCARTNEY.

Ellsworth.

C. Johnston and a friend from Norwood spent Saturday last on the lake fishing. They had good success.
Mr. Zeran, of Eastport, is company with his wife and mother passed here on their way to East Jordan last Thursday.
T. H. Scow is getting out shingle bolts from his place up the lake.
Adam Sinclair has just returned from Tennessee where he has been for nearly three years. He looks as if that climate agreed with him.
Miss Minnie Dryer, (who is at present teaching on the peninsula) and several of her pupils made us a pleasant call Saturday afternoon.

June 16.

A New Potato Bug Exterminator.

F. G. Hines & Co. have accepted the agency of a new article called "Bug Finish," which is destined to have a monstrous sale, and is guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. It is cheap, only 5 cents per pound. Special rates on large quantities. Requires no mixing, is ready for use dry. One pound will go as far as ten pounds of plaster or Paris green, as mixed by the farmer and is therefore cheaper, and saves the trouble and danger of mixing and using Paris green. It was used last season on the State Agricultural college farm at Lansing. The manager wrote the manufacturers as follows: "That it gave good satisfaction on garden and potatoes." The mixture is cheaper than any other used for the purpose.

South Hayes.

W. E. Bedwin lost a valuable colt last week.
W. H. Jarman spent last Sunday in Hayes.
Mrs. B. H. Whitman with her son Arthur and daughter Hattie, of Norwood, were visiting her daughter, Mrs. Mary Bedwin, last week.
Strawberries are now on the bill of fare every day.
Peter McNally is loading the schooner Bert Barnes this week with wood.
We were pleased to notice A. Webb last week out among his neighbors, after about two week's illness.
Whitford & Crane's mill at Undine is kept busy three days sawing hardwood lumber.

June 16.

Bayard.

Now is the time for the strawberry short cake.
J. S. Smithson will deliver a gospel address at Barnard school house next Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m.
Mr. Thomas Cannon is visited by his father and uncle this week.
Miss Mary Walker and Mr. William Rice were married at Charlevoix on Thursday. We wish them joy.
About two hundred people attended children's day services last Sunday. The address by Rev. W. H. McCartney was very interesting and instructive.

June 16.

Shipments.

June 11—Schr. W. H. Dunham, 150,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.
11—Schr. F. M. Smith, 65 cords bark, Carpenter, Bartholomew & Co., to Milwaukee.
12—Schr. Starrucca, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, The Lake Lumber Co., to Chicago.
13—Schr. I. B. Shepard, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.
14—Schr. Contest, 75 cords wood, 50 cords bark, H. Symmonds, to Kenosha.
15—Schr. W. B. Taylor, 19,000 cubic feet of timber, to Kingston, Ont.
17—Schr. Mockingbird, 5,800 cedar ties, W. H. Dowker, to Chicago.
17—Schr. Eagle Wing, 6,400 cedar ties, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Milwaukee.
18—Schr. Lottie Mason, 50 cords wood, I. H. Morehouse to Milwaukee.

The meed of merit for promoting personal comeliness, is due to J. C. Ayer & Co., whose Hair Vigor is a universal beautifier of the hair. Harmless, effective, and agreeable, it ranks among the indispensable toilet articles.

Ladies, Gents and Children

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1887. TIME-CARD 1887.

OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS.

THOMAS FRIANT, CAPT. R. VANDERHOEF. Going South Every Morning. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at 7.00
PETOSKEY 8.00
CHARLEVOIX 9.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN 11.30

Going North Every Afternoon. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at 1.30
CHARLEVOIX 4.00
PETOSKEY 5.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS 6.00

LOU A. CUMMINGS, CAPT. W. A. SNYDER. Going North Every Morning. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN 7.00
CHARLEVOIX 9.00
PETOSKEY 11.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS 11.30

Going South Every Afternoon. EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at 3.00
PETOSKEY 5.00
CHARLEVOIX 6.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN 9.00

Baggage and Freight Carried at Low Rates.

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

Time Cards

Seas...

Steamer J...

CAPT. ...
Morning—Leave Charlevoix 9.00, at Charlevoix 11. Afternoon—Leave Boyne City 2.30, Charlevoix 4.30. Touching at int...

Steamer ...

CAPT. ...
Morning—Leave East Jordan 7.00 at Charlevoix 11. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 4.00 at Charlevoix 6. Touching at in...

Steamer ...

CAPT. ...
Morning—Leave Charlevoix 9.15, Leave Charlevoix Afternoon—Leave Boyne City 2.30, Charlevoix 4.30. Touching at int...

Hannah, La...

Str. City ...

CAPT. ...
Going North day.—leave Tra... volis 11.30 a. m. Island 7.45 p. m.
Going South day.—leave Island 7.00 a. m. volis 2.45 p. m.

Norther...

Propel...

CAPT. ...
Going North 5.00 p. m.; Mil... Charlevoix, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Fr... Harbor Springs, ... 4.15 p. m. Milwaukee Mo... Monday, 10.00 ...

Prope...

CAPT. ...
Going North 1.00 p. m.; M... Charlevoix, ... bayou, Mond... Going South 1.00 p. m.; Ch... Harbor Springs, ... Thursday ... For further ... apply to Duluth, Soul...

"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."

Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron and Copper Regions of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections in Union Depots at all Points.

The territory traversed is famous for its

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

Tickets for sale at all points in the United States. Rates as low as Competitors offer. Send Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

Harbor Springs and Manistique.

Propellor A. C. Van Raalte,

CAPT. E. A. BOUCHER.

Leaves Harbor Springs every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at 1.00 p. m. Leaves Manistique every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 7.00 a. m. Touching at Cross Village and St. James both ways.

The Van Raalte gives an excursion from Harbor Springs to Mackinac Island every Sunday.

HEADQUARTERS FOR

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

ALL THE LEADING WATCHES IN STOCK. All the latest, best and most improved Watches manufactured.

Repairing done Promptly and Warranted. Required article, not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Bridge St., - - Charlevoix.

WALL

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dados, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

PAPER

GOOD-BYE SPRING.

Welcome Summer!

A. T. Washburne & Co.'s

Grand Opening for Summer

Was a Great Success.

Second Invoice of Summer Goods

Now on the Road.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court, for the county of Charlevoix, in favor of Fred Lakey and Charles Lakey, a corporate body, against the goods and chattels of Ira Ferland, and to me directed, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest I did on the 12th day of February, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, in the office of the said William M. Holland and Vivian Wolcott, and to the following described real estate, that is to say, the north west of the north of Section Twenty-Six (26) in Township of Evelyn, Charlevoix county, state of Michigan, being in town 33 north, range 7 west, all of which I shall expose at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in said county, on the 12th day of July, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day. Dated the 11th day of May, 1887.

D. B. MCLEOD,
By WILLIAM SCOTT,
CRUICKSHANK & ... Sheriff.
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Seven Hundred and May Dollars ($700) which is now claimed to be due on a mortgage made by Ira Ferland and Mary Jane, his wife, to Fred Lakey, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, May 10th, 1886, in the office of the Register of Deeds for said county, in liber 11 of mortgages, on page 38, and assigned by instrument in writing duly executed and delivered to the undersigned, which said mortgage was duly recorded in said office of Deeds, on the 12th day of February, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, in liber 11 of mortgages, on page 39, of which said mortgage there is now claimed to be due the sum of Seven Hundred and May Dollars ($700) principal and interest, to wit, three hundred and eighty dollars ($380) principal and interest is past due and unpaid, the undersigned will sell at public vendue, at the front door of the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 12th day of July, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said mortgage, viz: The south half of the south half of the south half of the south half of section 26, in township thirty-four north, of range fifteen west, in said county, in the highway, the use thereof being reserved to the public. Dated Boyne City, Michigan, this 12th day of June, A. D. 1887.

DAVID HYMAN,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Michigan.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

Poster Printing

Quick and Cheap,

At the Journal Office

THE CALLING OF THE SEA.

BY C. G. BLANK.

They are calling me, calling me, calling me,
The waters so deep and swift,
And I long to plunge into their current
And out on their bosom drift.

I stand by the rolling ocean
Where high the billows roll,
Of sake of the rushing river
Burn fiercely my soul.
And out of the sea come voices,
And the river murmurs low,
They draw me into their bosom
Down to their depths below.

You may boast upon the earth
Of Wife's calm, majestic sway,
You may roll upon the shore
With your billows calm and deep;
But whether calm or frantic
I hear you calling low.
Yes, I hear you calling, calling,
In words none I know more,
And you bid me come unto you,
To calm rest down below.

Where to you roll in splendor,
With high majestic sway,
Where you roll in anger, they
And up the cliff leap,
I know you want me, want me,
And I long to be at rest.
Beneath your storms far down below,
In Lethe's calm or frost.

And I hope that my death will come to me
On the river or on the sea,
That the voices that is calling me ever
Shall make my way and free.

They are calling me, calling me, calling me—
The waters so deep and swift,
That I long to plunge into the current
And on our their bosom drift.

SISTER ANGELA.

BY MRS. BELL BALL.

"What exquisitely beautiful hands. Does the face compare with them, Don Felipe?" The speaker turned to look after the retreating form of a black-robed nun, as his companion hesitated for an instant, and then answered:

"Sí, Senor. Her face was once the inspiration of a poet's pen and the artists' brush. She is yet very beautiful, but it is the loveliness of a nature from which the dross has been burned by the fiery ordeal of affection."

"Ah, a romance?"

"A sad and bitter one."

"May I not hear it?"

Again Don Felipe hesitated. "The street is not the place to relate such a story."

"Well, we can leave the street. I am anxious to learn the history of a woman with hands like those; of course it is a love story."

"It is such an one that you need never wish to have a share in. If you must hear it, come with me to my house, and I will relate to you that which is now known to but few persons. That which I will tell you I have sad reason to know is true, for the lovely woman was my uncle's wife."

"At the base of the Sandval mountains lies a level mesa of several hundred acres in extent, crossed by a mountain brook. In the center of the mesa is a rambling adobe building, with many placitas in which were once lovely stationary and sparkling fountains, overshadowed by noble trees. The cool waters of the brook rippled through the grounds and singing birds of brightest plumage dipped their wings in the sparkling depths. These wide acres belong to one of the wealthiest families in New Mexico, and were given hundreds of years ago in an old Spanish grant to the first of the name Salazar who came to this territory. The house is old, very old, and much of its former magnificence is still discernible in the rich carvings and splendid furnishings, but many a dreary year has passed since human feet have trend the moth-eaten carpets or looked from the dust-grimed windows. The hand of the destroyer has touched it, and ruin is imprinted everywhere.

"Perfecta Salazar, my father's youngest brother, inherited this land as his share in my grandfather's estate. My uncle was a passionate, unreasoning man—a maniac when fairly roused. He was forty-five years old when he married, and took for his wife a wild young girl whom he had dandled on his knee when a baby. She did not love him, it was not in the nature of things that she should, but married him in obedience to her father's commands. She loved a man her equal in station and age, but to keep her from a marriage he did not approve, her father hurried on the marriage with my uncle.

"I believe that Dolores Perea meant to keep sacredly the vows taken at the altar, and did, so far as it was in her nature to do, but her giddy ways were wholly unsuited to the serious manhood of my uncle, who loved her with all the passionate ardor of a man who had never known but one love. He surrounded her with every luxury that money could buy, and her light nature was in a measure contented, but my uncle was so insanely jealous of her that his life was made miserable by Dolores, who often tormented him needlessly.

"It is just twenty years this very night since they were married, and seven years since Dolores looked the last time on my uncle's face.

"Among her jewels a bracelet, a peculiarly hideous pattern it is cultivated in vogue in those days. It was a legacy from her father on her bridal. Seth birthday, and being somewhat antique in style, it had been laid by for a number of years, and her mind had never changed to see it, but she had kept the case for gems to wear to a grand ball on that Christmas eve, the anniversary of her wedding, she found the birthday bauble and in a spirit of mischief fastened it on her arm. Its golden scales sparkled and scintillated as it twisted its coils about the soft, white flesh, and the great ruby eyes of the serpentine trinket glowed with a lurid fire that seemed to herald the gathering storm; from its mouth depended a tiny locket in which was Senor Perea's picture, painted on ivory so many years before, it bore slight resemblance to the Senor of that day.

"Dolores was arrayed in magnificent attire when my uncle entered the dressing-room at her request, to see if she was robed to suit his over-fastidious taste. Her dress of filmy black lace was worn over crimson velvet, and swept in rudy billows about her pretty feet. A heavy band of ruby-studded gold clasped in her black hair. About her beautiful bare throat was clasped a wide collar of rubies, and ruby stars sparkled in her ears, shone in her rosette on her tiny slippers and caught up the soft folds of her lace. No rings save her marriage circlet of virgin gold were on her dainty hands, and on one arm glitted and twinked in all its barbaric hideousness the gold and ruby serpent.

"My uncle fastened his eyes on the rarely lovely picture she made as she stood in the soft glow of the wax tapers, till a movement of her rounded arm brought to view the fatal bracelet. He thought it some trinket she had lately bought, but to his idle question she made some evasive answer, which roused his jealous nature, and he pounced on the ugly thing and was about to tear it from her arm when the locket flew open and a man's face looked up at him. In his blind fury he struck her from him and rushed, cursing, from her room.

"Dolores was so panic stricken at the absurd turn her expected fun had taken that she was unable to move, but crouching among the curtains where her husband had hurled her, she heard the clatter of horses' hoofs and knew that he had gone off in a rage and she would see him no more for hours—such was his habit—and it occasioned her no uneasiness, but, strange consistency, she was growing to love him, and dropping down before the crucifix on her dressing table she cried bitterly, and vowed by the holy virgin never to torment him so again.

"A stinging sensation in her arm claimed her attention and an examination showed that her husband, in his anger, had crushed the rough gold of her bracelet into the tender flesh, till her wrist bore a wide mark of blood, and dried into the scales of the snake, and dripped down among her laces. With a shrill scream she tried to unclasp it, but the catch was bent and would not give way. Her cry of terror brought her maid to the room but their united efforts could not undo the clasp. Finally Dolores said: "Let it be until Senor Salazar returns, he can break it."

"Senor Perfecto was in a terrible passion when he rode away. His face was like death, and Diablo has never been ridden for weeks. I'm afraid there will be mischief done to-night.

"Dolores did not reprove the talkative maid, but walking to the window peered anxiously out. Her vision was bounded by four walls above which she could see but little blue sky. She turned back with a dreadful fear at her heart.

"How strange! it has clouded up since Sunday. It will storm before daybreak, I fear."

"Indeed it will, Senora. The heaven is black now. Will you want the carriage to-night. Jose is waiting for orders."

"No, unless Senor Salazar returns, I will remain at home. Come with me, perhaps we can hear if he is coming."

Throwing a rebozo over her head and shoulders, she caught up her trailing skirts, and together they passed out into the gathering darkness, and ascended to the roof.

The outlook was forbidding indeed. Above the Sandoval mountains the black clouds were drifting their soft covering, while over the mesa and yonder mountain peak the Hell canon were roaring in mad fury.

"Which road did Senor Salazar take? asked Dolores as they turned from their fruitless errand to descend to the house.

"The north one toward the canon, Senora."

"I feared so much," shivered Dolores, "but it cannot now be helped," and entering her own room again, she laid aside her jewels and laces, and slipping into a soft crimson robe, she crouched down on a pile of furs before the fire-place and waited.

Midnight came, but still no husband, and rising from her fire, chilled to the heart, the fire burned to white ashes, Dolores tried to pierce the blackness of the winter sky. No comfort there. The storm unheard through the thick walls was bellowing and tearing over the mountain in mad frenzy, and snow was piled in great drifts about the statuary in the plazas.

"This is a terrible storm," Dolores muttered to herself. "I cannot remember one like it. Perfecto must have sought refuge somewhere and I may as well retire."

Christmas morning dawned as fair as though a storm had never blackened the face of the blue sky. The world looked pure and most lovely under the mantle of snow, sparkling in the sunlight, and told no tales of the wild night's delirium.

Some miners far up the mountain side, concluding that winter was upon them, gathered up their meager belongings and sought the lower level. They came upon a heap in the bottom of the canon, where the road ran between two walls of rocks which rose perpendicular 200 feet. It proved to be a horse and rider, crushed beyond all hope of life remaining.

"Went over the cliff in the storm last night," was the terse comment, as they raised the mangled form of the man and prepared to carry it down the mountain.

"Howly mother save us," ejaculated one of the party, as he brushed the snow from the dead face. "It's Senor Salazar."

And so it was. In his mad ride he had spurred his horse too close to the cliff, and went over the side into the canon, and it was this that Dolores had foreseen, when she asked the road he had taken. I need not dwell on the scene in his home when they carried his lifeless body and laid it in her room. Though her affection for him was hardly more than that of a child for a parent, she knew that she was the idol of his heart, and felt that she had driven him to death. She buried him in splendid pomp, and spent vast sums in masses for his soul. Then she closed the doors in her home, she entered the convent of the Sacred Heart and has spent her life in supplication for pardon for her unintentional wrong.

Her hair, once the color of the raven's wing, is as white as the snow on yonder mountain peak. The sparkle and shine of her beautiful eyes have been quenched in tears, and her light, quick step has changed to the weary tread of the hopeless.

Her cheeks are as marble, her lips were parting in mad fury.

"Which road did Senor Salazar take?" asked Dolores as they turned from their fruitless errand to descend to the house.

"The north one toward the canon, Senora."

"I feared so much," shivered Dolores, "but it cannot now be helped," and entering her own room again, she laid aside her jewels and laces, and slipping into a soft crimson robe, she crouched down on a pile of furs before the fire-place and waited.

Midnight came, but still no husband, and rising from her fire, chilled to the heart, the fire burned to white ashes. Dolores tried to pierce the blackness of the winter sky. No comfort there. The storm unheard through the thick walls was bellowing and tearing over the mountain in mad frenzy, and snow was piled in great drifts about the statuary in the plazas.

"This is a terrible storm," Dolores muttered to herself. "I cannot remember one like it. Perfecto must have sought refuge somewhere and I may as well retire."

Christmas morning dawned as fair as though a storm had never blackened the face of the blue sky. The world looked pure and most lovely under the mantle of snow, sparkling in the sunlight, and told no tales of the wild night's delirium.

Some miners far up the mountain side, concluding that winter was upon them, gathered up their meager belongings and sought the lower level. They came upon a heap in the bottom of the canon, where the road ran between two walls of rocks which rose perpendicular 200 feet. It proved to be a horse and rider, crushed beyond all hope of life remaining.

"Went over the cliff in the storm last night," was the terse comment, as they raised the mangled form of the man and prepared to carry it down the mountain.

"Howly mother save us," ejaculated one of the party, as he brushed the snow from the dead face. "It's Senor Salazar."

And so it was. In his mad ride he had spurred his horse too close to the cliff, and went over the side into the canon, and it was this that Dolores had foreseen, when she asked the road he had taken. I need not dwell on the scene in his home when they carried his lifeless body and laid it in her room. Though her affection for him was hardly more than that of a child for a parent, she knew that she was the idol of his heart, and felt that she had driven him to death. She buried him in splendid pomp, and spent vast sums in masses for his soul. Then she closed the doors in her home, she entered the convent of the Sacred Heart and has spent her life in supplication for pardon for her unintentional wrong.

Her hair, once the color of the raven's wing, is as white as the snow on yonder mountain peak. The sparkle and shine of her beautiful eyes have been quenched in tears, and her light, quick step has changed to the weary tread of the hopeless.

Her cheeks are as marble and her lips are as pale as the lips of the dead.

FARM AND GARDEN.

VARIOUS WAYS OF PRESERVING EGGS FOR WINTER.

A Filter Trap of Simple Construction for Cisterns—Recent Estimate of the Country's Wool Clip—A Beautiful Climbing Vine—Useful Harrow.

The harrow represented in the cut is a square one. The teeth are set twelve inches from center to center each way. There are four beams in each half and five teeth in each beam. These beams are four feet eight inches long, measured into the front piece, which is three feet seven inches in length.

A HOME MADE HARROW.

The rear ends of the beam are secured by a piece of timber, two by one and a half inches, halved on to the beams and then bolted. The harrow is made of two and a half by two and a half inch scantling, using hard, durable wood. There is nothing particularly new about the harrow, except that it is larger than common, and the novel way of hitching to it by which it is kept steady. The teeth can be made to cut six inches or one inch apart. The manner of hitching is shown in the engraving. The draw bar is made of three-eighths by one and three-quarter iron, three feet four inches in length. The chain is attached to this by a hook at one end, the other being fastened to the harrow by a staple. The chain is about two feet long. The entire cost is about $12.

Preparing Trees for Planting.

Prepare trees for planting by cutting the tops back in proportion to the amount of injury done to the roots, which is generally from one-half to two-thirds of the entire top. On this pruning all shoots should be entirely cut away that are not needed for the formation of a perfect head, and the others cut back one-half to two-thirds of their length.

If the head is not formed high enough upon the trunk it may often be carried higher by cutting off all lateral shoots, leaving the most central one for a leader, upon which will be formed the new head several inches higher than the first. All injured roots should have the ends cut smooth with a sharp knife, and with small fruits, like the grape, currant and strawberry, it is often desirable to cut back some of the larger ones.

Restoring Rancid Butter.

You cannot restore rancid butter to a sweet, good article. It may be somewhat improved, however, by washing it first in new milk and after that in cold water. Another plan is to beat up a quarter of a pound of good fresh lime in a pail of water and after allowing it to stand for an hour until the impurities have settled, pour off the clear portion and wash the rancid butter in that.

A Hardy Climber.

Next to the rose, for the details in bouquets the most popular flowering plant of the day is the clematis. Hardiness during the entire season and embraces a great variety of beautiful colors. The clematis is a rapid climber, and, if carefully trained, attains to a height of from five to fifteen feet in a season.

CLEMATIS JACKMANI.

Our picture represents one of the most beautiful of the clematis family, and consequently one of the most beautiful of all our hardy climbers. Planted so as to cover the pillars of verandas, or trained on a trellis or stump or other object, it has no equal. It may also be planted in rocking or winding flower beds, but it will require pegging down. The large, violet purple flowers of this variety are produced in the greatest profusion, and remain on the plant a long time. This is a very satisfactory plant to cultivate, as it increases in size and beauty each year.

The Preservation of Eggs.

The season is again at hand when the several modes of packing down eggs for winter use are discussed. These various methods each have their warm advocates claiming superior merits. They all depend, however, largely upon the fact that the shell are porous, and if the pores be closed or protected from the recess of air, the contents will remain good a long time. If late years protection of the contents of the shell by cold air has been practiced to a great extent.

It is concerns that hold over eggs for their preserve the eggs in a line with the cold storage system. Lime and others who preserve eggs in quantities, as a rule practice lining them down in dry salt.

Lining system is inexpensive and quite simple trouble. Eggs kept by this process, however, while good for cooking purposes, such as making cake, puddings and the like, are not like fresh laid eggs when required for poaching or other uses where it is essential that the yolk remain unbroken.

To keep eggs, make a pickle of strictly pure stone lime, clean salt and pure water in the following proportions: Two quarts of salt, one bushel of lime and sixty gallons of water. The lime is carefully slacked with a part of the water, and the salt and remaining water added and stirred, when the mass is left to deposit the lime until the solution becomes clear. A common practice is to draw off the solution at this stage into a cask or vat in which is to be packed for the preserve the eggs. The eggs may be placed in the pickle by means of a tub having a punched full of holes. When the vat or cask is nearly full, cover over with a factory cloth and spread on two or three inches of the lime that settles in making the pickle, and see to it that the pickle is kept continually up over this lime.

Advocates for packing eggs in dry salt are all the while increasing in number. The editor of The Rural New Yorker and editor of The Massachusetts Ploughman are amongst practical experimenters who report favorably on the plan of packing eggs in salt. Use small kegs, being sure that they are dry and sweet, put in a layer of dry, fine salt, place the eggs in the salt the big end down, close together, but not touching. Cover with salt and add another layer. Continue with alternate layers of eggs and salt until the keg is filled, being sure, of course, to finish with a heavy layer of salt. Head the kegs and lay on their sides in some spot where a cool, even temperature can be maintained. Every few day, turn the keg. The salt prevents evaporation and the moving of the keg keeps the yolks of the eggs from adhering to the sides of the shell.

Stephen Beals advises where eggs are to be kept a long time that only interior ones be packed down. His experiments make it appear that inferior eggs keep longer and in better condition than do fertile ones.

Our advice is cold storage for large concerns that handle eggs wholesale for market. For home use we would put down small packages of eggs in dry, fine salt, as above described. When large numbers are to be placed in one package, then we would line them. By any mode the necessity of a cool, even temperature is emphasized.—The World.

Ingenious Trap for Cisterns.

The accompanying diagram represents a barrel which is placed between the eavespout and the entrance to the cistern. In the barrel is a float, H, and above the float about eight inches from the top is a diaphragm with a hole in the center. The head of the barrel is replaced, but several vent holes are needed. The diagram, S, represents the supply pipe from the roof, and F the outflow to the cistern. With every shower, the barrel being empty, or nearly so, the first flow of water brings most of the impurities dirty dung, leaves, dust and dirt off the roof and they are caught in the barrel beforehand.

FILTER TRAP FOR CISTERNS.

When the water rises as high as the diaphragm, the float closes the hole, and the pure water then rises and flows into the cistern. After the rain the water in the barrel should be drawn off. It is useful for watering plants, washing flagging, wagons, etc. The faucet, A, should be a few inches above the bottom, so that the barrel will not get so dry as to leak in a dry time, and the affair should be kept under cover for the same cause, and painted.—American Agriculturist.

Estimate of the Wool Clip.

An estimate of the wool clip of this country, prepared by the Philadelphia Textile association, places the total unwashed wool at 268,595,136 pounds, and washed, 52,469,524, grand total, 261,460,650 pounds, which reduced to scoured wool, taking ordinary shrinkage, makes 116,126,685 pounds. Another table shows the estimated decrease and increase between 1884 and 1887, and between 1886 and 1887. For the former period there was a total decrease of 41,951,424 pounds, and an increase of 9,502,217 pounds, making a net decrease of 32,919,207 pounds. The total estimated decrease between 1886 and 1887 is 22,560,100 pounds, and an increase of 1,720,783 pounds; net decrease, 20,861,276 pounds. The increase occurs in Oregon, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Washington Territory, Nevada, Dakota and Idaho. All the other states and territories show a decrease. For a period between 1884 and 1887, Kansas, Minnesota and Nebraska show an increase, but these states are in the decrease column for the period 1886-7. Texas shows a decrease of 19,165,864 pounds for three years, and 19,244,704 pounds the past year. Ohio decreased 3,185,615 pounds in the three years, and 950,605 the past year.

Gas Tar for Beetles.

I have used during two years past, says a correspondent in Husbandman, with entire satisfaction, the gas tar for the purpose of destroying the Colorado beetle on my potato vines. It has proved more effective than Paris green, and has been used with equal effect upon my currant bushes. Two quarts of gas tar to a pail of water are the proportions used, and the vines or bushes are sprinkled by means of a watering pot.

Best Water for Plants.

Soot is an excellent fertilizer for plants, especially pot plants. As easy manner of applying it is in water; tie the soot up in a bag and place it in hot water, working it around with the hands or a stick until the water has washed the soot from the bag; dilute with cold water. Soot water is excellent for roses, abutilons, pelargoniums and other flowering plants. When the pots are full of roots it appears to be especially effective.

Here and There.

The demand is increasing throughout the country for wind mills that will not only pump water, but furnish power for running various kinds of farm machinery.

If there is any better variety than the Canadian Beauty for winter layers, says Western Ploughman, we know nothing about them.

From the report on pork packing in the United States, the pack for 1886-7, is shown to amount to 13,063,013 hogs against the pack of 11,406,507 hogs in 1885-6.

In California Angora goats are raised to some extent, and seem to be profitable, especially in mountain districts. Their fleece brings fair prices, and the young animals furnish a fair quality of meat.

Rye has withstood the unfavorable meteorological conditions better than wheat, and many farmers are cultivating this crop largely as a food for stock.

In the wheat crops of 1886 Dakota stands sixth on the list.

Bermuda is the chief reliance in the southern states for pasture. It is not hardy at the north.

Professor Cook, Lansing, Mich., kills cabbage worms with a mixture of one pound of bubach and 100 gallons of water. Bubach is for sale at most drug stores and garden seed dealers.

Cigar Color by the Gallon.

"An interesting feature of the trade," said a dealer, "is a process for giving to cigars a very rich, glossy and shiny appearance. No matter how dead looking a cigar may be, the process makes them look as though they were made from the richest, oiliest, finest gummy tobacco, and no matter how old and dried out the cigars may be the process entirely and perfectly renovates them. The process is a secret. The material used is as clear as water, yet it gives to a cigar a much darker and richer appearance. It cannot come off the cigar, has no taste, and does not become dull by age. The material costs $5 a gallon. The fact is, the public is continually demanding cigars of better quality, and the only way to keep up with the times is for manufacturers to improve their tobacco to the fullest extent. The way to do it is to throw aside all prejudice and old-fashioned notions. The looks of cigars sell them, and if the wrappers are dark and shiny they will sell every time; that is my experience."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

How an Idea Was Born.

The idea of safe-deposit companies, so common and successful, originated with the proprietor of a drinking saloon near Washington market. The butchers used to bring their his boxes to him for storage over night in his safe, until finally he could not accommodate them all. Attending an auction sale one day he purchased a large safe, had it fitted into compartments, and assessed the cost among his patrons. Shortly after the first safe-deposit company was opened on lower Broadway, one of the promoters having watched the working of the system described. Several attempts have been made to introduce the system in London, but have been unsuccessful excepting as concerns the "city."—New York Times.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can enjoy no better when in perfect health; but now often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, or when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Billiousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Not Very Encouraging.

He had told her of his love in words as fervid as he could, and was formally awaiting her reply.

"How old are you, Mr. Sissy?" asked the girl, in a low, sweet tone.

"I'm—ah—19."

"Well, the idea of a little tot like you talking love!"—New York Sun.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Wolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192m4

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, principal and interest, secured by a mortgage made by Lemuel D. Bartholomew of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 12th day of December, A. D. 1885, to Lewis Reynolds and Walter F. Brown, on the 22d day of December, 1885, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Lemuel D. Bartholomew to Lewis Reynolds and Walter F. Brown, on the 22d day of December, 1885, and said assignment is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 24th day of December, 1885, in liber 9 of mortgages, on page 511, upon which there is now due and unpaid the sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, ($295) principal and interest, for the money secured by said mortgage, and no proceedings have been instituted, and no action or proceeding at law has been commenced to recover the money secured by said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 23d day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, which is the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the said sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, with interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as all that certain lot, piece, and parcel of land situate in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, and being the south half of lot 3, in block 3, according to the plat of said village, and the south half of section No. Eight (8) in town thirty-one (31) north, range six west, all in the township of Evangeline, Charlevoix county, Michigan, excepting and reserving the right of way for a railroad, over and upon the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section, thirty-two.

Dated Charlevoix, May 11, 1887.

LEWIS REYNOLDS,
WALTER F. BROWN,
Assignees of Mortgage.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignees.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Three Hundred Dollars, principal and interest, secured by a mortgage made by Samuel Osmer and Annie Osmer, his wife, to Walter F. Brown, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Mich., in mortgages on page 368, on the second day of February, A. D. 1886, and executed by Samuel Osmer and Annie Osmer, his wife, to Walter F. Brown, which said mortgage was duly assigned by said mortgagee to one Henry H. Vanscoumm, on the 12th day of November, A. D. 1886, and said assignment is recorded in the office of the register of deeds for said county, in liber 13 of mortgages, on page 365, and no proceedings have been instituted to recover the debt now remaining unpaid and secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 23d day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, which is the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the said sum of three hundred dollars, principal and interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as all that certain lot, piece, and parcel of land situate in the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and being lots numbered one and two, in block numbered one (1) in town thirty-one (31) north, range six west, in said township of Evangeline, Charlevoix county, Michigan, excepting and reserving the right of way for a railroad over and upon the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section, thirty-two.

Dated Charlevoix, May 11, 1887.

HENRY H. VANSCOUMM,
Assignee of Mortgage.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignee.
Charlevoix, Michigan.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Twelve Hundred and Eighty Dollars, principal and interest, secured by a mortgage made by Lemuel D. Bartholomew of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 12th day of November, A. D. 1885, to Lewis Reynolds and Walter F. Brown, on the 22d day of December, 1885, and said assignment is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for said county, Michigan, on the 24th day of December, 1885, in liber 9 of mortgages, on page 511, upon which there is now due and unpaid the sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, ($295) principal and interest, for the money secured by said mortgage, and no proceedings have been instituted, and no action or proceeding at law has been commenced to recover the money secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 23d day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, which is the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the said sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, principal and interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as all that certain lot, piece, and parcel of land situate in the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and being lots numbered one and two, in block numbered one (1) in town thirty-one (31) north, range six west, in said township of Evangeline, Charlevoix county, Michigan, excepting and reserving the right of way for a railroad over and upon the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section, thirty-two.

Dated Charlevoix, May 11, 1887.

LEWIS REYNOLDS,
WALTER F. BROWN,
Assignees of Mortgage.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignees.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Three Hundred and Twenty Dollars, principal and interest, secured by a mortgage made by Lemuel D. Bartholomew of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 12th day of November, A. D. 1885, to Lewis Reynolds and Walter F. Brown, on the 22d day of December, 1885, and said assignment is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for said county, Michigan, on the 24th day of December, 1885, in liber 9 of mortgages, on page 511, upon which there is now due and unpaid the sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, ($295) principal and interest, for the money secured by said mortgage, and no proceedings have been instituted, and no action or proceeding at law has been commenced to recover the money secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 23d day of June, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, which is the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the said sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, principal and interest and all legal costs, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars provided for by law, the premises being described in said mortgage as all that certain lot, piece, and parcel of land situate in the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and being lots numbered one and two, in block numbered one (1) in town thirty-one (31) north, range six west, in said township of Evangeline, Charlevoix county, Michigan, excepting and reserving the right of way for a railroad over and upon the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section, thirty-two.

Dated Charlevoix, May 11, 1887.

LEWIS REYNOLDS,
WALTER F. BROWN,
Assignees of Mortgage.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignees.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty Dollars, principal and interest, secured by a mortgage made by William Hotham and Helen A. Hotham to Belle Wilson, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 12th day of April, 1886, and executed by said mortgagors to Belle Wilson, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Mich., in liber 13 of mortgages, pages 44 and 45, on the 14th day of April, 1886, and said mortgage was assigned by said Belle Wilson to Jacob H. Passage, April 20th, 1886, and the power of sale contained in said register's office July 16th, 1886, in liber 14 of mortgages, on page 164, and no action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining unpaid and secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the Court House at the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the 12th day of June, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half (½) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty one (21), in township thirty four (34) north, range five (5) west, in the township of Bay View, in the county and state of Michigan, containing eighty (80) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 9th, A. D. 1887.

WALTER F. BROWN,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage made by William A. Nelson, of Boyne City, Mich., dated July 11th, A. D. 1882, and executed to Lemuel D. Bartholomew, of Charlevoix, Mich., dated July 11th, A. D. 1882, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Mich., in liber 8 of mortgages, on page 171, on the 20th day of November, A. D. 1882, upon which mortgage there is now due, at the date of this notice, the sum of Nine hundred and Twenty dollars, principal and interest, and no action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining unpaid and secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the Court House at the village of Boyne City, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, on the 12th day of June, A. D. 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The north half (½) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty one (21), in township thirty four (34) north, range five (5) west, in the township of Bay View, in the county and state of Michigan, containing eighty (80) acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated March 9th, A. D. 1887.

WALTER F. BROWN,
Mortgagee.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a certain mortgage made by William A. Nelson, of Boyne City, Mich., dated July 11th, A. D. 1882, and executed to Lemuel D. Bartholomew, of Charlevoix, Mich., dated July 11th, A. D. 1882, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Mich., in liber 8 of mortgages, on page 171, on the 20th day of November, A. D. 1882, upon which mortgage there is now due, at the date of this notice, the sum of Nine hundred and Twenty dollars, principal and interest, and no action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining unpaid and secured by said mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house in the village of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, which is the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is holden, on the 9th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock noon of said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: A part of lot 4 of block 3, in the village of South Boyne, as per the recorded plat of said village, on file in liber 1 of deeds, pages 17 and 18, in the Register's office, viz.: Commencing at the southwest corner of said lot, thence running east along Main street twenty-two (22) feet, thence north to the north line of said lot, thence west along the north line of said lot to the northwest corner of said lot, thence south along the west line of said lot to the place of beginning.

Dated May 9th, 1887.

ROBERT W. KANE,
Mortgagee.

F. W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

This Magazine portrays American thought and life from across the ocean, is filled with pure high-class literature, and can be safely welcomed in any family circle.

PRICE 25c. $3 ON A YEAR BY MAIL.

Sample Copy of current number mailed upon receipt of 25 cts.; last number, 15 cts.

Premium List with stamp.

Address, THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE,
E. P. DUTTON & SON, Publishers,
130 & 132 Fourth St., N. Y.

GET UP CLUBS

ADVERTISERS can advantageously add to examine this paper, or obtain estimates on advertising space value in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St. LORD & THOMAS. The Advertising Agency of America.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combinations, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, wonderful and desirable organs for homes, school rooms, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION.
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL
COMBINED, MAKE THE

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, free.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Used all the Year Round.

JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA

LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA,

AND FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It has been in use for 35 years, and has proved the best blood purifier. It is a powerful tonic for DUL HEADACHE, PAIN IN THE SIDE OR BACK, LIVER COMPLAINT, PIMPLES ON THE FACE, DYSPEPSIA, PILES, and all DISEASES that arise from a Disordered LIVER or impure blood. This will be found the best medicine ever taken for the chill fever. Physicians prescribe it daily. Those who use it once recommend it to others.

It is strictly vegetable, and can not hurt the most delicate constitution. It is one of the best conditions in use for FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It is sold by all respectable druggists at one dollar for a quart bottle, or three bottles for $2.50.

Those who can not obtain a bottle of this medicine from their druggists may send the money to the proprietors.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Manufacturers,
DETROIT, MICH.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send free of charge a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will address address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

STORY & CLARK PIANOS

N. J. PERRY Agent, Charlevoix.

CHICAGO: Canal and 16th Sts.

SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!

COMPOUND OXYGEN

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN

A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT

FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN": What does it do? Ask the cripple, the blind, the deaf, the dumb, the suffering, the despairing. Ask your druggist, your neighbor, your minister. Ask the sick, the well, the young, the old, the rich, the poor, the learned, the ignorant, everybody and anybody you meet, what COMPOUND OXYGEN does when it has a fair chance to do its work. Physicians prescribe it daily. Those who use it once recommend it to others.

"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS", is the title of a book of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives to all inquirers the history, nature, and mode of action of this new remedy. Sent free of charge on receipt of three cents in stamps to pay postage. It will be mailed free to any address on application.

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

FOR MAN AND BEAST!

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES

Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Sprains, Bruises, Stiffness, Toothache, Neuralgia, Sores, Swellings, Bites, Stings, Insect Bites, Poisons, Venomous Bites, Sores.	Sprains, Spavin, Strains, Stiches, Stiff Joints, Rheumatism, Galls, Corns, Spavin Cracks.	Contracted Muscles, Enlargements, Hoof Ail, Screw Worms, Swinney, Saddle Galls, Piles.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mexican Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine. The Lumberman finds it in constant demand. The Housewife needs it for general family use. The Teamster needs it for his teams and his men. The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard. The Stockman knows the Mexican Mustang Liniment is always on his farm ready to be used. The Horse-racer knows it—it is his best friend and safest reliance. The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars in a year. The Railroad man needs it and will need it as long as his life is spent in the service of others. The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers he lies, limbs and comfort which surround the pioneer. The Merchant needs it about his store among his employees. Accidents will happen, and when they come the Mexican Liniment is wanted at once. Keep a Bottle in the House. "Tis the best of counsel.

Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Its immediate use is one of constant saves pain and loss of wages.

Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

$25,000.00 IN GOLD!

WILL BE PAID FOR

ARBUCKLES' COFFEE WRAPPERS.

1 Premium,	$1,000.00
2 Premiums,	$500.00 each
4 Premiums,	$250.00 "
25 Premiums,	$100.00 "
100 Premiums,	$50.00 "
200 Premiums,	$20.00 "
1,000 Premiums,	$10.00 "
6 Premiums,	$250.00
25 Premiums,	$100.00
100 Premiums,	$50.00
200 Premiums,	$20.00
1,000 Premiums,	$10.00

For full particulars and directions see Circular in every pound of Arbuckles' Coffee.

A GENTLEMAN having been cured of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Premature Decay, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, is anxious to make known to others the simple mode of self-cure. To those who wish and will give him their address, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe so successfully used in his case.

Address in confidence, JAMES W. PIERCE, 43 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIMPLES! I will mail receipts for a recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will clear the face of TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BLACK HEADS, Rid, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful.

This Balm is warranted to do what is claimed, and the bright glow will last for years. Address, with stamp, inclosing 10c. in stamps, mention this paper, Mme. Ida Gardner, Box 2, Station D, New York City.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 206. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1887. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STYMANS.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR S. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City. Collections promptly attended to.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Practice in Admiralty. Office in Bates Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
A. D. CRUICKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

DART & CALL, Attorneys at Law. Will practice in and from all points in Charlevoix county. Collections promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

L. C. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO MAYNARD, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

F. W. MAYNE, Attorney and Solicitor, Association Building, Chicago. Admiralty a Specialty.

Z. N. GARRUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION. Episcopal services, Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Sunday school at 1 o'clock. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. Seats free. Church in Green's hall, over F. W. Crofoot & Co.'s store.
W. H. CLARK, Lay Reader.

FIRST CONGREGATIONALCHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Sunday social at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. Seats free. Green's hall, over F. W. Crofoot & Co.'s store.
W. H. CLARK, Pastor.

FIRST CONGREGATIONALCHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Sunday social at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. Seats free.
A. T. WATERMAN, Pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Class meeting at the Parsonage at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock.
W. F. BOOT, Pastor.

DENTISTRY.

N. J. PERRY, Dentist.
Office at Residence,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. R. MERRITT, M. D., Eclectic Physician and Surgeon. Public physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 27, meets every Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 207, meets every Saturday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 375, meets every Wednesday evening, in the village.

F. & A. M.—Resort Tent No. 136, meets second Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. E. S.—True Blue No. 18, meets first Tuesday after each full moon at Harsard's school house.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 322, meets Tuesday on or before full moon, at Odd Fellows' hall.

W. F. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.
Brown & Co's Bank at Charlevoix
CAPITAL, $12,000.
Transacts a general banking business. Collections receive prompt attention. Interest allowed on time deposits. Money to loan and from all points in Europe by best lines.
COMMERCIAL REFERENCE: Chase National, New York; First National Bank, Chicago; Marine National Bank, Detroit; Grand Rapids National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank
Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.
Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholas Vice President.
F. A. Smith, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
Henry Bennett. O. D. Wood.
John Nicholas. A. Butters.
A. S. Upright. A. Fox.
F. A. Smith.
CAPITAL, $32,000
Surplus, $3,000
The Stockholders of Stockholders in all State banks as provided in Act 313, Sec. 8 of Revised Statutes of 1882 are added to the capital stock and security of stock holders, making a guaranty fund of $64,000 to depositors. Superior facilities for the transact'n of every legitimate branch of banking business extended. to our customers on terms as favorable as are consistent with safety.
Drafts drawn direct on the leading commercial cities of the world in large or small amounts. Money to loan on approved paper. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates of deposit issued bearing interest.
We respectfully solicit your patronage.
CORRESPONDENTS:
NATIONAL PARK BANK.....NEW YORK.
COMMERCIAL NAT. BANK.....CHICAGO.
NATIONAL CITY BANK.....GRAND RAPIDS.
DETROIT NATIONAL BANK.....DETROIT.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I make a specialty of repairing, and keep on hand a full line of Hardware, Iron, Steel, and Wood, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Shop and Residence on Bridge street.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.
LEAVE YOUR ORDERS FOR JOB WORK
AT THIS OFFICE.

1872. 1887
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
Drugs, Stationery and Wall Paper.
Dental Office in Rear of Drug Store.

MILLINERY,
Dressmaking,
Ladies' Fancy Goods.
A Splendid Line of Ribbons, Ladies' Gloves, Zephyrs, Laces, Ladies' Fine Underwear, and Stamping Patterns always on hand at Lowest Prices.
ALDRICH SISTERS,
At the Ingleside, Charlevoix, Mich

NEW LIVERY
AND Feed Barn
LITNEY & STEIMEL
PROPRIETORS
Opposite Bridge Street House
Charlevoix.
FIRST-CLASS RIGS
REASONABLE RATES.
WILL H. FRANCIS,
Furniture and Jobbing Shop.
—Will also do—
CONTRACTING AND BUILDING,
In connection with my shop I keep on hand a full set of Hand and Foot power mach

THE JOURNAL

WEEKLY EDITION.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A Summary of the Eventful Happenings of a Week, as Reported by Telegraph.

Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

THE VERY LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

TALK OF AN EXTRA SESSION.

Carlisle Wants One so the Democrats Can Pass a Tariff Reform Bill.

A Washington special to the Chicago Herald (dem.) says:

Speaker Carlisle is expected here soon, and it is believed his coming will be followed by the assembling of a number of prominent Democrats who will confer with the President regarding the necessity of calling an extra session of Congress. Mr. Carlisle, it is said, favors an extra session, and he will be in a position to do it because he is a Democrat "from Pennsylvania," said a friend of the Kentucky statesman, yesterday, meaning he is a Democrat like Chauncey Black, a reform tariff bill before the next caucus. He thinks that if Congress does not come together before December it will be too late to secure tariff reform, and that it may be also too late to secure relief from the Interstate law by legislation. Mr. Carlisle also believes that the silver question, surplus in the Treasury is exceedingly dangerous, and may throw this Congress into a special session early in May. I am informed that the President has intimated that he would like to have the tariff question and other legislation in the Democratic ranks wound up next and agree to pass some kind of a tariff bill before adjournment. I look for a compromise of some kind between the Randall and Carlisle men."

JUDGE LYNCH'S COURT.

Peter Betters Hanged in Ohio.—"Dago Jack" Taken from Officers in Mississippi and Lynched from a Tree.

A XENIA (Ohio) telegram says that Peter Dalton, colored, 25 years of age, formerly employed in Stinson Bros.' livery stable, in Jamestown, was hanged by a mob. He was arrested on Sunday by Marshal Ballard, and placed in jail. During the day the people of the village became very much excited. Sunday night a mob invaded the town, attacked the city prison, broke in a window, and with a crowbar pried open the cell in which Betters was confined. He was marched up the street about half a mile to the Fair Grounds, where he was hanged to a tree which had been broken off some feet from the ground in a recent storm, the body resting on the ground and forming an admirable gallows. It is supposed that the entire people had participated in the crime for which the scoundrel was strangled was a brutal assault upon Mrs. Martha Thomas, an aged widow of Jamestown.

A DESPERADO known as "Dago Joe" was taken from the officers and lynched by a mob near Austin, Mississippi.

KEELY AND HIS MOTOR.

A Circular Issued by the Inventor, in Which He Speaks Hopefully of Success.

JOHN W. KEELY has issued at Philadelphia a communication addressed "To those who may be interested," in which he says:

"I am now engaged in what I term the process of 'graduating,' or adjusting my engine, by which I mean securing a regulated and uniform speed or motion of it. This, when effected, will finish my work, which, will be known as the 'Sympathetic Etheric Motor,' and my new force will then be adapted to commercial purposes."

DROWNED.

Four Victims Near Kalamazoo, Mich.

A KALAMAZOO (Mich.) special says: Four persons have been drowned in this county since Saturday morning—Samuel Wells, a boy, in Pennsylvania Lake, Allegan County, while fishing; Frank Lee, aged 12, while bathing near Decatur; Willie Kellogg, aged 16, while bathing in Murray's Lake, near Lawton; and Frank Morris, aged 45, in Pine Lake, near Bangor. Morris was out boating with William Wood and fell overboard into three feet of water. Three bottles that had contained whisky led to the supposition that the man were drunk and unable to help each other or themselves.

FIVE MEN BLOWN TO ATOMS.

Terrible Result of an Accidental Dynamite Explosion in Tennessee.

AT South Pittsburg, a mining hamlet four miles from Chattanooga, Tenn., a horrible accident occurred Monday afternoon. While a manager in the mine was crowded with workmen a box of dynamite in some mysterious manner was exploded, and five men were blown to atoms, while ten or twelve others were terribly injured.

The Iron Workers.

THERE is little prospect of an agreement between the iron manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association on the wage question at their approaching conference. The latter will demand an increase in the pay of all classes of men, which, if granted, would close down the mills without doubt. The manufacturers will refuse any advance, if they can help it, as the cost of iron has gone up so much since last year's scale. In the event of a deadlock they may be asked to accept a compromise of some kind between the Randall and Carlisle men."

JUDGE LYNCH'S COURT.

Peter Betters Hanged in Ohio.—Dago Jack" Taken from Officers in Mississippi and Lynched from a Tree.

A XENIA (Ohio) telegram says that Peter Dalton, colored, 25 years of age, formerly employed in Stinson Bros.' livery stable, in Jamestown, was hanged by a mob. He was arrested on Sunday by Marshal Ballard, and placed in jail. During the day the people of the village became very much excited. Sunday night a mob invaded the town, attacked the city prison, broke in a window, and with a crowbar pried open the cell in which Betters was confined. He was marched up the street about half a mile to the Fair Grounds, where he was hanged to a tree which had been broken off some feet from the ground in a recent storm, the body resting on the ground and forming an admirable gallows. It is supposed that the entire people had participated in the crime for which the scoundrel was strangled was a brutal assault upon Mrs. Martha Thomas, an aged widow of Jamestown.

A DESPERADO known as "Dago Joe" was taken from the officers and lynched by a mob near Austin, Mississippi.

KEELY AND HIS MOTOR.

A Circular Issued by the Inventor, in Which He Speaks Hopefully of Success.

JOHN W. KEELY has issued at Philadelphia a communication addressed "To those who may be interested," in which he says:

"I am now engaged in what I term the process of 'graduating,' or adjusting my engine, by which I mean securing a regulated and uniform speed or motion of it. This, when effected, will finish my work, which, will be known as the 'Sympathetic Etheric Motor,' and my new force will then be adapted to commercial purposes."

DROWNED.

Four Victims Near Kalamazoo, Mich.

A KALAMAZOO (Mich.) special says: Four persons have been drowned in this county since Saturday morning—Samuel Wells, a boy, in Pennsylvania Lake, Allegan County, while fishing; Frank Lee, aged 12, while bathing near Decatur; Willie Kellogg, aged 16, while bathing in Murray's Lake, near Lawton; and Frank Morris, aged 45, in Pine Lake, near Bangor. Morris was out boating with William Wood and fell overboard into three feet of water. Three bottles that had contained whisky led to the supposition that the men the people. I did not see the first engineer when he was afire. Did not know he had been afire till I came ashore. I could not say that the first engineer could have used the engine after I first saw him; I never saw any fire drill while I was aboard the boat. I helped to lower the boats and raft. We lowered two boats. The second mate was present. I don't know that he gave any orders. There were no plugs put in the life boats. The life-boats swamped. Indians and one white man, all deck hands, got into the first life boat. The mate might have got out the life boats if he had not stayed so long in the engine room. The engine was not stopped. She was the first in the cabin and the steamer kept running at full speed until steam ran down. I got off the boat before the steamer stopped running.—before it got ashore on the bar. It did not do any good to lower the life boats, as the steamer was going so fast. I could not say that any of the officers left the boat before me, except the second mate, who left the boat with myself, and the steward and his wife. The second mate cut the rope to the fender on which we got ashore. I did not see any of the officers after I went forward except the second mate and captain. I heard several inquiries for life preservers, but saw no one in charge of them. I was in the bow most of the time.

TRIFFLY MORIN,

Second engineer, was in his berth. Was called by the fireman who was saved. Grabbed his clothes and ran outside to put them on. Saw McCaffrey, who told him he had started the pony. Could hear it running. Could not have handled the engine at that time. Was engineer on boat only a little over a week. Have no theory as to where fire originated. The fireman on duty could not have been out of hold over ten minutes. The fire could not have originated in the hold without the fireman seeing it.

HENRY BEAU.

Porter of the Champlain. Up to the time the clerk gave the alarm of fire, I did not hear the whistle blow. After that a prop was put under the lever of the whistle and kept her blowing a long time. I think I was the last one to leave the boat. I filled the lamps on the boat with lard oil excepting the two kerosene lamps used in the engine room and the chandeliers, which I filled with kerosene. Those two lamps were stationary and fastened to the wall in the engine room.

MARY WAKEFIELD,

of Charlevoix, took passage at Chicago in company with Mrs. Kehoe and daughter Mabel. She said: "I was standing in the hall of the cabin, in the door-way, when a man came running up with his clothes on fire. It was the engineer. This was about two or three minutes before I heard the fire alarm. The engineer went up the ladder to the hurricane deck. Then I went back into the cabin and called Mrs. Kehoe and Mabel. Then the clerk came in calling 'fire!' Those from the back cabin came into the front cabin, and we commenced putting on our wraps at once, and went forward on deck. Then we looked back and saw for the first time that the boat was all on fire. Then some of us rushed back for our life preservers. We (Mrs. Kehoe, Mabel, and myself) could not get to our stateroom where our life-preservers were, on account of heat and smoke, so we had to go without them. At this time fire was breaking out around the clock near the piano in forward cabin. Then we went forward on deck. It was just half an hour from the time I heard the alarm of fire until I got to the water, I think only three minutes remained on deck when I went overboard. One of these was the wheelsman. He told me he could not stay much longer. And I was of the same opinion. The captain was in the water near the boat when I went into the water. It was three minutes to twelve o'clock when I went to the hall door, when I saw the engineer on fire, and my watch stopped at half past twelve, when I got into the water. My watch had a loose case, and probably stopped as soon as it was in the water. Life preservers were carried forward, and ropes were put over the side of the boat to enable the passengers to reach the water. The captain gave Mrs. Kehoe a cabin door as she went into the water, but she was unable to hold on to it after she came up the first time, and it floated away, from her and Mrs. Kehoe drowned. I went into the water with little Mabel. The cabin maid, Mrs. Ingalls, and the porter. After I came up I found the fender that was cut loose for us, and clung to it, and assisted Mabel to cling to it, until she became too weak, then I held her up and kept her head out of the water by holding her clothes in my teeth until we were picked up, and assisted to the shore. When we reached the shore we were so exhausted we could barely move, but we were told by the captain that we must not sit down, and to encourage us to keep moving, he told us to go to the other side of the island where Mrs. Bedford and others had a fire. We kept walking, but found no fire. We were afterwards taken from the island to the mainland, and walked to Smithson's camp."

MRS. JACKSON INGALLS,

of Petoskey, was returning from a visit to Elk Rapids, where her husband is at work. She was the first in the cabin to see the fire. She thinks the light she saw first was the burning clothing of the engineer who jumped into the water tank. She told the ladies who were in the cabin that the boat was burning, and called Miss Wilson, of Petoskey. All commenced at once to put on life preservers. After the life-preservers were adjusted, she asked a man to help her over the side of the boat. He slid down a rope to the water and then told her to jump. She did not want to jump, but hung on to the chains and a piece of rope at the prow of the boat until the fire burned the rope and let her fall into the water. When she came up, she was close under the bow of the boat, but had presence of mind to push herself away. In her exertions to keep up, her life preserver became loose, one string broke, and she had to hold it in place, with one hand, leaving but one arm free to swim with.

The second time she sank, she strangled, and she had some doubts about being able to come up again, but continued to struggle. She says she was not at all frightened, and had no fear of death.

After drifting a little while, she saw Miss Wakefield, Mrs. Kehoe's little daughter, the cabin maid, and the steward's brother, clinging to a fender and a door.

At the bow of the boat she saw no axe, nor anything to cut away pieces of boards to float with. It was not over fifteen minutes from the time she first saw the fire till she was driven into the water.

She was fully dressed, had on all her clothes, and put on her cloak, before she left the cabin. These helped to keep her warm in the water. Others who were in their night clothes suffered with the cold.

The small boats picked up three or four loads around her before getting to her, but as she felt safe while clinging to the fender and door, she says she did not get impatient,—she was satisfied that others were being saved.

She did not see the captain after he came out of the pilot house. He went back to do something with the boats,—she did not know what.

Miss Wilson was in her night clothes,—but when she reached the shore, she kept herself busy helping the others, and trying to save life.

Miss Wakefield was perfectly cool and composed all the time, and did not lose heart for a moment. The cabin maid was also quite cool and composed.

When they were picked up, there was not room for them in the boat, but they were towed behind. Miss Wakefield was held by the hands, and Mrs. Ingalls threw one arm over the rail of the boat, and the captain held the other hand.

As soon as they reached the shore, she took off her cloak, to put around the young man who had no clothes on, and Miss Wakefield gave him her skirt.

The lifeboat which the Indians got into swamped almost as soon as it struck the water. The boat obtained at the camp looked very bad, and had to be baled.

The Living and the Dead.

NAMES OF PASSENGERS.

As the books of the boat were lost, and the clerk did not survive, it will never be known just how many persons were on board at the time, but from the survivors we gather the following names:

Geo. W. Miller, Mrs. Harrison Bedford, Mrs. Ella Smith, Miss Mary Wakefield, Robert Wilkes, Geo. W. Wrisley, Fred. Wrisley, Antoine Sharrow, and Wm. Stevens, all of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Jackson Ingalls, Miss Ella Wilson, and Capt. Lucas, of Petoskey.

J. J. Rogers and seven-year old son of Fort Mackinac.

Mrs. Michael Kehoe, Miss Mabel Kehoe, W. H. Albright, Mrs. Martin Bean, Miss Aggie Bean, Miss Ella Bean, of Chicago.

Mrs. Mary Fall, Miss Lulu Willard, Erastus Fall, of Bear Lake, Manistee county, Mich.

Chas. H. Russell, Jackson, Mich. R. Wittman, Milwaukee, Wis. Wm. J. Sansom, Streator, Ills. Casper Schaub, Spring Prairie, Wis.

CHAMPLAIN'S CREW.

Captain, Edward Casey.
First mate, Ira Bishop.
Second mate, James Thorp.
Clerk, Henry Brennan.
First engineer, John McCaffrey.
Second engineer, Triffly Morin.
First fireman, name unknown, called Louie.
Second fireman, Chas. Lachone.
Wheelsman, James Barr.
Wheelsman. S. F. Bishop.
Steward, Martin Bean.
Porter, Henry Bean.
First cook, Peter Cating.
Second cook, Jack Hartley.
Cabin maid, Mrs. Mary Kane.
First cabin boy, Roy Hazleton.
Second cabin boy, Eddie Wilkins.
Watchman, James Markey.
One white deck hand.
Ten Indian deck hands.

THE DEAD.

MRS. ELLA COOPER SMITH, Charlevoix.
ROBERT WILKES, Charlevoix.
GEORGE WRISLEY, Charlevoix.
Capt. LUCAS, Petoskey.
J. J. ROGERS, Fort Mackinac.
Mr. Rogers' son, aged 7.
MRS. MARY FALL, Bear Lake.
Miss LULU WILLARD, Bear Lake.
CHAS. H. RUSSELL, Jackson, Mich.
HERMAN BREKMAN, Chicago.
MRS. M. KEHOE, Chicago.
JACK HARTLEY, Chicago.
AGGIE BEAU, age 5, Chicago.
ELLA BEAU, age 3, Chicago.
WM. J. SANSOM, Streator, Ills.
EU. WILKINS, Madison, Wis.
CASPER SCHAUB, Spring Prairie, Wis.
First fireman, name unknown, Chicago.
ANDREW TOPASAW, WM. KOOKOSH, JONAH NODAY, GEORGE OGEMOGEADO, Indian deck hands, Elk Rapids.

BODIES RECOVERED.

Mrs. Ella Smith, Charlevoix.
Robert Wilkes, Charlevoix.
George Wrisley, Charlevoix.
Capt. Lucas, Petoskey.
J. J. Rogers, Fort Mackinac.
Henry Brennan, clerk.
Ed. Wilkins, cabin boy.
Charles Russell, cabin boy.
Jack Hartly, second cook.
Mrs. Mary Fall, Bear Lake, Mich.
Casper Schaub, Springprairie, Wis.
Ella Beau, child of steward.
Wm. J. Sansom, Streator, Ills.
First fireman, name unknown.

SERVICES FOR THE DEAD.

The funeral of Mrs. Ella Smith occurred Sunday morning at ten o'clock at the M. E. church conducted by Elder W. H. McCartney assisted by Rev. Q. F. Van Auken and Rev. W. G. Clark. The floral offerings were numerous and elegant. Friends had spared no efforts that could be employed to make the church as beautiful as possible for the sad gatherings of that day. At the angles of the alter arose columns of ferns and choice flowers, and the alter rail was almost hid among plants and flowers beautifully arranged. An arched gate way with "gates ajar" of ferns which opened upon a white back ground. Manifestations of sorrow were universal. The house was literally packed, and during the services scarcely a dry eye could be seen in the house. Mrs. Smith is daughter of Richard and Maritta Cooper, of Charlevoix, and the most of her life was spent among the people of the place, and her lovely nature made everyone who knew her, a warm and hearty friend. She was a consistant christian for many years, and in her early life, and during her widowhood she always exhibited a character, at once noble and lovely and made everyone feel benefited by her presence.

Robert Wilkes was a native of Bellville, Out., and was 59 years old the 28th of last October. He came to Genesee county, this state when about twenty years of age, and located on a farm, near the city of Flint, where he resided until he removed to Charlevoix four years ago. He has been married twice, the second marriage being twenty five years ago last April to Mrs. Julia Damon who survives him. Mr. Wilkes was not only a member of the Methodist church, but was an earnest and consistent christian. He leaves three daughters, Miss Carrie, Mrs. Frank Kane, of Hayes, this county, and Mrs. Smith Austin, of Holley. The funeral was held at the M. E. church, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. H. McCartney, assisted by Rev. C. F. Van Auken.

George W. Wrisley was born in Convis township, Calhoun county, Michigan, and was forty-six years old the 10th of last October. His home was in Calhoun and Eaton counties the most of his life until he came with his family to this county about six years ago, and to Charlevoix five years ago. In October, 1869, he married Miss Sophia Potter, who survives him, and leaves three sons and one daughter. Mr. Wrisley was a skillful mechanic, an upright man, and a good citizen. The funeral was at the family residence on the south terrace Sunday at 12 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. G. Clark, assisted by Rev. G. F. VanAuken and Rev. W. H. McCartney.

Charles Schaub, of Boyne City, received a letter from his sister in Wisconsin last week saying that their father was coming "next week" to make him a visit. As no further particulars were given as to what way his father would come Mr. Schaub supposed that he would come by way of the Northern Michigan line and as soon as he learned of the disaster came immediately to Charlevoix to ascertain the particulars, but although he telegraphed to his father's people, was unable to learn whether his father was surely on board the Champlain until Saturday evening after the five bodies were brought to Charlevoix. A memorandum was found in the pocket which gave his name and directed him to stop at Wm. Furgeson's house until he could take passage to Boyne. Casper Schaub was fifty-three years of age, and was from Spring Prairie, Waiworth county, Wisconsin, where he had lived thirty-seven years and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a local minister of the gospel, of the Methodist denomination. He had for six years past been dreading this journey, being very much afraid to ride on the water. Several times the day had been set for him to take the trip across the lake to visit his son Charles at Boyne, and twice or three times he paid his fare to Milwaukee, got as far as the wharf, then gave it up and went back home. He leaves a wife, one daughter, and two sons. Mr. Schaub's funeral was held Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, at the cemetery, conducted by Rev. W. H. Mc Cartney, and attended by many friends of Charles Schaub from Boyne City. The intention is to remove the remains of Mr. Schaub to his home in Wisconsin in the fall.

The remains of Captain Lucas were placed in a casket and taken to Petoskey on the steamer Cummings Friday morning. Captain Lucas came to Petoskey about three years ago and opened a boat livery. He was 52 years old and had spent 36 years sailing, having been almost all over the world and in numerous shipwrecks. He leaves a wife and five children. The captain went to Traverse City Tuesday on business and was returning on the Champlain.

Mrs. Mary Fall and her daughter, Lulu Willard, a girl of 13, of Pierport, took passage at Frankfort in company with Erastus Fall, for Thompson, Schoolcraft county, Mich., to join her husband, C. A. Fall who had lately located at that place. Word was sent to her husband on Friday, but no answer came. Mrs. Fall's remains were interred here on Monday temporarily.

The remains of Ed Wilkins and Jack Hartley and the fireman called Louie were interred in the potters field to await instructions from friends. Ed Wilkins has relatives at Blue Mound, Wis., but no definite word can as yet be received from them. Jack Hartley and the fireman Louie shipped at Chicago, but nothing is known of their homes or friends.

W. J. Sansom was a young man of twenty and took passage on the Champlain at Chicago, to take a trip on the lakes for his health, and a visit with friends in Canada. His father came and took his remains to his home at Streater, Illinois.

Upon the person of J. J. Rogers were found papers that show him to be Hospital Steward, United States Army, at Fort Mackinac, and his body was taken to that place Saturday.

The home of Henry Brennan was in Chicago and his brother came Sunday morning with a casket and took the body home for interment.

C. H. Russel of Jackson was taken in charge of Knights Templars, embalmed, and taken to his home Saturday.

Miscellaneous Notes.

CAUSE OF THE FIRE.

Although the story of the explosion of the lantern is generally accepted as the correct one, a member of the crew asserts that the lamps and lanterns used on the Champlain could not explode, and that a theory more reasonable to his mind, was the very close proximity of the dome of the boiler to the woodwork of the fireman's room. This theory will better explain the immediate communication to, and the intense heat in and around the engine room, so soon after the discovery of the fire. Another member of the crew asserts that he does not believe in the theory of an explosion of the lamp or lantern, as the oil used on the Champlain was lard oil. He thinks that the lantern was hung up in the fireman's room as the fire man retired, and the bottom of the lantern not being screwed in tightly worked loose and fell out upon the floor, coming in contact with material that at once ignited, spreading rapidly and enwrapping the fireman's berth in flames while he was yet asleep.

THE CHAMPLAIN

was one of the twenty-three propellors which at one time were owned by the Northern Transit Company and plied between Ogdensburg and Chicago; and rated A2, of 430 tons. She was built in 1870 and was valued at $30,000.00. Six years ago she was purchased of that company when it was disorganized, and has since been run on the Northern Michigan Line in connection with the Lawrence. Two years ago she was thoroughly rebuilt at a cost of $10,000.00, and was at the time of the disaster as staunch, and sea worthy as when first launched. She was owned by P. J. Klein of Milwaukee, and S. S. Burk of Chicago. Mr. Burk says that they are already negotiating for another steamer to take the place of the Champlain, and although it is difficult to find a propellor of this class at this season of the year, they propose to put a first class passenger boat on the line. The Champlain was insured for $20,000.

CARDS OF THANKS.

We desire in the midst of our deep sorrow to thank the people of Charlevoix for their unbounded sympathy and kindness.

MR. AND MRS. R. COOPER.

We desire to extend our grateful thanks to our friends and neighbors for their sympathy and help extended to us in the hour of our great bereavement.

MRS. ROB'T WILKES AND DAUGHTER.

To those friends and neighbors who have been so kind to us in our great bereavement, we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks.

MRS. GEO. WRISLEY AND SONS.

BOYNE CITY, MICH., June 20, 1887.

EDITOR JOURNAL,—The good people of your town were so very kind to Mr. Schaub in his great sorrow, we wish to return our heartfelt thanks in a space in your paper. My husband has gone to carry the sad tidings home, where he will find mother, three brothers and three sisters to to mourn the loss of a kind christian father and husband, whose council will be greatly missed.

MRS. J. C. SCHAUB.

I desire through your paper to thank the people of Charlevoix for the kindness I have received, and for the assistance given me in the burial of my deceased friend, Mrs. Mary Fall.

ERASTUS FALL,
Bear Lake, Manistee co., Mich.

Martin Beau and wife Ellen Beau requested us to express for them their thanks to the people of Charlevoix for the many acts of kindness proferred them during their stay in our midst, and the burial of their little daughter Ella.

Another Body Found.

A message by telephone from Middle Village this morning, states that the body of a girl about 14 years old, supposed to be Lulu Willard, has just been picked up on the shore at that place.

TAKE NOTICE.

My losses in the late Champlain disaster has made it necessary to collect at once every dollar due me. Those owing me will please call without delay and settle accounts.

GEO. W. MILLER.

J. L. Newberry, of Petoskey, is agent for and offers for sale, the lots on Schoffen's addition to Ironton, at low prices and easy terms, and perfect titles given. Will also sell, or exchange for property in Petoskey, his house and lot on Main street, Charlevoix.

The county correspondence was omitted this week on account of the space used in the Champlain disaster.

Ben Weaver will be married this afternoon to Miss Lou Marshall, of Boyne. Ben, we congratulate you.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 23, 1887.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. If the slip does not show a credit the week following payment, please notify us at once, that the omission may be corrected.

House and Lot for Sale,—or will trade for horse and buggy, on terms to suit. Inquire of O. J. WRIGHT, Charlevoix, Mich. tf ☞ Views of the Burning Champlain 25 cts. each by mail. D. S. WAY.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jeffories' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

☞ Upright Brothers will pay the highest market price for wool.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

East Jordan is preparing to celebrate in grand style.

J. V. Sims returned from Eastport yesterday morning.

Henry Barth returned from Chicago Wednesday morning by rail.

Several matters of interest are unavoidably crowded out of this issue.

Preaching at the Ironton Congregational church next Sunday at 3 p. m.

Those desiring extra copies of this issue of the JOURNAL will please order as early as possible.

Come to Charlevoix to celebrate the Fourth. Big-est time in northern Michigan will be had.

The ruins of the burned Champlain will no doubt be viewed by hundreds of people who come to Charlevoix on the fourth.

Adam Clark returned this week from Albion College to spend his summer vacation with his father Joseph Clark of Marion.

Several instances of desecration of graves in the cemetery have come to light, and their repetition may cause the publication of names.

The ladies of the M. E. church will serve strawberry shortcake and coffee at the church on Monday afternoon, June 27, from 5 to 9 o'clock.

The I. O. G. T. have changed their time of meeting from Monday to Saturday night. A meeting will be held on Saturday night of this week.

Preparatory meeting at the Congregational church, this (Thursday) evening. Let every member of the church and all others interested be present.

The Charlevoix Ministrel Company will give a dance at the opera hall in the afternoon and evening of the fourth. Music by the ministrels' orchestra.

Rev. C. F. Van Auken will conduct the services at the Congregational church next Sunday at 10.30 a. m. Baptisms, reception of members, and communion service after the sermon.

G. S. Mackenzie, of the advertising department of the Michigan Central Railroad Co., was in Charlevoix Monday, looking after the interests of the railroad company, and trying to take in a few brook trout, and judging physical laws of the universe, moral and social law is, in its operation, practically omnipresent, unvarying and constant.—Globe-Democrat.

The Awful Handkerchief.

Nothing is more curious in the history of handkerchiefs than the period when French women were supposed to be innocent of the existence of such an article, the handkerchief then being tabooed in polite conversation. It was legend the daring of an actor or actress to exhibit a handkerchief on the stage, however hearty the dramatic situation might be. Mlle. Duchenois was brave enough to break the rule by carrying a handkerchief in her hand, but when the exigencies of the scene compelled an allusion to the obnoxious piece of condition she spoke of it as a "light tissue," and years afterward cries of indignation saluted the utterance of the awful word in De Vigny's adaptations of Shakespeare.

Josephine, she empress, brought this to an end. She had bad teeth, and to hide them she adopted the custom of carrying a small square handkerchief bordered with costly lace, which she was constantly raising to her lips. The ladies of the court immediately and the handkerchief was elevated to the important position it had ever since maintained in the feminine toilet. After the empress Josephine had divorced in 1809 she retired to her beautiful seat at Malmaison, where she and her ladies worked daily embroidered handkerchief, which were frequently interchanged as tokens of friendship. One of white silk, embroidered in rose-wood, work of her own needle—she presented to the empress of Russia.—Clothier and Furnisher.

The Hawaiian Islands.

Of the thirteen islands constituting the Hawaiian group, eight are inhabited. The population of the islands has so steadily decreased in the little more than a century since Capt. Cook visited them that it is now estimated at about 60,000. Of these about one-half are native to the islands, the balance being made up of 17,000 Chinese, 9,000 Americans, 1,300 English, 10,000 Portuguese and handfuls of other nationalities. The trade of Lea kingdom feeds up about $15,000,000, $9,000,000 being exports. More than 90 per cent. of the trade of the islands is with the United States.—Public Opinion.

Pennsylvania legislators are paid a salary instead of a per diem.

DOCTRINE OF AVERAGES.

LAWS WHICH GOVERN HUMAN ACTIONS AND SOCIAL PHENOMENA.

Statistics of Accidents and Casualties on the Railroads of the United Kingdom. Other Proofs of the Law of Invariability.

One of the principal propositions laid down by Henry Thomas Buckle, the great positive philosopher, in his "History of Civilization in England," is that human actions and social phenomena are governed by laws as fixed and unalterable as those which rule in the physical world. To establish this theory he introduces what is now known as "the doctrine of average," and goes on to show that for a given number of years in a given population the number of suicides, murders and other crimes will be about the same each year; he also introduces figures to show that the number of misdirected letters mailed in the London postoffice will not vary appreciably one year from another. An exemplification of the truth of his theory to a limited extent at least, is found in a blue book just issued in England, which gives statistics of accidents and casualties on the railroads of the United Kingdom for the calendar year 1886. The figures appear to have been compiled by the London board of trade, from returns furnished by the various railroad companies. We will place these figures in tabular form, and, for the purpose of comparison, put beside them the corresponding figures for 1885:

	1885.	1886.
Passengers killed	102	127
Passengers injured	1,129	1,342
Railroad servants killed	421	451
Railroad servants injured	6,036	1,959
Persons killed at crossings	52	65
Persons injured at crossings	21	25
MARYLEBONE COMMUNITY
Killed	27	22
Injured	1,427	1,559
Total	4,164	4,477

That there should be such slight variations as are here shown in the casualties on the railroads of an entire nation in a whole year will be surprising to the average newspaper reader. If the figures were taken for each of the ten or twelve years immediately preceding 1885 the changes would doubtless be found to be equally slight. When it is borne in mind that the number of miles of railroad in operation in the United Kingdom is about 19,000, and that the aggregate of the train miles made and the persons moved is equal to some hundreds of millions of people carried in each year, the uniformity in the number of killed and injured is remarkable. A like uniformity is shown by the statistics of casualties on the railroads of the United States and other countries. This uniformity, too, becomes closer in proportion as the number of men and of countries grouped together is increased.

LAW OF INVARIABILITY.

Take another class of accidents—those resulting from the handling and making of explosives, such as gunpowder and dynamite. We find from the report of a British commission that the number of people killed in all establishments where such articles are manufactured in Great Britain has averaged thirty-eight a year for the nine years preceding 1886, while in 1886 it was forty. The increase in the volume of this particular line of business would easily account for the slight increase of two in the number of deaths attributable to it. It will be difficult to account for this strange numerical uniformity except upon Mr. Buckle's theory of the existence of law to govern all events in life.

This law of invariability will be found to govern all social movements and manifestations. If 1886 is compared with 1885 or 1884, or if 1887 or 1888, when completed, should be compared with any one of the years here named, the number of casualties on water and land of crimes, conflagrations and tragedies, of great mysteries and of important discoveries in each will be seen to bear a virtually unvarying ratio to population. Nowhere on the earth does blind luck or chance, as such, reign. Design, intention, purpose, exists always and everywhere. Like the physical laws of the universe, moral and social law is, in its operation, practically omnipresent, unvarying and constant.—Globe-Democrat.

Photographing from a Balloon.

From an illustrated paper in the Century we quote as follows: "To more instantaneous work in this delightful easy manner, we were over the town of Bloomfield; and an exposure was made on what seemed to us a fine type of the better class of New England homestead, which, with its large fields, trim fences, and ample buildings, was directly below us. This view, taken at the height of one mile, is wonderfully distinct, when we consider the distance of the objects from the camera, the conditions necessary to the taking of an instantaneous picture, and our very unsteady support. The stone and rail fences, bounding the fields of all sizes and shapes are shown with great sharpness. The pasture, meadow, and cultivated land are plainly indicated; also the curiously regular arrangement of the crops. The trim and regular appearance of the orchards is well contrasted with the variety and freedom of growth in the woodland; and the photographic effect of the autumnal colors is indicated by the foliage of a group of white birches near the center of the view, as contrasted with the dark, unchanged green of the orchards.

Avoid the use of calomel for bilious complaints, Ayer's Cathartic Pills, entirely vegetable, have been tested for forty years, and are acknowledged to be the best remedy for torpidity of the liver, costiveness, and indigestion.

FARM FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land situated on Pine Lake 1½ miles west of Atwood. Inquire of Township of Eveline, Charlevoix county, four acres cleared, one log house, barn, and other outbuildings. Will take part down; balance on time to suit the purchaser. For further particulars, enquire of E. G. JARMAN, Ironton, Mich.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

From A. W. SLEEPER, Druggist, Albion.

W. Johnston & Co., Detroit—Gents: Your Extract of Sarsaparilla is giving good satisfaction in my trade in every instance, and I am only too happy to be able to recommend it from personal experience. Last fall my two little children were poisoned by eating thistle blows, and it broke out in large sores on their limbs. I gave them one bottle of your Extract Sarsaparilla, and it cured them completely. I am well pleased with the medicine.

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla operates radically upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing and invigorating it. As a safe and absolute cure for the various disorders caused by constitutional taint or infection, this remedy has no equal. Take it this month.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, this is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have tried many of these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eyes.—Daniel T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

By Taking

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a brilliant light without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

FULL SIZE. WELL MADE AND PERFECT FIT.
TRY THEM. for sale by G. W. MILLER.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,
Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.
TERRACE FARM. - - CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1887. TIME-CARD 1887.

OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS.

THOMAS FRIANT,
CAPT. E. V. WHITEHEAD.

Going South Every Morning.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	7.00
PETOSKEY	8.00
CHARLEVOIX	9.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	11.30

Going North Every Afternoon.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	1.30
CHARLEVOIX	3.00
PETOSKEY	5.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	6.00

LOU A. CUMMINGS,
CAPT. W. A. SNYDER.

Going South Every Morning.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN	7.00
CHARLEVOIX	8.00
PETOSKEY	9.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	11.30

Going North Every Afternoon.
EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	1.00
PETOSKEY	2.00
CHARLEVOIX	4.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	6.00

A GOOD STOCK OF

PINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING
FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.
Summer Cottages a Specialty.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dadoes, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

GOOD-BYE SPRING.

Welcome Summer!

A. T. Washburne & Co.'s

Grand Opening for Summer

Was a Great Success.

Second Invoice of Summer Goods

Now on the Road.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TRIPPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

BAILLEY.

ELEGY ON A RAILROAD FAIR.

NO BOOTS, TWIN rails of iron laid
O'er field and through the forest glade
Announces with jubilant tones
And daisies, white and yellow
No more between the lines will grow
The weeds and tangled grasses;
The locomotive shrieks all troubled now
By people without passes.

Seven months a fair provincial place,
Where companies are crumbled,
Is early enough to set the pace
Of new companies disbanded;
Is early enough to see the fair
Will cease a little contingent,
Shippers and editors will fail
In time leaves no impingement

Of the grim law, when shies above
Its more virtuous mood
Then will the surviving cohorts move
All in the track together
No more between the lies will grow
The weeds and tangled grasses
They'll all be dead, all trodden low
By people without passes.

THE BANKER'S DAUGHTER.

BY M. J. ROY.

It was a plain but neat little country house standing at the roadside, surrounded by tall elms and shade trees. It looked in the distance as if the house had been a pebble-stran, grown weary with tramping along the dusty thoroughfare, and squatted at the roadside in the shade of that delightful grove. It seemed only to repose there for the night, and on the morrow it would shake the march again and resume its journey.

A youth stood at the gate, with one cheek resting one elbow upon it, while the palm of his hand supported his embowered chin. He was a very fine fellow, about twenty-two years of age, and as his dark gray eyes wandered down the road a sigh escaped his breast. Was he to live, grow up, grow old and die on this little farm? Was he to wear through a few years of such humdrum life, and then come away to be buried beneath a few rods of turf, and be forgotten or only remembered as a tiller of the soil?

Many other ambitious youths have sighed for freedom, and dreamed day-dreams of the glory of a brilliant career, have gone forth to seek fame and fortune, and signed far more bitterly for the little country home and humdrum life they once thought distasteful than they ever did for fame and glory. They made the discovery when too late, that the fame and glory which they so ardently desired was not worth the sacrifice. Many a young will sigh and dream, and hope for greatness, so long as the heart has passions and so long as life has woes.

Walter Russel's eyes wandered down the broad country road, just as they had day after day over since he could remember. The road, which he had once thought led to the end of the world, as the same old road it had been then. The dark old forest on either side was just as gloomy, with the exception that he had explored its depths, and there was less of the mystery and awe about it than of yore. The ghosts, fairies and goblins with which his infantile imagination had peopled it were gone, and with them all the pleasurable enchantment.

"Come in, Walt; what are you standing out there for?" called his mother.

"I am looking down the road, mother."

"What do you see?"

"Nothing; I hear the wheels of a carriage."

"Oh, it's some of them high-flyers from town," said Mrs. Russel, with just the least bit of sarcasm, which did no credit to this usually gentle-hearted woman.

Suddenly, there was a shriek from up the road. It had grown too dark to distinctly see objects, but from the rattling, roaring sound of wheels and deafening clatter of hoofs the young farmer knew that the horses had become frightened and were running away.

There was no time to call for assistance. The cries of female voices for help appealed to his manhood, and Walter ran with the speed of a reindeer up the road. The owner of the cow-lot was at the side of the road, and tied to a hickory tree was a heavy rope which had been used as a swing. On the opposite side of the road was another tree, and to seize this rope, fly across the road, wind it tight and tie it hard and fast was but the work of a few seconds.

In fact he had but a few seconds in which to act, for the team was coming down with the speed of an express train. No human hand could stay their course, no headlong flight, and Walter had adopted the only plan which could possibly save the people in the carriage.

Having made the rope fast he flew to the center of the road.

Like a mighty engine of destruction, rolling and thundering shouts of fear, came the carriage with redoubled fury at every moment. The sound of frightened horses, clatter of hoofs, roar of wheels, and shrieks of inmates could be heard for miles in that quiet night, and brought the entire family out of the house.

The horses struck the rope like an avalanche and made the tree crack and bend, but the rope held them. There was a crashing, rolling together, and screams of terror and pain, all concealed by a dense volume of dust.

Walter sprang forward and seized the horses. His father, mother, and sisters hastened to his aid. The frightened animals were taken from the carriage and led to the trees, and then the two ladies were lifted from the carriage. Both were insensible, and Walter and his father carried them into the house.

One of them was a lady about forty years of age, while the other was not to exceed eighteen. Evidently they were mother and daughter.

"It is Mrs. Norton, the banker's wife, and gal," cried Mrs. Russel the moment the light of the lamp fell on them.

Very tenderly Walter laid the slight, golden-haired girl upon the plain couch, and stood gazing at the pale, sweet face. Mrs. Russel ran for her "Pennyroyal" bottle, as neither of the ladies was seriously injured, her son recovered and was able to explain how the accident had occurred.

The driver had fallen from his seat on account of one of the wheels of the carriage running into a rut, and the horses, becoming frightened at every step, the coachman, looking rather humiliated, now came up, and, as the carriage was considerably damaged and they were unable to return to the city that night, he was sent ahead to bring out a conveyance for them next morning.

Walter waited to go the city and bring out a doctor, but Mrs. Norton declared there was no need for him to do so, both herself and daughter were getting along very well, and neither was injured in the least by the runaway.

When the large blue eyes of Miss Ola Norton fell upon the face of the young young farmer, whose strong arm and clear brain and doubtless saved her life, those orbs of heaven's own blue dropped, and a faint blush mantled her face. Walter felt ill at ease when Mrs. Norton thanked him for his noble services. Oh, how homely, plain, and mean the old farmhouse looked with such elegantly dressed ladies for the guests! He retired from the room as soon as possible, and passed a sleepless night in the hay-loft.

Next morning the ladies were called for by the driver of another carriage, and their love of the farmer, after thanking himself and his wife for their kind hospitality.

"What are your charges?" Mrs. Norton asked, drawing her purse.

Mrs. Russel, whose covetous eyes fell on the purse, was trying to fix on a sum as exorbitant as possible, when her son said:

"Nothing, mother; take not a cent."

There was something so fierce in the determined manner of the youthful farmer that Mrs. Russel was little terrified, and refused to accept a cent.

Again Mrs. Norton thanked them, and asked the doubtful young farmer to assist herself and daughter to the carriage. Oh, how he felt his blood thrill in his veins as he touched that plump little hand, flashing with diamonds. The contrast between his home-spun clothes and her silk was very great, but Miss Ola did not seem to notice it.

The carriage rolled away, and with a deep sigh Walter turned to the farm, which had grown more commonplace and mean than ever. He sighed, he blushed, he dreamed day-dreams, and cursed his own folly for dreaming them.

"It is not for me, drudgery, toil, and hardships are alone for me," he said, discontented with his lot.

Those fields, which were lovely with verdure, and gave food and delightful odors to others, had no charms for him.

A few weeks later, when he went to the city, dressed in his best broadcloth, with the banker invited him to his house, where he met the blushing, golden-haired divinity, who again thanked him for his bravery and skill, in which she had lost her life.

The few moments were like a dream—a delightful dream—the awakening from which he dreaded. She played and sang very sweetly for him, and he was despondently in love with her, yet realizing his own inferiority, he dared not hope ever to win her.

Day after day Ola Norton again and again we need not tell; but he became less reserved and more hopeful, and was seemed to even give him encouragement. It was only when he set down to tell stubborn facts and confess that he was too poor to aspire to such a prize, that Ola Norton was behind him, the banker's daughter married a country clown. Such a thing was preposterous.

The fact that he had been rather favored by the banker, and was known in the city and often been a guest at his house to dinner, was against him. It cause he's valed the girls life he thinks they're goin to offer to pay him, and he'd have a hint without bein' knocked down sain it."

These angry-like remarks reached Walter and caused him to take a longer range. Walter thought that may be his fr ground was too high, and that he was presumptuous, and determined to know the very worst. He had loved Miss Ola Norton.

"Hey, Walt, gon' tew town?" asked Tom Tuttle, as he got in the young farmer, mounted on his prancing horse upon the stoop.

"Yes."

"Wot thar yisterday," and Tom, reining in his horse. "They's goin' ter be a big weddin'."

"Who?"

"Miss Norton, the gal yer kep the horses from killin', they say's goin' to marry Mr. Adolphus Malley the rich New Yorker I saw him in the bank. Ole Jim has a regular fit."

Walter galloped on. The bright delusion was dispelled, the sweet dream gone. Little did Tom Tuttle imagine the agonies of gall and bitterness his mischievous words had caused. He hoped he had blasted Walter's happiness, and cared not his miserable life was ruined.

The ride to the city was blurred with tears of bitter anguish.

He had to pass the banker's suburban residence, and as he did so he heard voices. Turning his eyes in that direction he saw a gay wedding party, and Adolphus Malley himself.

There was the happy talking with the banker, while Ola, more lovely than she had ever appeared before, stood behind her mother's chair on the portico.

Walter was partially screened by some flowering shrubbery, and involuntarily checked his horse. The men were so close to him that he could hear what the self-conceited Adolphus was saying.

"If you wish testimonials, Mr. Norton—as I know furnish them, indeed I can—I'm one of the best families in New York. I make a fair proposal for your daughter's hand, and would—"

"Mr. Malley, you must consult with my daughter herself about this matter," said the banker. "Get her consent, and then I will say yes."

"He has not got her consent yet," said Walter, feeling the load on his heart temporarily lightened. But he reflected that it would not be long until the darkly-dressed, self-conceited, and then the world's opinion of his heart seemed so oppressive as upon him.

The next two or three hours were like a delightful dream—the awakening from which he dreaded. She played and sang very sweetly for him, and he was despondently in love with her, yet realizing his own inferiority, he dared not hope ever to win her.

Day after day Ola Norton again and again we need not tell; but he became less reserved and more hopeful, and was seemed to even give him encouragement. It was only when he set down to tell stubborn facts and confess that he was too poor to aspire to such a prize, that Ola Norton was behind him, the banker's daughter married a country clown. Such a thing was preposterous.

The fact that he had been rather favored by the banker, and was known in the city and often been a guest at his house to dinner, cause against him. Because he's valed the girl's life he thinks they're goin to offer to pay him, and he'd have a hint without bein' knocked down sain it."

These angry-like remarks reached Walter and caused him to take a longer range. Walter thought that may be his fr ground was too high, and that he was presumptuous, and determined to know the very worst. He had loved Miss Norton.

"Hey, Walt, gon' tew town?" asked Tom Tuttle, as he got in the young farmer, mounted on his prancing horse upon the stoop.

"Yes."

"Wot thar yisterday," and Tom, reining in his horse. "They's goin' ter be a big weddin'."

"Who?"

"Miss Norton, the gal yer kep the horses from killin', they say's goin' to marry Mr. Adolphus Malley the rich New Yorker I saw him in the bank. Ole Jim has a regular fit."

Walter galloped on. The bright delusion was dispelled, the sweet dream gone. Little did Tom Tuttle imagine the agonies of gall and bitterness his mischievous words had caused. He hoped he had blasted Walter's happiness, and cared not his miserable life was ruined.

The ride to the city was blurred with tears of bitter anguish.

He had to pass the banker's suburban residence, and as he did so he heard voices. Turning his eyes in that direction he saw a gay wedding party, and Adolphus Malley himself.

There was the happy talking with the banker, while Ola, more lovely than she had ever appeared before, stood behind her mother's chair on the portico.

Walter was partially screened by some flowering shrubbery, and involuntarily checked his horse. The men were so close to him that he could hear what the self-conceited Adolphus was saying.

"If you wish testimonials, Mr. Norton—as I know furnish them, indeed I can. I'm one of the best families in New York. I make a fair proposal for your daughter's hand, and would—"

"Mr. Malley, you must consult with my daughter herself about this matter," said the banker. "Get her consent, and then I will say yes."

"He has not got her consent yet," said Walter, feeling the load on his heart temporarily lightened. But he reflected that it would not be long until the darkly-dressed, self-conceited, and then the world's opinion of his heart seemed so oppressive as upon him.

The next two or three hours were like a delightful dream—the awakening from which he dreaded. She played and sang very sweetly for him, and he was despondently in love with her, yet realizing his own inferiority, he dared not hope ever to win her.

Day after day Ola Norton again and again we need not tell; but he became less reserved and more hopeful, and was seemed to even give him encouragement. It was only when he set down to tell stubborn facts and confess that he was too poor to aspire to such a prize, that Ola Norton was behind

FARM AND GARDEN.

WHY COWS HOLD UP THEIR MILK. A CURE FOR THE HABIT.

A Device for Measuring Trees and Other Heights—A Prolific Egg Laying Fowl. A Convenient Building, with Yards Attached, for Swine.

The building for hogs and corn, the ground plan of which is here given, was drawn originally by an Iowa farmer for Rural New Yorker. This Iowa correspondent is so well pleased with his building that he gives the following minute description of the same for the benefit of others:

BUILDING FOR HOGS AND CORN.

The house is 48x20 feet, with 12 foot posts and one-third pitch roof. There is a driveway 8x48 feet, with a corn crib of the same size on one side; on the other are four pens, 12x16 feet, connected with each other and with the yards outside. The crib will hold 1,800 or 2,000 bushels of corn, and one must be judgment as to the number of hogs. He has had best results when fattening hogs by shutting eight or ten in one pen, giving them the run of small yards outside. Over the pen is a space 14x48 feet, which can be used for hay, straw, grain, machinery, etc.

Cows Not Giving Down Milk.

The habit some cows have of holding up the milk is a difficult one to overcome. Mr. L. B. Arnold accounts for this habit by the following explanation: It consists in shortening the time of relaxation of the cords controlling the valves to the little reservoirs holding the milk. These are distributed through the udder, and there are several circumstances which tend to make a cow shorten this relaxation. Rough treatment, fear, grief, solicitude, loud noises, etc., are among them. The circumstances inducing a prolongation of the relaxation are comfort and quietude, together with the relief afforded by the flow of milk.

The best way, according to the authority quoted from, is to avoid all occasion of disturbance and observe those which promote pleasure and quiet for the cow and so milk as rapidly as possible consistent with comfort, with a view to getting the milk before the "letting down" ceases. Milking rapidly does not mean jerking sharply or moving with hasty or irregular motions in the presence of the cow. Such a course would counteract the very thing aimed at. The motion of the milker should not be such as to attract her suspicion. They should be deliberate and cool, but when set down to the milking, let nothing be allowed to interrupt or retard the work. This will induce gradual letting down, by giving relief to the udder. The milker should bear constantly in mind the fact that the letting down is short, and that every movement should be availed of to the best advantage. When the milk ceases to flow the milking should stop at once, whether the milk is all out or not. There is no use in hanging on after it stops coming, as this only cultivates and confirms the habit of "holding back." To give a cow the least possible occasion for holding back the milk is the best way to prevent her forming such a habit, and the surest and readiest way to make her forget it after it has been formed. To break up the objectionable habit, let the milking be quick, but easy and regular.

Fastening Cows in Sections.

A free keeper in Tree Culture thinks it is an easy matter to fasten dozens of cows in the sections after one has learned how. He says: In swarming and in the hurry and bustle of a busy day it is not always every day hot weather. I keep almost every day hot weather on hand. It is kept so by having a box as high as a hives and slimmer. Your wife may bring hot, take a turkey tail or wing feather, or if good stuff, a piece of comb should be cut the size you wish. Your sections should be in the frames of one wide frames. Dip the feather in hot wax, and paint the inside of the section. Next set the piece of comb on the feather. Holding the former with the left hand, draw out the feather. As the wax will set quick, the thing is done.

Your wax should be hot enough so the feather slips out easily and slick. You can put the piece of comb in this way faster than you can put in comb foundation by any method. I have put in thousands, and never knew of one to drop out. I have thought for two or three years to give it to the public. I never saw any thing like it in print.

Black Minorcas.

Numbered with Spanish varieties of fowls that have come to the front of late, are the black Minorcas, the best layers of all the so called Spanish breeds. The Minorcas are handsome birds, with lustrous black plumage, large red combs and white ear lobes. The large comb is stood in the cocks and hopping in bitterness in hot weather. The general carriage of these birds is an important feature. The cock, usually if true breed, carries himself in a manner, the breast well projected and the tail standing well up.

MINORCA COCK AND HEN.

The Minorcas are hardy and little subject to disease. They are prodigious layers of large white eggs, which find a ready sale. Like most egg laying breeds, their flesh is not of excellent quality; on the contrary, in old fowls, it is decidedly unfit for the table. The Minorcas are non-setters and great foragers. In good condition a hen will weigh from six to seven pounds, and the cock from eight to nine pounds.

Popularity of the Sunflower.

Of late years there has been an annual demand for seeds of sunflowers. In some localities farmers grow the plants for the seed, which they feed to their poultry, but whether corn will grow plentifully is left to be preferred. There is also an idea prevalent that sunflower plants absorb the miasma in damp and undrained places. "Large Russian" is a variety grown in prairie regions, where the stocks are sometimes used as fuel, the seed being fed to poultry and swine. In Russia the sunflower is grown for its oil.

A very sensible use for sunflowers is the one of growing them as screens to unsightly outbuildings, or as a pleasing background of color to the garden or lawn. Good soil has much to do with the production of fine flowers. Plant the seed whenever it is desired to have the plants, and thin out to about three or four feet apart in the rouble.

Dalmatian Insect Powder.

One of the best insecticides known at the present time is Dalmatian insect powder, also known as Persian insect powder and as Insbech. This powder is composed of the pulverized blossoms of a plant that is death to most forms of insect life, but not injurious to animals or human beings. It ought to be on every farm. In the household it will be found valuable in lessening flies, roaches, etc.; in field and garden it acts as a preventive to many insect enemies, and in the poultry yard it is useful for dusting fowls and chicks as a preventive and cure for lice.

Cows for the Dairy.

Those who follow the dairy interest—the butter interests—have, according to a well known Massachusetts dairyman, found in the Jersey and the Guernsey the best butter cows. They will, in his opinion, make the most and best butter. The dairyman after repeated experiments finds that the best butter is produced from one-half Jersey and one-half Guernsey cream.

Vine Mildew.

Vine growers, in regions where mildew often prevails, are advised by Vick, in his magazine for May, to make trial of the following remedies: Thirty-five pounds of sulphate of copper dissolved in fifty-three gallons of water, thirty-three pounds of quick lime slaked in eight gallons of water; the lime and water mixture is then poured into the solution of copper. In slaking the lime the mixture will stirred. It can be applied to the foliage with a whisk broom. The treatment should be commenced soon after the foliage is well out and be repeated so as to protect the later foliage. The quantities of the substances can be changed while preserving the proportions.

Treatment for Work Horses.

Remember that the digestive organs of horses at work are not so responsive as when idle. The occurrence of colic and other ailments incident to horses in the season of work is usually traceable to the lack of time given for digestion. The stomach is in no condition to receive food immediately after severe exertion, hence the necessity of a short season of rest before giving a horse any food. A little care in the matter of watering and feeding horses will prevent much sickness and consequent loss.

Measuring Heights.

The erroneous estimates which are made of the height of trees, buildings and other objects render desirable an easy and convenient mode for measuring them. The following, with a little practice, says The Country Gentleman, will enable any one to make such measurements with sufficient accuracy of the real heights sought:

MEASURING A TREE.

The figure given represents the simplest and quickest way to measure height. First make a mark on the stem of the tree or other object, say six feet from the ground, or place a pole six feet upright against it. Then walk away to such a distance that the breadth of the hand held out at full arm's length will just cover the six feet. Mark with the eye a point on the tree at the upper end of the six feet, and move in that direction about breadth, and so proceed till the whole height is measured. It may sometimes be convenient for an assistant to stand at the foot of the tree, and if with his hat on he will be six feet high, he may serve as a measure to begin with instead of the rod. It is well to stand at some distance from the tree in making these measurements, otherwise the upper measured portion will be larger than the lower, on account of the longer legs of the imaginary triangle. If the distance be too great for the breadth of the hand, one or two fingers only may be used, or a short picket rule. Or, if the pocket rule be used, its separate subdivisions into inches may be made to indicate the portions measured, and the whole completed at one measurement.

We have known the heights of perpendicular banks of lakes or other precipices, or the descent of a waterfall, to be singularly misjudged for the want of some such means as the one here described. If the water of a lake freezes in winter, the ice forms an excellent base line for the measurement of any of the shores or banks, and of the tops of trees which grow upon them.

Pots Farmers Ought to Know.

The white Wyandotte and the white Plymouth Rocks have multiplied during the last year to a considerable extent.

Ocean air is favorable to fruit raising.

The best and richest of soils will become exhausted unless applications of manure are made in one form or another.

The greater the weight an animal can be made to attain in the shortest period of time the smaller the cost per pound proportionately.

In the vegetable kingdom improvement is made by grafting and hybridizing; in the animal kingdom by crossing.

Cobbage delights in a deep, rich soil.

Cows when turned out to pasture require some dry fodder to offset the laxative food they pick up.

The Devons are thought by some authorities to come as near the compromise of beef and milk as the bovine race can produce. The milk has the reputation of being very rich, although they are not noted as persistent milkers.

May is the preferred month in many sections for transplanting evergreens. Success depends mainly on keeping the roots from drying out.

By the evaporating process it has been calculated that one barrel of green apples will produce about fifteen pounds of evaporated dried apples, and that one pound of these is equal to half a peck or the fruit before it is pared or sliced.

Horse radish is a perennial and will last many years. Has to have it first class in plant every spring.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Roscher's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptives, at least to try one bottle, as 50,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents, sold by all druggists and dealers, in the United States and Canada.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crouter can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and such as are popular. Having the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs, will sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggists, Charlevoix. 192w4.

Time Cards of Pine Lake Steamers,

(STANDARD TIME)

Season of 1887.

Steamer JOSEPH GORDON,

CAPT. LEWIS GUARD.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 6:30, arrive at Boyne City at 7.30. Leave Boyne City at 8 for Charlevoix. Leave Charlevoix 1.00, arrive at Boyne City 1.30. Leave Boyne City 4.00, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer NORTH STAR,

CAPT. J. M. THOMPSON.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 7.00, arrive at East Jordan 8.30. Leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive at Charlevoix 10.30.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix at 2.00, arrive at East Jordan 4.00. Leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer CLARA BELLE,

CAPT. GEO. JERSON.

Morning—Leave Boyne City at 6.30, arrive at Charlevoix 8.00 to connect with the Steamer Jos. A. Cummings for Petoskey. Leave Charlevoix upon the arrival of the Steamer Thomas Friant, at 9.45.

Afternoon—Leave Boyne City at 1.00; returning leave Charlevoix at 5.30, touching at intermediate points.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., May 2, 1887.

HENRY H. VANNORMAN,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of a mortgage executed by Carl G. Van Platen to Lemuel D. Bartholomew, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on May 2, 1887, in liber 19 of mortgages, on page 329, and said mortgage was duly assigned by Lemuel D. Bartholomew to Lewis Reynolds and Walter P. Brown, on the 22d day of December, 1885, and said assignment is recorded in the office of the deputy of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 24th day of December, 1885, in liber 19 of mortgages, on page 331, upon which there is due and unpaid the sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, ($295) principal and interest, for the recovery of which no proceedings have been instituted. And whereas the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 9th day of July, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, that being the place where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held, on the 9th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Said premises are described as follows. Commencing at a point on the beach of Pine Lake in said county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, where the east and west quarter line of section thirty-one, (31) intersects said beach, thence south forty-eight degrees east along said beach seven and twenty-four hundredths chains, thence south thirty degrees east five and twenty-seven-hundredths chains to a stake, thence south sixty degrees west twenty and one-half chains to a stake, thence west seven chains to a stake on the said north and south quarter line of said section thirty-two, thence north along said quarter line seven and twenty-nine-hundredths chains to the place of beginning, containing four and one-half acres of land, more or less, being all that part of the south-west quarter of section thirty-two, town thirty-three north, range eleven west, lying north of Pine Lake, in the township of Eveline, Charlevoix county, Michigan; excepting, however, from said sale the following, to wit: southwest quarter of the south-west quarter of said section 32, town 33, R. 11 W.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., May 17, 1887.

LEWIS REYNOLDS,
WALTER P. BROWN,
Assignees of Mortgage.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignees.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a mortgage dated the 7th day of June, 1886, executed by Hubbard Hymes, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Jacob Hymes, of the same place, and recorded in the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 7th day of June, 1886, in liber 19 of mortgages, on page 185, which said mortgage was duly assigned by said J. Hymes to Henry H. Vannorman, which assignment is dated September 22, 1886, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for said county, in liber 19 of mortgages, on page 186, on the 22d day of September, 1886, upon which there is due and unpaid the sum of four hundred and seventy-seven dollars ($477), and no proceeding having been instituted for the same, and the power of sale in said mortgage having become operative; therefore, notice is hereby given that the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as will be sufficient to satisfy said amount, and costs, including fees provided by law, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock, a. m. Said premises are described as follows: The west half of the south-east quarter of section twenty-five, (25) town thirty-four north, range ten west, in Charlevoix county, state of Michigan.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., May 2, 1887.

HENRY H. VANNORMAN,
Assignee of Mortgage.

A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignee.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of Twenty-four hundred dollars, on the fourth day of November, 1885, executed by Alfred Bennett, of Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Robert W. Lane, of Charlevoix, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber eleven of mortgages, on page 500, on the 12th day of November, 1885, at nine o'clock A. M. And whereas, there is now due and payable upon said mortgage and the bond and notes secured thereby, the sum of principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale in said mortgage has become operative. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein mentioned, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the City of Charlevoix, that being the place where the circuit court for said county is held; on the 8th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day; which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, bounded as follows, viz.: Commencing at the south-east corner of said lot, thence running east to the north line of said lot, thence west on said north line of said lot, thence northwest corner of said lot, thence south along the west line of said lot to the place of beginning.

Dated May 9th, 1887.

ROBERT W. LANE,
Mortgagee.

F. W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court, for the county of Charlevoix, in favor of Lewis Reynolds, plaintiff, a corporate body, against the goods and chattels of Alfred Bennett, Jr., and Ann Bennett, and Lorta Wolcott, in said county, to me directed, and delivered I did on the 12th day of February, A. D. 1887, levy upon and take all the right, title and interest of the said William M. Holland and Wilbur Holland, in and to the following described real estate, viz.: The south half of the south-east quarter and south quarter of section eighteen in town thirty of Eveline, Charlevoix county, state of Michigan, being in town 30 north, range 7 west, all of which I shall expose for sale at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder, on the south front door of the court house in said county, on the 24 day of August, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Dated this 15th day of June, 1887.

D. B. JURRIE SHERIF,
By WILLIAM SCHOOLEY, Deputy Sheriff,
CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage dated May 7th, 1886, executed by Frank Jones and Mary Jones to David Hyman, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, May 10th, 1886, in liber 19 of mortgages, on page 187, upon which there is now due and payable, to wit: three hundred and eighteen dollars and sixty-five cents, (principal and interest) for the recovery of which no suit has commenced will be foreclosed by a statutory sale of the premises therein described, viz.: Commencing at the south-east corner, in township three north, of range eleven west, in said county, to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house, where the circuit court for the said county is held, in Boyne City, in said county, at 12 o'clock noon, September 10th, 1887.

Dated June 10th, 1887.

DAVID HYMAN,
E. C. DARNUM,
Attorney for Mortgagee, Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Michigan.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

ADVERTISERS by enclosing 10c. to Geo. P. Rowell & Co., New York, can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of newspaper advertising. Send for 100-page pamphlet, containing lists of newspapers and estimates showing the cost of advertising. Sample copy, 10c. If you contemplate advertising in Chicago, will find it on file at 45 to 49 Randolph St., Chicago, Illinois. Advertising Agency of LORD & THOMAS.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which insures it no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, rapid response, variety of combinations, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, sweet musical and desirable organs for homes, schools churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION. UNEQUALED FACILITIES. SKILLED WORKMEN. BEST MATERIAL.

COMBINED, MAKE THEM

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, mailed.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

OH! MY BACK!

DR. HILL'S
ENGLISH BUCHU
is One of the Best
Kidney
Diuretics.

INVESTIGATORS IN USE.

Will cure in a shorter time, with less inconvenience, less change of diet, and less cost than any other remedy. Gravel, Brick Dust Deposits, Albumen, Gleet, Stricture, Diabetes, Dropsy of Kidneys, and Urine, Bloody Urine, Pain in the Back, Groins and Bladder, Frequent Urination, Retention of Urine, Gravel in all its forms, Inflammation of the Bladder and Urinary Organs, Diseases of the Prostate Gland, Incontinence of the Bladder, Diseases the people. I did not see the first engineer when he was afire. Did not know he had been afire till I came ashore. I could not say that the first engineer could have used the engine after I first saw him; I never saw any fire drill while I was aboard the boat. I helped to lower the boats and raft. We lowered two boats. The second mate was present. I don't know that he gave any orders. There were no plugs put in the life boats. The life-boats swamped. Indians and one white man, all deck hands, got into the first life boat. The mate might have got out the life boats if he had not stayed so long in the engine room. The engine was not stopped. She and the steamer kept running at full speed until steam ran down. I got off the boat before the steamer stopped running,—before it got ashore on the bar. It did not do any good to lower the life boats, as the steamer was going so fast. I could not say that any of the officers left the boat before me, except the second mate, who left the boat with myself, and the steward and his wife. The second mate cut the rope to the fender on which we got ashore. I did not see any of the officers after I went forward except the second mate and captain. I heard several inquiries for life preservers, but saw no one in charge of them. I was in the bow most of the time.

THIRTY-I MORIN.

Second engineer, was in his berth. Was called by the fireman who was saved. Grabbed his clothes and ran outside to put them on. Saw McCaffrey, who told him he had started the pony. Could hear it running. Could not have handled the engine at that time. Was engineer on boat only a little over a week. Have no theory as to where fire originated. The fireman on duty could not have been out of hold over ten minutes. The fire could not have originated in the hold without the fireman seeing it.

HENRY BEAU.

Porter of the Champlain. Up to the time the clerk gave the alarm of fire. I did not hear the whistle blow. After that a prop was put under the lever of the whistle and kept her blowing a long time. I think I was the last one to leave the boat. I filled the lamps on the boat with lard oil excepting the two converse lamps used in the engine room and the chandeliers, which I filled with kerosene. Those two lamps were stationary and fastened to the wall in the engine room.

MARY WAKEFIELD.

of Charlevoix, took passage at Chicago in company with Mrs. Kehoe and daughter Mabel. She said: "I was standing in the hall of the cabin, in the door-way, when a man came running up with his clothes on fire. It was the engineer. This was about two or three minutes before I heard the fire alarm. The engineer went up the ladder to the hurricane deck. Then I went back into the cabin and called Mrs. Kehoe and Mabel. Then the clerk came in calling 'fire.' Those from the back cabin came into the front cabin, and we commenced putting on our wraps at once, and went forward on deck. Then we looked back and saw for the first time that the boat was all on fire. Then some of us rushed back for our life preservers. We (Mrs. Kehoe, Mabel, and myself) could not get to our stateroom where our life-preservers were, on account of heat and smoke, so we had to go without them. At this time fire was breaking out around the clock near the piano in forward cabin. Then we went forward on deck. It was just half an hour from the time I heard the alarm of fire until I got into the water. I think only three persons remained on deck when I went overboard. One of these was Mr. Barr, the wheelsman. He told me I could not stay much longer, and that I had better go. The captain was in the water near the boat when I went into the water. It was three minutes to twelve o'clock when I went to the hall door, when I saw the engineer on fire, and my watch stopped at half past twelve, when I got into the water. My watch had a loose case, and probably stopped as soon as it was in the water. Life preservers were carried forward, and ropes were put over the side of the boat to enable the passengers to reach the water. The captain gave Mrs. Kehoe a cabin door as she went into the water, but she was unable to hold on to it after she came up the first time, and it floated away from her and Mrs. Kehoe drowned. I went into the water with little Mabel, the cabin maid, Mrs. Ingalls, and the porter. After I came up I found the fender that was cut loose for us, and clung to it, and assisted Mabel to cling to it, until she became too weak, then I held her up and kept her head out of the water by holding her clothes in my teeth until we were picked up, and assisted to the shore. When we reached the shore we were so exhausted we could hardly move, but we were told by the captain that we must not sit down, and to encourage us to keep moving, he told us to go to the other side of the island where Mrs. Bedford and others had a fire. We kept walking, but found no fire. We were afterwards taken from the island to the mainland, and walked to Smithson's camp."

MRS. JACKSON INGALLS,

of Petoskey, was returning from a visit to Elk Rapids, where her husband is at work. She was the first in the cabin to see the fire. She thinks the light she saw first was the burning clothing of the engineer who jumped into the water tank. She told the ladies who were in the cabin that the boat was burning, and called Miss Wilson, of Petoskey. All commenced at once to put on life preservers. After the life preservers were adjusted, she asked a man to help her over the side of the boat. He slid down a rope to the water and then told her to jump. She did not want to jump, but hung on to the chains and a piece of rope at the prow of the boat until the fire burned the rope and let her fall into the water. When she came up, she was close under the bow of the boat, but had presence of mind to push herself away. In her exertions to keep up, her life preserver became loose, one string broke, and she had to hold it in place, with one hand, leaving but one arm free to swim with.

The second time she sank, she strangled, and she had some doubts about being able to come up again, but continued to struggle. She says she was not at all frightened, and had no fear of death.

After drifting a little while, she saw Miss Wakefield, Mrs. Kehoe's little daughter, the cabin maid, and the steward's brother, clinging to a fender and a door.

At the bow of the boat she saw an axe, nor anything to cut away pieces of boards to float with. It was not over fifteen minutes from the time she first saw the fire till she was driven into the water.

She was fully dressed, had on all her clothes, and put on her cloak, before she left the cabin. These helped to keep her warm in the water. Others who were in their night clothes suffered with the cold.

The small boats picked up three or four loads around her before getting to her, but as she felt safe while clinging to the fender and door, she says she did not get impatient,—she was satisfied that others were being saved.

She did not see the captain after he came out of the pilot house. He went back to do something with the boats,—she did not know what.

Miss Wilson was in her night clothes,—but when she reached the shore, she kept herself busy helping the others, and trying to save life.

Miss Wakefield was perfectly cool and composed all the time, and did not lose heart for a moment. The cabin maid was also quite cool and composed.

When they were picked up, there was not room for them in the boat, but they were towed behind. Miss Wakefield was held by the hands, and Mrs. Ingalls threw one arm over the rail of the boat, and the captain held the other hand.

As soon as they reached the shore, she took off her cloak, to put around the young man who had no clothes on, and Miss Wakefield gave him her skirt.

The lifeboat which the Indians got into swamped almost as soon as it struck the water. The boat obtained at the camp looked very bad, and had to be baled.

The Living and the Dead.

NAMES OF PASSENGERS.

As the books of the boat were lost, and the clerk did not survive, it will never be known just how many persons were on board at the time, but from the survivors we gather the following LADIES:

Geo. W. Miller, Mrs. Harrison Bedford, Mrs. Ella Smith, Miss Mary Wakefield, Robert Wilks, Geo. W. Wrisley, Fred. Wrisley, Antoine Sharrow, and Wm. Stevens, all of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Jackson Ingalls, Miss Ella Wilson, and Capt. Lucas, of Petoskey.

J. J. Rogers and seven-year old son of Fort Mackinac.

Mrs. Michael Kehoe, Miss Mabel Kehoe, W. H. Allright, Mrs. Martin Beau, Miss Aggie Beau, Miss Ella Beau, of Chicago.

Mrs. Mary Fall, Miss Lulu Willard, Erastus Fall, of Bear Lake, Manistee county, Mich.

Chas. H. Russell, Jackson, Mich.
R. Wittman, Milwaukee, Wis.
Wm. J. Sansom, Streator, Ills.
Casper Schaub, Spring Prairie, Wis.

CHAMPLAIN'S CREW.

Captain, Edward Casey.
First mate, Ira Bishop.
Second mate, James Thorp.
Clerk, Henry Brennan.
First engineer, John McCaffrey.
Second engineer, Triffy Morin.
First fireman, name unknown, called Louie.
Second fireman, Chas. Lachone.
Wheelsman, James Barr.
Wheelsman, S. F. Bishop.
Steward, Martin Beau.
Porter, Henry Beau.
First cook, Peter Cating.
Second cook, Jack Hartley.
Cabin maid, Mrs. Mary Kane.
First cabin boy, Roy Hazleton.
Second cabin boy, Eddie Wilkins.
Watchman, James Markey.
One white deck hand.
Ten Indian deck hands.

THE DEAD.

MRS. ELLA COOPER SMITH, Charlevoix.
ROBERT WILKS, Charlevoix.
GEORGE WRISLEY, Charlevoix.
Capt. Lucas, Petoskey.
J. J. ROGERS, Fort Mackinac.
Mr. Rogers' son, aged 7.
MRS. MARY FALL, Bear Lake.
MISS LULU WILLARD, Bear Lake.
CHAS. H. RUSSELL, Jackson, Mich.
HENRY BRENNAN, Chicago.
MRS. M. KEHOE, Chicago.
JACK HARTLEY, Chicago.
AMOIE BEAU, age 5, Chicago.
ELLA BEAU, age 3, Chicago.
WM. J. SANSOM, Streator, Ills.
ED. WILKINS, Madison, Wis.
CASPER SCHAUB, Spring Prairie, Wis.
First fireman, name unknown, Chicago.
ANDREW TOPSAW, WM. KOOKOOK, JOSIAH NODAY, GEORGE OGEMOMEKADO, Indian deck hands, Elk Rapids.

BODIES RECOVERED.

Mrs. Ella Smith, Charlevoix.
Robert Wilkes, Charlevoix.
George Wrisley, Charlevoix.
Capt. Lucas, Petoskey.
J. J. Rogers, Fort Mackinac.
Henry Brennan, clerk.
Ed. Wilkins, cabin boy.
Charles Russell, Jackson, Mich.
Jack Hartly, second cook.
Mrs. Mary Fall, Bear Lake, Mich.
Casper Schaub, Springprairie, Wis.
Ella Beau, child of steward.
Wm. J. Sansom, Streator, Ills.
First fireman, name unknown.

SERVICES FOR THE DEAD.

The funeral of Mrs. Ella Smith occurred Sunday morning at ten o'clock at the M. E. church conducted by Rev. W. H. McCartney assisted by Rev. C. F. Van Auken and Rev. W. G. Clark. The floral offerings were numerous and elegant. Friends he spared no efforts that could be employed to make the church as beautiful as possible for the sad gatherings of that day. At the angles of the alter arose columns of ferns and choice flowers, and the alter rail was almost hid among plants and flowers beautifully arranged; and an arched gate way, with "gates ajar," of ferns, opened upon a back ground of flowers. Manifestations of sorrow were universal. The house was literally packed, and during the services scarcely a dry eye could be see in the house. Mrs. Smith is a daughter of Richard and Maritta Cooper, of Charlevoix, and the most of her life was spent among the people of the place, and her lovely nature made everyone who knew her, a warm and hearty friend. She was a consistant christian for many years, and in her early life, and during her widowhood she always exhibited a character, at once noble and lovely and made everyone feel benefited by her presence.

Robert Wilkes was a native of Bellville, Ont., and was 59 years old the 28th of last October. He could, in Genesee county, this state when about twenty years of age, and located on a farm, near the city of Flint, where he resided until he came to Charlevoix four years ago. He has been married twice, the second marriage being twenty five years ago last April to Mrs. Julia Damon who survives him. Mr. Wilkes was not only a member of the Methodist church, but was an earnest and consistent christian. He leaves three daughters, Miss Carrie, Mrs. Frank Kane, of Hayes, this county, and Mrs. Smith Austin, of Holley. The funeral was held at the M. E. church, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. H. McCartney, assisted by Rev. C. F. Van Auken.

George W. Wrisley was born in Convis township, Calhoun county, Michigan, and was forty-six years old the 10th of last October. His home was in Calhoun and Eaton counties the most part of his life until he came with his family to this county about six years ago, and to Charlevoix five years ago. In October, 1866, he married Miss Sophia Potter, who survives him, and leaves three sons and one daughter. Mr. Wrisley was a skillful mechanic, an upright man, and a good citizen. The funeral was at the family residence on the south terrace Sunday at 12 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. G. Clark, assisted by Rev. C. F. VanAuken and Rev. W. H. McCartney.

Charles Schaub, of Boyne City, received a letter from his sister in Wisconsin last week saying that their father was coming "next week" to make him a visit. As no further particulars were given as to what way his father would come Mr. Schaub supposed that he would come by way of the Northern Michigan line and as soon as he learned of the disaster came immediately to Charlevoix to ascertain the particulars, but although he telegraphed to his father's people, was unable to learn whether his father was surely on board the Champlain until Saturday evening after the five bodies were brought to Charlevoix. A memorandum was found in the pocket which gave his name and directed him to stop at Wm. Furgeson's house until he could take passage to Boyne. Casper Schaub was fifty-three years of age, and was from Spring Prairie, Walworth county, Wisconsin, where he had lived thirty-seven years and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a local minister of the gospel, of the Methodist denomination. He had for six years past been dreading this journey, being very much afraid to ride on the water. Several times the day had been set for him to take the trip across the lake to visit his son Charles at Boyne, and twice or three times he paid his fare to Milwaukee, got as far as the wharf, then gave it up and went back home. He leaves a wife, one daughter, and two sons. Mr. Schaub's funeral was held Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, at the cemetery, conducted by Rev. W. H. Mc Cartney, and attended by many friends of Charles Schaub from Boyne City. The intention is to remove the remains of Mr. Schaub to his home in Wisconsin in the fall.

The remains of Captain Lucas were placed in a casket and taken to Petoskey on the steamer Cummings Friday morning. Captain Lucas came to Petoskey about four years ago and opened a boat livery. He was 52 years old and had spent 36 years sailing, having been almost all over the world and in numerous ship wrecks. He leaves a wife and five children. The captain went to Traverse City Tuesday on business and was returning on the Champlain.

Mrs. Mary Fall and her daughter, Lulu Willard, a girl of 15, of Pierport, took passage at Frankfort in company with Erastus Fall, for Thompson, Schoolcraft county, Mich., to join her husband, C. A. Fall who had lately located at that place. Word was sent to her husband on Friday, but no answer came. Mrs. Fall's remains were interred here on Monday temporarily.

The remains of Ed Wilkins and Jack Hartley and the fireman called Louie were interred in the potters field to await instructions from friends. Ed Wilkins has relatives at Blue Mound, Wis., but no definite word can as yet be received from them. Jack Hartley and the fireman were shipped at Chicago, but nothing is known of their homes or friends.

W. J. Sansom was a young man of twenty and took passage on the Champlain at Chicago, to take a trip on the lakes for his health, and a visit with friends in Canada. His father came and took his remains to his home at Streeter, Illinois.

Upon the person of J. J. Rogers were found papers that show him to be Hospital Steward, United States Army, at Fort Mackinac, and his body was taken to that place Saturday.

The home of Henry Brennan was in Chicago and his brother came Sunday morning with a casket and took the body home for interment.

C. H. Russel of Jackson was taken in charge of Knights Templars, embalmed, and taken to his home Saturday.

Miscellaneous Notes.

CAUSE OF THE FIRE.

Although the story of the explosion of the lantern is generally accepted as the correct one, a member of the crew asserts that the lamps and lanterns used on the Champlain could not explode, and that a theory more reasonable to his mind, was the very close proximity of the dome of the boiler to the woodwork of the fireman's room. This theory will better explain the immediate communication to, and the intense heat in and around the engine room, so soon after the discovery of the fire. Another member of the crew asserts that he does not believe in the theory of an explosion of the lamp or lantern, as the oil used on the Champlain was lard oil. He thinks that the lantern was hung up in the fireman's room as the fire man retired, and the bottom of the lantern not being screwed in tightly worked loose and fell out upon the floor, coming in contact with material that at once ignited, spreading rapidly and enveloping the fireman's berth in flames while he was yet asleep.

THE CHAMPLAIN

was one of the twenty-three propellors which at one time were owned by the Northern Transit Company and plied between Ogdensburg and Chicago; and rated A2. of 400 tons. She was built in 1870 and was valued at $30,000.00. Six years ago she was purchased of that company when it was disorganized, and has since been run on the Northern Michigan Line in connection with the Lawrence. Two years ago she was thoroughly rebuilt at a cost of $10,000.00, and was at the time of the disaster as staunch, and sea worthy as when first launched. She was owned by F. J. Klein of Milwaukee, and S. S. Burk of Chicago. Mr. Burk says that they are already negotiating for another steamer to take the place of the Champlain, and although it is difficult to find a propeller of this class at this season of the year, they propose to put a first class passenger boat on the line. The Champlain was insured for $20,000.

Capt. J. U. Emory, of the steamer Onekama, run out from Northport Sunday afternoon and cruised off Charlevoix, and found the bodies of a child and woman floating upon the water. The bodies were about one mile apart. About midway between the bodies was found a large fender. They also found a cap, a pair of pants, and a vest, floating upon the water, and all on a line running about northwest and southeast. The captain said that he found the bodies about fifteen miles northwest from the scene of the disaster. On arriving at Charlevoix, the bodies were delivered to Justice McLeod and Undertaker See, and the woman was at once identified as Mrs. Mary Fall, from Pierport, Manistee county, and the child was identified as Ella Beau, little daughter of the steward of the Champlain. The testimony of Capt. Emory and the engineer of the Onekama was taken by the justice and preserved.

S. S. Burk, of Chicago, one of the owners of the Champlain, arrived Sunday morning to look after the comforts of the surviving passengers and crew, and to report the loss of the Champlain. Monday morning he had her taken from the beach south of the channel where she was towed Friday morning while on fire, and brought into the harbor and beached east of Campbell's shipyard, in Round lake, where she will lie, awaiting the order of the insurance company.

Michael Kehoe reached Charlevoix Sunday morning, and is greatly cast down at the loss of his estimable wife. Eighteen years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Kehoe were residents of Charlevoix, and yet have many intimate and warm friends in this vicinity. Mrs. Kehoe was on her way to this place for a visit among old friends.

A dispatch to the Free Press, from Frankfort, on the 18th, reports the arrest of the Northern Michigan line of steamers at that place as saying that the Champlain "was full of passengers, and it was with difficulty that the Frankfort people secured state rooms."

The Charlevoix JOURNAL with commendable enterprise issued an "extra" last Friday, giving particulars of the burning of the propeller Champlain. The JOURNAL is always wide awake in such matters.—Free Press.

Mrs. Sprangers, of Oceburg, Wis., sister of J. A. Bacot, of Hayes, expected to start for Charlevoix on the ill-fated Champlain, but she was detained by the burning of her son's cheese factory the Saturday before.

D. S. Way made an excellent instantaneous negative of the burning Champlain while she was at the pier, and the fire engine was at work, and another afterward. Those wanting views should order early.

The funeral services of Ella Beau were at the Bridge Street home Monday afternoon. The floral offerings were many and appropriate. This was a beautiful little girl of two years and nine months.

A Frankfort dispatch says that L. E. Allen intended to take passage on the Champlain, but was detained, and missed the boat. He lost a quantity of tools and material.

The Charlevoix physicians, and the people at Smithson's camp, are entitled to credit for their promptness and untiring services in behalf of the cold and exhausted survivors.

Mrs. R. M. Makeel received a telegram from her husband Saturday afternoon, that he was safe. It was reported Friday morning that he was among the lost.

Orrin Clapper and wife of Chester, Eaton county, arrived Sunday morning to attend the funeral of George Wrisley. Mrs. Clapper is a sister of Mrs. Wrisley.

S. M See & Sons, undertakers, and their assistants, gave the bodies their constant attention, to the entire satisfaction of all the friends.

Geo. W. Miller estimates his loss in the cargo of the Champlain at $2,000, in clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

The engineer and fireman who are suffering from their burns, are yet being cared for at the Fountain City House.

Albert Dye, of Flint, a son-in-law of Mrs. Wilks, arrived Sunday morning to attend the funeral of Robert Wilks.

Erastus Fall one of the survivors of the Champlain disaster lost $125 worth of carpenter tools.

Dr. Preston examined Capt. Lucas' watch, and says it stopped at 1.20.

Antoine Sharrow lost a valuable outfit of carpenter's tools.

CARDS OF THANKS.

We desire in the midst of our deep sorrow to thank the people of Charlevoix for their unbounded sympathy and kindness.

MR. AND MRS. R. COOPER.

We desire to extend our grateful thanks to our friends and neighbors for their sympathy and help extended to us in the hour of our great bereavement.

MRS. ROB'T WILKS AND DAUGHTER.

To those friends and neighbors who have been so kind to us in our great bereavement, we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks.

MRS. GEO. WRISLEY AND SONS.

BOYNE CITY, MICH., June 20, 1887.

EDITOR JOURNAL,—The good people of your town were so very kind to Mr. Schaub in his great sorrow, we wish to return our heartfelt thanks in a space in your paper. My husband has gone to carry the sad tidings home, where he will find mother, three brothers and three sisters to mourn the loss of a kind christian father and husband, whose council will be greatly missed.

MRS. J. C. SCHAUB.

I desire through your paper to thank the people of Charlevoix for the kindness I have received, and for the assistance given me in the burial of my deceased friend, Mrs. Mary Fall.

ERASTUS FALL,
Bear Lake, Manistee Co., Mich.

Martin Beau and wife Ellen Beau requested us to express for them their thanks to the people of Charlevoix for the many acts of kindness proffered them during their stay in our midst, and the burial of their little daughter Ella.

Another Body Found.

A message by telephone from Middle Village this morning, states that the body of a girl about 14 years old, supposed to be Lulu Willard, has just been picked up on the shore at that place.

Mrs. Kehoe's Body Found.

Thursday, 4 P. M.

The body of Mrs. Kehoe was found at four o'clock this afternoon, on the south bank of Little Traverse bay, between Wequetonsing resort and Bay View. On being notified by telephone, Mr. Kehoe instructed undertaker C. B. Hankin, of Petoskey, to embalm the body at once. Mr. Kehoe will leave here this evening, and will take the remains of his wife to Chicago for interment.

Lulu Willard Identified.

Thursday, 8 P. M.

C. A. Fall, the husband of Mrs. Mary Fall, deceased, and his brother Erastus Fall, arrived at Cross Village where the body of Miss Lulu Willard had been taken, and fully identified the same. He will bring the remains to Charlevoix tomorrow morning for interment by the side of her mother.

THE LATEST

Friday, June 24, 1887.

Aggie Beau's Body Found.

Friday, 8 A. M.

The body of Aggie Beau, the five year old daughter of Martin Beau, steward of the Champlain, was found this morning near Petoskey, and will be brought to Charlevoix this afternoon.

Rogers' Son Found.

Friday, 3 P. M.

The body of the seven year old son of J. J. Rogers was found this afternoon, and will be taken at once to his mother at Fort Mackinac.

Friday, 4 P. M.

The remains of Aggie Beau have just been brought to Charlevoix on the Cumming and taken charge of by Undertaker S. M. See.

The kind ladies of Charlevoix are arranging for a double funeral of Aggie Beau and Lulu Willard at the Bridge Street Home, Saturday forenoon at ten o'clock. Although the parents of these children are not present they may be assured that their's were cared for tenderly. The work done by all, this week verifies fully that "A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind."

The passengers lost on the Champlain so far as known have all been recovered, and the only bodies known to be lost and not recovered are the four Indian deck hands.

TAKE NOTICE.

My losses in the late Champlain disaster has made it necessary to collect at once every dollar due me. Those owing me will please call without delay and settle accounts.

GEO. W. MILLER.

J. L. Newberry, of Petoskey, is agent for and offers for sale, the lots on Schoffen's addition to Ironton, at low prices and easy terms, and perfect titles given. Will also sell, or exchange for property in Petoskey, his house and lot on Main street, Charlevoix.

New York's Obscure Millionaires.

New York rich men are very often obscure. The persons whose names you see in the newspapers often turn out to be of dubious credit, but the millionaires who never get into print are the men to be afraid of. Here is one, Christopher Meyer, who is said to have money enough to buy the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and advance the cash. Probably no newspaper reader ever heard of him until yesterday. It is found out that he is a German who got into the rubber trade in his infancy and kept along with it until it made him a great fortune. In the same way the Poppenhausen family had their start. The first Poppenhausen was a German who was a butter or something inferior in a whalebone house. At that time whalebones were used for many of the purposes of India rubber, such as for umbrella rods. Now and then there would be a sort of job lot of whalebones in the store which the butter man would buy at a bargain. In course of time Poppenhausen became the head of the rubber business, and had enormous works at College Point, on Long Island, some ten miles from New York. Getting into controversy with a Long Island railroad, he concluded to exercise his wealth by buying the railroad. It very soon turned out to be an elephant, and crushed him and all his fortune and assisted at the same time to break up the fortunes of half a dozen other family. Now, we find that Christopher Meyer is another undiscovered rich man who can buy the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and think it not any great property to speak of.—New York Letter to Cincinnati Enquirer.

How They Do It in China.

In New York when a burglar has stripped a house, we consider the secret to a detective, who keeps it and gets another detective to help him. In China, when a man is killed like grim death till you perish of old age. They manage things differently, however, in China. Not long ago a missionary's earthly mansion was located, and he informed a head policeman, who merely said, "Hi, yah!" and went away. Three weeks afterward, however, the man of God received a champagne basket containing a head packed in tinfoil—not necessary for publication, but as an evidence of good faith—and a note from the Department of Truth and Justice—stating that the writer remained, "Yours truly, Hon Yah."—Modern Society.

Why She Wept.

A lady called on a friend who had only been married a few years and was surprised to find her in tears.

"I am the most unhappy woman in Austin, and it is all on account of my husband."

"Why, your husband lives for you alone. He stays at home all the time. He never goes away from home; he never brings any of his friends to the house."

"Yes," replied the unfortunate woman, putting her handkerchief to her eyes and sobbing convulsively, "that's—what—makes me—so miserable."—Texas Siftings.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 23, 1887.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. If the slip does not show a credit the week following payment, please notify us at once, that the omission may be corrected.

House and Lot for Sale,—or will trade for horse and buggy, on terms to suit. Inquire of O. I. WHEAT, Charlevoix, Mich.

Views of the Burning Champlain 25 cts. each by mail. D. S. WAY, Charlevoix.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIS.

Upright Brothers will pay the highest market price for wool.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

East Jordan is preparing to celebrate in grand style.

J. V. Sine returned from Eastport yesterday morning.

Henry Barth returned from Chicago Wednesday morning by rail.

Several matters of interest are unavoidably crowded out of this issue.

Preaching at the Ironton Congregational church next Sunday at 3 p. m.

Those desiring extra copies of this issue of the JOURNAL will please order as early as possible.

Come to Charlevoix to celebrate the Fourth. Biggest time in northern Michigan will be had.

The ruins of the burned Champlain will no doubt be viewed by hundreds of people who come to Charlevoix on the Fourth.

Adam Clark returned this week from Albion College to spend his summer vacation with his father Joseph Clark of Marion.

Several instances of desecration of graves in the cemetery have come to light, and their repetition may cause the publication of names.

The ladies of the M. E. church will serve strawberry shortcake and coffee at the church on Monday afternoon, June 27, from 5 to 9 o'clock.

The I. O. G. T. have changed their time of meeting from Monday to Saturday night. A meeting will be held on Saturday night of this week.

Preparatory meeting at the Congregational church, this (Thursday) evening. Let every member of the church and all others interested be present.

The Charlevoix Ministrel Company will give a dance at the opera hall in the afternoon and evening of the fourth. Music by the ministrels' orchestra.

Rev. C. F. Van Auken will conduct the services at the Congregational church next Sunday at 10.30 a. m. Baptisms, reception of members, and communion service after the sermon.

G. R. Mackenzie, of the advertising department of the Michigan Central Railroad Co., was in Charlevoix Monday, looking after the interests of the railroad company. Instead of trying to take Charlevoix trout, and judging from his appearance, the interests of his employer are taken care of in an able, yet genteel manner.

We wish to call special attention to the full sheet poster issued from the JOURNAL job department for East Jordan's celebration. Our outfit of material for poster work is necessarily limited, but a glance at that work will convince anyone that we do not propose to let an ordinary full sheet poster go out of the county for lack of material.

M. E. Church.

Let me stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance concerning our bible readings on Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Neglect not the assembling of yourselves together on Thursday evening.

Sunday School Teachers meeting on Friday evening at M. E. Parsonage.

Sunday morning Bro. Smithson will preach at the usual hour.

Sunday School at 12.

W. H. McCartney.

Historical Society.

A special meeting of the Charlevoix Historical Society will be held on Friday evening of this week at the residence of O. S. Washburn. By Order of the Executive Committee.

H. LEE HIDDINGS, Chairman.

Episcopal Visitation.

Bishop Gillespie visits Christ Church Mission Sunday morning next, at 10.30 o'clock. Order of exercises: morning prayer, confirmation, address and sermon, holy communion.

Photographing from a Balloon.

From an illustrated paper the Gulliver we quote as follows: "The mountains crossed in this delightful easy manner we were over the town of Bloomfield; and an exposure was made on what seemed to us a fine type of the better class of New England homestead, which, with its large fields, trim fences, and ample buildings, was directly below us. This view, taken at the height of one mile, is wonderfully distinct, when we consider the distance of the objects from the camera, the conditions necessary to the taking of an instantaneous picture, and our very unsteady support. The stone and rail fences, bounding the fields of all sizes and shapes are shown with great sharpness. The pasture, meadow, and cultivated land are plainly indicated; also the curiously regular arrangement of the crops. The trim and regular appearance of the orchards is well contrasted with the variety and freedom of growth in the woodland; and the photographic effect of the autumnal colors is indicated by the foliage of a group of white birches near the center of the view, as contrasted with the dark, unchanged green of the orchards.

Avoid the use of calomel for bilious complaints. Ayer's Cathartic Pills, a vegetable, have been tested for forty years, and are acknowledged to be the best remedy for torpidity of the liver, costiveness, and indigestion.

FARM FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land situated on Pine Lake 12 miles west of Ammon J. Beers', in the township of Eveline, Charlevoix county, four acres cleared, one log house—living water, good roads. Will take part or entire payment on time to suit the purchaser. For further particulars, address or inquire of

E. G. JAKMAN, Ironton, Mich.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G CO'S

FULL SIZE, WELL MADE & PERFECT FIT.
TRY THEM, for sale by G. W. MILLER.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,
Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.
TERRACE FARM. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

1887. THOMAS FRIANT, CAPT. E. VANGERBURGT. 1887.
OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS,
LOU A. CUMMINGS, CAPT. A. SNYDER.

Going South Every Morning. (EXCEPT SUNDAY.)
Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at 7.00
HARBOR ST. 8.00
CHARLEVOIX 9.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN 11.30

Going North Every Afternoon. (EXCEPT SUNDAY.)
Will leave EAST JORDAN St 1.00
CHARLEVOIX 3.00
PETOSKEY 4.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS 6.00

Going North Every Morning. (EXCEPT SUNDAY.)
Will leave EAST JORDAN 7.00
CHARLEVOIX 8.00
PETOSKEY 9.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS 11.30

Going South Every Afternoon. (EXCEPT SUNDAY.)
Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS St 1.00
PETOSKEY 2.00
CHARLEVOIX 4.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN 6.00

Baggage and Freight Carried at Low Rates.

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

From A. W. SLEEPER, Druggist, Albion.

W. Johnston & Co., Detroit—Gents: Your Extract Sarsaparilla is giving good satisfaction in my trade in every instance, and I am only too happy to be able to recommend it from personal experience. Last fall my two little children were poisoned by eating thistle blows, and it broke out in large sores on their limbs. I gave them one bottle of your Extract Sarsaparilla, and it cured them completely. I am well pleased with the medicine.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla operates radically upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing and invigorating it. As a safe and absolute cure for the various disorders caused by constitutional taint or infection, this remedy has no equal. Take it this month.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. There where formed in the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and,

By Taking

three bottles of this medicine, have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Randal T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she could hardly see light of any kind. Physicians did her no permanent good, and we had given up all hope of her recovery, when a friend recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored, and she can now look steadily at a brilliant light without pain. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1, six bottles, $5.

WALL PAPER

The largest, finest, and best selected stock of spring designs in the city. Ceiling and side wall decorations, centre pieces, dados, friezes, etc., etc.

G. W. CROUTER.

GOOD-BYE SPRING.

Welcome Summer!

A. T. Washburne & Co.'s

Grand Opening for Summer

Was a Great Success.

Second Invoice of Summer Goods

Now on the Road.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood, kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

FINE AND BASSWOOD SIDING

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX MICHIGAN.

FARM AND GARDEN.

WHY COWS HOLD UP THEIR MILK. A CURE FOR THE HABIT.

A Device for Measuring Trees and Other Heights—A Prolific Egg Laying Fowl. A Convenient Building with Yards Attached, for Swine.

The building for hogs and corn, the ground plan of which is here given, was drawn originally by an Iowa farmer for Rural New Yorker. This Iowa correspondent is so well pleased with his building that he gives the following minute description of the same for the benefit of others.

BUILDING FOR HOGS AND CORN.

The house is 40 feet long by 24 feet wide and one-third pitch roof. There is a driveway 48x8 feet, with a corn crib of the same size on one side and on the other are four pens, 12x14 feet, connected with each other and with the yards. Over the corn crib will hold 1,300 or 2,000 bushels of corn, and one man can feed hogs enough for the number of hogs. He has had best results when fattening hogs by shutting eight or ten in one pen, giving them the run of small yards outside. Over the pen he has a space 14x48 feet, which can be used for hay, straw, grain, machinery, etc.

COWS NOT GIVING DOWN MILK.

The habit some cows have of holding up the milk is a difficult one to overcome. Mr. L. H. Arnold accounts for this habit by the following explanation: It consists in shortening the time of relaxation of the cords controlling the valves to the little reservoirs holding the milk. These are distributed through the udder, and there are several circumstances which tend to make a cow shorten this relaxation. Rough treatment, fear, grief, solicitude, loud noises, etc., are among them. The circumstances inducing a prolongation of the relaxation are comfort and quietude, the other with the relief of pressure by the flow of milk.

The best way, according to the authority quoted from, is to avoid all occasion for disturbance and observe those that promote pleasure and quiet for the cow and to milk as rapidly as possible consistently with comfort, with a view to getting the milk before the "letting down" ceases. Milking rapidly does not mean jerking sharply or moving with hasty or irregular motions for the reason that the thing aimed at. The muscles of the milker should not be such as to attract her suspicions. They should be deliberate and cool, but not slow. In the milking, let nothing be allowed to interrupt or retard the work. This will reduce continual letting down, by giving relief to the udder. The milker should bear constantly in mind the fact that the letting down is short, and that every movement should be avoided of to the best advantage. When the milk ceases to flow the milker should stop at once, whether the milk is all out or not. There is no use in hanging on after it stops coming, as this only cultivates and confirms the habit of "holding back." To give a cow the least possible occasion for holding back her milk is the best way to prevent her forming such a habit, and the surest and fortuing such a habit, and the surest and fortunate way to make her forget it after it has been formed. To break up the objectionable habit, let the milking be quick, but easy and regular.

Fastening Comb in Sections.

A bee keeper in the Cultivator thinks it is an easy matter to fasten pieces of combs in the sections after one has learned how. He says: In swarming and in the honey season, I keep about twenty of these boxes on hand. It is kept so by having a box as high as a lamp and extending from wide by 8 wide, take a turkey tail or wing feather, of good size. Your pieces of comb should be not less than 1x2 inch. Your sections should be in the frames it use with frames. Dip the feather in hot wax, and paint the inside of the section. Next set a piece of comb on the feather and holding the former with the left hand, draw out the feather. As the wax will get cold, the thing is done.

Your wax should be hot enough so the feather slips out easily and slick. You can put the pieces of comb in this way faster than you can put in comb foundation by any method. I have put in thousands, and never knew of one to drop out. I have thought for two or three years to give it to the public. I never saw any thing like it in print.

Black Minorcas.

Numbered with Spanish varieties of fowls that have come to the front of late, are the black Minorcas, the best layers of all the so called Spanish breeds. The Minorcas are handsome birds, with lustrous green black plumage, large red comb and white ear lobes. The large comb stands erect in the cocks and lopping in the hens. The general carriage of these fowls is an important feature. The cock, especially if true bred, carries himself in a stately manner, the breast well projecting and the tail standing well up.

MINORCA COCK AND HEN.

The Minorcas are hardy and little subject to disease. They are persistent layers of large white eggs, which fetch a ready sale. Like most eey laying breeds, their flesh is not of excellent quality, on the contrary, in old fowls, it is decidedly unfit for the table. The Minorcas are non-sitters, a great foragers. In good condition a hen will weigh from six to seven pounds, and the cock from eight to nine pounds.

Popularity of the Sunflower.

Of late years there has been an unusual demand for seeds of sunflowers. In some localities farmers grow the plants for seed, and, which they feed to their poultry, but where corn will grow plentifully it is to be preferred. There is also an idea prevalent that sunflower plants absorb miasma in damp and undrained places. "Large Russian" is a variety grown in prairie regions, where the stocks are sometimes used as fuel, the seed being fed to poultry and swine. In Russia the sunflower is grown for its oil.

A very sensible use for sunflowers is the one of growing them as screens to unsightly outbuildings, or as a pleasing background of color to the garden or lawn. Good soil has much to do with the production of fine flowers. Plant the seed wherever it is desired to have the plants, and thin out to about three or four feet apart in the rows.

Dalmatian Insect Powder.

One of the best insecticides known at the present time is Dalmatian insect powder, also known as Persian insect powder and as Dubech. This powder is composed of the pulverized blossoms of a plant that is death to most forms of insect life, but not injurious to animals or human beings. It ought to be on every farm. In the household it will be found valuable in banishing flies, roaches, etc.; in field and garden it acts as a preventive to many insect enemies, and in the poultry yard it is sacred for dusting fowls and chicks as a preventive and curative.

Cows for the Dairy.

Those who follow the dairy interests—the butter interests—have, according to a well known Massachusetts dairyman, found in the Jersey and the Guernsey the best butter cows. They will, in his opinion, make the most and best butter. This dairyman after repeated experiments finds that the best butter is produced from one-half Jersey and one-half Guernsey cream.

Vine Mildew.

Vine growers, in regions where mildew often prevails, are advised by Vick, in his magazine for May, to make trial of the following remedies: Thirty-five pounds of sulphate of copper dissolved in fifty-three gallons of water, thirty-three pounds of quick lime slaked in eight gallons of water, the lime and water mixture is then poured into the solution of copper. In doing, keep the mixture well stirred. This can be applied to the foliage with a whisk broom. The treatment should be commenced soon after the foliage is well out, and be repeated so as to protect the later foliage. The quantities of the substances can be changed while preserving the proportions.

Treatment for Work Horses.

Remember that the digestive organs of horses at work are not so responsive as when idle. The occurrence of colic and other ailments incident to horses in the season of work is usually traceable to the lack of time given for digestion. The stomach is in no condition to receive food immediately after severe exertion, hence the necessity of a short season of rest before giving a horse any food. A little care in the matter of watering and feeding horses will prevent much sickness and consequent loss.

Measuring Heights.

The erroneous estimates which are made of the height of trees, buildings and other objects emphasize the need of easy and convenient mode for measuring them. The following, with a little practice, says The Country Gentleman, will enable any one to make much measurements with approximate accuracy of the real heights sought.

MEASURING A TREE.

The figure given represents the simplest and quickest way to measure heights. First make a mark on the stem of the tree or other object, say six feet from the ground, or place a pole six feet upright against it. Then walk away to such a distance that the breadth of the hand held out at full arm's length will just cover the six feet. Mark with the eye a point on the tree at the upper end of the six feet, then turn your hand upwards another breadth, and so proceed till the whole height is measured. It may sometimes be convenient for an assistant to stand at the foot of the tree, and if with his hat on he will be six feet high, he may serve as a measure to begin with instead of the staff. It is well to stand at some distance from the tree in making these measurements, otherwise the upper measured portions will be larger than the lower, on account of the longer legs of the imaginary right angle. If the distance be too great for the breadth of the hand, one or two fingers only may be used, or a short pocket rule. Or, if the pocket rule be used, its separate subdivisions into inches may be made to indicate the portions measured, and the whole completed at one measurement.

We have known the heights of perpendicular banks of lakes or other precipices, or the descent of a waterfall, to be singularly misjudged for the want of some such means as the one here described. If the water of a lake freezes in winter, the ice forms an excellent base line for the measurement of any of its shores or banks, and of the tops of trees which grow upon them.

Facts Farmers Ought to Know.

The white Wyandotte and the white Plymouth Rocks have multiplied during the last year to a considerable extent.

Ocean air is favorable to fruit trees.

The best and richest of soils will become exhausted unless applications of manures are made in one form or another.

The greater the weight an animal can be made to attain in the shortest period of time the smaller the cost per pound proportionately.

In the vegetable kingdom improvement is made by grafting and hybridizing; in the animal kingdom by crossing.

Cabbage delights in a deep, rich soil.

Cows when turned out to pasture require some dry fodder to offset the laxative food they get.

The Devons are thought by some authorities to come nearer to the ideal type of beef and milk as the bovine race can produce. The milk has the reputation of being very rich, although they are not noted as persistent milkers.

May is the proper month in many sections for transplanting evergreens. Success depends mainly on keeping the roots from drying out.

By the evaporating process it has been calculated that one barrel of green apples will produce about fifteen pounds of evaporated dried apples, and that one pound of these is equal to half a peck of the fruit before it is pared or sliced.

Horse radish is a perennial and will last many years. Best to have it first class planted every spring.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in cating Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptives, at least to try one bottle, as it can do no harm, and we believe that in nine out of every one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents, sold by all druggists and dealers, in the United States and Canada. cow3

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Dr. G. W. Crouter can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing, and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and such as are popular. Having the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, colds and coughs, will sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affection of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim, we ask you to call and get a trial bottle free.

Rich, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Wolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192md.

Time Cards of Pine Lake Steamers,
(STANDARD TIME.)
Season of 1887.

Steamer JOSEPH GORDON.
CAPT. LEWIS GUARD.
Morning—Leave Boyne City at 6.30, arrive at Boyne City at 9.00, leave Boyne City 9.30, arrive at Charlevoix 12.00.
Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix at 2.00, arrive at Boyne City 4.30, leave Boyne City 4.00, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.
Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer NORTH STAR,
CAPT. J. M. THOMPSON.
Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 7.00, arrive at East Jordan 9.00, leave East Jordan 9.30 arrive at Charlevoix 11.30.
Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix at 2.00, arrive at East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.
Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer CLARA BELLE,
CAPT. GEO. JARVIS.
Morning—Leave Boyne City at 6.30, arrive at Charlevoix 8.15, leave Charlevoix at 8.45, arrive at Boyne City at 10.30.
Afternoon—Leave Boyne City at 1.00; returning leave Charlevoix at 3.30, touching at Ironton at 3.45.
Hannah, Lay & Co.'s Steamer Line.
Season of 1887.

Str. City of Grand Rapids.
CAPT. O. E. WILKES.
Going North—Monday, Wednesday, and Friday,—leave Traverse City at 7.00 a. m., Charlevoix 11.30 a. m., Petoskey 1.15 p. m., Harbor Springs 3.45 p. m., arrive at Mackinaw 6.00 p. m.
Going South—Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday,—leave St. Ignace 6.00 a. m., Mackinaw 8.30 a. m., Harbor Springs 10.45 a. m., Petoskey 1.15 p. m., Charlevoix 3.45 p. m., arrive at Traverse City 7.30 p. m.

Harbor Springs and Mackinaw.
Propeller A. C. Van Raalte,
CAPT. E. A. BOUCHARD.
Leaves Harbor Springs every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at 7.00 a. m. Leaves Mackinaw every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 7.30 a. m. Touching at Cross Village and St. James both ways.
The Van Raalte gives an excursion from Harbor Springs to Mackinac Island every Sunday.
Northern Michigan Line.
Season of 1887.

Propeller LAWRENCE,
GEORGE THORP, Master.
Going North—Leave Charlevoix every Friday, 5.00 p. m., Milwaukee, Saturday, 8 a. m. Leave Charlevoix, Sunday, 11.00 p. m., arrive Chicago, Monday, 10 a. m.
Going South—Leave Chicago every Monday 6.00 p. m., Charlevoix, Tuesday, 8.00 a. m., Milwaukee, Wednesday, 11.00 a. m.; arrive Charlevoix same day, 3.00 p. m.
For further information, freight or passage, apply to the Agent on the Lawrence, Milwaukee, Mich.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway,
"THE MACKINAW SHORT LINE."
Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron and Copper Regions of Upper Peninsula of Michigan.
Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections in Union Depots at all Points.
The territory traversed is famous for its
UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.
Tickets for sale at all points via this route.
For Maps, Folders, Rates and Information address,
A. W. ALLEN,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

HEADQUARTERS
for
Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry.
A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eyeglasses and Gold Pens.
All the leading AMERICAN WATCHES in Gold and Silver, Cases, Movements and most improved Watches manufactured.
Repairing done Promptly and Warranted. Engraving added to all articles sold, if desired, subject to sale for charges.
C. R. BELLINGER,
Bridge St., - Charlevoix.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE.
BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.
This Magazine presents to the American thought and life from ocean to ocean, is filled with pure high-class literature, and can be safely well-received in any family circle.
PRICE 25c. $2 53 A YEAR BY MAIL.
Sample Copy of current number under open cover only of 25 cts.; Back numbers, 15 cts.
Premium List with either.
Address,
E. P. DUTTON & CO., Publishers,
130 & 132 Fourth St., N. Y.

GET UP CLUBS

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be secured for it IN NEW YORK.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a mortgage executed by Charles H. Van Zandt and Ida Burdon, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on May 13th, 1885, in liber four of mortgages, on page 185, said mortgage was duly assigned by Lemuel G. Hatch to Lewis Freeman, and Walter F. Brown, on the 23d day of December, 1885, and said assignment recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 24th day of December, 1885, in liber 15 of mortgages, on page 371, upon which there is now due and unpaid the sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars, principal and interest, for the recovery of which no proceeding have been instituted at law or in the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the undersigned said mortgagee will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, (that being the place where the circuit court for the county is held), on Wednesday, the 10th day of August, A D 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Said premises are described as follows: Beginning at a point on the beach of Pine Lake, in said county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, thence north and south quarter line of section thirty-two, in township thirty-three north, of range six west, intersected said beach, thence south forty-eight degrees east along said beach seven and twenty-five hundredths chains, thence south thirty-five degrees east, on the said beach twenty-one and two-tenths chains to a stake, thence north thirty-nine degrees west seven chains to a stake on the said north and south quarter line of said section thirty-two, thence north on said quarter line seven and twenty-five hundredths chains to the place of beginning, containing four and one-half acres, more or less, and being in the south-west quarter of the south-west quarter of the north-east quarter of said section, township, range six west, all in the towns and county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, excepting, however, from said sale the last described two acres in the south-west quarter of the south-west quarter of said section thirty-two.
Dated Charlevoix, May 11, 1887.
WALTER F. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
LEWIS FREEMAN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignees.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a mortgage executed by William Heath and Josephine Heath, his wife, to Ira Mills, on the 20th day of April, 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 20th day of April, 1885, in liber four of mortgages, on page thirty-seven, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said Ira Mills to Henry H. Vanderoune, on the 20th day of April, 1885, and said assignment recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 20th day of April, 1885, in liber 15 of mortgages, on page 122, on the 20th day of November, 1885, there is now due and unpaid the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars, principal and interest, and no proceeding have been instituted at law for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the undersigned said mortgagee will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, (that being the place where the circuit court for the county is held), on Wednesday, the 10th day of August, A D 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Said premises are described as follows: Beginning at a point on the beach of Pine Lake, in said county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, thence north and south quarter line of section thirty-two, in township thirty-three north, of range six west, intersected said beach, thence south forty-eight degrees east along said beach seven and twenty-five hundredths chains, thence south thirty-five degrees east, on the said beach twenty-one and two-tenths chains to a stake, thence north thirty-nine degrees west seven chains to a stake on the said north and south quarter line of said section thirty-two, thence north on said quarter line seven and twenty-five hundredths chains to the place of beginning, containing four and one-half acres, more or less, and being in the south-west quarter of the south-west quarter of the north-east quarter of said section thirty-two, township and range six west, all in the towns and county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, excepting, however, from said sale the last described two acres in the south-west quarter of the south-west quarter of said section thirty-two.
Dated Charlevoix, May 11, 1887.
WALTER F. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
LEWIS FREEMAN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignees.

SHERIF'S SALE.—Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in favor of Thomas Ryan, plaintiff, against the goods and chattels and lands of William H. Wolcott, defendant, I have levied on the goods and chattels of said defendant, William H. Wolcott, in said county, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give notice that on the 1st day of July, 1887, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the store of said defendant, William H. Wolcott, in said county, I shall offer for sale at public vendue, to the highest bidder, the following described property, viz: Lot 1 in the township of Evelina, Charlevoix county, State of Michigan, being in town 34 north of range 7 west, all of which I shall expose for sale at the place of sale, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in Boyne City, in said county, on the 2d day of August, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock A. M.
Dated the 15th day of June, 1887.
DAVID HYMAN, Sheriff.
By WILLIS B. HOWARD, Deputy Sheriff.
CHAPIN & CHASE,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

MORTGAGE SALE.—A mortgage dated the 7 May 7th, 1886, executed by Frank Jones and Mary Jones, his wife, to Ira Mills, recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on May 8th, 1886, in liber four of mortgages, on page 500, conveyed the entire principal and interest, to wit: three hundred and eighty-six dollars and sixty cents, is past due and unpaid, the the recovery of which no proceeding have been instituted at law or in the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the undersigned said mortgagee will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at bid-sale and at public vendue, at the front door of the court house, in Boyne City, in said county, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county is held), on the 2d day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Said premises are described as follows: Lot 1 in the township of Evelina, Charlevoix county, State of Michigan, being in town 34 north of range 7 west, all of which I shall expose for sale at the place of sale, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in Boyne City, in said county, on the 2d day of August, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock A. M.
Dated the 15th day of June, 1887.
DAVID HYMAN, Sheriff.
By WILLIS B. HOWARD, Deputy Sheriff.
CHAPIN & CHASE,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a mortgage executed by William Heath and Josephine Heath, his wife, to Ira Mills, on the 20th day of April, 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 20th day of April, 1885, in liber four of mortgages, on page thirty-seven, and said mortgage was duly assigned by said Ira Mills to Henry H. Vanderoune, on the 20th day of April, 1885, and said assignment recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 20th day of April, 1885, in liber 15 of mortgages, on page 122, on the 20th day of November, 1885, there is now due and unpaid the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars, principal and interest, and no proceeding have been instituted at law for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the undersigned said mortgagee will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Boyne City, in said county, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county is held), on Wednesday, the 10th day of August, A D 1887, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Said premises are described as follows: Beginning at a point on the beach of Pine Lake, in said county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, thence north and south quarter line of section thirty-two, in township thirty-three north, of range six west, intersected said beach, thence south forty-eight degrees east along said beach seven and twenty-five hundredths chains, thence south thirty-five degrees east, on the said beach twenty-one and two-tenths chains to a stake, thence north thirty-nine degrees west seven chains to a stake on the said north and south quarter line of said section thirty-two, thence north on said quarter line seven and twenty-five hundredths chains to the place of beginning, containing four and one-half acres, more or less, and being in the south-west quarter of the south-west quarter of the north-east quarter of said section thirty-two, township and range six west, all in the towns and county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, excepting, however, from said sale the last described two acres in the south-west quarter of the south-west quarter of said section thirty-two.
Dated Charlevoix, May 11, 1887.
WALTER F. BROWN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
LEWIS FREEMAN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
A. D. CRUICKSHANK,
Attorney for Assignees.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of a mortgage executed by Frank Jones and Mary Jones, his wife, to Ira Mills, recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on May 8th, 1886, in liber four of mortgages, on page 500, conveyed the entire principal and interest, to wit: three hundred and eighty-six dollars and sixty cents, is past due and unpaid, the the recovery of which no proceeding have been instituted at law or in the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the undersigned said mortgagee will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at bid-sale and at public vendue, at the front door of the court house, in Boyne City, in said county, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county is held), on Wednesday, the 10th day of August, A. D. 1887, at 10 o'clock A. M.
Dated June 15th, 1887.
DAVID HYMAN,
Assignee of Mortgage.
E. C. BARNUM,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Michigan.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

ADVERTISERS by addressing orders to Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), New York, can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of newspaper advertising. Their 100-page pamphlet, containing lists of newspapers and estimates, sent free on receipt of 2c. stamp.

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.
These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combinations, artistic finish, durability, and for their adaptability to render them the most attractive, orna-mental and desirable organs for homes, schools churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION.
UNEQUALED FACILITIES.
SKILLED WORKMEN.
BEST MATERIAL.
CONSIDER, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, from CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN CO.
831 BLUE ISLAND AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.
OH! MY BACK!
DR. HILL'S
ENGLISH BUCHU
is One of the Best
Kidney
INVESTIGATORS IN USE.
Will cure all Kidney and Urinary Troubles at home, Partially Unlike Other, Gives, Connections in Stone Bladder Gravel, Diseases of the Bladder, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Retention of Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, Brick Dust Deposit, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Bladder, Pain in the Back, Frequent Desire to Pass Water, Pain in the Bladder, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Dropsy, Gravel, Bloody Urine, Pain in the Loins, Inability to Retain the Water, Incontinence of Urine, Weak Back, Etc. Ask Your Druggist or Investigator that reduces the Urine to be natural, and cures Kidney Complaints of all kinds. Price $1.00 per bottle.
Prepared only by the Proprietor.
Regular size, $1.75 Three Bottles for $2.50.
Sold by all Druggists.
DR. JOHNSON & CO.,
Sole Agents. DETROIT, MICH.
$25,000.00 IN GOLD!
WILL BE PAID FOR
ARBUCKLES' COFFER WRAPPERS.
1 Premium, $1,000.00
2 Premiums, $500.00 each
6 Premiums, $200.00 "
8 Premiums, $100.00 "
100 Premiums, $50.00 "
200 Premiums, $25.00 "
1,000 Premiums, $10.00 "
For full particulars and directions see Circular in every pound of Arbuckles' Coffee.
A GENTLEMAN having lecured for years on the Nature, Treatment, Cure of Nervous Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Lost Manhood, and all the evil effects of early indiscretion and youthful folly, will for the benefit of fellow-sufferers, to those who wish and will give him their symptoms, he will send (free) by return mail a copy of the recipe he successfully used in his case.
Address in confidence, JAMES W. PINKNEY, 42 Cedar St., N. Y.
PIMPLES. I will send (FREE) to any sufferer the receipt for a simple VEGETABLE BALM, FREE FROM POISON, which cleared my face of Pimples, Blotches, Black Heads, Flesh Worms, Skin Eruptions and Blemishes of all kinds, leaving the skin soft, smooth and healthy. Address, with stamp, to compound the soft fly shook, JOHN H. REYNOLDS, 1 Fulton Place, Brooklyn, E. D., N. Y. Mention this paper.
Recommended for producing a luxurious growth of whiskers. Address, A. G. SPERRY, 50 Ann St., New York.
TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease Consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung affections. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. To those who use the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, he will also address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.
FOR MAN AND BEAST!
Mexican Mustang Liniment
CURES
Scratches, Sprains, Strains, Stitches, Stiff Joints, Backache, Galls, Sores, Spavin Cracks, Contracted Muscles, Eruptions, Hoof All, Screw Worms, Swinney, Saddle Galls, Piles.
Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Sunburn, Sores.
THIS COOD OLD STAND-BY
accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the marvels of medicine, it cures all manner of ailments, and its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine. The Lumberman needs it in case of accident. The Housewife needs it for her family use. The Traveler needs it for his teams and his men. The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.
The Miner needs it in case of emergency.
The Farmer needs it in his horses, his stock and his stock yard.
The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply, afloat and ashore.
The Horse-trainer needs it.
The Stock-grower needs it.
The Stock-grower needs it, for it will save him thousands of dollars and much of trouble.
The Railroad man needs it and will need it as long as life is a course of accidents and dangers.
The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers in life, limb and comfort which surround the pioneer.
The Merchant needs it right here, in store among his employes. Accidents will happen, and when those come the liniment is wanted at once.
Keep a Bottle in the House. Tis the best of friends.
Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Intermittent use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages.
Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.
DR. HILL'S ENGLISH BUCHU is One of the Best
Kidney
INVESTIGATORS IN USE.
Will cure all Kidney and Urinary Troubles at home, Partially Unlike Other, Gives, Connections in Stone Bladder Gravel, Diseases of the Bladder, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Bladder, Brick Dust Deposit, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Bladder, Pain in the Back, Frequent Desire to Pass Water, Pain in the Bladder, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Dropsy, Gravel, Bloody Urine, Pain in the Loins, Inability to Retain the Water, Incontinence of Urine, Weak Back, Etc. Ask Your Druggist or Investigator that reduces the Urine to be natural, and cures Kidney Complaints of all kinds. Price $1.00 per bottle.
Prepared only by the Proprietor.
Regular size, $1.75 Three Bottles for $2.50.
Sold by all Druggists.
DR. JOHNSON & CO.,
Sole Agents. DETROIT, MICH.
STORY & CLARK ORGANS
FINE
SEND FOR ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE—FREE!
V. J. PERRY, Agent, Charlevoix
CHICAGO + Canada AND 6TH STS
COMPOUND OXYGEN
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
A WELL-TRIED TREATMENT
A 200 PAGE BOOK FREE TO YOU.
FOR CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, DYSPEPSIA, CATARRH, HAY FEVER, HEADACHE, DEBILITY, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, and Chronic and Nervous Disorders.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, through the Lungs, Spinal Nerves, and the Nerves Generally, will cure the Disease, and restore the Patient to Health.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, through the Lungs, Spinal Nerves, and the Nerves Generally, will cure the Disease, and restore the Patient to Health.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN" being taken into the system, through the Lungs, Spinal Nerves, and the Nerves Generally, will cure the Disease, and restore the Patient to Health.
"COMPOUND OXYGEN—ITS MODE OF ACTION AND RESULTS" is the title of a book of two hundred pages, just published by Drs. Starkey and Palen, which gives to all inquirers the history, nature, and results of the treatment by Compound Oxygen, as employed during the last ten years by the physicians who have introduced it into general practice. Copies either being distributed to die by some physician. It will be mailed free to any address on application.
Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1527-1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

$1.50 PER YEAR.

NUMBER 207. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1887.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG,
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

BUSINESS CARDS.

ATTORNEYS.

A. C. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Michigan. Collections promptly attended to.

CHRICKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Admiralty. Office in Pinney's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. D. CRUICKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

DUET & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Land Agents. Office in Pinney's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate Agent. Collections promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

J. C. PHALEN, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Michigan.

W. L. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Michigan. Admiralty a Specialty.

L. S. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRIST CHURCH MISSION.—Episcopal services every Sunday morning at 3.30 p. m., every Sunday, at residence of Mrs. Pinney. Sunday school at 4 p. m. Rev. W. F. Brown, warden.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Prayer meeting at 4 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. P. W. Crane & Co.'s store. Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Dr. Pinney, President.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. A. T. WADSWORTH, Pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Class meeting at 9.30 a. m. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. W. H. McARTHY, Pastor.

DENTISTRY

N. J. PERRY, DENTIST. Office at Wood's Drug Store, CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Jewett block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARRIS, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. Hasler Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. U. T.—Charlevoix Tent No. 87, meets every Monday evening at Jefferies' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge, No. 279, meets every Wednesday evening in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent No. 138, meets every Thursday every month at Odd Fellows' hall.

MARONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 187, meets Saturday on or before full moon, in Barnard's school house.

L. O. T. M.—Charlevoix Tent No. 202, meets every Friday evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

BANKS.

Brown & Co's Bank of Charlevoix
CAPITAL $50,000
Drafts drawn direct upon principal cities of the world. Collections made at reasonable rates. Interest allowed on time and sight deposits. Tickets to and from all points in Europe for sale. Agents for the Cunard, Anchor, Allan, Inman, and White Star Lines of Steamships. Office in Masonic Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

Charlevoix National Bank,
New York, Chicago, and Detroit Correspondents, National Bank of the Republic, National Park Bank, National Bank of Commerce, National Bank of Manufacturers, National Bank of Commerce, National Bank, Grand Rapids.

CHARLEVOIX
Savings Bank
Organized under the General Banking Law of the State of Michigan.
Henry Bennett, President.
John Nicholls, Vice President.
A. S. Smith, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
Henry Bennett, D. D. Wood, John Nicholls, A. Butters, A

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

THE WORLD IN A WORD.

The Latest Intelligence, Domestic and Foreign, Transmitted Over the Electric Wires.

Political, Railroad, and Commercial News, Accidents, Fires, Crimes, Etc., Etc.

THE VERY LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

ENORMOUS CROWD IN LONDON.

The Queen Cheered on Her Arrival—Minister Phelps Honored.

THE Queen's jubilee was celebrated on Monday, June 20, in India, New Zealand, and South Africa. On Monday London was crowded with people from all parts of the world, attracted by the jubilee celebration. In the forenoon her Majesty arrived at the metropolis, and was driven at once to Buckingham palace. She was enthusiastically cheered by great multitudes along the line from the railway station to the palace. Mr. Phelps, the American Minister, had a private audience, when he formally presented President Cleveland's jubilee congratulations, which were warmly acknowledged by the Queen. An illuminated address from British subjects resident in Boston was presented to her Majesty in the afternoon. Three hundred prominent Canadians, including a number of peers, returned their thanks of admission to the service at Westminster Abbey. In the city of Cork, Ireland, Monday night, a few buildings and grounds were decorated and illuminated in honor of the jubilee, and many others who would have made similar other displays were deterred through fear of an attack. Their fears were well founded, for an immense mob marched to the illuminated houses and proceeded to smash the windows, meanwhile cheering for Parnell, and crying: "To — with the Queen!" The police charged upon the mob, but were met by volleys of stones, and with great difficulty cleared the streets.

CONDEMNED TO DEATH.

Missouri's Supreme Court Decrees that Brooks, the Murdered Preller, Shall Be Executed.

A SPECIAL telegram from Jefferson City, Mo., says the State Supreme Court has given a decision in the Hugh M. Brooks, alias H. Lemon Maxwell, murder case, in which the finding of the trial court was affirmed. This is the celebrated case in which Brooks, under the name of Maxwell, was tried for the murder of Charles Arthur Preller at the Southern Hotel in St. Louis in April, 1885, and which was taken up to the Supreme Court on exceptions Brooks' counsel will now, it is said, move for a rehearing of the case, and if this fails an attempt will be made to get it before the United States Supreme Court on constitutional points. The date of the execution was fixed for July 12. Hugh M. Brooks, alias Dr. Walter Lemon Maxwell, made the acquaintance of C. Arthur Preller, a young English commercial traveler, on an ocean steamer. He decoyed Preller to St. Louis, where, April 5, 1885, he chloroformed him to death at the Southern Hotel. He robbed the remains of $1,000, and packed the body in a trunk. The murder was not discovered for eight days, and meanwhile Maxwell was on the Pacific, bound for Auckland, New Zealand. He was arrested on his arrival and returned to St. Louis.

GARFIELD'S ASSASSIN.

A Probability That Guiteau's Stuffed Head Will Be Exhibited for an Admission Fee.

A WASHINGTON special to the Chicago Times says: "The story that a man in New York has got the head of Guiteau and is going to exhibit it is true enough. The Army Medical Museum authorities were for some time very reticent about what disposition was made of the body, but they are a little more communicative now. After Guiteau was executed the body was taken to the museum, where Professor Schaffirth was at that time demonstrator. He prepared the skeleton, and the whole thing, shell and all, is now in the museum articulated, but not on exhibition. It is intended to put on exhibition some time. Schaffirth took off the entire skin of the head, stitched up the cuts made in taking it off, and filled the thing with plaster, bringing out the contour of the face. This he kept in his own possession and she will it probably to some of his friends. He has since then left the museum and gone to New York, and it is quite possible he took the head with him and has since sold it to a showman."

Grain in Sight.

LAST week's changes in the visible supply of grain in this country, says a Chicago dispatch, show a decrease in wheat of 504,000 bushels, in corn of 745,333 bushels, and in oats of 175,666 bushels. The present stock of wheat aggregates 41,317,000 bushels, of corn 11,770,630 bushels, and of oats 3,012,547 bushels.

Postmasters Appointed.

The President has appointed the following-named postmasters: Edward A. Preuss, at Los Angeles, vice J. W. Green, removed; Willis U. Masters, at Pasadena, Cal., vice J. H. Crane, deceased; John H. Rahtmann, at Fort Dodge, Iowa, vice A. H. Vierson, removed; James M. Nickell, at Hannibal, Mo., vice W. L. Chambliss, removed.

IT WILL COST $10,000,000.

ARRANGEMENTS have been perfected for a subscription table to be laid from Vancouver to Australia by way of the Sandwich and Fiji Islands. The line will cost $10,000,000, and an annual subsidy of $400,000 has been secured from the Canadian, Hawaiian, and Australian governments.

Investigating the Pacific Roads.

THE Government Commission to investigate the Pacific railroads, consisting of ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison, the Hon. David T. Littler, and the Hon. E. Ellery Anderson, reached Omaha, Neb., Monday, where they began an investigation of the offices of the Union Pacific Road. Benjamin McAdoo, Land Commissioner of the road, said the company left its possessions unplatented in order to avoid local taxation. The counsel for the road, however, showed that Mr. McAdoo might be in error about that.

WEEKLY BUDGET.

THE EASTERN STATES.

TWO MEN were killed and two shockingly mutilated in the Mill Creek mine of the Delaware and Hudson Company at Wilkesbarre, Pa. In the same mine a man was killed Monday, and the regular hands would not go to work in the early shift, as the accident had occurred on the 13th of the month.

HENRY V. LESLEY, the defaulting Secretary of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal Company, has been arrested in Philadelphia. He absconded a year ago, and his peculations aggregated about $650,000.

F. TITUS, Eastern Passenger Agent of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, committed suicide by drowning at Niagara Falls.

FIVE men were frightfully injured by an explosion of gas in the Twin Mine at Pittston Junction, Pa. At least two will die.

THE WESTERN STATES.

CHICAGO had four big fires on Friday and twenty minor alarms. Two were in the bonded yards, one in a foundry, and the fourth large one in the air. The blaze in the atmosphere was probably did more damage than the other three, and it gave the firemen nearly as much trouble. Simply standing in the sun was enough to make a man's face look like a piece of boiled ham, but with a mixture of sweat and dirt on his features he wore the air of a ruined pie. The hottest day of the year was the hottest in this year's calendar of the Fire Department. Alarms were sent in from twenty-four boxes, and included three second alarms, three third alarms, and a special call for ten engines. Thirty-three engines and the two fire-boats were called out, nearly the entire force of the department.

THE steamer Champlain, bound for Cheboygan from Chicago, was burned on Friday morning between Norwood and Charlevoix, at the mouth of Grand Traverse Bay. The flames suddenly shot up from beneath the engine, driving the engineer from his post with his clothes on fire. He plunged into a tub and then returned to the engine-room, but was too late to stop his engine or disconnect his hose. The sleeping passengers were aroused, and when life-preservers had been fastened on all of them they gathered on the forward deck. Two lifeboats and the life rafts were lowered, but the steamer was moving so fast that they got away, and in ten minutes from the time the boat caught fire its passengers were all compelled to jump into the lake. There were fifty-seven persons on board, including the crew. The loss are as follows: Ella Cooper Smith, of Charlevoix; Robert Wilson, of Charlevoix; George Wrisley, of Charlevoix; Mrs. M. Kehoe, of Chicago; R. M. McKeel, Captain Lucas, of Petoskey; Henry Bressman, the clerk, of Chicago; C. H. Russell, of the Jackson Corset Company. Besides the above two children of Sheafe, and Brown, of Chicago, aged 3 and 5; the fireman, second cook and cabin boy, all of Chicago; a man and a boy from Milwaukee, bound for Mackinac; one waiter and four Indian deck hands, and a woman and daughter from Frankfort, whose names are unknown, are among the lost. Those saved floated an hour and a half, when they were rescued by a yawl and fish-boats from the shore. The following are among the saved: Capt. Casey, first Mate Harry Hurley of Pulaski, N. Y., Second Mate Joseph Thorpe, Wheelsman S. Hurley and James Bary, Watchman James Markey, Engineer John McAffrey of Manistee, badly burned; Engineer Warne, P. Lamson, first cook; Roy Hadduck, a waiter; Max Kehoe of Chicago, Mrs. Ingalls of Petoskey, Mrs. H. Bedford of Charlevoix, George Miller of Charlevoix, Mary Wakefield of Charlevoix, William Stevens of Charlevoix, Henry Wilks of Charlevoix, Fred Wisley of Charlevoix; W. B. Albright of Chicago, Steward Martin Bean and wife, Mrs. Kane, the stewardess, Antonia Shaw of Charlevoix and one wheelsock hand; R. Whitemore, of Milwaukee; Miss Wilson, of Petoskey; E. Fall, of Bear Lake. Seven others are not accounted for. The hull was towed into Charlevoix on Friday. It was supposed that the fire was set by the explosion of a lamp in the oil-room. The bodies of Mrs. Smith, Capt. Lucas, Mrs. Bressman, and three others have been recovered, and taps are searching for more. The shoe and foot of a victim have been recovered from the hull.

MAYNES, the murderer of Preller, will hang, as the Supreme Court of St. Louis has affirmed the finding of the lower court.

A OPINION delivered in Washington is reported from all sections of Illinois. Oats, wheat, and meadows are suffering from a total failure, especially in the northern part of the State. Wheat harvesting is well advanced in Southern Illinois and oat harvesting has begun in the lower tier.

A CHICAGO dispatch of Monday says: William J. McGarigle, ex-Chief of Police and present Warden of the County Hospital, and Edward McDonald, engineer at the County Hospital, went Sunday behind the bars of the county jail as the result of the long "doodle" trial, in which the jury found both of them guilty and sentenced each to three years' imprisonment at Joliet. The trial lasted seven weeks. When court and Saturday Judge Shepard delivered the court's charge to the jury and the twelve men retired to the grand jury room to agree upon a verdict. The jurors were a unit in their belief of the guilt of the two Macs, but were about equally divided as to making the term of punishment one, two, or three years. The maximum penalty of the law is three years' imprisonment at $1,000 fine, but money punishment never entered into the deliberations of the jury, and a verdict was framed and returned giving both the extreme penalty of the law. Judge Shepard was called upon to the courtroom at 2 o'clock by the jury's bailiff, and a few moments later the jurors slinked solemnly in. Foreman Fitzpatrick handed the clerk a folded slip of paper, which, on instructions from the Court, was opened and read, as follows: "We, the jury, find the defendants guilty of conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses, in the manner and form as charged in the indictment, and fix the penalty at three years in the penitentiary." McGarigle received ghastly white, and great drops of cold sweat stood out on his face as he heavily stared at the carpet, seemingly stunned by the shock. Ed McDonald affected to be much read a paper, but the deep red of his flushed face and the nervous twitching of his hands betrayed the nervousness he tried so hard to hide. Mike McDonald was whiter than even McGarigle and too much astonished to say a word. The jury was polled, each man affirming his verdict, and then they were dismissed by the Judge, with a few words of thanks for their patience. Counsel for the defense entered the usual motion for a new trial. There is universal rejoicing in Chicago at the outcome of the trial. At the baseball grounds, where the Detroit and Chicago clubs were contesting a game in the presence of 10,000 people, the news of the conviction of the boodlers was posted on the bulletin board, and was received with shouts of approval that were heard far off.

THE loss of life by the burning of the propeller Champlain, near Charlevoix, Michigan, proves to be larger than at first reported. Of the crew and passengers, numbering fifty-seven, only twenty-seven are known to have been saved. It is believed that an accurate list of the lost will never be secured.

THE SOUTHERN STATES.

THE through train for New Orleans on the Southern Pacific was stopped by a dozen trainrobbers about 100 miles from Houston, Tex., and the passengers robbed of everything of value. The express car was also rifled. The robbers obtained between $13,000 and $20,000.

A STAGE coach which runs between Ballwin and Barrett's, twelve miles from the center of St. Louis, Mo., was held up by three road agents. The fifteen passengers were compelled to hold up their valuables. The amount obtained was less than $500.

A CRASH on the S. C. special says: "There was a decided shock of earthquake at Summerville Sunday morning. It shook the houses, set crockery and cook light objects to dancing in the usual way, and was a forcible reminder of past tremors, without causing damage or very much alarm. A noticeable feature was the loud roaring which preceded and accompanied it. The tremor was alarming enough in itself. This rumbling was heard in a loss degree in Charleston, where no tremor was perceived.

THE INTERSTATE COMMISSION.

THE Interstate Commerce Commission on Thursday heard testimony upon the complaint of the Chicago & Alton Railroad against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for alleged violation of the interstate law. Ward C. Ross, a brother of the late Edmund G. Ross, of Kansas, who was tried before the Senate for alleged violation of the interstate law, presented complaints against the Eastern trunk lines. The unanimous decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the question of continuing the order suspending the operation of the long and short haul clause of the law over the different roads throughout the country that had applied and obtained temporary relief was made public on Thursday. The order for temporary relief made in favor of the Louisville and Nashville road will be allowed to remain in force until the day originally limited for the expiration of the other applications for relief, coming from the transcontinental lines, from the Southern and Southwestern, Northern, Eastern and Western lines, forty-five in all, it is decided that the temporary orders which have been made in some of these petitions will, in like manner, be permitted to remain in force until the expiration of the time originally limited in each. No further order the Commission says, will be made upon any of the petitions, for although some two or three of the cases may not, by the facts recited in the applications for relief, be brought strictly within the provisions of the law in the decision, yet they all present what are claimed to be different circumstances and conditions, adequate to authorize exceptions to the general rules; and if the petitioners are mistaken in that, yet it is not for them to say they should act under the statute accordingly. The Commission does not consider it expedient to discuss at the present time, in the short space to a discussion of the proper construction of the long and short clause of the act, and the question of the continuance of the order for temporary relief made in relief to petitioners by suspending this provision of the law, and sum up its conclusion in the following language:

The charging or receiving the greater compensation for a shorter than for a longer haul, in violation of the fourth section of the act, under substantially similar circumstances and conditions, with respect to the same class of carriers, without first obtaining an order of relief, shall subject the parties to the indicting so will not alone convict it of the charge of a violation of the fourth section of the two hauls are classified in the circumstances and conditions, adequate to authorize exceptions to the general rules; and if the petitioners are mistaken in that, yet it is not for them to say they should act under the statute accordingly. The Commission does not consider it expedient to discuss at the present time, in the short space to a discussion of the proper construction of the long and short clause of the act, and the question of the continuance of the order for temporary relief made in relief to petitioners by suspending this provision of the law, and sum up its conclusion in the following language:

The charging or receiving the greater compensation for a shorter than for a longer haul, in violation of the fourth section of the act, under substantially similar circumstances and conditions, with respect to the same class of carriers, without first obtaining an order of relief, shall subject the parties to the indicting so will not alone convict it of the charge of a violation of the fourth section of the two hauls are classified in the circumstances and conditions, adequate to authorize exceptions to the general rules; and if the petitioners are mistaken in that, yet it is not for them to say they should act under the statute accordingly. The Commission does not consider it expedient to discuss at the present time, in the short space to a discussion of the proper construction of the long and short clause of the act, and the question of the continuance of the order for temporary relief made in relief to petitioners by suspending this provision of the law, and sum up its conclusion in the following language:

THE FOREIGN BUDGET.

AT Paris, United States Minister McLane has demanded of M. Flourens, Minister of Foreign Affairs, the release of Baron Bay-Lallemand, who was recently sentenced to confinement in an asylum for the insane. Mr. McLane based his demand upon the ground that Lallemand, who was adjudged insane in 1886 and formally declared at New York his intention of becoming a naturalized citizen of the United States, is entitled to the protection of the United States. Lallemand is a French citizen, and has been in the asylum since 1886 by reason of his insanity, which, however, is not of a violent character. Mr. McLane, in his demand, has intimated that Lallemand's detention in the asylum is a violation of the treaty between France and the United States, and he has demanded his release. The French Government has not yet replied to the demand, but it is understood that it will be granted.

THE unanimous decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the question of continuing the order suspending the operation of the long and short haul clause of the law over the different roads throughout the country that had applied and obtained temporary relief was made public on Thursday. The order for temporary relief made in favor of the Louisville and Nashville road will be allowed to remain in force until the day originally limited for the expiration of the other applications for relief, coming from the transcontinental lines, from the Southern and Southwestern, Northern, Eastern and Western lines, forty-five in all, it is decided that the temporary orders which have been made in some of these petitions will, in like manner, be permitted to remain in force until the expiration of the time originally limited in each. No further order the Commission says, will be made upon any of the petitions, for although some two or three of the cases may not, by the facts recited in the applications for relief, be brought strictly within the provisions of the law in the decision, yet they all present what are claimed to be different circumstances and conditions, adequate to authorize exceptions to the general rules; and if the petitioners are mistaken in that, yet it is not for them to say they should act under the statute accordingly.

A DUBLIN telegram says: Crown Solicitor Murphy has intimated to the tenants of Bishop Ashe that they will renew their offer to pay Landlord Gallagher the $4,500 he refuses, and he again refuses, the Government will abandon the prosecution against them and decline to give Gallagher further police assistance.

A VIENNA dispatch says that a boat containing 200 Hungarian refugees was capsized while crossing the Danube, near Paks, and nearly all of its occupants were drowned. More than one hundred bodies have been recovered.

THE CONTINENT AT LARGE.

THE Washington Manufacturing Company, of Philadelphia, cotton and woolen goods, suspended payment Thursday. The liabilities are about $200,000, the company owns the mill and machinery at cost, about $1,000,000. The mill is now boiled, and the stockholders are the embarrassed in the main resulted from a loss of confidence consequent upon recent failures and an inability to have notes discounted. An assignment was made Thursday by the Tremont Income and Security Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, who, an hour previously, gave a chattel mortgage to secure certain stockholders. The liabilities are $230,000, and the assets $500,000.

THE MARKETS.

	NEW YORK.
CATTLE—	$4.00 @ $5.60
HOGS—	4.35 @ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 1 White—	.92 @ .93
No. 2 Red—	.96 @ .97
CORN—No. 2—	.46 @ .47
OATS—No. 2—	.29 @ .30
PORK—New Mess—	15.75 @ 16.00
	CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	4.75 @ 5.00
Medium—	4.00 @ 4.50
Stockers—	2.50 @ 3.00
HOGS—Shipping—	4.75 @ 5.00
FLOUR—Spring Wheat—	4.25 @ 4.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring—	.79 @ .79½
No. 2 Red—	.81 @ .82
CORN—No. 2—	.37 @ .37½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery—	.17 @ .18
EGGS—Fresh—	.11 @ .12
POTATOES—Per bushel—	.60 @ .65
LARD—Full Cream, new—	6.00 @ 6.05
POTATOES—Choice, new, per bbl	4.25 @ 4.50
PORK—	14.75 @ 15.00
	MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash—	.77 @ .77½
CORN—No. 3—	.36 @ .36½
OATS—No. 2 White—	.30 @ .30½
RYE—No. 1—	.56 @ .57
PORK—Mess—	15.75 @ 16.00
	ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE—	3.75 @ 5.25
HOGS—Mixed—	4.75 @ 5.00
FLOUR—Winter Wheat—	4.00 @ 4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red—	.79 @ .79½
CORN—No. 2—	.37 @ .37½
OATS—No. 2—	.24 @ .24½
PORK—New Mess—	16.00 @ 16.25
	TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2—	.80 @ .80½
CORN—No. 2—	.38 @ .38½
OATS—	.29 @ .29½
	DETROIT.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red—	.80 @ .80½
CORN—	.38 @ .40
OATS—	.30 @ .31
	CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red—	.83 @ .83½
CORN—No. 2—	.40 @ .40½
OATS—No. 2—	.30 @ .30½
PORK—Mess—	16.75 @ 16.25
LARD—	6.00 @ 6.05
	BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 White—	.85 @ .86
CORN—No. 2 Yellow—	.41 @ .42
CATTLE—	4.50 @ 5.00
	INDIANAPOLIS.
CORN—No. 2—	.38 @ .38½
OATS—	.30 @ .31
WHEAT—No. 2 Red—	.77 @ .77½
CATTLE—	3.50 @ 4.50
OATS—No. 2 White—	.31 @ .32
	EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Prime—	4.75 @ 5.25
Good—	4.50 @ 4.60
Medium—	4.00 @ 4.25
HOGS—	5.00 @ 5.25
SHEEP—	4.50 @ 5.00

[Special correspondence.]

THE SOUTH AFRICAN COLONIES.

W. H. S. A.

As great interest has been awakened in South Africa (do most people a serve incognita) by Mr. Haggard's book, I will give a few notes as I jotted them down in my note-book in 1886, during a short stay in the country. I once heard a citizen of Cape Colony compare South Africa to Cinderella—the Cinderella of the British colonial family. He claimed that she is generally ignored, unappreciated or neglected by her big relatives. But, as Cinderella in due time eclipsed her sisters by the brilliancy of her fortune and finally charmed and married the prince, so this gentleman prophesied that it is reserved for South Africa to become the most splendid of all colonies. He continued his comparison by saying that those who heard such words would doubtless laugh in their sleeves, just as Cinderella's sisters laughed at the very notion of her ever fitting the glass slipper, but, said he, "however obscure colonial South Africa may be at the moment, it is destined to grow until it becomes the dominant power in all Africa, facing Europe over the Mediterranean and Asia over the Red Sea. When that day comes, several princes will be glad to marry her who is now but a little kitchen maid among the cinders."

Certainly South Africa seems to be full of promise, even now, these many years after the prophecy of her hopeful son.

Colonial Africa now comprises a total of 500,000 square miles, although it is to small a portion of the great "dark continent." It is about one-third the size of the German Empire, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Great Britain, if all were taken together. It is nearly five times the size of the Dominion of Canada, and can show almost as many acres as all the States east of the Rocky Mountains, counting as much as 912b. The roads, railways, or rather, the lines on which roads the rivers and mountains are spanned by iron bridges.

Already, however, nearly a thousand miles of railroad are in operation, and Cape Town planned to have 1,000 and thirty-five million dollars for more railroads.

The telegraph system of South Africa, though not perfect, is of wide extent and reaches to most of the principal towns. It is twice as long as that of Ireland, for instance, and the transmission of one thousand miles, partly by wire, partly by wagon, I had plenty of opportunity to "size up" the country. The appearance of South Africa, of course, varies very greatly. It has its coast and marine views and its inland expanses. Another time, perhaps, I may have occasion to describe the outcrops and deeper cuts which have been made in the rocks, the road beds, the bridges, the cuts, the great viaducts, which are so much less than the million dollars, which, in the aggregate, have been spent in the colony. Yet, I may say, I saw no wooden bridges, no trestles, no culverts, no tunnels, no cuts, no embankments, no bridges, no viaducts, no railroad beds, no rails, no ties, no locomotives, no cars, no stations, no railroad men, no passengers, no freight, no tickets, no railroad offices, no railroad officials, no railroad anything, except the rivers and mountains, which I have spanned with iron bridges, and the road beds, which I have seen, and the road beds, which I have seen, and the road beds, which I have seen

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER, EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

If you want to protect the American laborer put a tariff on foreign pauper labor as well as on foreign pauper manufactured goods.—Chicago Mail.

A MONOPOLY organ contends that protection is not one-sided. But, no matter how many sided it is, the monopolist gets all and the laborer none of it.—Chicago Times.

Additional Local.

Death of Henry Bennett.

Henry Bennett last Monday evening about seven o'clock, while reading in his sitting room expired. During the day he had spent the most of the business hours at the bank, and at the close of business, returned to his home in apparent good health. After supper, and after doing some work about the premises he sat down with a paper in his hands and, without any warning, died. Some members of the family passing through the room, noticed an unusual appearance in his countenance, and speaking to him, received no answer. Medical aid was at once summoned, but the spirit had taken its flight in perfect peace.

Mr. Bennett was seventy-four years old the 12th of the present month. He was born at Griswold, Conn., where he resided until the year 1838 when he removed to Hartford, Ohio, where for a number of years he engaged in farming. Later he engaged in banking and coal mining, in which employments, proved very successful. In 1883 he removed to Charlevoix, and entered at once into the business affairs of the village. He was one of the original projectors of the Charlevoix Savings Bank, becoming one of the heaviest stockholders, and was elected president of the of the concern when incorporated, which position he continued to hold at the time of his decease. He was a member of a family of fourteen children, and only four survive him. He leaves a wife and four children, Dwight R., of Dighton, Kansas, Mrs. O. D. Wood, Mrs F. A. Smith, and Miss Hettie, of Charlevoix. The funeral will be held at the family residence to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. C. F. VanAnken.

Eveline.

Eveline is booming.

Miss Mary Friel is able to be out among her young friends again.

We were at Dwight's last Thursday, and noticed that both mills were busy. The big mill is sawing lumber; and the little mill kept busy sawing shingles.

J. V. Lane has as nice a field of winter wheat as we have seen this spring.

Mrs. Viall, of Boyne City, and daughter were visiting in town this week.

At the ice cream and strawberry social last week the young ladies took in $18.35 which will be used in paying for the Sunday school organ.

Ironton has another shoe maker. He came to Chris. Christian on Sunday morning.

Mrs. G. H. Williams, of Toronto, Ont., is visiting her sister Mrs. N. L. Cash for a while. Miss Annie Lake sent Mrs. Cash a very beautiful painting of her own work by Mrs. Williams. Miss Annie is indeed an artist.

June 21.

Mrs. Hamman and children are visiting in town.

J. Gaunt lost a valuable horse the first of last week.

There was an ice cream and strawberry social at the Ironton Congregational church last Friday. A good time is reported, and a little over $40 was the receipt of the evening, which is to be used to buy seats for the Sunday school infant class.

Last Friday Miss May Papineau closed a very successful term of nine months school in the Hillegas district with an exhibition in the evening, which was very interesting, and shows the great interest which Miss Papineau has taken in her school.

Next Friday afternoon there will be a picnic at Ironton in the grove back of the school house.

June 28.

Church Dedication at East Jordan.

Last Sunday witnessed the dedication of the new M. E. church at East Jordan. This beautiful edifice is 34x52 with a lecture room on south side 14x28. The dedication services began promptly at 10:30; Rev. A. L. Thuston, of Boyne City, led in prayer, Rev. J. Burdge read the scripture, and Rev. W. H. McCartney preached the sermon. The presiding elder announced the fact that the church had cost $2280, of which sum $800 remained unprovided for. An appeal was made, and nearly $900 was raised in about 25 minutes, when the church was dedicated free of debt. Communion was then administered, and 81 persons participated in the solemn service.

Burgess.

Mrs. Alex. Ross returned Monday on the Lawrence from Chicago where she has been visiting for some time.

S. W. Soller's nail is nearing completion and a grand ball will be given on the night of the 4th of July.

Mrs. Duke, of Milwaukee, and her sister Miss Ross, lately from Scotland, have been visiting with their brother Alex Ross, of Hayes, the past week.

Mr. Peter Long, and Samuel Long and wife were visiting Mrs. Peter Kane over Sunday.

There will be a box social given at the Hop Yard school house on Friday evening, July 1st; the proceeds to go toward furnishing lamps for the house.

A Charming Couple.

A very quiet wedding ceonrred yesterday at Dr. Sanderson's residence, the participants being Miss Lou. Marshall, sister of Mrs. Sanderson, and Mr. Ben. Weaver, our efficient deputy register. The Rev. John Redpath performed the ceremony, only the relatives being present, and the happy couple took the afternoon train for Charlevoix, where they will reside. The Citizen voices the congratulations of their many friends in sincerely wishing them long continued happiness and prosperity.—Citizen.

South Hayes.

Quite warm.

Mrs. W. E. Bedwin and Nellie Mecham are on the sick list this week.

Haying is fairly commenced by all.

Cherries are ripening very fast and the trees are heavily loaded.

Rev. B. H. Whitman and family are visiting in Hayes this week.

W. E. Bedwin spent last Sunday in Norwood.

Miss Nellie Burcett closes her school at the hop yard school house next Friday.

Mr. Snyder and family have moved into Mr. H. Hopkin's house.

June 28.

M. E. Church.

Next Tuesday evening we will consider the sin of saying and doing nothing.

Thursday evening we meet to pray.

Teachers meet at the parsonage on Friday evening.

Sunday morning the pastor will be at his post at the usual hour.

Sunday school at 12 o'clock.

W. H. McCartney.

A Long Dream in Short Space.

I was sitting with a police official at his office, and we were discussing some fantastic story, when an employe came in and sat down beside us, leaning with his elbows on the table. I looked up and said to him: "You know forgotten to make the soup." "No, no; come with me." We went out together, going across long corridors. I was walking behind him, at the college where I had been brought up. He went into a wing of the house which I knew well, and which led to the class-rooms. Under the stairs he showed me a stove on which stood an oyster shell with a little white paint in it (I had been mixing water colors the evening before.) "But you have forgotten the vegetables. Go to the porter at the end of the court-yard; you will find them there on a table. I waited for a long time; at last I saw him making signs to me that he had found nothing. "It is at the left-hand side;" I shouted, and saw him cross the yard, coming back with an immense cabbage. I took a knife from my pocket, which I always kept there, and at the moment when I was going to cut the vegetable I was awakened by the noise of a bowl of soup being put heavily on the marble top of the table next to my bed.

It appears to me that the idea of soup was suggested to me by the smell at the moment when the door was opened by the servant bringing in the soup while I was asleep, and it takes five seconds at the most to walk from the door to the bed.—Revue Scientifique.

In a Cocked Hat and a Night-Gown.

Gen R. S. Ripley, who commanded the Confederate batteries that first opened fire on Fort Sumter (and who died in New York March 29), said to some friends once: "I had ordergd," said Gen: Ripley, "some cocked hats for our uniforms, and the day before the attack I met a boy with a box in his hand running toward Fort Moultrie. 'Where?' I find Gen. Ripley? he asked me. 'And what do you want of him?' said I. 'Why,' said the breathless youngster, 'I heard they were to start firing on Fort Sumter, and I must get this hat to him before they start in.' He thought the attack could not be made unless I was in full regalia. As it happened, I was awakened an hour or two before the first shot was fired by a false alarm that the signal to begin hostilities had been given, and I rushed out in my night-clothes and caught up the cocked hat on the way. That was all my uniform—a cocked hat and a night-gown."—New York World.

MICHIGAN MENTION.

The new G. R. & I. R. R. depot at Petoskey, it is said will be the handsomest frame building in that place.

The Dexter & Noble blast furnace at Elk Rapids is the only one in the United States that hasn't been out of blast in 15 years.—Evening News.

One hundred Italians arrived by special train last Monday to work for Barnes & O'Reilly on the D., S. S., & A. railroad.—Lake Superior Sentinel.

Several farmers in Ashtemo are suffering great losses by the visitation of thousands of grasshoppers. About 100 acres of clover and eighty acres of beans owned by Henry Buckhout, and large fields of rye are completely ruined. The pests have been working but two days. Much greater losses are feared by neighboring farmers.—Free Press.

At a recent meeting of the Kalkaska Business Men's Association, it was moved and supported that the association give a banquet to the stockholders of the D. C. & E. R. R., and the Business Men's Associations of Charlevoix, Ironton, and Bellaire, together with their families, in honor of the completion of the survey of the D. C. & E. R. R. to Kalkaska. The motion prevailed, and a committee of three was appointed to arrange for the same. The affair will probably come off some time next week, though the precise date has not been fixed as yet.—Kalkaska Leader.

Complimentary to the Journal.

The account of the burning of the steamer Champlain on Friday morning, which will be found on our eighth page, is taken from a special issued with the current edition of the Charlevoix JOURNAL.—Boyne Falls Gazette.

The Charlevoix JOURNAL with commendable enterprise issued an "extra" last Friday, giving particulars of the burning of the propeller Champlain. The JOURNAL is always wide awake in such matters.—Free Press.

The Charlevoix JOURNAL last week exhibited considerable enterprise in getting out an extra, and the account of the disaster in this week's issue is fuller than any that has appeared.—Citizen.

The Charlevoix Journal, with a vim that indicates the stuff it is made of, came out with an extra on the burning of the steamer Champlain.—Evening News.

TAKE NOTICE.

My losses in the late Champlain disaster has made it necessary to collect at once every dollar due me. Those owing me will please call without delay and settle accounts.

GEO. W. MILLER.

J. L. Newberry, of Petoskey, is agent for and offers for sale, the lots on Schoffen's addition to Ironton, at low prices and easy terms, and perfect titles given. Will also sell, or exchange for property in Petoskey, his house and lot on Main street, Charlevoix.

House and Lot for Sale,—or will trade for horse and buggy, on terms to suit. Inquire of O. I. WHEAT, Charlevoix, Mich. tf

Buckien's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

Charlevoix will Celebrate.

The grand and glorious Fourth of July will be celebrated at Charlevoix as it never was before.

The thunders of artillery will be heard at sunrise.

The procession will form at 9.30, and will contain several new features never before presented.

The Boys' Band will lead the procession with some of their best music.

Competitive drill by G. A. R. posts at 10.30.

The Charlevoix Fire Department, attired in bright new uniforms, will appear as an important feature of the program.

At one o'clock the ancient and honorable Independent Order of Mosstacks will occupy the attention of everybody.

At 2 o'clock there will be an exciting game of base ball, by two crack clubs, partly made up of professionals from older clubs.

The balance of the afternoon will be filled with races and games of all kinds, giving the smart young men a chance to disport themselves.

The Fire Fly Fleet will leave the dock of Joseph Beauvais' boat house at 8.30 p. m., and form under Mr. Beauvais' direction. This will be a beautiful display, accompanied with a grand display of Fire Works, which will end what will probably be the grandest fourth of July celebration ever witnessed in northern Michigan.

The Mastodon Minstrels will provide music and dancing at the opera hall day and evening.

Everybody should come to Charlevoix to celebrate.

Disposed to be Neighborly.

He was a bright, talkative boy of 8 or 9, and he rang the door-bell of a house on Brush street the other day and asked to see the lady of the house. He was admitted, and when she came into the parlor he said:

"I belong to the family who just moved in next door."

"Yes."

"We want to be neighborly. Are you coming to call on us?"

"Why—why, child, I don't know."

"You'd better come. Then she can come over to see you. She's a great woman to talk, and will show you the place where she had a felon on her hand. You want to be neighborly, don't you?"

"I—I suppose so.

"Well, then, I'll borrow a hunk of butter, and you come over and borrow our clothes-bars, and we'll soon be acquainted. We ain't a bit stuck up, even if we have got a mantel in the parlor. Well, good by."—Detroit Free Press.

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not be there, that lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption, or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

The soothing and restorative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral are realized in all cases of colds, coughs, throat or lung troubles, while its powerful healing qualities are shown in the most serious pulmonary disorders.

CULL LUMBER

And Shingles,

For sale cheap, in quantities to suit, or will exchange for farm produce. Apply to

BURNS & SCROGGIE,

Livery Barn, Charlevoix.

RESOLVED That all sidewalks built in accordance with ordinance No. 4, of the village of Charlevoix, shall be built out of two inch planks instead of one foot in width, but on three stringers four inches square. Said planks to be laid not more than one sixteenth of an inch apart, and to be nailed with 20-penny nails, two at each end, and two in the middle. Said plank to be laid lengthwise of the sidewalk, and the street commissioner, or such other officer as the Street Commissioner, is hereby instructed to enforce the provisions of this resolution.

Attest: A true copy.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Village Clerk.

THE GRAND RAPIDS

DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at

50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week

Try it.

New Spring Goods.

A Large Stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods of the Latest Styles, just received. Call and See them.

EXCELSIOR MANF'G Co's

PANTS, OVERALLS AND SHIRTS

(TRADE MARK.)

FULL SIZE, WELL MADE AND PERFECT FIT

TRY THEM. for sale by G. W. MILLER.

J. S. & J. R. DIXON,

Milk, Butter, and Vegetables.

TERRACE FARM. - - - CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Try Emrey Bros, the cash dealers, for anything in the line of General Merchandise. They will save you money.

AYER'S PILLS.

Sugar-Coated Cathartic

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Inglestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia. —G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I can ascribe them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gaier, Dover ville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in the Bowels.

At the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body entirely healed, and, in less than one month, I was cured. —Samuel P. West, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain was gone, and health was restored. —Theodore Eiling, Richmond, Va.

Ayer's Pills,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

AN ORDINANCE to amend an ordinance entitled "An ordinance to prevent drunkenness," adopted July 21st, 1884, being Ordinance No. 4.

The Village of Charlevoix ordains that ordinance No. 4, entitled "An ordinance to prevent drunkenness," adopted July 21st, 1884, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION 1. That any person who shall be drunk or intoxicated in any hotel, tavern, saloon, or place of public business, or in any occupied place of public resort, or who shall be found for any purpose, or in any manner, in any place of public resort, within the corporate limits of the village of Charlevoix, by drinking intoxicating liquors, shall on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not exceeding ten dollars and the costs of prosecution, and in default in payment of such fine and costs, shall be imprisoned in the county jail or village lock-up, not exceeding thirty days, or both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the justice.

E. G. JARMAN, Ironton, Mich.

Attest: HORACE S. HARSHA, Clerk.

FARM FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land situated on Pine Lake 1½ miles east of Ironton village, in the town of Charlevoix, county, four acres cleared, one log house, living water on both sides. Will take part down; balance on time to suit the purchaser. For further enthusiasm, enquire of E. G. JARMAN, Ironton, Mich.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 30, 1887.

Look at the date on the yellow address label on this paper, and see if you owe the printer. If you do, come and see us. If the slip does not show a credit the week following payment, please notify us at once, that the omission may be corrected.

☞ Tired of the Burning Champlain 25 cts. each by mail. D. S. WAY, Charlevoix.

Fresh Butter, fresh bread, pies and cake constantly on hand at Jefferies' Bakery. G. W. JEFFERIES.

Second Hand Furniture for sale cheap. Inquire of C. Boild.

☞ Upright Brothers will pay the highest market price for wool.

Four Tin-types for fifty cents, at the gallery. D. S. WAY.

Local Notes and News.

Miss Esther Buttars arrived yesterday morning from Port Austin.

John McCabe is building a new meat market on Antrim street.

The Lawrence unloaded an enormous load of freight on Monday.

Charles Peasley is building a house on the Upright & Hurlbut addition.

D. R. Benett is expected to arrive from Dighton, Kansas, Friday morning.

Would not "The Charlevoix county Pioneer Society" be an interesting association?

Dr. M. L. Leach, of Traverse City, was in town yesterday and made us a pleasant call.

The dredge arrived last Thursday evening and is now at work on the channel below the bridge.

P. L. Lansway, of South Arm, has gone on the road for the Benton Harbor Pickle & Vineger Co.

Rev. C. F. VanAnken left Monday morning for Alba for a few days missionary work at that place this week.

Mrs. Delia Porter just closed a successful term of school in the W. J. McGeagh district with a very enjoyable picnic.

The governor has appointed Will N. Moore, of East Jordan, circuit court commissioner to succeed F. E. Fogg, resigned.

Dr. G. W. Crouter has a new advertisement this week, in which he calls attention to a number of good things in his line.

William Wilson, of Chicago, and Miss Kate Whitley, of Charlevoix, were married last evening by the Rev. C. F. VanAnken.

Miss J. DeWar has taken rooms at Miss L. Spaulding's, and is prepared to do dressmaking in first-class style. Tailor system. tf

Frank E. Fogg left this week for his new home in the upper peninsula. Mr. Fogg is a young man of more than ordinary ability, and we wish him success.

A bowery picnic in G. W. Miller's yard, Tuesday afternoon was a happy occasion for many children, it being the birthday of both of Mr. Miller's little girls.

Mr. Pat O'Neill, of Charlevoix, spent a couple of days in the village this week. He had been to Washington Harbor to visit old school-mates. —Manistique Sun.

We have a few copies left of the last week's JOURNAL, containing the account of the Champlain disaster. Those desiring a copy must call soon as the form is distributed, and no more will be printed.

The Congregational Society are desirous of retaining Rev. Mr. Kanagy as pastor for the ensuing six moth but he tells us he is doubtful about remaining. He thinks the work is rather hard for a man of his advanced age.—Otsego County Herald.

F. D. Waldron of the Grand Rapids Daily Democrat, was in town yesterday and appointed John L. Weed agent for that paper. The Daily Democrat is one of Michigan's best dailies, and should have a large circulation in Charlevoix.

The party of surveyors returned yesterday, having completed the survey to Kalkaska, and they tell us that a more direct and practical route could not be asked for. Mr Beardsley, the surveyor, says that the road can be built for at least $25,000 less cost than the same number of miles of the G. R. & I. road was built.

Advertisers so fortunate as to have a space in the last issue of the JOURNAL will get the benefit of our large extra edition. Seven hundred copies were printed besides our regular edition, over five hundred of which were disposed of before Saturday night. The most of these were sent by mail to people in almost every part of the United States and Canada.

Lewis Miller, our townsman, and Miss Thirza Whitcomb were married the 22d at Cadillac, and came direct to Charlevoix. Mrs. Miller is a sister of Mrs. Amos Fox and Mrs. G. W. Miller, of Charlevoix.

People who own cows that have to run in the street nights are perhaps entitled to some consideration, but when a dogs make it impossible for other people to keep a garden and flower beds or shrubbery in any kind of decent condition.

D. S. Way has been turning out some excellent view work the past few days, especially of the Champlain wreck, from various positions; in color and finish equal to some of the best by city artists. His instants means work will bear close inspection.

Mason & Bushnell publishers of the Delta are pushers. They have recently moved the Delta from Escanaba to Gladstone where their hopes seem to be centered, and if it is possible for a wide-awake newspaper to assist in building up a town, then Gladstone is having a benefit.

The American Magazine for July contains an article entitled "Metlakahla," by Z. L. Tabe, which answers the question "Can the red man be civilized" decidly in the affimative. A tribe of brutal savages, about five hundred miles north of Vancouver's Island—the very worst tribe of Indians on the Pacific coast—has been transformed into an orderly industrious and thrifty community through the efforts of William Duncan, and now the village contains about 1,300 persons and all natives.

From a communication received by Capt. Snyder from the Michigan Central Railroad Company we quote the following freight rates from Detroit to Harbor Springs or Petoskey. 1st class 50 cts., 2d class 40, 3d class 30, 4th class 21, 5th class 19, 6th class 16; governed by the official classification. And the communication states that with their present system of through car service to all points on the G. R. & I. R. R., they are able to deliver freight promptly. Shippers should take advantage of this and have their goods marked via. M. C. R. R.

The village authorities are very much exercised over the harbor improvement. On the arrival of the working plans of the improvement it was ascertained that a change had been made since the original plan of work was decided upon, and that the north channel, instead of being the width of the south channel, was not to be improved at all. D. W. Lockwood engineer in town today looking the ground over, and we hope the matter will be adjusted to the interests of the people. The channel as originally planned is none too wide for accommodate the commerce and navigation of this harbor, and now to cut off the north side of this waterway would greatly injure the harbor.

Our readers will remember the series of educational articles written early in the spring, for the Herald, by Prof. B. C. Enos, of Leland. These articles attracted a good deal of attention and have been and are now being republished in some of the leading educational journals of the country. Among these are the New York School Journal and the New York Teachers' Institute. The New Orleans, La., Progressive Teacher made two of these articles the leading articles in the May and June numbers of that journal, and Prof. Enos has been given a regular department in the last named journal and made state editor for Michigan. —Traverse Herald. Prof. B. C. Enos is a son of our townsman, Prof. H. M. Enos.

Coming Events

Remember the gospel meeting at the opera house Sunday evening.

Rev. C. F. VanAnken will preach at the Ironton Congregational church Sunday at 3 p. m.

There will be preaching at the Johnson school house in Marion next Sunday morning at 10.30.

Rev. C. F. VanAnken will conduct the morning service at the Congregational church at 10.30.

The Sunday school at Black's school house will celebrate children's day at 3 p. m. with an appropriate program.

Ellsworth.

Benj. Madill who lives one and a half miles from here, lost his house by fire last Sunday morning about four o'clock. It is not known how the fire originated.

S. Daline had his house moved last week. The work was done in a very satisfactory manner by Edgar Stafford, of Norwood.

June 21.

NOTES OF THE DISASTER

From Last Week's Later Editions.

Mrs. Kehoe's Body Found.

Thursday, 4 P. M.

The body of Mrs. Kehoe was found at four o'clock this afternoon, on the beach of Little Traverse bay, between Wequetonsing resort and Bay View. On being notified by telephone, Mr. Kehoe instructed undertaker C. B. Hemika, of Petoskey, to embalm the body at once. Mr. Kehoe will leave here this evening, and will take the remains of his wife to Chicago for interment.

Lulu Willard Identified.

Thursday, 8 P. M.

C. A. Fall, the husband of Mrs. Mary Fall, deceased, and his brother Erastus Fall, arrived at Cross Village where the body of Miss Lulu Willard had been taken, and fully identified the same. He will bring the remains to Charlevoix tomorrow morning for interment by the side of her mother.

Aggie Beau's Body Found.

Friday, 8 A. M.

The body of Aggie Beau, the five year old daughter of Martin Beau, steward of the Champlain, was found this morning near Petoskey, and will be brought to Charlevoix this afternoon.

Rogers' Son Found.

Friday, 3 P. M.

The body of the seven year old son of J. J. Rogers was found this afternoon, and will be taken at once to his mother at Fort Mackinac.

Friday, 4 P. M.

The remains of Aggie Beau have just been brought to Charlevoix on the Cumming and taken charge of by Undertaker S. M. See.

The kind ladies of Charlevoix are arranging for a double funeral of Aggie Beau and Lulu Willard at the Bridge Street House, Saturday forenoon at ten o'clock. Although the parents of these children are not present they may be assured that their's were cared for tenderly. The work done by all, this week was done fully and with a fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind."

The passengers lost on the Champlain so far as known have all been recovered, and the only bodies known to be lost and not recovered are the four Indian deck hands.

Result of the Inquest.

After taking quite an amount of testimony before justice McLeod the jury rendered the following verdict.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
County of Charlevoix.

An inquest taken at the village of Charlevoix, in the township of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 23d day of June, 1887, before Alex. J. McLeod, one of the justices of the peace of the said county, upon the view of the bodies of Henry Brennan, Ed. Wilkins, William J. Sansom, Ella Beau, Jack Hartley, Louis (other name unknown), and Casper Schaub, found lying dead, by the oaths of the jurors whose names are hereto subscribed, who being sworn to inquire in behalf of the people of this state, when, in what manner, and by what means the said Henry Brennan, Ed. Wilkins, William J. Sansom, Ella Beau, Jack Hartley, Louis (other name unknown) and Casper Schaub came to their death; upon their oaths do say that the said Ed. Wilkins, William J. Sansom, Ella Beau, Jack Hartley, Louis (other name unknown), and Casper Schaub, came to their death by drowning in the waters of Lake Michigan, between the ports of Norwood and Charlevoix, in said county of Charlevoix, on the night of the 16th of June, A. D. 1887, being driven into the water by the burning of the steamer Champlain, and that the said Henry Brennan came to his death at the same time, after being taken on shore, from exhaustion and exposure while in the water.

And the said jurors upon their oaths do further say that in their opinion the fire on the said steamer Champlain originated and gained headway before being discovered, through the negligence or carelessness of some person or persons unknown to the jury; and that when discovered it was beyond the control of the officers, and thereafter no blame is imputed to the officers with regard to their efforts to save the lives of the passengers and crew. In testimony whereof the said justice of the peace and the jurors of this inquest have hereunto set their hands the day and year aforesaid.

ALEXANDER J. MCLEOD,
Justice of the Peace.

(Signed by the jurors.)—Henry M. Finch, foreman; J. T. Kirkpatrick, Nelson Ainslie; E. B. Hodge; Hudson Bacon; Juan L. Hurd.

Later Notes and Comments.

C. A. Fall received a message by telephone Friday morning that the body of Miss Lulu Willard his step daughter had been found near Mill Creek Village. When he arrived at that place he was told that one Samuel Morris a justice, had taken the body to Cross Village. On arriving at Cross Village he found that the body had been placed into a pine box, and that it was held by Mr. Morris for charges of about $17.50. After remonstrating Mr. Fall paid the charge and brought the remains of his daughter to Charlevoix for interment. On Saturday Mr. Fall received a kind letter from Dr. A. C. Morrill with a sum of money inclosed to replace the amount unjustly taken, stating that an indignation meeting had been held the night before by the citizens of that burg, and as the result of such meeting Squire Morris was hung in effigy to a telephone pole.

The Philadelphia Record, speaking of the disaster to the Champlain, says: "The storms on those tideless seas are often as severe as any that occur on the Atlantic, while the steamboats that ply on them although comfortably fitted up are old-fashioned in construction and inflammable in material." If the Record man could only come west for forty eight hours he could feast his eyes on steamboats—those plying between Detroit and Cleveland, for example—the like of which cannot be found on the Delaware or Schuylkill. "Old-fashioned" and "inflammable" indeed! With a few rare exceptions, like the Champlain, our steamboats in the west are the finest in the country.—Free Press.

Miss Mary Wakefield, of Charlevoix, was among those who distinguished themselves for coolness and courage last week at the burning of the steamer Champlain. Seeing a drowning mother, Mrs. Kehoe, of Chicago, with a little girl in her arms she took the child and placed it upon her own head, and held it there by putting its skirts between her teeth, floating successfully for some time although not supported by a life preserver.—Evening News.

The burning of the steamer Champlain was one of the saddest accidents that has occurred on the lakes for a long time. For as long as timber boxes and rotten hulks are permitted to carry passengers out of lake ports, just such accidents are certain to happen periodically.—Chicago Mail.

The double funeral of Lulu Willard and Aggie Beau was held at the Bridge Street House Saturday morning at ten o'clock. The floral offering were profuse and the arrangement elegant.

Historical Society.

At a special meeting of the Charlevoix Historical Society held June 24th, 1887, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, In the burning of the propeller Champlain, off this port on the seventeenth instant, the Charlevoix Historical Society lost one of its brightest, one of its most useful, ever ready and willing workers for its success. Therefore

Resolved, That in the death of Mrs. Ella Cooper Smith (which appalling fact darted upon us like the meteor from an unclouded sky, without warning or admonition.) the Society has sustained a severe and irreparable loss, and each member thereof, a personal bereavement

That we most sincerely tender to the afflicted parents and relatives our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in this trying hour of calamity and sorrow, and can only direct them to Him who has promised to care for those who put their trust in Him and who alone can heal the broken-hearted.

Resolved, That the preamble and resolutions be transcribed in the records of this society, and that an engrossed copy be presented to the bereaved family of deceased and published in the village papers.

MRS. MAGGIE L. WASHBURN,
MRS. OLEVIA M. CARLSTEIN,
MISS ALICE COCHRAN,
Committee.

In Memory of Mr. George Wrisley.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
We have laid him down to rest,
With his loving hands so toil-worn,
Folded quiet over his breast.

Then weep not dear wife and children,
For there will come a bye-and-bye,
And the train that bore him heavenward,
It will stop for you and I.

There we'll meet with all our loved ones,
Who have passed the pearly gate.
Let us set our house in order,
We may not have long to wait.

—Mrs. Orvia Clapper.

Mary a young girl thus herself cut from society because her face is covered with pimples and blotches. All disfiguring humors are removed by purifying the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This remedy is the safest and most reliable that can be used.

If you want the finest Confectionery in the City go to DR. CROUTER'S.

If you want the best Domestic and Imported Perfumes go to DR. CROUTER'S.

If you want the very best drink of Mead, Soda Water, or Ginger Ale, go to DR. CROUTER'S.

If you want the best imported Key West or Domestic Cigars, go to DR. CROUTER'S.

And if you want Prescriptions Carefully Compounded go to DR. CROUTER'S.

DR. CROUTER'S Central Resort Boat Landing is the best in our village. Was built expressly for resorters, and will be kept eternally for them free from expense. All are invited to make our store, boat landing and premises headquarters while in Charlevoix and we will try to make you feel at home.

Yours truly, G. W. CROUTER.

GOOD-BYE SPRING.

Welcome Summer!

A. T. Washburne & Co.'s

Grand Opening for Summer

Was a Great Success.

Second Invoice of Summer Goods

Now on the Road.

A. T. WASHBURNE & CO.

Best Paint!

It is an established fact that the

Sherwin-Williams Paint

IS THE

CHEAPEST

And lasts the longest.

ST. LOUIS WHITE LEAD, BRUSHES, OILS, TURPS, VARNISHES.

JOB AND TIN WORK.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

PERRY WEED

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Ladies', Gent's and Children's

Footwear

Of Every Description, at

FOX & MILLER'S,

Dealers in BOOTS and SHOES, Charlevoix, Michigan.

☞ Considering the hard times, we will put down our goods to a price just to cover cost for the next thirty days.

Charlevoix Manufacturing Company,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Sash, Doors, and Blinds,

Screen Doors and Windows, and Mouldings of all Descriptions.

Newell Posts, Banisters, and Stair Rail, of Soft and Hard Wood; kept in Stock and Made and Put Up to Order.

A GOOD STOCK OF

FINE AND CASSWOOD SIDING

FLOORING, CEILING, AND FINISHING LUMBER KEPT ON HAND.

Also Contractors, Builders, and General Jobbers.

Summer Cottages a Specialty.

CHARLEVOIX . . MICHIGAN.

1887. TIME-CARD 1887.

OF THE POPULAR PLEASURE STEAMERS,

THOMAS FRIANT, CAPT. E. VANDERHOEF.

Going South Every Morning.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	7.00
PETOSKEY	7.30
CHARLEVOIX	8.30
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	9.30

Going North Every Afternoon.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN at	1.30
CHARLEVOIX	2.30
PETOSKEY	3.30
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	4.00

LOU A. CUMMINGS, CAPT. W. A. SNYDER.

Going North Every Morning.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave EAST JORDAN	7.00
CHARLEVOIX	8.00
PETOSKEY	9.00
Arrive at HARBOR SPRINGS	11.30

Going South Every Afternoon.

EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Will leave HARBOR SPRINGS at	1.00
PETOSKEY	3.00
CHARLEVOIX	4.00
Arrive at EAST JORDAN	6.00

Baggage and Freight Carried at Low Rates.

This is One of the Most Delightful Excursion Trips on the Northern Lakes.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix, and East Jordan.

WHO KNOWS?

BY GEORGE MILLARDS AMBRIDGE.

Who knows, who knows,
O, daisy dim,
What fairy wings
Have brushed thy cheek?
Whose message, when the south wind blows,
It told thee?
Would thou then couldst speak!

What gentle whispers
From the brain
Are wafted to thee
Over the breeze,
Causing thee to blush fresh pink rose.
What lake is cool
When the wind blows,
When the breeze comes from foreign bowers?

Is it a tale of love, untold?
Is it the song of some happy maid?
Is it the sigh of some lorn lover for gold?
Or is it the wail of a tried outcast?
Tell me, sweet wild briar rose;
But echo answers not:
Who knows?

LIMESTONE GAP.

BY HENRY DALE.

"Hello, Old Cyclone, what's the matter now?"

"Matter? Ef yer want ter keep thar ha'r on yer heards yo'd better stop that ere squallin thar an' saddle up."

"Injun in sight?"

"Yer bet, thicker'n grasshoppers in Kansas, sand burrs in Texas, nags hitch in Dakota, an' liars in Denver."

"Injun, Old Cy, don't talk for nuthin. Better be saddlin' up an prepa'r yer run or fight, an' may be both."

"That's just the idee o' it," growled the rough-visaged frontiersman known as Old Cyclone, drawing in his panting steed, and casting furtive glances down the valley in the direction he had come.

The scenery about the little camp was wild and picturesque in the extreme. Big red mountains, some barren and others dotted with verdure to their very summits, rose on every hand. Below them was a lovely valley with a stream like a thread of silver winding through it.

The camp was built on a bit of table land, and there was from it an excellent view of the valley for several miles below.

Three hardy mustangs were grazing a short distance from the camp fire, and three men were seated about it, when the fourth, whom we have introduced by the appellation by which he was known all over the West—Old Cyclone—came up on his horse.

Two of the men seated at the camp fire were rough, bronze-cheeked frontiersmen, like Old Cyclone, but the third was little more than a boy. His fair cheek and tender-looking hands were evidence against his having been long on the frontier. The three were finishing their dinner, and Bill Murphy, one of the frontier scouts, had been entertaining his companions with a song, which drew forth from Cyclone the remark that he had better stop his squallin' long.

"How far ar' they, Cy?" asked old Zach, the third frontiersman.

"Pout two miles."

"Great grizzlies, boys, we'd like ter been ketched by the Injun varmints!"

The three mustangs were saddled in as many seconds, and while this operation was going on Old Cyclone leaped from his saddle and began clearing the fire into the earth, thus putting it out.

"Well, I swow, Tenderfoot, yer gettin purty handy wi' leather. They yer stitched yer breeches fur yer, I reckon, a regular broncho buster. Mount, boys; we've got ter hit the flat an' overtake that wagon train afore it strikes the mountings, or we'll hev the pesky thievin' red-skins fer sartin' every mur, mornin, an' cold among 'em."

The face of the youth, who was called Tenderfoot among his companions because he had been on the plains but a short time, turned deathly pale. His father, mother, younger brothers, and sisters were with that train, and in danger of being massacred by the Apaches.

The youth, whose name was Charley Myrtle, was a brave lad, and he gripped his rifle, while his lips set firmly with an air of firmness and determination, though his cheek was considerably paler than usual.

"How far do you think the wagon train is from the mountains?" he asked of Old Cyclone.

"Dun know, Tenderfoot, but its moren likely they're in 'em now. They've had time to come to 'em by this time, fur we hev ain't crossed a trail fur ever t'ey kin git back to the flat prairie afore the Apaches come on fer 'em."

"Can we defend ourselves better on the prairie than on the mountains?"

"Yer jest bet we kin, Tenderfoot. Here, after, pump yer cayuse an' less be makin tracks fer Limestone Gap."

The men were in their saddles and soon galloping at a break-neck speed along the plateau, and then down the mountain by a wide carriage.

Charley Myrtle, who was unaccustomed to horseback riding, yet the recollection of his parents was ever before him, and he was in danger seemed to give him new life.

"Are the Apaches mounted or on foot?" Charley asked Old Cyclone, who rode at his side.

"Mounted! Why, Tenderfoot, they never ride, specially of they're in a hurry. Now, sir, they're on foot."

"Then we can outrunvel them."

"Wall, now, I don't know so well about that, youngster," said the old scout. "Them air critters ketch a mighty lot o' ponies afore their band to go jun jist gin our ground about as fast as the next man. In these an mountings they kin outrun a nose. Wh', they run deeve down sometimes."

"Then they may overtake us?"

"Yes, they will of they come onter our trail unless we mend our gait."

"Did they see you?"

"No."

"Then they may not find us."

"Yas, of they trail off some other way, but they war comin' right toward us."

"How many?"

"Pow know exactly, but thar war least a hundred of 'em."

"They now came to where the valley was wider, and the sides became bluffs a hundred feet in height.

"Two range of mountains converged about a mile further up in what was known as Limestone Gap. In the fair creek and tender-looking hands were evidence against his having been long on the frontier. The three were finishing their dinner, and Bill Murphy, one of the frontier scouts, had been entertaining his companions with a song, which drew forth from Cyclone the remark that he had better stop his squallin' long.

"How far ar' they, Cy?" asked old Zach, the third frontiersman.

"Pout two miles."

"Great grizzlies, boys, we'd like ter been ketched by the Injun varmints!"

The three mustangs were saddled in as many seconds, and while this operation was going on Old Cyclone leaped from his saddle and began clearing the fire into the earth, thus putting it out.

"Wall, I swow, Tenderfoot, yer gettin purty handy wi' leather. They yer stitched yer breeches fur yer, I reckon, a regular broncho buster. Mount, boys; we've got ter hit the flat an' overtake that wagon train afore it strikes the mountings, or we'll hev the pesky thievin' red-skins fer sartin' every mur, mornin, an' cold among 'em."

The face of the youth, who was called Tenderfoot among his companions because he had been on the plains but a short time, turned deathly pale. His father, mother, younger brothers, and sisters were with that train, and in danger of being massacred by the Apaches.

The youth, whose name was Charley Myrtle, was a brave lad, and he gripped his rifle, while his lips set firmly with an air of firmness and determination, though his cheek was considerably paler than usual.

"How far do you think the wagon train is from the mountains?" he asked of Old Cyclone.

"Dun know, Tenderfoot, but its moren likely they're in 'em now. They've had time to come to 'em by this time, fur we hev ain't crossed a trail fur ever t'ey kin git back to the flat prairie afore the Apaches come on fer 'em."

"Can we defend ourselves better on the prairie than on the mountains?"

"Yer jist bet we kin, Tenderfoot. Here, fet

FARM AND GARDEN.

A CONVENIENT IMPLEMENT FOR USE IN THE APIARY.

Description of the Various Forms of Bilgin—Treatment Advised by Barry and Downing—Items About the Recent Dairy Show.

The big dairy and butter show held recently in the heart of New York city proved a success. It has been estimated that during the five days of the show over 40,000 people visited it. While there was a fair exhibit of dairy implements and products, the main feature of the show was the large number of choice animals selected for exhibition from the best herds of improved breeds in the country. Five hundred cattle were exhibited, representing in dollars and cents $1,000,000. Nearly one half of these were Jerseys.

The famous old Jersey Eurotas was the center of attraction among the Jerseys. Her fame came, it will be remembered, with an astonishing butter test that lasted through the year. She gave 775 pounds and one ounce of butter in eleven months and six days and had a fine calf within the year. This performance has only recently been rivaled.

AYRSHIRE, DUCHESS OF SMITHFIELD.

The Ayrshires, which were present in next largest number to the Jerseys, were headed by the Duchess of Smithfield, the best Ayrshire probably ever produced in this country. This cow has a butter record of over 10,000 pounds in a week, and a milk record of over 10,000 pounds in a year. Most of the Ayrshires at the exhibition were dark red and white, the favorite colors.

There was a remarkably fine display of Holstein-Friesians, including Clothilde, the cow which leads the world with a milk record of 36,021 pounds in one year. Clothilde is a large cow, weighing 1,000 pounds, and, like most good milkers, she possesses the wedge form and shows enormous milk veins.

THE IMPORTED GUERNSEY, JOLIE II.

The Guernseys, a trifle larger, redder and more even tempered than the Jerseys, made a good show, being represented in the entries by four herds. In this exhibit was included one of the most famous cows of this breed in this country, the imported Jolie II.

An important lesson to be learned of this show is that in the friendly rivalry between exhibitors of the four leading dairy breeds all have shown excellence that insure such strain a continuance of prosperity with its own advocates and adherers. In a word, each breed has a sufficient number of merits above the distinctively American cow to win a coveted place in the herds of our country.

The "Bilgin" in Fruit Orchards.

"Five bilgin" of the pear, the apple, the quince, etc., is one of the most formidable diseases to which fruit trees are liable. Scientists differ in their opinions as to whether it is caused by the sun, the atmosphere or an insect. It attacks the trees at different periods of the growing season from June to September, and generally in the young parts first; the leaves flag, the sap becomes thick and brown, oozing out in globules through the bark, and has something of a very disagreeable odor, and the diseased branch or part turns black, as if it were burned by fire. When the pear tree is attacked it is difficult to save it, the disease spreads so rapidly. In apple and quince it is less fatal, rarely killing more than a portion of the tree.

Authorities differ as widely in their treatment of fire blight as scientists do in ascribing the cause of the disease. The only effective and trustworthy treatment, in our opinion, is to cut away the very day the disease is discovered the blight parts into the sound wood, where there is not the slightest trace of disease; burn up immediately all the diseased portions cut off. As high authority as P. Barry says: "The only remedy for fire blight is to cut instantly the blighted part into the healthy wood and burn them up immediately." Charles Downing said: "When the disease has actually appeared the only remedy seems to be the knife and the saw, most vigorously applied, to eradicate every symptom of diseased and discolored wood and bark. If you would save your tree, cut at once on the first apparent appearance of the disease, and be sure you cut it clean out."

Twig blight attacks the young shoots of the current season's growth and causes them to wither and become brown or crisp in midsummer. The cause is unknown and the injury is not materially great. The remedy is cutting away at the first appearance.

Apple blight, like the dreaded fire blight, is a serious disease. It attacks a half whole branch or limb, and sometimes half of the top is destroyed before the disease becomes apparent to an ordinary observer. Again, there is no remedy except to cut away the diseased portions and burn them up.

Pear leaf blight is a sort of rust that appears on the leaves during July and August, first in small irregular spots. These spots spread rapidly over the leaves until their growth is stopped. To avoid it cut off leaf blight the great point is to get a rapid, vigorous growth before midsummer.

Many readers will doubtless be disappointed because a long list of remedies has not been given for the blight, such as are advised from year to year by many writers. These have been avoided simply because there is but one sure remedy—the remedy one already recommended—cutting away the diseased parts and destroying them by fire.

Best Butter and Milk Cows.

The Holstein cow Clothilde won the prize offered at the late dairy show for the cow producing the most butter in twenty-four consecutive hours. From her milk was made two pounds seven and a half ounces. Seven Jerseys, six Holsteins and two Guernseys were entered. Their records were not made public. The prize was $150, to which was added a silver mounted horn cup worth $100. The Holstein-Friesian association doubled the prize, making it $500.

The Holstein Lady Foy won the prize for producing the largest quantity of milk in twenty-four hours. There were eight entries—one Jersey and seven Holsteins. The milk produced by Lady Foy was sixty-five pounds thirteen and a half ounces in twenty-four hours.

Scraper for Cleaning Bee Hives.

The accompanying illustration represents a scraper for cleaning hives, fruit cases, honeybox boards and sections, which, an exporter claims, in American Bee Journal, is not only exceedingly useful, but readily made by any blacksmith at small expense.

SCRAPER FOR CLEANING HIVES.

To make a scraper like the one illustrated, take a piece of steel as thick as a butcher knife, three and a half inches long, one and a quarter or one and a half inches wide; punch or drill holes half an inch from each end half an inch from one edge. These holes should be about three-eighths of an inch or a little less. The handle should be about six inches long, direct measure, three and a half inches at the end solid, and the part next to the blade split and brought around in a bow, entering the holes in the blade and riveted solid. The handle should be set so as to give the blade a little pitch, something like a hoe. Now sharpen the wide edge and each end. In use, the forefinger can be inserted in the bow of the handle.

Barnyard Manure.

The amount of manure which an animal will drop, and which can be saved and used for fertilizing purposes, will of course, vary with the size of the animal and the amount of food eaten. It will vary in weight from one-half to two-thirds of the weight of food and water consumed and bedding used. If, says The National Live Stock Journal, all the liquids and solids are saved, a liberal estimate would be 150 to 175 pounds daily for an average sized cow or ox. This, of course, means their weight just as they are voided. Practically, however, a large per cent. of the droppings is allowed to go to waste, and quite generally all the urine is lost.

How much the loss is may be inferred by the following table, giving a German estimate of the weight of droppings, liquid and solid, by the several animals named, during the year:

	Cow	Horse	Sheep	Pig
	manure, pounds.	manure, pounds.	manure, pounds.	manure, pounds.
In excrement	37,000	18,000	700	1,300
In urine	8,000	3,000	300	1,200
	45,000	21,000	1,000	2,500
To indicate what may be considered approximately the amount of solid and liquid droppings from a given amount of food, the animals of course having all the water they want to drink, we give another table from the same authority, as follows:
	Pounds dry fodder.	Pounds dry manure.
A cow produced from	7,500	5,000
A horse produced from	7,500	3,000
A sheep produced from	1,000	250
A pig produced from	1,400	500

Add to these figures about 25 per cent. to represent the straw and waste hay used for bedding, and we have a general approximation of the amount of barnyard manure made from each of the animals named.

Fruit Packages.

The refusal of the commission of New York city to return to fruit growers the peach baskets, on the plea that it is too much trouble to look after these, and the refusal of the growers to give away their fruit packages, on the plea that they cannot afford it, is causing no end of dissatisfaction. As a recent convention of fruit growers of Delaware and Maryland a resolution was adopted to dispense with the services of middlemen and make efforts to get buyers to deal with the growers at their own orchards. It was resolved to organize branches of the fruit exchange in all shipping points in the peninsula, and by every means to discourage the shipment of peaches on consignment; to sell only to commission men who will agree to pay five cents each for all baskets not returned.

Gapes in Chickens.

Gapes in chickens is the result of worms in the throat, and a removal of the worms is a cure for the disease. This is most commonly effected by passing a quill feather dipped in turpentine into the throat and twisting it around until the worms are dislodged. What causes these worms is not clearly understood. Fumigating with carbolic acid is recommended in bad cases by a good authority in poultry ailments, but care must be taken that the chicks are not suffocated by continuing the treatment too long.

Driven Wells.

The United States supreme court has determined that the real inventor of driven wells has such a property in his invention as give him, or persons claiming under him, the exclusive right to use it, and that the reissued patent recognizing this state of the case is valid. Everybody, therefore, must accommodate himself to the law as thus laid down. Nelson Green's patent, however, will not last forever, and when it runs out the people will be in possession of a means of getting water that revolutionizes this important service.

Packing Eggs for Shipment.

Considerable experience has taught us, says Orange County Farmer, that excelsior, fine, soft shavings used by upholsterers in packing furniture is the best material by which to wrap eggs for shipment, and that a light basket is the best package in which to ship them. Twenty six eggs, weighing four pounds, can be packed in a cubical cedar basket holding but a little over a peck, and after a heavy canvas cover is sewed on the whole affair need not, should not, weigh over seven pounds, and with reasonable care will go from Maine to California without breakage.

Agricultural News.

South Carolina anticipates better crops this season than before since 1862.

A fine fruit crop is promised in Oregon.

Arkansas has organized a state agricultural society.

California has the only beet sugar factory in this country. It is located at Alvarado.

For a report of the transactions of the American Horticultural society for the year 1886, apply to the secretary, W. H. Ragan, Greer castle, Ind.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Salt, druggist, Rippin, Ind., testifies: I can recommend Electric Bitters, as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 16 years experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half a dollar a bottle at the G. W. Crouter's drug store.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Fort Worth, Texas by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley who was so helpless he could not turn in bed or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial bottles of this great discovery for consumption free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's.

Itch, Prairie Mange and Scratches of every kind cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. Sold by F. G. Hines & Co., Druggist, Charlevoix. 192m4.

Time Cards of Pine Lake Steamers,
Season of 1887.

Steamer JOSEPH GORDON,
CAPT. LEWIS GUARD.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 6.40, arrive at Boyne City at 9.00, leave Boyne City 9.30, arrive at Charlevoix 12.00.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 1.00, arrive at Boyne City 3.30, leave Boyne City 4.00, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer NORTH STAR,
CAPT. J. M. THOMPSON.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix at 7.00, arrive at East Jordan 9.00, leave East Jordan 9.30, arrive at Charlevoix 11.30.

Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive at East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 6.30.

Touching at intermediate points both ways.

Steamer CLARA BELLE,
CAPT. GEO. JEPSON.

Morning—Leave Boyne City at 4.30, arrive at Charlevoix 8.15, to connect with the steamer Lake Michigan for Chicago. On returning, will leave Charlevoix on the arrival of the Steamer Thomas Friand, at 9.45.

Afternoon—Leave Boyne City at 1.00, returning leave Charlevoix at 3.30, touching at intermediate points.

Hannah, Lay & Co.'s Steamer Line.
Season of 1887.

Str. City of Grand Rapids,
CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

Going North—Monday, Wednesday, and Friday,—leave Traverse City at 7.00 a. m., Charlevoix 11.30 a. m., Petoskey 1.30 p. m., Harbor Springs 3.45 p. m., arrive St. Ignace 8.30 p. m.

Going South—Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday,—leave St. Ignace 7.30 a. m., Harbor Springs 10.45 a. m., Petoskey 2.15 p. m., Charlevoix 3.45 p. m., arrive at Traverse City 8.45 p. m.

Harbor Springs and Manistique.

Propellor A. C. Van Raalte,
CAPT. E. A. BOUCHARD.

Leaves Harbor Springs every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at 7.00 A. M., Leaves Manistique every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 7.00 A. M. Touching at Cross Village and Port Inland both ways.

The Van Raalte plies on excursion from Harbor Springs to Mackinac Island every Sunday.

Northern Michigan Line.
Season of 1887

Propeller LAWRENCE,
GEORGE THORP, Master.

Going North—Leave Chicago every Friday, 4.00 p. m., Milwaukee Saturday, 3.00 a. m., Charlevoix, Sunday, 11.00 p. m.; arrive Cheboygan Monday, 6.00 a. m.

Going South—Leave Cheboygan every Monday 5.00 p. m., Charlevoix, Tuesday, 2.30 a. m.; Milwaukee, Wednesday, 11.00 a. m.; arrive Chicago, Thursday, 8.00 a. m.

For further information, freight, or passage apply to EMERY BOOTHAM, Agent, Charlevoix, Mich.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway,
"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."

Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron and Copper Districts of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Two Through Trains run Daily fully, making close connections in Union Depots at all Points.

The territory traversed is famous for its

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

Tickets for sale at all points via this route. For Maps, Folders, Time Cards and Information address,

E. W. ALLEN,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

HEADQUARTERS
FOR
Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry.

A complete line of Silverware, Spectacles, Eye Glasses and Gold Pens.

N. J. PERRY, Dealer in AMERICAN WATCHES in Stock. All the latest, best and most improved Watches manufactured.

Repairing a Specialty. Prices Reasonable. Repaired articles not cared for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

C. R. BELLINGER,
Bridge St., - Charlevoix.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

"The Magazine that brings American thought and life from ocean to ocean is filled with pure high-class literature, and can be safely welcomed in any family circle.

PRICE 25c., $2.50 A YEAR BY MAIL.

Sample Copy of current number mailed upon receipt of 20 cts.; back numbers, 15 cts.

Premium List with either.

Address, A. T. BUSH & SON, Publishers,
130 & 132 Pearl St., N. Y.

GET UP CLUBS

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts can be made for it in NEW YORK.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of a mortgage bearing date the 10th day of May, 1886, executed by Carl Ulrich, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Henry Bartlett, now to Lewis Bradford and Walter P. Brown, on the 21st day of December, 1885, and said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 24th day of December, 1885, in liber B of mortgages, on page 351, upon which there is now due and unpaid the sum of two hundred and twenty-five dollars, ($225) principal and interest, for the recovery of which no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise for some of said mortgage, conditioned the power of sale in said mortgage contained. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale therein contained said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the front door of the Court House in Boyne City, in said county, on the 16th day of August, 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: A part of lot 4 of block "A," in the village of Boyne City, according to the recorded plat of said village, bounded as follows: Commencing at the southeast corner of said lot 4, said point being a number of feet, fifty-five hundredths dollars of principal and interest, and the further sum of fifteen dollars as attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Dated May 9th, 1887.

ROBERT W. KANE,
Mortgagee.

F. W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

SHERIFF SALE.—Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, in favor of Pine Lake Iron Company, a corporation, against the goods and chattels and real estate of William H. Harris, directed and delivered to me, I, the undersigned, have levied on the following described lands and tenements, to wit: Lots one and two (1 and 2) in section thirty-two (32), in township thirty-three north, range ten west, and all the lands in the township of Boyne City, Charlevoix county, Michigan, lying west four and one-half chains to a stake, thence north thirty-one degrees and ten minutes east, to a stake on the said north and south quarter line of said section, thirty-two (32), thence north along said north and south quarter line, to the northwest corner of said section thirty-two (32), thence west four and one-half chains to a stake, thence north thirty-one degrees and ten minutes east, to a stake on the said north and south quarter line of said section

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

FRESH FROM THE WIRES.

Events of Interest and Importance in Every Quarter of the Habitable Globe.

News Relating to Politics, Religion, Commerce, Industry, Labor, and Other Topics.

THE VERY LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Returns Show the Adoption of the New Constitution—Some of the Change.

ENOUGH returns have been received at the Knights of Labor general headquarters, says a Philadelphia dispatch, to show the adoption of the new constitution by a two-thirds vote. The German assemblies voted against the clause providing that any member or assembly introducing beer or intoxicating liquors at any meeting or entertainment of the order shall be suspended or expelled. The article providing for a per capita tax of not less than 1 cents per month to create a fund for co-operative enterprises was adopted unanimously. The General Executive Board is given full power to settle all strikes and disputes, whether sanctioned by the board or not, and the board powers are increased in many other particulars. Hereafter each district, State, national, or unattached local assembly shall be entitled to one delegate to each 3,000 members or majority fraction thereof, and the term of office is fixed at two years. The National Trade Assemblies clause is probably the most important of the changes. It provides that any particular trade or calling may form a National Trade Assembly, provided two-thirds of the local assemblies in the entire membership of which is composed of such trades, vote to do so; provided also that not less than ten assemblies, if there be that number in the order, may receive a charter.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

Six Men Killed by a Caving Bank Near Portsmouth, Ohio—Four Men Killed in a Mine—Three Killed and Several Injured by the Explosion of a Powder-mill.

A PORTSMOUTH (Ohio) dispatch says that an excavation for a pile for the South Shore Railroad bridge, three miles from that city, caved in, crushing six men to death.

A MARQUETTE (Mich.) dispatch says that four Englishmen named William Kelion, William Pengilly, James Vanderslyne, and Paul Hosking were killed at the Vulcan mine at Norway by the collision of a train of ore-cars with a cage in which they were coming out of the mine.

A PREMATURE explosion on the Minnesota and Northwestern Railroad at Elizabeth, Ill., killed one Swede, who had just arrived, and seriously injured three other employes.

BY a powder-mill explosion at Wayne, N. J., four men were killed and several wounded.

FEARFUL STORM IN TEXAS.

Several Lives Lost and Much Property Destroyed in Its Path.

LONG VIEW (Tex.) special: One of the most destructive storms ever known here occurred last night. The main portion did not strike this place, but twenty miles below it it carried death and destruction in its course. At New Prospect, a neighboring town twenty miles south of here, five men were killed outright. At Fairplay, a small hamlet, one mounded and two others were killed, having taken shelter in an old house on which a very long tree fell, crushing them. In the track of this tornado nothing was left. The country is thinly settled, which accounts for the few lives lost.

WISCONSIN'S FATED TOWN.

Hurley Visited by a Fire that Sweeps Away Its Business Blocks.

Two weeks in the center and business part of Hurley, Wis., the principal mining town on the famous Gogebic iron range, were consumed by fire early in the morning. The loss is estimated at $150,000, with but very little insurance. Fifty-two buildings were destroyed, and many people were rendered homeless. No lives were lost.

The Loss at Rhinelander Estimated at $4,000,000.

A DISPATCH from Marshfield, Wis., says: "The total loss by fire in this city will not be $4,000,000, according to the latest figures. The Upham Manufacturing Company loses not less than $800,000. The rapidity of the fire was terrible. It would catch at twenty rods. Twelve solid blocks of stores and business houses are destroyed. A strong wind blew from the southeast, but the flames backed clear around the heart of the town. The people worked like tigers. Twelve buildings were blown up with dynamite, but it did no good. The only manufacturing establishments left are the sash factory, hub and spoke factory, and alcohol factory. Words cannot picture the scene."

Sparks from the Wires.

In a riot at Algiers near Marseilles one killed and wounded.

GREAT excitement is reported at Honolulu over the threatened revolution against King Kalakaua.

GEN BOULANGER has been appointed to the command of the Thirteenth Corps of the French army.

MRS. LANGTRY, the actress, has taken up a legal residence at San Francisco, with the intention, it is reported, of bringing suit for divorce after a lapse of six months.

A STRUCT of workmen in the refineries of the Standard Oil Company at Cleveland, Buffalo, New York, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Bayonne, and Oil City, is threatened. Over twenty thousand men won't be affected.

THE EASTERN STATES.

A WILKESBARRE (Pa.) dispatch says: Great excitement prevailed at Nanticoke Thursday morning when the news of an accident at No. 4 slope of the Susquehanna Coal Company reached the people living in houses adjacent to the scene of the disaster. The accident was caused by an explosion of gas. At 8 o'clock Wednesday night a gang of men who were engaged in driving a plunge in the slope entered the mine, and the next morning seven—three of them Italians were brought out by their comrades. The killed are: John McMadaman, miner, aged 40 years, leaves a widow and three small children; James Kelley, miner, aged 24 years, single; Lodzey Wenskia, laborer, aged 28 years, single. The injured are: Joseph Lessaya, aged 18 years, a driver; Fartney Lesko, aged 17 years, a driver; John Leskoski, aged 19 years, a door-tender. Joseph Lessaya has some dead, and the other are unconscious and liable to die at any moment.

MATTHEW GUENE died from hydrophobia at Hawthorne, N. Y.

EXTENSIVE labor strikes are in progress at Rochester, N. Y. The workers are attempting to prevent men who want to work from doing so, and Monday, when they visited a large shop and attempted to induce the employed, they were treated to a hot bath from a steam-engine, which induced their precipitate retreat. Monday night, in a collision with the police, one or two of the strikers were killed and a number wounded.

THE WESTERN STATES.

CINCINNATI dispatches state that the liabilities of the Fidelity National Bank will reach $6,000,000, while the assets are readily disposable. Upon charges of conspiracy to defraud, Messrs. Harper, Baldwin, and Hopkins were arrested Wednesday and held, the former in $15,000 and the two latter in $5,000 each. Another affidavit charges them with making a fraudulent report of the bank's condition to the Comptroller of the Currency, May 31 last. It is stated that Winslow took $1,000,000 of the bank's money in the deal.

THE American Forestry Congress will meet in Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14, 15, and 16.

TILDEN was a long jury in the celebrated Cole Case trial at Springfield, Ill.

IOWA's estimated corn yield for 1887 is 292,500,000 bushels.

THE Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company's locomotive and repair shops at Western Junction, Wis., were destroyed by fire. The flames wiped out the entire plant, the loss being estimated at $200,000.

ED SNEED, who shot dead O. H. Loomis in Kansas City during a drunken quarrel, July 4, probably the most important of the changes. It provides that any particular trade or calling may form a National Trade Assembly, provided two-thirds of the local assemblies in the entire membership of which is composed of such trades, vote to do so; provided also that not less than ten assemblies, if there be that number in the order, may receive a charter.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

Six Men Killed by a Caving Bank Near Portsmouth, Ohio—Four Men Killed in a Mine—Three Killed and Several Injured by the Explosion of a Powder-mill.

A PORTSMOUTH (Ohio) dispatch says that an excavation for a pile for the South Shore Railroad bridge, three miles from that city, caved in, crushing six men to death.

A MARQUETTE (Mich.) dispatch says that four Englishmen named William Kelion, William Pengilly, James Vanderslyne, and Paul Hosking were killed at the Vulcan mine at Norway by the collision of a train of ore-cars with a cage in which they were coming out of the mine.

A PREMATURE explosion on the Minnesota and Northwestern Railroad at Elizabeth, Ill., killed one Swede, who had just arrived, and seriously injured three other employes.

BY a powder-mill explosion at Wayne, N. J., four men were killed and several wounded.

FEARFUL STORM IN TEXAS.

Several Lives Lost and Much Property Destroyed in Its Path.

LONG VIEW (Tex.) special: One of the most destructive storms ever known here occurred last night. The main portion did not strike this place, but twenty miles below it it carried death and destruction in its course. At New Prospect, a neighboring town twenty miles south of here, five men were killed outright. At Fairplay, a small hamlet, one mounded and two others were killed, having taken shelter in an old house on which a very long tree fell, crushing them. In the track of this tornado nothing was left. The country is thinly settled, which accounts for the few lives lost.

WISCONSIN'S FATED TOWN.

Hurley Visited by a Fire that Sweeps Away Its Business Blocks.

Two weeks in the center and business part of Hurley, Wis., the principal mining town on the famous Gogebic iron range, were consumed by fire early in the morning. The loss is estimated at $150,000, with but very little insurance. Fifty-two buildings were destroyed, and many people were rendered homeless. No lives were lost.

The Loss at Rhinelander Estimated at $4,000,000.

A DISPATCH from Marshfield, Wis., says: "The total loss by fire in this city will not be $4,000,000, according to the latest figures. The Upham Manufacturing Company loses not less than $800,000. The rapidity of the fire was terrible. It would catch at twenty rods. Twelve solid blocks of stores and business houses are destroyed. A strong wind blew from the southeast, but the flames backed clear around the heart of the town. The people worked like tigers. Twelve buildings were blown up with dynamite, but it did no good. The only manufacturing establishments left are the sash factory, hub and spoke factory, and alcohol factory. Words cannot picture the scene."

Sparks from the Wires.

In a riot at Algiers near Marseilles one killed and wounded.

GREAT excitement is reported at Honolulu over the threatened revolution against King Kalakaua.

GEN BOULANGER has been appointed to the command of the Thirteenth Corps of the French army.

MRS. LANGTRY, the actress, has taken up a legal residence at San Francisco, with the intention, she is reported, of bringing suit for divorce after a lapse of six months.

A STRUCT of workmen in the refineries of the Standard Oil Company at Cleveland, Buffalo, New York, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Bayonne, and Oil City, is threatened. Over twenty thousand men won't be affected.

THE EASTERN STATES.

A WILKESBARRE (Pa.) dispatch says: Great excitement prevailed at Nanticoke Thursday morning when the news of an accident at No. 4 slope of the Susquehanna Coal Company reached the people living in houses adjacent to the scene of the disaster. The accident was caused by an explosion of gas. At 8 o'clock Wednesday night a gang of men who were engaged in driving a plunge in the slope entered the mine, and the next morning seven—three of them Italians were brought out by their comrades. The killed are: John McMadaman, miner, aged 40

THE JOURNAL

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

A WASHINGTON special says: It is said here that Mrs. Cleveland will preside the President at his intended Western trip, going first to Madison, Wis., where she will visit the family of Postmaster General Vilas. The President will join his wife there in the second week in September, and together they will visit Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Oregon, St. Louis, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and the Pacific coast.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says: "The total number of salaries of postmasters reviewed and adjusted to the office July 1 is 2,239. Twenty-two third-class Presidential offices will be relegated to the fourth class during the fourth class, and two of the present fourth-class offices will be raised to Presidential offices and be relegated to the fourth class. Twenty-three Presidential offices at the beginning of the fiscal year will be 2,236, as follows: Fourth class, 83; second class, 635; third class, 1,818. Their aggregate receipts for the year ended March 31 were $18,116,161, of which $5,880,300 will be absorbed for salaries of their postmasters for the ensuing fiscal year. The increase in the gross receipts of these offices as compared with those of the previous year was $2,064,618. Seven second-class offices will be raised to the first class July 1, and six will be relegated to the third class. Fifty third-class offices will be relegated to second class. The total number of Presidential offices established or raised from the fourth class during the present year will be 1,818."

COMMISSIONER PARKS has ordered the cancellation of fifty-five desert-land entries in Wyoming on account of fraud.

A WASHINGTON special states that in the fiscal year just ended there have been a decrease on the pension rolls 55,000 new pensioners. The number is larger than in any one year since the war except 1886, the 10,000 beneficiaries of the Mexican pension bill have been put on the rolls. It is reasonably certain that next year will see 75,000 new pensioners.

THE POLITICAL FIELD.

A WASHINGTON special to the Chicago Daily News (morning) says: "There is said to be considerable uneasiness among a number of Republican politicians having for its object the nomination of Gen. Sheridan for President. Some of the most influential men of the party are calculating the chances of a contest in the Republican National Convention between the adherents of Blaine and Sherman which will prevent the nomination of either of these leaders, and that Sheridan can consolidate a sufficient number of delegates to secure the nomination on the first ballot. Cincinnati in 1876, and as Garfield did at Chicago in 1880. I am informed that this project to nominate Sheridan was started about six months ago by prominent men who believe that the Republican party must look to the soldier element as the next national election."

THE Mormons met at Salt Lake and elected active delegates to the Constitutional Convention. The hope is that a constitution will be adopted, but married Mormons will most objections to the admission of Utah, and to the polygamists being enfranchised.

CONGRESSMAN RICHARD W. TOWNSHEND, who is a radical free-trader, is said to be booked for the ways and means chairmanship in the new House. He is not very hopeful that much will be accomplished in the line of tariff reform at the next session.

THE INTERSTATE COMMISSION.

GENERAL BUTLER, representing the Burlington Company, addressed the Interstate Commission on Thursday. He attacked the testimony of General Manager Stone, of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Road, in certain particulars, citing the dimensions of the income earned in Iowa as well as authority for carrying railroad traffic for example, was greater than that of ordinary cars, contrary to the statement of Mr. Stone. The testimony showed that the road accepted every kind of car without discrimination, except what they chose to call the Palace cattle car. The Lake Shore Company would not take the Burton car at all, which was directly in the face of the law. The aggregate of the extra charges against the Burton car amounted to a discrimination of 22 per cent. He cited authorities in support of his claim that the roads had no right to make discriminations, and declared that the interstate commerce law had not changed the condition of the law in this respect. Wirt Dexter of Chicago argued in behalf of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy that the Burlington Company was a common carrier which was seeking to introduce its cars upon responsible tracks. Mr. Stone had testified that the three-quarters of a cent a mile which the railroads allowed each other for the use of their cars was too much. Yet Mr. Burton had admitted that his company received 66 per cent. more than that, and that the profits were considerable. The complainants come here and ask an order requiring them to do right.

THE Interstate Commission has assigned Western cases upon its docket for consideration as follows:

July 14, William A. Holbrook of St Thomas, Ontario, against the Michigan Central, alleging that the former makes the higher charge for a ticket from Detroit to Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis half the rate charged between Detroit and Chicago. July 15, Associated Wholesale Grocers of St. Louis, against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, for the refusal of the defendant to accept Wilson of Covington, Ky., against Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, for discrimination, July 20, K. B. Hayward, Macoupin, Illinois, against the Chicago and Alton, for discrimination and violation of section 2.

The Commission will not reassemble until July 12.

THE FOREIGN BUDGET.

A HAVELOCK summer-Gulfast meeting was held in London on Thursday to counteract the hitch in regard to the Anglo-Turkish convention in reference to Egypt. The Secretary of Foreign Affairs was cheered on the statement at the review of troops at Aldershot in order to show that the Council. The Government is irritated at the opposition to the convention on the part of France and Russia.

THE Nationalist leader, Michael George of Wales arrived at Dublin last Monday. They were greatly cheered by the caste officials, and the conservative citizens presented them with an address. The corporation took no official notice of their presence, and the people generally gave them the cold shoulder.

THE CONTINENT AT LARGE.

DEN's weekly trade review shows that the collapse of the wheat deal and consequent failures have caused a wide discomfort, but general reports of business at nearly all points are highly encouraging and the increasing prospect of good crops adds to the prevailing confidence. Large Treasury disbursements are about at hand and will relieve any temporary monetary stringency. There were 207 failures for the week, against 215 last week. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of the commercial and financial outlook, say:

Collections have continued fairly of good, and the volume of business large for the season, but the feeling of uneasiness which has been so noted at this period, has a considerable movement after July 1 is anticipated. Men's woolens goods are decidedly dull, but in dress goods and flannels the trade is fair. Cotton goods are weaker in the main, but print cloths are steadily held at 3 cents, with large sales, and speculation in cotton goods has been active, prices have fluctuated, and the tone is now somewhat fallen about a cent, though a partial reverse in the Liverpool market has left the tone at the close more above those for July. The iron market is quiet, prices are nominally unchanged, but business holding relatively to have been checked a little, but the present demand for most iron and steel products is still unusually large, and contracts are disappearing. Real estate at the West is still the most active feature in the market. The item of the week, note speak, no visible signs of a reaction, but rather a reversal.

Dun's Review Gray, inventor of the telephone, which is instantaneously by which messages may be transmitted in the similar, is designed to supersede the ordinary telegraph.

THE MARKETS.

New York.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	4.90	@5.25
HOGS	5.25	@5.35
FLOUR—No. 1 White	3.75	@4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.91	.93
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	.47	.48
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.29	.30
PORK—New Mess	11.75	@12.00
CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	4.50	@4.75
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.65	@5.00
FLOUR—Winter Wheat	3.50	@4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red Winter	.78	.78
CORN—No. 2	.37	.38
OATS—No. 2	.20	.21
RYE—No. 2	.56	.57
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	17	@18
CHEESE—Full Cream, cloth	8½	@9
EGGS—Fresh	10	@11
PORK—Mess	11.75	@12.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.77	.77
CORN—No. 3	.37	.37
OATS—No. 2 White	.29	.29
RYE—No. 1	.56	.56
PORK—Mess	11.00	@11.50
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2	.76	.78
CORN—Mixed	.37	.38
OATS—Mixed	.28	.29
RYE	.56	.57
PORK	11.50	@12.00
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2	.81	.82
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	.38	.39
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.29	.30
RYE	.57	.58
PORK	11.50	@12.00
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.85	.86
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.45	@.46
OATS	.34	.35
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEF CATTLE	3.65	@4.00
HOGS	4.90	@5.00
SHEEP	3.00	@4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.78	.79
CORN	.37	.38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.28	.29
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE—Prime	4.70	@5.00
HOGS	4.90	@5.00
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	3.50	@4.25
FLOUR—Winter Wheat	3.50	@4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	.78
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	.37	.38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.28	.29
RYE—No. 2	.56	.57
PORK—Mess	11.50	@12.00

AMONG THE BALL TEAMS.

Mike Kelly's Return to Chicago Signalized by Great Crowds and Great Enthusiasm.

Anson's Lads Sweeping Everything Before Them in the League Pennant Race.

[CHICAGO CORRESPONDENCE.]

If ever a season of 1887 had a crowded great things before the pennant races ended, that of 1887 is as bright with promises of a great finish as any honor of the national game, be be ever so enthusiastic, could wish for.

The wholly unexpected and remarkable spurt made by the White Stockings toward the close of their last Eastern trip still continues, and the prospect for its eventually placing them at the head of the string, is the rose for the flag, seem better with each day. Boston came Friday with the famous Mike Kelly at its head, and not before in the history of the game in this city has the interest of a club the created such great enthusiasm as that which marked the return of Chicago's old favorite.

KELLY'S RECEPTION.

Kelly has hundreds, yes, thousands of admirers in Chicago, and upon the day of his arrival Friday these admirers spread themselves out at the park—spread themselves in flowers and spread all over the bleachers. Yet, before going to the park they spread themselves in the Grand Pacific Hotel, where Kelly and his confreres are lounging. At 2 p. m. the street opposite the north entrance to the Leland was jammed with people, and more kept on were in the crowd. In the middle there was a big band playing "Hail to the Conquering Hero" and other things for an admiring crowd. Outside in the hotel rotunda Kelly was holding a reception, and he was shaking every clerk crained their necks and jostled each other to see the hero, and those in his immediate vicinity were good pay for their trouble. The patience gave out. The Imperial Quartet sang "Hail to the Chief" and "Auld Lang Syne" at him. Mike meantime looking as if he wished they would go to roosts and leave him alone. Then the White Stockings arrived, and a new crowd of people with the driven by coachmen in drab liveries drove up, and the White Stockings got into the three first carriages, and Anson and Kelly rode the next, and the Boston team in the next three carriages; next followed a lot of lively sporting reporters in other carriages. Then the band struck up "Tickly Mother," and the procession started as grand as could be put together in short notice. The place is crowded, 5,000 people cheering the start and 5,000 more cheering the finish of the line. The procession went parkwards.

CUE SHOTS.

No one could have asked for a more beautiful day than that which dawned on Saturday for our second game with the Bostons. Kelly was suffering greatly from an attack of "Charley Horse," or contraction of the muscles in his left leg, and young Madden, of Boston, had to do the running for him. Mike played with much of his old-time vim, and the game was a great one. The score was 7 to 6 in favor of nearly as large as that of the day before. Kelly and Daly were peaked in the grand stands like figs, and the grand stand was so full that many had to stand. There was a deep semi-circle of plug hats and women's bonnets in the grand stand in the space reserved on either side of the catchers. The attendance was 15,000 in all, with at least two thousand men. Baldwin pitched for Chicago, while Conway filled the box for Boston.

The score was one of the most remarkable of the season for the week, against 215 last week. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of the commercial and financial outlook, say:

Collections have continued a fair of good, and the volume of business large for the season, but the feeling of uneasiness which has been so noted at this period, but a considerable movement after July 1 is anticipated. Men's woolen goods are decidedly dull, but in dress goods and flannels the trade is fair. Cotton goods are weaker in the main, but print cloths are steadily held at 3 cents, with large sales, and speculation in cotton goods has been active, prices have fluctuated, and the tone is now somewhat fallen about a cent, though a partial reverse in the Liverpool market has left the tone at the close more above those for July. The iron market is quiet, prices are nominally unchanged, but business holding relatively to have been checked a little, but the present demand for most iron and steel products is still unusually large, and contracts are disappearing. Real estate at the West is still the most active feature in the market. The item of the week, note speak, no visible signs of a reaction, but rather a reversal.

Dun's Review Gray, inventor of the telephone, which is instantaneously by which messages may be transmitted in the similar, is designed to supersede the ordinary telegraph.

THE MARKETS.

New York.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	4.90	@5.25
HOGS	5.25	@5.35
FLOUR—No. 1 White	3.75	@4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.91	.93
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	.47	.48
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.29	.30
PORK—New Mess	11.75	@12.00
CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Choice to Prime Steers	4.50	@4.75
HOGS—Shipping Grades	4.65	@5.00
FLOUR—Winter Wheat	3.50	@4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red Winter	.78	.78
CORN—No. 2	.37	.38
OATS—No. 2	.20	.21
RYE—No. 2	.56	.57
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	17	@18
CHEESE—Full Cream, cloth	8½	@9
EGGS—Fresh	10	@11
PORK—Mess	11.75	@12.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.77	.77
CORN—No. 3	.37	.37
OATS—No. 2 White	.29	.29
RYE—No. 1	.56	.56
PORK—Mess	11.00	@11.50
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2	.76	.78
CORN—Mixed	.37	.38
OATS—Mixed	.28	.29
RYE	.56	.57
PORK	11.50	@12.00
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2	.81	.82
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	.38	.39
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.29	.30
RYE	.57	.58
PORK	11.50	@12.00
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.85	.86
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.45	@.46
OATS	.34	.35
INDIANAPOLIS.
BEEF CATTLE	3.65	@4.00
HOGS	4.90	@5.00
SHEEP	3.00	@4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.78	.79
CORN	.37	.38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.28	.29
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE—Prime	4.70	@5.00
HOGS	4.90	@5.00
SHEEP—Fair to Choice	3.50	@4.25
FLOUR—Winter Wheat	3.50	@4.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	.78
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	.37	.38
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.28	.29
RYE—No. 2	.56	.57
PORK—Mess	11.50	@12.00

A NEW STOCK LIARS.

Men We All Know and Come in Contact with Every Day.

"I said in my haste," remarked the realmist, "all men are liars." That there are more liars in the world today than there were in David's time goes without saying because there are more men. And with this increase of population there has sprung into being a new line of stock liars with whom David was unacquainted; fair, average liars, who do a plain, every-day business, and only go on in star parts when the star liar of the combination is sick or tired or something. Among these steady professionals may be mentioned:

The man who "never reads the newspapers."

The man who never sees the editorial cutting him up until "his attention has been called to it."

The candidate who is "out of politics and wouldn't take the nomination if it were offered him."

The man who "put Cleveland where he is."

The man who "never had a day's sickness in his life."

The man who says the Captain told him "it was the worst storm he had ever experienced."

The family who was in Europe three weeks, "and went everywhere and saw everything."

The professor who tells you that in all his life he "never knew a child with one-half the marvelous talent for music (or anything else) which your child has already developed."

The man who "wouldn't have taken $100 for that dog."

The man who "made the mistake of his life when he didn't read (law) (medicine) (theology) (go on the stage)."

The man whose wife "doesn't appreciate him." He knows a great deal more accurately than he knows.

The man who "whipped every boy in his school when he was a boy."

The man who "could take that text and preach a sermon better sermon from it" (than his pastor did).

The man who says he "wants you to tell him what you think" and "never feels hurt at candid criticism, no matter how severe it is."

The man who "never slept a wink last night."

The man who "told (somebody you never heard of) the day before (Cleveland (Garfield) (Blaine) was nominated just on what ballot the convention would break on and how it would go."

The man of "second sight" who "made a mistake in judging character in his life."

The man who "can remember the only lie he ever told."

The man who "offered $900 for that horse the day before he went lame."

The man who "could turn a double hand spring from the ground, backward or forward, when he was a boy, but hasn't tried it for more than fifteen years. Sometimes, with a relenting impulse of gracious and beautiful truth, this liar will add, that "he doesn't believe he could do it now."—Burdette.

Origin of the Dahlia.

An English paper says: The first mention of the original type from which our florists' dahlia has been developed occurs in Clusius's Rariorum stirpes, published in 1601, "The History of Plants." In this work Clusius describes a wild plant growing in profusion on the elevated, sandy plains of Mexico, and gives a drawing, which is easily identified as a single dahlia. This plant was first cultivated in Botanic Garden, who bore the illustrious name of Cervantes, was the first cultivator of the dahlia. It was brought to Madrid in 1798, and it was seen in Clusium in 1802. Next time recognized here as one of the above detailed dapes.

Yon seemed to be a young young young gal acquaintance, who is always in a sea of deep abstraction in Dahlia Hall, which is the most delicate of the occasion of some degree of a sweet and sweet. Lowness is going to be the occasion of some degree of a sweet and sweet. Lowness is going to be the occasion of some degree of a sweet and sweet. Lowness is going to be

THE JOURNAL

CHAS. J. GRIER EDITOR.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE attitude of Gov. Luce on the university and mining school bill saves the tax payers about $78,000.

THE voters of Texas decide the question of prohibition in August and it is claimed by some that the state will decide for prohibition by at least 25,000 majority. The liquor men are alarmed and steps are being taken to raise a large fund by contributions from brewers and distillers to put into the election that the measure may be defeated.

California Wildcats.

You may talk about your mountain-lion," said an old hunter, as we rode slowly up the arroyo one early morning after the rain, with the whimpering dogs all about, "but I would rather take my chances with one at any time than with a pair of wild-cats at close quarters. It just seems as if a cat loses its head like. They know they're caught, and they are just bound to have it out if it takes all summer. They fight worse when there is a pair, just like a mountain-lion. I remember one day when I was out on a hunt in the winter of 1877, when game was so thick here you could have it for the asking, and I never went down into the arroyo without seeing a deer. We started down where the railroad bridge is now and worked up. I, having about ten hounds, covered the track very well. We had had a rain a day before, and there were so many tracks that the dogs were baying in every direction—enough to set a man crazy. I had one old dog that I thought everything of. I knew her voice out of the whole pack, and when it began to speak I knew there was music in the air and game, too. All at once she let out in a little canyon that they use now to get up in the highlands, and, putting the spurs to my horse, I was over there in a few minutes. There she was, rushing this way and that, nosing here and there, and soon there was a growl and a snarl, and it seemed to me as if a dozen wild-cats and dogs had come together. I saw that the dog was in for it, so I tumbled off the horse, and, with pun as a club, literally waded in. As is generally the case at such times, being carried away with excitement, I nearly laid my dog out at the first blow, and before I could make another attempt one of the cats—for there were two of them—flew at me and took me by the shirt just at the breast, and in a moment I was in tater! and rags. After the fashion of the beggar who is supposed to have come to town. The beast had me by such a firm grasp that I dropped the gun and took her in both hands and attempted to tear her off, she biting and clawing me all the time. Finally I got out my knife and drove it into her, and she dropped, snarling and clawing and reaching for my legs until the last, a type of vicousness. While I had been entertaining this one the old hound had been attending to the other, and had, though fearfully torn, mastered the big cat and killed it. So we went out ahead, but when we compared notes the old dog and me were in much the same box, and didn't get over it for weeks."—Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

They Had Their Check With Them.

New Yorkers have always led in the army of anglomaniacs that infest the city, but even the anglomaniacs have had a hard trial this winter by having two nuisances from England among people beyond measure. The pair were taken up raptorously by their first discoveries, and were introduced at several exclusive houses, from which they could not be dislodged when it was finally discovered that they were rude and impudent and pushing people, upon whom snubs had no effect. As admirers of art they went around different parlors, examining and criticising pictures with appalling coolness. Having marched into one house where they knew there was a portrait by Bonnat and where they had no introduction whatever, they demanded to be shown the Bonnat, much with the air of a sta ge-robber demanding the treasure-box. At Gen. Sheridan's house they asked to see his portrait, and coolly said it was "horrid." "We think it a good portrait," said Mrs. Sheridan, quietly, who found the English couple the most extraordinary of the crowds who had called on that particular reception day.

"May I ask what relation you are to the General?" inquired the English woman, with cool impertinence.

"I am his wife," said Mrs. Sheridan.

"O! just fancy!" said the undisturbed critic, who commented on the other things in sight and then fled.

Several sportsmen of Pittsburg, Pa., have formed a syndicate and bought an immense game preserve in the wildest region in the mountains of West Virginia. It covers an area of sixty miles, and within its limits there is not a settlement. Bear, deer, wild turkey and other game abound, while the cool mountain streams are filled with the speckled beauties. The tract embraces fifty thousand acres, and will be increased by the addition of twenty thousand acres. It is fifty miles from the railroad, but is reached by a good road. English pheasants and wild boars are to be added to the stock of game.

There are 200 voters in the Big Horn basin, but Uncle Sam does not furnish them with mail service. They hire a man at $100 a month.

Care of the Skin.

Another of the series of popular lectures to nurses was delivered recently in the University hospital by Dr. Henry W. Stelwagon, the subject being "The Care of the skin." The delivery of the lecture occupied an hour and the greater part of that time was devoted to an explanation of the respective functions of the epidermis, dermis, papillary, layers, and subcutaneous nerves and tissues. The correlative relations and specific action of each were illustrated by a diagram, and notes of the lecture were taken by the nurses who attended and by many others in an audience composed almost exclusively of ladies. The second head of the lecture dealt with the proper care of the skin; and in this connection the lecturer said:

"The condition of the skin depends to a great extent on the way we live. If we go to bed at 2 o'clock in the morning and eat late suppers the system is affected and a diseased skin is the result. We should also be careful of our food and eat only that which is not prejudicial to the action and functions of the component parts of the skin. Some people can not eat shellfish without inducing what are known as hives, and in other cases some kinds of animal food will react injuriously in this respect also. Bathing is an essential feature in the proper treatment of the skin. The human body exhales by perspiration from two to three pints daily, and this, together with the dust that settles upon the skin is calculated to have an injurious effect by stopping up the pores. We have several kinds of baths, among which are the sponge, the tub, the hot air, and the vapor. Taking it for granted, as we must, that bathing promotes a healthy and invigorated action of the skin, the question arises: How often is it necessary to bathe? This depends both on the individual and the nature of the bath. Some people, who perspire freely, find it necessary to bathe daily, others require a bath only three or four times a week. Taken indiscriminately, the Turkish and Russian baths are unsafe and may in certain conditions be positively dangerous. In cases of heart disease, a tendency to apoplexy or congestion of the brain Russian or Turkish baths are exceedingly unsafe, and as a general rule it may be stated that this class of bath should never be indulged in without the advice of a physician. The tub bath suits most of us, but the temperature in every case should be high enough to prevent chills, and this remark applies also to sponge baths, which are the safest, and may, with advantage, be taken every day.

"Another question of importance is that of soap. There are several essentials to a good soap, one of which is that it have sufficient alkali and another that it be made of the purest fat. If there be an excess of alkali the effect on the skin must be injurious by causing an irritation of the cuticle. One good soap is the old white castile, and to this the transparent English soap is said by some eminent authorities to rank next. A general principle may be applied with advantage in this matter of soap, and that is to avoid purchasing a cheap article. Do not buy cheap soap, for the chances are you will get a bad one, while if, on the other hand, you purchase an expensive soap, you may reasonably expect that it will be good."—Philadelphia Times.

Placer Sam's Investment.

Placer Sam told me of a green lad, unused to the ways of the West, who one day wandered into Confederate Gulch and applied for work. There was no one there who wanted to hire help, and he was told to prospect. He didn't understand what the word meant, and insisted that some one should put him to work and give him an opportunity to earn his daily bread. Tiring of his persistence, one day when the lad made his usual application for work with a salary attachment, a miner picked up a stone from the ground and throwing it out upon an unbroken spot in the gulch told him to get a pick and shovel and dig. The lad did as he was bid; and as he quietly kept at his work day after day and paid no particular attention to any one, the miners, pleased at last to have gotten rid of him, studiously left him to himself.

For six months he kept up his digging, and at the end of that time surprised the camp by buying a mule team and hiring a company of twenty-five armed men to guard the nail kegs filled to the brim with glittering gold dust that he had taken from the ground on which the stone tossed by a careless hand had fallen. The kegs were loaded behind the mules, and under the eyes of the twenty-five men were carted through the mountains and across the plains to Omaha, where it was disposed of and the handsome proceeds pocketed by the lucky lad. I asked the man what was the name of the fellow who had made the great strike, and with a jab at the staves of the keg with his knife, he replied:

"It was me."

I was considerably surprised, but not satisfied, and, continuing the conversation, asked him if he had the money invested, and he said he had invested every cent. I asked him what in and he replied:

"Poker."

There is no doubt, The Lancet believes, that woman can, if she will, qualify herself to do anything that a man can do; for no physiologist will question the possibility of developing by appropriate stimuli, exercise, and food any particular part or parts of an organism in such a manner as to make it respond to the demand of its environment; and it must, therefore, be theoretically possible that the woman shall be developed in respect to any one or more of her organic potentialities to a level with the male. But she must do so at the expense of some other power, and this is usually at the sacrifice of some function that makes her valuable as a woman. The real question in the matter is whether it is worth while to pay so great a price for the privilege.

MISSING LINKS.

Congressman Barnes, of Georgia, weighs 380 pounds.

A nine-foot coal vein has been struck near the surface at Greeley, Colorado.

There are said to be more beggars in Birmingham, Alabama, than in any other city in the South.

There are two solid gold bricks in the United States mint at Denver, each one of which weighs nearly 110 pounds.

Eastport, Antrim county, Michigan, is a remarkable little town in some respects. It has not a lawyer, doctor, preacher or saloon.

John W. Bookwalter, of Springfield, Ohio, will send his great collection of art works and curios to Cincinnati for exhibition at the museum there.

The police authorities at Memphis, Tennessee, have sent to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, for three blood-hounds, to be used in tracking criminals.

Miss Spinker and Miss Boyd, two bright young ladies from Indianapolis, have formed a partnership for the practice of medicine in that city.

The Longfellow statue shortly to be put up in Portland, Maine, will cost $11,000. It will be placed on a red granite pedestal 10 feet high and 10x13 at the base.

Queen Victoria attended a circus the other day for the first time in thirty years. Yet she easily recognized the jokes of the clown as old acquaintances.

Senator J. R. McPherson says that the middle letter of his name stands for nothing except a designation in a community where there were many of his name less the "R."

One of the mysteries of the sea is the disappearance of the Japanese man-of-war, the Unebikan. She and her crew of 200 men have totally disappeared without leaving a trace.

Henry Ward Beecher had no idea of the value of money. He would buy pictures and bric-a-brac without thinking of the price, and give the articles away to the first person who fancied them.

An Eastern scientist wants to know why it is that along railroads and the highways the snow always drifts from the high places and into the depressions and accumulates upon top of lumber piles.

Bob Ford, who killed Jessie James, is employed as a waiter in a Santa Fe hotel. Bob Littell and another member of the old James gang are also in Santa Fe, dead broke, and hangers-on about the saloons.

George Gould has settled into such a retired state of domesticity since his marriage that all his former friends are growing at his so-called neglect. His one aim now is said to be to rival his father's success.

Miss Maud Banks is still playing heroic roles in New England towns. She is said to have gained a great deal in the last few months in ease and power, and those who have watched her critically seem to be encouraged as to her ultimate success on the stage.

Mr. Edison is rapidly recuperating in Florida. He is now at work on his electrical railway invention, but devotes a portion of his time to experimenting on several other queer-looking machines, the purposes and uses of which none save himself understand.

Mrs. Sarah Bland, of Worthington, Indiana, claims to be the oldest person in this state. She was born in Virginia in 1782, has borne eleven children, ten of whom are living, and according to the Worthington Times has never been sick enough to call a physician.

Senator Stanford has decided upon his plans for his California university. The buildings will be grouped in a quadrangle, will be constructed of California sandstone, and will be Moorish in design. Work upon seven of the buildings will be begun this summer.

Mr. W. H. Herndon, the old law partner of President Lincoln, has in a forward state of preparation another "Life," which will be published in the near future. This work will deal principally with the career of Mr. Lincoln up to the time he became President.

A rooster of Griffin, Ga., tried to cross the railroad track in front of a moving train, but he started too late, and the engine and twenty cars passed over him. After they had passed the cock stepped proudly forward from the track, gave three defiant crows, and walked off.

In Newark, N. J., a few days ago, a notary public had occasion to swear a man on a Bible, but couldn't find one in any of the offices of the building. He went to the public library, and while looking for a Bible there, saw a copy of the Koran, and taking it, hurried back and swore his client on it.

Photographic experiments now reveal extraordinary chemical properties in the sun's rays, while, strange to say, some of the rays are entirely destitute of this peculiar power. It has also been discovered that there are rays of light outside of the solar spectrum, and which are invisible to the human eye.

As Aaron True, of Clarke, Canada, was going through the woods the other day, accompanied by his dog, which is part collie, part Newfoundland, he came suddenly upon a big gray wolf. The dog at once tackled the beast, and for half an hour the battle raged, but finally the dog got a throat hold and strangled the wolf.

A year ago Charles Johnson of Griffin, Georgia, bought a pet black kitten and gave it to his children for a Christmas present. One day it disappeared, and when Mr. Johnson found it, weeks afterward, it had turned perfectly gray. The change in the color of the cat's fur is supposed to have been occasioned by grief at its separation from the children.

A merchant of Los Angeles, California, saw a newsboy peering down into the sidewalk in front of his store one afternoon recently, and learning that the little chap had dropped a quarter into the place, and was studying on the best method of recovering his wealth, sent one of his clerks down into the cellar, recovered the coin, and coolly put it into his till.

The other day Professor James G. May, of Salem, Indiana, concluded that he had taught long enough, and closed his school. He chose as the day the fifty-eighth anniversary of his marriage. He had been teaching for sixty-five years, having spent 11,132 days in the school-room, and still, at the age of eighty-two, was an energetic and successful teacher.

A six-year old boy in Galt, Canada, has become an expert cigarette maker and smoker, and uses any paper which comes handy in which to roll his tobacco. The other evening he went to his mother's room in the dark, and picking up a piece of paper from the bureau, rolled a cigarette, and had burned two-thirds of it before it was discovered he was smoking a tea dollar bill.

The great tit, the enemy of the beekeeper, not only picks up the dead bees in winter, but invites live ones out by pecking at the mouths of the hives. He secures many by this means but in an English town a trap wasset, for the great tit, and caught him by the leg. At once a number of bees rushed out and stung him round the beak and eyes, and in exactly four minutes he was dead.

It is noted as a curious fact by a naturalist that while humming birds and bees frequent the same flowers for honey, the humming birds occupy the tree from early dawn until it becomes sufficiently warm for the honey bees to begin operations. The birds then almost to a unit vacate and give their more numerous aggressors full possession.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in nature. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, chief of police, Knoxville, Tenn., says: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; lasting found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, speak in the strongest terms." Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, croup, and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottle free at Dr. G. W. Crouter's drug store. Large size $1.00.

☞No injurious effects can follow the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. It contains an unfailing antidote, and specific for miasmatic poisons, together with remedial agents which purify and re-invigorate the system.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL

THE DIRECT ROUTE BETWEEN MACKINAW CITY AND DETROIT, JACKSON, The South and East.

Trains leave Mackinaw City 6.00 a. m. daily except Sunday, and 10.30 p. m. daily, arriving at Detroit ... 2.10 p. m. and 11.00 a. m. Jackson ... 10.20 p. m. and 11.20 a. m. Toledo ... 10.50 p. m. and 4.45 p. m. Buffalo ... 6.15 a. m. and 8.07 p. m. Cincinnati ... 6.35 a. m. and 6.40 p. m.

WAGNER PALACE SLEEPING AND PARLOR CARS.

D. W. JOHNSTON, Mich. Pass. Agt. Grand Rapids. O. W. RUGGLES, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway, "THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."

Only Direct Route to Marquette and the Iron and Copper Regions of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Two Through Trains each way daily, making close connections in Union Depots with all Lines.

New, Elegant and Commodious WAGNER PARLOR CARS

Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars, Built expressly for this line, on all Express Trains.

The territory traversed is famous for its Unsurpassed Hunting and Fishing.

Tickets for sale at all points via this route. For Maps, Folders, Rates and Information address, A. A. SCOTT, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agt., Marquette, Mich.

THE GRAND RAPIDS DAILY DEMOCRAT

Is the popular paper of Western Michigan. Contains the associated press dispatches. Sent by mail at 50 CENTS A MONTH!

Only eleven and one-half cts. a week.

Try it.

TAKE NOTICE.

My losses in the late Champlain disaster has made it necessary to collect at once every dollar due me. Those owing me will please call without delay and settle accounts.

GEO. W. MILLER.

J. L. Nowberry, of Petoskey, is agent for and offers for sale, the lots on Schoffen's addition to Ironton, at low prices and easy terms, and perfect titles given. Will also sell, or exchange for property in Petoskey, his house and lot on Main street, Charlevoix.

House and Lot for Sale.—or will trade for horse and buggy, on terms to suit. Inquire of O. I. WHEAT, Charlevoix, Mich. tf

Brace Up.

